

TOYNE OKEYS SEWER SYSTEM

Galien, Three Oaks to Settle Baseball Rivalry Here on Sunday

ADEQUATE TO SERVE CITY 6000 PEOPLE

The Conditions Render it Impossible to Lay Dry Sewer.

NINE INCHES AT OUTLET Third Street Sewer Installed at a Saving to the City.

The Third and Portage street storm and sanitary sewers representing an original 90 day contract which has baffled, contrac-tors, engineers, and administra-tors, for the past 14 months reached the point of completion Tuesday and is now accepted and ready for hook-up with individual homes in the districts served.

In accepting the system, former City Engineer Toyne stated that while a heavy flow of water still enters the Portage trunk line there is enough capacity left to serve a city of 6,000. Depth of flow at the various manholes was reported as follows: Central Court, 3 inches; Front street, 6 inches; Dewey avenue, 7 inches; outlet, 9 inches. While this is considerably more water than is required, it will nevertheless remove any nec-essity of drawing on the city water system to flush the sewers. The presence of the flow substan-tially obviates the early objection of contractors that it would be impos-sible to lay a dry sewer to the depth required in the specifications.

Superintendent Hipskind stated that the section on Portage street between Front and Central Court was one of the worst problems in sewer installation that he had ever encountered, and no contrac-tor aware of conditions at that depth would have been likely to take the work on anything other than a cost-plus basis. His work on that section was tested by dragline, and it was found that the joints remained intact and in place after the fill was made. Pre-vious to the reconstruction many joints had parted several inches.

Sewer building equipment and pumps are being placed in temporary storage here by Hipskind, to remain until required on another contract, and the force of men has been transferred elsewhere save for a few engaged in leveling down Third street, which will be completed tomorrow afternoon.

Body Layer of Walton Street Paving Completed Next Wk.

Installation of the lower six inch layer of concrete on the Walton street paving through Buchanan will be completed to the Michigan Central by the end of next week, if weather conditions do not inter-fered, foremen in charge stated Tuesday, and the installation of the two-inch smooth top coat will then be started from the River street bridge.

BERRIEN HOME ECONOMIC CLUBS START MEETINGS

19 GROUPS WILL MEET AT LONG LAKE CLUB ON SEPT. 27.

Following the vote of the home economics groups of Berrien county, the nutrition project is now being organized for the coming year. Nineteen groups have al-ready sent in their enrollments to County Agent H. J. Lurkins, and will send their leaders to the organiza-tion meeting at the Long Lake Neighborhood club, north of Niles on the Berrien Springs road. The time of the meeting will be Sept. 27, at 1:30 p. m. (Standard Time), its purpose that of explain-ing the content of the course, the keeping of records, making plans for the noon lunch and a discus-sion of the methods of teaching. The specialist in charge of the project for the year will be Miss Roberta Hershney.

The rapid growth of interest in the nutrition project has been noted throughout the state," said Miss Hershney recently. "The realiza-tion of the part of mothers everywhere of the supreme im-portance of their profession, leads them to welcome the assistance which the United States Depart-ment of Agriculture through its extension service, offers to them. They are availing themselves of the opportunity to become fam-iliar with food values and new methods of food preparation. The close relation between the daily diet and general health and well-being is studied. The health, hap-piness and efficiency of the fam-ily are dependent upon the wise planning of the meals to an extent never before recognized."

The extension course in nutri-tion entitled, "Food Habits in Re-lation to Health" and which is sponsored by Michigan State Col-lege, consists of four discussions. It combines the underlying theo-ries with the practical application to food preparation. The project leaders will carry to their groups the instruction received from the specialist, and will also present the demonstrations of food prepara-tion which are given at training meetings.

The topics for discussion at the meetings, dates of which will be announced later, are briefly as follows:

1. Standards of Health and Nutri-tion. Illustrated lecture "Food Makes a Difference." 2. Seeing Ourselves as Others See Us. Demonstration of Veget-able Cookery.

WILL PLAY OFF TIE AT PARK SUNDAY

Four Former Blue Stars Are to Play in the Line Ups.

WINNER TO TAKE ALL

The Two Teams are Even in the Season's Record Thus Far.

Interest in baseball will reach the highest pitch of the present season Sunday when a miniature "world series" will be staged be-tween teams representing Galien and Three Oaks, in which a num-ber of former Blue stars will ap-pear in the uniform to those mu-nicipalities, for the play-off which will culminate a season of warm rivalry on fairly even terms.

The presence of Bobby Morse, former high school star here, on the mound and of Nash at first and Brown at center field for Three Oaks, with Doc Bailey in either the catcher's or short stop's berth for Galien adds zest to the performance, as these four men represent the cream of the base-ball talent developed here in recent years.

The use of the local Athletic Park diamond has been extended as neutral ground for the play-off, and is being cleaned up and put in condition by the high school athletic department under the di-rection of Coach Carly Bradford, assisted by the city force under the direction of Street Commis-sioner Edward F. Mitchell, and it is expected that the diamond will assume its rightful condition as the best baseball field in Berrien county for the impending event.

Four neutral umpires have been engaged for the contest, which will start at 2:30 p. m. Central Standard Time or 3:30 daylight savings time. The two teams stand even on the season's games to date, Three Oaks having taken the first game, 8 to 4, on their own grounds, and Galien the second, 7 to 3, at Ga-lien last Sunday.

It is reliably said that both teams will be well entrenched with extra players for the coming game. George Behler, Three Oaks leader, declares he has engaged an organ southpaw pitcher and good catcher in case of emergency, al-though he says he will start his southpaw ace, Morse, with Flick, regular catcher, behind the bat. Behler will depend on his murder-ers' row of six 300 hitters to take the coming game. Leonard "Shor-ty" Britton, Galien manager, is equally as confident of victory and declares that either his veteran, Vic Prince, or his southpaw ace, "Red" Wright, can defeat Three Oaks. He has not announced his starting choice. Prince may get the assignment here Sunday. He is a veteran of fifteen campaigns for Galien and is one of the best fielding pitchers in the semi-pro ranks in Michigan. He is also a crafty pitcher. The winner of this series, it is announced, will challenge the winner of the House of David Crystal Palace Blues series now being played in Benton Harbor for the southwestern Michi-gan championship.

Manager Behler declares that Three Oaks will show real strength in the forthcoming game and that he expects to be well en-trenched in all departments. Man-ager Britton avers that airtight pitching and a well-working de-fense afield will prove an insur-mountable barrier and that the heavy artillery comprising Unruh, Hess, Decker, Smith and company will drive home a victory.

There is no love between mem-bers of the two teams. That each is confident of victory is evident in the fact that they will play on a "winner-take-all" basis. Three Oaks players have constantly held Galien in disdain and players of the latter team have accused the Oaks of "high batting." It is sure to be a hard fought game, and the club getting the break will probably win.

The Bend of the River Home Economics Club will meet Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 24, at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Ed. Riffer. All members are urged to be present.

Miss Gladyce Dempsey is in Chicago this week visiting friends.

Q. How can I get rid of that continual tired feeling?

A. By ridding your system of the waste poisons that cause fatigue and ill health.

Q. How can I do this?

A. One of the most efficient ways is changing the intestinal flora by the use of Lacto-Dextrin and Psylla.

Q. What are these products?

NEW GAME LAW SCHEDULES HOURS OF DUCK HUNTING

START 1/2 HOUR BEFORE SUN-RISE; CEASE 1/2 HOUR AFTER

The new game law provides that duck hunting may begin one hour before sunrise, to agree with the federal regulations. A table of hours, at which duck shooting may start and must close each day of the season which opened Sept. 16, has been issued by the department of conservation.

Table with 3 columns: Date, Time, and Notes. Rows include Sept. 16 to 21, 22 to 29, 30 to Oct. 7, Oct. 8 to 15, Oct. 16 to 23, Oct. 24 to 31, Nov. 1 to 8, Nov. 9 to 16, Nov. 17 to 24, Nov. 25 to Dec. 2, Dec. 3 to 10, Dec. 11 to 18, Dec. 19 to 26, Dec. 27 to 31.

Attention of hunters has been called to the fact that the gull, herring and rail season does not open with ducks this year, but opens Oct. 1 and closes Nov. 30.

U. S. BUILDS 300 MILES ROAD DAILY

FEDERAL SUPERVISION OF CONSTRUCTION IS JUSTIFIED.

The present method of expenditure of federal and state funds for road construction is highly satisfactory to the everyday taxpayer, according to a bulletin issued by the American Highway Educational Bureau.

It is common knowledge that the new Congress will have pressure brought upon it to use federal funds for building roads not on the present federal aid system.

Results Abet Plan In 10 year since the inauguration of the state and federal co-operative policy in road building, says the bulletin, "have the results achieved more clearly shown the wisdom of Congress in formulating the effective plan upon which the work is being carried out."

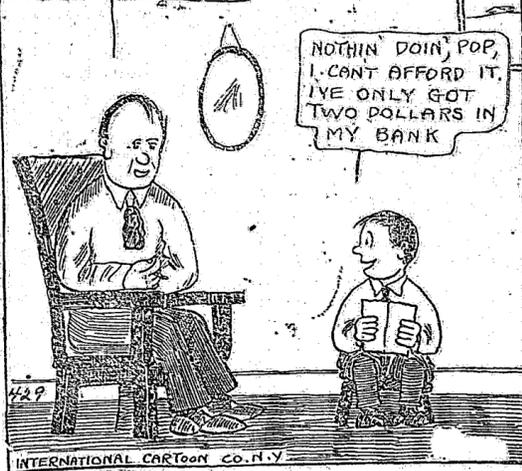

Road building has emerged from the zone of generalities and loosely drawn theories into practical results. "Moreover," the bulletin proceeds, "the experimental stage in highway legislation and finance has passed. Any changes that might now be proposed other than to increase federal aid funds for the present program would be nothing more than unnecessary legislative tinkering."

Baby Princess Sets Style in Infant Wear

London. — Princess Elizabeth, baby daughter of the duke and duchess of York, is already a leader of fashion, although she is only three years old.

It always used to be that tiny girls were dressed in white or pink or blue. No matter the amount of money the mother had, the fashion of the day was to dress the little girls in white or pink or blue. Nowdays Princess Elizabeth wears clothes of delicate yellow tones on nine days out of ten, and mothers of all degrees are following the color fashion with their own baby girls.

In Explanation
The reason the diamond daughter is wearing it so much bigger than the one in mother's ring is because they didn't set engagement rings on the installment plan when father was courting mother.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Liquid Air
Several scientists had a part in the discovery of liquid air, among them being the two Poles, Sigmund Wroblewski, and Karl Olszewski, who on April 8, 1883, at Cracow, performed an experiment in which they actually produced a few drops of liquid air. The French scientists, Collinet and Pictet, performed experiments in the same year which also produced liquid air.

NOISE OF PLAINS DOES NOT AFFECT EAR SAYS PROF.
BELIEF THAT DRONE OF THE ENGINE MAKES DEAF CONTRADICTED.
Uncle Sam need not fear that his hearing will be impaired when the drone of the muffled airplane engine aloft becomes as common as the hum of the auto motor in the street, says Professor Horace W. Stunkard, former A. E. F. pilot and now head of the New York university department of biology.

"Were we to listen to some alarmists," Professor Stunkard told the aviation corporation, the American ear-trumpet business might be expected to keep pace with the growth of the aeronautic industry. That is nonsense but the question it raises is of importance to a nation whose air-consciousness is spreading and deepening daily.

"As a pilot with the A. E. F. I had prolonged opportunity to observe at first-hand exactly how an airplane engine affects the man in the plane. That it temporarily renders him hard of hearing is of course true, just as any din to which he is unaccustomed will make them for a while deaf. That it permanently affects his auditory equipment is untrue.

"Relief from the noise quickly dissipates this deafness." While it cannot be said that continued exposure to the drone of an airplane motor will improve the hearing, it is a fact, that with intermittent relief, the noise will affect us less and less because the auditory system will become used to it, will in effect learn to ignore it.

"This applies, too, to the man on the earth. His ears will naturally protect themselves against airplane noise as that noise increases. He who today hears and is disturbed by each beat of every airplane engine that comes within a mile will, as the convoys of aircraft thicken above, take no conscious notice of them. Like the street car that is so loud the first night one is back in town after a visit to the country, they will soon pass, even at low altitudes unheard."

MAIDEN TO BE ELECTED QUEEN ALFALFA REALM
LIVINGSTON CO. CELEBRATES ADVANCE IN LEGUME ACREAGE.

Livingston county is celebrating its progress toward top honors as an alfalfa realm by choosing an alfalfa beauty queen in a contest which is to be held at Hovent.

County agricultural agent C. L. Bolander says that the interest of Livingston county farmers in alfalfa is shown by their purchase and use of 3,000 tons of lime in two months this year when they were preparing ground for seeding alfalfa. Mr. Bolander believes that this is the largest amount of lime used by a single county during a like period of time.

Sixteen Livingston county girls, one from each of the townships, will compete for the honor of ruler over the realms of King Alfalfa. Four residents of the township from which the queen is chosen will be enriched through gifts of 10 tons of lime to each of the four who will be selected by lot from residents of the township who register at the celebration.

Livingston county is the first in Michigan to give formal recognition to the fact that alfalfa has become one of the main supports of agriculture in this state. The crop is most popular in dairy sections where its high protein content is turned into butterfat, but its uses as a soil builder, a cash hay crop, or as a seed crop have been responsible for the rapid increase in acreage devoted to alfalfa in Michigan.

TRAFFIC LANES CUT DOWN JAMS WIDE HIGHWAYS WOULD PAY FOR THEMSELVES THRU SPEED AND SAFETY.

Motoring towards a large metropolitan center on a sunny Saturday afternoon, when wheeled hordes are bound for the open country, reveals pertinent facts about highways.

The first thing that is forcibly impressed upon the motorist going against the heavy traffic flow is that two lane roads are decidedly not wide enough—usually by two lanes. Slow trucks, crawling hulks of cars, hyperactive drivers hold back traffic until a jam of cars a quarter mile or so long results.

Drivers driven to distraction by delays, then suddenly dart out from their prescribed lanes of travel when oncoming traffic permits of a passing. Here, the well known human element enters in for if a driver misjudges the open spaces, a collision may result. A four-hour ride against this wave of opposing traffic brought several narrow escapes that cannot be recounted without a rise in blood pressure.

In addition to the dangers present in forging ahead on the two-lane road, there is the inability to get speed in keeping with the tempo of modern cars, most of which travel some fifty miles an hour without excessive vibration. Fifty miles an hour is not a dangerous speed, yet it cannot be conscientiously attained on the narrow road when cars are thick.

Another criticism of the rural road in remote regions, as well as metropolitan areas, is that it usually passes through the center of every hamlet and town on the route. One little town in southern Wisconsin, with a single traffic light on the main highway, jumping through on the chief business street, is frequently nothing short of choked with automobiles that have no business there.

Narrow roads must be widened as fast as communities can make finances available, for without doubt congestion and accidents are costing as much or more than wider roads. Two-lane roads are suitable for traffic only where week-day travel is light and week end travel moderate. A heavy volume of traffic demands roads at least four lanes in width.

Christian Science Churches "Substance" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches Sunday, Sept. 16. Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And as they thus spake, Jesus himself stood in the midst of them, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you." (Luke 24:36.) The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "To show that the substance of himself was Spirit and the body no more perfect because of death and no less material until the ascension (his further spiritual ex-

Maybe They Will Join Forces and Call at the Office The fabled tales of how Horatius held the bridge in the brave days of old and how the grim old continentals in their ragged regiments held the bridge against the redcoats at Concord are cast in the shade these days by current reports of how the grim old regulars in their ragged—beg pardon, we mean how the embattled ladies of the North and South who are battling two nights per week for the bridge supremacy of Buchanan. History has been upset thus far this fall by three consecutive victories won by the South Side ladies. The North Side has won every previous series save one, and rumor hath it that they slipped that series to the South Side to keep them from quitting in discouragement. However, the South Side is no set-up this year, a number of the ladies having taken bridge lessons all summer with the express purpose of humbling their rivals. It is reported that both sides will go into the next session with their fighting clothes on and these will be a hot session at the bridge. Liddicoat Family Tendered Farewell Wednesday Even. Friends and parishioners of Rev. Henry Liddicoat gathered last night at the Methodist church for the purpose of bidding him and his family farewell on their departure for their new home at Big Rapids. A hot lunch supper was served at 6:30 followed by the following program: Music by the male quartet composed of Messrs. Javling, Sargent, White and Hylink. Reading, "The Bird's Christmas Carol" by Charlotte Arnold. Farewell address by D. L. Boardman. Presentation of rug as gift from friends to Liddicoat family, E. H. Ormiston. At Dowagiac Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McCauley of Buchanan and the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sherwood of Dowagiac, attended the Golden Wedding Anniversary of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Phillips at their home 6 miles north of Dowagiac, Sunday. A bountiful dinner was spread in the yard. Over three hundred relatives and friends were present. Mr. and Mrs. Phillipa received many gifts and money in gold. After the dinner a delight program was enjoyed which was planned to fit the occasion, directed by Rev. Watkins of the Methodist church. On the morning of the day the statement was given out, Aug. 2, 1929, Mrs. Coolidge relates, Coolidge left for his office in Rapid City, near the Black Hills summer white house and remarked: "I have been president four years to-

FRESHMEN TAKE TWO OUT OF THREE FROM THE SOPHS

DRAG THE UPPER CLASS RIVALS THROUGH MC COY CREEK IN TUG

A small but valiant band of Sophomores tried, but without success, to hold off a shouting, stinging mob of Freshmen Monday afternoon.

In the first event the yearlings endeavored to tear assunder the Sophomore flag at the top of a pole, but were unable to lay hands upon the bunting.

In the final event the Freshmen multitude hurriedly dragged the fatigued Sophomores through the murky waters of the McCoy creek.

Paul DeWitt Made President of Club

The first meeting of the Agriculture club was held last Wednesday evening with Mr. Knoblauch in charge.

A complete reorganization of the club is being instigated, and a peppy club is hoped to be the result.

Officers pro tem were Paul DeWitt, president, and Marshall Briney, secretary and treasurer.

Editorial

Judging from appearances the miracle of miracles has come about, in that the high school as a whole is doing good work.

Although it may seem sudden, the change did not take place overnight. It has been a gradual change, until this year a noted improvement was visible.

However, no one is being fooled. The students haven't been persuaded that they like to study. School work is as active as ever, but what they have realized is that study is a medium to play.

After reaching Three Oaks we went immediately to the museum. The first thing I noticed, while we were waiting to register, was the inscription explaining the existence of the museum.

PAW PAW, LAWTON BOTH SUSPENDED FROM M. H. S. A. A.

SCHOOL HEADS HELD LAX IN DETERMINING ELIGIBILITY.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Michigan High School Athletic Association held Friday, Sept. 13, in Grand Rapids, Paw Paw High School was suspended from the Association until the Monday following their first football game.

Lawton High School was suspended for an indefinite period. The suspension is terminated when the school authorities show to the state association a proper method of keeping school records and of determining athletic eligibility.

Lawton is also placed on probation for this school year. It will be possible, however, for Lawton to have the suspension lifted before the opening of their football season.

These cases show that all schools must be exceedingly careful as to the certification of all athletes who are to compete in any athletic contests.

Paw Paw is remembered by local sport followers as the team which nearly wiped out Buchanan's hopes for a state basketball championship.

At the second round of the regional meet at Kalamazoo, Paw Paw was leading the Bucks by one point with but three seconds to play, when Harold Pierce sank a long shot and gave Buchanan the victory.

School Starts Saving Tuesday

The entire school swung into the "Thrill" column last Tuesday morning. A goodly number of pupils remembered their dimes, so the sum total was pleasing to those in charge.

THE REPORTING INQUIRER

Mr. Stark has announced that due to the enormous amount of gum chewing, a class for gum chewers will be scheduled for the 9th period of the day and which will, perhaps, if the lesson is unusually long, lapse into a tenth period. A paper will be placed in Mr. Ormiston's office where these people who would care to, and think they need more exercise for their jaws, may sign up for this class.

1. If Mr. Stark wants to organize a gum chewing class, my name will probably head the list. My experience with gum chewing in Miss Steele's classes has, several times, benefitted the dirty dishes. I have walked many weary miles to the waste basket with a perfectly good wad of gum.

If you heard Mr. Stark talk to the enthusiastic gum chewers in the seventh hour assembly one day last week, you probably have your own opinion on it.

The annual reception given by the Presbyterian church to teachers and students was held Thursday evening, Sept. 12, in the parlors of the church.

The first few minutes of the evening were spent in getting acquainted informally after which Rev. Staver asked the teachers to introduce themselves to the group.

The program began with two delightful solos by Mrs. Stark, who was accompanied by Mrs. Ormiston. Charlotte Arnold gave a selection from "The Bird's Christmas Carol" in a most amusing and skillful manner.

Very grateful to the people of the church who give them such a delightful opportunity to become acquainted at the beginning of each year.

The children in the first grades, taught by Miss Carnagan and Miss Myers are buying their books, "Work and Play with Words." These books cost 37c so it means a real business transaction for the child to bring his money to the school room and in exchange receive a delightful book to be used the rest of the year.

The second game of the series will be played at the Barron Lake diamond next Sunday.

Public Must Assume the Responsibility For Traffic Safety Says State Head limited force will permit." Commissioner Olander is keenly disappointed in the failure of the legislature to pass the "Howell uniform chauffeur and driver's license code. He believes that it would have contributed more to highway safety than any other single agency.

Most highway traffic accidents in Michigan are the result of conditions which can be rectified by the motorist, in the opinion of Oscar G. Olander, commissioner of public safety. The commissioner does not believe accidents will show any material reduction until the public assumes a greater share of the responsibility.

The Howell code went through the senate after a long delay and after its sponsor had submitted a resolution censoring John L. Lovett, general manager of the Michigan Manufacturers' association, for asserted lobbying activities against the bill. In the house transportation committee a lobby succeeded in killing it.

In a compilation of 1,009 highway accidents reported to state police from Oct. 1, 1928, to July 1, 1929, there is evidence of the truth of the commissioner's statement. Out of this number, 626 accidents took place on straight roads, 115 of which were caused by driving while drunk, 40 to physical defects and 147 to defects in equipment. Only 69 accidents occurred on curves and 27 on hills, but intersections were the scene of 287 mishaps.

The Campbell transportation act became effective the latter part of August. It chiefly requires a report to state police of traffic accidents by county authorities.

"The principal causes of accidents are poor judgment, inattention to the problem at hand, and carelessness," Commissioner Olander has informed Gov. Green in a special report on the subject.

Drive Slowly in School Zones.

Nearly 5000 children under 15 years of age lost their lives in traffic accidents in American cities during the past year. That is only one part of the terrible story. Each day of the year nearly 400 other children under 15 years of age were injured in traffic accidents, many losing a limb and a large number being crippled permanently.

These are facts that might well be kept in mind by auto drivers and parents as the public schools are opened for the year and the grave danger of accidents near the school buildings is brought to public attention. There is no more sickening feature of American life than the toll of children claimed each year by traffic accidents in the cities. Thus far there has been no effective prevention methods invented, and the toll is claimed month after month, with only momentary attention when some accidents more pitiful than others is reported.

The warning signs should be kept in prominent places along the streets near the school buildings, giving due notice to drivers that the greatest care should be exercised. There is no legal or moral justification for speeding past the school buildings after the driver has been warned by the street signs about the school zone. Some day the public will rise in its might and lay the whole dreadful burden of carelessness on the shoulders of the drivers who are involved in fatal accidents. It is not too early to begin making the law effective if any foolish driver chooses speed and the life of a child is needlessly sacrificed.

Private Citizen's Opportunity.

Luke Lea said he could be of greater service to Tennessee working in the ranks as a private citizen than he could be as a member of the United States senate for the next year. For that reason he declined the honor of appointment to the senate when Gov. Horton offered it to him. He is one of the most influential men in the eastern section of that state, is a publisher at Nashville, active in business and state affairs, realizes the importance of the new day that has come to the southern states, and is ambitious to lend his aid that his state may be developed along the best lines.

There is an abundance of temptation to human nature when an appointment to the senate is offered. It gives one prestige, offers an opportunity for conspicuous service, and few men are strong enough to decline. Even a brief stay in the senate has tempted strong men to take the plunge, although history records few appointed senators who won lasting fame. Senatorial fame, as a rule, is developed through long years of hard work and repeated terms of service. And with all these many fail to win it.

As a private citizen, working in the ranks, Luke Lea has an open chance all the time. Popular and influential, he is able to help shape public policies in his city and his section of the state, and Tennessee needs men like Luke Lea now and will need them each day in the future. He has pushed aside a senatorial honor to give his thought and talents to the state that honored him in the past with an election to the senate and to help his home city. He has chosen the larger task, he was right in thinking his services at home would be better for his state. Likewise his services there will mean more of happiness for Luke Lea.

Senator Heflin Again.

Senator Heflin is quoted lately as having warned the assistant manager of the senate restaurant not to serve Congressman Oscar DePriest, colored, of Chicago, and to have volunteered to help throw him out bodily in case he demands such service. The Alabama senator is described as aroused by the recent statement credited to the Chicago representative that he intends to claim every privilege accorded white congressmen at the capitol. Mr. Heflin, it should be explained, comes up for re-election next year.

The Alabamian is said to have made considerable political capital in his own state already out of the fact that Mrs. DePriest was a guest at a White House tea. In fact, the assertion is attributed to him that it would be worth 50,000 votes to him to meet Congressman DePriest in one of the congressional restaurants and to "punch him in the nose." Legally and morally, the Chicagoan is entirely within his rights to expect the same prerogatives which his white colleagues exercise, but he, too, should remember that it is not always the wisest thing to demand one's rights; there are other considerations. And probably the last thing he would wish to do would be help re-elect Senator Heflin by the unusual method of a physical encounter. In politics, as in other things, discretion frequently is the better part of valor.

How Hard Do You Work?

Few of us work as hard as we think we do. Rare indeed is the man or woman who does not waste a lot of time, take about twice as long to do his work as would be necessary if he really worked efficiently. It is not the number of hours a man spends at his place of business that counts, but what he accomplishes in a day. It is no uncommon thing for one to take a lot of time making decisions. There are a number of matters which need attention. He wonders which thing he will do first. Then he will hesitate about what he will do with each particular problem. Before he knows it a good part of the day is gone and nothing has been accomplished.

Also almost everyone does a lot more talking each day than is necessary, usually would be better off if he didn't do. Someone comes in, maybe on business or perhaps only socially. No matter why, there is usually a lot more time spent than is necessary. The talk runs on about this and that and while the time taken may not be wasted it is not devoted to work. Almost all of us have this failing.

Everyone has had the experience of days when he did not get anything done and other days when he did a lot of work. Why the big difference? One day he was inefficient and the other day he was efficient. The day he accomplished a lot he really worked. His mind was on what he was doing. He decided quickly what he would do and how he would do it. His mind was on his work. Our experience has been that the days we accomplish the most are the days we have the most to do and the work has to be done right away. And we do not believe we are very different in this regard from most people. The most efficient men are the ones who have work to do which is pressing. The natural tendency is to take it easy if you can. No one works at high pressure unless he is being forced. The best task master is a lot of work to do than can not be put off.

Practically everyone thinks he works hard when the truth is that most of us could do a lot more work each day than we do if we would work efficiently all the time.

Overcrowded Prisons.

President Hoover, having given thought to the significance of recent mutinies in state and federal prisons and having discussed the matter with the attorney generals and others, is convinced that the effects of overcrowding as a cause of such revolts have not been exaggerated. He concludes that the nation must have bigger and better prisons. Consequently he makes it known that the administration will ask of Congress for appropriation of $5,000,000 for the expansion and betterment of existing prison facilities and for the construction of a new federal penitentiary somewhere in the north-eastern part of the country.

Considerations of humanity as well as of plain expediency dictate such a program of construction and improvement. Prisoners are required to pay a penalty for wrongdoing, but intolerable prison conditions are not a proper part of that penalty. Prisoners do not forfeit the right to receive humane treatment. Moreover, society hopes to reclaim many of them, and reclamation certainly is not furthered by acute and prolonged physical discomfort.

The policy of a square deal for prisoners is, of course, the only right policy. President Hoover believes in probation on the widest scale consistent with social safety. That necessarily implies wise administration of a sound probation system. The president will recommend to Congress a substantial increase in the number of probation officers, for he is of the opinion that a larger number of federal prisoners merit probation than present facilities enable the authorities to grant.

These various proposals, being sound and reasonable do not require elaborate argument. But what perplexes the public in connection with the whole prison problem is the president's incidental, offhand declaration that crime is increasing.

Why is crime increasing amid general prosperity and despite the steady extension of elementary and secondary education? Prohibition, says the president, accounts for 14 per cent of the population in the federal prisons. Yet prohibition was to reduce crime and empty the penitentiaries! The Hoover commission on law enforcement should consider well this aspect of the crime problem.

When we can't exactly see how raising the tariff on agricultural products some more is going to help the farmer unload his surplus at high prices we fall back on the comforting thought that anyhow Mr. Hoover didn't kiss the baby that time.

It all depends on what one's used to and our memory goes back to the time when an inch of heatherbloom petticoat that wasn't supposed to show stirred the beholder's emotions more than 2 feet of leg do now.

The eminent scientist who now announces that man has a keener sense of smell than woman evidently was never waked up and sent down stairs at 3 a. m. to find out what was burning when nothing was.

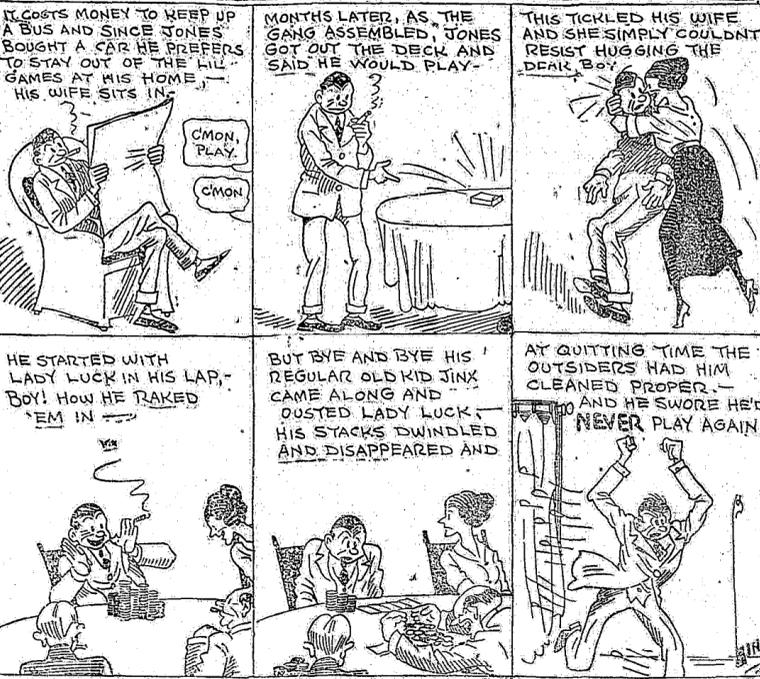

Our girls are now instructed by the fashion authorities to be billowy but the ones around here seem still to prefer to be more or less vabably.

He is the kind of man, who would use his bitterly intolerant way, who would use holders when eating corn on the cob.

If a girl doesn't really care much about accepting your invitation she says, conservatively: I'd adore it.

No one can really feel worse about it than a good loser.

TRAFFIC EXPERT GIVES COUNSEL ON USE BRAKES

GOOD DRIVERS DISTINGUISHED FROM BAD BY USE OF BRAKES.

By James Monroe
How do you use your brakes?
How many times do you use them?

These questions, especially the second could not hope to elicit specific answers. Yet they provide the basis upon which one well known traffic expert decides whether a driver is good or bad.

"I don't want you to get the idea," the expert declared, "that I think there is any substitute for actual use of the brakes such as using the horn or stepping on the accelerator. Not by any means."

"What do you mean, then?" I asked. Surely not running into the thing.

"I can tell you best by giving you a concrete illustration," was the reply.

"A motorist is traveling along a rural highway at a rate of, say, 40 miles an hour. He is overtaking a big truck which he will have to pass. He looks far ahead and sees another car coming from the opposite direction. At the rate he is traveling, he decides that he should overtake the truck just at the same time that the oncoming car would meet it. So, he slows down to 35 miles an hour by slightly lifting his foot on the accelerator. As a result, he comes up to the truck just after the other car has passed. He scoots around it neatly and with no more than a few seconds loss of time. He is a good driver.

Fail to Use Discretion.
"On the other hand a bad driver would have gone racing up behind the truck, seen at the last minute that he could not pass, then applied the brakes with a great deal of vigor.

"He brings the car down to the speed of the truck, waits for the other car to pass, then creeps out from behind it and wastes considerable time picking up to his original 40-mile an hour speed. The first driver by seeing far ahead and driving accordingly proved himself to be a thinker. That is the difference always between a good and a bad driver. Infrequent brake use is just one specimen of his advantage but it is a good specimen, don't you think?"

"I do know, although I never had thought of it before," I acquiesced. "If, however, it shows up in the case you cited where traffic was very light, it must be even more clearly revealed in the congested areas."

"It is," he agreed. "How many thousands of times a day do motorists go rushing up to places where they simply have to stop? Red lights, for instance? Why not idle up to the intersection? No one is going to get in ahead if one is in one's rightful place. Of course, it is impossible to fix the number of times of brake use that could be avoided. Certainly, though, it would be an amazingly large one in the case of some drivers."

"You said you also told good drivers by the manner in which they used their brakes," I reminded my counsellor.

"Well, the first time I rode with you, there was one thing that indicated you were a pretty fair driver. You may not remember it, but going down a steep hill, you alternated the brakes, using first the service then the emergency or hand brake.

"Oh, yes," I concurred, and was about to say that I did it often, when I was interrupted.

"But on the next hill, you forgot to do it, so I had to subtract something from my original estimate."

"From now on, I'm driving ahead and sparing the brakes—and being safer, too."

25,000 Persons Are Employed in Aviation Industry

Nearly 25,000 persons are now employed directly in the manufacture of airplanes and airplane motors in the United States, a survey made by the Department of Labor reveals.

Aside from manufacturing, the industry also gives employment to much labor both directly and indirectly. Factories and hangars must be built; pilots both for mail and commercial work must be employed; schools of instruction are coming into existence; and many mechanics and other ground employees are needed at air fields. Employment also is given to persons engaged in the manufacture of material used in planes. Airplanes also have their effect on the production, distribution and consumption of gasoline. Plants manufacturing airplanes are found in 29 states, New York being the most important with 4,386 employes. This is followed by California with 1,605 employes. Other states with more than 1,000 persons employed in the making of airplanes are Michigan, Washington, Kansas and Ohio.

Of the 101 firms from which reports were received, 78 produced airplanes during 1928, the production being 4,886 planes. The indications are that the 1929 production will be much greater.

Of the 23 plants engaged in making motors, 17 had some product in 1928 when 3,684 motors were produced in these factories. New Jersey and Connecticut were the ranking states.

Future Plans to Rise Straight as Express Elevator

The airplane of the near future, according to Alan L. Morse, engineer for the General Airplanes Corporation will be of all metal construction, with the parasite drag cut to a minimum. Its cantilever monoplane wings will be designed to achieve beauty of lines, minimum of wind resistance and maximum life and sturdiness, while its super-powered, super-charged engine will be capable of unbelievable ranges of performance, with absolute dependability.

Passengers will be seated comfortably in a heated, quiet cabin and there will be no question in their minds as to the probability of safe arrival at their destination. The pilot will "give her the gun" and the automatic variable pitch propeller will permit take-off almost instantly, with the climb being like a ride in an express elevator.

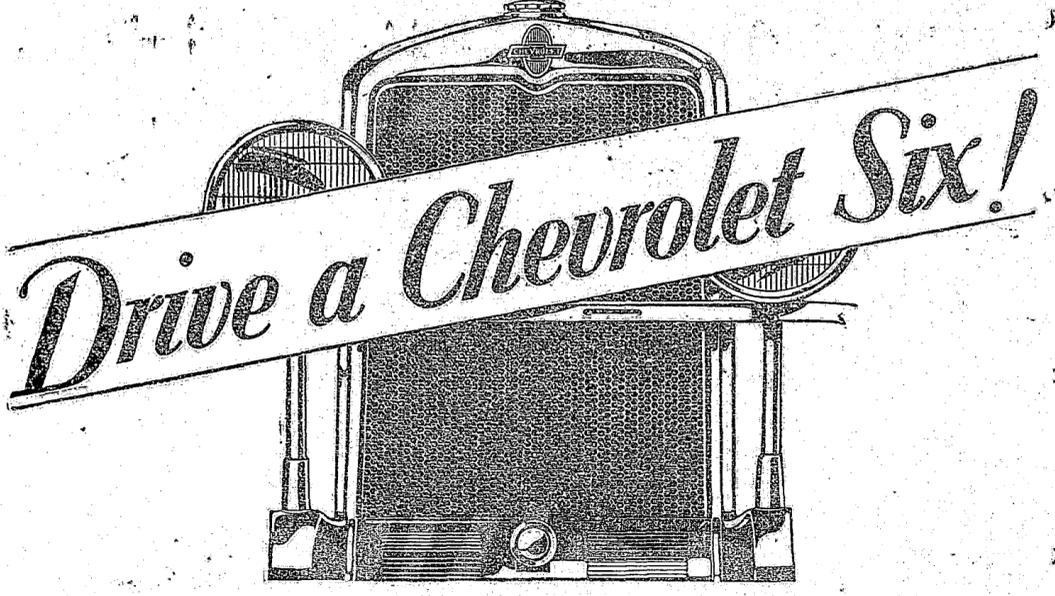

At 10,000 feet the pilot will cut in his super-charger and new life will jump into the engine. At 15,000 feet, he will level the plane off, tune in his radio direction finder, telephone good-bye to his home port and say hello to his friends along the air trail.

"After setting his automatic controls to allow for a quartering wind, he will proceed to collect his weather reports along the airway, which he must travel. The relief pilot is resting comfortably in the cabin. The ship travels without vibration or bumpiness, with the rough air passages and currents far below him.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping." Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. The Old Timer's Corner

Old Timer Recalls Memories of the Days of Old Oaken Bucket

We have all heard the old adage "we never go without water until the well runs dry." That, of course, is a figure of speech, but I have been thinking about the old wells that we had in the early days, and so this morning, we will just take a little time off and think them over and write it down.

When Buchanan was young and there was a lot of timber in and around the town wells were easily made for water of a very good quality was found within twenty or thirty feet of the surface in most cases. I remember the old well, with its boarded sides, about six or seven feet square, and you could easily see the water at the bottom, which always seemed to be "flowing" for there were ripples on it at all times. Down one corner of the well, were narrow strips of inch thick boards, cleated in making a ladder by which one could go to the water's surface and clean it if necessary. At the bottom of the ladder was a small platform or landing. It always looked wet and cool down there, and it was a standing joke that the "water was cooler from the northeast corner of the well." There was a square box in affair at the surface of the ground with a wheel and rope and buckets, a bucket at each end of the rope, so that one was always down in the well and full of water and ready for you when you let the other one down.

One time one of my older sisters was sore at me for I suppose she had been told to "take care of the baby" and she wanted to do something else, so she picked up the baby (meaning myself) and dropped me down in the well. It just happened that "the baby" landed on that small landing at the bottom, and I suppose was "knocked out" for a while by the fall, so when Mother went to look for "the baby" she found it still alive and within a few inches of the edge of the landing. So I guess it was a good thing they had built that little landing.

Later on, when my people built the "new house," down nearer the road, the old house was used for a tool house for some time after they moved into the new house. The old house stood just east (toward the road) from the old well. In other words the well was at the back door of the old house, and the old house, by the way, was a one story frame building, and was octagon shaped, had eight sides of equal dimensions on all sides. I don't remember much about that old house as to the "lay out" of rooms, etc., but I do remember the house after it was used as a work shop and used to help make strawberry boxes there by the hour. We bought the box material in the "knock down" and then soaked them in water in a big tub, and then bent them to place and tacked them together over an iron beam that was bolted to the work bench. We didn't have such a lot of strawberries but it seemed to me that we made an awful lot of boxes.

When they moved to the new house they dug a new well, one that was perhaps sixty feet deep, and tapped a stronger flow of water. This well was round and bricked up, instead of the old boards, and then a wind mill, an "X. L.", was set up above it and a good plank platform and a pump attached and a tank with an overflow that went to the horse tank and one pipe led the water to the kitchen of the house which was down hill from the well, so we always had good cold water in the kitchen. This was such a vast improvement over the old arrangement, that we felt that we were strictly up to date.

When I sing the old song "the old oaken bucket, the iron bound bucket, the moss-covered bucket, etc.," I can remember just how it really was "dripping with coolness" etc., but our buckets never had moss on them. I suppose that was merely a matter of who it was that took care of the afore-said buckets. But anyway, it would seem mighty good to have a drink from the old well and from the old "oaken buckets" just the same.

We never had a "well-sweep" in my time. I have seen them but that was just a step farther back than my memory takes me. Our old well was finally pulled up and covered so that there never would be any danger of a "cave in" in the future, and "the grass grew all around-round-round" as another old song tells us. Undoubtedly you had just such an old well on your farm, too, so now that we have gone back in memory to have a little drink from the old well, we will say good-bye until next week.

OLD TIMER.

Why the Printer Left Town
A man was seeking a divorce. His lawyer asked for a change of venue, but the paper stated that the husband had asked for a change of venue.

Reader Enjoys Old Timer's Article

Well Old Timer, I enjoyed your article in the Record of Aug. 20. I was raised right in sight of that old river. I could hear the steam boats come up. How they would work to make the ripple just below where the dam is now. Joseph Sparks lived there when I remember it first. Cap. Richards lived there before. A man by the name of Smith lived there after Sparks. This man Smith made gates and sold them to the farmers. That place there by the bridge was owned by quite a number of different people, Mr. Bluk and then Kinyon, I don't remember about George and Clara Richards but Theodore Thomas had it for awhile. He sold out and went to live on Front street in the Amherman place.

I wish Roll Black would write us a letter for the paper. Good old Roll. I saw him get snarled up one time in the gymnasium room over the Roe hardware. He was trying to get through a couple of rings and they had to help him out. I remember so well how he used to haul the furniture to the depot from their shop by the river, which burned one night.

I remember well the day the old bridge went out. They put in a ferry and Lin Weise ran it. We had wheat that year on the Stoddard place, so we loaded the machine on a wagon and went across on the ferry. That was a bad accident when Wm. Hathaway's separator went down man, horses and all. Wait would have drowned if it had not been for Fred Wiegand, who could swim.

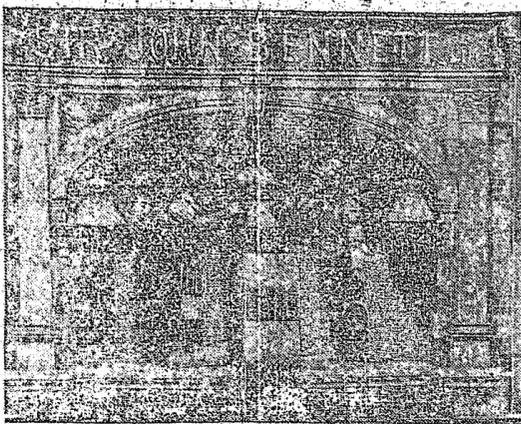

I remember when the Adis works was built down by the old St. Joe.

I have just been reading John Holmes' letter saying that Old Timer could learn a lot about farming. I happen to guess who he is. I never knew he did much of the real work. Well, that is all right, Claude, we're glad some one takes an interest in telling about old Buchanan.

I was very much surprised to read about the doings on the Peers farm up the river. My folks visited at that place when Bob Clark lived there. It must have been in the last of the sixties. It was a pleasant place then.

Speaking about early date machines, we got a Buckeye self rake reaper and mower combination. We got this in 1875. Uncle Morris Lyon run it that year and the next year he went to the Centennial at Philadelphia, Pa. So I was the one that had to run it. Ily that Sil could not be at the that year. I cut 130 acres of wheat and a lot of oats and clover seed. Not so bad for a 13 year old boy.

I remember the Mitten family when they lived on Terre Coupe Prairie near the Oliver Dalrymple place and later they moved to the old Howard place then owned by Janson at Howard's Crossing.

That Bunker place was divided into 22 acre lots. I knew Andy Crothers pretty well. I was one of four to take his boat to South Bend. I wonder where Frank Lough is and what he is doing. It's many a load of fruit we have hauled from Stevensville to South Bend.

There was another enterprise out on Fourth street. Jim Matthews owned the place at the end of Detroit street and he and Greg Matthews run a cider mill just west of the house. They had it fixed up handy and sure did a lot of business. Those old Northern Spy apples used to make some wonderful cider. Wouldn't mind tasting some now as good as that was.

Every Record I get has some notice of the death of some one we used to know. I remember very well when Mr. VanRiper and family came to Buchanan. It must have been the year we started to school in the new high school building. Cash was in my room.

I am glad to see old Buchanan step out of village to city. There has been lots of changes since we left there in 1913.

It was sad for the Helmick family that Sil could not be at the reunion. I have worked for many a day shingling buildings. (Unsigned.)

You'll be out-of-date within a year without an Eight!

Your new car will be worth more a year from now - if it's an EIGHT!

Every month it becomes more obvious—motorists want the sweep of power, the smoothness, the thrilling acceleration—and the distinction—of the Eight. Admittedly, America's finest cars are Eights.

In eight key states new car registrations for the first six months of this year showed a 90 per cent increase in Eights above $1000—while Sixes above $1000 decreased 16 per cent.

Studebaker offers three great lines of Eights that hold more American stock car records for speed and stamina than all other makes combined, including the greatest record in transportation—30,000 miles in 26,326 consecutive minutes.

Eights of brilliant performance—economical as the thriftiest Sixes. So supremely ahead of the times that public response already has made Studebaker the largest maker of Eights in the world.

No extra gear shifting can give a six cylinder car the silken smoothness and flexibility of an Eight.

Why not get an Eight—a smart new Studebaker Eight? Enjoy it today and have a car that will be worth more a year from now—because Eights will then be at a premium in a used car market glutted with Sixes.

Studebaker's new low One-Price prices have swept aside all barriers to Eight ownership. See the cars. Make comparisons. Convince yourself.

CONGRESS HAS A LARGE SWITCHBOARD TO CARE FOR ITS TELEPHONE NEEDS

A daily average of 27,000 calls handled at big P.B.X. Board, at nation's Capitol.

Desk of Mrs. Daley, Chief Operator

The Private Branch Exchange Switchboard at the U.S. Capitol

By JOHN B. O'BRIEN. TELEPHONE switchboard, large enough to serve a fair sized city, is required to take care of the most important body of men in this country, the United States Congress.

While Congress is in session, a daily average of 27,000 telephone calls is handled. There are times, however, when the number of calls greatly exceeds this figure, as on days when an important bill is up for discussion, or a vote is to be taken on a measure which is commanding nationwide attention.

The first switchboard was installed in the Capitol in 1895. It was a small affair as compared with the board of today, but it was ample for its purpose at that time. About the year 1900 the Senate and House switchboards were combined, and the system has been enlarged and replaced from time to time until, in 1926, a new 19 position board, requiring the services of twenty-seven operators, was installed.

How the Board is Arranged. Position 1 on this board handles the Long Distance calls which are originated by members of the Senate and the House. At times, however, this business becomes too heavy for one operator to handle. Then the girl who occupies position 2 comes to her rescue, this being a combination position equipped for either local or Long Distance service.

Positions 3, 4 and 5 on the board are for incoming calls, many of which originate in other government departments, although a large number come from the central office in Washington. Five positions on the board are used for serving the members of the Senate, and six for the members of the House, while three positions are in reserve for future growth.

The Congressional switchboard has 1,700 stations in use plus 800 extension stations, to serve a Congress which is composed of 96 Senators and 435 Representatives. Each Congressman has from one to three clerks, stenographers or secretaries, and in addition, there are certain general employees who have to be served from this exchange.

From this switchboard 39 tie lines run directly to the White House and to other departments of the government, while 23 trunk lines connect with the central offices of the city. The operators who serve the Congressional switchboard are veritable information bureaus. They are called upon to answer all sorts of questions, to tell who is serving on this or that committee, who is the Representative from such a district in such a state, what new committees have been appointed, etc. In fact, they are almost as well informed on certain matters as are the corps of Washington newspaper correspondents.

all such committees, together with their membership, which is arranged in alphabetical order, and, therefore, it is an easy task to refer to them.

Chief Operator. The chief operator of the Congressional switchboard is Mrs. Harriet G. Daley. She has served on the Congressional switchboard since 1895. When the first switchboard was installed, it was a 1 position board of only 51 stations and served only the members of the House of Representatives. She had no stated hours, but she stayed as long as she felt she was needed and on many occasions she remained all night when the House was having a night session. This was in the exciting days of the Spanish-American War, and although there were only 155 Representatives at the time, the telephone proved invaluable to them, although this was a time when telephone service was only just beginning to come into general use.

In fact, many of the members of the House and Senate who came to Washington in those days had had little or no experience with a telephone, and some of them had never used one until they came to Congress. It is said that even "Uncle Joe" Cannon had such a dislike for the instrument in those days that he could hardly be induced to talk over one, and that when he did, he became so excited that the results were far from satisfactory. However, such a state of affairs lasted only a comparatively short time, and today the members of the House and Senate find the telephone of great assistance in carrying on their work.

The GIZZARD CAPSULE will quickly rid your chickens of both tape worms and round worms. Five times as effective as worm remedies given in food or drink. Why? The GIZZARD CAPSULE is insoluble and carries the medicine intact to the gizzard where it is broken like a grain of corn, releasing the medicine into the worm-infested intestines in full strength undiluted.

As easy to administer as giving a pill. Adult size for chickens 3 lbs. or more and turkeys 6 lbs. or more. Chick size for chicks 1 to 3 lbs. and turks 2 to 6 lbs. Don't feed worms. Stop this waste and increase your profits. Give GIZZARD CAPSULES now. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

drama for Sunday and Monday nights. This is new arrangement, giving two days for the showing of the unusually good pictures brought for the big Sunday night crowds. Manager Homer P. Morley has a surprise in a new serial which will be shown on Monday evenings as usual.

A fine drama will be seen in "Kid Gloves," with Conrad Nagel as the hero. This feature for Tuesday and Wednesday has been pronounced great entertainment and picture-making in the larger cities. There's also a "Horace of Hollywood" comedy, in which Arthur Lake proves himself as gawky a youth as he's been cracked up to be, which is going pretty fast.

FLUAS!

We think that we shall never see a sight as cunning as a flea, right on the end of Fido's spine, while he does bark and scratch and whine. Now hops the flea down Fido's tail; another search with might and main, the weary pup digs on in vain. Poems are made by fools like "we," but nothing on earth can catch a flea.

MAKE WHOOPIE!

We note by the papers that O. U. Vest and Miss Maude Work were married recently. This reminds us of that old standby, "The coat and pants do all the work, but the vest gets all the gravy."

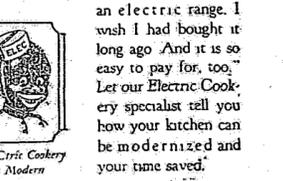

it really saves me lots of time

MARGARET had often told me how her Electric Range enabled her to prepare better meals with less time in the kitchen. How she could put her dinner in the oven and leave it there to cook, while she went out shopping, or visiting.

"But you have" no idea the change it has made in my kitchen. I didn't think it possible myself until I tried it. It really does save me lots and lots of time and does more than I ever expected of it. "Since I've learned its many advantages I wouldn't be without an electric range. I wish I had bought it long ago. And it is so easy to pay for, too. Let our Electric Cookery specialist tell you how your kitchen can be modernized and your time saved."

The electric company told me of how much more delicious my meals would be with Electric Cookery—and how it would be more convenient and cleaner to work with.
