UNSEASONABLE CONDITION OF WHEAT, POTATO, AND PEPPER-MINT MARKETS FORCES FARMERS TO SIGN FOR CROP WITH ASSURED MARKET; COMPANY OFFERS $7.50 PER TON AND FREE SEED.

Farmers of the Galien and Glendora districts have signed for the largest beet acreages in the history of those sections, according to Field Superintendent Warren Hagley, and a still larger acreage is anticipated, due to the assurance of a fair price for the crop, as compared with an extremely unsettled market for other staples.

The farmers are guaranteed a minimum price of $7.50 and free seed with a chance of more, according to the terms of a sliding scale based on market price of sugar and sugar content of the beets. The sugar companies state that they will probably be able to continue this price next year, if they secure a good acreage and tonnage, but they cannot continue to pay it for a small crop that employs their factories only part time.

Many of the farmers of the Galien and Glendora sections are planning to devote to sugar beets land set to peppermint, due to the present market on that commodity. Mint growers are beginning to transplant roots, but a majority plan only to set enough to insure a supply for future plantings, in case the market should be better in future years.

Noted Swedish Comic In "Cuckoo" Number

In Raoul Walsh's production "The Cock Eyed World," El Brendel sang a few ditties. In Walsh's current production "Hot For Paris," in which Victor McLaglen is featured with Brendel and Fifi Dorsay, the Swede comic has been promoted by Walsh to sing a special number written for him by Walter Donaldson and Edgar Leslie and called "The Cuckoo Song." "Hot For Paris," coming to the Ready Theatre next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, with a midnight show on Saturday, Mar. 22, at 11:15, chiefly concerns the first mate of a sailing vessel, played by McLaglen. He buys a ticket in the Calcutta Sweepstakes, wins the capitol prize in the Derby and cannot be found to deliver to him the million the winning long shot brought home.

When all this money is disbursed McLaglen proceeds to go on a spending spree in Paris and then things happen.

Put your faith in Konjola as did Mrs. Magdalena Roberts, 10109 Forest Avenue, East Detroit. Think of her joy when she uttered these glad words: "No wonder I am grateful for Konjola. For five years I endured agonies, at times the pains in my back were so terrible that I was sick all over. The pains attacked every part of my body. My stomach was in bad condition, too. Nothing helped me, and I was about to give up in despair when I heard of Konjola and its amazing success. How glad I am that I put this wonderful medicine to the test. Why, the very first bottle did me a lot of good, and then the improvement was rapid. In just six weeks the rheumatism was conquered and my digestion was restored. I am feeling just fine, and I think it my duty to tell the world what this remarkable medicine, Konjola, did for me." Konjola is sold in Buchanan at W. N. Bucks Lose to Paw Paw in Opening Regional Game

INABILITY TO FIND BASKET COSTS TITLE

Harold Pierce is High Scorer in Valedictory Game.

SHUT OUT IN SECOND

Last Quarter Rally Fails to Overcome Lead of Opponents.

A bad second quarter in which Paw Paw ran up eleven points while Coach Harold Bradford's defending regional champs could only get a pair of free throws, spelled defeat for the "Bucks" in the opening round of the state tournament at Kalamazoo.

Paw Paw had a wonderful eye for the basket, especially in the first half, making an amazingly large percent of their shots which were mostly rather close ones.

The Paw Paw boys started right out and rang up five points before "Juggy" Pierce sank a pair of free throws and then they dropped in two field goals while Pierce scored four more when he managed to make the pot shot and both of the shots awarded him on Henderson's personal.

The second stanza was a regular night mare. Paw Paw scored baskets after baskets, being interrupted only when Pingst and Knight took time to sink a free throw apiece. The score at the end of the half stood, Paw Paw, 20; B. H. S., 8.

The third quarter was slightly closer, Warner and Price both dropped in a free throw and the latter added a pair of long shots. Meanwhile Pierce was adding to his total with a long one and a pretty corner shot.

The Bucks actually out scored their opponents in the last quarter. Price opened it with a short and Storacek followed up with a free throw. Pierce then counted on Westfall's foul and Pingst made three successive free throws on Storacek's three personal. Pingst also made a long shot and "Mike" Shultz came through with a similar shot. Wheaton scored three points when "Olive" fouled him as he was shooting and still made the shot. Martin sank a free throw and "Mike" Shultz ended it with another charity toss.

Harold Pierce, playing his last game for Buchanan high school, played a wonderful game at center, the pivot man on all plays, the high scorer. Captain Harold Knight also deserves credit for the great defensive game he played and for his leadership of the team.

Home Ec Girls Draw Plans for Future Houses

The girls in the Advanced Home Economics Class have been making house plans for the last month. Each girl or each two girls chose a picture of a house and decided a location for it.

In choosing the best house plans Mr. Miller considered the convenience, location, size, cost, use of space and neatness of the work. The best house plans were made by Marie Mitchell and Marjorie Howe.

"STUFF"

By Kathryn Reed The following essay was judged the best of the senior familiar essays submitted:

Words and roots always have had a peculiar fascination for me, some giving a soothing sensation, like good poetry, others startling, often grating on my sensitiveness; still others excite my womanly prerogative—curiosity, making me wonder—"why have it thus?"

"Stuff!" What a word! As un-beautiful as life! But how much we use it, although it is only one of many undefinable (as far as practicability goes) words of our Americanized English.

When uttered by the glutton the word may become altogether un-beautiful. What could be more terrible than to "stuff" one's self? When used in that respect one can fairly see the fat ooze from between grasping, pudgy fingers.

Repeat that word a number of times—does it not take on a different aspect? It soon becomes harder to pronounce and you lose its meaning in the word and could easily mean various things.

Words may be dead or alive—we are responsible for them. Beautiful words live and poets breathe them through their pens to us; ugly words soon die and are used by ghouls who dig them out of their rusty graves.

"Stuff!" may be beautiful if we treat it with respect; if we don't, it's going to keep on getting ugly until it will die the death of a red roof, washed mud-dily by the rain.

Good-by!

SCHOOL SLANTS

The senior history class has finished the study of the Civil War and eagerly took a test on it Monday morning to liberate them up for the week's work.

Senior English wrote familiar essays on subjects of their own choice Monday.

Sophomore history classes are studying about Napoleon Bonaparte. Who's he?

Saturday and Sunday must have been ideal days for hiking as Saturday bright and early Marie Post, Cleo Cook, Esther Bradley, Erid Reams, Ray Robe and Dorothy Rothfuchs arrived in Niles and gave the masculine hearts pleasant ruttlers.

The "On to Gallieners"—Edith Eddy, Marion Bachman, Mildred Morse, and Elizabeth Montgomery, beat the other group by four miles when they booted it to Gallien on Sunday. Don't tell anybody, but we wonder how they got back.

Maynard Post, well known senior, has been missed at school the last two or three days. It is reported that he came home from the tournament very ill. Why Postie? Are they that rough?

"Thank Heavens, no more book reports until after spring vacation." Well known phrases among English classes.

Many attended the tournaments at Niles and Kazoo. They report much fun, hilarity and rivalry.

Easter comes late this year, but spring vacation comes early, so what do we care?

Old-Fashioned, Hand-Made Quilts.

Quilts are coming back into public favor, they bid fair to occupy once more the place of prominence that was theirs in the days of long ago. The patterns that were favorites with our grandmothers are being followed with care.

Social leaders are bringing back the quilts because they have a real need for them. The use of period furniture and antiques, the English and Colonial type houses, unite in a call for an old-fashioned quilt.

The old-fashioned woolen coverlet, in white and blue, the pride of our ancestors, is coming back. It can be manufactured with modern machinery. They sell at fancy prices, there is a real demand for the various patterns, the Pine Trees being the favorite with many.

Railroad Work in Winter.

There are those who love to recall the old-fashioned winter with deep snow that covered the ground for weeks and keen winds that did their part in making outdoor work difficult, even dangerous.

Did you ever stop to think of the task that falls to the railroad man in winter? Transportation must be carried on, freight trains must be put through division after division as nearly on time as may be possible.

Railroads made fine records during the recent cold spell, trains were well handled despite the sleet, wind, ice and snow. There was not an easy job on any line in the northern states.

The Seminoles.

After nearly a century of effort, the government has given up efforts to get the Seminole Indians to a reservation. In the face of almost total failure to get them to leave the Everglades, where they took refuge years ago, Secretary Wilbur has ordered the attempt to corral them abandoned.

Ninety-seven years ago the Seminoles signed a treaty with the government by which they agreed to give up their Florida lands and to go to what later became Arkansas. This promise they did not carry out and the Seminole war, one of the worst Indian wars, resulted.

amount to reading the senator out of the party, and, apparently, that is the thing wanted. Obviously he will become an independent candidate if that is the only way he can become a candidate, and many who have followed his course will feel that would be his proper classification.

Probably the Senate has real need for a man of his temperament and disposition. An honest objector may irritate party leaders frequently and still be of value to the public.

The Sugar Consumer.

In most tariff debates in Congress the consumer is not represented. He never has been conspicuous in the picture when tariff schedules were being arranged. He pays the tax, but has no direct voice in the decisions which mean the burdens will be fair and equitable, or unwieldy and burdensome.

Great fear is expressed by some speakers that an increased tariff would do financial damage to the Cuban producers. Other speakers declare the Filipinos must have their rights fully considered, but the speakers appear to give no thought to the consumers of sugar in the United States, although they will have to pay the bill if it is great or small.

Human nature has run along pretty much unchanged through the ages, from the time Eve had her consuming curiosity about the apple down to the present when a wet-paint sign always provokes investigation, and we suppose when the children of Israel crossed through the Red Sea that time, Moses had a terrible time keeping them from sticking their fingers into the walls to see if it was real water.

We enjoy a good reasonable lie now and then just for the sake of variety, but when a man comes in, sits down on the radiator for half an hour and brags about how he enjoys the winter we always make it a point to move away as far as possible in case Providence takes a notion to deliver the same rebuke that was handed to Ananias.

ANNUAL OPERATING EXPENSE OF U. OF M. IS $8,600,000

HALF OF THE FUNDS COME FROM TUITION FEES AND FEDERAL LOANS.

It costs the University between eight and nine millions annually to educate the youth of the state of Michigan. In cold figures the total operating income for last year amounted to $8,418,824.60, against an operating expenditure of $8,592,853.16.

Of the remaining income, student fees amounted to $1,298,057.37; the fund arising from the old federal land grant made before the University was established, gives an annual income of $38,493.72; sales and service produced $159,932.50, while the receipts from the hospital amounted to $3,833,319.83.

As for expenditures, instruction and research accounted for half of all that was spent, $4,454,133.09; and administration cost $359,422.72. The University hospital's expenditures were a little less than the income, or $2,401,052.01. The operation and maintenance of the physical plant cost $848,767.80; while new buildings and additions cost $150,036.84.

The total assets of the University are given as $42,532,559.98. This shows an increase within the year 1929-1929 of $3,296,328.55, principally in the educational plant. The land holdings increased $193,301.49 in value; and buildings, $1,930,894.15. There was also a total increase for the educational plant of $2,918,331.40.

More than one-quarter of the University's permanent assets in funds, lands, buildings and equipment have been contributed by alumni and citizens of Michigan and other states.

Student loans, totaling $143,059.60, were made during the past year to 1,144 students, while payments amounting to $64,761.22, were received from former students in reimbursement of previous loans.

Game Department Plans to Investigate Netting Operations

Plans for an extensive investigation of the chub net operations on Lake Michigan to be carried on during the coming summer are announced by the Department of Conservation.

The investigation, which will be in charge of Dr. John Van Costen, in charge of Great Lakes Fisheries Investigations, will be sponsored by the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, the Conservation Department of Michigan and Wisconsin and a group of fish net and twine companies.

The U. S. Bureau of Fisheries' vessel the "Fulmar" now stationed at Charlevoix, will be equipped for this work. Three fisheries scientists of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries' staff stationed at Ann Arbor will assist in the work.

It is expected that the experimental fishing must be continued at least two years to obtain sufficiently adequate data to satisfy all parties involved and to arrive at a permanent settlement of the controversies.

Chubs of experimental chubnets of various sized meshes will be fished simultaneously in five localities in Lake Michigan, one gang in the northern area of the lake, and two gangs along each shore of the lake in the chub waters south of an imaginary line connecting Frankfort, Michigan, and Sturgeon Bay Canal, Wis.

The law provides a 2 3/4 inch mesh for chubs in the state of Michigan, a 2 5/8 inch mesh in the state of Wisconsin and a 2 1/2 inch mesh in the states of Indiana and Illinois and the fishermen of Wisconsin are attempting to legalize the 2 1/2 inch mesh commonly used in Wisconsin. Data will also be obtained on the number of sexually immature chubs taken in the different sized meshes and on the question whether it is possible to fish chub nets out of the various parts of Lake Michigan and at all seasons of the year without destroying an undue number of lake trout.

Experimental gill nets will also be fished to ascertain the effect of the method of strubbing on the taking of lake trout, to test the fishing ability of nets treated with the new net preservative recently developed by the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, and to locate the grounds of the yearling lake trout.

At each setting of the nets, determinations will be made of the depth of the water, the nature of the bottom, the temperatures at various levels and possibly the chemical condition of the water at several levels in order to obtain some data on the factors involved in the distribution of lake trout and chubs.

Data will be obtained on the food of the lake trout and chubs, on the species or races of lake trout in Lake Michigan and on the life histories of the lake trout and chubs emphasizing their age, size and growth at sexual maturity. Lake trout and whitefish will be tagged to determine the extent of their migratory movements.

At irregular intervals lifts made by the fishermen with their bait nets and hooks will be examined to obtain data on the number of immature chubs destroyed by the bait nets, the amount of chubs wasted by the hook fishermen and the number of immature trout destroyed by hooks. The lifts of the commercial chubnets will also be inspected at irregular intervals for the purpose of comparison with the lifts from the experimental nets.

Game Department Removes Noxious Fish From Rivers

The Department of Conservation through its officers and contracts with individuals, removed 27,610

noxious fish from rivers and lakes in Michigan during the year 1929, according to a report compiled by the fish division. A large percentage of the noxious fish were removed either by nets used by Departmental employees or under the supervision of conservation officers.

The report shows that 11,751 carp were taken, 3,727 garfish, 495 dogfish and 10,637 miscellaneous other noxious fish. More than 5,700 noxious fish were removed from the Kalamazoo River, Black Lake in Ottawa County yielded more than 12,500 fish.

At each setting of the nets, determinations will be made of the depth of the water, the nature of the bottom, the temperatures at various levels and possibly the chemical condition of the water at several levels in order to obtain some data on the factors involved in the distribution of lake trout and chubs.

The Old Timer's Corner

Early Day Home Life in Buchanan Section is Described By Mrs Winch

It is frigidly cold on the high plains of Texas. Long ago on the Occidiana bluff on such days the old brown stone pitcher of delicious cider stood on the mantle, nectar fit for the gnomes of the woods or the fairies of the meadows, only we did not know it. Every body had cider and apples. Almost as soon as they set stakes on their first forty-acre homestead, natural peach trees, cherries, russet apple trees and that queen of all apples, the harvest sweet. I risked and got several switchings for biting apples in the bin trying to find a sweet apple.

When winter comes I go, in reverie, away back to Buchanan, to the woods, even to the woods. Woodsheds filled with four foot wood was an almost unbroke rule in Buchanan homes. Saving in, to stove wood lengths was the universal diversion of the boys, then splitting the kitchen wood, bagging, splitting, kindling and sweeping. The boys in outlying districts had all that, except side-yalls, and more. It was so long ago that huge back logs heated, sometimes lighted and protected the stick chimneys of the early log houses of Berrien county.

Wood warmed and clothed the people on uncleared lands. Selling wood not only clothed them, but helped to build their homes and pay for their land itself. Every one that could sold wood. How vividly I recall the great money panic of 1837. My mother had inherited a small farm, probably not much, from her aunt Esther, Ross and Alexander had a safe (there was no bank in Buchanan) in which they kept money for others. Mother's money was there. In state bank bills. Banks broke and money grew worthless. The bills were merely paper in the safe. Oren wore mother's shoes. John wore Oren's outgrown boots. No money and winter near. Wood came to the rescue. Oren was 12 and John a youngster. With courage and boyish hope they set about cutting wood to sell. They had a steer team of two year olds, an impoverished cart from two wheels of an old wagon and they made the small yoke. On this they could haul one-fourth of a cord of wood to Buchanan. A young man had just taken the Tremont House at the corner of Oak and Front Streets. His two sisters, good young girls, were his housekeepers. He engaged all the kitchen wood the boys would bring at $1 a cord and pay them after the Christmas ball which was coming very soon. The boys cut or saved five cords of stove wood and with the half grown oxen delivered it at the Tremont House, four loads a day. Christmas morning by daybreak the boys were there to get their money. Then began a riot in peaceful Buchanan. The landlord was gone! A huge man broke in the dining room door. Others broke in. A general smash up ensued. Jim Sharp from the Bend of the River, was dangerously hurt with a poker. "Pay the boys, pay the boys," shouted the crowd. Perry Fox, the village constable, was picked up and shaken soundly when he attempted to quell the frenzied rioters. Someone paid the debt to stop the fights and save damages. Woods generosity, touches of honesty, help to boyhood, justice and whiskey had sponsored the row. Years later, the landlord returned to Buchanan, a distinguished soldier. He is now in Oak Ridge cemetery.

Oren and John immediately bought themselves boots. Twenty years ago, a score or two of Buchanan people could have told this story. Every 1837-1855 resident knew it. After the boys were well-to-do citizens with families, the event was recalled by me by residents.

One sharp winter day, Johnny, my small brother, whispered to me to come out in the lane. "Bill" Clark, from the "Oren" district, was there with his dog. He said his dog could whip our dog, Nice. Nice had come to our house and I loved him and petted him, so the boys thought, as they couldn't, I could get him to fight. Wishing to please, I shoved Nice, a big black dog, against the Clark dog, a large Shepherd. Instantly Nice seized his hand and chewed on it. Bill rushed for home. I rushed for the house, the blood from my mangled hand seeping in the snow from the lane to the door. Two crying boys, a screaming girl and a distracted mother finally settled down. But where was Nice? From then until now not one of our community saw Nice again. In dog psychology, was it fear, remorse or shame that prompted him to go?

I carried my hand in a sling for weeks and carried the scars for many years. I was a small girl then but I still love dogs.

"Bells," bells, what a world of joy their melody foretells, we read in McGuffey's. Sleight bells, yes, but the "intinationation" of cowbells straying in the woods with obstreperous cows in the lead. Here, the "barefoot boy with cheek of tan" (the girls, too, sometimes) followed and followed them on. Scores of cows with scores of bells (from Buchanan) wandered along the road, whatever they found was theirs. Some of them were "breachy," cornfields, pastures and orchards were invaded through broken fences and the cowbells became warning bells to farmer boys. Then they (as Mr. Hawes says) "went there" and the boys got silvers in their toes and stone bruises on their heels.

The tinkling of the little bell on the bell-wethers neck, led the flock where the burdocks grow thickest and the burrs stuck closest. Country school bells were useless when rapping on the window did service. Table call bells, there wasn't one.

Buchanan, in its swaddling clothes was sturdy, wholesome, somewhat dependent on its back woods environment and growing. Like the cowbells, there was scarcely two of the same tone. Like the cowbells they, too, fitted smoothly in their position.

W. C. T. U. Sponsor New Discovery to Combat Narcotics

During the Spanish American War in 1898, the world was thrilled by the exploit of a young naval ensign, who at the risk of his life, sank the old collier, "Merrimac" at the mouth of the Santiago harbor and bottled up the Spanish fleet. His name was Richmond P. Hobson. Later he resigned his signally successful career in the navy and entered Congress. There he was the first to introduce and advocate, national prohibition, by an amendment to the Constitution. After the World War broke out, naval people remembered that away back in 1894 Hobson had written a book forecasting that war and calling on America to prepare. After prohibition was enacted Captain Hobson turned his attention to the growing menace of drugs. He organized first the International Narcotic Education Association and then the World Conference on Narcotic Education. This article is largely based upon information and material supplied by Captain Hobson.

Chemists call it, diacetyl-morphia, hydro-choloride, to the layman it is "heroin," in the underworld, just "snow." But by whatever name it is called there are a great many who believe that this is a scourge greater than war. The following excerpts are taken from Mr. Lawson's article in the Christian Herald and as the trail of heroin contains a good bit of horror the facts need to be known.

A mother was questioned as to where the daughter of 10 years, got her spending money. The mother said she gave her some from her allowance, but was horrified when told she spent from five to ten dollars every night. The mother found the daughter was in the grip of a dope peddler—that he had made her an addict by a few doses given at soda fountains and that she was selling it to other little girls and boys at school.

Extreme—why talk about it? But facts are it is not an extreme case and it needs to be talked about. According to authorities the use of narcotic drugs are on the increase, at an appalling rate. The drug addicts are also 10 to 1 of alcoholic drink addicts.

Mrs. Sarah Graham Mubhall, former U. S. Commissioner in charge of narcotics in the district including greater New York, states in her book, "The Demon Poppy" that in 1919 this country imported 250 tons of crude opium, whereas only one ton is all that could be legally prescribed, in that time. A total of over 33,000,000 pounds was grown in that year, when not over 700,000 were needed and over half of this found its way into the United States. The truth that world co-operation is needed, should be broadcast by America to save civilization from drug addiction. No place is sheltered from this peril, which menaces men, women and children as few other things ever did.

More than half of all the prisoners in New York prisons are now addicts. The number in federal prisons convicted under the Narcotic Law is three times that of those convicted of any other crime. In New York City prison there were 895 drug addicts among the prisoners to only 58 bootleggers and drunkards. This is the usual proportion all over the country—even small towns have their share. Of the 318 cases in Bellevue hospital, over half had taken the treatment four times or more. There is no known cure.

The reason is easy to see. Narcotics attack the brain cells, the basis of thought and character. There is no renewing of them. The victim is morally dead as far as human help is concerned.

Now comes the remarkable discovery made by Captain Hobson, the one way out. It has been discovered that when an addict, even one whose brain structure has been destroyed gets religion, that is, gets genuinely converted, he can stay off the habit permanently. And it has been demonstrated that after such a conversion the damaged cells actually begin to grow again and there is, literally, a rebirth. The poor victim's brain and thence his personality are born again. Here is civilization's one hope. Hobson says the time has come when science must take cognizance of what religion can and does accomplish in cases like this, where science has failed—sincere conversion—the getting of religion works not only an actual spiritual change, but an actual physical change, which enables the helpless slaves of the drug to be men again, where all medical treatment has proved worthless. Many examples of prominent persons might be cited as proof, but the surest way to the cure is to prevent. If the truth is frankly presented to the young they will shun it in horror.

Accordingly a movement is now being promoted to enlist the churches and schools in combating this evil—not only by offering encouragement and aid, now so often refused with a shudder, to drug victims, but by systematically presenting the facts to our young peoples societies and more full and frank teaching in our schools. First, as to what can be done about it. The churches must no longer treat the addict as an outcast, a pariah. He must be made welcome, the healing influence of religion must be offered to him. Second, the young people must be educated concerning the effect of drugs as they have been concerning alcohol.

Price of Electrical Service Reduced 25 Per Cent in 14 Yrs.

According to the research statistical department of the National Electric Light Association, 6.37 cents per kilowatt hour was the average price paid by the average American home for its electrical service in June, 1919. The average for 1913 is found to have been 3.50 cents. The difference between these two rates represents a decrease in domestic rate from 1913 to 1919 of just 25 per cent.

Of no essential which the home buys is that, or anything like that, true. On the contrary, the average living cost is still placed at about 70 per cent above pre-war levels. Why, then, all this hullabaloo in the Senate and in the columns of certain radical newspapers about the "power trust"? Why not yell about those industries that are keeping the cost of living up? Why go after the only one that is cutting prices? Even these radical newspapers have increased their prices since the war, both their circulation and advertising rates. Were they justified in it? Certainly, for their cost of production has gone up, as everybody knows. Even the salaries of these senators, including a few who are keeping up the hubbub about the so-called "power trust," have been raised from $7,500 to $10,000. Was that justified? Certainly, for $7,500 a year is too little even for a poor senator and $10,000 is not too much for a good one.

So "they are all doing it," aren't they? All but the electric light and power industry, yes, even though it, too, has had to absorb higher production costs. Yet it is the only one that is being hammered by the political and journalistic propagandists. Why, with rates lower and service admittedly better than ever, why should the electric light and power industry be singled out for the assaults of the propagandists? Because they are propagandists. Their purpose is to promote the cause of government ownership. They think they can do that best by scaring the people into believing that they are getting it in the neck at the hands of private ownership. True, the people don't seem to scare very

Even with its SUPERIOR PERFORMANCE this new eight is economical to own

Few cars can equal the speed, pick-up and climbing ability made possible by the 85-horsepower engine of the New Oakland Eight. It is the most powerful used in any car of comparable size and weight, only racing cars excepted. But even with its superior performance, this car is inexpensive to own. Its first cost is very moderate. And its gasoline mileage equals that of many sixes of the same size. Maintenance costs, too, are very low because parts are easily reached and the power plant is remarkably sound in basic design. Valves can be easily adjusted. Bearings are large, sturdy, interchangeable. A water recirculation system promotes greater engine efficiency. And full pressure lubrication assures positive oiling. Oakland's Fisher bodies, too, are built to withstand extremely hard wear. The effect of all these features is not only to assure economy, but to keep the car's ultimate resale value high. Come in. Let us point out the New Oakland Eight's many exceptional qualities. Then let us give you a demonstration, and you will realize how much you are offered in the car with superior performance.

CHEVROLET

Chevrolet announces

A NEW SERVICE POLICY

The Chevrolet Motor Company and its nation-wide dealer organization are pleased to announce a new and broader service policy—one of the most liberal ever offered on a low-priced automobile.

Put into force as a written and signed agreement given to the purchaser by the Chevrolet dealer when the car is delivered—it offers the following provisions:

- 1 Every Chevrolet owner receives his car from the dealer in perfect condition—thoroughly lubricated, properly adjusted, and ready to operate with maximum efficiency from the very first mile of ownership.
- 2 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection and adjustment of his car at the end of the first 500 miles of usage.
- 3 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection of his car every 1000 miles thereafter, so long as the car is in operation.
- 4 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free replacement of any part which may prove defective in workmanship or material, within the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty. This includes both parts and labor.
- 5 Provision number 4 will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States. As a result, the Chevrolet owner may travel to any part of the country, with assurance that the guarantee on materials and workmanship will remain in force.

This new policy constitutes definite proof of Chevrolet's high quality—for such liberal provisions could only be made in connection with a car built of fine materials to exacting standards of workmanship.

Back of this policy, and assuring its successful operation, is one of the most complete and efficient service organizations in the world.

There are more than 10,000 Authorized Chevrolet Dealer Service Stations in the United States alone. Each employs skilled mechanics thoroughly trained at Chevrolet Service Schools. Each has specially designed tools and machinery developed exclusively for Chevrolet service work. And each has on hand, at all times, an adequate stock of genuine Chevrolet replacement parts.

As a result, Chevrolet's flat-rate charges, including both parts and labor, are the lowest in the industry on many service operations!

In considering the purchase of a low-priced automobile, think what this service means—in terms of lasting satisfaction, as well as in increased economy.
