

Now Here's
the Proposition

The Co-operative Dinner
By Haws

Let toll be banned this joyous day
and banished care and care
The while we join the feast through
the co-op feed to share;
It is the law that each should
share to make the feast complete,
So I will bring a bib and you the
stuff to eat.
For we who falter on the "bring"
are foremost at the feast,
We'll be there with our ears pinned back and both our elbows
greased.
For many a rooster lived and died
to make this feast day,
And we who brought the least
along will take the most away.
Here will be seen the festive bean,
the onion full of guile,
And hard-boiled eggs and chicken
legs stacked in a luscious pile;
And there will be but milk to drink and coffee smooth and bland.
The home brewed beer is banished
here—or did I understand?
Let bring who will, we'll take our
fill and as our waists expand
We'll simply hike away the chair
and loose the belly band.
We brought a tooth pick and a
fork, naught else did we expend
But there are many others here on whom we may depend.
We got here half an hour before;
we linger long and late;
The other folks can "co-oper-" but we are here to "ate."

CLARK PLANT
PIN LEAGUE
IS ORGANIZED

Company Will Provide the Trophies for the Winners.

CITY LEAGUES FORMED

The employees of the Clark
Equipment Company are to start action in their bowling league on the alleys of the Buchanan Bowling club on Tuesday, Oct. 8, at 7:15 p. m. This league will be for Clark employees only and will consist of the following teams:
Axle Tool room, Berrien Springs
office, Service Dept., River Street
plant, Office, Drill, Heavyweights, Drill Tool room, Axle Shop, Foundry,
Truck drivers and Assembly.

Prizes for the winners of this
twelve-team league will be provided,
through the generosity of the Clark Equipment Co., instead of the bowlers putting up extra money
for prizes, as heretofore. The captain of each team will act as a representative on a committee,
which will transact the affairs of the league. Each team will play
one match of three games, with
each of the other teams, which will allow the league to end the first half of the season during Christmas week. The schedule will be repeated after Christmas, if desired.

The league will be run on a handicap basis, which will allow
the new bowlers a chance to score
with the better bowlers, and make the matches very even. As there will be several new teams in the league this year, there should be a lot of interest in bowling, which
is the most popular of winter
sports.

The matches for the first week
are as follows: Tuesday, Oct. 8,
Axle Tool room vs. Berrien Springs; Service Department vs.
River Street plant; Office vs. Drill
Dept., Thursday, Oct. 10, Heavyweights vs. Drill Tool room; Axle Dept. vs. Foundry; Assembly vs.
truck drivers. Any Clark employee
interested in bowling in the league
may find a place on one of the above teams by applying to the
captain, as there are a few vacancies. Tuesday and Thursday nights
have been reserved for the bowlers
of the league for the entire
season.

A City League will again be formed, to be entirely independent
of the Clark Industrial League,
with the following teams starting
play next week: Thanning's Tire,
Beck's Tire, Proud's Cigar, Niles-Buchanan Buicks, City Bakery, Berrien County Electric, Galien,
Three Oaks.

These teams will elect their captains the first of the week, and
the captains will then meet and form a league organization from
among their own number.

The following City League games
have been scheduled for Monday
night: Thanning's vs. Buicks; City Bakery vs. Proud's Cigar.

It is possible that an inter-city
Friday night league will be organized to include Buchanan, Galien,
Three Oaks, and Niles teams.

Bunker Enthusiastic
Over Entertainment
At Cavalry Reunion

The thinning ranks of the Boys
of '61 is indicated in a list of the members of the 11th Michigan Cavalry who attended the annual reunion of the organization held
in Kalamazoo recently.

The list includes 12 of the 1200
boys who rode away to join the army of the Potomac in 1863. Sam Bunker, local member of the organization and an annual visitor
at the reunions received the list
from Captain William Sparks who sponsored the entertainment of the veterans in Kalamazoo.

Mr. Bunker is enthusiastic in his pride of the entertainment provided by Captain Sparks, who entertained the veterans at the Hotel
Hayes during their stay. Automobile rides over the city a six o'clock dinner for the members of the organization, a campfire program, addresses and reminiscences
of the stirring civil war days were outstanding features of the entertainment.

The soldiers who attended were:
E. J. Cole, 85, Odenton; Grove Vanderpool, 85, Ansted; Sam S. Bunker, 85, Buchanan; Walter Kozell, 82, Mantion; S. J. Whelan, 85, Tipton; E. O. Alverson, 86, Hudson;
R. M. Cox, 76, Litchfield; Oren C.
Kelly, 84, Hudson; J. F. Kregg, 83,
Hillsdale; H. A. Curtice, 83, Hillsdale; J. S. Kirkendall, 87, Albion;

ing of a business nature and dealing with the matter of seat short-
age. The epistles, which are highly prized, read:

turn your check. This is due entirely to the fact that we had ten

yesterday informing him of the death of his brother-in-law, Squire

ing a factory for the construction
of building materials. He married
Miss Emma Dick who survives

1400 Dutch Bulbs Will be Set In Formal Garden
At E. B. Clark Residence

Work is starting this week under the direction of William Bohl,
landscape gardener for the Clark
Equipment Company, on the planting of a magnificent selection of nearly 1400 Dutch tulips in the formal garden at the home of E.
B. Clark, two miles west of Buchanan.

The tulip bulbs are to be planted
as fast as the flowers which now occupy the twelve beds of the formal garden go out of bloom, the setting starting this week in the bed occupied by a rare species of daisies. Among the flowers now occupying the beds are two rare
species of cannas, snap dragons,
larkspur, petunias, sweet alysum.
The twelve beds are arranged in rectangular form, with several hundred feet of stone walk bordering them. The two largest beds
at each end of the rectangular
garden will contain 2,500 tulips
each. Two more beds in the center will contain 1,600 each; two more 1000 each; two more 500
each; and four will contain 300
each, making a total of 13,500
bulbs.

The bulbs are all of the Dutch,
long-stemmed variety, flowering in May. Each bed is to be planted a solid color, starting with a deep back in the bed of 2,500 across
the south end and shading lighter
to the north.

The poplar trees which formerly stood in front of the garden
have been removed and replaced
by pyramidal arbor vitae. At the north and south ends, arbors
are to be built and trained over
with roses. The fine grape arbor
in the rear, at the east, will be left as at present.

Other plans not yet fully developed included the construction
of pergolas and fancy garden
architecture.

Early Record Books of Miller and Colvin District Relate Struggles
of Pioneers to Establish Schools

The earliest records of pioneer
schools to be found in the region
of Buchanan are perhaps those of the Miller and Colvin schools,
which date back to 1839 and 1843
respectively.

The Miller school was one of the first rural schools to be established in the county and is ante-
dated only a few years by any of the city schools of Berrien county.

The records of the first 20 years were kept in an account book with a pasteboard back, which has been preserved almost miraculously until the present. It was found at the beginning of the present year
poised perilously on an improvised shelf made of a stick placed at an angle across the moulding in the corner of the cloak room.

According to this record, the first meeting was held sometime in 1839, the exact date having been
obliterated by the work of mice,
which destroyed two inches of the upper end of the book. The parents of the district gathered at the home of Alva Chapman. Since the letter written by Mrs. Esther Montague Winch of Amarillo, Tex., and published in the last issue of the Record states that in 1855
there were but 11 log homes in the district, it may be inferred that
the population was not large in 1839. Officers elected at this meeting were: Director, Darius Jennings, moderator, John Hatfield;
assessor, Seth Sherwood. It was voted that a tax of $35 be voted for the erection of a school house
and that a dollar a day be allowed for those who wished to work
the tax out in labor in building.
It was also voted that a district
library be established and an appropriation of $5 was made for that purpose. Of this $35 only $15.76 was ever actually paid either in labor or cash as the district
was divided before the collection
was made. Of this $15.76, $13.45
was paid in labor, $1.50 in cash
for glass, 50c for nails and 31c for putty.

However, school was held in the uncompleted building for two summers. It was voted that the director be empowered to bargain
with a teacher who should teach
during the four months and the
patrons were to pay the price
agreed on in ratio to the number
of pupils they sent to school.

A contract was let to Darius
Jennings to build a fireplace chimney and plaster the cracks. Jennings was paid for the work at the rate of $9.75. This was never completed and Jennings received only part of his money as the school was moved before it was done.

The school was re-established
again in 1844, and a special meeting was called on June 22 to arrange for the building.

At the meeting held June 22, it was voted that a site be secured
at the intersection of the Berrien Road with the north line of Section 14, and to erect thereon a school house of logs, 20 feet long,
of commodious height, with cabin
roof, and a stick and clay chimney. The assessable property
was to be taxed to raise $50, the price of a day's work had evidently declined since 1839, as only five shillings, $62.14, was to be allowed on tax payment for a day
of nine hours. The record now contains the name of Thomas
Kelley, the first teacher to be men-

NEW PETITION
CIRCULATED FOR CLEAR LAKE ROAD

ASKS FOR MACADAM HIGH-WAY LINKING BUCHANAN
WITH LAKE RESORTS

A movement for the construction of a much needed stone road
between Buchanan and Clear Lake
was initiated last week through
the agency of a petition signed by practically all the businessmen of the city. The petition calls for a macadam road leaving the Buchanan-Galena road at the Wester farm, now occupied by Locke Best, running thence west to the end of that road, then turning
north and circling Clear Lake to the hotel on the west side. This would provide convenient connections with the tourist resorts, accommodating a very large local travel between Buchanan and
those points during the summer
season.

CHORUS OF
60 VOICES
MEETS HERE

Unique Organization Covers
the Southeastern Part of Berrien County.

CONCERT OCT. 14th

Known as the Galien River
Valley Community
Chorus.

The old singing school days of
sixty and seventy-five years ago
were recalled Tuesday evening
when the Galien River Valley
Chorus met for rehearsal in the Evangelical church with 60 voices
present from practically all the towns in central and southwestern Berrien county.

The chorus rehearsed under the direction of Sara Sherman Maxon
of Lakeside, for a concert which is to be held at the Congregational Church in Three Oaks on the evening of Oct. 14. A number of excellent singers were included and
the quality of the entire organization is very good. They are fortunate in having as director Mrs.
Maxon, a Chicago vocal instructor,
who has sung in opera in New York City, and who has studied
under the greatest teachers in vocal work.

The organization now has 55
active members, from the vicinities
of New Buffalo, Three Oaks, Union Pier, Lakeside, Harbert, Ga-
lien, Bridgman, Glendora, and Buchanan. The president is David Anderson of the real estate firm
of Anderson & Behnke of Saw-
yer. Anderson is an experienced chorus singer and is giving much
time to the success of the movement. The chorus is not a commercial affair in any way, the charges for membership being only 10 cents per week to cover music
costs. It represents part of a country-wide movement to restore singing to its former place as a wholesome community amusement.

Other officers of the chorus are:
Chickening township vice president, Mrs. Clarence Peck; Weesaw
township vice president, Mrs. Pardee; New Buffalo township vice president, Mrs. Muzumstine; Three Oaks vice president, Mrs. Gramis;
secretary, John Hunerjager, Three Oaks; librarian, Eva Tepaske, of Lakeside; pianist, Ingrid Anderson, Sawyer.

About ten from Three Oaks and Buchanan joined the chorus Tuesday evening and a vice president
is soon to be elected from Buchanan and Lake townships.

Maybe They Will
Let It Set Right by Nineteenth Hole

Now that the leaves are falling
before the autumnal blasts at the Orchard Hill Country Club, a force
of carpenters have just completed
a small moveable structure comprising a gable roof with seats beneath, and a platform for the golfers.
It is supposed to be pushed or dragged around the field by the foursooms to afford shade from
the scorching winter suns during the
more or less lengthy intervals
while the players are negotiating their approach. The club is indebted for this thoughtful gift to Glenn Merfield.

Severe Drouth is Broken this Week

Plans on the part of a number
of Buchanan people to attend Governor's Day at the Hartford Fair
were interfered with this morning
by rain, which began during the night, and is still falling.

A precipitation of 1.1 inches
was recorded by the Indiana &
Michigan power plant for the rain
of Saturday and Sunday. Farmers of the Buchanan district report
that this has gone down as deep as
the ground is plowed and is helping in the harvest of late potatoes.
It is the first general rain of any extent since July.

Beet harvest will begin in the Galien and Glendora district next week, according to notice received
Tuesday by field superintendent
Warren Hagley, who is preparing the beet dumps this week. Supt.
Hagley states that the crop will return a fair yield, much better than last year, although the acreage was reduced last spring by poor germination.

YOUTH ROBBED
AT GUN POINT
IN BUCHANAN

Harold Berry of Marcellus, is Held Up Saturday Night.

BANDIT TAKES $30

At the Corner of Cecil Ave., and Chicago Street at 11:30 P. M.

Harold Berry, nephew of Harry Berry, probably left for his home
in Marcellus Sunday with a very good impression of the town, having figured as the victim of the first holdup in Buchanan in two years.

Young Berry had been down town and was returning to the home of his uncle on Liberty Highway about 11:30 p. m. when at the corner of Chicago street and Cecil Avenue a man stepped in front of him and jabbed a gun
against him with a preematory
"stick 'em up!" Berry, alerted both hands without argument and
the holdup went through his pockets, taking a purse containing between $25 and $30. When he had completed his search, he suddenly dropped his gun and ran rapidly
westward along Chicago street.
Berry stated that the bandit was not masked, but that it was so dark and he was so excited at the time that he did not get a clear
description, except that the man
was taller than himself.

Clark Players to Stage "The Whole Town is Talking"

Buchanan will again have an opportunity to witness a production
by the Clark Players, when that organization takes the stage in a rendition of "The Whole Town's Talking," on Oct. 30, Nov. 1-2, the proceeds to be expended to purchase uniforms for the Buchanan
high school band.

The production will again be directed by M. L. Hanlin, who is already holding rehearsals. The selection is a three-act comedy by
"Santa Claus," but the author of the literary sensation "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

Deb Voorhees is
Guest at County
Hoosgow Again

Deb Voorhees, Buchanan's hardy
perennial liquor law offender, attained residence in the county jail
again this week when he was found in company with two bottles
of moonshine liquor and a sizeable jug in the car of a companion at
the L. M. Barton home, where he had been employed to assist in closing the place for the winter.
Mr. Barton, who is advertising manager for the Chicago Daily News, arrived at his home Sunday
to find a hooch party in progress
among his employees and issued a complaint to the justices. Chief Mitchell and Under Sheriff Dunbar
made the call and found Mr. Voorhees thus occupied, taking him to the St. Joseph jail for the evening.

he is staying, was a place of re-

the direct path of the storm, but

GALIEN CHAMPION MAPLE BUSTERS TO DEFEND THE TITLE

BUCHANAN AND THREE OAKS TO CONTEST HONORS WITH THEM.

Messrs. Babcock and James of the Galien Bowling team, champions of the Buchanan league of last year, attended the reorganization of the city league at the Buchanan Bowling Club alleys Tuesday night and made arrangements to place a team in the field this year to defend their title. It is rumored that a number of Buchanan bowlers have taken a solemn oath and signed in their heart's blood in the dark of the moon that no aggregation of pin artists from outside the city limits would be allowed to take anything home this year. Since Three Oaks has entered a team, it is likely that some competition will develop this winter.

The small farm, including a residence on from one to 40 acres, is in much demand by city people at the present time, according to Charles Clark, president of the Galien State Bank, who reports that he is constantly receiving letters inquiring about such properties. These calls are to a great extent from people of small means who have become dissatisfied with the growing unavailability of city employment, especially in industrial work, and they wish to turn to the farm as a more dependable means of livelihood. Many of them have saved up some money which they are willing to use as a payment on such a property, if they could find one priced within their reach.

American Gets World's Largest Private Yacht

tioned, who started the term in the new school house but quit after 14 days and the term of three months was completed by Thomas Mowley.

In 1847 it was decided to again move the school, a meeting held Oct. 29, 1847 voting to that effect. It was voted that a school be built of round logs, 18 feet square, the walls to be heaved on the inside, roof cabin shape, and a chimney "with a Dutch or French back, with a funnel to commence at the joists." It was voted that the materials of the school house built in 1844 be used as far as possible in the construction.

It was voted to employ Miss Caroline Bennett as teacher, at a wage not to exceed $2 per week and the privilege of boarding around. It was voted that the teacher should call school at 8 a. m., hold noon at 11:30 and let out school at 3 p. m. School was to be held on each second Saturday, and it was voted that the teacher should not be allowed to let out at noon on those days.

At the school meeting held March 24, 1849, it was voted not to pay the teacher more than $150 per week, and board with patrons, and that no school be held unless at least 13 scholars could be assembled.

On Sept. 30, 1850 it was voted that a man teacher be employed at a salary for a winter term not to exceed $14 per month.

The records of this meeting comprise an interesting chapter, as directions for the construction, arrangement and materials of the entire structure, were directed by the vote of the meeting. A building committee was then elected who were to supervise the construction of the building according to the directions voted by the meeting, with discretion only in regard to the size of blackboard and the kind of shingles used.

It was voted that the school be 24x30, with sills of white oak ten inches square, and every stick in the building was thus designated as to material, size, position and number. The size and location of the seats and desks were specified.

The seats were arranged as follows: two long seats directly against the wall on either side, so that the wall would serve as a back, reaching from three feet from the entrance end to the end opposite the teacher's desk. These seats should have each row of four desks 18 inches apart. In front of these desks were two long movable seats with no desks in front of them, which faced each other in the middle of the room. It will be seen that the pupils sat facing each other with their backs to the wall. Two short seats flanked the teachers desk on either side, probably reserved for the bad boys. The building was to be painted "the railroad color" (red).

Tammerson Carlisle, a sister of the late Ashley Carlisle, taught the summer term in this new school house in 1857 for the lump sum of $22.39. The following winter of 1857-8 she taught the school for $30 or $12.50 per month. In the winter of 1863 Tammerson Carlisle taught the school again, receiving $37.50 for three months and paying her own board for that sum. That year seems to mark the end of "boarding around" in the Miller district as the meeting voted that the teachers employed thereafter were to board themselves. The following year Miss Ellen Sharp received $2 for the summer term, or $13 per month, the payment being designated "board and wages."

The appearance of our school was greatly improved by the repair work done by Mr. Wolkens Saturday.

Third and fourth grades, who have been studying Hawaii and the pineapple raising industry drew palm trees for art work last week.

The second grade bulletin board is full of pictures on Indian life for use in connection with their reading of a long Indian story. Some children have made teepees, canoes and cradles.

For Nature Study the lower grades have been reading and writing on the water lily. Agnes Corners brought a plant for close study. Our next papers will be illustrated by pictures of lilies taken from magazines.

High School Has Session of Song at Friday Assembly

The peppiest and most interesting assembly program was given last Friday morning. Mr. Ormiston started the program out right by giving announcements to the effect that there was too much paper being thrown on the school lawn and also that report cards would be out Wednesday, this being followed by an uproarious applause.

However, we were quieted down for a minute in order that Mr. Hyink and Miss Olson might take their places on the platform. This was our signal to take a deep breath, clear our throats, open our mouths to their largest position and put a smile on our faces.

The first song, Buchanan High School Song, was sung by the whole group with Mr. Hyink directing. The singing went very nicely, but Mr. Hyink, not wishing to be selfish, handed the baton to Miss Olson. With the baton in her hand, she showed the boys how well the girls could sing alone, but the boys, I'm afraid, proved themselves equally good singers. The same enthusiasm was had in the singing of the Football Song, but time was called on the directors before completing their combats.

"Curly" Bradford, Mr. Knoblough, Mrs. Dunbar and Mary Fricklich gave short speeches, all of which were to the point and told of whom, how, why, when and where we should buy our season football tickets. The Girls Athletic Association took up the next three minutes of the hour by selling tickets, but an assembly program isn't complete without a pep meeting, no matter how small, so we stayed three minutes over time while Kathryn Portz led us in a few yells.

Bucks Run Wild Against Galien in Saturday Contest

SQUAD SHOWS GRID TALENT IN 1ST GAME

Bradfield Uses Second Team in Second and Fourth Quarters.

BACKFIELD FAST

Showing Indicates Hard Sledging for Riley High School.

A group of football players, wearing the maroon and white jerseys of Buchanan high, ran roughshod over the Galien high school team, and when the dust cleared from the local forty-one points had been rolled up against the northern school, while the locals kept their goal line uncrossed. Although summer temperatures prevailed and it was the first game of the season, the "Bucks" showed enough power to make them a much feared aggregation in southwestern Michigan.

The game opened with Buchanan kicking off. The Galien plays were smothered and they were forced to punt. From this point on, Buchanan was on the offensive. Straight football brought the ball to the three yard line where Captain Pierce took it over. He also kicked the extra point. A few minutes later Pfingst caught a punt on the thirty-five yard line and eluded the Galien team for the second touchdown. Pierce again kicked goal. In the second quarter Coach Bradfield sent in some new men and Buchanan did not score. However, when the half ended the "Bucks" had the ball on Galien's ten yard strip. In the third quarter the "outfit" got together and pushed over three more touchdowns. The first came on straight football when runs by Eisenhart and Pfingst brought the ball down the field and Captain Pierce again took it over. He also kicked goal. A few minutes later Pierce caught a pass from Pfingst and scampered down the field twenty-five yards for a touchdown. He again kicked goal. The ball was again brought down the field after an exchange of punts and Pierce took it over again. Again he kicked goal.

In the last quarter "Curly" again began to substitute men and the "Bucks" worked the ball down the field. "Pierdie" took it over for his fifth touchdown. He then missed the attempt for extra point by inches. Here "Curly" put the entire second team in which proceeded to hold the Galien eleven at bay. The game ended with the oval resting on Galien's twenty yard line.

The team as a whole looked exceptionally well and promises to "clean up" on one of the hardest schedules B. H. S. has had. The line is heavier than expected and the backfield is very fast. The "outfit" is plenty tough and has lots of scrap. The tackling is very good for so early in the season. Saturday's game showed that the "Bucks" are also strong in the aerial department. Dead passers and sure receivers take care of the heaving side, while Captain Pierce fills the kicking parts. In the Galien game "Pierdie" averaged about thirty-five yards on punts and made five out of six attempts for extra points.

One casualty marked the game. Norris, Galien lineman, suffered a broken collarbone when he attempted to make a tackle in the third quarter. His loss hit the Galien squad hard as reserves are very few.

Next Saturday, Oct. 5, the "Bucks" engage Riley High of South Bend, at the local strong hold. Not much is known about the team except that they tied the South Bend Central Reserves 0-0 last Saturday. The "Bucks" are expected to "cop" but not by a great margin. It is hoped that a large crowd will witness the first real tilt.

The local lineup was: L. E. Boyce; L. T. P. Fletcher; L. G. Postelwaite; C. Dempsey; K. G. Thompson; R. T. Vincent; R. E. J. Fletcher; Q. B. Pfingst; H. E. Chubb; H. B. Aronson; F. B. Pierce (C).

Referee, Wagner, W. S. T. C.; umpire, Rinker, Buchanan.

Touchdowns, Pierce, 5; Pfingst, 1. Points after touchdown, Pierce, 5.

Grade News

Kindergarten News

Our large family has gained two new members this week, Mary Ellen Jenkins and Pauline May Mitoh.

We are working on our seed project. Some very interesting nature objects have been brought in and are claiming most of our attention. The baskets which the children make of burrs are on display.

Our health program is well launched. We have spent all week on good breakfasts and what they do for us.

We had three birthday parties this week. Philip Sands, Eleanor Ingelright and Maxine Weaver were our honored members.

First Grade News

We have finished building and painting our farm buildings. Now we are going to make trees and animals for the farm.

Lillian Hartline, Myrtle Ottwell, Donna Pazder, Mona Weaver, Lester Wissler, Florence Ferris and Donald Ochenryder have finished eighteen charts in reading.

We made squirrels in school this week. Some of the nice ones were put on our bulletin board.

Second Grade News

The children have started to make Autumn booklets. Their autumn collection of fruits, vegetables, leaves and nuts is coming along fine. We are also building a miniature farm.

We have new numberwork books which the children are enjoying very much.

Buelah Liddicoat left us this week. We are very sorry to have her go.

The girls and boys in Mrs. Fischmar's room are enjoying their new number books which came this week.

Hosaa Coutas is in school again after two week's absence on account of an attack of mumps.

The work on our health books is coming on well. Edward Pascoe brought us a number of magazines from which to cut pictures for our books.

We are also making a farm. Catherine Wynne has made a table and Dicky Neal a barn.

Third Grade News

The following, boys and girls received 100 in spelling every day last week: Alta Ferris, Charles Harris, Marie Rudom, Audrey Ruth, Katherine Mosier, Mildred Ferris, Bill Borders, and Lawrence Newsom.

We had only five pupils who did not bank last Tuesday. We are striving for 100 per cent next week.

In Mrs. French's room the pupils are making health booklets. Each day we talk over health habits and then illustrate them in our health books. In language we write about health habits.

Fifth Grade

In Miss Ekstrom's room we are studying South America in geography.

Mrs. Flora Jennings called on us this week.

Miss Hopkins has been giving a series of tests in the four fundamentals of Arithmetic. While many children show a need of outside help to obtain a complete mastery of these fundamentals, it is very interesting to note the rapid progress the tests show. In nearly every case the second test is superior to the first, both in score and amount of time used. These tests are to be continued throughout the year.

Sixth Grade
Last Friday Miss Reams' room had ten one-hundreds in Spelling.

All report cards were given out yesterday to the pupils. We ask that the parents study these carefully and if there is any misunderstanding that the matter may be taken up with the teacher.

We now have enrolled ninety little ones in our kindergarten. Elsie Paul and Esther Bradley of the high school are assisting Miss Ebbert.

The members of the faculty were invited to Three Oaks last Thursday evening to enjoy the annual reception given to the teachers of the county by the officials of the Warren museum.

We wish to thank the parents who are helping us to lessen the number of tardy marks in the grades. The per cent has lowered considerably of late.

The second grade pupils are bringing twenty cents each to pay for a little number book, which seems to be very applicable to their needs. The pictures and number stories are within their comprehension and seem to be much enjoyed.

Mrs. Lamb, our school nurse, is preparing the weight cards for all the grade pupils.

The annual Teachers' Institute will be held this year in Kalamazoo, Oct. 28-29.

D. H. Jones from Kalamazoo Normal college called last Monday in the interests of the extension course the teachers are planning on taking this winter. The subject selected is the English drama.

The teachers of the fifth grades are working overtime on the project they hope to put before the public some time in November.

Miss Abell and her pupils appreciated very much the loan of two pictures the latter part of last week. These pictures were painted by Winifred Andrews, who is now teaching art in the Flint schools. Miss Abell's class is working on quite an extensive art project.

The work in Palmer Penmanship is going merrily on. It will not be long before some drills will be of sufficient merit to be sent to the main office in Chicago.

The first group of language papers submitted for inspection was sent in by Miss Heim's third grade. The work was illustrated by pictures taken from magazines and consisted of sentences in which the words you and were were used correctly.

Let us all get behind the P. T. A. this year and help the president, Mrs. C. D. Arnold, make a success of the organization. This was a moving factor last year, so let us keep up the good work.

Have you bought your foot ball

ticket? Our boys need your support. Prove to Mr. Bradfield that you are backing him in his good work by buying a ticket.

OCT. 26 WILL BE HOMECOMING DAY FOR BUCHANAN HI

The annual Booster Day and Homecoming, it has been announced, will be held on Oct. 26. On said date the Buchanan football team will lineup against their old rivals, Niles High, and it is hoped that this will bring out an overflowing crowd at the local field.

The Niles aggregation, with ten lettermen back, will undoubtedly stack up quite evenly against the fast improving "Bucks." The Niles performance against Cassopolis and St. Augustine left much to be desired, while the "fightin' outfit" looked very good against the Galienites.

The Booster Day celebration is always the zenith of enthusiasm during the year. The big feature is the parade, which will be led by the high school band. Rehearsals are being held on the marching part of playing and from all indications the band will ably represent this school. Don't forget the date, Oct. 26.

Editorial

After the first month of school most school activities are well under way and the various clubs become organized again. Football is started, the school election is held and report cards come out. The general tendency is to hope for the best. We hope that we will receive good grades; we hope that the club to which we belong will have a successful year; and we hope that we will win the next football game. Hopes may be high but they don't mean much. The old question always arises: "Well what can I do?"

In pertaining to grades the answer is evident, but when pertaining to the various school activities a little further treatment is necessary. The majority of students don't play football nor do the officers of clubs outnumber the members. It is to be supposed that this minority is to carry the whole burden. The foot ball team and the club and class officers are merely representatives. Their fate rests with you. If they receive the proper support, success will be realized, but if there are only ten or twenty spectators at a football game, or if only one of two come to club meeting, little can be accomplished. Support is the key-note of success, and it is the duty of everyone to give all that is possible.

Said Suburbanite Jones to his neighbor as they hurried to the morning train: "Did you go to the play with your wife after all?" "Yes," answered he, "rather than have her tell me all about it have you bought your foot ball

U. M. GIVES OUT TOPIC H.S. DEBATE

Discuss Replacement of Jury By Judges in Michigan Courts.

250 SCHOOLS ENTER

The Opening Debate has been Scheduled for the 15th of November.

Buchanan high school has become a member of the Michigan High School Debating League this year and will compete for the interscholastic debate championship of the state, according to an announcement by Professor C. E. Denmore of the University of Michigan, manager of the league.

The first step in the forensic race for state honors will be taken on November 15 when the local high school debating team, coached by Mr. Arthur L. Knoblauch of the high school faculty, will meet one of the neighboring schools, to be announced later by the University, in a debate on the subject, "Resolved: That a Judge or Board of Judges be Substituted for the Jury in all State and Municipal Trials in Michigan."

Three other state-wide debates on Dec. 6, Jan. 10, and Jan. 24 will constitute the four preliminary debates in which all schools will participate in order to compete for entrance in the elimination series of debates which begin on Feb. 14.

Only the sixty-four schools with the highest percentage of victories will be entered in this elimination series and each of these sixty-four schools will receive the University of Michigan Wall Plaque Trophy through the co-operation of the Detroit Free Press. This trophy is in the shape of a shield, the design of which was taken from the well-known University of Michigan shield. Its base is of American walnut, 17 inches in height and 15 inches across the top, and the medallion superimposed upon the shield is 9 inches in diameter, three-eighths of an inch thick, and is cast in solid bronze with all lettering artistically embossed.

While the elimination series, beginning on Feb. 14, is in progress the sixty-four schools will debate among themselves with the defeated schools dropping out after each debate until only two undefeated schools remain. These two schools will be taken to Ann Arbor, at the expense of the University, for the state championship debate on Apr. 25. Each of the six debaters participating in this final debate will be presented with a gold watch by The Detroit Free Press and both schools will receive a large bronze trophy cup, one engraved First Honors, the other engraved Second Honors, presented by the University of Michigan Extension Division.

The University of Michigan Extension Division will recognize the success attained by the two semifinal schools by presenting each with a bronze trophy cup properly engraved.

A large number of high schools from all parts of the state have already joined the League, and it is expected that by October 19, the date when the League enrollment closes, the membership for the year will surpass last year's record membership of 250 schools.

Any four-year high school in the state may become a member of the Michigan High School Debating League by applying for membership to Professor C. E. Denmore, manager, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich.

The Michigan High School Debating League, the largest forensic organization of its kind in the United States, was organized by the Board of Regents of the University of Michigan in 1917 with a membership of sixty-four schools which has steadily grown to the membership of 250 schools of last year. With this largest enrollment in the history of the League, 1500 high school debaters participated in 625 debates which were heard by 150,000 people of the state.

The final state championship debate of last year, held in Hill auditorium in Ann Arbor, where Cheboygan High school defeated the Grand Rapids South High school, was attended by 4,000 people, which is the largest audience ever to attend a debate in this state.

MICH. FISHERIES PRODUCT VALUED AT $3,397,000

LAKE TROUT, WHITEFISH, LEAD COMMERCIAL FISH IN VALUE.

The commercial fishing industry has doubled in value in Michigan in the past six years. From an industry that marketed fish valued at $1,673,667.87 in 1923 an increase is noted each year until last year the value of fish taken from Michigan waters for commercial purposes has a total value of $3,397,428.88.

These figures, compiled by the fish division of the department of conservation, show a steady growth in the value of the industry for each of the six years from which totals were taken. The figures show that in 1923, for which a summary has just been completed, 21,367,934 pounds of fish were taken from the four Great Lakes bordering the state and from Saginaw Bay where commercial fishing is permitted.

While there was little or no increase in the number of pounds of fish caught, the rising value of fish is credited with the greatly increased value of the industry. Whitefish was the only species of commercial fish that was caught in increasing quantities last year. In 1928 commercial fishermen disposed of 4,180,751 pounds of whitefish. Last year that number reached 4,652,187 pounds.

Lake trout and whitefish continue to lead by a wide margin all other species in the commercial fishing industry. Lake trout was slightly in the lead with 5,702,174 pounds caught with a total value to the industry of $1,425,543.50. Lake trout brought an income to fishermen of $1,064,651.36 in 1927.

Lake Michigan, which has produced more commercial fish than any other one body of water bordering the state in 1927 continued in the lead last year, but with Lake Huron creeping near in the final figures.

Figures show the total number of pounds of commercial fish caught in 1928 divided as follows: Erie, 746,966; Huron, 6,757,637; Michigan, 6,941,525; Saginaw Bay, 3,195,541; Superior, 3,638,215. Lake Superior fishermen enjoyed an increase from 3,420,729 pounds caught in 1927.

The Teacher's Personality.

Officials of rural schools spend too much of their limited funds on buildings and equipment and attach too little importance to the task of selecting a teacher with a personality. They are prone to fix a low salary, then choose from the list of applicants, giving little or no study to the real needs of the children or the probable ability of the teacher to render the service necessary for the best interests of the pupils.

These criticisms of country school officials were made by Dr. Walter Burr, educational expert of the Kansas Agricultural College, in a recent paper he prepared for The Farm Journal. He says wisdom dictates the use of more money for salary when it is possible to secure a teacher of demonstrated ability as a leader. To secure such a teacher officials should be willing to delay the purchase of additional equipment. The right kind of a teacher will enthrall the children and secure results of importance, with whatever facilities are provided. The dull and listless teacher will secure inferior results even with the best equipment. As between equipment and personality, he says, take the latter on every occasion. Such teachers are the hope of the rural schools.

NO SABBATH.

Within a few weeks the Russian government will put into effect a Revolutionary change in the routine of life. This is the abolition of the fixed and general day of rest. Sunday will become as every other day. Except for five Bolshevik holidays, the year will consist of days of work. Once a week each worker will receive a 36-hour holiday—an afternoon and an entire day, the equivalent of Saturday afternoon and Sunday but during this weekly holiday of his, most of his fellow workers will continue at work; holidays will be taken in shifts; Sunday will not differ from Monday or Friday.

This unbroken working week is expected to increase the productive power of industry. But the economic effects, while profound, will perhaps not be the most important. When almost the entire population refrains from work on a given day each week, a general holiday feeling is apparent. This will no longer exist in Russia. The worker will take his day off in a workaday world; most of his friends will not be at leisure; he will have to make special arrangements to find companions whose day off coincides with his. The day (or the day and a half) will be personal to him; it will lack a general social significance. Unless it happens to fall on Sunday it will certainly lack religious significance and on Sunday as on other days, the great majority of the population will be at work. What effect will this have on the churches and the religious spirit? In the past most Russians have been ardently religious. It is highly doubtful whether the Soviet government, by abolishing the Sabbath, can annihilate the religious instinct.

What Makes Happiness?

Who is happy? This old question bobbed up again at the International Congress of Psychology, and some of the leading psychologists of the world gave their version of what constitutes happiness. Yet the exact mixture of activity and rest, work and recreation, hardship and comfort, hilarity and sorrow, success and failure, which produces a state of bliss remains a mystery, and perhaps always will.

Prof. Goodwin Watson of Columbia University, told of experiments with 400 students. He concluded that intelligence, race, nationality, self-support, participation in religious organizations, physical disabilities, size of home town, financial, educational or social status of family, and ability in the arts or athletics have nothing to do with the happiness of an individual. He over-turned, as many others have done, the persistent illusion that wealth means happiness, and discredited good position and intellectual ability as corner stones of happiness. Even freedom has now been crossed off the list of mental conditions conducive to bliss. The professor found that men are more likely to be happy when married. Personality was discounted as a factor of contentment.

Health seems to be the only one of the old corner stones, on which theoretical bliss was built, to remain intact. Other factors influential in brightening the lives of Prof. Watson's subjects were harmonious homes, enjoyment of work, preference for adventure and responsibility, and the capacity of leadership in many of the everyday affairs of life. No one will doubt the fact, however, that all these indications of felicity may be present and yet leave many a person miserable. Formulas for happiness are innumerable, yet there are still many doleful persons in all classes of society, and the great majority in every walk of life strike about an even balance between ecstasy and misery. When a man finds a recipe for contentment and joy it simply means that he has found a means of satisfying himself, and perhaps others of similar mental and physical constitution. Most men and women find it necessary to work out formulas of their own in harmony with their temperament and environment. But there are millions who do not find even this a practical suggestion.

The Washington Monument

How well the Washington Monument fulfills its purpose as a national shrine is emphasized by a recent official report which shows that in the 41 years it has been open to the public more than 9,100,000 persons have visited it. On the average, more than 600 persons visit the monument each day. The record for a single day, suggesting that its hold on the public is still growing, was made on April 1 last when more than 10,000 persons went to the top.

It will be 130 years in December since Congress, upon motion of John Marshall, adopted a resolution providing for the erection of a marble monument in which the body of Washington was to lie. Nothing was done, however, until 1833 when Marshall, at that time chief justice of the supreme court, and others organized the Washington National Monument Society. This organization raised $88,000 by popular subscriptions and in 1848 the cornerstone of the monument was laid. For six years the work dragged and then a combination of circumstances halted further construction when the monument had reached a height of 150 feet.

In 1864 the enterprise was taken over by the government and work was resumed in 1880. The capstone was set in place in December, 1884, and the monument was dedicated in the following February. It was opened to the public in October, 1888. The monument has been aptly described as "one of the most stupendous works of man, and also one of the most beautiful of all creations." Despite the erection of other memorials, the Washington Monument maintains its hold on the public affection. The original suggestion that all that was mortal of George Washington should there be entombed did not materialize, but the monument could hardly be more of a national shrine than it is. The continuous pilgrimage to it is as significant as it is interesting.

Diamond Dick.

Memories of another generation are stirred by the death of George Charles Jenks, author of the Diamond Dick and Nick Carter stories. It is doubtful if many who read them could have identified their author. But who, having read them, could forget these hair-raising tales that were so popular, albeit sub rosa, with the youth of the previous generation?

By birth, Mr. Jenks was an Englishman, although for more than 50 years he had lived in the United States, and by profession he was a newspaper man until he turned author. Going to New York from Pittsburgh, he became a dramatic critic and incidentally wrote many short stories. It was at this time that he began his series of Diamond Dick and Nick Carter stories, which, as one commentator observes, perhaps "caused more late dinners and low geography marks than any other series in history."

The creator of Diamond Dick was an industrious writer. At one time he is credited with having written an average of one story a day while the public demanded more. In addition to these lighter tales of adventure, he also wrote more serious things, at least one of which, "Stop Thief," has been dramatized and filmed. The death of George Charles Jenks calls attention to how the trend of youthful literature has changed in the United States in recent years. The current product may be safer and may stick closer to facts, but it is doubtful if it excels or even equals the quality of thrills that enveloped Diamond Dick and Nick Carter, a quality that was enhanced because they were proscribed in the best social circles.

Sunrise and Sunset.

At 72 life has the same essential qualities as it had at 17.—Clarence Darrow.
So far as routine physical functions are concerned, maybe, but not the same spirit. At 72 a man, we dare say, knows the vast difference between looking forward and backward—between the things the youth aspires to and the things the old man looks back on. There is all the difference between 17 and 72 in the spirit of a human being that there is between a glorious sunrise and a sunset. One features the future, the other the slow dropping of the curtain.

Everybody else seems to have gotten something out of this farm relief session, except the farmer of course, and we have often thought of writing Senator Cousins and insisting upon protection for American labor against the pauper editors of England, in order to preserve the high standards of living so noticeable among our American editors, but every time we are about to get around to doing it we see an English editorial and we are ashamed to admit that we need any protection, American Editors having more self-respect than some of our other great industrial interests, practically all of 'em, in fact.

We often regret that absent-mindedness appears to be confined chiefly to our elderly and middle-aged male population and if the best dressed girl we know would come around with one leg cosmetically finished in sun tan and the other in bluish rose it would brighten the day for us considerably, we imagine.

The cosmetical tan effect achieved by some of the girls looks so much like the genuine that we guess the only way to find out which is which is to wet our finger and rub.

The Farmington, Ark., correspondent of the Kansas City Star reports a strawberry too big to go into a regular sized tin cup and it would be interesting to know how large the hailstones are in that territory.

We often wonder how the ark smelled when Noah finally landed on Mount Ararat.

HOME BUYERS WARNED OF FREE LOT SCHEMES

THE NATIONAL REAL ESTATE BOARD SAYS WINNERS PAY IN THE END.

With the ending of the vacation season and the turning of the attention toward the more serious aspects of life, we enter the period of the year when more homes and home-sites are purchased than at any season save the spring. Having in mind the fact that the roads will be dotted with the cars of home-seekers, the National Association of Real Estate Boards issues a timely warning against the unethical practice of some promoters who offer "free lots to lucky winners." Such operators are active every fall in nearly every section where there is any demand for plots.

The association warns against this type of swindle, which usually results in the winner paying in the end. Not only are the real estate boards up in arms against such operators, but also the post office authorities, state license law commissions, vigilance committees and better business bureaus are after them.

"No person gives away land for less than it is worth," says H. M. Bodfish, secretary of the new property owners division of the association, who has just completed a national survey of the situation and has found a surprisingly large number of free-lot operators in the field.

Such a sub-divider resorts to subterfuge, misrepresentation and fraud, Mr. Bodfish found.

"His free lots are never free. The happy winner of the lottery, the simple-minded soul, who solves his picture puzzles, the gullible one who falls for the tale that he has been chosen for this award because of his prominence in the community, all pay for their prizes in the end," he continued.

"The most prevalent method of extracting money from excited winners is to charge them for 'the cost of searching the title, drawing the deed, making the transfer and so on. The collection of these sums, that vary from $4.85 to $89 and more, give the good-hearted promoter ample profit for his trouble. In most cases of this kind, investigated the 'incidental' charges were more than the value of the land. For example, in one case investigated the land was bought for $20 an acre, cut up into six or seven lots per acre, and 'given away' for $16.82, title expense, per lot.

"Free lots are usually located in remote places where the land is worthless. Such 'prizes' are often of peculiar size, to small on which to build under existing building ordinances.

"Disappointed winners who see at once that their lots are badly located when they inspect the property are prevailed upon to 'switch' their holdings. The salesmen for the promoter is so very sorry that the prize happens to be in such a poor position, but by special arrangement with the creditor he can give the winner credit for the poor lot on another and better piece of land.

"In other cases, if the free lot is too small, it always happens that the adjacent lot is for sale. The strange part of it all is that the winner is temporarily satisfied. He thinks he is pretty lucky to get part of the strip for nothing and cheerfully digs down into his pocket to purchase another piece. He is happy until he tries to sell and learns that water, sewer and gas probably will not be put in for the next 50 years.

"The operations of the free lottery are especially reprehensible because his activities are directed against the class of people who generally can ill afford to lose any of their hard-earned savings. In their hard-earned savings. In places investigated where the lands were obtained through house to house canvass the canvassers were directed to go to the districts containing the residence of the workers. Such people generally have very little experience with real estate transactions and are not familiar with the factors influencing the value of a subdivision lot. At the same time, the seemingly bona-fide award of a prize which is supposed to be worth several hundred dollars tends to overwhelm people of limited means and certainly does not help to clarify their judgment.

"The operators of the free-lot scheme seem to have developed a number of almost standardized methods for obtaining leads.

"Perhaps the most common method is the securing of signatures at the entrance to theaters, at fairs, and, in fact, everywhere that people congregate. Sometimes the explanation is given that the company is about to start in an advertising campaign for a new subdivision and in order to secure publicity one of their lots is to be given away free. After the lists have been built, the individuals who have signed are approached through the mail. It is here that the interest of the postoffice enters. The first letter to the prospect appeals to his vanity.

"Some companies have used the idea of scattering lucky coins on the sidewalks. One side of these coins bears the name and address of the free-lotter and the other side states that the finder, by calling at the office of the firm, will receive a lot, free of charge except for 'title expense.'

"Puzzle contests have been run in newspapers, the people who are 'clever' enough to solve the 'puzzles' being awarded a lot. These 'puzzles' are always so simple that a child could solve them.

"Some promoters have actually given away lots which were really worth several hundred dollars. The cost element in the plan, which seems to have been especially prevalent in the Chicago region, was to charge the winner from $700 to $800 for the installation of 'improvements' that actually cost $300 to $400. The lots were sold on a regular land contract, the consideration being the amount supposed to be the cost of the improvements. The winner was so elated over having just won a lot worth $500 that he rarely read the contract carefully. If he had done so, he would have found one line of very small type which stated that the party of the first part agreed to install stone streets and cement sidewalks."

MICHAEL VOLKENS

Michael Volkens, son of Peter and Mary Volkens, was born in Buchanan township, June 2, 1835, and departed this life at five o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 18, 1929, at the age of 94 years, 3 months and 16 days.

His entire life was spent on the farm northwest of town, excepting a few late years he has lived in Buchanan.

Mr. Volkens was the youngest of a large family which have all preceded him to the Great Beyond. On Nov. 30, 1877, he was united in marriage to Miss Ann Diment. To this union three daughters were born, Mrs. Jessie Mitchell, Portage Prairie, Mrs. Bernice Best and Mrs. Mabel Ferris, Buchanan.

In addition to his wife and daughters he is survived by 13 grandchildren, 2 great grandchildren and other relatives and friends. Funeral services were held in the late residence, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Sept. 21, Rev. J. J. Terry officiating. Interment was made in Oak Ridge Cemetery.

Not Encouraging
He had taken a hospital course in chemistry and having a sore throat decided to prescribe for himself.

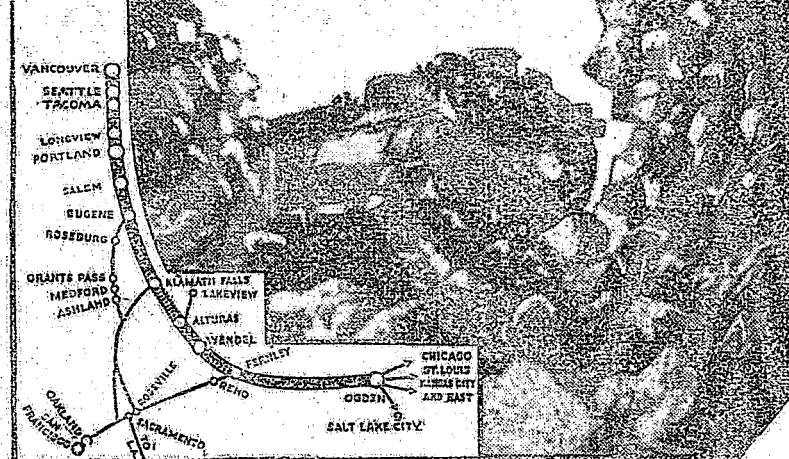

With great pride he handed his maiden effort to the chemist. The chemist read it doubtfully. "Well," he said at last, "is it a very big dog?"

New Rail Shortcut Links West With East

(Right) First train crashes through paper-mache barrier at Hackamore, California, formally opening for passenger and freight service the 96-mile link between Alturas and Klamath Falls.

COWBOYS and Indians, pioneers of covered wagon days and business men from all parts of the West joined recently in a colorful celebration marking completion of the Southern Pacific Company's new $9,000,000 transcontinental cut-off from the Pacific Northwest to the East.

Contrasting the old West and the new, the dedicatory program at Hackamore, Modoc county, Calif., September 14, reached a thrilling climax when a giant locomotive crashed through the scenic reproduction of a mountain range. The breaking of the barrier cleared the way for regular passenger and freight service over the 96-mile Alturas-Klamath Falls line and opened California's last frontier to rail transportation.

Indians, squaws and papooses of the Klamath and Puute Reservations came to the celebration and witnessed arrival of the Iron Horse of today, just as wild tribesmen of 60 years ago gathered in awe along the Central Pacific Railroad as transcontinental travel changed from "trail to rail." Cowboys, loggers, ranchmen and veteran Indian fighters also gave real western atmosphere to the festivities.

The new Alturas-Klamath Falls

rail line, costing more than $5,000,000, serves to link Southern Pacific's Cascade and Overland Routes. Connection is made at Alturas with the former Nevada-California-Oregon Railroad, acquired recently by the Southern Pacific and standard-gauged at a cost of approximately $4,000,000.

This completes the railroad company's $38,000,000 construction program which brings Oregon and northern California more than 3200 miles nearer the markets of the East and provides a shorter route between California and Oregon over the Cascade line.

W. C. T. U. HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION OFFICERS FRIDAY

TO POST NO TOBACCO SIGNS
IN THE SCHOOLS AND CHURCHES.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union held their regular monthly business meeting Friday afternoon, Sept. 27, at the home of Mrs. M. L. Mills, 918 North Main street. The devotionals were led by Mrs. Mills, who chose the Crusade Psalm as the scripture, stressing the need of keeping up the crusade just as in days of yore when the temperance crusade was first inaugurated.

As this was the closing of the year, reports were read from the secretary and treasurer. Several items of business came up for action and discussion. Among these were the renewing of the subscriptions to the Young Crusader, ten copies of which are sent every year to the third, fourth and sixth grades in the local schools. Also the placing of the "No Tobacco" posters in the schools and churches. Special observance of the next Temperance Sunday which is Oct. 18th, was also stressed with the signing of the pledge in those Sunday schools which are not yet observed this part of their work. One Sunday school reported 150 pledges signed by those above the primary department, and several others had observed this, the exact number not being known at the present time.

Rev. W. D. Hayes, pastor of the Evangelical church, gave a very fine talk on the Constitution and Law Observance, which was the topic for the day. Rev. Hayes stated that the laws of our land are enacted by not just a few, but the majority of our people. We wouldn't think much of a home where there were rules made to govern the children if each child was left to choose which rules it would obey. The 18th Amendment is just as much a part of our Constitution as any other part of it. "Some say we can't change men's appetite by legislation." Neither can we change men's sinful nature by legislation but shall we quit legislating because of that. Laws governing each must be taught and practiced by those who believe in them until all are led to see that it is the right way. Our personal liberty stops where the other fellow's rights begin. It isn't right to endanger the lives of others just to satisfy our own personal desires. It is just as much the individual's duty toward law enforcement to report a known bootlegging business as it is the police's duty to make the arrest. The responsibility isn't all on the officer, neither is it all on the individual. We can see the effects of the Jones law in our daily reading of the newspapers. It is our duty to create sentiment in favor of these things and not think our work is done when we enact law.

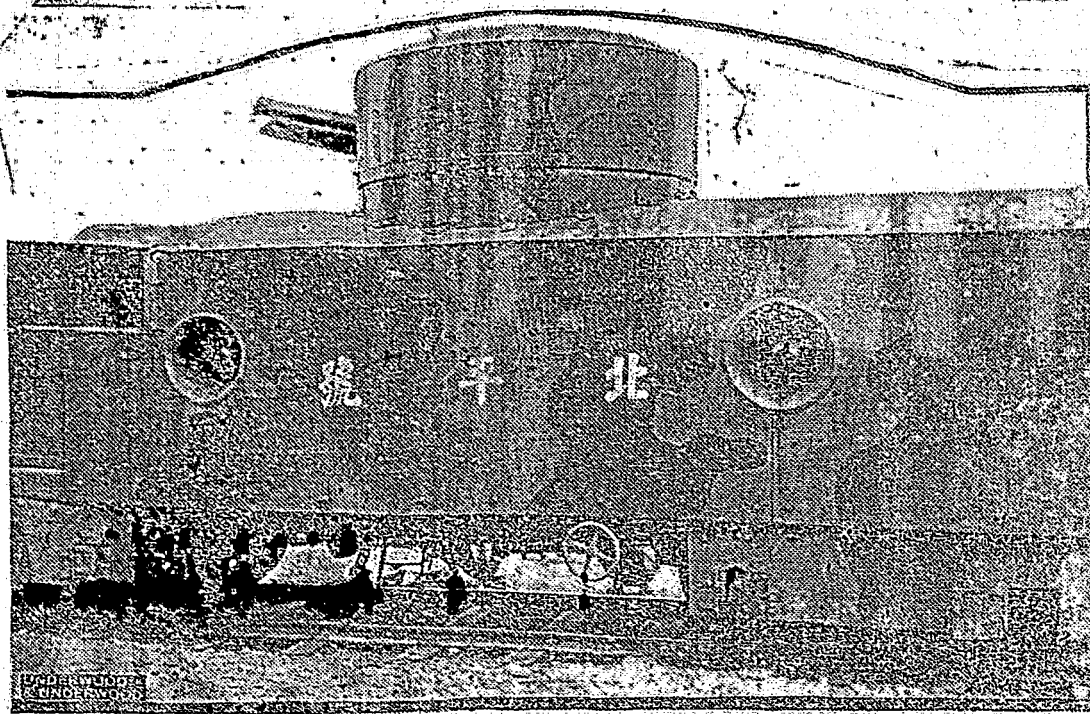

The following officers were elected to serve the coming year: President, Mrs. L. M. Otwell; vice president, Miss Mae Mills; recording secretary, Mrs. D. C. Blodgett; corresponding secretary, Mrs. D. D. Pangborn; treasurer, Mrs. I. N. Barnhart.

Other officers to be appointed later are, Child Welfare Superintendent, Flower Mission Department Superintendent, Evangelistic Superintendent, Press and Publicity Superintendent, Temperance in the Sunday schools and also in the day schools.

Articles were read from the Union Signal entitled, "Why Fight a Dying Cause" by Mrs. Barnhart; "Signing our Death Warrants" by Miss Mills; "Jones Law Proving Its Alike," by Mrs. Otwell and "Youth should Foster Respect for Law" also by Mrs. Otwell, who had charge of the program for the day. The meeting then adjourned after which refreshments were served. The next meeting is to be held Oct. 25 at the home of Mrs. Lulu Wilsey, 129 Main street.

The name Ruth is derived from the Hebrew word meaning beauty.

The Old Timer's Corner

Old Timer Announces he Will Take Rest; Hopes Others Will Continue "Old Timers Corner" Stories

There comes a time in the regular run of events when it is time to take a rest. I feel that the time has come when some one else should step forward and write a few things for Old Timer's Corner and so with this issue I am withdrawing my "little bit" from the regular weekly "corner" and hope that some one else will drop a line, now and then, at least, if not regularly, to the home town paper and let us keep the spirit of old times and the old friends and the old places freshened in our memories.

I have written letters for sixty-one weeks, now and have made friends a-new and have perhaps made some of the people think of me, but I can assure you, one and all, that I have never written a word in these articles that was even thought to be of a derogatory nature, in any instance. I have only set down such things as came to my mind, in reviewing the old times and places and the old friends. It has given me some pleasure and has also been the cause of some sorrow from the fact that some people have been there with criticism and complaint. I am very very sorry for anything I may have written that caused them to think wrongly of me, for I have been doing only what I thought would perhaps be interesting to some one that knew things as I knew them.

In last week's issue of "The Record" there was a very interesting letter from some one who did not sign their name. I was sorry for that, but hope they will write again, now, and sign their letters. I am very thankful to them for the kind words they had to say about the "corner" and of what I have written that was interesting to them. That is what I have aimed to do all along, but have been misjudged, sometimes and perhaps some few may have an idea that I am just trying to push myself into the paper for others to read. That is NOT the case.

I have been away from Buchanan for nearly thirty years. Furthermore, I left Buchanan of my own free will and accord. I felt, at that time, that I could better myself by being where I could make use of my profession and at the same time enjoy music to a better advantage. I have never been sorry that I came to the city, but I have never had any but the best of feelings for the old friends and the old home and enjoy them much more than you can imagine for I know that it costs you some effort to write them, the same as it has cost me some effort through this last year (and more) to write the weekly letters.

So to my friends and to those that are not so fond of "the corner" nor of myself (though I hope I never find out who they are for I like to feel that the whole world is friendly) I will say Good Bye, for a while, and I will hope to hear from any or all, through the "old corner".

America Holds the World's Worst Fire Record

The loss of thousands of lives and property valued at approximately one-half billion dollars was the direct tax paid last year by citizens of the United States for fire waste. While the total loss in 1928 was slightly less than in 1927, America still bears the stigma of producing the world's worst fire record.

Recognizing the urgent necessity of keeping fire waste as low as possible, the National Fire Waste Council and the Insurance Department of the National Chamber of Commerce are sponsoring a competition known as the Inter-Chamber Fire Waste Contest, among more than 650 cities in all parts of the country. The results obtained in the cities reporting in the contest coincident with their participation in continuous fire prevention programs have indicated fire losses may be decreased thru concerted effort.

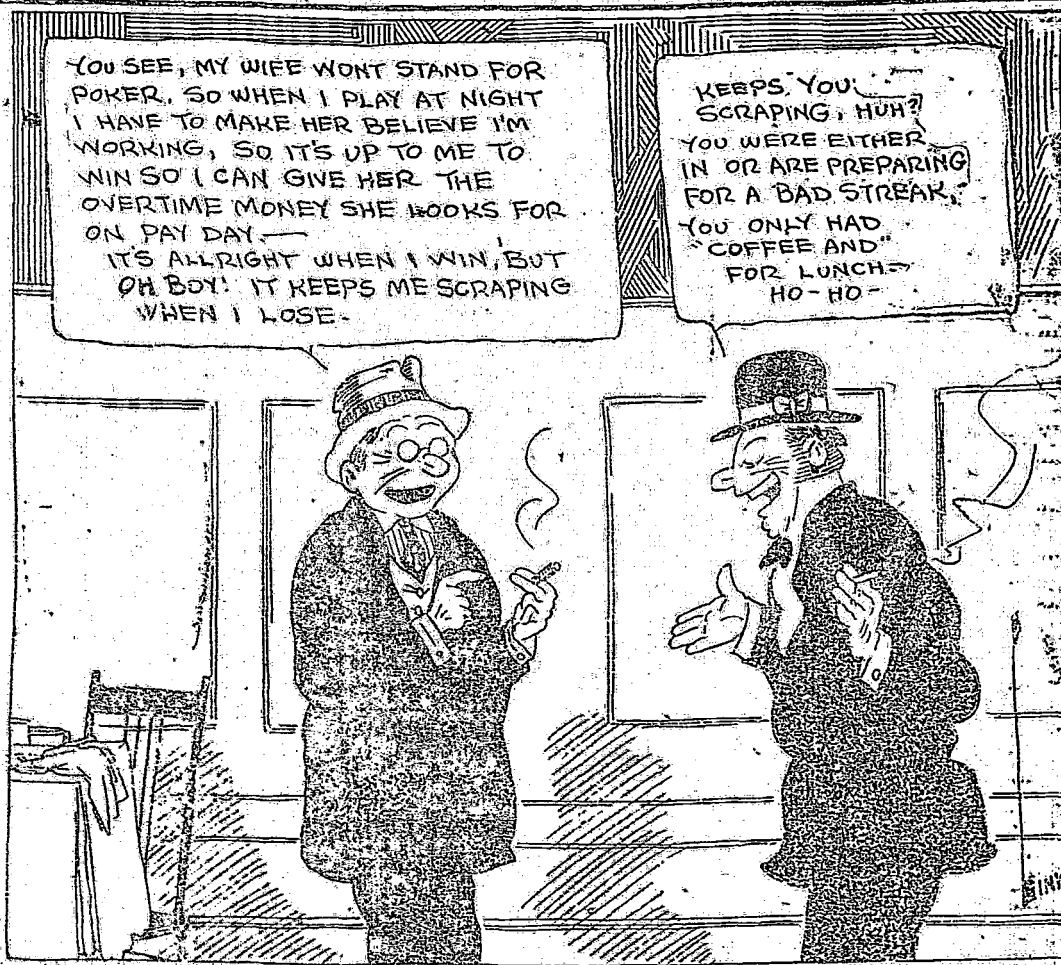

Last year the cities making returns in the contest showed a decrease of $18,500,000 in property loss due to fire as compared with their average losses for the preceding five years. This was a decrease of more than 17 per cent. During the past three years the per capita loss of the contest cities has dropped consistently. In 1925, it was $3.70 per capita, in 1926, $3.07, in 1927, $2.70 and in 1928, $2.35. If the record of the country as a whole had equaled that of the contest cities last year property worth $200,000,000 which was burned would still be standing and serving a useful purpose.

The contest is on a year-round basis as experience has shown that lasting results are secured only by continuous effort. Fire Prevention Week, now being observed, is the starting point of the year's work in many communities. Even after this week is over every citizen should continue to keep in mind the importance of preventing fire and take steps to see that his negligence will not be responsible for any fire damage.

Stock Setback Gives Impetus to Building & Loan

Lessening of the tendency to speculate in the stock market, due in a measure to the two setbacks, which the market received during the spring and summer, has given new impetus to building and loan associations of Michigan, with the result that these associations have experienced more rapid advancement during the summer just closed than in any summer in the past.

Building and loan examiners of the state who are best informed concerning the condition of the associations believe that the present fiscal year will see the assets in this field increased $25,000,000, a figure which far exceeds the growth of any 12 months period. Michigan will entertain the United States League of Local Building and Loan associations next year, and it is confidently believed that this fact will prove a stimulus to building and loan activity in the state. It has proved, so in other states where this convention has been held, and inasmuch as all associations in Michigan are united in the effort to make the convention a success and the gathering is attracting the attention of building and financial interests, it is believed that the meeting will prove a boon to Michigan.

A City of New Telephone Buildings

IN 1926, the Michigan Bell Telephone Company entered upon the largest expansion program in its history. The intervening three years have witnessed the engineering and construction of 25 new telephone buildings and major building additions throughout the state.

Grouped together, these structures, housing thousands of telephone workers and millions of dollars' worth of equipment, would make an imposing "business city."

But this building construction represents only a portion of the extension of telephone plant by this Company during that period. Total expenditures for telephone plant expansion in Michigan the past three years were $72,000,000, greatly increasing facilities and improving the service. This is a continuing program, for as business and social activities increase, demand for still greater telephone expansion develops.

This plant expansion and improvement would be meaningless if it were not translated into terms of service and a desire to afford increasing telephone comfort, convenience and satisfaction, and to meet the growing needs of the state.

Our policy—"To continue to furnish the best possible telephone service at the lowest cost consistent with financial safety"

OLDER FACTORY MEN LESS LIABLE INDUST. MISHAPS

DECREASE IN COMPENSATORY ACCIDENTS FOR MEN OVER 45 YRS.

Older men employed as factory workers in this state experience fewer compensable injuries than younger men, according to a bulletin released by the statistical bureau of the Department of Labor and Industry. Workers whose ages range from 20 to 24 years, experience personal injury frequency 39 per cent greater than persons whose ages are 45 to 64 years, and 22 per cent greater than those between the ages of 25 and 44 years. The report says further:

"The survey shows that the personal injury frequency of the group over 65 years of age is 147 per cent lower than in the 20 to 24 year group and 112 per cent lower than in the 25 to 44 year group. In instances of a permanent nature, such as amputations, the 20 to 24 year group is 154 per cent higher than the 45 to 64 year group and 33 per cent above the 25 to 44 year group. A very low figure of injuries to minors is attributed to restriction of the industries and occupations in which they are permitted to work.

"Fourteen-year-old workers experience accident frequency of 154 injuries per 10,000 workers of this age employed; 3.8 in the 15-year group; 3.5 in the 16 year group and 1.4 for 17 year old employees. During the period ending the 16 year group is the only division among minors contributing to the serious accident column, they showing .3 of one person permanently disabled in every 10,000 of that age employed.

"At ages 18 and 19, fatal accidents appear with .65 of one person killed in every 10,000 employed. Permanent disabilities in 1928 to 2.6, all accidents in this age group jumping to a frequency of 55.8. Ages 20 to 24 have the highest frequency of any group, accounting for 71 in fatalities, 53.3 permanent disabilities, or 54.15 persons receiving all degrees of disability in 10,000 employed. A slight decrease is shown in the group from 25 to 44 years, while the older men, from 45 to 64 years of age are accountable for a very noticeable decrease to .69 fatalities, 2.12 permanent disabilities, or a total of 55.93 accidents per 10,000 employed at this age group.

"A further reduction in total number of injuries sustained is seen in the group over 65 years of age. In this division but 33.9 accidents per 10,000 men of these ages employed have occurred during the reporting period. Permanent disabilities are reduced to .79 while fatalities increase to 1.1."

Steam Route is Established From Europe-Grt. Lakes

Central West-European Transport Co. has been established with headquarters in the Book building, Detroit, to conduct bi-weekly sailings from Great Lakes ports to Antwerp, Rotterdam, London and Hamburg.

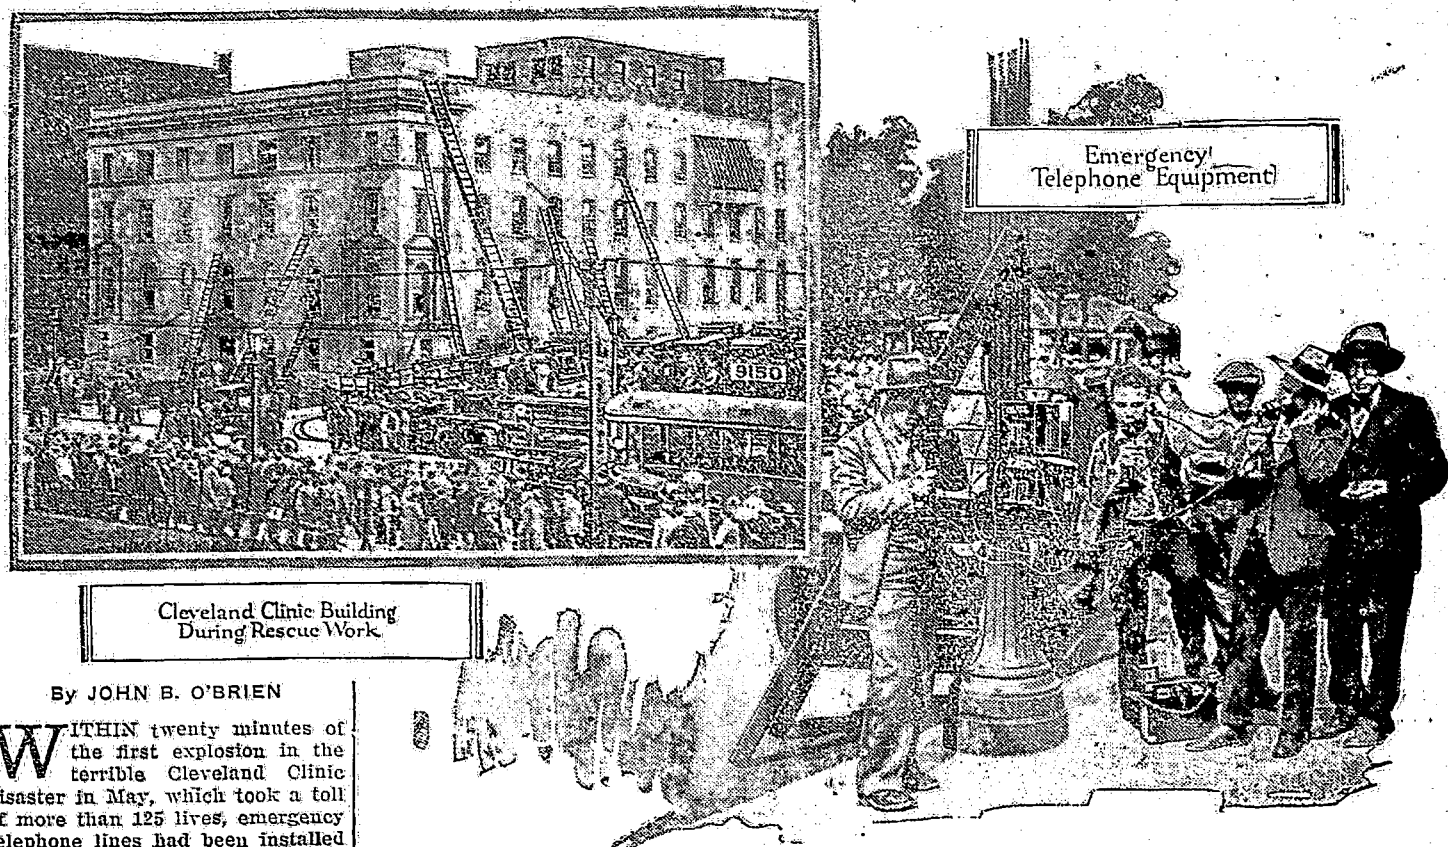

Four vessels of approximately 2,500 tons capacity have thus far been assigned by the Central West European Transport Co. to this service. The initial sailing was made in August by the S. S. Dewstone, carrying miscellaneous cargo for Antwerp, Rotterdam and interior points in France, Russia and Poland. Another, the S. S. Boreas sailed later in the month. S. S. Jan and S. S. Elfrone are scheduled for September sailings.

According to the management advantages offered by this service are greatly reduced freight rates, in some instances absorbing practically the whole rail charge between lower lake ports and the eastern seaboard; elimination of transfers and lighterage at Atlantic ports; cargo received and loaded on vessels up to and including date of sailing; ocean bills of lading issued and delivered to shipper immediately the cargo is aboard. The company's vessels are classed 100 A-1, Lloyd's rating, with insurance rates corresponding to that classification. An illustration of the lessened risk incurred through the use of this service, it is pointed out, is that in reducing the rail haul several hundred miles, a great deal of switching is eliminated before shipments arrive at shipside; secondly, loading on to the large Atlantic freight steamers, it is claimed, increases the handling risk inasmuch as the larger vessels have as many as five and six between decks, necessitating strenuous, beams and other obstructions, requiring much extra handling; before goods can be securely stowed in the ship. The same difficulties are encountered in the unloading process.

The vessels of the Central West European Transport Co., it is claimed, have clear holds, large hatches and no tween decks. As a consequence they are able to load goods in any part of the holds in one operation and without any further handling to complete perfect stowage. After loading the hatches are closed and no further handling takes place until the steamers arrive in Europe.

The company's foreign offices are maintained in London, Hamburg, Rotterdam and Antwerp. American agencies have been established at Chicago, Cleveland, Grand Rapids and Flint.

Bravery and Efficiency of Telephone Workers Displayed at the Cleveland Clinic Disaster

Cleveland Clinic Building During Rescue Work.

By JOHN B. O'BRIEN

WITHIN twenty minutes of the first explosion in the terrible Cleveland Clinic disaster in May, which took a toll of more than 125 lives, emergency telephone lines had been installed on lighting poles in front of the Clinic building, and if the telephone was ever called upon to serve a humanitarian use, these instruments surely performed such a task.

Four such emergency telephones were installed in front of the Clinic building. Three of them were connected to the Clinic private branch exchange board by means of lines run out of the window, and a fourth, for the use of the police and fire departments, was connected with a subscriber's line which had been taken over for the emergency.

In order to relieve the strain on the Clinic hospital facilities, nine subscribers' lines were taken over. These were strung through a window and connected with instruments in the reception room so as to handle outgoing calls. Telephone operators were rushed to the scene in taxicabs and by the time of their arrival, temporary lines had been strung across vacant lots connecting the Clinic board to the corridor or the hospital building.

Emergency Information Bureau From the very first, every effort was made to get and give the public just as much information as was possible, and included in this service was the answering of a large number of Long Distance calls, some of which came all the way from Europe. No sooner had the news of the disaster been flashed across the country than Long Distance calls began to pour into Cleveland, for many of the Hospital and Clinic patients were residents of other parts of the country and friends and relatives were anxious to receive information in regard to them. This was made the more difficult by the fact that the Clinic records had been, in part, destroyed and that many of the Clinic staff, both medical and administrative, were either among the dead or dying, or were engaged in caring for the injured.

However, in every case, as much information as possible was given and all inquiries were carefully followed up so that the distant parties could be called back and receive any further information which could be obtained. This call-back service was furnished without additional charge.

It became necessary, therefore, to organize an emergency information bureau. Eight such emergency stations were installed in the Headquarters Building of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company and they were manned continuously for forty-eight hours by members of its Commercial Department. The company also stationed other representatives at the morgue and at the different hospitals to which the injured had been removed. Thus, there was no delay in telephoning to the bureau as soon as identifications had been made and in this way the casualty lists were compiled. In the meantime, thousands of calls came in, inquiring as to the safety of patients in either the Clinic or the Hospital, and a great crowd collected outside the building to watch for and read the lists that were posted there from time to time.

Among the many calls which were received from different parts of the country were hundreds that came from doctors, offering their services. Such calls were at once transmitted to the hospital authorities.

The emergency information bureau continued to function from Wednesday, May 15, until Friday noon. By then the traffic had subsided to a considerable extent so that it was possible to handle it by means of the two switchboards in the Clinic building.

Heroism of Telephone Workers

The first word of the disaster came from the brave telephone operator at the Clinic, Miss Gladys Gibson, who, although she saw death approaching in the form of a ghastly yellow poison gas, stayed at her switchboard in an effort to secure help and to warn everyone of their danger. "Greater love hath no man," said a priest, with tears in his eyes when he saw the girl die. "She was a brave and noble girl."

Nor were her efforts in vain, for the telephone forces went into action with remarkable celerity. First to reach the scene were William Kane, a repairman, and B. G. Spaeth, the district plant superintendent of the Garfield exchange in the city of Cleveland, together with G. T. Mahaffey, the district traffic superintendent. With the firemen they entered the building, only to be driven back by the deadly fumes as a third explosion occurred. Mahaffey finally succeeded in making his way to the second floor where the switchboard is located, and after finding the operator's headset and with a handkerchief tied over his nose and mouth as a protection against the fumes, he stayed at the board for more than an hour, being joined shortly afterward by Walter J. Turner, maintenance supervisor. Mahaffey's first call was to the Garfield chief operator, to send other operators to the Hospital building without delay.

The Cleveland disaster again demonstrated the value of the first aid training which is given Bell System employees throughout the country. By some strange providence, a number of telephone men were nearby when the explosion occurred and all of them did heroic service, both in rescue and in first aid work. To record the individual efforts of these men, or even to mention them all by name, would be impossible, but here is a typical case illustrative of their efforts. Edward Kvasny, a cable splicer, and Joe Kaspar, his helper, were working in a manhole about four blocks away. Although neither heard the explosion, their attention was attracted by the passing fire engines and ambulances and by the odor of gas and fumes which was forced through the subway. They ran to the scene where they not only assisted in carrying out the injured, but turned their attention to giving artificial respiration. Both men suffered ill effects from gas, but were entirely recovered by the next day.

The women, too, played their part in the emergency. Full operating forces were kept on duty all night at both the Garfield exchange and in the Ohio Bell and the A. T. and T. toll offices. Operators who were on vacation or had their day off reported back to duty voluntarily, as soon as the news of the disaster reached them. During the emergency the Cleveland toll traffic reached a new high peak, exceeding by several hundred any previous day's traffic.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping." Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

CO. HOOSGOW 1000 POPULATION PAYS ROAD BONDS BY CUTTING COST OF MAINTENANCE

MISSOURI PROVES HIGHWAY PROBLEM CAN BE MET SUCCESSFULLY.

"The reduction in maintenance cost is sufficient to pay interest on these bonds." These few words were recently used in summarizing the cost of the paving and reconstruction of 224 miles of roads in one county—Jackson county, Mo., wherein lies Kansas City.

Roads in the vicinity of Kansas City were bad. Aside from being rough, they absorbed much of the available highway money through upkeep requirements, so there was little left to build pavements that wouldn't wear out. Something had to be done, so first of all, two consulting engineers were employed who personally inspected every foot of Jackson county's 350 miles of roads.

Their recommendations were sweeping. They urged the immediate replacement of "pie crust" roads, considerable mileages of which had been resurfaced so much that it was difficult to identify the original construction. These engineers reported: "It is quite evident that the amount required to properly maintain these roads will soon exceed the amount that can be raised by taxes. It will be cheaper to vote bonds and construct a complete and proper system of roads now, rather than attempt a long building program and a larger continuing heavy maintenance cost."

Automobiles in Jackson County were accordingly assured a longer life in 1928 when a county road bond issue for $6,500,000 was adopted. With this sum it was planned to reconstruct 224 miles of roads with more than 150 miles of concrete paving prescribed. The remedial work is now well under way. The saving in maintenance cost on the roads will take care of the bond interest; the saving in car operation costs, the attainment of motoring comfort and the extension of car utility, will more than repay the cost of the bonds. These bonds are being retired by the collection of an almost insignificant personal property tax of seven-tenths of a mill per dollar of assessed valuation.

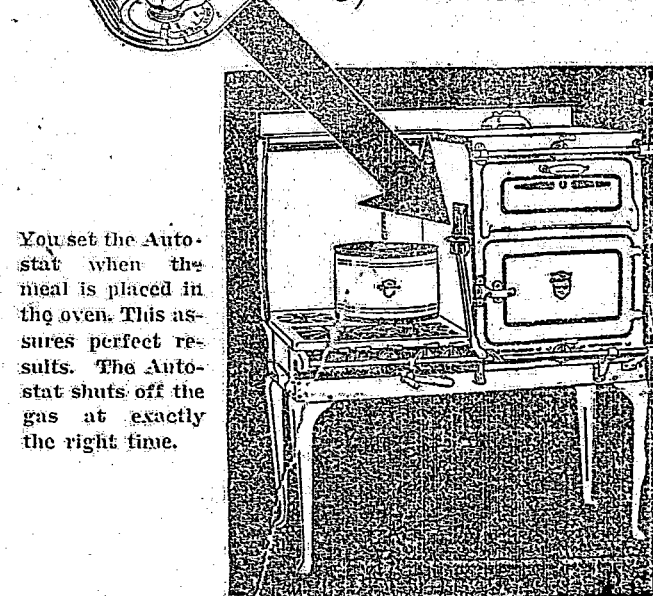

No Aesop is required to figure out a moral from all this. There are countless other communities that could be made more livable by emulating Jackson county, Missouri.

U. S. Wage Earners Are Largest Buyers Of Automobiles

The survey of the National Bureau of Economic Research for the committee on Recent Economic Changes brought out that wage earners and the lower salaried groups constituted a large proportion of buyers of automobiles. At the end of the 20 year period beginning with 1907 the annual production of low-priced cars had increased well over 300 times, while the increase in total car production in the same period was only nine-fold. Production reported for 1907 was 13,255 low-priced cars, 14,427 medium-priced and 3,672 high-priced cars. In 1926 the production was 3,271,015 low-priced cars, 508,023 medium-priced cars and 77,965 high-priced cars.

A sample study was made over a two and one-half month period of the sales other than to corporations by a large automobile distributor in an Eastern industrial city and by several sub-dealers doing business in surrounding small cities and towns. The car to which figures pertain is a popular make with a price range from about $1,000 to $1,600. Of the total number sold, laborers and artisans brought 23.6 per cent, salesmen and clerks 20.2 per cent, superintendents, foremen, etc., 9.6 per cent, policemen, chauffeurs, motormen, etc., 5 per cent, housewives, 4.7 per cent, farmers, 3.4 per cent, and persons who gave no occupation 5.9 per cent. Only 12.3 per cent of cars were sold to manufacturers, capitalists, bankers, brokers, and merchants and an additional 9.4 per cent to physicians, lawyers, teachers, etc.

Cars were reported bought on time in 61.4 per cent of sales. In the labor and artisan group, the total number of sales involving no trades and the number involving the trading in of cheaper cars was found nearly twice as great as the number of sales in which the same or better cars were turned in.

The survey points out that in 1910 there was one automobile to every 265 persons in the country; in 1917, one to every 22; in 1919, one to every 16; and on July 1, 1928, one to every 6. The annual production of passenger cars since 1915 has been well over 1,000,000 a year and since 1922 over 3,000,000 annually.

State College Surveys Minerals Upper Peninsula

Two field parties from the Geology Division of the Department of Conservation, working through the summer in the mining districts of the Upper Peninsula have completed their work for the season.

An Iron Survey party, working west of Ishpeming in the Marquette Range, finished field work for the season about Sept. 15, and the Copper Survey party, working between Houghton and Calumet finished a few days later. Occasional work, however, will continue throughout the winter.

The Iron Survey was carrying on its work for the third year. During the summer of 1928 the party completed its surveys in Iron County, and the maps that will include the results will be ready for distribution in a few months. The immediate purpose of the iron survey in Marquette county is to aid in the discovery, if possible, of deposits of the hard ore variety, now much in demand by the iron furnaces. Discovery of hard ore deposits in the western end of the Marquette Range would bring back the iron mining industry in this part of the district, it is said.

The Geological Division believes that there is much reason to expect that hard ore deposits may be found in this territory. The magnetic survey in the copper region west of Houghton is working out the field distribution of the different beds in the copper bearing series, especially those known to be copper bearing. The work may result in the discovery of shallow deposits.

Some of these now worked by the mines are more than a mile in depth. The low post-war prices of copper made it very difficult for the deep mines of Michigan to compete with the great shallow porphyry deposits of the west.
