EXPERT IS ENGAGED TO TAKE CHARGE

Bonding Company Protects From Additional Expense. HIRES EQUIPMENT Hipskind Firm of South Bend, Will Start Work Monday.

After waiting 10 months for the completion of a 90 day sewer contract, the town of Buchanan definitely embarked in the construction business "on its own" as the result of action taken at the regular may council meeting Tuesday evening, empowering the employment of A. E. Hipskind of the firm of Hipskind & Son, sewer contractors of South Bend, as foreman to supervise the completion of the Third street sewers, as an employee of the town.

This action followed the definite withdrawal of Contractor James Reed, and the tacit assent of the bonding company to the completion of the contract by the town. Hipskind appeared before the council and stated that he would be unwilling to contract the completion of the sewers, in view of conditions that had come to light, except at a prohibitory price. It was accordingly voted by the town to undertake the completion, hiring Hipskind to supervise the work.

It is anticipated that two crews of men will be employed and that the relaying of the Portage street sewer and the installation of the Third street sewers will be carried out at the same time. City engineer Toyne stated that in his opinion it would be necessary to relay the Portage street sewer from Third street to Dewey and from Front street to Roe. Hipskind stated that in his opinion it would be possible to lay Prestite tile on Portage street, the condition requisite to successful installation being that the water be pumped from the trench. This is possible, he stated, by the use of proper equipment.

Toyne stated that he anticipated a budget of about 25 per cent in exhuming the buried tile on Portage, which will need to be replaced.

John Hipskind, the senior member of the firm, has been engaged in sewer installation at South Bend for nearly 40 years. The firm was engaged in sewer installation in army camps during the World War. Last year it laid 18 miles of sewer in Richmond, Ind., and about a mile and a half in South Bend.

They will be on the job here as soon as arrangements can be made to transport the trench machines and other equipment here. According to the proposal submitted by Hipskind and accepted by the council, the firm will be paid for men and equipment at the following rate: foreman, $90 per week; machine operator, $1.25 per hour; pipe layers, $1.25 per hour; skilled labor, 70c per hour; unskilled labor, 55c per hour; trench excavating machine, power crane and drag lines, $5 per hour; centrifugal pumps, $1.50 per hour.

By these terms the city is assured that the work will be performed by the highest type of skilled labor. The total cost to the city will not exceed the contract price of $31,000, as the city is protected by the bonding company which insured the performance of the work for a similar amount. The city will consequently not be liable for any more expense than it originally contracted for unless the total cost should exceed $62,000 or double the contract price, which is outside the bounds of possibility. It is consequently assured a first class job at a very low price.

Work Starts Monday President Claude Glover secured a permit from the county road commission last night for the transportation of the heavy clam shell excavator, which weighs 27 tons and is transported on a trailer weighing 5 tons. The machine will be brought here tonight and all equipment will be on the ground in time to start two crews Monday, to rush the work to an early completion.

LOCAL YOUTH ENROLLED IN NOVEL SCHOOL

Lyman Campbell, Jr., of this city is enrolled in the first year of the co-operative school-shop engineering course of the University of Cincinnati, and a number of local young people have become interested in the work through his enthusiastic accounts.

Campbell is paired with Harold Eycleshymer of Niles, in accordance with the plan in use which requires that students take the course in couples, alternating in classroom and shop. Each student thus works a month in shop and then studies a month at school. In this manner a job is held continuously between them, and the enrollment in the school is kept uniform. The engineering course consists of five years alternating work and study, pursued the year round. Industrial plants co-operate with the school, furnishing the jobs and seeing that the students are shifted about to get a varied experience. While they are in the shop they are paid at the regular rate for any work they are engaged in. In this manner they usually make enough to defray the greater part of their expenses. Estimates of the money needed in excess of their earnings to carry them through the five years course varies from $500 to $1,000.

Campbell and Eycleshymer work in the Studebaker plant at South Bend, staying at home during their four week shop periods. The month in shop serves as a vacation from study and they are able to pursue the alternation the year round.

Similar courses have been arranged at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the University of Detroit, and other schools.

Scout Troop 41 Hears About Stars

Troop 41 was fortunate Tuesday, April 30, in having Mr. Eugene Hubbard, science teacher at the high school talk to them on astronomy. He explained how the sun is an enormous gaseous mass and that it is a true star while other bodies, such as Mars, Jupiter and others which we commonly call stars, are planets. The true star gives off light while the planet only reflects it.

The sun is the central body with the eight planets revolving about it, and the moons about the various planets. One thing which amazed the boys was the vast space in our minute system, the earth being 93,000,000 miles away from the sun, and the North Star the closest true star other than the sun, being forty light years away, with light traveling 186,000 miles per second.

The Solar System, the greatest star group of which our Solar System is a part, was discussed. There are two kinds of bodies visiting the earth, one being the meteors which range from such small bodies that they burn up before they reach the ground and the larger ones which sometimes weigh tons. Many call these falling stars, but stars are fixed bodies of much larger size than our own little planet. The other visitors are the comets.

The comet is one phenomenon which has not been wholly explained. It is a traveling gaseous body which seems to have no definite orbit. The tail is thought to be caused by the sun's rays driving fine dust particles away from the main body making a tail which always points away from the sun. The speed of these bodies also varies.

The systematic and careless way in which these bodies of the heavens travel their courses century after century without colliding or having mishaps surely proves that some great power looks over all," said Mr. Hubbard.

Scoutmaster Leo Slate announced that Mr. Morley, owner of the Princess theatre, had very kindly let the troop have a benefit show the 16th and 17th of May. The show is to be "The Butter and Egg Man," with Jack Mulhall, the leading man. The proceeds of this show will be spent for tents enough to make it possible for the whole troop to go camping wherever it wishes. The tickets will soon be on sale, please buy from the Scouts and help them put the "outing" in Scouting.

No man gets much of a show unless he has the price of admission.

The fruit crop in this section is now hanging in the balance as the result of numerous frosts and prevailing low temperatures during the past two weeks, and it will be impossible to determine the amount of the damage for some time, in the opinion of local fruit growers.

A number of apple men, including Frank Kinney and Pearl Shriver, of the Mt. Tabor district, stated that in their opinion the apple blossoms are not frozen as yet, but may have been affected so that they will drop off at a later period of development, due to a stem weakness which often follows early cold.

While many peach blossoms were frozen, growers north of Buchanan stated that enough were left for a satisfactory fruit crop. Little damage is reported in grapes in this section, although Arden growers report a loss of 50 per cent.

NOTICE The Board of Review of the Village of Buchanan will meet in the council room Friday and Saturday, May 17 and 18, 1929 for the purpose of reviewing the 1929 assessment roll. Any person feeling themselves aggrieved by said assessment may then be heard.

Big Losses Occur In Shipping Hogs

East Lansing, May 9.—More hogs die when shipped during April, May and June than during any other three months of the year, and the animal husbandry department at Michigan State college warns shippers of livestock to use extra care in loading animals for shipment.

Figures obtained by the Michigan Livestock Loss Prevention association show that a car of hogs from Michigan which reached the Buffalo yards, April 8, 1929, contained 24 dead hogs. Another car from Michigan which went to Buffalo the same day contained 25 dead animals.

The 49 dead hogs weighed nearly 3000 pounds and at the market price on the day when they reached the market would have been worth $1,000 if they had been received in good condition. Dead hogs are practically valueless so the shippers lost approximately $500 a car on these hogs.

The Loss Prevention association urges shippers not to overload the cars, to allow the hogs to cool before loading them, to place no feed in the cars, to use sand bedding during the summer, to use ice in the car if the weather is hot, and to see that all car partitions are strong and that no nails protrude in places where the hogs can come in contact with them.

Reindeers Increasing. The original stock of reindeers, imported from Siberia between 1892 and 1920 and established in Alaska, has increased from 1280 to 350,000. These animals, it is said, make Alaska a potential meat producing area.

During 1928, 420 merchant ships, with a total tonnage of 1,445,920, were launched in Great Britain and Ireland.

Whereas, said contractor has not followed the suggestions of his attorney, made March 25, 1929, and has removed his tools, and equipment from the vicinity of the work and has advised the common council by his letter dated April 29, 1929, that he does not intend to proceed further with the work, and

Whereas, the village of Buchanan on the nineteenth day of April, 1929, served a notice upon the said contractor that if he continued to neglect the work and not remedy the imperfections, that the village of Buchanan would provide labor and material and deduct the cost from any money due him under his agreement and take possession of all materials, tools and appliances thereon and employ such force as may be necessary to complete the work. Therefore, be it resolved, that the village take possession of the premises, provide labor, materials, tools and appliances and employ such forces as are necessary to complete the work. That the contractor be allowed no further payment until the work be finished, when if there is any excess it shall be paid to the contractor but if the cost exceeds such unpaid balance the contractor or bondsmen shall pay the difference to the village.

PRINCESS THEATRE
 Dramatic intensity marks the Princess Theatre offerings for the week ahead. Lon Chaney, tonight and tomorrow, in "While the City Sleeps," brings again his unmatched ability to transform himself into the character depicted. Since his unmatched picturization of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," his fame has been growing hereabout, and the lovers of the more artistic and more adventurous always go to see him.
 Hoot Gibson is not making so many straight westerns as in former years, and those he makes are carefully worked out in plot and detail. His "The Danger Rider" Saturday will show Hoot at his newest best.
 Marion Nixon's society drama,
 "Red Lips," coming Sunday, is up to the Sunday offerings in the working out of social problems in an artistic and tensely manner.
 Both the story and the photography are worth the time.
 Ian Keith is a new artist before Buchanan audiences, and he is to be seen Monday in a whirlwind, breath-taking picture, "The Street of Illusion." The last flicker must be seen before the story will be complete and the problem solved. Of course, "Tarzan, the Mighty" will be seen also in the eighth chapter, with all the jungle beasts.
 Tuesday and Wednesday the fans will see May McAvoy in "Caught in the Fog," which assures a thrilling evening of story so intense that all private troubles will be forgotten.
 And the next two nights come Jack Mulhall in "The Butcher and Egg Man," in benefit for the Scouts of Troop 41.

Grade News

Kindergarten Those who have been neither absent nor tardy during the month of April are as follows: Bonnie June Chain, Jack Ednie, Norma Hamilton, Madeline Heubner, Madonna Heubner, Lorraine Morley, Myrtle Otwell, Reynolds Price, Donald Wheat, Fred Hagley, Pansy Maxson.

Our doll house is nearly completed and we are starting the furnishing of it this week. The girls are making the curtains while the boys are building the furniture.

First Grade Dorothy Skinner entered our grade last week. Goldie Reitz has moved to Schoolcraft.

We have our bird books almost finished. The A class finished the Field First Reader this week. Their reading for the remainder of the year will consist mostly of silent reading.

Second Grade In an oral spelling test, George Lakin and Betty Batchelor stood up the longest. They both missed the same word.

The following received 100 in Friday's written spelling test: Iva Hemphill, Tommy Fitch, Lee Marka, John Meile, George Lakin, Vernon Rossow, Lawrence Newson, Frederick Banke, and Betty Batchelor.

Charlotte Ennsberger has moved to South Bend. We are working hard on our bird books and are learning many things about the birds. We enjoy writing and reading stories about the birds. We are also learning about many kinds of wild flowers.

The attendance at present is very good in the Wilcox second grade. The children are getting a good start in the final reviews in all subjects in this room.

The A class will have completed seven second readers at the end of the term. The B class, only four. At morning exercises in Mrs. Fischner's room, Carlton Pletcher entertained us by playing three pieces on his violin.

Jack Miller has left school as his family have moved to Dowagiac. We are making a bird book. The girls and boys have drawn three birds and are writing stories about them. When finished we will have pictures and stories of six birds at least.

Fourth Grade The pictures of which our 4th grade has had advantage this year have created great interest in our language story writing. This week we had "The Great Divide," and next week we will enjoy "Little Boy Blue."

Class I in Geography is starting a review of the United States and the children are very much interested in learning to name the states in each section.

Sixth Grade Joyce Kohlman and Leona Kool have been awarded their final certificates in Palmer Method. In our "banking race" the Essex side won from the Buick by 15 points. Due to this race we have had 100 per cent for 18 weeks.

Junior High April honor roll—7th grade, Vel-va Brown, John Godfrey, Mary Irwin, Jack McHenry, Helen Spatta, William Zachman; 8th grade, Doris Campbell, Marie Ellis, Marvin Cross, Lora Haffner, Helen Mogford, Edward Rolen, Alene Riley, Marjory Shreve, George Zachman, Rosemary Thompson.

County Examinations

The regular annual county examinations for the 7th and 8th grades will be held in the Junior High assembly on Thursday and Friday, May 16 and 17, under the supervision of Supt. H. C. Stark. These examinations will begin at 8:30 o'clock a. m. and at 1 o'clock p. m.

The teachers in the various districts are asked to have their pupils prepared to answer the following questions: 1. What is the number of your school district? 2. What is the name of your township? 3. Where does your teacher receive her mail?

THIS AND THAT

We are told that we are soon to lose the McHenry pupils from our school, as the family plan on leaving Buchanan for California about the middle of May. We are very sorry to have them go as the children are all very good in their work, and their attitude and genial fellowship are of the best.

Miss Abell is having some very clever work done by her pupils in free hand sketching. We are hoping that some day in the near future the board will allow us an art supervisor, as we feel that this side of our work is somewhat neglected.

The monthly written tests in arithmetic in the grades were held last week. Several of the pupils were absent, due to sickness, but in general the tests showed improvement. Alice Grice entered the Junior high last Tuesday bringing the complete enrollment up to 148—the heaviest in the history of that department.

All Junior high pupils are re-joining over the out-door activities under the supervision of Miss Allington and Mr. Bradfield.

Elaborate maps of our own United States are being made in Mr. Miller's geography department. The contest in spelling is still on between 7-I and 7-II classes. As a result, a good many A's were given by Miss Hanlin for the month of April.

Last week's report from the Chicago office granted the grades 35 Palmer Method awards in penmanship. The week before that was a little better. Over 51 per cent of the papers sent in received rewards.

Supt. Stark held a general faculty meeting last Wednesday afternoon as a forerunner to the closing of the school year.

Track Men Chill, It Seems Stars Were Uncovered

Buchanan High School's track team journeyed to Dowagiac to engage the team of that city and came back on the short end of the score. It was the first meet of the season and the locals suffered slightly from the first exposure but the suffered more from the intense cold. However, several budding stars were uncovered, and the prospects for a local track team are exceedingly bright.

Lake Levels Have Risen.

Nature has staged an unpleasant surprise for cities on the Great Lakes from Duluth to Cleveland by pushing the lake levels up well above the average of recent years. The high water has caused an abundance of confusion for business conducted along the water fronts, has raised the level of rivers that run into the lake so vessels are unable to pass under bridges they cleared with ease in the past. There was a rise of more than three feet in the lake at Chicago, while Milwaukee had high water such as she had not seen before in a score of years. The level of Lake Erie appears to have changed less than others but it is materially higher than in the past.

Thus far scientists have been unable to discover the cause. It may be Nature has been remodeling the areas in the water basin in a manner that reduced the capacity of the lakes, or it may be from another cause. It raises many interesting questions and various discussions are under way. The sun spots are pointed out by some as the prime cause, but thus far the sum total of information is that the lake levels are higher and are rising. While scientists study and delve to find the explanation shipping masters are puzzled and warehouse men along the lake front are computing their losses and the necessary adjustments they must provide if the high water is to become permanent.

It is one of the many interesting changes supplied by Nature that puzzle mankind. How little the world really has learned of these changes and of the mighty forces in operation about us all the time!

Anti-Criminal Display.

Legislatures in a score of states had under consideration during the winter session the habitual criminal bill and in a number of the states the bill was approved and became law. These laws provide life terms in prison for those who repeat serious offenses. In Ohio for the third commission of a major felony the maximum sentence is imperative and, if there is a fourth major felony committed, the court has no discretion, the life sentence is automatically imposed.

Here in Michigan, a state where capital punishment has not been provided for more than half a century, serious consideration was given to a bill to impose the death penalty for first degree murder. The bill passed the senate easily, despite stubborn opposition. The debates brought out the admission that a strong sentiment in favor of the death penalty was in evidence in the state and the people would support and enforce the law.

These results were brought about by the many appeals to the public to join in an effort to curb crime and bring criminals to the bar of justice. Crime has been rampant in many places, lives have been sacrificed and enormous wealth has been stolen by those who live on plunder. Public sentiment has turned on these offenders and the hard laws mentioned are a part of the campaign of the people to defeat the criminals. These new laws are designed for the repeaters and, if they continue their lawlessness and are apprehended and convicted, they have only themselves to blame for the crushing penalty they will suffer. The American public can be considerate, prefers to be, has been even under great provocation, but it can be as hard and unyielding as the criminal who dares to determine if law and order are to prevail. These laws are plain warnings to offenders.

A Young College President.

Robert M. Hutchins, dean of the Yale Law school, who at the age of 30 has been elected president of the University of Chicago, doubtless will be the youngest president of any American university or college of high standing. He will not hold the world's record for all time, however. William F. Pierce became president of Kenyon College when he was 23 and has done so well that he has been kept on the job ever since, some 33 years. Kenyon is not so large as the University of Chicago or so diverse in its curriculum but it is a famous old institution and does well by its 250 students.

Dr. Hutchins has had a brilliant, if brief, career, as his selection to the presidency of a great university at the age of 30 testifies. He studied two years at Oberlin, went to war and then had two years at Yale, where he was graduated in 1921. At Yale he was a self-supporting student but, despite that supposed handicap to scholarship and social success, made Phi Beta Kappa and one of the big Senior societies. Two years after his graduation he was made secretary of Yale University and, while attending to that job, completed the law course in two years and two years after was made dean of the law school. It is an interesting fact that his classmates at Yale voted him the most likely man in the class to succeed and it seems that the prediction was pretty well justified. At Chicago, a young man directing the educational activities of youth, he will have a great chance to add to the luster of the name he already has made for himself.

Statutory Morality.

If there were any relation between statutory morality and actual morality, the people of the United States would be the most moral on earth. Surely nowhere else would it be possible to set up a more elaborate and expensive system to keep the people from contamination. There is hardly a pleasure or pastime that is not carefully censored and regulated.

This country has developed a veritable mania for regulating the morals of its people. The government is more and more intruding into private affairs and with disastrous effect. Intolerance is rampant and instead of managing their own lives honorably and decently many insist on crusading against their fellows.

Isn't there a danger from all this censorship, moral legislation and uplifting that the American people eventually will lose their sense of morality and become childlike to the extent that they must be told the difference between right and wrong, and told to no avail?

Michigan's Generous Senator.

From the time James Couzens became a prominent figure in Detroit he has been very much of an individualist in thought, action and course in life. He never has chosen to follow the crowd. He made an enormous fortune as an associate of Henry Ford but, when Ford policies were unsatisfactory, he sold his stock. As a citizen he won public favor, was elected mayor and won the city to the purchase of the street railway. He left the office of mayor to take a place in the United States senate. If his life's activities were measured by the dominant thought in the world of big business he has been unorthodox at all times.

His latest venture is to give $10,000,000 to be used for child welfare work in the world, capital and interest all to be expended in 25 years. The thought that prompted his action will appeal to those who love children and know their misfortunes. As a big brother he steps to the fore with a great purse to help lighten their load of misfortune, open the pathway to happier days and greater pleasures with large opportunities for development into lusty manhood and womanhood. It was a great vision that inspired him, he was a generous giver, the situation is magnificent.

Many times the world has been pained as these visions and funds were badly used and the dream of the giver failed to bring results sought. Child welfare is a vast field, $10,000,000 is an enormous fund, there is need for sound wisdom and business judgment in directing the work. It would be deplorable if the dream of the Detroit millionaire fails, if it brings no enduring results of importance, if the greater part of the fortune is wasted in vain undertakings. It needed the genius of a Couzens to accumulate that fortune, it will require equal genius to direct its expenditures to bring the largest returns. Those who appreciate the opportunity for valuable service for little folks and the fine spirit of the giver, will hope men and women of learning and wisdom will be called to direct the work. It is no place for theorists and dreamers.

Our Murder Record.

It may surprise some readers to know that Chicago does not lead in the number of murders. Among the cities having more than 1,000,000 population, Detroit leads, with 16.5 homicides per 100,000 inhabitants, Chicago stands second with 15.8 and New York, that supposed den of infamy and violence, is fifth in the list with 6.7. The 10 cities with the 10 highest homicide death rates are all in the South, led by Memphis, Tenn., with 60.5 violent killings per 100,000 population, a figure which makes even Detroit seem quiet and law-abiding by comparison. Columbus had 10.4 homicides per 100,000 population last year, Cleveland 13.3 and Cincinnati, 17.6.

We suppose the first thing St. Peter will ask when we get up there at the pearly gate, on the outside, will be whether we ever did any double parking and then, if you tell the truth, the kind old fellow will say encouragingly: "Well, you didn't make a regular practice of it, did you?"

The mother of any normal child has two recourses from which she may derive comfort on not infrequent occasions, she can think either that the little thing takes after its father exclusively, or that a mistake must have been made at the hospital and they gave her the wrong baby.

The higher you are the farther you fall and it must be a terrible experience for Miss Barbara Newberry, who is now declared by pulp and press or someone equally as good, to have the most beautiful legs in America, to get a run in her stocking.

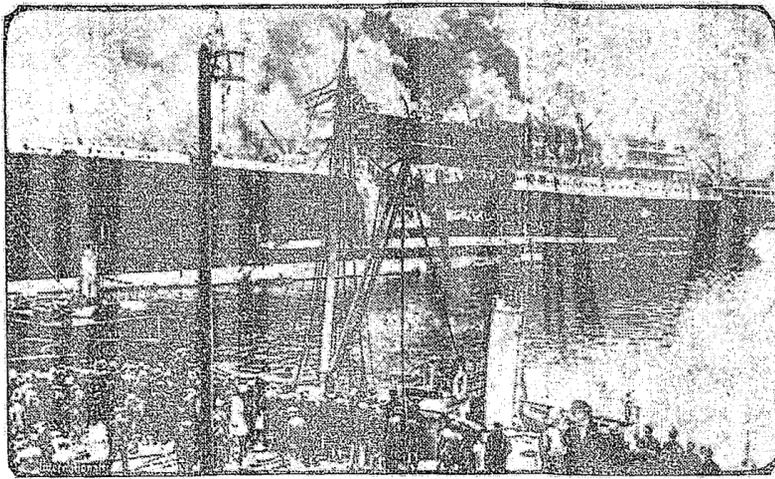

What the American man needs, says one high authority on the subject in hand, is more clothes consciousness, and one sure way to attain it, we'll say from the wealth of our experience, is to have both rear suspender buttons off at the same time.

These are the days of truth in advertising but perhaps not the whole truth and one thing we notice is that it's never raining in the alluring advertisement of the snappy roadster with the top down.

Probably the easiest way to get a reputation for stinginess in the dominant class is to have sense enough to give what little you can spare to needy individuals instead of to organized charity.

Even if you are decent enough not to say it, which is doubtful, there's a lot of satisfaction in just thinking, I told you so.

Berrien Co. Shows Increase in Sale of Tuberculosis Seals

Lansing, May 9—Berrien county is one of 28 counties in Michigan to show an increase in the proceeds of the 1928 Christmas seal sale over the previous year's sale, figures prepared by the Michigan Tuberculosis association show.

A total of $3,268.05 has been reported from the county, representing $364.14 more than was raised in 1927. The report for the entire state shows that $241,865.14 was subscribed in the 1928 sale thru the combined efforts of the State association and 27 county tuberculosis societies.

Funds raised in the recent seal sale made possible the April "Early Diagnosis of Tuberculosis Campaign" and will be used by the Michigan Tuberculosis association to finance an extensive series of free chest clinics during the summer months.

Quail Extending Range Northward

Lansing, May 9—Are the quail extending their range northward in Michigan? There are several indications that they are. Last winter several coveys wintered in Manistee county and were noted regularly at feeding stations established for ring-necked pheasants. Now comes the report that a covey of 18 birds wintered near Houghton Lake village. This covey was fed by local residents throughout the winter and came thru with the loss of only one bird.

The game division of the conservation department would like further reports of the occurrence of the quail or "bob-white" in the central and northern parts of the lower peninsula.

State Parks Open To Public May 16

Lansing, May 9—State parks will be open to the public on May 16, the official date has been set by the parks division of the conservation department as Memorial Day, the first holiday of the season, May 30.

Last year five and a half million people visited these parks during corn borer establish themselves in the tops of the corn plant has led to the suggestion that topping the corn plant after the ears have set would reduce the damage done by the insect, but experiments performed at the Monroe corn borer station show that such topping fails to stop insect damage and also reduces the yield of the corn.

In the experiments, the plants were topped at four, five, and six feet above the ground. At the last year's topping, only the tassels were removed. The topping at four feet removed the stalks just above the ears.

The corn borer larvae present in topped stalks at harvest time were counted and, in 1927, more borers were found in the topped stalks than in those which were left without topping. The yield of corn was materially reduced by topping.

The Europeans in British Africa number 1,750,000 out of a total population of 62,000,000.

Prairie Chickens Increase in Michigan

Lansing, May 9—The conservation department is interested in the recent reports that the prairie chickens are increasing in the territory between Clare and Houghton Lake. Residents of this district have informed the game division that several large flocks were seen during the past winter and spring months; one flock of approximately sixty birds was observed. Further information pertaining to the status of this and other game birds is desirable.

Other localities in the lower peninsula where the prairie chickens are found are the marshy shores of Saginaw Bay and the grassy flats of some of our river valleys. This bird has been reported from every county of the upper peninsula during the past twenty years; coming in after the removal of the coniferous forests from that part of the state.

Floating Down the Old St. Joe in an Open Boat in the Old Days

While we were getting ready for a trip down the river, I was reminded of the story of some men that were going for a hunting and fishing trip and they had taken along three kegs of beer and plenty of wine and "boozie" and tobacco and smokes, and one loaf of bread. One of the members of the outfit said, "What are you going to do with that bread?" So that is somewhat the way we outfitted our flat bottomed boat. I don't remember where we hired the boat, but it was just an old flat boat with "side boards" that didn't set very high above the water level, it was perhaps 6 or 8 feet wide and perhaps twenty feet long. We made a sort of canopy over it to keep out the sun and rain, but it wasn't a very substantial affair, as you will hear, later on. There was no dam between Buchanan and the lake, at that time, so we had a very shallow waterway to Lake Michigan from our "front door," so to speak. We had planned on about a week for the trip. There was no mode of propelling the "craft" at all, except to use a pole when she drifted too close to shore and when we wanted to get to shore.

PRIZE WINNING BOB

Miss Dorothy Snowart with the huge loving cup which was awarded her "New York 1929" bob at the New York Hairdressers' association competition at its annual convention.

We planned to stop off here and there, when we would find a likely looking place to camp. We had a tent and sleeping things for it, but we did our cooking and eating on the boat. Our first night out, we had floated down as far as Berrien Springs. We poled in to shore right at the foot of the bridge, and some one went up to the livery stable and bought a bale of straw to make our beds with and when we took off the wires it was yee straw and you know what that means. It had beards several (?) inches long on each head and those beards would punch right through the blankets, and, O boy! There wasn't any chance of sleeping on that outfit and besides, the mosquitoes were about nine (?) inches high, and they seemed to be holding some sort of convention for their kind, and all the mosquitoes in Michigan were in attendance. So we decided that some one would have to stay with the outfit and the rest of us would go to a hotel and try and get some sleep. So we "drew straws" and it fell to John Jarvis to stay with the tent and see that the boat didn't go away without us. So we bade farewell to John and made our way to the Old Oronoco hotel, that was just up the bank away from the river, and three of us had to sleep in a swag-backed bed, and there were no screens in the windows and some of John's mosquitoes found where we had concealed ourselves and they went and told a few thousand of their mates about it and we had plenty of company all night long, and plenty of "cousincousincousin" music all night to listen to.

In the morning, as soon as it was daylight, we were up and went down to the river to see how John was getting along. We had a big brass kettle such as we farmers always had for making soap in that we set over the fire out in the open, and as soon as I arrived, I missed that kettle, so I asked John about it and he told me a lie, I am sure. He said the mosquitoes were bothering me so badly that I crawled under the kettle to keep away from them, and the sons-of-guns just simply poked their "stingers" right through that brass kettle, and it made me mad, so I took a wrench with me and the next time they started after me, under the kettle, I hit them with the monkey-wrench and bent their stingers so they couldn't pull them out again and the blamed things got scared and flew away with that kettle. So we had to do without the aforesaid kettle for the rest of the trip.

Well, at that time the old "May Grayham, the old side-wheeler river boat from St. Joe, used to ply up and down the river, picking up passengers and fruit, etc., along the way and she ran as far as Berrien Springs and sometimes had loads up farther, having abandoned her trips to Buchanan for lack of business, I guess. Well, anyway, we hadn't figured on meeting the "old girl" in open water, and about the first thing we knew after getting started down the sleepy old river, was to hear the whistle of the old boat coming up stream. I suggested that we "haul" for shore and try to get "set" before she struck us, for she sure did stir up a lot of "ocean" in that little old river for a small boat and she was. So we pulled in to shore and the place we happened to strike, (we didn't have time to hunt for any fancy place to land for the old girl was coming up full blast and making good time all the way) was right in between two high banks, so we took the one that would be the inside of her curve at that place and thought we were all set, but our boat only rode about 3 or 4 inches above normal water line and the end that had the kitchen stuff in was still lower and that of course, was the end sticking out toward old May Grayham as she came puffing along. Well, we got out on shore and pulled the boat up as high as we could but about that time the waves from the river boat struck us and we had to stand there and watch our kitchen things go floating off into deep water. Tin plates and cups and things went sailing away and the whole rear end of the boat was resting on the bottom of the river, and the whole boat was full of water to the front end of her. Some "mess." Well, we decided that we would camp right there. (Good reason, we could not go on.) So we sorted the things out that were left and we found we still had some blankets that were not too wet and the tent was still all with us, so we climbed up the bank and found a likely looking place for camp right on the brow of the hill. In was moss hanging down and it sort of looked "romantic" and we set about getting things ready to eat. Someone went to a farmer's house about half a mile from there and got some eggs and milk and some chickens, but we set the chickens free for we didn't have anything to cook them in and we were hungry. So we made a meal of eggs, some raw and some boiled, and we had bread and made some tea and yes—we had plenty of beer, but it was warm, so it wasn't so good.

Toward evening Herb Batchelor and some of the party went up the river in the little row boat that we had trailing the house boat, to try and get some fish. It looked like rain, and before they got back to the tent it was raining. And when I say rain I am not joking. The old May Graham had gone back down the river in the afternoon and we had lost a lot more of the kitchen again, so we didn't have much left. But we huddled up in the tent and the fool thing began to leak. It leaked as though it had never thought of such thing as water. We dug trenches to let the worst of the water puddles in the tent run off and away, and we huddled up under umbrellas, in that fool tent and listened to the fireworks in the sky and the loose moss hanging from the trees blew in the door of the tent and wet us in the face and, well, it was a wonderful night. Some time or other it stopped raining and we put down the blankets and went to sleep. I don't think there were any mosquitoes that night. I think they all drowned. But some new ones were hatched out for the next night, farther down the river.

We hadn't had any supper and there wasn't anything fit to eat for breakfast, so we pulled up camp in the morning and cleaned up the old crew and started down the river. But our enthusiasm was getting dampened, somewhat.

That next day was one that we filled in mostly in trying to get enough to eat. We stopped at several places where they wouldn't be bothered with us and we would have to pull on farther. The scenery wasn't so good down that way. The country was getting too flat to suit Buchanan people for we were used to hills and trees and things. We passed through fruit farms and finally landed in old St. Joseph and were glad to get foot on "visa versa" again. We left orders for the remains of the boat to be shipped back to "home port", got a good square meal and took the last train home on the M. B. R. & C. There were six of us in the party when we started but one got cold feet after that second night out and went home. The rest of us landed home and we were glad it was dark so our friends wouldn't see us.

The first day out was ideal, from Buchanan down to Berrien Springs we were in continual rapture over the scenery and the wonders of the trees and flowers, etc., along the banks. We often floated within a few feet of the shore and could get a good look at everything along the line. But O Boy! Those nights! We were gone only three days instead of a week, and I am here to tell you that we never made a second trip. We gave the boat to someone and bid it a fond farewell. Never again, but it was fun. I liked it. I always did like storms. When I was a youngster, when ever it started to rain I liked to go to the barn and stay with the horses and stand and let the wind and rain beat against me. So that little bit of discomfort wasn't bad at all, for me, but some of the gang got all pever and the trip was more or less "all wet."

Pigs Make Good Use Of Alfalfa Pasture

East Lansing, May 9—Alfalfa is worth $27.87 an acre when the crop is utilized as pasture for pigs and the portion of the crop not used by the animals is cut for hay and appraised at $7.00 per ton, according to feeding experiments performed by the animal husbandry department at Michigan State College.

This value for the crop is obtained by crediting the alfalfa with the amount of feed saved which would have to be given to obtain equal gains in weight with pigs on a dry lot. In the College trials, alfalfa hay was fed to the pigs which were in the dry lot.

Both groups of pigs in these trials were fed shelled corn, protein supplements, and a general mixture. The average daily gains made by the pigs in the dry lot and those on alfalfa pasture were approximately equal.

For each hundredweight of gain, the pigs in the dry lot required 291.7 pounds of shelled corn while those on pasture needed 300.3 pounds of corn to make the same gain in weight. The dry lot pigs ate 65.5 pounds of protein supplement for each 100 pounds of gain and those on pasture used 37.2 pounds of supplement feeds.

The alfalfa pasture replaced 28.3 pounds of protein supplement, and, consequently, the pigs on pasture made 100 pounds of gain at a lower cost than those in the dry

Tester Finds Lost Dairy Herd Profit

East Lansing, May 9—Dairymen who find that the butterfat content of the milk from their herds is too low may be able to raise the test of the milk by spending more time stripping the cows, if the discovery made by a tester in the herd improvement association work is an indication of conditions throughout the state.

Charles Weeks, tester in the Genesee-Otisville association, tested 15 pounds of milk which was stripped from cows which were supposedly milked dry. The test for the strippings was 8.6 per cent butterfat. On this herd, the strippings would contain an average of 40 pounds of butterfat each month.

The herd where this test was made contained 13 cows, so more than three pounds of butterfat per cow per month was lost when the cows were not milked completely dry. An equal loss on all cows in Michigan would materially reduce the profits of the dairymen in this state.

Experiments conducted at Michigan State college show that the keeping quality of the first milk drawn from the cow's udder is lower than that drawn afterwards, so the keeping quality as well as the test of the milk is improved if the cow is milked completely dry.

THE mails must go. That is why the Universal Aviation Corporation, operating fleets of passenger and mail planes between Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis, Omaha, Indianapolis, Cleveland and Louisville, choose Stanolind Aviation products to protect their great Wasp and Hornet engines against friction.

The determining factors resulting in this choice were: Quality of Oil and Specialized Lubricating Service.

You may not be interested in airplanes but you gain the advantages to be derived from the work of these lubrication specialists when you use

POLARINE -ISO-VIS

They are exceptional motor oils that hold up under the most trying conditions. They are both sturdy and rich. They maintain protecting cushions of oil on all bearing surfaces. They make the engine run smoothly and keep it from wearing out.

Polarine is effective and economical. The Standard Oil Company has kept it abreast of developments and recommends it to you to give maximum lubrication at minimum cost. Use Polarine and drain the crankcase every 500 miles.

Iso-Vis is the most advanced of motor oils because it will not thin out and because it wears and wears—frequent draining of crankcase is not necessary. Motorists drive 1,000 to 2,000 miles without changing Iso-Vis and every bearing is lubricated correctly on the way.

Use either Polarine or Iso-Vis. You'll save yourself worry and trouble. You'll save your money. You'll save your car. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) recommends both Polarine and Iso-Vis. Buy the grade for your car.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.
