

CLARK CO. FLOATS $2,500,000 STOCK ISSUE THROUGH N. Y. BANKING HOUSE

FLAMES LEVEL CLEAR LAKE PAVILION MONDAY

Now Here's the Proposition

The Advisor-General
By Haws

Old man Hezekiah Urich Never sat upon a perch
In the inside of a church, Yet you'd think to hear his wad He was next man over God.
Never went to Sunday school Never heard the Golden Rule
All the angels that he knows He has seen in bareback shows.
He can tell you all along Where religion is all wrong, All untroubled, undeterred,
"Trouble is, now, with the Lord."

He can tell you of the way Farmers ought to dig their hay:
How to get good colts from cows How to get good calves from sows Though he thinks that cows wear wool,
Have to say—he knows his bull.
Though he thinks hens lay fried eggs, Pigs have wings and snakes have legs,
He can tell in nowise brief
"Trouble is with farm relief."

Learning isn't worth his while, Facts would merely cramp his style.
When he files a true report Where divinity falls short, Information he might lack,
Doesn't seem to hold him back As he deals, for weal or worse, Counsel to the universe.

Old Fiddlers to Compete at Farm Bureau Picnic

At the Farmers Picnic to be held at Berrien Springs Saturday, August 3, following the basket dinner, an old fiddlers contest will be staged. This is a new feature for the picnic and considerable interest is already shown in this event. All fiddlers over 65 years of age are eligible. Prizes will be given to the best two. The program committee desires to have a large number of entries.

John Tarrant Makes Visit to Home Town

John Tarrant of Chicago, who learned the printing trade on the Berrien County Record, back in the days when this paper was the property of D. F. Bower, and who left here 23 years ago, was a visitor in Buchanan Monday, this being his first visit to the old home town since his departure.

Mr. Tarrant, who is now assistant secretary of the Master Printers Association of Chicago, an organization of employing printers, is the son of the late Rev. W. J. Tarrant, for eight years pastor of the United Brethren church in Buchanan.

Mr. Tarrant noted many changes in the residence section of the city and renewed acquaintances with a number of former friends during his short stay here.

At the time Mr. Tarrant was employed on the Record it was called the Buchanan Record and was located at the present post office.

Threshing Season Starts Monday in Buchanan Dist.

Burton Weaver is threshing in the Bend of the River where he reports a yield of 30 bushels per acre in 7 acres on the DeWitt place and of 23 bushels per acre in 20 acres on the Clyde Penwell place.

The 1929 threshing season opens generally throughout the Buchanan district Monday. Practically all outfits in the field.

Quality and weight of the threshed product is reported to be standard, although the yield was put in many districts by the ice which covered the field during January and February. Level lands, such as those of Portage Prairie, suffered the greater loss, the yield being better in the rolling lands north of town.

REPLACED BY A TEMPORARY BLDG. TODAY

Loss is Estimated at $7,000 With a Coverage of $3,000.

ORIGIN UNKNOWN

The Boat House of Eiler and Baldwin is Damaged.

Fire originating from unknown cause shortly after midnight Monday morning entirely destroyed the two story dance pavilion and bath house, owned by C. H. Fuller on the east side of Clear Lake, together with its entire contents, the estimated loss being $7,000, of which $3,000 is covered by insurance.

Fuller had locked the pavilion about 11 p. m. Sunday, and had gone to his house immediately east, where he went to bed about midnight. Residents of the cottages who had been fishing on the lake also came to shore about midnight and report that there was no indication of fire then.
About 1:15, daylight saving time, Fuller and his family were aroused by a crackling sound. Thinking that thieves were attempting entrance, since the place had been entered and robbed recently, he secured a gun and rushed out, when he saw the entire structure in flames. Other residents were aroused and they attempted to save the boats moored to the building.
Although there was no wind at all, they found it impossible to get them clear of the fire as the suction created by the flames drew them back as fast as they could move them away. In all seven row boats were burned. Tom Burks, who was occupying a cottage, threw open the doors and was met by a blast of flame that singled his hair and face.

Since the only telephone at the resort was in the burning building, it was necessary for one of the residents to drive to Buchanan to procure help from the fire department. Arlin Clark was aroused at 1:40 a. m. and sounded the siren and Bunker arrived with the fire apparatus about 2
a. m., finding the building building almost entirely destroyed.
The firemen turned their attention to saving the boat house belonging to Eiler and Baldwin, which was situated a few yards to the south. The firemen succeeded in saving this structure after a partial damage. The fact that the flames did not spread further before the arrival of the department was due to the entire absence of wind, the only damage aside from that incurred to the boat house and pavilion being the loss of several trees nearby and the steps leading to the Fuller residence above.

The pavilion was built by Fuller about 12 years ago, replacing a smaller structure built 35 years ago. It contained two stories and was 40 by 60 feet in dimensions with a fine maple dance floor recently laid at a cost of $500. It contained three pianos, one a Wurlitzer orchestra instrument and another the property of the Robinson Music Shop. It also contained a large stock of confectionery, soft drinks and cigars which were not covered by insurance. A line of new bathing suits had also been added this Spring, all of which were lost.

Fuller states that he will rebuild at once although not definitely sure whether he will rebuild a permanent structure now or erect a temporary pavilion to serve for the remainder of the summer.

The construction of a temporary building to replace the Fuller pavilion destroyed by fire at Clear Lake Monday morning was scheduled to be completed this evening by Bradley Brothers. The temporary structure will contain two dressing rooms, a stock room and a lounging porch. A permanent replacement will be made after the close of the season.

ADVANCE DOPE CITY FORM GOVT. WILL CARRY POLLS

Interest Centers in the Selection of the Commission.

ELEVEN CANDIDATES

Charter Represents the Experience of Michigan Cities.

Eleven days yet remain for the qualified electors of Buchanan to familiarize themselves with the provisions of the charter and the merits of the candidates for city office on which they must pass judgment in the special election on August 5.

Regardless of the fate of the individual candidates, it is generally conceded that the document drawn up by the charter commission to serve as a basic law of the new city will be endorsed. The document represents 60 days of hard work and compiling and digesting various ideas of city government embodied in the number of charters actually enforced in Michigan cities. To a great extent the charter provisions included in the Buchanan document were selected as being typical of other charters and consequently representative of the experience of other cities.

This is especially true in the selection of the commission in preference to the aldermanic form, and in the matter of representation at large rather than by wards.
The commission form of government has been adopted almost universally by the cities of Michigan adopting the municipal form of government during recent years in the history of the state.
Only one city has made the change back to the aldermanic form after adopting the commission form. Representation at large rather than by wards is universally characteristic of the commission form and is considered preferable in small cities.

There is no provision in the Buchanan charter for the administration of city affairs by a city manager, and that arrangement was not contemplated by the charter commission. It is undoubtedly within the jurisdiction of the commission to appoint a city manager at any time, in case that step should seem warranted.

Contrary to a prevalent opinion the two supervisors who are to be elected at the special election will have nothing to do with the assessment of the city. This function will be performed entirely by the assessor appointed by the mayor. This assessor, however, will serve ex officio as a member of the county board of supervisors, due to the fact that he is familiar with the city tax roll which is reviewed by the county board.
The two supervisors who are elected have nothing to do with the formation of the tax roll other than to sit with the assessor as a board of review. The only recompense they will receive will be their per diem while sitting with the county board and this will be paid from the county treasury.

The entire administration of the city is to be vested in the board of five elective commissioners, and the appointive officers responsible to them, and it is in the selection of this commission that the main interest of the special election centers. The entrance of eleven candidates for the five commissionerships allows the voters some choice of selection and the filings include men representative of every interest in the town.
They are as follows: Charles Bradley, Wilson Leiter, H. S. Bristol, Richard Kean, E. C. Hathaway, A. G. Haslett, Charles Boone, Clarence Runner, Frank Merson, Matt Kelling, Charles Pears.

Candidates for other elective offices are: Supervisor, Theron D.
Childs, Harry Beck; Justices of the Peace, Al Charles, Rex Lamb; Constables, Ed. Mitchell, Fred French, E. C. McCollum.
Appointive officers are as follows: City clerk, city attorney, city treasurer, city health officer, city assessor, three election commissioners.

DR. CURTIS BACK FROM MAGIC LAND OF MIDNIGHT SUN

TELLS TALES OF FLOWERS AND ICEBERGS SIDE
BY SIDE.

Tales of temperatures nearly 90 in the shade beating down on huge ice streams a mile wide and 250 feet high were reported by Dr. and Mrs. Orville Curtis, who arrived at their home here Thursday evening after a trip of 8,000 miles by rail and water to the magic land of Alaska.

Dr. and Mrs. Curtis went as far as Skagway, at the foot of the Chilkoot Pass, famous in Klondike gold days. While they were there, the sun set at nearly midnight and rose about 3 a. m. and the temperature was about the same as at Buchanan. Due to the 20 or more hours of sunshine daily, vegetation progresses there with marvelous rapidity. Wheat of the finest quality and yield may be grown at altitudes of 3,000 feet, and the country waits only the construction of roads to the interior for immense development.

Dr. and Mrs. Curtis went for a ways up the historic Chilkoot Pass and also took a steamer trip to the foot of an immense glacier, which loomed 250 feet above the sea, and from which an immense iceberg broke during their presence.

At Skagway, a famous boom town of Klondike days, but now reduced to about 1200 population, they visited the grave of Soapy Smith, famous bandit of the gold rush days, and of his reputed slayer, Sheriff Reed.

The gorgeous display of flowers seen only in the short summer period of the near Arctic regions was out in full glory during their visit.

Portage St. Rail Moving Issue Not Dead Says Bristol

H. S. Bristol left Sunday for the upper peninsula for a vacation of two weeks at Manistique lake, where he will rest and recuperate his strength for the strenuous political campaign in which he is entered as candidate for city commissioner. Bristol has been the active leader in the movement to get the Michigan Central switch on South Portage moved to the middle of the street and states that the issue is far from dead and will be a factor in political campaign. He will be accompanying on his northern trip by his sister, Mrs. Belle Weikel, and by a friend Homer Hummiston, of Penn. Mich.

Extension on Rural Route 1 Effective Aug. 1

Rural mail Route No. 1, serving the county district north of Buchanan will be extended to include service to fifteen more homes, located below Moc-assin hill and in the neighborhood of the Brocous school. The extension is effective August 1st.
The line is served by Richard Schwartz, carrier.

The protracted period of dry hot weather which has been prevalent for the past few weeks in this district is seriously affecting farms and gardens and rain in the near future will be necessary to prevent more serious damage.
Corn hay, and potato crops are suffering most with the grain being nearly all matured. Still heat records for the summer were cheated Tuesday afternoon when local thermometers registered as high as 95 in the shade.

GEO. SLATER BROWN BLDG. PASSES AWAY MON. MORNING ALTERED FOR MODEL GARAGE

Was Born in Buchanan in 1853 of Pioneer
Family.

FRATERNAL LEADER

George Slater, 72, a life-long resident of Buchanan, and a leader in Berrien county fraternal activities, died Monday morning shortly after arriving at Pawating hospital, Niles.

He was born Nov. 25, 1856, in Buchanan in a house located on Main street on the site of the residence where Mrs. Florence Wooden now lives. His parents were Nathaniel Jennings Slater and Chidella Slater. The former came to Buchanan in 1855 with his father, Jeremiah Slater, clearing a homestead four miles west of town, near what is now known as Yellow Lake. The axe used by Jeremiah Slater in blazing the trail from Buchanan to his homestead is still a prize possession of his grand daughter, Nella Slater.

When George Slater was six months old the family moved to a home on Second Street, now known as Dewey avenue, and in 1874 they moved to the residence on East Front street where he died.

While a young man he learned the trade of painting and paper hanging which he followed for over 30 years, with the exception of a period spent in traveling. For a number of years he was employed by the Osborne and McCormick Harvester Companies, traveling over the entire United States as an expert assembler and tester of reapers and binders.

For the past 25 years he had been very active in the affairs of the Odd Fellow lodge, and had served for seventeen years as local District Deputy Grand Master.
In June of this year he was recommended to succeed himself in that position to round out 20 years in that service. He served as president of the Berrien County Odd Fellow Association during the first three years after its organization.
He was a charter member of the Buchanan encampment No. 169.
He was a student of Odd Fellow ceremonial and was recognized as one of the best authorities in Southern Michigan in such matters.

He continued in his painting and papering work until about two months ago when failing health necessitated his retirement. Two weeks ago he became seriously ill, but was not confined to his bed until the Saturday preceding his death.

Surviving relatives are two sisters, Mrs. S. A. Wood of Chicago, and Nella Slater with whom he had made his home. His mother had died in 1921, making her home with them until that time.

The funeral services will be held from the family home on Front street at 3 p. m., daylight saving time, Saturday, July 27. It will be under the auspices of Buchanan Odd Fellow Lodge No. 75, who will have complete charge.

Local Delegation See Hoekstra Mill

Messrs. Glenn Merrefield, Corby (Red), Griffith, and Joseph Hickey drove to Grand Rapids Monday night to witness the title go between Johnny Hoekstra, formerly of Buchanan and Berrien Springs, and Emmet Curcio of Muskegon, resulting in a knock out by the former in the fifth round. They report that the former Buchanan boy decisively proved his mastery over the challenger, as the result retained the state light-heavy weight. Curcio had previously scored a decision in a draw from Hoekstra.

At 12:40 Ford roadster, the property of the Russell Chevrolet Sales Co. was stolen last night from the vicinity of the carnival grounds on North Portage street.

Russell Chevrolet Sales to be on the First Floor in September.

KAWNEER FRONT

Will be one of the Largest and Best in Southern Michigan.

Alterations are now under way by Harry Brown on the Zinc Collar and Pad building in pursuance of plans to transform the first floor of that structure into one of the most complete automobile sales and service garages in southern Michigan, for the use of the Russell Chevrolet Company which will move in on the completion of the alterations in about 60 days.

The contract calls for installing of a Kawneer front of red brick across the Main street end and for a distance on the alley. This front will extend above the first story and will contain large plate glass windows across its entire extent. The building will be painted above the Kawneer front, and new windows installed on all sides of the first floor.

The area to be used by the Russell Chevrolet Sales comprises approximately 16,000 feet of floor space with storage for over 100 cars. The front of the area will be used for display rooms, stock room and office room. There will be a large display room accommodating seven new cars and another for the display of used cars, with a movable partition between. Two office rooms are also included in this area and a large stock room.
The ceiling is to be lowered, and large lights installed and colored cement floor laid throughout the entire front.

Immediately back of the display and office room will be a large steam heated storage room with accommodations for 75 cars. The service department will be placed in the rear room formerly occupied by the Ward Mail Box Co., which is equipped on all sides with steel and glass windows providing full daylight conditions. This department will provide further storage accommodations for about 30 cars and will be equipped with the most modern service equipment capable of handling 25 cars at a time.

This large area, and splendid equipment are indicative of the proportions obtained by the Chevrolet Sales under the direction of John Russell, who took charge two years ago last December. In size and appointments it will be unsurpassed by any garage in this section of Michigan and will be a most valuable addition to the automobile facilities of Buchanan.

The alteration contract has been let to W. J. Miller and will represent an expenditure estimated at $12,000.
The Russell Chevrolet Sales is a partnership and is owned by Chas. W. Landis and John Russell.

Harvest of 1929 Apple Crop Begins

The 1929 apple crop in the district north of Buchanan will need 50 per cent. in spite of an unusual heavy June drop, according to Frank Kinney, a leading fruit grower of the Mt. Tabor section. Kinney states that the percentage of crops is improved by the fact of the unusual heavy blossoming last spring. Northern Spies and Baldwins, both favorites among the old standard varieties, will produce 75 per cent of the crop. Thompson County Kings, another old favorite, is also producing well. Golden Delicious and Jonathans are bearing normal crops. The chief shortage in the Kinney orchard is in the Green-ings, which are almost barren of apples. The peach crop is not so good. Apples are bearing about 50 per cent normal, and peaches about 25 per cent normal. Several late varieties have a normal crop.

LOCAL STOCK WILL GO ON NEW YORK EXCHANGE SOON

Clark Company Acquires Sixty per Cent of Capital Stock of the Frost Gear & Forge Company of Jackson, Michigan

NEW BUSINESS FORCES EXPANSION

Plans for the further expansion of the business of the Clark Equipment Company were completed Friday night when negotiations were concluded for the sale of 40,000 shares of Clark Equipment Company common stock to Eastman, Dillon and Company, New York investment bankers.

The block of stock, represented in the transaction, was offered for subscription by Eastman, Dillon and Company Saturday morning and the entire issue was subscribed by investors by Monday night at a price of $57.00 a share.

The transaction indicates the beginning of an open corporation method of financing by the Clark Equipment Company, wherein the stock of the local company will become widely scattered over the country as opposed to the past method of financing whereby the company has built up its assets from re-invested earnings since 1903 to a value of approximately $10,000,000.

Coincident with the sale of the treasury stock, but unrelated to it in financing, was the announcement that the Clark Company has acquired 60 per cent of the common stock of the Frost Gear and Forge Company of Jackson, Michigan. The acquisition of the Frost stock was effected largely through a transfer of treasury common stock of the Clark Equipment company. The Frost Gear and Forge Company manufacture gears used by the local company for transmissions and axles. The local control of the Frost Company will make possible important manufacturing and selling economies, as well as assure a satisfactory supply of gears under all circumstances.

The present stock issue follows an issue of 10,000 shares subscribed by employees and stockholders in June and will be used for the expansion necessitated by new business.

A provision of the terms for the transfer of stock to Eastman, Dillon and Company is that the common stock of the Clark company hereafter be listed on a New York stock exchange. Plans have been matured to that end and the stock will have a New York listing as soon as practicable.

The business of the Clark Equipment Company has been rapidly expanding in the last few years and that of the Frost Gear and Forge Works has also shown a steady growth, while the net earnings of both companies have evidenced the results of progressive management.

The net profits of the Clark and Frost companies as certified by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse and Company for the period of four years ending Dec. 31, 1928 are:

Years ending Dec. 31	Clark	Frost
1925	$505,941.00	$54,116.00
1926	748,250.00	95,128.00
1927	798,241.00	151,653.00
1928	1,234,304.00	354,350.00

The 1928 net earnings of the Clark Equipment company and 60 per cent of the earnings of the Frost Gear and Forge Company applicable to dividends are the equivalent of $5.82 a share on 233,429 shares of Clark common stock which will be outstanding as a result of the expansion.

Net earnings of the Clark Company for the first six months of 1929 are the equivalent of $3.48 a share, an increase of 44 per cent. During the past two years the last half of the year has shown an increase over the preceding six months.

The treasury stock sold to New York interests is not the type of stock which has been sold to employees under the participating plan. The participating plan stock is preferred stock, of which $1,214,900 is outstanding.

Beginning Sept. 15th, the common stock of the Clark Equipment Company will be placed on a dividend basis of $3.00 annually. The common stock dividends have been steadily increasing in recent years. In 1927 a regular dividend of $1.20 a share and an extra dividend of $.80 a share were paid, while in 1928 the company paid a regular dividend of $1.60 and an extra dividend of $.90 making a total of $2.50.

The new business to be handled by the Clark Equipment Company will be created by expansion of the business along the present line of manufactured products made by the company.

The Clark Company showed a net valuation in tangible assets of $3,719,959, applicable to common stock on April 30, 1929, of which cash alone constituted $2,710,139. The indicated market value of the company's investments exceeds the book value by approximately $500,000.

Uses of Aluminum
Cooking utensils were made of aluminum as early as 1892. More than two hundred and fifty articles are made of pure metal and nearly as many more from its alloys.

The present rate of progress on the installation of the storm and sanitary sewers on Portage and Third streets, points to completion of both jobs by Aug. 10, barring unforeseen difficulties, according to A. E. Hipskind, foreman in charge.

The installation of the Front street-Central Court block on Portage street is progressing much more rapidly, due to the decrease in the flow of water. During the first part of the work the flow of water was much greater than at the time of the installation by Reid, since the force engaged in relaying the tile had the entire flow which accumulated in the tile above to deal with. Installation has now reached the point where the heaviest flow has been cut off.

"Life" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches on Sunday, July 1.

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "I said, my God, take me not away in the midst of my days: thy years are throughout all generations." Ps. 102:24.

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook: "Science and Health" with "Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. When being understood, Life will be recognized as neither material nor finite, but as infinite, as God, universal good; and the better that life, or mind, was ever in a finite form, or good in evil, will be destroyed." (p. 76.)

An All-Cable Toll Line Added to Network Linking Eastern Seaboard With Middle West

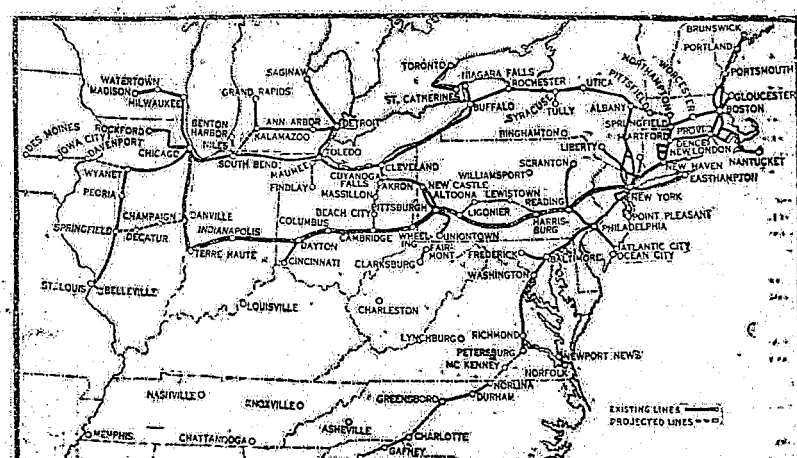

Aerial Cable Entrance at Repeater Station

Cable Crossing Mountainous Country

Cable Span Across Muskingum River

Showing Aerial Cable Development Connecting Eastern Seaboard with Middle West

By JOHN B. O'BRIEN

A second all-cable telephone line has been completed between Pittsburgh and the Middle West. With the all-cable line already in service, passing through the states of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, the New York States route and the its cables already in operation, this new cable augments a network which offers a multiplicity of routes between the eastern seaboard and the Middle West, over which the voice may travel.

Telephone traffic between the east and points in the Middle West has grown to such an extent within the past few years as to make necessary the construction of these additional circuits which have the added advantages of being practically foolproof, thus providing a service that is satisfactory, rapid and dependable at all seasons of the year. The reduction in rates for long distance messages that year has also been a contributing cause to the greater use of this service, especially in the world of business.

From Pittsburgh the new cable runs to Wheeling and thence to Cambridge, Newark, Columbus, Springfield and Dayton. It then runs to Indianapolis and Chicago, where it connects by cable to Chicago. Ultimately this part of the route from Pittsburgh to Terre Haute will be extended across Illinois and provide a shorter and more direct all-cable route between eastern points and St. Louis.

The total length of the Pittsburgh-Terre Haute cable where connection is made with Chicago is approximately 454 miles. The construction project was completed within a period of fourteen months. The cable contains 54,580 miles of sixteen-gauge, 180,113 miles of nineteen-gauge, and 1,819 miles of twenty-two-gauge conductors, a total of 236,512 conductor miles, or 113,256 pair miles. The weight of the cable is approximately 18,738,975 pounds, or 9,394 tons. The loading coils required to load the first and second complements required 784 loading coil cases weighing approximately 1,950,560 pounds, or 930 tons.

At one point about six miles north of Zanesville, O., an exceptionally long span of 635 feet was required across the Muskingum River. As the river bed was not considered satisfactory for the maintenance of submarine cables, it became necessary to design an aerial long span with special self-supporting towers made of galvanized steel and capable of withstanding a horizontal strain of 53 tons without guying. These towers are 30 feet in height, 30 feet square at the base and weigh approximately 16 tons. Each tower is mounted on four reinforced concrete piers and they are capable of carrying twenty wires and three cables required for the future.

FIRST CABLE TO THE WEST

It was in 1925 that the first New York-Chicago aerial cable was opened for service. On August 11 of that year the last splice was made and a few weeks later, the longest telephone cable in the world was in operation, followed by the completion of an extension of that line the next year from Chicago to St. Louis. It passes from New York over the Orange Mountains in New Jersey to Reading, Pa., and thence southward to Shippensburg, and then climbs the Alleghenies on its way to Pittsburgh where it swings northward once more through New Castle and Cleveland to Toledo, from which point it runs almost due west to Chicago. Seven years were required for the construction of the cable.

Then, in 1927, another link was opened in the fall of the year, when the New York State route was completed. The New York-Cleveland link, 649 miles in length, runs first to Paterson, N. J., and thence by way of Southfield to Newburgh where it follows the Hudson River to Albany and proceeds along the route of the Erie Canal through Utica, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo, whence it skirts Erie, touching at Fredonia, Erie and Geneva (Ohio) before reaching Cleveland.

The completion of these aerial cables represents one of the most important telephone developments of recent years, as these cables are virtually free from storm damage, and particularly from steel storms. They also provide a faster and more uniform, and dependable service between the East and the Middle West.

known as the Stryker home on River street, and from there they moved to the present home on Oak street.

Mr. Barnes was one of the organizers, and a charter member of the Buchanan Lodge No. 388 Modern Woodmen of America. A number of years ago he united with the Adventist church. In addition to his widow, he is survived by four sons: Grover C. of Janesville, Wis.; Willard J. and Howard F. of Niles, and Pearl of South Bend. Several grandchildren also other relatives and a host of friends.

ED. ZWERGEL, MANAGER MICH. BELL EXPIRES

WAS IN CHARGE OF THE NILES DISTRICT FOR 31 YEARS.

The many local friends of Edward Zwergel of Niles, long-time manager of the Michigan Bell for this district, heard with deep regret of his sudden death, Friday evening at his home at 520 Sycamore street, Niles.

The cause of death was cerebral hemorrhaging with which he was stricken as he arose from the supper table that evening. He had long suffered from ill health and was known to have been in grave physical condition, which necessitated his resignation from the active management of the district last winter. Due to his long and valuable service the special position of sales manager was then created for him.

He was born in Niles, February 19, 1879, being only 50 years old at the time of his death. At the age of 16 years he entered the employ of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company as lineman. He later became night operator and for a period he doubled as lineman and night operator, until at the age of 21 he was named as manager of the Niles district, in which position he continued until January 1st, of the present year.

Both in his business and in his varied social connections he possessed to an unusual degree the talent of making friends and his death deprived the community of one of its best loved citizens. He was especially active in Masonic activities and had acted as sponsor of the Niles chapter of DeMolay. He was president with the successful development of that organization and listed among his most prize possessions, a medal awarded to him in recognition of his services by the grand council of the DeMolay eighteen months ago. The Niles-Buchanan DeMolay chapter attended his funeral in a body. The funeral was held Monday afternoon from the Methodist church of which he was a member of the official board at the time of his death. The funeral of Niles was in charge of the services and Rev. O. G. Gratton, former pastor of Niles, now located at Muskegon Heights, preached the sermon.

He is survived by a widow and two children, Jeannette, who is a member of the office force of the Clark Equipment Company plant and Edward, a college student who had been called home by his father's illness.

Mrs. Mary Paul Dies Friday of Paralytic Stroke

Mrs. Mary Jane Paul, 78, died Friday, July 19, at her home 509 N. Main street as the result of an attack of paralysis of the throat, six days before. Mrs. Paul was born near Warsaw, Kosciusko county, Indiana, Sept. 7, 1850, the daughter of John and Sarah Murphy. At the age of 14 years she came with the family to the vicinity of Buchanan settling on a farm joining the present Ray Travis farm, southeast of Baker town. She was married to Geo. C. Paul and moved later to Peoria, Ill., where she lived for 20 years. About twenty years ago she returned with her husband to Buchanan. Mr. Paul died four years ago, and since that time she has lived alone at the home where she died, with the exception of parts of each winter spent in Florida or Chicago.

She is survived by two brothers, David Murphy of Buchanan, and Will Murphy of Urbana, Ill.; by one half brother, I. C. Murphy of Sterling, Kansas; by two sons, Harry G. Paul, professor in the University of Illinois, and George Paul, teacher in the Chicago college.

The funeral was held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday from the family home on North Main street. Rev. H. W. Staver preaching the funeral sermon. Burial was made at Oak Ridge cemetery.

Slow But Sure Wins Egg Laying Contest

A hen owned by the Munja Garden Poultry farms, Bangor, has laid an egg each day for the last 105 days in the egg laying contest being conducted by the Michigan State college but this bird is not among the 10 high hens for production in the contest.

The egg laying race began last November and the best producer at the last report was a hen owned by George H. Freeman, of Middletown, Ohio, which has laid 221 eggs. A new system of book-keeping which compels a hen to put in a full day's work by laying a full sized egg cuts down the honors given to this bird because when points are awarded by the weight system the Freeman hen is not the leader.

The manager of the contest states that buyers pay a lower price for undersized eggs and that the reason for laying contests is to encourage the breeding of high producing fowls which will lay the type of eggs in demand by consumers.

Michigan Gasoline Tax Revenue to Be $23,000,000

Michigan's gasoline tax revenue for 1929 will exceed $23,000,000 in the opinion of Burton F. Browne, director of the gasoline tax division of the department of state. Last year's receipts, the highest on record, amounted to $20,200,000.

The first five months of the current year show a total of $8,244,127 with the heaviest traffic months yet to come. May's total, far in excess of that for May, 1928, was $1,965,293, net. The increase in revenue from this source has been remarkable since a gasoline tax was first resorted to as a means of financing highway construction and maintenance.

A two-cent levy was established in 1925, netting during that year $8,742,391. The present tax is three cents a gallon.

The second $2,000,000 installment of weight tax funds collected by the state during 1929 was sent out to the various counties during the past week. A third payment of the same amount is to be made later in the year and some funds will probably also be returned to the counties from the gasoline tax receipts, it was said by Frank D. Fitzgerald, business manager of the state highway department.

The law provides that $6,000,000 shall be distributed among the counties from the weight tax funds and sufficient additional paid out to make the counties share a full half of the weight levy collected each year. The distribution is on the basis of the amount paid in the purchase of license plates by motorists, each county benefiting in direct proportion to the number of licensed automobiles owned within its borders. Wayne county, of course, gets the lion's share of the funds, the Wayne allotment of the recent $2,000,000 payment being $813,589.

Rural Women Meet At State College

While preliminary meetings for Farm Women's week at Michigan State College will be held the preceding Saturday and Sunday, the business sessions start at 8:30 a. m. July 29 and continue until 7:30 p. m. August 1.

Music and entertainment features have been given a prominent place among the events which have been selected by the program committee. Members of the college teaching staff will give lectures on chemistry, bird life, physical education, research problems and science and religion.

The home economics extension staff is the sponsor for Farm Women's Week and many of the members of the extension staff will appear on the program. Webster H. Pearce, state superintendent of Public Instruction, and Miss Grace Frysinger, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, are two of the speakers who will address meetings during the week.

Visitors during the week will be free to attend Farmers Day, Aug. 2, and the week concludes with a banquet for women at Hunts Food Shop, Friday evening at 6:30. Awardees of medals to the Five Master Farm Homemakers chosen in Michigan this year will be presented at the banquet.

Methodists Prepare to Attend Camp Meeting

A number of Buchanan Methodists are preparing to attend the annual camp meeting which will open tomorrow on the Crystal Springs grounds between Niles and Dowagiac.

Meetings are scheduled to open July 26 and end August 4, out it is likely that many will remain after the latter date for further outing. The first two days will be devoted to programs under the auspices of the District Epworth League Institute, which will hold a Field Day and basket picnic supper tomorrow afternoon. The speakers at this institute will be Rev. Marshall Reid of Ypsilanti, and Rev. Stanley Niles of Dowagiac.

The camp meeting proper will open Sunday, July 28, at 10:30 a. m. with Rev. O. A. Newlin of Winona Lake, Ind., in charge.

MOVIES

Rin Tin Tin, at the name every boy and girl becomes eager, and usually shouts, is here tonight and tomorrow in his latest picture, "The Million Dollar Collar." The story tells how he got it and earned it too, with his uncanny intelligence and human understanding of what is said to him.

This evening a big surprise awaits both the youngsters and the older boys and girls, in the magic of LaRoyal, the great magician. Through lucky circumstances, LaRoyal and his company chose to rest in this part of Michigan and Manager Homer P. Morley persuaded him to give Buchanan a treat at the Princess. He will make it a real lesson in how to do your own tricks, making things appear and disappear without apparent cause.

Buster Keaton, the irrepressible clown, will entertain the Saturday crowds with the picture of "Steamboat Bill, Jr., in which he will have a chance to do a lot of new athletic stunts. He never seems to exhaust his fund of rolicking capers.

In great contrast will be Lois Wilson. In the society comedy, "Object-Allimony," Sunday night Mary divorce court magistrates have protested vigorously against "marrying for alimony," so prevalent nowadays, and this picture helps to understand the situation, its sordid evils and a possible cure Bill Cody, rather new to Buchanan, will race with the pack in "The Wolves of the City," Monday night. It's an adventure with the most deadly and sinister of elements of great city life, and makes a thrilling evening, with the third chapter of "The Diamond Master," in which Hayden Stevenson is the hero who circumvents the machinations of an unprincipled diamond merchant who stops at neither torture nor murder. Stevenson is the cox in "The Collegians," whose fourth series is running at the Princess Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. Richard Barthelmess closes the great July program with "Scarlet Seas," two days. Dick has graduated into heavy drama, and is making a big success of his latest pictures. This one has the dash and lawlessness of the sea in it.

AMY LYON

Amy Lyon was born in Leonidas, Mich., Nov. 11th, 1868 and passed to her heavenly home on July 15, 1929, aged 60 years, 8 months and 4 days. She was the second of 12 children born to Melvin J. and Nancy J. Lyon.

The father passed away in March of 1899, and three brothers and one sister also preceded her to the Great Beyond, one having died in infancy, and Marvin at the age of 16, Archie at the age of 42 and Gladys, the youngest, a nurse, aged 27, who sacrificed her life in the World War.

Amy, as she was familiarly known by her many friends, united with the Methodist church at the age of 18, at Lakeside, Mich., under the pastorate of Rev. Isaiah Wilson.

When the family moved to Galien, she transferred her membership to that church and there she taught a class of boys in the Sunday School for a period of 10 years, during which time the class had grown so large that it was deemed necessary to divide it. The high esteem and warm friendship which was established in this relationship, has continued through the many years, and "the boys," who are now heads of families, and are in responsible places of business and professional life, attribute much credit of their success to their faithful teacher of years ago.

One of her great desires was to be able to attend public worship, but since she was denied this privilege she carried the cross with a smile and continued a faithful and devout member to the end.

AVIATION FAN AT 104

Patrick Vizzard of Cleveland, Ohio, is one hundred and four years old, but is still an ardent horticulturalist and aviator. Mr. Vizzard expects to live until he's one hundred and fifty. He takes a drink whenever he gets a chance, he says frankly, and is a lover of cigarettes.

Her severe affliction in early childhood and her many serious illnesses of later years have all been borne with the same characteristic cheer and happy smile.

Her friends often marveled at the fortitude manifested and the continued presence of the radiant smile, even in and during her most severe suffering.

She is survived by the mother, Nancy J. Lyon, two sisters and five brothers as follows: Mrs. Martin Mann of Buchanan, Chas. H. of Galien, Wm. F. of Dowagiac, Jerry D. of Owosso, Otto J. of St. Petersburg, Fla., Melvin B. of Mishawaka, and Lulu Lyon, nurse, at present stationed at the Military Academy at Culver, Ind. Besides the brothers and sisters there are many nieces and nephews and hosts of other relatives and friends who will miss the welcome smile of the departed, chiefly among these we make mention of Helen, who was reared in the home and whose relationship was more nearly akin to a sister than a niece.

Funeral services were held on July 17, at 2:30 p. m. at the M. E. church and in the absence of the pastor, Rev. H. Liddicoat, the Rev. W. Maylan Jones, former pastor of Lansing, conducted the services.

"One Sweetly Solemn Thought" was beautifully sung by Mrs. Wessler and Mrs. Jennings. Mrs. Garrett Wisner accompanied on the pipe organ.

The pall bearers were Arthur, Marvin and Jerry Mann and Lester, Ross and Russell Lyon, all nephews of the deceased. Interment was made in the family lot at Galien, Mich.

Truly in the life of our departed sister was demonstrated the full meaning of the words: "Here for all your talent you may surely find a need, Here reflect the bright and morning star."

Even from your humble hand the bread of life may feed, Brighten the corner where you are."

Common Stock, No Par Value (including this offering)	250,000 shs.*	233,428 shs.

*Unissued shares reserved for acquisition of minority interest outstanding in Frost Gear & Forge Co. common stock.

The following is summarized from and subject to a letter of Eugene B. Clark, President:

HISTORY AND BUSINESS Started in a small way at Buchanan, Michigan, in 1903, this business has grown, largely out of reinvested earnings, to a net worth today of about $10,000,000.

The company, directly or through wholly owned subsidiaries, is engaged chiefly in the manufacture and sale of automotive parts, including axles, wheels, brakes, and transmissions. The company also makes twist drills for use by a great variety of industries, and through its subsidiary, Clark Tractor Co., manufactures gasoline propelled industrial haulage vehicles for use in large manufacturing plants, railroad terminals, and yards.

We have recently arranged to acquire a controlling interest, amounting to 60%, in the common stock of Frost Gear & Forge Company, Jackson, Michigan. A closer affiliation between the two companies will assure us under all conditions a satisfactory supply of gears for our transmissions, and make possible important manufacturing and selling economies.

CUSTOMERS In the automotive field we sell one or more of our axle, wheel, brake, or transmission products to nearly every truck builder in this country and to many large passenger car builders, including:

Chrysler Nash
General Motors Reo
Graham-Paige Studebaker
International Harvester Willys-Overland

Our gasoline propelled industrial haulage vehicles are sold to a large majority of the railroads, steel plants, and other industries where heavy materials are moved within the confines of the plant.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE The company will receive the entire proceeds of this offering of stock, together with the proceeds of the 10,000 additional shares of common stock recently subscribed by stockholders and employees. These funds are for use in connection with new business on the books and under negotiation.

EARNINGS Net earnings after deducting all charges including federal taxes at the present rate of 12%, certified by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., in the case of Clark Equipment Company for the period of four years ending December 31, 1928 and in the case of Frost Gear & Forge Co. for the year 1928, are as follows:

YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31	CLARK	FROST	COMBINED
1925	$505,941	$54,116*	$560,057
1926	748,230	95,128*	843,358
1927	798,241	151,653*	949,894
1928	1,234,304	354,350	1,588,654

*Company figures unaudited.

Such net earnings in 1928, after deducting the annual dividend requirement of $93,781 on preferred stocks outstanding, and including only earnings applicable to 60% of the common stock of Frost Gear & Forge Co., aggregate $1,358,650, equivalent to $5.82 per share on 233,428 shares of Clark Equipment Company common stock to be outstanding.

Net earnings on the same basis for the 6 months ended June 30, 1929, first 4 months audited and last 2 months company figures, were equivalent to $3.48 per share, compared with $2.41 per share in the same period of 1928, an increase of 44%. In each of the last 2 years net profits of the last 6 months of the year have exceeded those of the first 6 months.

The foregoing figures reflect no benefit whatever from the proceeds of this financing.

ASSETS AND FINANCIAL CONDITION Audited balance sheet at April 30, 1929, giving effect to present financing, but without reappraisals, shows net tangible assets of $8,719,959 applicable to the common stock, equivalent to $37.36 per share. Cash alone equals $2,770,139, equivalent to over $11.61 per share. Current ratio exceeds 5 to 1. The indicated market value of the company's investments exceeds their book value by approximately $500,000.

DIVIDENDS The common stock will be put on a dividend basis of $3.00 per share per annum payable 75c quarterly, first payment September 15. The common stock is fully paid and non-assessable. Dividends are exempt from present normal Federal Income Tax.

Price $57.00 Per Share

This offering is made subject to allotment or prior sale and in all respects when, as and if issued and accepted by us, and subject to approval, as to legalities, of Messrs. Cutting, Moore & Sidley for the Bankers and Messrs. Knapp & Campbell for the Company.

Compensation of Self Denial.
"It is worth all the self-denial of a lifetime to be able to have a wife's life saved by the best medical attention, for it is halycon for old people to linger long together."

Here is a bit of sentiment from the pen of Col. W. G. Sibley. It appeared in the columns he writes for the Chicago Journal of Commerce, a paper devoted to news in the world of commerce, finance and industry. In Col. Sibley's column there appears at frequent intervals many beautiful sentiments as he comments on life. They have been recognized as valuable and have helped make his column a popular feature in that business man's newspaper.

He has written repeatedly of his experiences, when he adopted business ideals in his own life, decided to save money, discharge his debts and assume the task of accumulating a little fortune. In his delightfully frank manner he has told of the difficulties encountered in conforming to the budget plan adopted, when that new plan of action was started during middle life. In the quotation above he refers to the result made possible after some decades of thrifty adherence to the budget plan, when his savings had developed a measure of importance of which he never dreamed. It was shown when Mrs. Sibley was stricken with a serious illness and a long stay in the hospital, with much surgery and special medical care, was necessary. Under those conditions the savings had human and sentimental as well as financial importance. They insured all the special care his partner in life required and their expenditure made possible complete restoration to health.

There's a lesson for all readers in the comments Col. Sibley makes on self-denial and prudent preparation for the unexpected but inevitable experiences that come when years have been increased. Not always are men so fortunate as Col. Sibley, not all homes have the safeguard of a fund to meet emergencies, not all men and women have practiced self denial and observed the value of a budget plan in their financial affairs. In the little text from the pen of the courageous and cheerful philosopher one may read a thrilling story, learn anew the compensation of self-denial and the practical lesson of preparedness in life.

Vice President at Home.
The vice president of the United States, Charles Curtis, has gone to his home in Topeka, to spend his vacation with Kansas friends who have insisted on keeping him in office most of the time during the last 40 years. It doesn't make the slightest difference to friends how he traveled on the journey home. If he wanted to ride as a plain passenger in the Pullman, that would be all right. From the time his friends elected him prosecuting attorney, he has been known as Charlie, and Charlie he remains to this day. They helped give him the honor of a congressman, then senatorial honors were supplied, and they found joy in helping him win the vice presidency. Through it all to the old friends he has been Charlie Curtis, never a poser or pretender, just a good, dependable friend and office holder.

Kansas had a real representation in the senate when Charlie Curtis and Arthur Capper were the senators. They were unlike but each represented Kansas and her people. They won all honors for popular favor. Capper carried every county in the state in one election and the men who tried to run against Curtis never reached first base. The two were perfectly safe when their claims for another term were submitted to the people of the Sunflower State. Not many men in public life ever won and retained the friendly confidence of the voters as these men have. Each knew privation and hard work in youth, each had to fight his way and was willing to do it. Success did not change them. They remain Charlie and Arthur.

The vice president will miss many familiar faces in this circle of old friends. The children of those with him in his first campaign are there to greet him, showing friendship inherited and developed. There will be a real welcome for the vice president, but it will include the welcome for the friend who has served them so well for many years, plain, good-natured Charlie Curtis.

Al Smith Up to Now.
Democrats and others will be interested in the title of the forthcoming autobiography by former Gov. Al Smith. It is "Up to Now." This means that there is something ahead in the judgment of the writer. It indicates that he has not crawled into his political hole, dearly as some of his fellow partisans would have it so, and that he is looking forward.

We have an idea that the former governor's story of his life will be a most interesting volume and if he chooses to take his readers into his confidence by telling them what are his big ideas of what is beyond the now, it will be all the more interesting.

Autobiography is of course a different proposition from biography, for it is not always easy for an individual to tell the truth and all the time about himself. He may be too modest, or he may have an exaggerated idea of his own importance. But the reader of an autobiography can at least have the assurance that the writer knows what he is talking about.

Former Gov. Smith is one of the outstanding figures of our times. He is a distinctive product of our efforts at self-government and an exemplar of it. He would perhaps have been possible in no other age and possibly in no other country. He is truly American and his forthcoming work will be of profound historic value.

Rockefeller's Greatest Accomplishment.
Many interesting stories about John D. Rockefeller, Sr., were written when he had the novel experience of celebrating his 90th birthday, hale and hearty, ready for his regular round of golf, able to meet his family at dinner and share in the pleasures of the day. While 90 years have been reached by other men, many are broken at that age, only a few retain their physical and mental powers so largely as Mr. Rockefeller has been able to do.

His happy condition is the result of the use of his iron will, exercised over a long term of years, in perfect obedience to his personal physician and intimate friend, the late Dr. Hamilton F. Biggar of Cleveland. In the midst of his wonderful adventure as the world's greatest oil merchant his health failed. The burden he was carrying was an overload for the nerves in his frail body. Inability to digest food threatened his life. The order of his physician was to hand over the burden to others, free himself from all responsibilities, change from business to play, turn from oil to give all his time, energies and thought to the single problem of health restoration.

Not many men could have made the change, when prospects were alluring, habits established from years of use, and human ambition fully developed. Most men are slaves of habit. Only one of iron will can change from work to play in middle life and survive. It means the making over of one's entire life, a task that will test the fiber of the strongest soul. Turn to the men you have known who retired because of age or physical condition and you will see most men break in idleness, find life has little to interest them; they droop, suffer and die.

It was not so with the elder Rockefeller. He made the change and has found health restored. For nearly four decades he has not been living life as he planned. In youth he was strong enough to adjust his plans to physical conditions and has found life, as it was possible for him to live it, rich, satisfactory and filled with pleasures. In any complete estimate of his accomplishments the fact that he was able to make over his life must be counted as one of the greatest. Dr. Biggar told him he could do it. He knew the fiber of the man, the strength of his will, the quiet courage he possessed. As the veteran oil merchant watches the evening shadows gather he can say with Longfellow:

And, as the evening twilight fades away,
The sky is filled with stars, invisible by day.

He ruled the oil world for years, won the mastery, but his victory over self was infinitely the greater accomplishment.

Another sad time in the life of the man who is trying to look 10 or 15 years younger than he really is comes when there isn't enough hair left to brush straight back from the forehead and have it cover the ground, so to speak.

Yes, it's the manner more than the words and a woman can refer to a person of her own sex as that female in a way to make it sound as if the lady spoken of might have been personally responsible for the fall of Babylon.

Probably the only real difference between the young people of today and those of 30 or 35 years ago is that in our time we didn't have our photographs taken in affectionate attitudes, in the hammock for instance.

We have our moments of depression, especially when crossing the street on foot, when we wouldn't care if gasoline had never been discovered.

Whatever kind of tires we have on our car at any given time, the advertisement of how absolutely dependable they are always surprises us.

Our personal taste in small boys runs to the kind that has to be sent back at least twice to wash his neck and ears before going to school.

We hardly know whether to go in for aviation, driving our own plane, or to wait to be killed by an automobile in the conventional way.

Another pretty important thing to do in this glorious machine age, in addition to making a will, is to buy a lot in the cemetery.

Middle age is that period in a man's life when he is willing to do anything the doctor says except quit smoking.

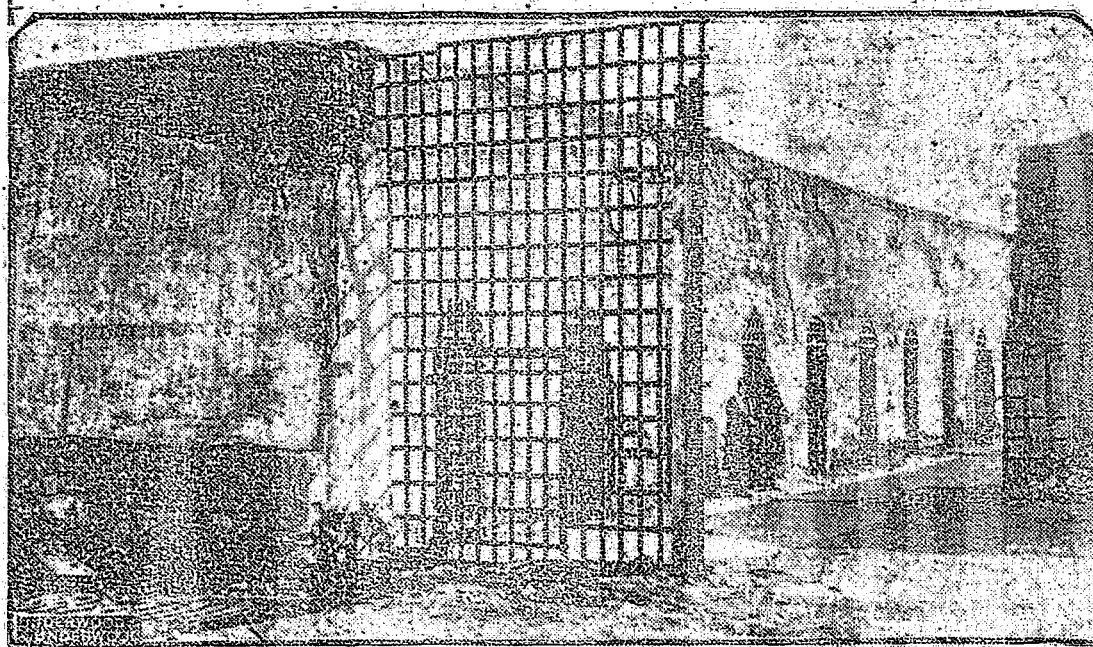

We often wonder what becomes of the thorns in the beds of roses the poets talk about lying in.

Another thing middle age probably will never become accustomed to is bananas by the pound.

When his friends point out that he is still a young man, he isn't, very.

Let us be air-minded but, if possible, not lighter than air-minded.

TELEPHONE FIRST-AID TRAINING SAVES LIFE

Telephone workers who take the First Aid course offered throughout the Bell System, often have the opportunity of using the knowledge thus obtained to save human lives right outside the realm of their regular duties. They are always alert and always ready to give aid when necessary.

Herbert C. Murphy, a Boston installer, was at work in an apartment house in Roxbury, Mass., when the jauter of the building called his attention to a strong odor of illuminating gas in another apartment. Upon investigation, a woman was found on the floor in the kitchen. She was unconscious and not breathing, and the room was full of gas. After shutting off the gas, opening the windows and calling for an ambulance, the installer gave the woman artificial respiration for about ten minutes, when she started to breathe faintly. She was later removed to the hospital, but if it had not been for the First Aid knowledge on the part of the telephone installer, her life would not have been saved.

1500 Michigan Boys Attend Camp Denby

Between 1,400 and 1,500 young Americans living in Michigan are now in one of Michigan's two training camps, Camp Edwin Denby, near Battle Creek, or Fort Brady, near Sault Ste. Marie. Both of these camps opened on Friday, July 19, and many of the young men arrived in camp on Thursday, the day before it opened.

With the beginning of these two camps it is apparent the training the young men will receive will be of material benefit to them during the balance of their lives, in war and in peace. The training schedules is so arranged that mornings will be devoted to lectures on subjects of great interest and benefit to every young man, rich or poor, military tactics and duty as a citizen. The afternoons will be devoted to athletics under experienced coaches. Every kind of an athletic game will have a place on the daily afternoon program. Prizes and trophies will be awarded to those who excel in the various athletic events, and six Michigan colleges will award

School nurse says all girls should know this

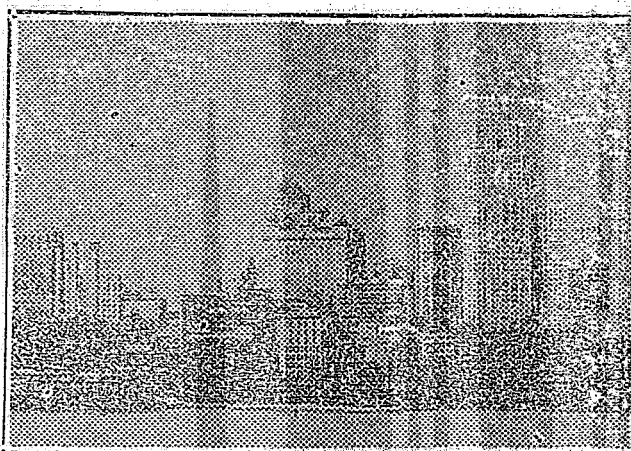

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or cramping. Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every drugist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine scholarships to the trainees who excel in proficiency while in camp. Last, but not least, the war department will present marksmanship badges. Every C. M. T. C. trainee will have an opportunity to qualify for one of these badges on the rifle range. Officers and men alike in the regular army value these badges of distinction very highly. They can be worn on a uniform all the time, the same as war service badges.

Every young man from Michigan, now in camp, has passed a rigid physical examination and he is now physically fit to carry on until the end of camp, on August 17, providing he behaves himself, and conducts himself as a gentleman. No trainee will be sent home before the end of camp if he conducts himself in a proper manner. Camp Edwin Denby has a staff of experienced regular army officers who are veterans of not only the World war but some of them many other wars, and who have grown gray in the service of their country. The staff consists of: Col. Alvin C. Gillem, commanding officer; Col. E. M. Goodrich, camp executive officer; Captain T. C. Beck, camp adjutant; First Lieutenant Sam E. Adair, personnel adjutant and headquarters supply officer; Col. Rodney, inspector, provost, and fire marshal and prison officer; Major H. W. Strucky, camp medical officer; Major C. Thomas-Stahle, director of training; First Lieutenant J. J. Canros, mess officer; First Lieutenant L. Hoyt Rockafellow, range officer; First Lieutenant L. F. Connell, finance officer; Captain J. M. Gray, camp supply officer; Captain McKee, athletic officer.

The daily program at both camps will begin at reveille, the first call of which will be sounded at 4:40 a. m., with reveille at 6 a. m. Breakfast will be served at 6:30 a. m., luncheon at 12 noon, and dinner at 5:30 p. m. On Saturday mornings there will be no drill, but the weekly inspection of quarters will be held instead.

Speed Stressed In Aerial Mail Delivery Service

The desire of both air transport operators and the public for a great speed in the dispatch of air mail has caused three distinct changes in flying equipment in less than three years, says the American Air Transport association.

Motors and planes which were adequate to handle the postage finding its way into the cockpit in 1926 were obsolete twelve months later. Planes and engines which were capable of lifting and carrying the loads last year are now giving way to planes with even greater speed and carrying capacity. The 35 and 90 mile an hour craft which once served have been replaced by planes which fly 1650 pounds of mail at better than 135 miles an hour.

The Association quotes history to show that air mail in three years has progressed further than the railroads in the first decade. Mail was first carried by steam roads in 1834 and so fearsome were the railroad operators that loss in transit would result that the latter demanded that "all bids for the carrying of mail stipulate that the post office department reduce the required rate of speed to eleven miles an hour."

The Old Timer's Corner

Pets of his Youth Recalled by Old Timer this Week

I have been thinking today, of some of the pets that we had on the farm. Pets are wonderful things to make an outlet for the love and fellowship that is stored up in a person, and it shows what you are made of. I sometimes think that some people are not "human" at all. They don't seem to care for even a good dog or horse or anything and hardly show any love or devotion to their human friends, even. Such people are to be pitied, I think. They are just what they were made to be, of course, but there is such a comfort and a satisfaction in being good to some one or something that it just seems to me that they are missing a whole lot.

The first "pet" I knew much about was an old horse that we called "Jack." He is a small horse, but very sturdy, and had long ears, as though he had been related, in some manner, to a jackass. Hence, his name. But Jack was a lovable old cuss, and would wait for the kids to pile on his back, as many as could find room to ride, and if one happened to slide off over his neck or his tail, he would stop and wait for him to get "steady" again. If you fell in front of him he would pick up his feet gingerly so as not to step on any of the kids. Never needed a bridle, just a halter perhaps, or a light tap on the neck to "steer" him the way you wanted to go. He was a dark bay in color and round and sleek, and was a middle aged horse when I was a kid. He was brought to the farm, they tell me, when he was little more than a colt, and used to come in at the open kitchen door for his lump of sugar, which Mother or some of the kids would always find for him. He was very trustworthy, and was a sort of "family horse" for all purposes. When the Aid society would meet at our house, as it often did, to make quilts and things for the church funds, Mother would hitch up Jack to the spring wagon to take the ladies home, and he seemed to know as well as any of them just where to go. When Jack got so old he could hardly get up and down, to sleep etc., he was given the freedom of the place. He never would step on the flowers or eat things that were forbidden him. But he did get into the oats one day and ate too much for his own good and was "foudered." His feet grew out big and flat and he was stiff in the legs and was practically helpless. So it fell to my lot, along with Art, my brother, to take Jack out in the "ten acre field" and shoot him. That was the hardest thing I ever had to do. In fact I didn't do it. Art finally shot the poor old fellow. We dug a grave for him, right at the foot of an old walnut tree, and stood him up along side of it. He looked at us so helplessly and with those kind old eyes of his, that seemed to wonder what was going on and what we wanted of him, any way. We both cried and tried to get the other to do the dirty work; we even drew straws as many as a dozen times, trying to decide which one should fire the shot. Finally I rebelled entirely, and said that as long as Art was older than I was, he would have to do it if it was done and so I turned away and Art shot the poor old fellow. Horses, like people, get old and helpless and sometimes I think it would be a blessing if people could be humanely retired, in some way, so they wouldn't have to be a burden to others and rid them of a lot of torment.

We had an old hen on the farm, too. Her name was "Jake." She had been a chicken that had hatched out too early to be allowed to roam around out of doors, and so was raised, more or less, around the kitchen stove. When she was a little chick, she was very large for her age and a jet black in color, and some one decided that Jake was a rooster, so she was named Jake. But she turned out to be a different sort of a chicken but she always was called Jake just the same. When she grew older and mingled with her kind she never forgot her early training, and would follow us around, all over the place and "caw-caw-caw" to us and tilt her head to one side and watch for a little attention and affection from any of us kids. When she had a "litter" of little chicks she would often bring them down to the back door and talk to us about them and try to make us understand that they were hers and that we ought to love them also. She was nearly human.

Then there was "Carlo," a curly brown water-spaniel, the best pal a boy ever had. He liked the water, of course, and was in his glory when we would let him go swimming with us. No play was too rough for him, when the kids harnessed him up to the cart and made him pull us around. He would seem to know that it was his job to entertain the kids and so he would stand and look so pathetically at us while we used him for a horse. He wasn't much good on the farm, for the cattle etc., he was afraid of them, when they chased him, but we had a regular farm dog, for that purpose. He was a shepherd and while he wasn't so much of a pet, he was very gentle and kind to all of us, but he didn't like to play with the kids as old Carlo did.

When I was about 5 or 6 years old my uncle, George Witter, gave me a lamb. He was a sturdy little fellow and we kept him separated from the other sheep, and he grew to be very tame. But when he grew older, he was turned in with the other sheep. One day we wanted to take him out of the herd and mother told me to go and get him and put him in the shed. I tried to, but the bugger had decided that he was a regular sheep, and he didn't want to be herded off by himself and so he chased me out of the pasture. I told Art about it and he tried to get him out, also with the same result. So mother said she would show us that "Ram" as we called him, would remember her, and she went out and called him, and he came after her, head down, and literally knocked her thru a barbed-wire fence. I was up in a tree and Art was over in the lane, a good safe distance away, to see how mother would get the Ram out of the pasture. We helped her to the house and "Uncle Doc" had to come and pat her up, from the scratches and bruises. So Ram, never was much of a "pet" after that.

We had wild birds that came every year and built their nests in the same trees and were so tame that they didn't mind us at all. One family of wrens came every year in the pear tree at the back door. The cats, and we usually had a dozen or so of them, learned that they belonged to the place and didn't bother them at all. Pets are a part of the home life of all farmer kids, and rightly they should be. It gives the boys and girls an outlet for their affections and teaches them many of the things about animals that they should know. They learn these things along with the nature of trees and plants and fruits and flowers, and they all blend into one harmonious whole that makes for a natural education that can not be obtained thru books or schooling. So let the boys and girls have all the pets they want and help them to understand them. It will all help them to understand people when the time comes for them to do so.

OLD TIMER.

24 Hour Air Line Detroit to California To Start in October

Stout Air Service division of United Aircraft and Transport Corporation, operating passenger lines between Detroit and Cleveland and Detroit and Chicago is to be the nucleus of the first cross continent air passenger line in the country, according to plans announced this week by the Boeing Air Transport division of the United Aircraft.

Fifteen, eighteen-passenger trimotored planes will be put into service by the Boeing company between Chicago and San Francisco Oct. 1. At the same time the line will be hooked up with the Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago service of the Stout Air Lines. Although no announcement has been made, it is planned that the Stout service will be extended into New York to give a coast-to-coast Boeing-Stout passenger line.

Twenty-four hour service line from Detroit to San Francisco will be inaugurated with the new service in October. The Boeing line holds the present air mail contract between Chicago and San Francisco.

The 24-hour schedule will allow time for passengers to change planes twice, once at Chicago from the Ford tri-motored planes of the Stout line to the western planes, and once at Cheyenne, Wyo. Planes will be changed there for two reasons. This half-way point on the 2,000-mile airline between the Great Lakes and the west coast is 6,200 feet above sea level. On the uphill climb from the 500-foot elevation of the Great Lakes region, the propeller is placed at a different pitch than is required for the downhill run to the coast. Secondly, a 1,000-mile run is sufficient distance for passenger operation of a transport plane, in the opinion of officials. "Just as soon as the San Francisco-Chicago line is in operation, we will be prepared to alter our schedules to enable passengers to make the best possible connections, whether they start their continental journey from Detroit or from Cleveland," said Stanley Knauss, general manager of the Stout lines.

Electric buffets will be installed to provide meals on the trip. Instead of berths for night flying, the cabins will be equipped with reclining chairs.

This will be the first all-plane route between the Great Lakes and California. Other transcontinental lines use trains for the night hours, to provide sleeping accommodations for the passengers, and to eliminate night flying.

The population of the continental United States is now increasing at a rate of approximately 1,400,000 persons per year, or about one person every 28 seconds.

Cost of Flying Cabin Air-Plane 23 cents per Mile

What does it cost to operate an airplane? With hundreds of new planes being bought every month, and a rapidly increasing number of business men and other individuals purchasing planes for their personal use, this question becomes very pertinent.

The Ryan Aircraft Corporation, makers of the popular Ryan biplane, a six-place luxuriously equipped cabin plane, has carefully checked total operation figures kept by a number of users over a long period of time. It has been found that the cost of operating this type of plane when used 500 hours a year amounts to 23 cents a mile. This figure includes all expense, such as depreciation, figured at 25 per cent a year, on the plane and 33 1-3 per cent on the engine, pilot's salary at $8000 per year and bonus for flying time, crash, liability, fire and tornado insurance, hangar rent, overhauls, gasoline and oil, and other items.

When a full load of five passengers and pilot is carried, the cost per mile per passenger, amounts to less than 5 cents a mile, or considerably less than the operation cost of a medium-priced car. When the plane is used more than 500 hours a year, the cost per mile is proportionately less. The cost of operating this type of plane should be compared with an expensive limousine in which comparative accommodations are found.

MOTOR OILS STURDY AND RICH

Iso-Vis

THE new type motor oil, Iso-Vis, is the sensation of the motoring world. This superb motor oil has the remarkable property of constant viscosity. It will not thin out! It will not wear out. It maintains its body under all normal driving conditions.

When you fill up your crankcase with Iso-Vis you can motor with an easy mind—knowing that you'll have no trouble from dilution in the crankcase—sure that your engine will be protected with proper lubrication every mile.

Iso-Vis avoids the necessity of frequent crankcase changes. Many motorists drive for 1000 miles or more without changing oil. Iso-Vis maintains its viscosity. It wears and wears and WEARS!

Polarine

THE engine in your car needs a rich sturdy oil to protect its bearings. Driving conditions are harder—you drive faster—you drive farther—and traffic congestion puts a strain on the engine.

Polarine meets the engine needs of today. Polarine is sturdy! Polarine is rich! Polarine is dependable.

When you have Polarine in the crankcase you may be sure that the engine is properly lubricated—that every bearing surface is covered with a protecting cushion of oil.

Use the grade made for your car. Drain and refill with fresh Polarine every 500 miles. You'll save your car—and you'll motor untroubled miles!

Polarine and Iso-Vis are money-saving, driver-saving, car-saving motor oils. Buy the grade made for your car.

10,000 Mich. Farms Electrified in 1929

Extension of Michigan's utilities' gas and electric energies into new fields of domestic and industrial service, in which development and state's pioneering activities are being watched by the public utility corporations of the nation, was the main subject of discussion at the three-day conventions of the Michigan Gas Association and the Michigan Electric Light Association at Mackinac Island the fore part of this week.

Michigan is making greater progress this year in taking electric power to the farm and adapting it to farm operations than in all the past 20 years combined, according to statements made before the convention of the Michigan Electric Light Association. The program of the convention was devoted to farm electrification and to the annual address of President Howard Pett, Consumers' Power Company, Jackson.

President Pett, in his address, said in part: "Michigan can be proud of the advanced policies of its electric utilities in their programs for extension of service into rural territory. The liberal terms on which farmers in Michigan can obtain electric service are enjoyed in but few, if any, other states. On a conservative estimate, at least 1,500 miles of rural electric extensions will be built this year."

Speaking of criticisms of the electric power industry, President Pett said: "There seems to be a consistent effort on the part of radical newspapers and a few members of Congress to place the public utilities in an unfavorable light as possible. There is much talk of trusts and combines, about attempts to mislead the public through biased propaganda. In all this tirade, the outstanding facts about our industry are lost sight of. In each year since 1890, with the exception of the war period, the average price for electricity for home use has decreased. Today the average price of electricity for residence use in the United States is 25 per cent less than pre-war cost, while general living costs are 70 per cent more.

Professor H. J. Gallagher, Michigan State College, told the delegates that progress in farm electrification in Michigan in 1929 will eclipse the combined progress of the 20 preceding years. The bringing of electric power to more than 10,000 Michigan farms this year will involve a total expenditure of about $8,000,000, and the building of more than 1,500 miles of farm electric service lines, he said.

"The utilities of Michigan have a broader perspective than the immediate dollar return on farm service investment," Professor Gallagher declared, "and through their willingness and desire to serve agriculture on a basis within the earning scope of the farmer, will do more toward establishing a balance in agriculture than would any farm relief bill passed by congress.

L. C. Moore, holder of the farm electrification fellowship at State college, described research work being carried on in the development of electric hay hoists, all-electric brooders, automatic chicken feeders and poultry house cleaners, and electric ventilation in poultry houses and barns.

Muskegon Oil Production Grows

The extent to which the Muskegon oil field has developed may be seen from the announcement that during the week ended June 29 more than 150,000 barrels of Dundee crude oil was shipped from the Muskegon oil field to the refineries in the Chicago area. This is more than the entire Dundee production for 1928. One-third of the total week's shipments of 48,000 barrels were delivered by tanker to the Standard Oil Company's refinery at Whiting, Ind. About 45,000 barrels were shipped by barge by the Sinclair Pipe Line Corporation to the former Lemont Refining Company plant at Lemont, Ill.

Westlund and Whitehead, Inc., and the Michigan Central Refining Company of Chicago and Muskegon, joint operators of a new gathering line system in the western Michigan field, shipped about 20,000 barrels by rail through the Northland Oil Company of Chicago. The Independent Pipe Line Company ran and loaded about 15,000 barrels for rail shipments through the Wellman Oil Co., of Grand Rapids to Henry H. Cross Co., of Joliet, Ill., and other independent refiners, and the Reed Oil Company sold one boat load of 15,000 barrels to the McColl Frontenac Oil Co., of Montreal, for refining at their Toronto, Canada, plant.

Muskegon oil producers recently were notified by the Standard Oil company of Indiana of an increase in the posted price of the Dundee crude from $1.10 to $1.25 a barrel. Prevailing mid-continent gravity prices are being paid for upper and lower Traverse oil. The return by the Standard company to the $1.25 price would indicate that the defect in the oil which caused a drop in price of 50 cents a barrel as well as a curtailment in production some months ago, had been overcome and that the refining companies were again ready to take oil in unlimited quantities. The fifteen cent increase means a total revenue of $7,500 weekly added to the Muskegon field. Further increases in price for the Dundee crude oil are now being anticipated.

The two new Dundee wells added to the production of the Muskegon field featured the past week end. The two wells were estimated to be capable of producing an aggregate flow of 700 barrels a day. They are owned by the Ottawa Petroleum and the Crude Oil Company and the Dixie Oil company. The two former companies own the 500 barrel well, and the latter the 200 barrel well.

It was also announced recently that determined steps to stop the wholesale wastage of natural gas in the Muskegon field, through the institution of an adequate protection plan, are to be undertaken under the direction of Floyd R. Frye, new appointed supervisor of oil and gas conservation.

While Muskegon continues to be the center of the state's oil activities, much attention has been drawn lately to the Mt. Pleasant field. A new 35-barrel oil well was brought in last week in the Mt. Pleasant field and several others are reported to be nearing the Dundee pay sands. The new well is Stigenbauer and Russell's No. 2 Coon well in Chippewa township. Oil was flowing from a depth of 3,545 feet.

The new producer kept the daily flow of the Mt. Pleasant field up to 2,500 barrels and made the record of the field 15 oil wells, two dry holes and one abandoned hole. With 26 wells active either moving ing in rigs, rigging up, spudding, drilling or fishing and 13 new locations, of which 11 were made by the Pure Oil company, Mt. Pleasant now boasts of an active oil field with much drilling play.

Babylon Large City

Many expeditions have been sent out to excavate the ancient city of Babylon—the first in 1784—but it was not until after the real work of Deutsche Orient Gesellschaft, begun in 1899, that the outer wall was traceable. From this time they were able to determine that the city of Babylon covered 12 square miles.

SICK TEN YEARS, KONJOLA BRINGS SPEEDY RELIEF

"I AM JUST BEGINNING TO ENJOY LIFE AGAIN," SAYS LADY MADE WELL AND HAPPY BY NEW MEDICINE.

MRS. L. PLUMPTON

"For more than ten years I was sick with stomach, liver and kidney troubles, and in all that time I found absolutely no relief," said Mrs. L. Plumpton, 1111 Forest avenue, Ann Arbor, Michigan. "My food did not digest. My liver was very inactive. Weak kidneys got me up many times at night, and my entire system was run down."

"What a fortunate thing it was that I heard of Konjola. My search for ten years has been rewarded, and I am beginning to enjoy life again. My appetite is fine and digestion perfect. I feel just wonderful and sleep the night through. I shall never cease to marvel at what Konjola did in my desperate case."

Konjola is sold in Buchanan at W. N. Brodick's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.
