Now Here's the Proposition

A Hymn to be Sung at the Opening of Administrations, By Hays.

When that I was a callow boy, I used to yearn to wear the bib...

I dreamed the raucous applause Of listening senators to command...

While villains, of the deepest dye Went scotching to the fall uncute.

But I am somewhat wiser now, No more I sound the lofty note...

I've learned that if they vote for me They merely ballot for the chance...

Whoever they vote for, Tom and Jim Will deal his brow no bayleaf crown.

Whatever they may have for him Will be laid on him further down.

250 AT HILLS CORNERS FOR 1ST. REUNION

Students of 75 Years Ago and Teachers of 50 Years Ago Were Present.

HISTORY RELATED Nellie McCoy, Daughter of Pioncer, Was Present.

The place held by "The Little Red School House" (which may or may not be red) holds in the hearts of its alumni was demonstrated Sunday at the Hills Corners school when over 250 former pupils and teachers of that institution gathered for its first annual reunion.

Pupils present and past attending ranged from the primary pupil of today back to white-haired octogenarians, who studied in the little log school house which stood at the corners 50 years ago.

Second in age among the former pupils was Mrs. Sarah Jane McDaniel, aged 80, who studied at the Hills Corners log school at the age of five years.

Among other pupils of former years were Attorney Scott Stevens and Harry Stephens, the latter now connected with Sallors Furniture in South Bend, who were former chums and classmates and who entertained the audience by telling stories at each other's expense.

Attorney Stevens proudly exhibited a tiny old-fashioned book bearing the signature of Warren McDaniel, former teacher, which he stated was his first and only reward of merit.

Jesse G. Boyle was called on as a former pupil and a member of the second eighth grade graduating class in 1898.

The oldest of the former teachers present was Alvin Morley of Gallien, who taught the Hills Corners school during the winters of 1873-8 and 1878-9.

A distinguished attendant at the reunion was Mrs. Nellie McCoy Royce, daughter of Russell McCoy, the first white resident of the vicinity of Buchanan.

Mrs. Royce taught the Hills Corners school in 1881, when she was 16 years old. She was awarded the further distinction of out-ranking any teacher present in continuous service as she is still teaching in the schools of Omaha, Neb.

After a beautiful hot lunch dinner served at 1:30 o'clock, those present were called into the school building where a program was held in charge of Mrs. Con Kelley.

The United States has little help to offer, said Dr. Fulkerson, inasmuch as we have very little surplus money to export to the rest of the world.

FORMER JAP PREXY TALKS M. E. CHURCH

Was Member of United States Boxer Indemnity Commission.

HEADED U. OF TOKYO

Dr. E. R. Fulkerson, formerly a member of the United States diplomatic service in Japan, twenty-year head of the University of Tokyo, and a member of the United States Indemnity Commission appointed by President Roosevelt at the time of the Boxer Rebellion, spoke Sunday morning at the Methodist church on world conditions as he had viewed them during a trip around the globe just completed.

The world has come to a turning of the ways in matters of religion, and the next twenty years will tell the tale as to the continuance or downfall of a Christian civilization in the opinion of Dr. Fulkerson, who reinforced his statement by reference to the results of the recently completed questionnaire sent to nearly a hundred religious leaders throughout the Christian world.

This is the condition of a world in which 27,000,000 people lost their lives as a direct or indirect consequence. Hatred between nations has never been greater and political turmoil has been more intense the world over than at the present time, according to Dr. Fulkerson.

Autocratic government has gone into the discard in seven or eight nations and an attempt is being made to saddle areas of representative government upon populations that are not prepared to accept it.

ONE FIFTH REGISTERED VOTERS OUT

Merson, Fears, Hathaway Kelling and Letter Commissioners.

SWORN IN TONIGHT

Commission to Elect a Mayor from its Members.

Final touches to the stage setting for the debut of Buchanan into the ranks of Michigan cities were added at the special election Monday when such voters as were not called elsewhere by business or other reasons registered a six to one endorsement of the charter and selected a city commission and other officers who will be sworn into office at a special meeting to be held tonight.

The endorsement of the labors of the charter commission was overwhelming. It that term may be applied to any election where less than a fifth of the registered vote attends. The vote on that issue stood: 268 for; 42 against.

The document will become the basis of government for Buchanan as soon as papers are filed with the Secretary of State at Lansing and the County Clerk at St. Joseph, a leeway of 30 days being allowed for that action.

A total vote of 311 was cast out of a total registration of over 1700 in the city. Aside from the adoption of the charter, main interest centered in the election of five commissioners from a field of eleven candidates.

Frank Merson, with 132 votes and Charles Fears with 178 were high men, and will accordingly serve as commissioners until the second Monday, April 1932.

The next five candidates in number of votes received were F. Clinton Hathaway with 164 and William J. Kelling with 157, and they will consequently hold office until April, 1932.

Wilson Letter completed the number of winning candidates with 154 votes and he will hold office until April, 1932.

The other candidates were as follows: Commissioners, Charles Boone 133, Clarence Tanner 121, A. Glenn 115, Charles T. Bandler 112, Richard Keane 68, Harvey England 57, Stephen H. Beck 278, Theron D. Childs 217, Justice of the Peace, Alfred W. Charles 210, Rex E. Lamb 152, Constable, Fred French 207, Edward T. Mitchell 175, E. C. McCollum 135.

Never remove clean clothes from the tubs and place them in a basket unless the basket is lined with a cloth to protect the clothes from the soil. A piece of white oldcloth proves an excellent protection.

To shrink gingham lay the material without unfolding in a large tub of lukewarm water to which a little salt has been added and let it soak until the folds are thoroughly saturated. Take gingham out, unfold it, pin it on the line when there is a good breeze and it will not be necessary to press it.

Soak the fish both inside and out before stuffing to get the best flavor.

Place a large strong envelope in the back of your cook book where you can put untried or clipped recipes until you see if they are worthy of joining your favorites in the recipe file box.

Left over fish can be made into a dozen odd dishes, so it is more economical to buy a good-sized whole fish and to make it last for two days, rather than buy a small fish that is just enough.

Never wash windows while the sun is shining on them or the heat will dry the water unevenly and cause them to be smoky.

Some of the best cooks use a whip or fork instead of an egg-beater when making cakes. Cakes mixed in this way are finer grained.

Bulletin Gives Pointed Advice Regarding Driving

The following pointed remarks on behaviour in traffic are taken from a bulletin on "Rules of Safe Driving," issued by an official of the Safety and Traffic Division of the Three A club. It contains some comments on provisions in the state traffic laws not generally understood.

DO YOU KNOW: That when traveling at 40 miles per hour you can't stop under 60 feet?

That the average highway is about 30 feet? That you must stop before crossing or entering a main trunk line highway?

That you must drive so as to be able to stop within the assured clear distance ahead? That you must move over as far as practicable when the car behind sounds his horn?

That your safety as well as the driver behind, depends on your extending your hand way out beyond the side of your car before you start to turn or stop?

That when intending to make a right hand turn you should move over to the right side of the road, then signal so the man behind can slow down and drive around you instead of into you?

That when an automobile goes through the business portion of your home town at 40 to 50 miles per hour, that your home paper would not print what you say under your breath, and the same rule applies when you do so in the other fellow's town, but you are both right even though the paper will not print it. (A few special words for the occasion will be supplied on personal request.)

That the state law specifies 20 miles per hour as the maximum safe speed where the cross streets are 300 to 400 feet apart, of course when that law was passed they overlooked the fact that you had been born or they would have made an exception in your case; you are such a superior operator, then the officers would not have to write you up in order to perform their duties for which your-taxes pay (or your fines.)

That all of the imbeciles, fools, and drunks have not been killed in traffic accidents for they as a rule are lucky, and you may meet one coming over that hill or around that curve—slow down—keep way over to the right, don't cross the yellow line, for their luck may hold but you may go to the hospital or the morgue, that is where 20% of your friends in this state went the first four months of this year.

That the crossed boards with plank and listen or the words means that crossing may be usually use those rails, arriving there at the same time, and you go right up through the Pearly Gates. 2,563 did that last year, and do not depend on the remnants of your car for assets to help bury you for it costs more to pick up the pieces than your family can get for it as scrap iron.

Air Lines Link U. S. With 16 Foreign Countries

The United States now has 9,000 miles of air routes connecting it with 16 foreign countries and at least four other nations will be added to the system in the near future, according to a report made by the American Air Transport association.

The Central and South American lines actually comprise one route, extending from Montreal on the north to Montevideo, Peru, on the south. Very soon, however, other routes will branch off into more southern countries, Uruguay, Chile, Brazil and the Argentine, bringing the west and east coasts of South America in direct contact with each other and with North American cities.

At present the Central and South American routes extend from the port of entry at Miami to Cuba, the Bahamas, British Honduras, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Panama, Columbia, Venezuela, Ecuador, Peru, Haiti, Dominican Republic and Porto Rico. New York and Montreal have been linked for some time. The middle and far west sections now also have more direct air mail and passenger service with Canada with a new route between Toronto and Detroit.

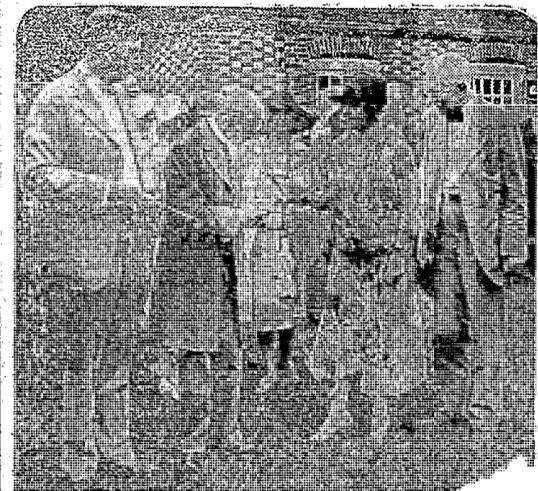

Mexican cities are within a few hours of the Texas border by the planes which operate regularly from Brownsville to Tampico and Mexico City and between California cities and Tia Juana.

Europe, though more than 2,000 miles nearer the west coast of South America than it is to New York, will have its mail seven days earlier by using the air route from Peru to New York.

Defining "Gentleman"

A gentleman, according to a definition by a writer in the Forum magazine, is one who appreciates and respects the sensibilities of others. Bernard Shaw came close to that idea when he said, "A gentleman is one who never offends another unintentionally."—Exchange.

Day Radio Improves With Sun Spots Dim

A further link in the chain of evidence that links radio static with sun spots has been forged by continued experiments at the Bureau of Standards.

Daylight radio reception is at its maximum now, with static at a minimum, investigation by the laboratory of special radio transmission research reveals. The information covers receiving measurements from 13 distant stations, mostly European, and six American stations within 500 miles of Washington.

The sun undergoes an 11-year cycle of activity, and observations correlate this period with the growth and decrease of radio static. A period of intense sun spots occurs at the height of the period, with bright spots appearing on the sun's surface as volcanoes and perhaps thousands of miles from eruptions.

Meanwhile the Bureau of Standards is recording night and day the ratio of static to signals on devices that look like ticker tape. The bureau has a comparison of reception conditions since 1923.

Scout Troop 41 Now Reduced to Three Patrols

Troop 41 Boy Scouts of America reorganized its patrols and scout officers last Tuesday evening. There are now three instead of four patrols since it was deemed better to have fuller patrols instead of skeletons as in the last years work. The new officers are: Robert Dempsey, moved up from senior patrol leader to Junior assistant scoutmaster; Ernest Beadle, moved from patrol leader of the Flying Eagles to senior patrol leader. The patrols and patrol officers are: Pelican Patrol, leader Morris Aronson, assistant Donald Sargent, members Oscar Virgin, Norman Harbour, Jesse Leggett and "Bud" Wessendorf; Stag Patrol, leader Lauren Johnston, assistant Ward Mitchell, members Mr. Lister, Robert Watson, Robert Blood, August Topash; Rattlesnake Patrol, leader George Remington, assistant Lowell Batchelor, members George Spatta, Donald McLeod, Vincent DeNardo, Donald Roti Roti, Lester Beadle.

The old patrol contest was closed by the losing team, the Riskey-Dinks, giving the Ravens a fine feed of ice cream and cake. Service stars and camp emblems were presented to those earning them. Merit badges won at camp are being held over for the Court of Honor late this month.

Huss Family at Kalamazoo Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Huss and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Koch and sons, and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Huss attended the eleventh Huss reunion which was held at Kalamazoo Sunday, there being 45 present. Members came from Charlotte, Durand, South Bend and Buchanan. Mrs. Minnie Huss of Kalamazoo composed the following poem:

Here we gather every Autumn, In this place to us so dear, To the Huss reunion yearly We will gladly haster here. Huss reunion, here we meet with kindred true Here we clasp their hands in welcome And revive the ties anew. And oftentimes we miss the faces of the ones we used to greet, And sometimes we meet new babies who have arrived the tryst to keep. And we leave it to these children

The meeting closed with a renewal of the Scout oath by the candle ceremony.

As the years go swiftly by, That the honor of the family And the name shall never die.

Early Roman Candles. The Romans made candles of stung surrounded by wax or dipped in pitch. Splinters of wood covered with fat were used in England about 1500. The Chinese make candles from wax obtained from the candleberry tree.

Million New Chevrolets Now On Nation's Roads

One million six cylinder Chevrolets have been placed on the road since the first of the year.

This sensational announcement, indicating as it does the great popular appeal of the new six cylinder car, was made at the central offices of the company in Detroit this week as assembly plants in various parts of the country were operating on the biggest summer production schedule in the history of Chevrolet.

Never in the history of the industry has any other manufacturer equalled the achievement of placing a million six cylinder cars on the road in less than eight months. In fact, according to observers, this is more than three times as many six cylinder cars as were ever produced by a manufacturer during a like period.

The record-making model, probably the most famous of all Chevrolet record cars, rolled off the assembly line at the huge Flint plant on August 5. It happened to be a sedan—the new Imperial sedan, introduced a few weeks ago. The gleaming record-breaker was welcomed at the end of the assembly line by W. S. Knudsen, president and other high Chevrolet officials.

Without any ceremony the car left the plant for Detroit where it will be presented as one of the interesting exhibits that are to be a part of the mammoth Chevrolet sales convention in Detroit, Aug. 14-15-16. The entire Chevrolet sales supervisory force of nearly 2,000 men will be on hand for the biggest convention of its kind ever held by the company.

The rapidity with which Chevrolet marched on to the record of a million sixes in less than eight months will be noted from the following tabulation of the dates when the various epoch marking sixes were on the road:

First Six _____ Jan. 1
 250,000th Six _____ April 24
 500,000th Six _____ June 12
 1,000,000th Six _____ August 5

Nearly every state in the Union had a share in the building of the million sixes. Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Michigan furnished the steel; the South and West supplied the wood, the South and the North, east provided the cotton and wool; the rubber came from Ohio, Illinois and California; the glass from Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois; and the Duco enamel from New Jersey and Michigan. More than $5,000 carloads of material were used to produce the million sixes.

As officials point out, the achievement is even greater than during the same period of 1927 or 1928, during which years the Chevrolet Motor company was the world's largest builder of automobiles. Furthermore, the change made by Chevrolet Jan. 1st from four-cylinder production to six-cylinder production has upset all previous records in the low priced field by causing the production of six-cylinder cars to exceed the production of four-cylinder cars for the first time in automotive history.

It is also significant to note from automobile registrations, that since January 1, 1927, the Chevrolet Motor company has built and produced to date more automobiles than any other manufacturer in the world. Also, Chevrolet sales for the first time in the history of the company were greater in July than they were in June, which still further emphasizes the constantly increasing popularity of the new six-cylinder car.

RUTH B. BURROWS WEDS CARLETON D. STANLEY JULY 31

CEREMONY HELD IN OUTDOOR SETTING AT BEAUTIFUL BURROWS HOME

In a garden ceremony, one of the most colorful and local social events of the year, Miss Ruth Burrows, of Buchanan, was married to Carleton Dexter Stanley, of Battle Creek, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Burrows, 305 Detroit street on Wednesday, July 31st.

The ceremony took place on the south side of the beautifully landscaped grounds at the Burrows home, in a natural setting, surrounded by a profusion of garden flowers. At 4:30 o'clock the bridal party marched to the altar to the strains of Wagner's Wedding March from Lorangein, played by a string quartet. The marriage ritual was pronounced by Reverend Norman Dan Braby, formerly of Buchanan and now pastor of the First Presby. tean church at Caro, Michigan. The ring ceremony was used. The bride was given away by R. J. Burrows. The bridegroom was accompanied by his boyhood friend, John Hano, of Indianapolis, Ind., who acted as best man. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Rex Lamb, as maid of honor. Miss Vivian Morgard acted as flower girl, carrying a pink basket of rose petals which she scattered before the bride. The guests were directed into the garden by Willis Burrows and Bill Desenberg. In addition to the luxuriant vegetation and growing flowers, the grounds were decorated with baskets of garden flowers and umbrellas. The house was also adorned with a plentiful display of garden flowers. An attendance of 150 guests were present for the occasion.

The bride was modestly attired in a Larvin princess model of white tulle, with a long tulle veil trimmed in rose point lace, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilacs of the valley. The maid of honor wore a bouffant dress of green taffeta with a green hat to match and touches of pink. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. The flower girl was attired in pink taffeta, with touches of green. The mother of the bride wore an ensemble of beige lace, with hat to match and a bouquet of yellow roses.

CHATS with Your Gas Man A Daily Saving in Food Costs The preservation of perishable foods is a two-fold problem that directly concerns every housewife. It is first of all a matter of health protection; secondly, a question of economy. In the homes where these foods are exposed to temperatures ranging above 50 degrees F. decay sets in immediately—contamination and waste are the inevitable result. A test recently made comparing the continuous dry cold of an automatic refrigerator (always below 50 degrees F.) with an ice box (usually above 50 degrees F.) proved that milk can be kept fresh at least 6 days in the former as against 2 days in the latter; meat, at least a week in the former as against 2 days in the latter; vegetables, at least a week as against 2 days. Obviously the Gas Refrigerator not only costs less than any other refrigerator to operate, but also effects a considerable economy in left-over foods. MICHIGAN GAS & ELECTRIC CO. Fold in 2 stiffly beaten eggs whites and pour the mixture into a buttered ring mold. The mold should be set in a pan of hot water and baked in a moderate oven for 40 minutes. Turn onto a hot plate, fill the center with buttered peas and browned meat (chopped) and serve with tomato sauce. Cause for Tardiness Robert, aged six, was late for school one day, and the teacher was annoyed. "My new sister came last night and she was the cause of it," said the excited boy. "You see, she is just borned, and I had to show her all my toys." Power of Passion The passions are the only omens that always persuade. They are, as it were, a natural art, the rules of which are inflexible and the simplest man with passion is more persuasive than the most eloquent without it.—La Rochefoucauld. Paul Revere Bolts Fetch High Prices

Copper bolts, hand forged by Paul Revere and installed in the United States Frigate Constitution in 1797, constitute the latest entry into the field of high-priced antiques.

One of these bolts, mounted on wood removed from the original hull of the famous old frigate, brought $1000, William E. Leeds of New York being the purchaser. Two smaller ones were sold for $600 and $400 to Junius S. Morgan, Jr.

Of the 40 bolts taken from the Constitution during the present restoration now under way only five remain unsold, according to Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, national chairman of the "Save Old Ironsides" Fund. These are priced at from $500 to $1200, and the proceeds will go toward the missing of the $200,000 still needed to complete the restoration.

FARMERS DAY DRAWS RECORD ATTENDANCE

THOUSANDS GATHER AT THE STATE COLLEGE TO HEAR AGRICULTURAL NEWS.

Oat harvest failed to keep 6,500 Michigan farm folks away from Michigan State College Farmers Day and an attendance record for recent years was set.

The visitors gathered at all the demonstrations, and competition for places at the horse breaking demonstration carried the crowd to the tops of all neighboring buildings. Mr. H. F. Moxley, animal husbandry specialist, showed that it is possible to take an unruly horse and break it to harness and to drive in a team in one day.

President R. S. Shaw welcomed the afternoon audience and spoke of the work necessary to make the new dairy barn an accomplished fact.

A. J. Glover, editor of Hoard's dairymen said the co-operative marketing is one means of increasing dairy profits and cited the Michigan Milk Producers Association as an organization which has assisted its members in obtaining a higher price for their fluid milk than they would have been able to obtain without it.

The new dairy barn, built and equipped at a cost of $100,000 was thrown open for inspection. This new building will provide fine quarters for the breeding and experimental work with the State College dairy herd.

Hydrophobia Danger

Mad dogs and, less frequently, mad cats, can by their bite transmit hydrophobia to human beings. Hydrophobia does not develop in a pet dog or cat unless that particular pet has been bitten by some other animal which has the disease. Generally, pet dogs and cats are not likely to transmit the disease. If they are bitten by a street dog, danger of developing the disease remains for at least six months.

State Loan Associations Have $160,841,000 Assets

Buildings and loan associations of Michigan broke all previous records of gain during the fiscal year which closed June 30, and thereby are enabled to show a total of assets which is double that of five years ago. The figures as reported to the Michigan Building and Loan League, show that the associations boasted $160,841,000 of resources on June 30, 1929, as against $80,302,000 on June 30, 1924.

The gain made during the single year was $19,240,000, an increase of $2,362,500 over the gain experienced during the year which ended June 30, 1928. The percentage of gain was 13.

Detroit associations, including the Detroit and Northern Michigan, reported a gain of $8,405,463.77, bringing their total to $38,301,781.30. Grand Rapids gained $3,051,000, to bring its total to $27,849,000. Lansing added $2,979,000, making its new total $26,448,000. Jackson boosted its total $2,500,000 to $23,494,000. Saginaw is fifth with a new total of $9,600,000, and if assets of the Detroit and Northern Michigan are credited to Hancock, its home office, that city ranks sixth with $9,188,683.77. Kalamazoo is next with $8,937,000.

Michigan's gains are giving the state prestige in national building and loan circles, and the interests of the state are now concentrating in an effort to bring the 1930 convention to the United States league to Grand Rapids. Upward of 30 states have already pledged their votes to Michigan, indicating that the convention is virtually assured for the state. This year's gathering, to be held in Salt Lake City on August 27, 28 and 29, will be attended by 20 or more Michigan men and women.

Modern Curative Process In the old days when meat, bacon, pork or ham was preserved or cured, it was done by the method of covering it with salt. Yale University Invents Invisible Mechanical "Cop"

Two invisible traffic officers hidden beneath the pavement, but who are expected to direct motor cars as efficiently as if they were in plain sight and wore brass buttons, have just been added to the force of the Medford, Mass., police department.

The new policemen—brothers or at least cousins of the mechanical man—are reputed to have one distinct advantage over former robots which various cities have attempted to use to direct traffic. They have no ears, and will be entirely deaf to the honks and protests occasioned by a red light.

Most of the "mechanical cops" developed in the past were actuated by the horns of approaching motor cars. They were tried in Philadelphia, Baltimore and other cities but too many motorists honked at the same time and the mechanical policemen lost their jobs. The result was that two Yale University engineers devised the new robot who lies beneath the street. Above him is a metal plate over which the motor cars pass. This controls the signal lights so that the motorists will not have to halt if the right of way is clear. If cars approach from two directions the right of way goes to the one of the heaviest traveled road with a timing device to guard against allowing the traffic to continue too long in one direction.

The mechanical policemen are to control traffic at Meadford Square and at the intersection of Nymthrop street and Mystic Valley Parkway.

Tiny English Car Ready About Jan. 1

First deliveries of American-built Austin automobiles are expected early next year, according to an announcement just made in New York coincidentally with the international offering of stock in the new American Austin Car Co. Inc.

According to Sir Herbert Austin, chairman of the Austin Motor Company, Ltd., of England, the Austin Seven will not directly compete with American-designed automobiles. The motor car, it is believed, will be the smallest ever made in this country, with a wheelbase of 73 inches and weighing only 950 pounds. It will sell for less than $500.

Official speed tests made in England credit the Austin Seven with a 100-mile run at the rate of 33.61 miles an hour, while in economy tests it operated 56.4 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

A Cooler Kitchen - with Electric Cookery

THE ordinary oven raises the kitchen temperature from ten to fifteen degrees. In summer especially the heat seems almost unbearable. With an Electric Range the increase in the heat of the kitchen when the oven is in use is hardly noticeable.

Electric ovens are completely insulated—the current can be turned off long before the food is done. The heat is kept inside where it is needed. Because the heat developed is nearly all usable—and is not wasted through escape into the kitchen—you can readily see that a minimum of electrical current is consumed. A cooler kitchen is but one of the advantages of Electric Cookery. It actually gives you better meals, with less time in the kitchen. There is complete freedom from smoke and soot! No fumes! And absolute safety for yourself and children is assured.

Business Organizations Own Airplanes

Approximately 135 large business corporations now own airplanes for the use of their salesmen, executives, and for the transportation of parts, supplies, and other services.

The survey disclosed that the four, six and eight place cabin planes powered with a single motor are used almost entirely by these corporations.

Almost every type of business is represented among the operators of airplanes. Insurance companies, contractors, attorneys, physicians, express companies, power companies, advertising agencies, newspaper, roofing companies, automobile and accessory manufacturers, etc.

The survey indicates that a rapidly increasing number of corporations are placing their airplanes in airplanes, ten companies indicating that their planes are used almost exclusively for that service.

One company owning ranches in a number of isolated places uses their airplane to locate straying cattle. A lumber company uses an airplane to locate and prevent forest fires.

The average operation cost per mile of these planes was $2.22. This figure is based on 500 hours operation per year and includes every expense, such as depreciation, pilot's salary, and maintenance, complete insurance, covering, hangar rent, overhaul, gas and oil, and other items.

Do you know, for instance, that Thomas E. ## War Loan Lessons.

It will not fail to be an aid to peace in the world if all nations read and remember thru the years to come the long chapters of unhappy history France has written in delaying and seeking to escape payment of her war debts to the United States. War debts are burdensome, but other nations were prompt in reaching agreement with this country on the total of these debts and making plans to begin payments. France stood alone in delaying all work looking toward agreement. The recent ratification of the war debt settlement was forced by a few courageous French leaders and the insistence of this country that ratification must be made or the $400,000,000 debt due Aug. 1, must be paid in full.

It is well and proper to applaud an agreement, even after irritating delays. It is human nature to shout when trouble has been cleared out of the way. But there is sound reason for remembering the experiences preceding the solution of the trouble. On that point one fact stands out plainly. If war loans are to be treated lightly, and if a nation can refuse to admit they are valid debts and must be paid, then all nations will have been supplied with a powerful reason for great care in making war loans in the future. And without loans many nations would be helpless in the face of war.

It is not fair to say that for years France has displayed poor judgment and made herself a part in history that will be of no credit in the future. There is something magnificent when a borrower in the midst of trouble and with many heavy burdens, makes frank admission of the debt and announces willingness to begin payment to the extent of ability possessed. That course avows appreciation. On the contrary there is nothing inspiring in the refusal of a borrower to meet frankly a situation and begin making payments. To deny a debt contracted in honor or purposely delay adjustment, wrecks the credit the borrower possessed in his hour of need and leaves him without borrowing power. Save for a few leaders France has failed utterly to sense the inevitable results of her folly in wanting her war debts forgiven or her payments qualified so failure was indicated.

Decentralizing Industry.

Industrial development is making the United States a nation of cities. Not many years ago the population was largely rural and the products were agricultural. The rapid rise of industrialism has brought equally rapid growth to American cities. It is not unusual for a city in a favored manufacturing area to double its population in a decade. As the whole tendency is toward further industrialization, the future of the American city is an interesting subject for speculation.

The city offers definite advantages to the industrialist, including an abundant supply of labor, power, transportation facilities for both raw and finished products, and, to some extent, a market. But the city is not free from disadvantages, such as high costs of labor, real estate and taxation. When the population becomes too concentrated the advantages may be outweighed by the disadvantages. According to some economists this is what is happening in America today.

A recent study of American business methods and policies by the Middle West Utilities Co., indicates that the drift of people to the large cities is continuing, but that the productive capacity of city populations is not increasing in equal measure with that of the inhabitants of smaller towns. The investigators conclude that industrial leadership of the country is being transferred to less populous centers. Their findings are substantiated by the recent government report on economic changes, which showed that the only present gain is taking place in towns of less than 10,000 population. This tendency is particularly noticeable in the new industrial areas of the south.

After a certain point of saturation is reached, according to the utilities company study, city growth creates more handicaps than facilities for productive industries. Labor and electric power are diverted in increasing measure from production to mere efforts to overcome handicaps, such as street congestion and lack of water supply. These difficulties have reacted upon industry and some of the country's foremost economists are urging decentralization. The 1930 census will reveal to what extent their advice is being acted upon.

The movement is certain to have a profound effect on American life. It is not likely that the growth of the large cities will be entirely halted, but a large portion of the people who are no longer needed on the farm will likely find employment in the new industrial towns. The next decade should see a rapid development of little cities.

World's Steel Leader.

Chicago's dream of world leadership in the production of steel is to be brought much nearer, if not entirely established, by the enlargement of the mills in her suburbs. The plans adopted call for additional mills that will increase the production of steel ingots by 1,500,000 tons per year and will cost more than $100,000,000. The mills will be added to those owned and operated by the Illinois Steel Company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, and will be located in South Chicago, and Gary, Ind., where the large mills have been found too small to meet the demand for steel products.

When the additional mills have been completed, the output of steel in the Chicago district will have been increased to a point near 10,000,000 tons per year, a point that will be a serious challenge to the leadership in steel long enjoyed by Pittsburgh. In the latter city there was lack of room for expansion of the mills when larger capacity was required. In the Chicago district there was an abundance of space available and the Steel Corporation officials have carried out enormous campaigns of expansion there. One feature in the steel trade has been of great assistance to the Chicago promoters. That city, and the territory about it has been demanding enormous amounts of steel, far more than the mills there had the capacity to supply, and steel from Pittsburgh has been shipped to and used in and near Chicago. It was the continued growth of that demand that emphasized the necessity for larger mill production there.

Pittsburgh long enjoyed an undisputed leadership in the production of steel, but the tide has been running against her during recent years. Chicago now lays claim to distinction as the world center for steel production, and that is an enviable distinction.

The Federal Farm Board.

Evidently President Hoover has some hope of important accomplishments by the new Federal Farm Board. At its first meeting he charged it with responsibility for the solution of the agricultural problem—a rather heavy responsibility. Chairman Lege, who left a $100,000 job to enter the public service, made no rash promises but said for himself and his fellow members that they mean to work long and hard in the effort to do something for the farmer.

It is a good board, representing in its membership familiarity with a comprehensive variety of agricultural activities and much good business sense. The fact that Mr. Lege was induced to accept the chairmanship is encouraging, for it indicates that a highly successful business man, whose experience must have given him a keen insight into the farming situation, believes that a federal farm board can do something to improve the American agriculturist's position. It seems to us that the best hope is in the extension of co-operative marketing and in the intelligent limitation and diversification of crops. We do not take much stock in the idea that the surplus problem can be solved and the prices of agricultural products fixed by government purchases from the $500,000,000 fund.

The farm relief measure, for which it may be said that it is much sounder than the equalization fee and export debenture proposals, for which President Hoover would not stand, is the result of the exigencies of politics. There is a certain fairness about this new governmental interference in business, since the tariff beneficiaries gain so much from the paternalistic policy. But the bestowal by the government of special favors upon classes and groups can hardly be defended on general principles and in this instance the prospect of benefiting the nominally favored class by such means is extremely dubious. The one sure thing is that the taxpayers, including the farmers, have a new federal board to support.

Like all generalities, the assertion that no one is pleased with the farm relief law will not bear analysis and we'll bet the eight prospective members of the new federal board that are going to get $12,000 a year apiece are just tickled to death.

Another person who we are glad doesn't live in this immediate neighborhood is cute little Eloise Smith of Jacksonville, Fla., who at the age of five can play the most difficult classical masterpieces on the piano without turning a hair.

We might have a fact-finding commission investigate the farming situation and find out a few facts that everybody in the world knows already and report two or three years from now.

Princess Ileana of Rumania impresses us as a young woman who would sit so close to the Prince of Wales in a roadster, if she got the chance, that he'd practically have to park.

Middle age is that period in life when the younger generation imitates your bad habits so successfully that you just don't know what the world is coming to.

Another thing we are seriously worried about, as we glance hither and yon, is the state of the round garter industry.

Father's Day is becoming such an institution that about next year we look for a revival of the old-fashioned comic valentine to help celebrate the occasion.

Taking high rank among the most beautiful words in the language are these: 'Have another.'

COMBINES REDUCE HARVEST ARMIES FIFTY PER CENT

MACHINES WHICH CUT AND THRASH DO WORK OF FIFTY MEN.

Harvesting the nation's huge crop of small grains, once a tremendous problem, has been so simplified by use of "combines" that the annual army of itinerant harvest fields has been cut in half. George E. Tucker, director of the farm labor division of Commerce, is authority for the statement that 20,000 hands have supplied the need in northern Oklahoma, where the winter wheat harvest begins, and in western Kansas, where combines have so largely supplanted binders and headers. This, he says, compares with the 40,000 or 50,000 required in this section in the shocking and thrashing days.

Meanwhile strings of empty freight cars are speeding into the grain belt from all parts of the country. For 90 days the task of moving the crop will tax the facilities of the railroads, requiring something in excess of 350,000 carloads to be transported.

$400,000,000 to Move Crop

Bankers, too, are watching the progress of the harvest with interest, for it is estimated that approximately $400,000,000 will be borrowed by commission men, exporters, elevator men and millers to pay the growers for their grain. Approximately 14,000 itinerant harvesters were at work in the fields of swaying wheat in Kansas in the first part of July, and a few had already begun to move northward into Nebraska. In that state, and particularly in the Dakotas, the combines have not yet come into such widespread use as in the midwestern plains, and the bulk of the grain is still shocked, or headed, and later threshed. As the wave of ripening grain moves northward into the spring wheat region, the labor directors guide an increasing number of harvest hands to the farms. Mr. Tucker estimates that 25,000 men will be needed in North Dakota when the harvest gets under way there.

Altogether about 35,000 men will have been recruited for the complete swing from Oklahoma into Canada, the official estimates. Yet this is only half the size of the army mobilized five or six years ago, he pointed out.

Government Gets Labor

The federal farm labor central office is located in Kansas City. From here a large part of the work of connecting the harvest hand with a job for the summer is directed by Mr. Tucker and 15 assistant directors.

Harvest began a week late in Oklahoma and was a week to ten days late in Kansas, tending to cause a temporary surplus of men in the harvest regions. The emphasis of the farm labor division has been to avoid surpluses by proper publicity, and by the work of the assistant directors who established temporary offices in various parts of Kansas, and later will move north.

"Our harvest help is drawn largely from the southern states now," Mr. Tucker said. "White men from Tennessee, Alabama, Arkansas and Missouri make up the bulk of it. Our experience has shown us that about 25 per cent remain on farms in various neighborhoods, another 25 per cent drop out after several weeks labor, and about 50 per cent follow northward into the Dakotas. Our task is to fill in the vacancies with new men, to keep the men away from going to regions before the grain is ripe, and in general to organize the supply so it meets the demand fully and no more."

What Machinery Has Done. Emphasizing the striking change in labor conditions on the farms, Elisabeth Stewart, commissioner of Labor Statistics in Washington,

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking Nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping. Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. The Old Timer's Corner

It's a dark, rainy day and I am reminded once again of the farm and the things that happened on such days at home on the farm. It is always sort of "sticky" weather on such days, and the old hens would go pecking around the yard, talking and caw-cawing as they walked around, taking a pick at a worm or blade of grass, with their feathers wet and dripping. The sheep huddled up in some corner or in the shelter of some tree or shed, chewing their cud and with little sounds of protest, now and then, as some other sheep would shove their head around too much. It was sort of a silent and restful time for all the farm inhabitants. The horses were in the stable and they eat and daze in their stalls and stamp the flies away and swish their tails now and then. The cows were in the pasture, but they, too, were huddled up in bunches, some lying down and all content to rest and chew their food, mostly. The pigs grunted and rooted around, not seeming to mind the mud and rain. They sort of liked it. As for "us kids" we always found something to do, on such days. There was always some cleaning up to do in the granary or the barn and "barn house" and when that was done we might be found making a wagon out of some old wheels or building a kite, or if we were too much trouble, we were set to work in the "wood-shed" taking down the pile of dry wood and cleaning up a place on the other side of the shed to pile it over again, just to give us something to do. (That used to make me mad, sometimes, for I couldn't see the idea of tearing down a perfectly good pile of wood just to pile it over again.) But such was the life of the kids, in my time. I remember that on such days we often had to go to the "cellar" and sprout potatoes. That was a dirty job, and we had no light except a lantern and your hands would get so dirty and feel so rotten. But the new potatoes were not yet big enough to "dig", and so it was a case of sprout the old ones. Fine job, (I don't think).

We didn't have much time to spend around there, but it they came by train, it was a wonderful sight to see them get the animals off the cars. Then, dash home for the chores and have breakfast and if we were fortunate enough to have fifty cents for a ticket to the show, oh boy! Rain or no rain, it was great sport. It seemed more fun if it did rain on circus day, for the rain pattered down on the long top and gave you sort of a feeling of uncertain security. The band would play, none too well, and the horses would prance and do their stuff and, well, it's great to be a kid and it is great to be able to remember those times on rainy days.
