

CLARK EQUIPMENT CO. WILL ERECT 2ND. RIVER ST. BUILDING THIS YEAR

BUCHANAN WILL BALLOT ON CHARTER MONDAY AUG. 5 WILL INSTALL DIRT FILL IN MCCOY CREEK

Now Here's the Proposition

To Be Read at a Family Reunion
BI HAWES

That joyous time of the year hath come when kinsman lay aside the hatchet

And take the family skeleton and in its place securely latch it; Then pack the sandwich in a box and gather in a festive bunch on

Some wooded hill or sandy dune to revel in a pot luck lunch.

There will be some grandests, three or four, and uncles, nephews, aunts and nieces;

And grinds and great grinds, too, galore to show how fast the tribe increases.

There is Uncle Ezekiah Fish who sure has been a great long liver;

He dug the bed for old Lake Michi and hollowed out the St. Joe river.

There's Grandma Jones from Berrien Springs, and Uncle Joe and old Aunt Mary,

And Uncle Henry, who arrived the year they laid out Portage Prairie;

And any more that's out of jail or get bailed out by their attorney

And can arrange to raise the kale for gas enough to make the journey.

We'll take a drink to Auld Lang Syne and join in a fraternal chorus.

While June bugs gallop down our spine and chinch bugs hold conventions o'er us.

And we will put all strife away and leave all bickering behind us.

For we are gathered here today to emphasize the ties that bind us.

Today delight shall fill our cup and we shall bid farewell to sorrows;

And then we'll dig the hatchet up and get the shot gun out to-morrow.

Pioneer Barber and Merchant Dies on Thursday.

LIVED LIFE HERE

Was Born on a Bend of the River Farm 78 Years Ago.

William A. Sparks, 78, a pioneer merchant and barber and a resident of this section throughout his entire life, died at 4 p. m. Thursday, July 25, at his home at 205 Portage street, after an illness of over nine months. He was born September 15, 1850 on a farm in the Bend of the River, two miles northeast of here, his parents were David and Harriet Sparks. He grew to manhood here and for a few years after the death of his father he operated the farm. On Sept. 9, 1880, he married Miss Nora Baker of Bakertown, and in May 1881 they moved to Buchanan, where he was employed in a furniture factory. Later he became associated with H. A. Hathaway in the grocery business, their establishment being where the Desenberg Clothing store now is located. When the building and stock were destroyed by fire in 1893, Sparks opened a barber shop in a second story room over the present A. & P. Store. Later he moved to the room now occupied by the Treat grocery, where he remained for many years, until he purchased the building on Main street, where he continued in business until he was obliged to retire on account of a stroke of paralysis, which he suffered on Oct. 10, 1928. Since that time he had been confined to the home on Portage street where he and his wife had lived for 48 years.

CORN BORER SQUAD STARTS CLEAN UP IN BUCHANAN TWP.

NILES HEADQUARTERS IS WORKING FORCE OF 55 MEN.

Corn borer clean-up crews engaged in the annual summer preventive work along the frontiers of infection, started the canvass of Buchanan, Weesaw and Galien township Friday, working out of Buchanan. Their schedule calls for the inspection of each township in six days. The township is divided into six parts and the crew plans to inspect one or two representative fields of corn in one of these divisions each day. In case the corn is high and thick on the ground, inspection is made row by row. If the corn is short the inspector takes several rows at a time.

A force of 55 men composed of college students from all parts of the county are now covering all of Berrien county, under the direction of W. F. Walton, at Niles. General headquarters for the work in this area is located at Toledo, Ohio.

No trace of corn borer infection have been found thus far in the Buchanan district, although the infestation area has advanced to St. Joseph county just across the Indiana line. Any evidence of the pest found here will be forwarded to the Toledo headquarters for positive identification.

RESTRICTIONS ON WATER USE NOW IN EFFECT

DROUGHT AND HOT WEATHER LEAD TO REGULATIONS BY WATER COMMITTEE.

Restrictions on the use of city water went into effect today, due to the heavy drains for the relief of burning lawns and gardens, which practically reduced the entire pressure in the higher sections of the town, to the extent of depriving them of water for drinking and household purposes.

According to the announcement by the water committee of the council which is published elsewhere in this issue, the town is zoned for the use of water as follows: Sprinkling between the hours of 5 and 8 a. m. only, north of the center line of Front street; between the hours of 5 and 8 p. m. only, south of the center line of Front street.

It is further ordered by the water committee that all sprinkling be discontinued at the sounding of the fire alarm.

This action was made necessary by the continued drought and hot weather which has prevailed during the past three weeks. According to the precipitation records maintained by the Indiana and Michigan power plant at Buchanan, 1.26 inches of rain fell during the first twelve days of July, and only .22 since that time. Farm and garden crops which had not matured before the drought set in, will suffer severe damage unless relief comes soon.

More Developments in the Case of Unhappy Lot of Mr. Knott and the Turtle

It now transpires that one Horace Knott, to wit, a sanitary engineer, more commonly known as a plumber, of the village of Berrien Springs, did entangle himself in legal knots the extent he woted not of, when he kidnapped the historic turtle of Moccasin Bluff while installing plumbing at Camp Waters some weeks ago.

The latest development in the strange case of Mr. Knott and the turtle is the authorization of a replevin suit by one E. W. Clark of Battle Creek, present owner of the former Montague farm, which was the turtle's erstwhile habitat.

Yesterday Clark retained Atty. A. A. Worthington as counsel and authorized him to start replevin proceedings immediately against Knott, to compel the restoration of the turtle, on the grounds that title to the reptile inures in the land to which he became attached through long residence. It is rumored that legal action of some nature or other will also be instituted against Clinton Montague, on the grounds that when he transferred title to the land he neglected to list the turtle as appurtenant to it.

On being interviewed this morning, Atty. Worthington announced that the first step in the proceedings would be the filing by an affidavit by Clark, declaring his property rights in the turtle, and the filing of a bond by Clark to the extent of $200. Atty. Worthington will then secure a writ of replevin against Knott, which will be served on that party if and when and wherever he may be found by Constable E. D. Mitchell, who will be required to secure the turtle and to retain it in his possession, supporting the turtle in a style conformable to its accustomed habits, and producing it on date of trial.

Rumors that Knott not only kidnapped the turtle but that he also did murder most foul, converting the mortal remains of the pioneer resident to turtle soup, and placing the polished shell on his mantle piece with the name and date showing, add to the complexities of the case, it now appearing likely that the turtle is as much a mere shell of his former self as was one Jack Dempsey at the flop of the century.

MURPHY BLDG COMPLETE BY FIRST OF WEEK

Construction of the two new store rooms on East Front street, built by Williams Brothers of Niles, for Eugene Murphy, is now complete, except for the installation of plate glass front, and preparations will begin Monday for the transfer of the Grill and the Haffner 5 and 10.

R. L. Haffner states that about three weeks will be consumed in installing the fixtures, and that he is now planning to open his store in the new location on August 24. The new store room is 30x50 feet in dimensions, providing 2700 feet of floor space as compared to 1500 in his present location. Attractive display windows have been installed and the entire interior is very pleasing.

Haffner further states that he will begin a closing sale to dispose of his present stock about Aug. 9 and will open in the new location with a renewed stock.

The Grill will be moved to its new location on Monday according to present plans, Manager McCracken stating that he is expecting to make the transfer without interrupting the service.

Additional equipment for the increased floor space, arrived the first of the week and is being installed in anticipation of the opening date on

The new quarters represent a total inside dimension of 20x70, divided into a dining room 20x50 feet and a kitchen 20 feet square. The lunch counter will be increased to a length of 34 feet, and the seating capacity at tables will be increased from the present maximum of 31 to 59. An orange and black color scheme will prevail throughout, the floor being of composition material with a black border and orange and black cross stripes. A larger range and other new kitchen equipment will be installed. Free meal tickets will be given away on the opening day.

John Harris, member of the Indiana & Michigan crew engaged in the replacement of high tension lines between Galien and Buchanan, received painful but not serious burns, Friday when one hand came in contact with a supposedly dead wire which had been charged through accidental contact with a live wire. He was probably saved from the fate incurred by Bowles, the following day, by the fact that he had taken pains to secure himself from falling by his safety belt. He is now recovering satisfactory at his home in Buchanan.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Chipman and little daughter of Cleveland, are here visiting at the home of the former's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Arlin Clark.

Harry Sabin, of Mattoon, Ill. is visiting his aunt, Mrs. Ned Shafer.

TAKES EFFECT IN 30 DAYS IF ADOPTED

Commissioner Fight Will be the Center of Interest.

NINE CANDIDATES

Defeat of the Charter Would Necessitate a New Election.

Citizens of Buchanan will go to the polls for the fourth time Monday to ballot on the adoption of the city form of government, and at the same time to select a slate of officers who shall serve under the city form, if and when the charter goes into effect.

While the public enthusiasm over the issues involved has been at a low ebb recently due to the effects of the hot weather wave, interest is expected to revive in the four days before election.

In case the charter is adopted it is required by provisions included in the document that two copies be filed within thirty days, one with the Secretary of State, one with the County Clerk of Berrien County, and that the new form of government shall become effective on that filing. The village council now in power will hold the regular August meeting on Tuesday evening following the election, the new organization taking place on some date yet to be fixed within 30 days after election.

All voting will be done at one polling place designated as Eagle House No. 1, 114 South Oak street. The polls will open at 7 o'clock a. m., standard time, and close at 5 o'clock p. m., standard time.

The main interest centers in the selection of the five commissioners from the following candidates: Wilson Leiter, Frank Merson, Chas. F. Pears, Clarence C. Runner, Chas. Boone, Chas. J. Bradley, Harvey Bristol, A. Glenn Haslett, F. Clinton Hathaway, Rich. and M. Kean, Mathias J. Kelling.

The only other contests will be in the selection of two constables from the following three candidates: Edward C. McCollum, Fred French, Edward F. Mitchell.

There will be no contest in the offices of supervisor and Justice of the Peace, there being in each case two candidates and two to be elected. The candidates slated for an uncontested election for the posts are: Supervisor, Theron D. Childs and Harry H. Beck; Justice of the Peace, Rex E. Lamb and Alfred W. Charles.

In case there is a majority registered against the adoption of the charter, it will be necessary for the special commission elected last spring to swing into action again, drafting another document to submit to the voters, and repeating the process until they produce a draft that satisfies the voters.

Burglar Plies His Trade Here Thurs.

The apartment of Mr. and Mrs. George McLaughlin, 120 S. Oak, was entered Thursday afternoon and two suits of clothes, two dresses and a leather suit case were stolen. It is evident that the thief entered the front door by means of a skeleton key and probably left by the rear exit. Harry Binns, who is working on alterations to his residence immediately north reported that he saw a colored man come from the rear of the house and pass between the buildings on the afternoon the burglary was committed. A colored man answering the description of the one seen by Binns entered the Binns apartment over the store and also the Frank Lamb home the same afternoon. In both cases he entered the front door without formality and on finding the places occupied he inquired as to the whereabouts of the "Jenkins family." It is believed that he left by an early bus on the following morning.

TOUCHES HOT CABLE; FALLS TO HIS DEATH

South Bend Employee of the Indiana & Michigan Co., Killed near Buchanan.

FALL HELD FATAL

David Austin Bowles, 37, an employee of the extra construction gang of the Indiana & Michigan Electric Company, working from the South Bend road, was killed early Sunday morning from the combined effects of shock from high tension wire and a fall of 35 feet to the ground, while employed in the replacement of the Buchanan-Galien line.

The accident occurred about 3 a. m. immediately west of Bakertown cemetery on M-66, shortly after the extra gang had started work. Bowles had mounted a pole and was engaged in wiring, having neglected to fasten his safety belt. The current had been reduced until none of the cables carried a deadly load, but when Bowles accidentally came in contact with a live wire, the shock lodged him and he fell 35 feet to the ground. It is believed that the fall rather than the shock of the current killed him, as he lived for about an hour, when hemorrhages indicating internal injuries set in, and he died soon after.

He had worked for the Indiana & Michigan Electric Company for the past seven years.

David Bowles, the son of David and the late Margaret Bowles, was born in Argos, Ind., July 30, 1891. He had lived in Plymouth, Ind., practically all his life, moving to South Bend only ten years ago, where his home was at 614 N. 29th street.

He is survived by his wife and two small children, Betty Jane, 5, and Lloyd Eugene, 3. He also leaves his father, David Bowles, a brother, Harry, both of Plymouth, another brother, Herman, of South Bend and three sisters: Mrs. Ed. Swank of Bremen, Ind.; Mrs. Myrtle O'Neil, of Chicago, and Mrs. Bessie Himes of Plymouth.

The body was removed to Hamilton's Funeral Parlor and later taken to Plymouth.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, daylight saving time, at the Sunnall Funeral Home, Plymouth, and burial was made in Oak Hill cemetery of that place.

Plans Include an Addition to the Rear Axle Plant.

BUILD AT BERRIEN

Will Widen Driveway under Railroad for Two Lanes.

Among the building plans definitely authorized by the Clark Equipment company for completion during 1929 is the construction of a 100x220 foot addition to the new River street plant, to be started in the near future for the purpose of caring for possible expansion in the tubular housing output.

The extension will immediately join the present 100x300 foot building on the east, the ends of the two structures presenting a 200 foot front on River street. The east side of the present plant will be removed, so that there will be no partition between the two buildings. Present plans include the installation of equipment to fill the present building and to overflow into the extension before the end of the year. The entire structure will be devoted to the manufacture of tubular housings, such as is now being produced.

The details are being worked out for a file between the main plant and the River street addition to replace the present old wooden bridge, which now affords rail connections, that structure being a fire hazard and approaching an antiquated condition. It is planned to install a concrete pipe to carry water from McCoy creek during the present summer and installation of the fill will follow.

The company plans further to add to the assembling and shipping facilities of the rear axle department by an extension of the present building along the railway to the south, bringing the building flush to the driveway under the bridge. This will permit of an extra two-car lengths on the shipping track.

The company is also considering the advisability of widening the driveway under the railway to provide for two one-way lanes for auto traffic. The present narrow lane, allowing driving space for only one car, is becoming inadequate for the needs of traffic as well as dangerous in the case of cars rapidly rounding the driveway leading to the drill department.

Berrien Addition Started

Ground has been broken for a 130x205 foot extension to the Transmission plant at Berrien Springs, which will add 26,000 feet of floor space and permit of an extension of the side track to provide for three additional car lengths. This extension is not required in its entirety for immediate manufacturing needs, but is designed to care for both present and future production developments.

MAY JOIN PRO RANKS

Veracity, it Seems Is not Requirement Of Boy Scout Code

Troop 41 Boy Scouts of America went on an overnight trip last week end. Camp was pitched at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Collins, two miles northeast of Fokagon. The new pup tents were pitched and supper fires started as quickly as possible. Earnest Beadle crawled into his tent and found it sheltered a large ant hill. He moved in short notice.

Supper over several games were played and then someone asked for a story. Mrs. Collins over heard the request and said she did not know a story but that there was a house near by which was known for it's queer noises, even in the late afternoon. Some of the fellows wanted to go right off and after much persuasion got the rest to go.

The entire crew went in the cars to a short distance from the questionable house and pussy-footed their way to the back door, thinking to make a rear surprise attack on the unknown. The door opened and Leo Slate ordered it left so. Stealthily advancing up the hallway noises were heard from some undeterminable direction. Suddenly a heavy door dropped through the ceiling at their feet. Momentarily halting with a look or two at the open back door they finally advanced and investigated a closet or two, with no results. On a little way a book was observed on the floor at the foot of another door. One of the bunch put his hand on the door knob and reached to pick the book up when he felt a thud and quiver of the door. Looking on the other side an ice pick deeply driven into the frame was found still quivering. After some debate with the cautious members a further advance disclosed an old axe fresh with blood and hair on it, the floor was somewhat smeared to, and the hall seemed darker and closer than ever.

Further on a club well matted with blood was found and a short distance on a scalp. This scalp was fresh, the blood not even being clotted as yet. The hair was steel gray and a good six inches long. This time it took some real argument but the advance finally won. Stepping up stairs chains could be heard moving about. Having made the top step and a way down the hall a small door was found in the wall. One of the leaders quickly opened the door and took one quick glance down into the little attic. Slamming the door he gasped, "It's headless." Opening the door again a body covered with a blanket appeared to be headless laying on an old mattress. Drawing back for a second a thump, thump, thump was heard going down the back stairs. Looking in the attic again the body was gone. The noise was followed down the back stairs to the cellar but not a thing could be found. Two small windows were there but no person could ever get thru them. The adventurers then went up the kitchen stairs and through the house making a hurried exit out the front door.

Getting to the cars someone had the bright idea that possibly the doors should be closed to keep the spooks in, so three of the fellows went back and closed up without further event. The ice pick was brought back as a souvenir.

The adventure over the campers then went back to their new shelters and had a fine sleep all spiced up with adventuresome dreams. The next day was spent in swimming and wandering about the farm.

Tuesday evenings regular meeting was taken up largely in recounting the adventures of the haunted house and how many times the one candle they had for light went out when it just should not have. Business finally over the troop went to Clear Lake Woods beach and had a fine swim.

Large Attendance of Lodge Members At Slater Funeral

The funeral of George Slater, popular Berrien county fraternal leader, was held at the home on Front street at 3 p. m. Saturday, with a large attendance of friends and fraternal associates, many of whom came from outside. The Berrien County I. O. O. F. Association was represented by President Harold Davis of St. Joseph and Secretary Yost of Benton Harbor. Delegations came from South Bend, New Buffalo and Benton Harbor lodges and every other chapter in Berrien county was represented by one or more members. Due to the size of the assembly the general services were held on the lawn outside the home and the coffin was banked deeply with a multitude of wreaths and floral gifts sent by his many friends and the fraternal organizations which he had served. Three cars were required to carry the flowers from the home to the cemetery, and over 200 hundred attended the rites at the grave.

Camp Waters Closes Outing

Camp Waters, summer outing headquarters for Chicago Heights Boy Scouts, was closed Sunday when an attendance of 115 disbanded and returned to their homes. A small force of instructors and scouts are remaining this week to clean up the camp and store the equipment.

Shifts were changed at Camp Blackhawk over the week end when 43 scouts returned to Aurora and 26 took their places here. The present shift will be increased Friday when a number of scouts will arrive to spend the remaining week of the period. The last of the five periods at this camp will open Monday, August 12, when a quota of older boys who have been employed at jobs during the summer will come to spend a vacation before the opening of school. Two row boats were lost, one from Camp Waters and one from Camp Blackhawk, and word has been sent to residents down the river to be on the look out.

Galien Couple United Saturday in Outdoor Ceremony

A wedding of keen interest to Galien people and many beyond, was solemnized on the beautiful lawn of Mr. and Mrs. John Clark Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock when their daughter, Nellie, was married to Paul Smith, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Smith. Miss VanTilburg played Mendelssohn's Wedding March and the bride party marched out on the lawn and stood under an arch which was beautifully decorated with pink and white cut flowers. Miss Elizabeth Hollister of South Bend, acted as bridesmaid and was beautifully gowned in orchid silk georgette and carried pink roses. The groom was attended by Lester Finney of South Bend. The bride looked charming in pink silk georgette and white cut flowers. Rev. Mead, pastor of the Olive Branch church, in the presence of more than forty guests, near relatives and friends of the contracting parties, spoke the meaningful words which started these young people on life's road as husband and wife.

Immediately after the ceremony the guests were invited to the dining room which was decorated in pink and white, the bridal party having a table to themselves. Luncheon was served. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Herbert Goodenough, Mrs. Ruth Bowker, Mrs. E. Olsen, and Miss Muriel Unruh, waited on tables.

About 50 near relatives dropped in in the afternoon to help make it a merry affair. A mock wedding was pulled off. The bride of 25 years ago wore a beautiful veil made of a lace curtain. Milford Nelson acted as minister and did the stunt right. The attendants of the bride and groom were the same as 25 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Roberts, who presented them with their original marriage document, which was found among the papers of the late Tracey Hall, Justice of the Peace at that time.

The flower girls were the two daughters, Myrtle and Violet and the ring bearer was their son, Charles, who carried a harness ring on a pillow. The couple and attendants marched out on the lawn to radio music, where the ceremony took place. Ice cream and cake was served.

The couple received many gifts. We all wish them many more years of wedded bliss.

Good St. Nicholas

St. Nicholas was the patron saint of Russia. He was the bishop of Myra in Lycia in the fourth century. He is regarded as the patron saint of merchants and travelers by sea and land, but also especially of the young and of scholars. Hence his festival, December 6, was formerly celebrated in the English schools, and still survives in the Santa Claus of Christian rejoicings.

Nerves Need Watching

There is a tendency for people who feel indisposed to blame it on their nerves and let it go at that. Real nervous disorders, however, are serious and the excuse of nerves should not be used to camouflage some other disorder.

Co-Operation

Co-operation has been described as "making yourself fit for others to work with." Let us therefore take advantage of this privilege to prepare ourselves to labor in harmony with others, to the end that all may be benefited.

FIRE DESTROYS TWO BARN AT ROUGH FARM

NILES AND BUCHANAN FIRE DEPTS. CALLED BUT ARRIVE TOO LATE.

Fire believed to have originated from spontaneous combustion in new hay destroyed two barns and a straw stack on the Rough farm, three miles south and one mile east of Buchanan, about 9 o'clock Monday morning.

The two barns stood about sixteen feet apart and both had recently been filled with clover and alfalfa hay, the last of which had been put in about a week previously. The first indication of fire was a slight smoke seen arising from the roof of one building. Alarms were immediately turned in to Niles and Buchanan fire departments, but within a few minutes afterwards the entire roof of the structure burst into flames. The rear of the two buildings was connected by a fresh straw pile, and the flames traveled rapidly from one to the other both being timber dry. Both fire departments arrived shortly afterwards but destruction had been rapid and complete.

In addition to the 60 tons of new hay the buildings contained about 15 tons of baled straw, a manure spreader and a few other minor articles of farm equipment. The larger of the two buildings was a bank barn, 34x44 feet in dimensions. It had been originally built about 75 years ago but had been rebuilt since. The other structure was 30x40 feet in dimensions. Both buildings were in good condition. The buildings which were destroyed constitute the improvements on the farm leased by Elson Rough, located about a quarter of a mile south of the home of the owner, Percival Rough.

BIG TELEPHONE CONSTRUCTION PLANS FOR 1929

Bell System to Spend $530,000 in Increasing and Improving Nation-wide Plant

About $530,000,000 is being spent by the Bell System in 1929 to increase and better the telephone facilities of the country. This is the largest construction program in the history of the system. In 1928, about $430,000,000 was spent on plant additions, betterments and replacements, made necessary in order to meet the ever increasing demands for telephone service throughout the country.

The 1929 program means a net addition during the year of $50,000,000, or about 15 per cent, to the present plant of the system. Of this total, about $140,000,000 is being devoted to toll and Long Distance lines of the Associated Companies and to the Long Lines of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. The extraordinary growth in Long Distance telephoning has resulted, to a large extent, from the marked improvement in Long Distance service in the past few years and the threefold reductions in rates which have occurred during that time.

Another interesting item of the growth of the Bell System is the program for new buildings. The system now owns about 2,300 buildings which, together with the land on which they are situated, cost approximately $335,000,000. In all probability this is the largest group of buildings belonging to any one company or institution. Construction during 1928 showed a total of 123 new buildings and 39 additions to buildings. The 1929 program contemplates 200 new buildings and 80 major additions.

This large sum of money is being expended in thousands of communities covering every state of the Union, and the necessary supplies of materials are being drawn from widely separated localities.

Every year sees a wider use of the constantly improving telephone service and the Bell System must build so as to be ready to meet such public demand. The proceeds from the Convertible Bond issue of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company this year are to be used in part for the payment of $75,000,000 bonds due on July 1, and in part towards the mammoth construction program now in progress.

Farm Bureau Plans Drive For Members

Plans were laid last week by County Farm Bureau leaders, advised by A. M. Edmunds, District Organization Manager, to undertake a campaign for membership during August in collaboration with Cass county units which will reach every farmer in the two counties.

The campaign plan is modeled after that recently completed in Ohio where 5,000 additional members were secured. According to the basis of the plan 50 representative members from each county are to be enlisted as canvassers, and the active solicitation in each county is to be undertaken by guest delegations from the co-operative counties. This arrangement is known as "Trade Day Campaign," the idea being that the two counties will trade equal amounts of time for soliciting members.

District Organizer Edmunds, President Jesse G. Boyle and Secretary-Treasurer Richards of the Berrien County Farm Bureau, spent last week in enlisting 50 solicitors from the approximately 500 members enrolled. Active work will start August 12, when the 50 members selected and their guests will attend a banquet at Berrien Springs, at which a short training course in selling memberships will be given by C. L. Brody, secretary-manager of the State Farm Bureau, C. L. Nash, state organization director, and A. M. Edmunds, director of organizations for southwest Michigan. On August 16 the 50 men selected from Cass county as solicitors will come to Berrien county and the two forces will take the field in pairs, each team composed of a Berrien and Cass county man. Each Berrien county man will introduce his partner to neighbors and the Cass county representative will solicit their membership. This will be continued during four days, and on August 20 the Berrien county corps of solicitors will go to Cass county where the process will be repeated, with the visiting delegation again selling memberships.

This system follows the organization of the state into districts for membership solicitation. The southwest Michigan district being composed of Berrien, Cass, St. Joseph, Kalamazoo, Branch, and Calhoun counties, with A. M. Edmunds in charge as organizer. The Kalamazoo-St. Joseph county campaign has just been completed with a gain of 164 new members as the result. The effect of increased membership has a lever-

Alligators' Growth
Alligators grow very slowly, and it is estimated that at fifteen years of age they are only two feet long; therefore a twelve-footer may be reasonably supposed to be seventy-five years of age. The rate of growth varies with animals in their wild state and those kept in captivity, and it is also governed by the amount as well as the type of food given.

The installation of storm and sanitary sewers on Third street from the western terminal at Chippewa to Main street is slated for completion for the first of next week, following which the two excavation machines will be transferred to the remaining two blocks from Main to Portage. Progress will be slower in this section, it is anticipated, due to the fact that installation will enter the water level as it approaches Portage street. One excavation crew is now at work between Main and Oak street and the second between Oak and Moccasin street.

Air Mail Mileage Multiplied by 10 Within Three Yrs.

Ten years ago the post office department's air mail route was figuratively creeping into New York to complete the first half of the transcontinental. Today, the United States air routes cover the distance around the world, with passenger service over 15,000 miles of airways and a scheduled daily mileage on air transport routes alone of over twice about the equator—more miles of airways than in any other country; more transport miles flown than in any other country and more miles of night routes than the rest of the world combined. So much for air transport. In addition, we have an air service and private flying volume approached nowhere else on earth.

This result, however, has not been achieved by progressive steps. The first half of the transcontinental and two private passenger routes made up the 1,269 miles of 1918 operations. The following year this figure was raised by three times and then our airways gradually dropped to less than 3,000 miles at the close of 1925.

Here, air transport, with mail as a foundation, began the new era. The Air Mail Act of February 2, 1925, empowered the post master general to contract for the transportation by air of mail and the Post Office department looked forward to a release from governmental operation, after five years of demonstrated success over the transcontinental. Under the new act, the Post Office inaugurated in 1926 a great program of contract air mail routes and arranged to transfer its own line to private interests.

In the same year was passed the Air Commerce Act, charging the secretary of commerce generally with the encouragement and regulation of the use of aircraft in civil operations, and it is under these two governmental programs that there has been so rapidly achieved an advance which could scarcely have been envisaged by even the most optimistic prophet.

In these three years we have seen the air routes grow from 2,993 miles to 31,222, now in actual operation or scheduled. In the same time the Department of Commerce has raised the mileage of serviced airways from 2,041 miles of the transcontinental at the beginning of this period to the present 10,700 figure. As a part of these lighted miles, there are, of course, the intermediate fields, radio range beacons, radio-telegraph and radio-telephone communications and the weather service given to pilots.

The census of agriculture will require the enumeration of approximately 6,500,000 farms.

Upper Peninsula Streams Stocked With Young Fry

We have heard a lot about the people and cars that cross the Straits, now comes Fred Westerman of the conservation department's fish division with a record of the game fish shipped to Michigan's upper peninsula this year.

Of the seventeen hatcheries operated by the fish division, twelve are located in the lower part of the State. So far this year 200,000 brook trout fingerlings were shipped north to the Tahquamenon river feeding station; 500,000 eyed brook trout eggs and 800,000 eyed rainbow trout eggs were transferred from the lower to the upper peninsula hatcheries; 10,000 large-mouth bass advanced fry went to the Menominee rearing pond and 5,000 small mouth bass fry to the Sidnaw pond.

Further shipments of 50,000 large mouth bass, 500,000 small mouth bass, 50,000 brook trout, and 25,000 blue gills, all fingerlings, are planned for this season.

In addition to the above figures over 9,000,000 eyed brook trout eggs were shipped from outside of the state to the hatcheries at Thompson, Marquette, Sidnaw and Watersmeet, says Westerman.

School nurse says "all girls should know this"

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said:

"One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking Nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

The general Farmers Day afternoon program began at one o'clock with band music furnished by the Vocational School band of Lansing. President R. S. Shaw was the first speaker.

Among the livestock which was shown to the visitors Farmers Day included two grand champion stallions, one a Percheron and the other a Belgian, and a silver medal Jersey cow recently purchased by the college.

Conservation Dept. Makes Moving Picture Of State Wild Life

"Wild Wings," the conservation department's motion picture film of Michigan bird life, is to have a companion in the form of a three reel release of Michigan animals, according to the educational division. Various studies of deer and fawns, racoon, black bear, moose, woodchuck, weasel, red fox, squirrels and other animals will be included.

There will also be a short feature reel of Michigan logging operations. The Department's wild life and scenic pictures have proved to be popular with sportsmen and nature-lovers alike throughout the state. Walter Hastings, department photographer, left last week for Isle Royale to obtain additional scenic pictures of Michigan's farthest north and photographs of the moose herd on the island.

From Auto to Diplomacy

One of the foremost figures in the group of real founders and developers of the automobile industry in this country will be missing in the future. John N. Willys, who built the Overland company to its present size, has sold his holdings and will retire shortly from the business. It is indicated that he will be given a diplomatic appointment by President Hoover and will employ his talents hereafter in that field. He has been one of the successful diplomats in the development of the auto industry and may have developed special qualifications for handling international diplomatic questions. He will be the first of the real founders of the automobile industry to quit the business, sell out and retire, while yet a young man. He is only 36 and has taken excellent care of himself physically during the years of his business building. Others have retired from control in their auto labors, several under pressure, but the departure of Willys is of his own choice. He has been one of the great salesmen in the auto world. He won his first prominence because of his ability to interest the public in the cars. He had a cheerful optimism that was contagious and he used it constantly in his business. He was a good-natured but persistent competitor, as all other builders soon learned, but he was a fair fighter and did much to promote the larger interest of the auto, as well as to popularize the car he made.

Who'll Pay the Doctor?

Upon his election as president of the American Medical Association Dr. William Gerry Morgan stated that the outcry against the high cost of medical care came not from the poor but from the "idle rich." This is only half the truth. Those who probably feel most the expenses incurred in illness are the people of moderate means. As the medical profession is at present organized, those who theoretically can afford it must pay not only their own bills, but also those of charity patients. Some way had to be found to reimburse the physician and surgeon for the care he was called upon to give to people unable to meet his bills, and the system was developed which allows him to make up this deficit by charging in other cases all that the traffic will bear. There is no question that this has resulted in making the best possible medical care freely available to the poor, but for those on the other side of the border line between rich and poor it often constitutes a heavier burden than they can carry.

Yet in any consideration of the cost of medical service the first thing to be remembered is that it is simply an economic problem. The doctor cannot always be a philanthropist. He must be able to meet his own bills to butcher, baker and candlestick maker. If we expect him to do charity work, as we do, it is first necessary that we provide him in one way or another with an income which will allow him to give free service in hospitals and clinics.

It is thus futile to inveigh against the high cost of medical care unless some more equitable system can be devised which will provide for the doctor and for the poor patient at the same time. It is not an easy problem to solve because medical costs are steadily mounting, not through any rapacity on the part of members of the profession but because of the scientific advances in medicine. We cannot expect to have x-ray or radium treatment provided and difficult operations performed at the same cost to the community as the simple operations and doings of an earlier day.

In the ideal state, as some persons visualize it, medical care would be provided free of charge to rich and poor alike and private practice would be abolished. But this would mean the wholesale endowment of the profession. Something like this is being approached in the establishment of the great medical foundations, with their physicians and surgeons on a definite salary basis, which does away with the need of harrying the rich to make up for the meager allowances of public hospitals. It may offer the desired solution. For while the man of moderate means pays his share of the upkeep of public health institutions through taxation, and when ill is willing to meet any reasonable expense for the scientific care to which he is entitled, there are limits to his ability to pay, just as there are limits to the unremunerative work which the doctor can afford.

Slim and Stout Contest.

Slimness wins. Stoutness, as a factor in fitness, is a handicap. In the scales of practical business excess avoirdupois has been weighed and found wanting. These are the declarations of Dr. Percival White, who has spent years studying questions relating to individuals engaged in retail merchandising. He is co-author of the Merchant Manual, a textbook for merchants. His conclusions were reached after careful study, during which he sent a questionnaire to scores of merchants for a report showing results as the slim and stout laborer side by side in selling. And the report told very much the same story, the slender saleswoman was showing larger sales, year after year, than her stouter sister. Now why? The reports were in agreement to a surprising degree. The slender woman, more stylish in appearance, was found more attractive to customers, and the stylish saleswoman exercises a more potent influence on prospective customers than the stout saleswoman was able to develop. There were instances where the slim saleswoman was credited with greater mental alertness than her stout sister, but such reports were insufficient to establish a general rule. It was the stylish, slender saleswoman, with her trim figure and pleasing appearance, who the merchants agreed did attract and satisfy customers more than other types. Even in the stylish stout department many merchants were convinced the slender saleswoman was the outstanding success. Dr. White finds the records prove that retail buyers prefer the slender saleswoman and spend their money with her. Slimness wins.

Baseball Players Scarce.

This year the Boston Braves will spend $50,000 for salaries and expenses of men to visit baseball teams in the minor leagues in search of young men who have shown signs of development into big league players. There is a shortage of players in all leagues. The big league clubs are carrying men not wanted because better men are not available. There would be numerous changes in all clubs if new players could be secured. The shortage has forced up the price managers are willing to pay for new talent, even if developed only in part. There is profit for the minor league organization that has a few promising players, that can be sold at fancy prices. Scouts are hunting for them all the time.

Baseball talent is not so abundant as it was in the old days when amateur organizations had hundreds of young players at work and every boy with baseball ambition had an opportunity. Many famous players came from the amateur organizations and the sand lot teams in cities large and small. The big league organizations have not been willing to keep the amateur organizations going during recent years. They saved some money by that change, but gave up the higher prices for players when the shortage came. Today the big league teams look to the minor leagues and college teams for the talent they need. The supply is limited, and that runs the price for players much higher. There are baseball men who feel certain the best way to meet the demand is to have the big league teams give financial support to amateur and semi-professional organizations in which new players may be developed.

Another thing an experienced Republican editor can do is to make it sound as if he had known all the members of the new Federal Farm Board personally all his life, as he warmly congratulates the president upon the excellence of his selections, though really he wouldn't know a single one of 'em from Adam.

Crossing the legs is no longer considered bad taste, says Miss Mabel Duke, and we're glad to learn that from an authoritative source and if it were otherwise we simply don't know where we'd look for refined and cultured female companionship.

If we may make a suggestion, we'd rather have President Hoover, in whose judgment we have great faith, decide the next question that comes up himself, instead of appointing another commission to make a survey.

A middle-aged man who thought he'd take Dr. Mayo's advice and keep young by going around with the young people went to the hospital yesterday, threatened with a complete nervous breakdown.

He is the kind of a man, we said in our bitterly intolerant way, whose idea of the ne plus ultra in humor is to put on someone else's hat at a party, preferably a lady's.

It would be interesting from the scientific standpoint to know how much the normal woman's life is shortened by worrying about where she left her front door key.

It's got so now that it's almost impossible to tell at first blush whether the things on the neighbor girls' clothesline are handkerchiefs of foundation garments.

When we go out to borrow a little money until the next payday or some time we always look for a man whose idea of a billfold is a pants pocket.

One of the harassed fathers of this town is thinking of reverting to union suits to prevent his fashionable sun-tan daughter from borrowing his shorts.

We'd like to meet that western girl who has made a dress out of shavings from the saw mill and we haven't heard the dear old frou-frou for 30 years.

We have our moments of depression when we feel ready to forgive any modern convenience but the telephone.

About the most pathetic thing is trying to smile in the face of misfortune and not succeeding very well. After studying some of the recent news photographs we have practically decided not to live to be 90.

Ford Museum

Pictures American Social Progress

Development of the American Museum on its 125 acre site in Dearborn, adjoining the engineering laboratories of the Ford Motor Company, as conceived by Henry Ford to depict the economic progress of the United States, is well under way. The site is now laid out, bounded on the north by Michigan avenue, on the south by the Ford Airport drive and airplane factory, on the west by the engineering laboratory and on the east by the River Rouge.

It is expected that several of the buildings in the grouping will be ready for opening on October 21, on which day there will be a world celebration of "Light's Golden Jubilee" marking the fiftieth anniversary of the invention of the first practical electric light by Thomas A. Edison. Mr. Edison will be in Dearborn on that day, the guest of Henry Ford, and an elaborate program in which many world notables will participate has been prepared by Mr. Ford to honor his friend.

A part of the ceremony will be the switching on, by Mr. Edison himself, of his original incandescent lamp, operated by the same power plant he used. In his Edisonia Mr. Ford has brought from Menlo Park, N. J., every remaining item of the original Edison shops, laboratory, factory and even the old Jordan boarding house, and the Edison winter laboratory and shop from Fort Meyers, Fla.

The main collection of antique Americana will occupy a building 450 by 800 feet, facing Airport Drive, while the administration building for the group of institutions, buildings and exhibits, will be in front of this structure, modeled after Independence Hall. It will have five courts with open spaces in between. The buildings are being built of hand-made red brick, gray granite, blue-gray marble and soapstone, all selected to reproduce exactly the appearance of the original Independence Hall. There are ten entrances, four of which are especially impressive, being flanked with monolithic marble columns in Doric style. The interior consists of one immense room, broken only by the 180 columns supporting the roof. No ornamental treatment is added and the necessities of construction and mechanical equipment are relieved only by a refinement in placing and lines. For example, the columns are encased in special steel radiation, part of the modern design. It is lighted from above by unadorned monitors of steel and glass. The transition from colonial days is illustrated by this interior.

The village will be on the left of the main building and will cover an area about one-half mile square. Like most New England villages, public buildings and meeting places are set around a common which serves also as the park and recreation center. On the north side of the common, in "Swansea" on which Thomas A. Edison often sailed in Florida, will steam on the Rouge.

Besides the colonial village there will be a section of buildings of more recent date. From Santa Rosa, California, comes Luther Burbank's office, and near the section set aside for agriculture is planned a nursery similar to Burbank's for the benefit of farmers. Experiments will be carried on in the same manner as by him.

The other group presents the One ton of wood pulp will make three acres of paper.

the early part of the nineteenth century.

Roads of the village will contrast with the modern cement and asphalt drives leading to it. Dirt, cinder, log and cobblestone roads will be laid. A stable for horses used to convey guests and inhabitants on special occasions in the "one horse shay", handsome cabs and elegant victorias, will also be constructed.

Through the village will run a creek, emptying into the Rouge. The toll house shoe shop mentioned in John Greenleaf Whittier's poem, "The Countess" will rest on the banks of the Rouge, much as it did on the banks of the Merrimac at East Haverhill, Mass., a hundred years ago. A replica of the Mississippi type boat, the "Swanee" on which Thomas A. Edison often sailed in Florida, will steam on the Rouge.

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal.

The Old Timer's Corner

Old Timer Rounds out Full Year with Facile Pen

Well, friends, this issue of Old Timer's Corner completes the first year of "The Corner." It does not seem that long to me, but it is. I have been keeping all the stories or letters as you may choose to call them, in a scrap-book, and this one is number 52.

When I started this corner I had no idea that it would continue this long. My idea was to start it and get others interested, which has been done, and then to turn it over to others more capable of doing it, than myself. But here we are, still on the job, and until some one seems fit to go on with it, I guess we are elected to continue. Some good friends have told us that it is interesting, at times, at least, while others are prone to criticize us. Well, that is as it always is, we cannot please every one.

The markings of another year, remind us, again, that we, too, have turned over another leaf in the book of "records and seals" and that we are that much nearer the end of the chapter known as life. As we grow older, we find that these "leaves" in the afore-said book, seem to turn faster and faster. We have hardly time to think about it until we see another year confronting us and we are on our way with the rest of us.

Looking back over the effort of this year, I see many things that I believe I could improve upon, if I were to try it again, on the same subjects. If I have said anything that has hurt the feelings of a single person, I am very sorry. If I have said anything that has given some one "a laugh" or a pleasant thought, then I am glad.

I was wondering, after sending in the last letter, if some one would say "what does he know about children to give advice?" Well, I'll tell you this. In my line of business it falls in my line of work to direct fathers and mothers in the care of their children's teeth, and to do that, their care must be extended to the general health of the child, and the general suggestions as to ideas and thoughts for the mind (to a large extent) governs the body. That isn't "Christian Science," it is just "science" without the christian part. I fully believe in the science of medicine, but I know, too, that no medicine on earth can change Nature; all we can ever hope to do with it is to help Nature. So the science of helping Nature is really the practice of all lines of medicine. Mine is one of the "specialties" in the one great field of medicine. So I have helped many children to become better and stronger by teaching their parents how to rule and govern their younger years, and here in the city, it is no easy job. For a boy or girl to be born in the country where they have all the out of doors to play and work in, it is hardly needed of us to teach them the idea of keeping their minds and bodies (including their teeth) clean and wholesome. They sort of learn that of themselves in the country but in town where there is an electric button and a hot water faucet at their disposal at all times, they grow up in a lazier atmosphere and have to be made to do things for themselves.

So, if I have dropped a word now and then, in this line it was from force of habit, and not that I am trying to preach my business.

And now that this is the end of our first year, and perhaps our last, we won't dwell long upon this or any other ideas. I want to thank my many friends for the kind things they have had to say about Old Timer's Corner, and if it is continued thru another period, I will try and do my best to please as nearly all of our readers as possible.

OLD TIMER.

Holmes Tells of Sequence of Names Used By Record

In your account of the visit of John Tarrant you mention that he was employed in the Record office when the paper was called "Buchanan Record." When the plant was brought to Buchanan from New Buffalo, the paper was called "Buchanan Vindicator." In a short time the plant was bought by Lloyd & Turner and they changed the name to "Buchanan Weekly Union," which lasted until Dan. Wagner came from Wauwatosa, Wis., and bought it in 1887, and he changed it to "Berrien County Record." Some time after I came into possession we had the misfortune of the pressman starting the press without locking the forms on and one of the grippers came down onto the head logo-type, making a new head necessary. Some people were so considerate as to insinuate the paper was in need of two new heads and I gave it the name of "Buchanan Record," my idea being that I was more interested in advertising Buchanan than any other place on earth, and I am still of the opinion that is the best head the paper ever had. I did not know of a Berrien County Palladium in Benton Harbor, a Berrien County Herald in St. Joseph, or a Berrien County Republican in Niles, nor do I find local papers or large ones carrying the name of the county in the headline now. Try "Cook County Tribune" in place of Chicago Tribune, as an example. J. G. HOLMES.

TREES HELP TO STOP SAND DUNES

STUDY METHODS TO CHECK LAKE MICHIGAN'S SHIFTING FRINGES.

Trees are playing a leading role in man's fight to keep the shifting sand dunes of the Lake Michigan shore from spreading disaster over farm lands, roads and drainage ditches of the state's western border.

That many of the dunes are traveling "landward," often at the rate of several feet a year, is an established fact. Effective ways of checking the wandering tendencies of the errant dunes have become a real problem, and the usefulness of artificial tree plantings in this work is being determined this summer through a survey by forestry officials of Michigan State College. Several hundred thousand trees were planted on the dunes 15 years ago, all the way from Holland to Petoskey, and the college foresters are checking this summer to see how much these trees have grown and how effective they have proved in slowing the relentless march of the sand.

Carolina poplar, box elder, and some of the pines give evidence of being best suited for the shifting sand plantings, according to Prof. A. K. Chittenden, head of the M. S. C. forest service. Methods of establishing plantations must vary with the character of the dunes and the exposure.

The dunes themselves are said to have increased greatly in value and importance with the development of Michigan for summer resort purposes.

RURAL CENTERS HOME OF THRIFT

REFUSE TO ACCEPT METRO-POLITAN LEADERSHIP IN TIME PAYMENT ORGY.

While the big city workers were forgetting the bonus which manufacturers and merchants always pay to the cash buyer, the more thoughtful shoppers in the smaller towns, and the country have, in the main, refused to follow this leadership, points out O. E. Sovereign of Bay City, economist and manufacturer of homes.

"As a result," Mr. Sovereign declares, "the non-urban family is not today burdened with obligations in the form of monthly payments on most of its possessions. There is good ground for the statement that sound, old-fashioned thrift today finds its home in the country and in the smaller cities and villages of our land. There, families jealously safeguard their buying power. They cultivate savings accounts. When they buy, they pay cash and gain from 10 per cent to 20 per cent lower price and better quality. They retain their independence and their buying power."

"The Aladdin Company of which I am General Manager, does a national business in ready cut houses. We sell everywhere—in large cities and in the country. Interest in home building was, we find, never stronger nationally than it is today. But our correspondence shows plainly that, where a city worker always wishes to build, the worker in the smaller town or the farmer, not only wishes to build, but actually does so. He has money, instead of debts. So he can do as he pleases, for himself and his family."

Trains of Planes Seen as Next Step

While the United States has been rapidly progressing with standard aviation work, the glider field has only just been taken on. The result has been that one of the natural outgrowths of the glider work has been overlooked, yet who is to say that this may not be a turning point in giving flexibility to our coming air lines. This point is glider trains.

In the future it is not at all impossible to visualize a powerful plane taking off with a string of small gliders following after, each one capable of carrying from two to six passengers. These will be arranged in the proper order.

For instance, if only two gliders are to be carried on a route from New York to Chicago, the last glider would be for the first stop, say Cleveland, the next in line would be the Detroit glider. The plane itself would have the Chicago passengers.

When the train arrived over Cleveland, glider number two would cast off and gently glide into the airport and land, while the train continued on without the slightest loss of time. When the train got over Detroit, the first glider would be cast off and land at the Detroit airport. Finally the plane itself would come down at Chicago.

Perhaps this sounds fantastical but let us go to the land of gliders, Germany, and we find that this is no Jules Verne, but a serious effort which has already been tested. The Raab-Katzenstein Airplane Works in Cassel, specializing in light planes, have been making tests with a power plane pulling two motorless gliders. The noted stunt flier, Hans Albrecht, who piloted one of the trailer gliders, gives his impressions as follows:

"I have made my first flight as pilot of a trailer plane after having once piloted a tractor plane with one trailer. In the first test Pilot Wirth took the stick of the tractor and Raab and Katzenstein piloted the two trailers. Then I took charge of one of the trailers."

"I was astonished at the ease with which my machine rose from the earth. I looked over toward the other trailer, and Wenderoth, its pilot, gave me to understand by signs that he was highly pleased with the success of the experiment and happy to see that flying with two trailers, on which my firm pins such great hopes, is practicable."

"My trailer was hitched to the tractor plane by a cable about 260 feet long. Wenderoth's by a cable some 200 feet long. I let my plane glide forward near to his to see how his was behaving."

"After we had reached an altitude of about a quarter of a mile, Wenderoth signaled to me that he intended to land. He uncoupled his trailer and glided down. I watched him for a short time, and after I had covered a few hundred yards more I also uncoupled my trailer and landed hardly more than 10 feet from Wenderoth's machine."

"I have been amazed to learn with remarkable certainty that these trailers can be directed, and with what precision one can land."

"We made two further flights with other pilots, and then came together to talk over the prospects of turning our experiments to practical account in the regular air traffic. We were and are all firmly convinced that genuinely rapid air transit will in the future be possible only with trailers, for only by employing them can one avoid the long interruptions due to the necessity of landing at every station on an air route."

"All of us believe there will be no difficulty in using big passenger planes as trailers instead of the small ones with which our tests were made. We believe also that it will be possible to increase the number of trailers to five or six."

Daring Drivers to Be Entered in Races At Kalamazoo Sun.

All roads will lead to Kalamazoo next Sunday for the staging of what promises to be one of the best automobile racing programs ever held in Michigan.

Bill Cummings, Indianapolis, who a week ago set a world's record for a half mile dirt track at Winchester, Ind.; Red Marley and Charley Valinski, the South Bend daredevils; Joe Russo and Frankie Swiebert, Indianapolis, and Al Miller, Owen Granger and Shorty Cantlin, Detroit, are among the big time stars who have entered. Over two dozen sent in entry blanks and a field of approximately 30 is expected to be on hand for the time trials at 10 Sunday morning.

The fastest 12 cars will be eligible to start in the first race. In case any cars are wrecked or disabled, those next in line will be eligible for the second event, thereby assuring full fields in all races. The split program arranged calls for five events, doing away with the "parade" grinds and furnishing many thrilling starts and finishes.

Sugar Maple is Most Valuable Hard Wood in Michigan

Of the hardwood trees in the State perhaps no other so typically represents Michigan as does the sugar or hard maple with its beautiful contour, its deep shade, and its sap which has provided gratification for the sweet-tooth of white man and Indian through the pioneer days of the region. Not many years ago syrup and sugar from maple trees were common commodities, but the price in recent years has soared to the point where they are nearly luxuries. A heavy demand and an increasing scarcity of maple forests has caused the prices to rise, and have led to the introduction of various substitutes resembling the genuine product.

It may be that the modern syrup from the latest of sterilized evaporators where the sap is reduced to a thicker consistency is more pure, but to one who has tasted the hot sweet directly from a big black iron kettle protected by a small "sugar-shanty" hut in the woods in early springs when the first warm breezes come, it seems just a little flat. Perhaps a few sticks, the cinders and smoke from woodfires, really improved the flavor. However, it is probable that when the Indian first tasted the syrup from the white man's iron kettle, he decided that his own birch bark utensils had lent an added tang which metal never could give.

Few people are not acquainted with the maple to some extent, but there are nine members of the family in Michigan, some of them are easily differentiated from each other, some are not. The hard maple grows to the largest size, a height of from sixty to one hundred feet and a diameter of 3 feet. Its outstanding characteristics are full-foliated, domed crown, usually very symmetrical, along with a bark which is dark gray and sometimes nearly black in color, roughly furrowed on the trunk but smooth on the younger branches. The leaves are usually five lobed, that is, there are five main "points," while the sinus or space between the lobes is fairly large and rounded at the lower extremity. The seeds are in winged pairs which diverge but slightly, ripening in September or October. They are smooth and about one inch long.

Growing throughout the State preferably on moist rich soil, the sugar maple is the most important hardwood tree in Michigan both for its sap products and lumber. There are several fine stands of virgin maple and mixed hardwood forests yet to be found in the northern part of the lower peninsula and in the upper peninsula, although the bulk of the syrup manufacture is in the small farm wood lots rather than the big woods.

Facts About the Telephone

Toronto leads all Canadian cities in telephone development.

The city of London now has 138 telephone exchanges as compared with 120 a year ago.

In 1880, there were 2100 Bell telephones in service in Canada. Now there are more than 725,000.

Several islands off the coast of Maine are being connected with the mainland by telephone cables this summer.

The Telephone Pioneers of America will hold their sixteenth convention in the city of Minneapolis on October 17, 18 and 19.

Enough telephone wire to girdle the earth 12 times has been added to the Bell telephone lines in the Canadian provinces of Ontario and Quebec during 1928.

Four hundred carloads of apples were sold the other day as a result of a transatlantic telephone call made from London to a Yakima (Wash.) fruit broker.

The opening of an aerial telephone line between Roumania and Hungary provides the first telephone service between those countries since the World War.

Approximately 385,000,000 calls were completed from Indiana Bell Telephone Company telephones during 1928, an increase of more than 16,000,000 calls over 1927. More than 8,000,000 of the total calls made last year were long distance.

Standard time is a civil time established by law. Pilot Loops Loop at London.—Air experts here are marveling at the achievement of Flying Officer R. L. R. Atcherley, one of the pilots training for the Schneider trophy race. He has looped the loop while flying at a speed of 300 miles an hour.

300 Miles an Hour

Atcherley used a racing seaplane similar to those entered for this year's trophy race, and he was taking part in training with the high-speed section of the royal air force.

These racing seaplanes require some skillful handling and such a delicate touch on the controls that very few pilots are capable of controlling them in level flights. "Stunting" has not hitherto been considered possible.

At a speed of 300 miles an hour the pilot has great difficulty in judging his position. In turning at this speed the centrifugal force is so great that pilots have been rendered temporarily unconscious by the flow of blood from the head.

South to Hold First

Air Show at Texas Fair

Dallas, Texas.—The state fair of Texas next fall, October 12 to 27, is to have the South's first air show.

A special building is under construction on the fair grounds, being built with the idea of housing aircraft exclusively. The center part of the race track will be used as a landing field.

Numerous aircraft manufacturers already have reserved space to exhibit planes in the exhibition. Texas, keypoint of aviation during the war, will be represented at the show. Squadrons of army planes from government fields at San Antonio and Galveston are to be sent to take part in the exhibit and air show.
