Here we have stayed the beat of Time's swift wings;
Here, by the magic of a fairy power,
We have immortalized the fleeting hour,
The flying grace of evanescent things;
Here is transfigured the beauty of old springs;
Here is eternalized the transient flower,
Salvaged from death, and all Time's golden dower
Is treasured here for our remembering.
We shall turn to these storied leaves again
And yet again in days to come, to trace
Old scenes, old friends, that we once more may know
Childhood's first step and youth's first stride,
When light of dawn and life was on its face,
In happy days, far off and long ago.

J. G. Boyle
Named Twp.
SupervisorBoard is Reorganized By Appointment of Farm
Residents.

DEAN OLARK OLARK

Organization of a temporary township board, to function until the regular election next Spring, was completed the first of the week with the resignation of Irenus Sparks (Rep.) as clerk and the appointment of Dean Clark (Dem.) in his place.

Previous changes which were necessary for the creation of a temporary board were resignation of Harry Beck (Dem.) as supervisor and the appointment of Jesse G. Boyle (Rep.) to fill his place, and the resignation of Wilson Leiter (Rep.) as Justice, Charles Richter being appointed in his place. With Justice Ira Neiswander, who by virtue of residence in the country, survived the change in government, these new appointments constitute a temporary township board in conformity with legal provisions which required that that body be composed of the supervisor, the clerk and two Justices of longest standing. Other township offices which automatically became vacant from the fact that their incumbents lived in town were not filled since the township had been officially advised that only the official board would be essential for a legal transaction of township business until the election next Spring.

By the device of resignation of officials living in town and replacements by rural residents of the township, the board forestalled complete disorganization which would have resulted if they had neglected to act until they lost office. The action was taken on the advice of the county attorney's office. According to advice from the state attorney general, an alternative procedure was opened through the township—that of permitting the disorganization to take place and the subsequent calling of a special meeting by township residents for the purpose of temporary organization.

K. Mather Hurt
When Car Plunges
Over 14 ft. Bank

Kenneth Mather received treatment for scalp cuts at the Wallace hospital late Friday night, having driven his car over a 14-foot embankment at a curve on the stone road between Buchanan and Glendora. Mather reported that his car landed upright in a marsh from which it was pulled by a neighboring farmer. Mather was covered with muck and water and was furnished a change of clothing at the farm before coming to town. A peculiar feature of the accident was the fact that the injuries in part consisted of the reopening of scalp wounds incurred in an accident a few days before.

NEW FACTORY WOULD LOCATE
IN BUCHANANChicago Concern, Manufacturing Women's Dresses
Desires to Locate Here.

20 TO 40 WOMEN NEEDED

Immediately Available Help is only Qualification Demanded by Concern.

Possibility of the establishment in Buchanan of a branch factory for the manufacture of women's dresses is indicated in the announcement elsewhere in this issue of Aaron Strauss & Co., of Chicago, that a plant will be maintained here if sufficient women employees can be secured to operate a local unit.

Twenty to forty women will be needed at once to put the plant in operation, and later development will depend upon the readiness with which the enterprise expands locally. The firm is an established and going concern and has ample volume of business to operate the local plant to capacity in addition to a number of other factories over the country which they are now running.

Quarters for housing the operations of the company are being arranged for. It is understood that space in vacant buildings will be utilized for the present, if the response justifies the opening of a branch factory here.

No experience is required of employees, all employees being paid while they are learning the details of the business. The only requirement is that sufficient help be immediately available.

Local women who are interested in entering the employ of the company may signify their willingness to do so by registering at Joseph Roti Roti's Shoe Store. The company is amply financed and asks nothing from the city in the way of inducements or the purchase of stock.

PORTAGE ST.
SEWER NEARS
COMPLETIONProgress is Swifter as the Leaky Tile is Replaced.

FINISHED BY SEPT.

The Portage street storm and sanitary sewer, storm center of two successive administrations, and one of the knottiest problems in finance and engineering that has ever arisen in Buchanan civic affairs, may be an accomplished fact by the end of the present week barring a repetition of the accidents and unforeseen obstacles which have been the rule throughout the fourteen months of installation.

Progress by the city sewer force directed by A. E. Hipskind has been rapid during the past week, due to lessening of the flow of water as more of the leaky tiles have been replaced. Installation has proceeded at the rate of 10 to 25 feet daily and only 20 feet remains until the Central Court manhole is reached, where replacement is scheduled to stop. Superintendent Hipskind stated this morning that in all probability it would take two additional weeks to complete the house connections and level the street, which will then be ready for the installation of the Walton Road paving.

Work was begun the first of the week at the lower or Portage end to install the remaining two blocks of the Third street storm and sanitary sewers. Progress on this section depends on the amount of water encountered, which is certain to be heavy at the lower end. Hipskind stated that he hoped to complete this section in two more weeks, in order that the entire contract might be completed by the first of September, when the village administration will relinquish the reins of government to the commissioners.

Newspaper Delivery
Truck is Destroyed
On N. Main Friday

The Ford delivery truck used by the Benton Harbor News-Palladium in daily deliveries through Berrien County, was entirely destroyed by fire Friday evening and the driver, Fred Pihl of Benton Harbor, narrowly escaped serious injury when it was overturned while rounding the curve on North Main street opposite the Albert Banke residence. The truck travels at high speed in making its late afternoon schedule of ten towns, and it is believed that Pihl attempted to negotiate the Main street corner at too great speed. The truck went into the gutter at the left and struck a concrete culvert abutment, when the driver lost control and the vehicle swerved back and overturned across the highway. The motor burst into flames which rapidly spread to the remainder of the truck.

FLAMES TAKE
FARM BLDGS.Large Barn on Old Lawrence
House Farm is Destroyed.

ON THE STATE LINE

The destruction of the large barn on the former Lawrence House farm, six miles southwest of Buchanan together with several head of live stock last Friday evening represents the latest addition to the considerable roll of farm losses by fire in this district during the past month to which the extremely dry weather has been a contributing factor.

The House farm was sold last year to Vern Frary of South Bend, and is occupied by B. R. Kline and son, O. B. Kline. The latter had returned from South Bend that night, arriving about 11:30 p. m. He states that he saw no fire, then, but twenty minutes later, just after he had gone to bed, his attention was attracted by the violent barking of his dog and he went to the window and saw the entire barn and the adjacent straw pile bursting into flames. He roused his father and both rushed out, but were unable to enter the building to rescue live stock. The structure contained a team of horses, one of which managed to escape unaided, after being badly burned. The other burned to death, as did also a registered Red Poll bull, a milk cow, one calf and five pigs. Several sets of harness and a number of items of farm machinery were also burned.

The barn was a large frame structure, 104x40 feet in dimension, 30 feet to the peak of the roof. In part it was a very old structure, originally built of oak and tulip timber. An addition had been added later. At the east end was a cement silo, 40 feet in height, which was damaged by the flames. To date no trace of insurance has been discovered on the farm or any of its contents.

The barn was located exactly on the state line, nearly all of the structures being in Indiana, but the north side touched the Michigan line. The extreme heat scorched the corn on both sides of the state line, within a radius of 150 feet from the barn.

A call for aid was sent to the South Bend fire department, and a chemical truck made a rapid run but arrived too late to do anything. Neighbors had established bucket lines from a pump to the other farm buildings and had prevented the spread of the flames in which they were aided by an easterly wind.

WAS THERE 25 YEARS

Pays Fine Tribute to His Predecessor, Claude
V. Glover.

F. C. Hathaway, resident of Buchanan, during most of his lifetime, and an employee of the Clark Equipment company for the past 25 years, became the first mayor of the newly organized city, as the result of action taken by the commission at an organization meeting held Monday night.

Two candidates were placed for nomination, Charles Pears nominating F. C. Hathaway and Frank Merson nominating Mathias J. Kelling, the former being elected by a vote of 3 to 2.

Hathaway states that this is his first experience in office holding, and that he had entertained no ambition for political preferment, having been placed in nomination by friends at the special election against his wishes. During an active life spent almost entirely in Buchanan he has gained a wide acquaintance here and the place he enjoys in the esteem of his fellow citizens is indicated by the handsome vote he received. On August 1st he retired from his position as general foreman at the Clark Equipment company plant after 24½ years of service, and is now at liberty to devote his time to public affairs.

Mr. Hathaway paid a high tribute to his predecessor, President Claude V. Glover, stating that he had known him all his life and was satisfied that in honesty and conscientious performance of duty he was beyond criticism.

Remains of Former Resident Arrive
For Burial Today

The remains of Mrs. Matilda C. Wilbur, former Buchanan resident, are scheduled to arrive here today for interment, a funeral service having been arranged for 2:30 p. m. (daylight savings) Friday, at the Christian Church. Rev. Griffith will preach the funeral sermon.

Mrs. Wilbur left Buchanan following the death of her husband, about 19 years ago, and moved to Glendora, Calif., where she died in July. The remains were kept in a mausoleum there until the present week, when they were transferred here to be buried by the side of her husband, John Wilbur.

The Wilbur family were residents of Buchanan for several years, living for many years west of town on Front street. Later John Wilbur built the structure now owned by Dr. L. E. Widmeyer which housed the post office until recently, installing a variety store on the street floor and living in the second story.

The remains are to be accompanied here by a daughter, Dr. Charlotte Norrell and husband, Dr. J. L. Norrell, of Oak Park, Ill. Four other daughters survive: Mrs. Anna Byre of Illinois; Mrs. May McGrail of California; and Miss Cora Wilbur of California.

HOUSE STRIPPED

Anyone who removed household goods, clothing or other property from the former Chas. Pears farm following the raid Friday, under the mistaken impression that it had been abandoned by the owners, may return such property at once without fear of prosecution, according to a party which arrived from South Bend Sunday to take possession of the place.

The party in charge consists of two women and several children representing the families of two of the men arrested, and a male relative who is staying with them for the time. They arrived Sunday and found the entire place stripped of household goods, furniture and all personal belongings, even to plaster board which was stripped from the walls. After the news that the families had returned became known in Buchanan, several parties returned articles which they had taken, including a sewing machine, two mattresses, bedding, and articles of clothing. All articles returned were brought back at night and left at the outside gate, a quarter of a mile from the house where they were found on the following morning. The wives of the men state that they are in great need of a number of articles, including women's and children's clothing. They state that they realize that the property was taken under the mistaken impression that it had been abandoned, and that there was no intention to commit theft. They feel certain that all the property will be restored as soon as the public learns the facts of the case. They also state that they have learned of the whereabouts of a number of articles taken, including two police dogs. A partial list of the articles taken was as follows: nine pairs of sheets, two pairs new blankets, nine pairs pillow slips, 2 day beds, several suits of men's clothes, several dresses, children's clothing, dishes, cutlery, cooking utensils, a dozen chairs, gasoline lamp, electric iron, a flowered woolen rug colored red, yellow and brown, gasoline stove, rear cushion of Studebaker sedan colored grey with green stripe, plaster board, 2 German Police dogs, and 1 small white haired dog.

One of the women states that a man's suit which was taken is believed to have contained valuable papers and some money.

The raiding party also found a column still of the type used in the manufacture of alcohol, which extended 25 feet from the basement to the second story. A 2-h.p. steam engine was installed. In the basement for the purpose of pumping the mash and a steam boiler was installed for heating purposes. A gasoline engine had been installed at the edge of the river to elevate water through a pipe line to the house. An underground tile from the house to the river served as a drain, the lower end of the tile being under the water. The value of the plant was estimated by Scully at about $10,000.

About two tons of corn sugar, the main ingredient in alcohol manufacture were found in the out-building and hundreds of empty sugar sacks were found in the barn.

The Federal raiding party entered the place about 6 o'clock Friday morning and found the still running full blast with two Italians in charge and three asleep in bed. The two operatives who were awake dodged out and ran east up the river bank but were soon caught and returned their hands for the steel bracelets in a manner which hinted at previous experience with the type of jewelry. They were taken immediately to Kalamazoo, but two women and five children at the

Underground Vats Hold 30-

Mash.

Operation of a 500 gallon capacity column alcohol still working day and night shifts to supply truck line serving city and in four states came to an end Friday morning when a force of Federal agents led by State Deputy Prohibition Administrator Arthur G. Scully raided the former Pears farm on the north bank of the St. Joseph river two miles east of Buchanan, confiscating the plant and arresting five Italian operatives.

The Italians were taken to Kalamazoo and arraigned before United States Commissioner Forest B. Simon to whom they gave the following names: Giuseppe Saccken, Joseph Sole, Joseph Rallo, John Lompla, and George Pardi.

The still was one of the largest ever captured in Southern Michigan outside of Detroit, according to Scully, who estimated the daily output at 200 gallons of alcohol, retailing to the city trade at $5.50 per gallon. It was located on a high bluff opposite the present location of the Orchard Hill Country Club house, it commands a fine river view and was at one time a familiar stopping place for small boats whose owners tied there and sought entertainment for the night. The original title to the farm, bearing the signature of Andrew Jackson, was transferred by Cotton to Wm. Pears and by him to his son, Chas. Pears, who owned the place until last spring. In April Pears sold the place consisting of thirty acres and buildings, to Victor Sacckiri, a Chicago Sicilian, who represented that he was a macaroni manufacturer and wished to raise wheat for his product.

Residents of neighboring farms say that the owner immediately hauled a large quantity of cement blocks, presumably for the construction of underground vats built to contain mash. Four such vats were built under the house, each 8 foot long, 8 foot deep and 5 feet wide. A small concrete vat was built a few yards east of the house and under it was constructed a second series of vats, 8 feet deep, and with a combined area of 15x20 feet. The total capacity of all these vats was estimated at 25,000 to 30,000 gallons.

The raiding party also found a column still of the type used in the manufacture of alcohol, which extended 25 feet from the basement to the second story. A 2-h.p. steam engine was installed. In the basement for the purpose of pumping the mash and a steam boiler was installed for heating purposes. A gasoline engine had been installed at the edge of the river to elevate water through a pipe line to the house. An underground tile from the house to the river served as a drain, the lower end of the tile being under the water. The value of the plant was estimated by Scully at about $10,000.

It is only now and then that an educational picture is made, depicting the pitfalls and temptations of this jazz mad age. Such a picture is being presented at the Princess theater on Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 20 and 21 in "Why Girls Go Wrong." The picture was made from the stage success "Youth Asleep" and presents love and life of today with its wild parties staged by the young shields and their foolish girls.

The picture proves to be a powerful and interesting lesson on who's to blame and at the same time is very good entertainment.

"Why Girls Go Wrong" is especially interesting to married people and children under 14 years will not be admitted unless accompanied by adults.

Among the other attractions during the week will be "No Defense" starring Monte Blue; "The Phantom City," starring Ken Maynard; "Love Over Night," with Rod LaRocque and "The Faker," Monte Blue has always been a favorite with theatre goers in Buchanan and "No Defense" should prove exceptionally entertaining.

Saturday's offering is one of the best for several weeks. "The Phantom City" is one of Maynard's best pictures. In addition you will find an Our Gang Comedy, "School Begins" which presents these juveniles at their liveliest.

Older men employed as factory workers in this state experience fewer compensable injuries than younger men, according to a bulletin released today by the statistical bureau, Division of Industrial Safety, Department of Labor and Industry. Workers whose ages range from 20 to 24 years experience personal injury frequency 39 per cent greater than persons whose ages are 45 to 64 years, and 22 per cent greater than those between the ages of 25 and 44 years. The report says further:

"The survey shows that the frequency of the group over 65 years of age is 147 per cent lower than in the 20 to 24 group, and 112 per cent lower than in the 25 to 44 year group. In injuries of a permanent nature such as amputations the 20 to 24 year group is 154 per cent higher than the 45 to 64 year group and 23 per cent above the 25 to 44 year group. A very low figure of injuries to minors is attributed to restriction of the industries and occupations in which they are permitted to work.

"Fourteen year old workers experience accident frequency of 15.4 injuries per 10,000 workers of this age employed; 3.8 in the 15 year group; 8.5 in the 16 year group, and 14.4 for 17 year old employees. During the period studied the 16 year group is the only division among minors contributing to the serious accident column, they showing 8 of one person, permanently disabled in every 10,000 of that age employed.

"At ages 18 and 19 fatal accidents appear with 65 of one person killed in every 10,000 employed. Permanent disabilities increase to 2.6, all accidents in this age group jumping to a frequency of 62.58. Ages 20 and 24 have the highest frequency of any group, accounting for 71 in fatalities, 5.33 permanent disabilities, or 34.15 persons receiving all degrees of disability in 10,000 employed. A slight decrease is shown in the group from 25 to 44 years, while the older men, from 45 to 64 years of age are accountable for a very noticeable decrease to .69 fatalities, 2.12 permanent disabilities, or a total of 58.98 accidents per 10,000 employed in this age group.

"A further reduction in total number of injuries sustained is seen in the group over 65 years of age.

Difference in Dancing

According to a dancing expert, there is no difference between clog and tap dancing in the modern sense. Tap dancing is sometimes called clogging. These dances are composed chiefly of motions of the feet which result in combinations of various sounds made by different parts of the foot tapping or beating the floor, and these sounds or beats are called taps. Clog dancing is a more general term.

Fed. Agents Arrest Five in Big Haul

house were permitted to go. The latter left immediately for Chicago. The agents loaded the still on a truck, after "spiking" the mash with turpentine and kerosene.

Residents on nearby farms say that many cars visited the place during the day-time in early summer, nearly all coming apparently by way of U. S. 31 from Indiana. Late, however, there has been few visitors, the main traffic to the farm being trucks which came and left at early morning hours. Federal agents guarded the road for several nights previous to the raid and stated that the trucks bore Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Ohio licenses.

The residents on the farm permitted no one to enter the yard near the house, meeting all chance visitors at the gate. They also ordered boys in the neighborhood not to follow the river bank thru the farm. Otherwise they appeared friendly and had paid neighboring farmers liberally for caring for crops on the place.

Have Faith in Yourself
Buck up—you're as good as the other fellow, if you only think you are. Don't be the victim of an inferiority complex. The first thing to do is to believe in yourself, then you won't have much trouble with other people.—Grit.

Phoenicians First
While ancient Egypt knew ships which would sail upon the Nile, credit is usually given to the Phoenicians for the building of the first galleys which could stand sea travel. As early as 900 B. C. the Phoenician war galleys had reached the trireme stage and had decks, masts, yards, sails, etc.

Telephone Poles
The number of telephone poles to the mile is usually 40 to heavily loaded lines and 80 on lightly loaded lines, except where there are many curves, when the number of poles may be more in either case.

Half of Lives Insured
The proportion of people in the United States who carry life insurance is roughly estimated at 50 per cent.

Early American Architect. The first professional architect in America was Peter Harrison. He probably arrived in this country in 1645. While engaged in designing the Redwood library at Newport, R. I., he was invited to prepare plans for the rebuilding of King's chapel, Boston. In 1761 Harrison built the brick Market house at Newport, R. I., afterward used for a city hall. He died in New Haven April 30, 1773, at the age of fifty-nine.

Term of Derision. A nincompoop is a foolish or silly person; a boob. The origin of the word is uncertain. Some think it is a corruption of Latin legal phrase "non comperis" which is a shortened form of "non comperis munda," meaning not possessed of one's mind. "Lidpoo" is also applied to a silly person.

In Conflict With Peace. Five great enemies of peace in habit with us—avarice, ambition, envy, anger and pride; if these were to be banished, we should in fact enjoy perpetual peace.—Petrarch.

Start with Modest Home Says President Bldg. & Loan League

Less of false pride and more of common sense is a great need in America's home building and buying program today, is the opinion of E. B. Tyrrell, president of the Michigan Building and Loan League. Mr. Tyrrell says: "Pride is laudable, yet when it creates merely a 'front' and necessitates a grim struggle to keep up this pose, it goes too far. When pride undermines happiness, it is time to call a halt."

"Americans of today want the best, whether it be in the purchase of a box of candy or in a home. They want the world to know that they desire the best, and making the wish the father of the thought, they plunge. Then the struggle begins, a struggle which, though it may be kept from the eyes of the world, saps the strength of body and mind and wrecks happiness."

"The desire to have the best is worthy, but when a man builds or buys a home, efficacy lies in willingness to begin modestly rather than to insist on starting at the point where, after years of work, his parents have finished. If he has a lot and but a small amount of money he might best build a modest house or even a garage on the back of the lot, then by his own effort or by hired labor put up a more pretentious house a few years later."

"By so doing he probably will be able to accumulate sufficient funds to pay cash for a considerable part of the material and labor going into the house, and with the aid of a first mortgage, eliminate the need of 'junior financing' that is, taking out a second mortgage or land contract, both of which are expensive."

"By this plan, a man can build once, sell his home after a few years, then build again. This

Cornstalk Can Now Be Harvested

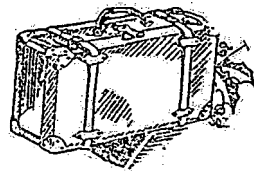

Mechanical engineers of Iowa State Agricultural college have perfected a machine which is expected to revolutionize the harvesting of cornstalks for making paper. Hauled by a tractor, the machine cuts the stalks and carries them by a conveyor to a receptacle at the rear where they are baled ready to haul to the factory.

Niles Centennial Celebration Will Be Mammoth Event

Things are booming in Niles for their mammoth Centennial celebration, that is to be held three big days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 22, 23, 24. So much is being done now, with so much to be done every hour that a small army of workers are aglow with enthusiasm.

Committee meetings are being called every 48 hours by Dr. Fred N. Bonine, centennial president, so that the many arrangements can be cared for, as they appear.

A large program of events have been arranged for every day, including a Centennial Ball at the Elks Club, band concerts, baseball games, mammoth air circus, Madri Gras on the public streets, Rotary, Lions and Exchange Club days, Governor's Day, Military Parade and air craft display, home coming festival, display of antiques and relics, and a feature of the celebration, "The Historical Pageant," with 1000 in the cast.

A campaign of advertising has been mapped out and will give the centennial wide spread publicity. The Civic Associations have endorsed the coming celebration in its entirety and has promised to interest the civic clubs of all the cities and towns within the radius of 100 miles, by forwarding literature and asking their co-operation in this worthy educational and highly entertaining project.

Niles is one of the many progressive cities in Michigan that is giving a celebration on their 100th anniversary this year.

During the past six months, the many club officers and committee members have been busy perfecting the arrangements, and to conduct a smashing efficient business and publicity campaign for Niles and their community. The city government extends a hearty invitation to all, especially former residents, to visit Niles and help make this a real "Old Home Week."

"Oh, the suffering and expense I could have saved, had I known of this wonderful medicine, Konjola, years ago. Konjola went right to the seat of my trouble. A full treatment—six bottles—and I am a well man; better than I ever expected to be. Believe me when I say no one need be in doubt about Konjola's merits; I speak from experience."

Green Defends His Supreme Penalty Veto

Gov. Fred Green declares himself convinced that his recent veto of the bill passed by the last State Legislature, attempting to restore capital punishment in Michigan, represents the consistent growth of opinion in this State since territorial days. This opinion, he says, has crystallized so strongly by 1917 that Michigan that year became the first State in the American Union to abolish capital punishment.

Michigan inherited capital punishment from its territorial government when it became a state in 1837. Executions were common under French and English control of the territory. For 60 years after the coming of the English, capital punishment continued until public sentiment banished it from Detroit and the entire State. The change in public sentiment is regarded to have dated definitely from 1830.

This historical background was before Governor Green in his veto of the legislative bill. He also objected to the specific terms of the proposed law which, he pointed out, would have inflicted the supreme penalty on every person convicted in a first degree case "regardless of age, sex or circumstances. It includes the boy of 17 or the woman of 70." In his veto message the executive remarked:

"We are not suffering from a lack of laws. Our need is a good strong, healthy public sentiment for law enforcement. If we could develop a sentiment that would stand for making a life sentence mean a life sentence we would have less reason for complaint about crime."

The League to Abolish Capital Punishment with headquarters in New York was active in the campaign against restoration of the extreme penalty in Michigan.

Michigan's Great Use of Power

Michigan produces and uses more than half as much electric power as all of Great Britain, according to a comparison of Michigan statistics with a report sent to the U. S. Department of Commerce by Trade Commissioner Homer S. Fox at London and just made public at Washington, states the Michigan Public Utility Information Bureau.

Consumption of electricity in Great Britain in 1928 totaled 7,602,000,000 kilowatt hours, says the report. This was an increase of 10 per cent over 1927. During the past six years Great Britain's consumption has more than doubled.

In Michigan in 1928, electric power produced by public utility plants totaled 4,346,687,000 kilowatt hours, according to the United States Geological Survey, or 57 per cent as much as all the power consumed in Great Britain. During the past six years, Michigan's use of electric power has also doubled.

July Air Mail Sets New Mark

For the second consecutive month all previous records for the number of pounds of air mail and express carried by the National Air Transport planes were broken in July. The planes also set a new record for miles flown, with a total of 254,534.

The total mail poundage carried reached 191,052, an increase of 18,660 pounds over the June record. The express poundage was 7,857, an increase of 295 pounds over June.

Ninety-nine per cent of the scheduled trips were completed by the N. A. T. fliers, aided, officials said, by recently installed radio equipment. Nearly five times as many pounds of mail were carried over the eastern half of the route as over the western section.

Pick 'em Up—Lay 'em Down

Mrs. Studebaker Expresses View of 'Wet Goods'

Editor Record,

Here I come again. After reading what Old Timer had to say in a recent article that I must be "wet." That would be hard for me to take from anyone, much less from a Chicagoan as I would not like to be judged by the "wets" stopping there. I can give myself the credit of being the most dry person in the United States, simply for this reason. I'm governed by a higher power here in this glorious, grand, mountainous state. It was hard for me at first to obey the law after living for years 75 miles from Chicago, Milwaukee and other wet places. I affirm I am not wet. Now as Old Timer has not seen me for 30 years he should not judge. Then it was free for all who had the price. Very different here. The office's are standing around at all our depots to nab and collect from all Easterners who seem to have too large hips. They confiscate a lot of it.

I doubt very much whether Old Timer on his many journeys, ever planted his No. 11's on our rocks or drank from our mountain rills.

We are all wearing overcoats and mufflers and "snuggery" and nice today. Harry Binns will bear me out in most of this I think for he spent one winter here.

Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of most importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect. Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

AT AGE 83

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

NEW ROUND OAK Gas Ranges. You get more for your money and many extra years of service.

Many a woman in a home otherwise modern is fussing with an old-fashioned gas range. Home furnishings—interior decorations—habits of living—even thinking, have sharply changed in the last few years. No longer is cooking, cleaning, sweeping, dusting and housekeeping a woman's career. She must have the time to lead the fuller life.

To do this she must have household equipment that will do her work easier, quicker and more economically or the effort to keep up with modern living will wear her out physically and nervously.

An Old Range is as Absurd to a Woman as a 1918 Car is to Her Husband

No matter if your old range still seems to work—why suffer the daily extravagance and unsatisfactory results of 1918 methods in part of your home? You'll be money ahead—you'll be time ahead, and you'll be much happier with the NEW ROUND OAK, that in beauty and in convenience is designed to meet modern conditions.

To be sure of getting the best value as well as the most modern range ever built, see the NEW ROUND OAK before you select any range—anywhere—at any price.

Exercise in the Garden.

There is no better exercise than gardening. Spading, planting, hoeing, weeding bring all the muscles of the body into play out in the open where the health-giving sun beats down upon you. Such exercise requires few accouterments, little expense and not much space. A spade, a fork, a hoe, a rake, a supply of seeds—these are all the things you really have to buy and, as compared with the implements necessary to participation in most games, they are almost ridiculously cheap. And an ordinary city back yard provides space enough. Try spading up or hoeing over a garden 40 feet long and 20 feet wide and see if you do not think so. It seems like the great open spaces. It is astounding what weeds can accomplish in 800 square feet of ground.

We have been speaking of exercise, but keeping fit is not the gardener's only reward. Among the others may be mentioned the radish, the tomato, the Golden Bantam corn and the bean, both Lima and stringless, or string. Nothing you buy in the market tastes so good as what comes out of your own garden, whether it really is as good or not. Mind exerts a powerful influence over matter, even over an extra dry radish.

A Tax on Home Brew.

In the first month of its operation the Tennessee law levying a special tax on malt extract, enacted for the avowed purpose of making the home brew industry pay, has yielded $15,000. Three hundred thousand pounds of the extract, enough to make 2,000,000 12-ounce bottles of beer, were sold in Tennessee in June. Tennessee's total population is somewhat in excess of 2,000,000, so this was less than a bottle apiece for each man, woman and child, but we suppose some got more than their share.

That these figures are a trustworthy index to the prevalence of the home brew habit in Tennessee is doubtful. A month is too short a time to judge by. It may be that the thrifty stocked up on malt extract before the tax went into effect, as people fill up their tanks when another cent is about to be added to the gasoline tax. But a year's experience with the new Tennessee tax, if it survives the courts, ought to provide some reasonably accurate statistics on one phase of the drink situation under prohibition in one of the states. Tennessee appears to have solved the problem of how to abolish alcoholic beverages and still get public revenue out of them. Could not some scheme be evolved by the federal authorities for taxing home brew, Canadian importations and the products of stills and paying off the national debt?

Two Important Changes

After 60 years' record as a monthly magazine The Century will become a quarterly during the fall. With a record of more than 100 years The Youth's Companion of Boston will merge with The American Boy and the publication office will be moved to Detroit. Here are two notable changes. The Century has won and held a world reputation among monthly magazines for the excellence of its product. It long has been a favorite with thousands of adult readers in this and other lands. The Youth's Companion is the oldest juvenile publication in the nation, has been a favorite with three generations of American boys.

Both changes are made to harmonize with modern day thought and custom. The announcement of The Century is that the world is rushing ahead, next month's magazines are at hand before the current number has been read. The Century selects the longer perspective and the wider view of the quarterly and emphasizes the thought of proceeding with some leisure in reading. The step is one in protest against the speeding up of all customs in the magazine field, and, as such, is welcomed by Editor Holland.

If the publishing house of Perry Mason & Co., disappears from Boston it will be a real loss to many. Thousands of American men sent their subscriptions to that firm and found abundant pleasure in reading The Youth's Companion for a year. It was clean, educational, always interesting. It had popularity because it deserved it. It survived many changes in conditions and prospered through the years. The American Boy is 30 years old, vigorous and abreast of the times. It is a Westerner. The Companion has been more an Eastern publication. Combined it should have the best in both fields. Announcement of the two changes will interest many thousands of people, young and old, who have been and are friendly to the publications.

Bobby Jones Says No.

Following the now historic example of Mr. Coolidge, Bobby Jones does not choose to run for Congress from the Fifth Georgia district. Ambitious friends from Canton County, the home of Bobby's grandfather, Robert Tyre Jones, Sr., called upon the British and American open golf champion recently to urge him to be a candidate to fill the vacancy left by the death not long ago of Representative Leslie J. Steele. They advanced the argument that Bobby's ability "as a lawyer and his international fame as a golfer would make him a serious contender."

It was considerate of his well-wishers to suggest Bobby's name for the vacancy. Stranger things have happened than that he might be elected if he were to consent to run. But the lawyer-golfer probably showed more discretion in declining to run than his ardent admirers did in urging his name, explaining diplomatically that he "was not politically inclined and preferred to continue the practice of law." In any event, Bobby showed Mayor Walker, a fellow Democrat, that there is some one who can say no.

The Mexican War Veteran

More than four score years have passed since the City of Mexico was captured by American soldiers and hostilities of the Mexican War came to an end. This country had 107,631 soldiers in service during that war. Death claimed the greater number of these veterans many years ago, but one of the survivors, William F. T. Buckner, died recently at his home in Missouri, at the ripe age of 101. The claim is made that only one Mexican War veteran now is living, Owen T. Acre of Washington, D. C. Fifteen years ago the veterans of that organization held a reunion in Chillicothe, O., and six men were present, each a resident of Ohio. It was the last time the veterans tried to have a reunion. Great age had rendered them so nearly physically helpless that reunions were impossible.

Following each war there are veterans who far outlive their comrades, survive their generation and stay to see the world made over. In Guernsey county, O., is the grave of one of the men who spent the winter at Valley Forge with General Washington. He lived well past the century mark, some friends claim he was the last Revolutionary survivor. The correctness of that claim may be open to argument but friends make it. It is true he far outlived his comrades who were residents of Ohio.

Nearly the normal span of years has passed since the Civil War ended, but there are thousands of old soldiers still alive, some enjoying wonderful health and bodily vigor despite their soldier day experiences. Doubtless among these veterans are those who will show that persistence of life that carries them on long after comrades have been mustered out. The world loves these old patriots, probably far more than they are able to understand in their latest years, when peace and quiet are all they have the capacity to enjoy and when men and life in the world outdoors have ceased to interest them. Nature gives them freedom from worry, they dream of other days and genial friends, lives of many of those who live so long, there is a ripe sweetness developed in the

Not New but True.

In its initial announcement, the Federal Farm Board earns the respect of intelligent observers by not hinting at any miracle, but by saying that the approach to better prices for the farmer lies through improved organization of marketing facilities, and by announcing that it will attend the American Institution of Cooperation at Baton Rouge. The assertion that better marketing is the way to better conditions is not new, but it is true, and the way to better marketing is through co-operation. That has been demonstrated in parts of the United States and in some foreign areas.

"The board firmly believes that in many instances increase of prices at the farm may be accomplished without increase of price to the ultimate consumer." But if that should not prove to be true as to all commodities the consumer hardly would cry calamity.

The price of a suit of clothes is not based wholly, or mainly, upon the price at the farm of the wool that the suit contains. The world admits that raw commodities must pass through the hands of middlemen before finished commodities reach the hands of consumers, and that toll will be taken, of the consumer, by and for the middlemen, from the time the raw commodity begins to move.

It is probable that wheat could be sold much higher than it is without vitimized bran being sold at more per box than it now commands, for if anyone should weigh the bran from a bushel of wheat, and ascertain its price at the mill, or at the farm, he would find that the bran in the box figures, as a factor in cost, like the wool in clothing, or the steel in a typewriter.

At present bread costs twice what it cost in 1914 without the farmer getting twice, or anything like twice, for what he got for wheat in 1914.

If California prunes, better packed, better graded, than they were formerly, cost more than they cost before co-operative marketing there has been no outcry about the price and there is less outcry against prunes.

The $50,000 which Congress appropriated to educate the people on the value of prohibition is going to be used in a comprehensive survey of the situation and probably that is the most commendable way of wasting the money that has been suggested.

A not infallible but still pretty fair test of a man's age is his attitude toward making the trip by airplane.

It would be interesting to know what is being done about Washington while Detroit is being dried up.

Food Preservation Campaign Scheduled For Month Sept.

The nation-wide food preservation campaign is scheduled for September, but the opening guns was fired August 10th, according to Mr. Bouws of the Michigan Gas & Electric Co.

"This crusade against food spoilage and ill health resulting from partially or badly refrigerated foods is to be the most aggressive one ever launched in behalf of the public weal. The publicity line-up is on a huge scale, and will involve the use of outdoor posters, truck banners, window displays, milk bottle jackets, movie slides, newspaper advertisements of large size, and advertisements in leading national magazines with circulations which insure the attention of the majority of the reading people of the entire country."

"Preparation for this campaign has been under way for many months. There has been intensive study by health authorities, light and power companies, medical associations, refrigerator manufacturers, ice manufacturers, and a score or more of other interested groups, the sole purpose of all being to publish accurate information on the subject of what is the correct temperature at which foods should be kept to make them palatable and safe to eat."

"Almost immediately specially salesmen representing the various co-operating agencies will be getting about the country organizing local councils. Picked men are on the publicity committee—men from leading manufacturing concerns and advertising agencies. Among them is Earl Lines, advertising director of the Kelvinox Corporation, Detroit. The executive committee is composed of ten men who are leading figures in the power company and electric refrigerator manufacturing fields, among these being G. W. Mason, President of the Kelvinox Corporation."

"The whole program has the endorsement and recommendation of important forces in the nation, including such key organizations as the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture, National Dairy Council, American Institute of Refrigeration and the big gas, electric and illuminating associations. There are twenty regional directors, men of high standing in their various local communities and in the country at large. A feature of the crusade will be a national contest for prizes starting at $10,000 and running down to hundreds of prizes of from $5 to $100 in gold, to be awarded for best essays on the topic 'Why 50 Degrees is the Danger Point.'"

It is the consensus of opinion among informed men and organizations that there is real need for the educational benefit of this campaign, to the end that the health of our adult and infant population may be conserved thru the intelligent adoption of methods to preserve food. At present there is a lack of definite knowledge on the subject of proper food refrigeration. This national crusade will certainly disseminate complete information on the subject, which cannot fail to produce results that will be far-reaching in health preservation. All dealers in refrigeration agencies of every sort will heartily co-operate, not merely as a business proposition, but from a sense of public duty and good citizenship."

Fear of Gaseous Refrigeration is Not Well Founded

Washington, Aug. 14—Reassurance against "undue anxiety" on the part of users of refrigeration systems because of recent deaths in Chicago attributed to escaping methyl chloride, has been given by the bureau of standards and mines after an investigation. Three gases, methyl chloride, ammonia and sulphur dioxide, are used as "refrigerants" in common mechanical refrigerators, the report said. Although none of them can be breathed "with impunity" they are not violent poisons when breathed for a short time, in low concentration, it was stated. Sulphur dioxide and ammonia both have strong odors, the report said. Methyl chloride "has a slight and rather pleasant odor which probably would not awaken a sleeping person and might not be recognized by anyone who was awake," said the bureau. "These Chicago deaths have received wide publicity, and have caused apprehension even among the users of refrigerating equipment entirely unlike that to which the fatalities have been attributed," the report said.

"Newspaper headlines and statements to the effect that the fatalities in Chicago were caused by 'gas refrigeration' without doubt has reference only to the fact that refrigerants are gases."

Illuminating or fuel gas in no way was involved. "A large majority of the individual household refrigerators of the motor driven type now in use employ sulphur dioxide as the refrigerant. Nearly all of the domestic refrigerators the operation of which depends on supplying heat instead of mechanical compression, use ammonia."

Honey First Sweetener

Sugar is a comparatively recent addition to the household store. Until 100 years ago it was a luxury, and was not available commercially to anyone until the fourteenth century. Honey was its predecessor as a sweetening agent, while maple sugar was known to the Indians in some parts of North America.

Because of the competition of foreign-owned factories, many native cigar plants in China are closing down.

Ocean Never at Rest
The ocean is never perfectly smooth. Waves are always encountered, or at least a ground swell. There are certain portions of the coast where rough water occurs more frequently than others, as off the coast of Newfoundland, the coast of northern New England and Cape Hatteras. Cape Henry, off the coast of Virginia, is also known to have waves of considerable height.

Iso-Vis is a newer motor oil—equally dependable. It represents a sensational advance in lubrication for it will not thin out. Motorists drive for 1000 or 2000 miles without draining Iso-Vis.

Polarine has been kept abreast of developments. It is a modern oil, for modern engines—with the reputation of years of satisfactory service behind it. Drain Polarine every 500 miles and you'll have no lubrication worries.

TIME PAYMENT WAVE RECEDES

WAR-WAGE BUYING ORGY IS PASSED BUT HEADACHE REMAINS, SAYS SOVEREIGN.

Renewing his statement that the wave of time payment sales has passed its crest, and that the thrifty American citizen is again discovering that industry and trade always pay a bonus to the cash buyer, Otto E. Sovereign of Bay City General Manager of the Alladin Company, points out certain lessons learned by home builders, during the last decade.

"The building boom that followed the war was featured by many so-called financing plans," recalls Mr. Sovereign. "People bought lots on time payments, and built homes on them, also on long-time credit. Of course, they paid more, but they were not then in the mood to care.

"Everybody knows what followed. When sickness, unemployment or any other catastrophe occurred, and the payments could not be met, the home was lost, and the family's savings went with it. In Detroit alone, more than 60,000 families lost investments of this kind in varying stages of completion.

"Such a result is calamity—individual and collective. But it is not without eventual benefit. It has taught a lesson. These families will never again place their savings thus in peril. They will refuse to build until they can own their building site outright. When they start construction of the home itself they will either pay cash, or they will make a large enough payment to enable themselves to handle the rest through their bank or building and loan association.

"The best thing about an orgy is sometimes the sound resolutions that result from the headache of the morning after."

GOOD TEAM OF HORSES ABLE TO EXERT PULL OF SEVERAL HORSEPOWER.

Horse power ratings appear to be something of a mystery when the formula used for computing the horse power of engines showed that a team of horses exerted 13.9 horse power at St. Johns in a horse pulling contest supervised by members of the animal husbandry department at Michigan State College.

This team, owned by Glenn Wisner, Ovid, pulled 2750 pounds on a measuring machine for a distance of 27.5 feet in 6.5 seconds. The weight pulled is equal to lifting that number of pounds vertically. The 2750 pounds vertical lift is equal to keeping a load of 91 tons in motion on a paved road.

The animal husbandry specialists say that the reason a horse can exert energy equal to several horse-power is because a good horse has reserve strength that can be drawn upon in emergencies and that record breaking teams are those animals which have the "heart" to give every ounce of their reserve at the summons of their owner.

Horse pulling contests are scheduled for the following places: Vale 21 and 23; Bay City, 27 and 28; East Jordan, 29 and 30; West Branch, Sept. 3 and 4; Elg Rapids, 5 and 6; Saginaw, 9 and 10; Muskegon, 12 and 13; Adrian, 17 and 18; Traverse City, 19 and 20; Hillsdale, 23 and 24; Fowlerville, Oct. 2 and 3; and Marshall, 4 and 5.

DAIRY BANQUET WAS HELD AT BARN DEDICATION

MICHIGAN DAIRYMEN HAVE SPEAKERS COMPARE PAST AND PRESENT.

Two hundred Michigan dairymen attended the dedication banquet in the hay mow of the new dairy barn at Michigan State College.

Professor E. L. Anthony in introducing the toast master, Martin Seidel, said that the barn was the culmination of the efforts of Professor O. E. Reed, formerly the head of the dairy department at the College and now chief of the bureau of dairying at Washington, D. C., and of the breeders of dairy cattle in the state who look to the college for leadership in experimental work.

Professor Reed told the audience that dairy products now make up 26 per cent of the total value of all farm products and that there is room for a same expansion of the dairy industry.

Professor A. C. Anderson of Detroit, spoke of the differences between the college as it was in 1904 and as it is now. At that time, five teachers made up the faculty of the agricultural division. Many of the students were working their way through college on a wage of eight cents an hour, and it was necessary for the members of the faculty to perform tasks for which there was no money available to hire laborers.

Dr. H. E. VanOrman, New York City, said that good leaders and better business principles would aid agriculture. Credit efforts were recommended by the speaker as a means of progress.

John Endicott, Detroit, president of the State Guernsey Breeders' association, promised the continued co-operation of the organized dairymen with the college.

Dean J. F. Cox explained the necessity for the new dairy barn facilities and promised that a forward looking program of breeding, experimental work, nutrition trials and production studies would be made with the new equipment.

In Trial Flight

Making the first tests in this country of a new type of motorless plane, known as "The Professor," Heinrich Knott, German glider expert and chief instructor at the Cape Cod Glider School, flew for 41 minutes and 9 1-2 seconds at Corn Hill August 4.

The flight was made over practically the same course followed by Peter Hesselboch last year when he established an American endurance flight record of 4 hours and 5 minutes.

Upon alighting, Mr. Knott described the performance of the new glider as "beautiful." He expressed complete confidence in its ability to greatly exceed the present record and said that he had been forced to come down this time because he was clad only in a bathing suit.

The "Professor" is a German-made plane, in appearance very like a regular monoplane. It has a wing spread of 56 feet and weighs 320 pounds. Its superiority, it seems, lies in the ease with which it may be handled while in the air.

The Old Timer's Corner

"Dog Days"

I don't know who it was that designated these hot August days as "dog days," but they are well named, anyway. They are good for the corn and maturing fruit, etc., but they are 'nix' for human enjoyment. But they say "every dog has his day" so as there are a whole lot of dogs, (human and otherwise), I suppose we have to have a lot of these hot sultry days to accommodate all of them. A lot of the dogs "go mad" during these days, and I don't much blame them at that. I don't go mad, or at least I haven't so far, but I am not so sure but that it would give a person a good excuse to do it.

Well, what do we do in "dog days" on the farm? As I remember it we were mostly getting the wheat ground ready for the Fall sowing. The ground was usually very hard and dry, and we had to take it easy but keep steadily at it. The ground would break up in big hard chunks and the horses were hard put, in the heat, to drag the big plow through it. It's different now, with tractors. When we were kids, it was quite some task to start in on a field to plow it in August. If the ground was more sandy, it wasn't so bad. But if the field had been pastured, and it usually had been, then it was tough going. The horses would be foaming in a round or two and we had to give them plenty of "breathing spells." The dust was dry and would roll up around your eyes. Not so good. But it was just part of the work and had to be done. When I was a kid I never expected to be anything but a farmer and I hoped to be a good one, too. Little did I think then that during these hot August days I would be driving around in a car and watching the others do the work. And even now, when I drive thru the country and see the farm work going on I feel that I am shirking my job.

This was the month when we usually "cleaned out the fence rows." We took a good sharp brush hook and started in and went around the fields where scrub brush had gotten started and piled them up ready for burning when they were dry and the fields were not so dry. But it made the place look so clean and nice that I liked to do that work. Sumac, poison ivy, hazel brush, weeds and everything, went before the brush hook and left the fence looking clean and fine. We would run into humble bee nests now and then and maybe a snake or two, but that was all in the days work. The bumble bees often had their nests about seven to ten inches below the ground, where we were plowing, especially if the field was of clover and that wasn't so good, when the old plow would go right thru their home and the whole family would arise as an army from ambush and take after you. I got one in my ear once and he sure did plenty to that ear before I could get him out. But I don't blame them now, as I look back, for their home is all they know and they are ready at all times to protect it, just like humans. If some outside thing comes along we, too, are quick to defend our rights. But in those days it seemed to me that they were very unreasonable, to say the least.

The days, at this season of the year, are noticeably shorter, and the sun comes peeping up over the sky line, some later and we are usually all set for breakfast, the horses fed and harnessed for the day and the cows milked and turned out to pasture and everything ready for another hot day's work. Very few clothes for me those days. My feet were caloused and tough and even a thistle has no terror for them.

It's about time we began to think of the thrashing, too. The wheat and oats still stand in the stacks, and have begun to lean over this way or that, and soon as we can get a machine to come over we will have a busy day or more of "thrashing." That was a "galla-day" on the farm for me. The work ran like clock work, every man at his job and the bright clean straw piling up over the cow shed and it was great sport for the kids to hide in the loose straw before it got really "settled" for the winter. Mother would empty the "straw ticks" for the beds and put in nice fresh oat straw, and O Boy, the beds were high for awhile.

The dinner on "thrashing day" was a wonder to me. Don't yet see how mother ever managed to get so much food cooked all at one time. And now with the bins full of nice clean smelling wheat and oats, we began to watch the market to see when was going to be the best time to sell it. The wheat and oats went thru the "sweat" and then dried out again and was ready for market.

When I first remember thrashing days, the engines they used were horse drawn. It took a good husky team to handle it, too. But later on they had "traction engines" and it was a matter of fright for the spirited horses, and they would go prancing around, no matter how hot the day or how much it made them sweat.

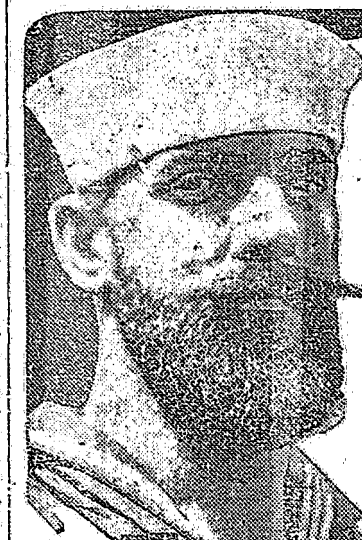

The cows and other animals in the fields would look on wonderingly from a distance, and the chickens around the barn would get used to the noise and "caw-caw" around close to the granary and threshing machine, picking up stray kernels of wheat or oats. Every thing on the farm, seemed to know that harvest was over and that the lean-looking fields would soon be cold and bleak for Fall and Winter. The berry bushes are mostly all standing still and brown in the hot sun, melons are ripe and sure were good to eat when they had lain in the cold water of the horse tank for a day or two, back under the lid, where they didn't get the sun at all. And muskmellons, ripe and sweet, cold and good. And it was great to go swimming, in the "shank of the evening" keeping under the water to keep away from the pestering mosquitoes. O well, taking it all in all, I'll say that "dog days" could have been worse. Yes?

Aviation Insurance To Be Stabilized

Insurance policies to an aggregate potential total liability of $8,000,000, said to be the largest comprehensive insurance protection ever written in the United States for a commercial air transport system, have been issued to the Boeing System, operators of the Chicago-San Francisco-Oakland and Seattle-Los Angeles air mail express and passenger routes. The various policies include the same protection for the Boeing Air Lines as is available to other common carriers.

The Boeing System has just completed flying five and one-third million miles on the transcontinental and Pacific coast routes, the two longest air lines in the United States, with a record of only three fatalities. The Boeing System is now flying 10,000 miles a day and 46 per cent of this is at night, much of it over western mountains.

The record policies, in point of potential liability, not only insure passengers, but the entire Boeing fleet of 46 planes, including the 12 and 18 passenger transports, some of which are now operated nightly between Oakland and San Francisco and the balance, which will soon be put into operation between

San Francisco and Chicago. Every form of insurance is included in the policies except theft, which is not required, as the company has its own ground crews and hangars at the 22 cities served by Boeing System.

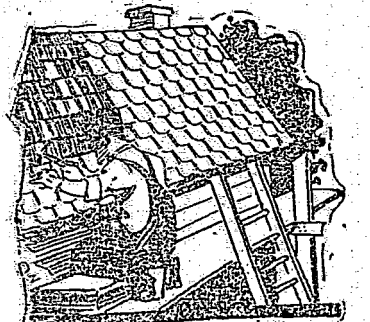

Aviation insurance, which a year ago was in an extremely unsettled condition, is rapidly reaching a position comparable with automobile insurance and other underwritings of that type, according to O. K. Hunsaker, secretary of Aircraft Finance corporation of America. Where a year ago it was extremely difficult to procure insurance of any kind for airplane pilots or passengers, today almost every conceivable type of risk is covered by insurance companies, he states.

Reports of the United States department of commerce have been largely responsible for this improved condition. Mr. Hunsaker points out. At present the department keeps complete logs of the flights of all ships and, as a result, insurance companies have been able to establish a mortality rate whereby it is possible for them to assume all types of risk in the aviation field. Further rate reductions are looked for, he says.
