George Hess Dies Thursday

George Hess, 69, a resident of Buchanan and vicinity for 66 years and a leader in community affairs, passed away at his home on Lake Street Thursday, March 14, after a lingering illness.

Mr. Hess was born in Canada, Nov. 29, 1859, the son of John Hess and Elizabeth Hess. His parents moved to Berrien County when he was two years old, settling for a short time in Lake Township and then moving to what has since been known as the old Hess homestead, in the Wagner district west of Buchanan.

Here he lived until he was grown, when he married Miss Rosamund Shaffer, at the age of 26 years. They settled first on what is now known as the Nelson farm, where they spent two years.

Then Mr. Hess bought part of his father's homestead and moved on it. He spent the remainder of his life there, raising his family and remaining until 8 years ago, when he sold to Emil Johnson and moved into Buchanan.

He was always active and very interested in all that was for the good of his community, serving several terms as township road overseer, where he made an excellent record. He was also a member of the I. O. O. F.

High in QUALITY Low in PRICE

There's a big difference in tires, although they all look pretty much alike.

Some are made with skimpy, short staple cotton. Some have an overdose of "filler" in the rubber of the tread. Some are long on looks and short on quality.

But you won't need a microscope to be sure that the Goodyear Tire you get from us is a real buy. Goodyear mileages tell the story of "The World's Greatest Tire."

Goodyears are performing so satisfactorily for our customers that they invariably come back—not with a kick but with a boost, and for another Goodyear when they need tire equipment.

We have your size—in fresh, new stocks—at low prices.

Market reports are that tires will take a raise. Buy now.

Let us all Work together

It has been truly said that this is a community of average good poultry flocks. But there is not so much money in "average good" poultry. To make a good dependable income the flock must be better than average.

The Ideal Farm Hatchery is leading in a program to make this a community of outstanding high quality poultry and farm flocks. After investigation of the results of a large number of chicks being shipped into this community, almost every kind of disease known to poultry science is being brought in thereby. You are earnestly urged to help keep the stock from outside sources. Help and cooperate to make this community free of ravishing poultry diseases and disasters. "Footleg" Chicks, Chicks sold thru the mail at prices below cost of good hatching eggs, Chicks from unknown and unreliable producers—all this makes for poor quality, no profit and discouraging results. Investigate before you buy!

The origin, the breeders, the hatching and all the details about Ideal Farm Chicks is like an open book for all who want to know. Every breeder is a healthy, vigorous one. Every one is a thorough-bred and absolutely correct. Breeders blood-tested very accurately. If you want to own a fine flock of poultry which you can depend upon for a good income the year around, the Ideal Farm Hatchery is the reliable place to get your baby chicks. We give no free feed, no free premiums—just outstanding, high value chicks.

NILES HANDLES TOURNAMENT PLEASINGLY

Principal Zabel and Aides Run Meet Smoothly.

3,000 ARE THERE

Principal Walter J. Zabel of the Niles high school, and his helpers enhanced their reputation for conducting the most successful district basketball tournament in the state last week when they scored an even higher success than in the past years.

"We cared for just about 100 each night more than in any previous year," he said. "Our total number of guests is 3,000, as compared with 2,700 last year, which was our high mark. We sent 12 tickets to each of the fourteen schools listed, and 15 to newspapers, besides a few others."

Of the fourteen schools entered, listing 138 players, only thirteen played, Edwardsburg being unable to complete because six of their ten players were out until 2 a. m. the night before and were disqualified, they forfeiting to Eau Claire.

Ten hotly contested games were required to determine the champions in Classes B, C and D. B having two teams, C five and D, 7. Probably the best basketball in any tournament in the state was seen, for Berrien county has for years been able to place teams in the regional and state tournaments.

Mr. Zabel had a corps of ushers in the aisles and helpers in the dressing rooms to keep order and assist the teams to the floor at the exact time announced, both for play and for practice. He had Mr. Donn and Mr. Hess, caring for tickets, and Mr. McCall and Mr. Pomeroy at the door. The programs were printed in the high school print shop of the manual training department, and were a neat and convenient job.

The fifty-piece high school band played at intervals throughout the Thursday, Friday and Saturday sessions. They were generous with the songs of the school represented on the floor.

Robert Black of Kalamazoo College and Lawrence Moser of Western State Teachers College officiated as referee and umpire. Mr. Branstetter and Mr. Davidson kept the time, and Mr. Walker and Mr. Davidson were the official scorers. The Niles high school kept a strong cheering section on the bleachers, thoroughly primed to pep up the players and crowd at every opportunity. They distributed their noisy favors impartially for all teams, except in the last game Saturday night, when their own boys met St. Joseph. Despite the crowd that pressed their toes out to the edge of the playing courts, there was no disturbance not even when a "wild pitch" took the cap off the bass drummer.

Buchanan people and school officials join the other schools of the district in congratulating Manager Zabel and his helpers on the gallant manner in which they have always conducted the District basketball championships, and especially on the one just closed. It seems evident that they will hold their preeminence among districts of the state, and Buchanan boasts to make it so.

Sub-Dist. Contest In Oratory Held Here on April 12

The Microphone wishes to make a correction for an error made last week concerning the Oratorical and Declamation Contest to be held in the auditorium of the Buchanan high school Friday, April 12. The sub-district contest for the state contest will be held at that time, and the representatives will be selected who will represent the different schools of the surrounding country at the district contest. Superintendent Crawford of Niles will be in charge of the ceremonies. Those entering the contest will come from Berrien and Cass counties.

The following week, at either Three Rivers or Constantine, another contest will be held, under the auspices of the Kalamazoo Gazette. This, however, has no connection with the state contest.

EDITORIAL. Holland High School has for a long while been pointed out as a school that has made student cooperative government a success. Every year they hold a general school election and various positions such as mayor and police are filled from the student body. These students literally run the school in much the same way as a town would be governed.

Student government is not disregarded in Buchanan. We have our student council which has been functioning for a number of years. The student council takes care of the high school party, school elections, and it also has several other important duties. Besides the council we have hall monitors whose principal duty is to keep order in the halls, and several study periods are taken care of by students. This is the range of our student government, and although it is not very extensive a considerable amount of valuable work is accomplished.

As we look at the various examples of student cooperative government, particularly that of Holland, its great value is easily discerned. We are living in an age of democracy and student government is merely teaching democracy by experience. It greatly lightens the work of the teachers who are hired to teach, not to act as policemen. It gives the students confidence in themselves for they learn what they really want to accomplish, and then find themselves with the power to do so. It allows the school to progress smoothly when unexpected circumstances arise, such as the absence of a teacher, for the students are there to take charge.

Since there are so many advantages, it seems that Buchanan should do more with student government. However, it must be remembered that this is the ideal and the ideal is not attained in a day. We have not had student government except during the last few years and the ideal is a long way off.

Successful student government must be built up slowly for there must be a good foundation. It is a long hard climb but we have already started, and if too much power is given to the students before they are ready for it more harm than good will result.

BUCKS TAKE REGIONAL 2ND TIME

5 to 3. The Cassopolis captain committed a foul, the first of four to be committed in less than five minutes, and Pierce missed the chance for extra point. Holcomb again fouled and Pfingst scored from the free throw strip. Savoldi made the count 6 to 4 in his team's favor when he made a pretty side shot. Holcomb committed his third foul and Pierce scored the point. Henderson fouled and Pierce missed two shots from the free throw strip. Morse dribbled through for a basket making the score 9 and 5. Capt. Holcomb committed his fourth personal and was removed from the game, amid tremendous applause. Pierce missed the free shot. Brown went to center for Holcomb. With the star captain, who is a power on defense, out of the game, Cassopolis' noted defense crumbled. In quick succession baskets were scored by Savoldi, Morse and Knight and the half ended with Buchanan in the ascendancy of a 15 to 5 score.

Cass fought with its back to the wall in the third period and had Buchanan to five scores and scored four points itself. The period ended with Buchanan in the lead, 20 and 9.

Buchanan looked like a real championship team in the fourth quarter. Savoldi, Morse and Squier made baskets in rapid order to bring the count to 25 to 9 and Cassopolis took time out. Shattuck made one of his two free throw efforts count after Knight had fouled. Bristol went to left guard for Knight and a moment later Rice, Cass forward, went out of the game on his fourth foul. Savoldi counted from the charity line, making the count 26 and 10. Morse scored his fourth basket of the game. A foul was declared on Byrd and Bristol missed the free shot. With the count 29 to 10 and with less than two minutes to play, Coach Curly Bradfield sent two more reserves into the game, delegating Lawson to Savoldi's position at forward and Dreitzler to Pierce's place at center. Shattuck was knocked unconscious when he leaped head first into the seats and the game was stopped while he was revived.

A foul was called on Byrd and Morse scored the point as the game ended, 29 to 10, with Buchanan, through victories over Benton Harbor and Cassopolis, the acknowledged regional leader in its class.

There was no stopping the spectacular floor work of Byrd, Baldwin, star forward and captain of the Bridgman team, and the state class D, champions won another regional championship in defeating Stevensville, the same team it defeated in the Niles district tourney, by the score of 34 to 15. Baldwin scored nine baskets for 18 points, more than half of his team's sum total and more than all the points scored by Stevensville. Stelter and Bucks, forward and center respectively, aided in the attack on the Stevensville team, each scoring six points. Engler and Fries led the attack, such as it was, for the smaller Stevensville forward and captain, was stopped in his tracks. He made but three points and repeatedly Baldwin took the ball away from him on the dribble. It was possibly the greatest game ever turned in by the Bridgman captain in all his high school career. Bridgman staged a walk away in the first quarter with 12 points. The score at the half was 20 to 7. State High, which defeated Coldwater in a thrilling last minute finish Friday night in the semi-finals, was no match for the East, crafty St. Joseph five. Koch, Schradler and Spear led the attack for the county seat team, and the most the Western State prep school cagers could accomplish in any quarter was three points. The starters presented a ragged defensive and St. Joe, riding on top of a 10-4 count at the half, rode to an easy 17 to 9 victory.

In a listless game, featured by considerable roughness, Kalamazoo Central, which furnished the big upset of the tournament by its masterful defeat of the strong Muskegon team the night before, scored an 18 to 13 victory over its ancient rival, Battle Creek, defending champion in class A. The score was 7 to 4 in favor of Kazoo at the half and the same team was leading 11 to 7 at the end of the third quarter. The two teams, with a total of 40 personal fouls, made a tournament record in this respect. Kalamazoo made 16 personal fouls and Battle Creek 24.

night's games. There were almost 4,500 persons packed in the enclosure, a throng almost equal to the one which witnessed the Western State-Lombard game, when all previous records had been broken.

The most spectacular game of the tournament, of course, was Buchanan's thrilling play in the last three seconds of play Friday afternoon, when Pierce made his sensational side shot from mid-floor to defeat Paw Paw 22 and 21. Baldwin, Bridgman captain and forward, was high point man in the tournament.

Upon their return here, Principal E. H. Orniston and Coach Harold C. Bradfield, of the local school, had nothing but praise of the highest order for the treatment accorded them by Tournament Manager Reed and the others who made the Kalamazoo regional meet one of the state's most successful enterprises of its kind.

Buchanan and the other teams coming distances which required quartering for the night were billeted in the New Burdick hotel, Kalamazoo's leading hostelry. The ten members of the undefeated Buchanan team, Coach Bradfield and Assistant Coach Walter Pfingst were quartered in the annex of the hotel. The boys were taken through the Kalamazoo state hospital Friday by Coach "Curly" and were shown other points of interest during their three day stay. They remained in the Colery City, until 8 o'clock Sunday morning, when they were conveyed by auto from the latter city upon their arrival.

Illness and injuries had little effect on Buchanan. Harold Knight, who has been out of the game most of the season from a leg injury received in football, played in every game in the Kalamazoo tournament, and played such a good guarding game that he was named with his team mate, Robt. Morse, as a guard on the all tournament team in class C by the officials and newspaper men who made the selections following the tournament. Harold Pierce, whose sensational shot from the mid-floor sidelines scored a basket within three seconds of the end of the semi-final game Friday afternoon to beat Paw Paw, was named center on the mythical team. Clem Savoldi, Buchanan's star forward, was given a forward position in the second tournament class C team. Don Fette, guard, who was out of two games of the Niles tournament on account of illness, was also too ill to compete in the Kalamazoo tourney.

The team as a whole is in excellent spirits and condition to compete in the state tournament in Detroit. Officiating by Hyames, Bos, Palermo and Miller was on a par with that seen at the state tournament.

THIS AND THAT.

Again we seek the help of the parents. Some little time ago we asked the parents to help the Faculty solve the noon hour problem, to which they responded wonderfully well.

Now this request is of another nature. During the school week not only a few but many times, teachers receive notes from parents asking that their children may be excused at a certain time during the day to do errands, to leave town, to entertain, to be entertained, to take care of someone in the home and for numerous other reasons.

The Faculty feels that whether it is a recitation or a study period the pupil should be present. There are exceptions, but who is to be the privileged one? Or would the parents prefer the school to be run on a strictly cold, business basis, that is, if the child is taken away from his classes that he receive a cut in his wages so to speak—a zero in the subject that he misses? SCHOOL BANDS WILL COMPETE BLOSSOM WEEK

HIGH SCHOOL CHORUSES TO SING EN MASSE IN EVENING

Definite arrangements for an interscholastic band contest to be held Friday of Blossom Week at Benton Harbor were completed at a meeting of the committee in charge of the affair at the county institute Friday.

The band contest is to be held in the afternoon of the day designated above, and will be followed by a program of mass singing and instrumental music by the combined glee clubs, choruses and orchestras of the county. In the band contest, there will first be individual numbers for the purpose of scoring and later mass playing by all the bands combined. There are 15 high schools in Berrien County and it is anticipated that most of them will be represented.

In the evening, the vocal organizations and orchestras will play together, the various instructors taking turns in directing.

It is anticipated that Buchanan will be represented by a band, although the fact that the organization has been playing together only for a short time will place it under some handicap.

The committees in charge are the following: Band: Karl Schlabach, Benton Harbor; William Matthews, Niles; Elmer Hess, Dowagiac. Orchestra: Supt. Roy Shelters, Watervliet; Lee Hughes, Coloma; orchestra leader of St. Joseph high school.

Vocal: Milo Pomeroy, Niles; Miss Helene Rosecrantz, St. Joseph; Miss Theo Olson, Buchanan. Yearly Turnover in Navy. The total turnover of the navy is 32,000 enlisted men a year. Of this number 16,000 are replaced by men who enlist for the first time and 16,000 who re-enlist.

How Smart Are You?

Life is demanding of us greater and greater circumspection if we are at all concerned about retaining the reticences of our innermost beings. Once it was sufficient to have learned the primary lesson not to wear the heart upon the sleeve. But curiosity was not to be balked by merely covering up this quivering source of feeling. Ingenious minds hit upon the expedient of making tests—blood tests, X-rays, brain tests. Our inhibitions, fixations, complexes and suppressions were haled forth into the light and we were as easy to read as the largest print.

Now our reaction to jokes is being eagerly noted. Beware how you laugh at the next joke you hear. It may be the kind that places you definitely in the class of the stupid. Tests recently made at Vassar showed that the brightest girls were least amused. It really looks as though anyone desirous of establishing a reputation for intelligence would never dare laugh. It might prove most incriminating. It is permissible to chuckle slightly at a joke and still maintain some sort of standing in brightness. But if you are very bright, although you naturally see the point, you remain unmoved. The hopelessly stupid do not laugh, either, but it is because they do not see the point. There seems to be but one safe course, to watch the reaction of someone in whose brightness you have confidence and copy it. Much like using the flat silver at a formal dinner.

Ousting Degenerate Peers.

Dean Inge has startled England with a demand that degenerate members of the peerage be stripped of their honors. He would limit the nobility to those of noble soul, whose qualities are displayed by their conduct. He is disgusted with the number of idle and profligate members of the nobility, who trail their decorations and prestige in the mire of ignoble lives, thereby showing themselves unworthy of their decorations, and become a standing humiliation to the country.

He wants changes made so that no member of the peerage could retain his inherited rank without having rendered service of importance to the public. His plan is to drop holders of titles one grade for failure and in that manner purge the peerage in a few generations. An idle duke could lose out in five generations, the lower orders of the nobility would drop in a shorter term of years. In his plan made public he provides no method by which a grade lost might be regained. The idea is not wholly new, has been voiced before, but never at a time when public thought was so upset as it is in England today. The years have increased the number of degenerate nobles who wear decorations earned by others but tarnished by the life of the wearer. Idleness has provoked much thought, prestige and title have lost their potent charms to many, there is a willingness to make changes, even if they upset established institutions and customs.

Three hundred years ago a distinguished divine in England made a demand that the decorations of brave ancestors should be worn only by those who emulate their virtues, and that is the main point in the plan now proposed by Dean Inge. It is entirely probable that someone who is eager to reform the House of Lords may use the Inge plan and ignoble nobles may be tumbled from their high places.

The Rebellion in Mexico.

The uprising in Mexico, there seems little doubt, has taken on serious proportions and constitutes a real menace to the established order. It is not altogether clear what it is all about but the censored reports indicate that its origin is political rather than religious. One of the insurgent generals was a candidate for the presidency when President Gil was elected and he and the other leaders sided strongly with the murdered President Obregon after his disagreement on questions of national policy with former President Calles, a Gil partisan. It does not appear that resentment of the Catholics against governmental suppression of their church activities is responsible for the rebellion, though the insurgent leaders are exerting themselves to enlist the moral support of the Catholic clergy, who one might think would be in a frame of mind to give it.

It is a confused situation and an alarming one. Fortunately this country has an extraordinarily able representative in Mexico, Ambassador Morrow, who may be trusted to look out for American interests as well as anybody could. Fortunately also we have a president who knows much of Latin America, respects the sovereignty of the republics there and is pledged to a policy of non-interference in the affairs of other nations. President Hoover may have foreseen something like this when he persuaded Ambassador Morrow, who at one time was thought likely to be appointed secretary of state, to stay in Mexico a while longer.

Roadside Beautification.

Roadside beautification has been discussed many times as improved roads have been constructed in the states, but in few instances has development been under way long enough to show conspicuous results. It may become a national movement. The recent session of Congress amended the highway legislative act and the federal government now is in position to co-operate with states in that work through the bureau of public roads, the agricultural department, the forest service and the bureau of plant industry. States in readiness to undertake the work may count on an abundance of scientific aid in addition to funds under certain conditions.

The state of Washington has one of the broadest of all laws on the subject of roadside beautification. It provides protection for all trees, plants, flowering shrubs and wild flowers within 300 feet of the center line of any county or state road in the state. The state aims to retain the generous measure of beauty Nature has supplied and use it as part of the beautification plans as they are carried out. Other provisions of the law are equally broad.

The state board of commerce of Vermont has issued a booklet on roadside beautification and has sent it to other states, the purpose being to arouse public and individual interest in the work. That state has some famous highways with immediately adjacent territory that offers tempting opportunities for beautification. It has plans under way and seeks distinction for leadership in arousing other states to the importance of the task. Trees and flowers along the roadside will add enormously to the beauty and will bring rich compensation for the work done and the funds expended.

More Railway Grade Crossings.

Railway grade crossings are increasing in number each year. During the year 1927 on the railways of this country there were 440 grade crossings eliminated but there were 3022 new grade crossings established. There were 236,283 railway grade crossings in the nation when 1928 dawned and the number has been increased since that time.

The new grade crossings are established needlessly many times, so railway officials claim. Highway engineers are aided in forcing new crossings by the public that seeks a shorter road, a more convenient avenue of travel. They scout the danger of the crossings at such times but shout aloud the dangers after a serious accident has occurred. Railway officials insist most highway improvements should tend to reduce the number of grade crossings, but the record in all the large states shows the opposite result.

Grade crossing horrors will be increased in number as the crossings are increased in number and the volume of traffic gains each year. As traffic gains in volume the number of careless drivers is increased, there are more people who do not stop, look or listen when they are approaching a crossing, more who race with the train for the crossing and shout in foolish glee if they chance to win. And, if they fall and lose, there are more damage cases with the weird testimony so often met in these suits in court.

Railway engineers have a national association, they try to induce the public to aid in grade crossing elimination but have been unable to make much progress. Direct roads are demanded and new crossings are established. In vain, thus far, these engineers have urged to the attention of the public that every grade crossing is dangerous, that danger may be minimized but it cannot be removed so long as train and traveler use the crossing. They hope the federal government may use its influence to check the establishment of new grade crossings, now that main highways are built with state and federal funds.

Warning on Speculation.
The Federal Reserve Board. $25 a Day. $2,000,000 More from J. D. R. There are bad features about the generally ignorant speculation in stocks. Money thus invested might better be invested in other ways. Inevitably, buying ignorantly and recklessly, many are doomed to bear heavy losses. It is necessary to issue warnings and the Federal Reserve Bank warning is based of course on excellent intentions.

But between warnings and action there is a wide margin. To tell outside banks that they must not lend money on call, giving a monopoly to New York City banks and gigantic profit to holders of New York bank stocks, may not be the best way to solve the money and speculation problems.

Another week opening finds Wall street refusing to be scared to death. Speculators are like "Old Dog Tray, ever faithful." Grief cannot drive them away. Jack up the interest rate, and still they say, "I think stocks are going to be worth more and so I am going to buy them." The prices lifted up their little heads as soon as the market opened, and kept them up.

One comforting fact for gentlemen that speculate in stocks, paying ten, twelve and more per cent for money: Federal Reserve Bank in 1928 made a net profit of $64,000,000 or $21,000,000 more than in 1927. It seems only reasonable that the Federal Reserve Bank, efficient in putting up interest rates, should get a good share of the profit.

Corporations get good service and government, sometimes poor service. Colonel Lindbergh is named Federal Aviation Advisor, and when he works his Uncle Sam will pay him $25 a day.

All Hollywood knows that Col. Lindbergh could have had $300,000 for making one picture, which would have paid him about $10,000 an hour for his work. However, as Lindbergh says, flying is his business, and $25 a day for work on Government flying would suit him better than any price for standing before a camera. Besides, he has a job with General Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania, selecting landing places, etc., for the railroad, which will pay a salary considerably better than $25 a day.

Sugar Companies Bidding for High Michigan Acreage

East Lansing, Mar. 21—Every Michigan farmer should be as much interested as the sugar beet grower in the maintenance of a normal beet acreage as a lowered acreage will mean more land devoted to general crops, according to statements of farm crops men at Michigan State College. Beet soils, while especially adapted to the production of that crop, will return good yields of most crops grown in the state. The average acreage planted to beets in Michigan is 115,000 acres.

The guaranteed contract price offered by the factories this year is the highest in the history of the industry, and the contract contains a more liberal bonus clause, in the opinion of the farm crops department at the college. The great antarctic blue whale, which sometimes grows to a length of 100 feet, is in danger of becoming extinct.

Michigan factories busy throughout the sugar campaign.

Beets are normally one of the most profitable field crops and a shift to other crops by state farmers would remove this chance for profit and would perhaps add to the marketing problems which are faced by all growers of farm produce. Beet growers and sugar beet manufacturers are united in asking for tariff protection which will remove beet sugar from the low price level which now exists.

College specialists working on new methods of beet culture report that large groups of beet growers are attending the extension meetings.

Revenues of the Chinese maritime customs for all China during 1928 totaled $2,332,000 taels, an increase of 13,597,000 taels over 1927 revenues.

Old Timer Notes Progress in our Musical Tastes

I have been thinking about the music of the olden times and the changes that have been brought about in our time. As I think back over the times when we were young and we would go for miles to hear a good Band Concert or even farther to hear an Opera or classical concert, and then I think of the present day times, when we sit in our homes and rest in an easy chair and listen to the best (and also some of the worst) music, over the Radio, and I wonder if the time will not come when there will be no music at all except the professional kind, and that the talent for music in its infancy will not dwindle to nothingness. On the other hand the general public is getting a much needed education in the better class of music, and in time, I think it will demand more and more of that grade of music which instead of making you want to dance, will send you into dreams and pictures of times and places that would be otherwise never thought of at all.

In Buchanan, in the times when we were "on earth," the music of the town was one of the foremost things. The talent for music was there and still is. It seems, born with certain people and it runs in certain families. Take my own family, for instance, for lack of others to mention, it seems that everyone of the "tribe" were strongly inclined to music. They the chiefest attractions then, and we managed to be in attendance at mostly all their concerts on Front St., on the little platform, erected for their purposes. Sometimes they played "terrible" for the horns were not always played by "artists" and were not always in "time," but the effect was for the good of the people and it opened the way to things better, all the time.

There has always been a popular trend in all American music, starting with war songs and then to sentimental songs, then mother songs, then coon songs and "rag time," and then it developed into our present day "jazz." This latter day stuff, I am free to say, never appeals to the better classes of people, or at least to those that know anything about real music. There has always been in music, what is known as syncopation, or the dropping of some part of the "count" in the measure of regular music, and thus giving accent to certain notes. This idea, "gone crazy" is what came to be known as "rag time" and later on as "jazz." In all of the old works of the masters in music, this dropping of certain beats in the measure, was done, and the operas are full of it, but in a mild form that developed accents as they were wanted to bring out the story in music, but with the present day craze for the exaggeration of this form of music, it has become a bore and tiresome to those that like good things in music. I say this, with a deep feeling, for I cannot see the advantage of this squealing and comedy stuff in music, and to me it is not music at all, but simply a substitute for it. To a person that has never read any of the better things in literature, Shakespeare is dry reading. And so it is with the general public as to music. If they have been born with little or no talent in a musical line, they are inspired to the beat of the rhythm of jazz, and they say they like it. They do, I suppose, but to many other people that are also here, it is repulsive. But I think that with the present trend of things on the radio that the public, in time, will become educated to liking better things and will finally want nothing of this crazy stuff that now fills the air. If you want to dance, it is all right, but why inflict that stuff on the entire nation of people when the few want it? Give them their share, but let us have also, something that is sound and reliable, and that gives you a sensation other than wanting to run and jump. The higher emotions are never reached by jazz.

More and more of our younger generation are getting the advantages of higher schooling in all lines. That means that the minds of the coming generation will be of a slightly higher plane, and music and the arts will appeal to them more and more, for a mind that has never been trained to think of educational things, cannot be expected to grasp the emotions of real music.

When the first pipe organs were installed in Buchanan, I was always on hand to listen to them and sometimes though I did not attend the service in the church, I would be within hearing distance; when the organ played, I determined then, when but a kid, that if it ever became possible, that I would learn to play one of those organs, and that time came for me. I had always fussed around on the piano, so later on I took instructions on the pipe organ, and found that it was no easy job to train your feet as well as your hands, but I became fairly adept in handling the key board of the pipe organ, and I can truthfully say, that it gave me a real thrill and real pleasure to portray my thoughts and feelings in the wind notes of that wonderful instrument. If you have the real love of music in your heart, you will find a pleasure in this work that cannot be attained in any other way. And now that I have laid aside the active work in all music, I listen to others who are doing the self same thing, and in most cases, a whole lot better than I was ever able to do, and I live through the numbers with them and am sure that it makes for the better in all cases.

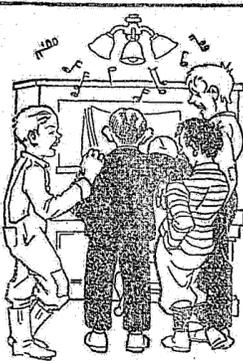

So from our crude beginnings, we some times attain to higher ideals and come to enjoy things that would have been entirely beyond our "ken." So I say, that I am very glad to see the trend of better music coming into its own, and that jazz if to some extent, taking a back seat. Nothing is ever attained by laziness. The same old rule of "The Lord helps them that help themselves" is true in music and the arts. The general up building of the nation's music will never come unless there is an effort on the part of those who can and do deliver the art to the general public is made to better their understanding of music. So with thanks to our Maker for our own small advantages as a matter of talent, and with faith in the future generations to build upward, we sit back, as "old timers" and hope for better things in music for all

"KIDS," I said. "Why is it not my fault your house is always full of neighbor kids."

The old boy sounded peeved. But he was secretly pretty pleased that his house was being used as a meeting place for the youngsters. I tell you, you have to make things attractive for kids these days. And it's worth the effort.
