

STAGE SET FOR CITY TWP. VOTE

Now Here's the Proposition

The Old Red Hen
Bi Haws

Consider now the old red hen. Though she is always realistic. She gets excited now and then. But she is never pessimistic. Though life has many a jar and shock. She always took it as she found it. And when she runs against a rock. She moves aside and digs around. When business has gone to smash. And jobs are scarcer than demerol. She never breaks out in a rash. And gets hot up about conditions. She never rails against her fate. Nor groans about life's galling shackles. But takes things in her usual gay. And merely lays an egg and cackles.

'31 SCORES SUCCESS IN 2D CHILDHOOD

Crowded House Greets Annual Junior Dramatics.

MAKES UNUSUAL HIT
Sheldo nEvan and Mary Jane Harkrider are Co-Stars in Play.

"Second Childhood," the annual Junior dramatic classic, was presented in the high school auditorium by the class of 1931. Friday evening and will go down in history as one of the very best plays ever given by a local high school cast, according to the universal verdict of those who attended. The theme of the play turned on the scientific experiments of one, Professor Frederick Relyea, who had retired from the pedagogic profession to solve the problem of infusing new life and energy into the senile and declining. He steals a dog from the neighbors for his experiment, and due to a substitution of a pup for the dog, unknown to him, he is led to believe that he has scored a scientific triumph.

Encouraged by this first success he undertakes to prescribe for General Henry Burbeck, who has acquired young ideas and wishes to rejuvenate his aged frame to accommodate them. He administers the dose and leaves. When he returns he finds the bottle empty and an infant in place of the general. This, it chances is merely due to the departure of the general and the accidental parking of the general's grandson on the couch. However, the professor is ignorant of this and once more ascribes the change to the powers of his elixir of youth. Sympathetic professor, also a via Relyea, daughter of the experimental professor, also chances to quaff of the elixir, and through a repetition of the earlier accident, the professor is led to believe that he has another infant on his hands.

The play progressed through the complications arising from the above situation to a final unraveling with a minimum of sense and a maximum of nonsense that delighted the audience.

The male lead, that of the experimental professor, was carried with great success by Sheldon Ryan, who proved himself a comedian in parks. The leading lady was Miss Mary Jane Harkrider in the part of the professor's daughter, Sylvia Relyea. Miss Harkrider shared honors with Mr. Ryan as a co-star in the production, but they were completely assisted by the following supporting cast:

Mrs. Wells Miller, the professor's sister, Helen Schmalzreid. Philip Stanton, the professor's assistant, Roger Thompson. General Henry Burbeck, Lazell Weaver. Marcelle Burbeck, his daughter-in-law, Virginia Lister. Mrs. Vivert, a neighbor, Mary Howe. Judge Sanderson, Robert Dempsey. Sheriff Johnson, Carl Sanders. Much credit for the unusual success of the production goes to Miss Helen Hanlin, the coach, and to Jack Boone, who had charge of the make-up. Harold Knight served as electrician, John Strayer and Philip Hanlin as stage managers, Mary Fridich as chief usher.

High School League Will Debate Merits Chain Store System

Whether the chain store system or the individual store operated by the "independent merchant" works to the best interest of the community is to be the theme of debate by the 300 high schools constituting the Michigan High School Debating League, according to a statement just issued by C. E. Denmore, manager of the league. The choice of the question is decided each year by popular vote, an overwhelming number of the schools registering their approval of the chain store question. It is expected that the public interest in the 700 debates on theme will be the greatest in the experience of interscholastic debating in Michigan. Library material on the question is to be distributed among the schools participating early in September.

March Blizzard Destroys Last of Peach Blossoms

After a windy and tempestuous career, March at last went out lamb-like Monday evening in a warm rain that dissolved the greater part of the 20 inch snow of the previous week. It is reported that the snow and freezing temperatures of March 25 destroyed such peach blossoms as had survived the sub-zero temperatures of last winter. Ed. Sults reports that a number of peach blossoms in the E. W. Clark orchard which had been sound and white throughout have developed brown spots since the storm and are apparently frozen.

COACH READ PAYS TRIBUTE TO H. S. TEAM

Says Buchanan Teams are Noted for Fight and Sportsmanship.

COMPLIMENT BRADFIELD
Basket Ball Squads and Fans Banqueted by I. O. O. F. Lodge.

The sportsmanship of Buchanan athletic teams, and the Buchanan high school coach received a high tribute from the tongue of Herbert Read, coach of Western State Teacher's College undefeated basketball team in his address given Saturday night at the banquet tendered by the I. O. O. F. lodge in honor of the high school team of the present season.

Due to their reputation built up in years of performance, Buchanan teams have come to arouse high anticipations of fighting spirit and sportsmanlike conduct in every appearance either on basketball courts or on the gridiron throughout the state, according to Read. Buchanan fans have come to share in the reputation of the team for fairness and courteous dealings on all occasions, the Western State mentor added.

He paid special tribute to the character and intellectual caliber of the coach, Harold Bradfield, who is a graduate of Western State. Bradfield, he said, had made one of the best scholastic records ever turned out by a Western State athlete, making four A's during his senior year. He also attained an excellent reputation for courage and tenacity during his athletic career, in which fighting spirit had to make amends for a considerable lack of poundage.

Read defended athletics against attacks made by critics stating that while many of the criticisms were in part true, they ignored the great counterbalancing benefits which athletics conferred on the student participating. It only remained for those in charge of athletics to secure those benefits to the students to justify sports. High school athletics, he stated, represented a device through which the growing boy could prove his excellence.

The speaker was introduced by Principal E. H. Ormiston who was named by Arthur Johnston of the I. O. O. F. arrangements committee as chairman of the meeting. Talks were also made by Superintendent H. C. Stark and by Coach Harold Bradfield, who presented letters to members of the squad.

A fine banquet was served at 6:45 p. m. by the ladies of the Rebekah lodge to the members of the first and second squads and to their friends. The high school orchestra directed by R. R. Robinson furnished music for the occasion.

Previous to entering business with his brother, Clarence Runner was employed for five years in the E. S. Roe Hardware store, now getdu etatocmfwpurdfrnhs owned by Ralph Allen. During his more than twenty years of business relationships in the town he has built and maintained a fine reputation for business integrity. His many friends here trust that the rest will result in an early and complete recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Runner will operate the store, one of them coming to Buchanan weekly to superintend the business.

CITY AND TWP BOTH VOTE ON BAND CONCERT

Township Must Continue Old Levy, Unless Repealed by Vote.

PRESENT LEVY IS $750.00
Would Cost City 22 Cents Per $1,000 to Continue.

An issue of much interest in the spring elections in both city and township next week will be the continuance of support of the band concerts, which have been a summer entertainment for a number of years by virtue of a standing township levy of $750 for that purpose.

The levy will stand against the township unless it is voted off the records at the April 7 election. The ballot is to be taken this year to determine the will of the voters as to its continuance, now that the city has been separated from the township. In case the township continues to support the concert, it will require a levy of 69 cents per $1,000 as compared with a levy of 18 cents last year due to the lower township valuation.

The city will vote on the question of empowering the city commission to levy for band purposes, amount not stipulated. In case the vote favors continuance, the commission will have power to appropriate any sum they may see fit for band concerts and to employ any band they choose. They may actually terminate the concerts by voting an insufficient amount for their support, or by determining in any year not to levy. If the city votes to continue, it is estimated that a levy of 22 cents per $1,000 will be required, basing the estimate on the 1929 village tax roll.

Jurisdiction to levy a tax for band concerts comes under a state act to authorize and empower villages and townships of this state, also cities having a population not to exceed fifty thousand inhabitants, to levy a tax for the maintenance and employment of a band for musical purposes for the benefit of the public, provided said special question is submitted to the duly qualified voters of said villages, townships, or cities and adopted or agreed to by a majority vote of those participating in said election, same being Act 230 P. A. 1923.

3-WAY FIGHT FOR POST ON CITY BOARD

Leiter, Bradley and Chubb Contests Grow in Interest.

WARM TWP. CAMPAIGNS
Boyle, Howe Contest for Supervisor of Buchanan Township.

Buchanan will hold its first regular city election Monday, April 7, with the three-way contest for the place of Wilson Leiter on the city commission vying in interest with the special ballot on the question of financing the band concerts.

It is anticipated that the race between Wilson Leiter, Charles Bradley and J. Morrow Chubb for the one vacancy on the city commission will be fairly close, all three of the candidates having high standing and strong followings in the community. The only remaining competition on the ticket will be between Henry Adams and Harry Boyce for the post of supervisor from the first precinct and between Harry Beck and Harry Brown for supervisor from the second precinct.

There is no competition for the offices of justice of the peace or constable. Precinct 1 polls will be held at the engine house and Precinct 2 polls at the library, both remaining open from 7 a. m. until 6 p. m.

While registration of voters in Buchanan township was interfered with by storm conditions on Saturday, about $25 out of a possible vote of 600 had been registered Saturday according to Township Clerk R. D. Clark, and arrangements have been made to register on the day of election any voter who makes affidavit that it was impossible for him to get to the place of registration on the designated days.

The Buchanan township vote will be cast at the Wagner Grange hall which is recognized as the official headquarters of the township since the separation from the village. Chief interest attaches to the race between Jess Boyle and Frederick Howe for the office of County Supervisor. Polls will be open from 7 a. m. until 6 p. m.

Lieut. Ed. Peck Escapes Injury In Plane Crash

A Curtiss Sea Hawk plane, F. C. 13, belonging to the United States Naval Station at Pensacola, Fla., crashed while making a forced landing inside the race track at the fair grounds Sunday afternoon and was so badly damaged that the aviator, Lieutenant E. R. Peck, United States Navy, a flying instructor at the Pensacola station, was ordered to dismantle the machine and ship it to its home port by freight. Fortunately the plane did not turn over and Lieut. Peck, its only passenger, escaped injury.

The plane left St. Petersburg to fly to Pensacola, and while near Brooksville ran into the storm that was a feature of weather conditions yesterday. Lieutenant Peck tried to fly around the disturbance by turning east toward Leesburg, but was caught in the rain and wind at that place. He immediately swung about and headed for Ocala, hoping to be able to make a landing and wait better weather conditions. On reaching this city, visibility was so poor that he was unable to make out any markers pointing towards a landing field and after circling low over the city, selected the Marion County Fair grounds as offering the best conditions for a safe landing.

Despite a cross wind, the plane was brought safely to the ground a short distance inside the fence, at the east end of the race track, but while taxiing to a stop, a soft spot of rain-soaked ground caused the left landing wheel to sink in the earth so deeply that it snapped off the plane swinging clear around before being brought to a halt. The lower left hand wing of the plane was slightly damaged and the left landing struts were broken.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Ochenrider had as guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. R. Taube of Knox, Ind.

Rats Menace to Farming Industry

One of the most perplexing problems that is confronting the farmers and poultry men at the present time, is how are we going to get rid of the horde of rats that are so destructive on the farm. They destroy thousands of young chickens annually, and thousands of bushels of grain. Then add to this the food they waste, but do not eat, the fires they cause, the buildings they damage, the clothing they ruin, the sickness and death they cause. It is safe to say that the rat population is ten times the human population, and it is estimated that an ordinary rat will eat at least one dollar's worth of food a year. At this rate the damage in the country will amount to millions of dollars annually. Now the question is how are they to get rid of them, the modern idea is to poison them by using powdered barium carbonate as it is very effective and is both odorless and tasteless and costs very little.

Calcium cyanide dust is another effective preparation which is blown into the burrows with a dust pump. When the dust comes in contact with the moisture of the earth it liberates hydrocyanic acid gas in a concentration of which no animal can live long. On account of the migratory habits of rats, it will pay the farmer and poultry men to keep a pump and a supply of calcium cyanide on hand. It comes in the form of a smoke-like dust. Both of the above are furnished free in some states, by the secretary of agriculture with full information as to its use. In New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio organized rat hunts furnish excellent sport, then again, most states pay a bounty of ten cents per head. At Lima, Ohio, on March 2, the organization killed more than 700 rats. The anti-rat campaign is increasing in popularity in all the eastern states.

PAINFUL CORNS
Loosen—Lift Out

A little known Japanese herb, the discovery of an eminent German scientist (Dr. Sichel) instantly scalds the corn, callus or wart, then loosens it so that shortly you can lift it right out. This new discovery called "Corn Fly" excites the white blood corpuscles to action and granulates the corn at its root so that it drops out and leaves no trace of scar or soreness.

You will also find "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" a boon for sore, tired or perspiring feet.

"Corn Fly" for corns, 35c, "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" 25c, and "Corn Fly Bunton Remedy" 50c, (all three—$1.10 value—for $1.00), are sold under a positive money-back guarantee by H-Gene Co., Newark, N. J., or local druggist.

fertilizers are warned by members of the soils department at Michigan State College that the method of applying this plant food is very important on some soils.

On many heavy, upland soils, broadcast applications of phosphates will not be effective, the specialists say. The character of surface water into and through them the phosphorus which has been sown on the surface does not penetrate to the soil depths where the plant roots are taking up food.

Broadcast applications of phosphates are successful on light, porous soil where the free movement of water carries the plant food to the proper depth.

Tests made by the soils department have shown that when phosphate fertilizers are sown at depths of four to six inches proper distribution of the plant food will follow, even on heavy soils. Fertilization drills will get the material into the ground at the proper depths.

The use of phosphate fertilizers as top dressing around hills and plants or around fruit trees can not be expected to give good results on heavy soils, according to the college soils men.

Eighteen Pupils Of Gallien School In Essay Contest

Miss Leona Straub and Esther Hess were returned winners in the essay contest held for the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades of the Gallien school. In all, 12 pupils competed in the fifth and sixth grade groups and six in the seventh and eighth grade groups, each contestant taking some country or state for his or her subject. Leona Straub was awarded first in the upper group for her essay on "China." Maggie Jones was awarded second place for her essay on "Portugal." In the fifth and sixth grade groups Esther Hess won first with her essay on "California" and Stanley Thompson second with an essay on "Switzerland."

A feature of the program was the first appearance of the Gallien orchestra, a group of twelve young musicians organized and instructed about two months ago by R. R. Robinson of Buchanan. They performed very creditably in view of the fact that several had never studied music until the organization of the orchestra.

The contest was held in the L. D. S. church with a good attendance present.

82 Per Cent Children Infected with T. B. at 15 Years of Age

That tuberculosis begins early in youth in the form of non-fatal disease called "childhood tuberculosis" and may be prevented, thru protective measures taken in childhood is the point which the Michigan Tuberculosis Association and county tuberculosis societies will stress in an intensive one-month educational campaign opening on April 1.

The campaign, third in an annual series dealing with early discovery of tuberculosis, will have as its slogan "Protect Children From Tuberculosis." It will be carried in effect with the help of hundreds of volunteers in the state, many of whom are the same persons who conduct the Christmas seal sale, money from which makes this campaign possible.

This newer aspect of tuberculosis control, states the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, is based on recent discoveries demonstrating the wide prevalence of infection in children. An average of 82 per cent at 15 years of age are known to be infected with tuberculosis, while from three to five out of every one hundred have actual childhood tuberculosis. Germ infection, plus inadequate bodily resistance leads to the childhood sickness.

FRUIT GROWERS CHARGE STATE OBSTRUCTION

CLAIM MICHIGAN SECURITIES COMMISSION DELAYS VALUATION.

Evidently the interests oppose to the consolidation of the fruit industry in Michigan under the terms of the Federal Farm Board agreement have reached the same conclusion that the officers of the Great Lakes Fruit Industries, Inc., have, and explain their determined efforts to obstruct the program with any means at hand, as evidenced by the recent attempt to make capital of the fact that the Michigan Securities Commission had not passed upon the capital stock structure of the Corporation until appraisals of the various properties to be consolidated had been submitted to the Securities Commission. Submitting appraisals of properties to be merged is regular procedure with the Commission and carries no assumption that the consolidation program in this instance is unsound. No attempt has been made to sell stock in the consolidated enterprise until these appraisals are available and none will be made until the entire setup has been passed upon by the Securities Commission and the Federal Farm Board.

On the other hand, casual contact or conversation with fruit growers throughout Western Michigan will assure the most critical opposition that the majority of fruit growers are sold on the possibilities in the program and want to see it worked out, which probably accounts for the opposition's anxiety in the matter.

Conditions in the fruit industry in Michigan have become so unsatisfactory in the past few years that growers generally have made up their minds to a change, if it can be brought about, and the assurance that the Federal Farm Board sponsors the program is sufficient warrant to them that they can rely upon its effectiveness in the present emergency. Most any banker in the fruit industry will confirm the unsatisfactory situation mentioned and most of them will agree that the correct solution lies in unification of the industry, the mobilizing of its resources to effect a better credit background, and to more effectively merchandise and market its products. Only those agencies in business or industry who have a selfish interest at stake in keeping the fruit grower at their mercy will deny him the right to consolidate his enterprises for the more effective handling of his own business.

Pending the authorization for the sale of stock from the Securities Commission, the Great Lakes Fruit Industries, Inc., is signing tonnage contracts to meet Farm Board requirements, and the more the opposition of outside interests is featured in the press the quicker the tonnage will be signed up. Sufficient tonnage is already in sight to insure early completion of the program, and continued opposition will only add to the totals.

MODERN MEDICINE RELIEVES AILMENTS OF MAN SUFFERING SINCE SERVICE IN FRANCE.

MR. ALBERT THOMPSON
"Six bottles of Konjola ended all my health troubles, and built me up in every way," says Albert Thompson, A. E. F. veteran, 1326 Reckmacker Street, Detroit.

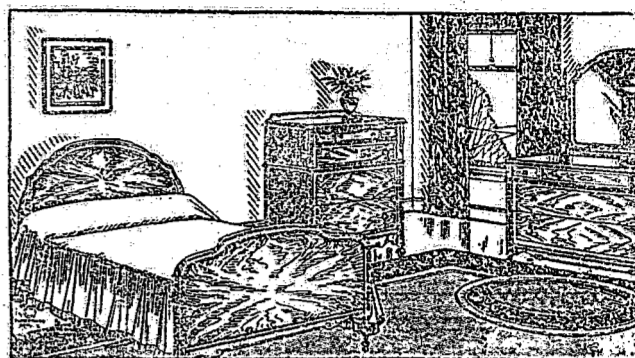

"Ever since I returned from France I was miserable with catarrh, pains in my stomach, and head, kidney trouble and a faulty liver. I tried medicine after medicine, but with the same result—failure. Then Konjola was recommended to me, and how glad I am that I took the advice to try this new and different medicine. In all I took six bottles, and in six weeks Konjola had brought complete relief. No wonder Konjola is a household word in thousands of American homes."

This is just one of tens of thousands of such victories as Konjola wins, even when all else tried has been found wanting. Konjola is designed to make good, and does it.

Konjola is sold in Buchanan, Mich., at W. N. Brodrick's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

I turned to Fanchon, only woman producer in America who was guiding me through the movies studios of Hollywood and I know my face must have reflected amazement.

We had just passed beside a table where one of those radiantly beautiful stars of the silver screen was ordering her noonday repast. When the introductions were over and we had moved away I almost breathlessly popped the question.

"But I thought the stars lived on pineapple juice and a lean lamb chop to keep down their weight," Fanchon smiled.

"They did," she said, correcting me, "but Hollywood has changed." And surely enough, it has. The slat-like figure never gets farther than the outside rail of the employment office, for Hollywood, where styles in figures, coiffure and personality are made and broken almost overnight, has gone in for curves.

Sweetest for the Sweet

Fanchon was among the first to sense the apathy of the public toward the slender, emaciated type of figure. She promptly issued an edict banning harmful reducing diets and directing her dancing girls to eat lots of wholesome, energy building foods like sugar and potatoes. Sweets, instead of being tabooed are again being eaten freely because, it has been found by medical science, that the sugar they contain is quickly digested and supplies as much energy as a whole table full of some other foods.

"You see," said Fanchon in explanation, "we stood for these harmful reducing diet fads as long as possible. But when they began to affect the health of our girls they had to stop. Why some of the stars collapsed on the sets because they did not have enough to eat and we all know that beautiful Barbara La Marr dieted herself into a fatal illness."

HELPS MICHIGAN REDUCE LOSSES BY FOREST FIRE

Excellent Telephone Service Is Help in Extinguishing Many Incipient Blazes

In spite of the fact that the past summer was abnormally dry in the State of Michigan and that there was no rainfall during August and no general heavy downpour all summer until September was a week old, damage to the scenic beauties of the state from forest fires was unusually light. The reason for this is the excellent telephone service in the state, for despite the fact that the loss by fire was much lighter than usual this year, scores of incipient blazes were reported in the woods throughout the state, but few were serious, due to the thoroughness and effectiveness of the telephone lines built throughout the forest reserve.

In discussing Michigan's forest fire fighting system, H. J. Andrews, the state fire chief, declared recently that the great importance of quick communication from fire towers to the local fire warden for insuring immediate action on blazes before they reached the uncontrollable stage, had much to do with the excellent fire record made in the state.

The conservation department of the state used, with considerable effectiveness, a poster which read: "Report Forest Fires—Call Central, Sile Knows." Tourists this past summer saw a large number of these posters along the highways of Northern Michigan, and that they were effective is shown by the fact that so many telephone operators played an important part in preventing the spread of forest fires by learning of such fires from subscribers or others, and calling the fire wardens.

The Prognosticator

"I could see it was a quiet town as soon as I arrived," said a returned vacationer, the other morning. "So I wrote up my diary for two weeks in advance."—Detroit News.

Not So Easy

The little job of being square with yourself and not being afraid to look yourself in the eye covers a lot of territory.—American Magazine.

ness in an effort to attain a third figure.

"Movie life calls for all the energy a girl can produce and she cannot keep up the pace if her vitality has been lowered below the danger line by dieting."

John Crawford, Janet Gaynor, Nancy Carroll and many of the other stars trained by Fanchon and her brother, Marco, are really enjoying their meals for the first time in many months. Miss Crawford, by the way, was selected by Fanchon as the ideal type of star.

Her comment on the diet ban is interesting and indicates how the stars are falling in line with the latest trend. "As I know the girl with curves is returning," Miss Crawford said smilingly, "I am assuming a larger diet, for I want to be in vogue."

Fanchon believes that the example set by Hollywood will soon become nation-wide and that a new type of American girl, with graceful feminine curves will soon replace the flat chested, flapper who has reigned for the last decade.

TAXATION AND TOWNSHIP ROADS ARE 1930 ISSUES

SAYS MICHIGAN STATE FARM BUREAU IS WRITING FOR BUREAU

Taking the position that taxation and township roads are major issues for the coming year, the Michigan State Farm Bureau laid down a comprehensive program of tax and highway reform at its annual meeting at Michigan State College Feb. 6-7.

The Farm Bureau resolutions "ask for special favors for agriculture in the field of taxation," and stress the universal need for economy from the state. The principle of the Turner Bill, passed at the last session of the Legislature, was extolled as pointing the way to more equitable school taxes. The Dykstra Bill now being sponsored by the League of Michigan Municipalities was commended on the grounds that the proposed three-way split of auto tax funds between the state, the counties and the municipalities is unfair to farmers.

The resolutions also oppose tax exemption and call for a rewriting of the general property tax law to secure a more uniform rule of assessment. The cigarette tax which will be voted upon at the spring elections was commended on the grounds that the proceeds will be used to reduce local taxes.

In recommending the further introduction of new forms of revenue, the delegates, apparently, preferred to state what they wanted rather than how it should be obtained. The resolution on this subject is not limited to any particular form of tax, but specifies only that the Farm Bureau favors "the judicious introduction of new and just forms of taxation," coupled with a demand that the funds be used to reduce and equalize local levies under sufficient regulation "to insure economy and efficiency in their use."

In its only other resolution on State affairs, the Bureau reaffirmed its endorsement of the Horton Anti-Trespass Law and asked its Board of Directors to consult the wishes of the members further before taking a stand upon any sweeping changes in the hunting or conservation laws.

The resolutions on State affairs are as follows:

Taxation Policy
We ask for no special favors for agriculture in the field of taxation. We instruct our Department of Taxation to pursue a policy that will promote equity and justice for all classes of taxpayers, urban and rural, in the belief that such a policy will secure for the farmers of Michigan the full measure of tax relief which they desire.

We instruct the State Farm Bureau to work for tax legislation that will secure the following results:

Economy
We favor the development of machinery that will control the rise of public expenditures. Every proposed tax law should be scrutinized to determine whether it will stimulate or discourage increased expenditures, and we instruct our State Farm Bureau officers to work for the defeat of bills which tend to an unwarranted increase in the total burden of taxation.

Budgeting, Auditing, Accounting
We favor (1) detailed, understandable and uniform state and local budgets; (2) a state audit of every dollar of public money spent in the State; (3) uniform and reliable accounting practices throughout all public offices; and (4) adequate annual reports to some central office of the financial operations and condition of all taxing districts.

The General Tax Law of 1929
We believe the General Tax Law with its amendments should be rewritten in its entirety in order to secure a uniform rule of assessment throughout the State; and to promote more efficient collection of taxes. We consider the further strengthening of the authority of the State Tax Commission to be an indispensable step in this direction.

School Taxation
We reaffirm our interest in school legislation that tends toward the equalization of the school tax burden for all classes of school districts. We commend the legislature for the great forward step taken in the passage of the Turner law and we urge that this recognition of the state's responsibility be preserved inviolate. Further, that through continued study and legislation the principle shall be extended until a system shall be in place.

Miller District Loans Records to Three Oaks Museum

The early records of the Miller school, extending back to the creation of the district and the foundation of the first school in 1839, have been placed in the Three Oaks museum by permission of the directors. It is understood that the transaction is in the nature of a loan and that the district may reclaim the records whenever they desire. Director George Fox stated that the loan comprised the first pioneer school records in the museum, and it is believed that they are the oldest records yet put in Berrien County.

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Reality is spiritual, harmonious, immutable, immortal, divine, eternal. W. C. T. U. NOTES
The Woman's Christian Temperance Union met Friday afternoon with Mrs. I. N. Barnhart. One feature of the meeting was the presence of Mrs. Barnhart and Mrs. Will Rough, who have recently returned from spending the winter in Florida. Mrs. Emory Rich, from spending the winter in California, and Mrs. Marie Wonderlich, who spent the fall and winter with her parents in Austria.

Two new members were taken in at the meeting Friday. The Union voted the payment of $5 to go to the Willard, Stevens and Lathrop Funds. These funds are for the general promotion of the work in other lands and also for the furtherance of the legislative work at Washington, D. C., and are expected from each Union yearly.

Mrs. Keifer, Miss Able and Mrs. Runner were appointed as the committee to select prizes for the best essays that are being written by the pupils in the local school. The contest being carried on from the third grade on up through the High School. The contest closes April 15th, at which time the best essays from each grade are submitted to a committee of judges, who in turn select the first prize, second and third best receive honorable mention from each grade, and for which prizes are offered by the local Union. These in turn are sent to the district superintendent and the best from the district are then selected and prizes awarded by the district and so on through the state and nation.

Mrs. J. E. Arney was the leader for the day, she having asked Mrs. Wonderlich to give an account of her trip to her homeland. She gave a very interesting account of her trip across the "pond" of her visit of a few days in France, Germany and Hungary. She told of conditions as they are at the present time in Austria. Among other things she said: "We Americans may think times are hard here, but just wait until we have not had a full day's work in five years and we will change our minds. There is no future for the young people at all, except perhaps selling pencils or some other equally remunerative occupation." She also told of the drinking conditions in that country, saying that the people as a whole do not seem to be drinking as much as in former years. Perhaps because they have not the money to spend, although of course there is quite a good deal of it going on all the time. The temperance people are working very hard there for national prohibition and are hoping that they may be able to win the fight. Conditions seem to be more favorable now than at any other time. Many of the young people do not touch drink, because they see the effects of it upon the older people, so they also are working for its abolition.

As in any other reform work, the hope of the success lies with the young people. Mrs. Wonderlich also stated that upon her return trip there was a five days storm, and many of the passengers got sea sick, but she didn't and was able to enjoy the many beautiful sights and the magnificence of a storm at sea.

Other features of the program were a Union Signal demonstration, also an article on "The Child in the Midst" given by Mrs. Arney. The meeting closed with all singing that old familiar children's hymn, "I Think When I Read that Sweet Story of Old."

Motor Car Prices Down 19c Per Pound

The downward trend in motor car prices has been accompanied by slight increases in the net weight of the cars, with resultant decreases in the price per pound, according to an analysis recently made by the Wall Street Journal, which says:

"In the price field below $1,000, average price of standard sedan models is $689, a reduction of 18

SHORTHAND CLUB ACTIVE IN LOCAL HI

Social Organization of the Commercial Department Gives Play.

TELL CLASS FUTURES Prize for Best Design Drawn In Shorthand Characters.

Just a few weeks ago a Shorthand club was organized under the supervision of Miss Niffenegger. This club is held for the purpose of promoting more interest along the line of shorthand.

A teach meeting a committee is selected by the president, Mary Friklich, to prepare the activities of the coming meeting.

An interesting program was presented by Marie Mitchell, "Sal" Wilcox and Mary Friklich, at the last meeting.

As in anything else, the Shorthand Club had their "Booster Day" and each member was required to wear a Booster Day Slogan.

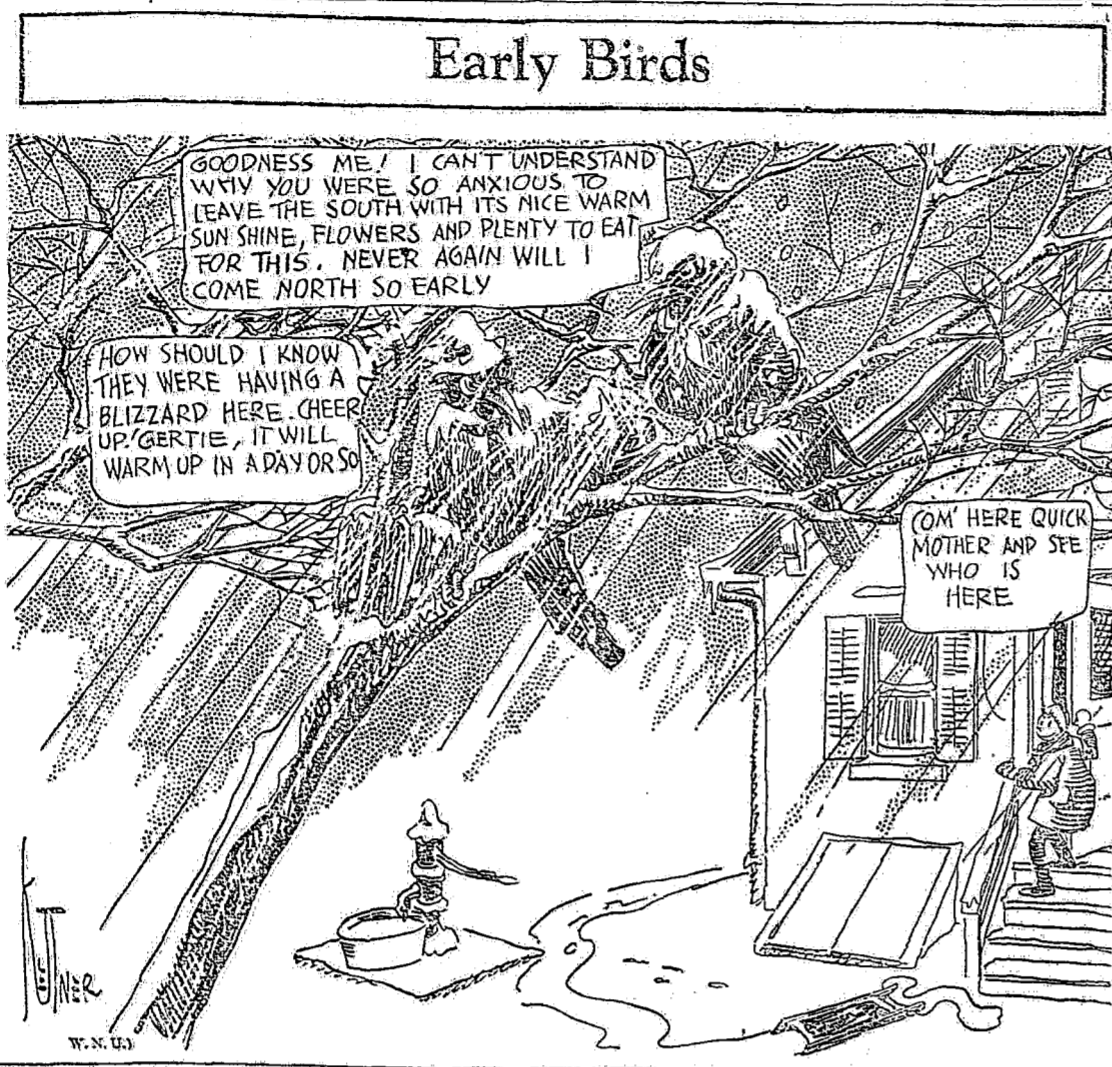

The members were required to show their artistic ability by drawing some object made up of Shorthand characters. A prize was awarded to Violet Platz as having the cleverest design. Then followed a playlet:

The scene took place in what was formerly known as Buchanan, Michigan, but now a progressive city called Shorthandsville.

Time: August 13, 1930.

Characters: An old gypsy, "Sal" Wilcox; twins, Joan Friklich, Viola Mitchell.

Joan and Viola are two orphaned children, who, one day while playing in the woods, accidentally bump into an old gypsy fortune teller. She takes her crystal and as portends the lives of the thirteen members of the Shorthand class of 1930.

"Sawed-off" Welbaum, commonly known around Shorthandsville as Mrs. Paul Letcher, furnishes her home in a very modernistic design and uses her shorthand to a very good advantage.

This scene takes place in this town. It is a street cleaner with a cloud of dust surrounding the tractor. As the driver turns the cleaner around we recognize it as our own saxophone player, Velma

Eagley.

Wait! I see a little cottage, a tiny white cottage with roses growing around the door and a basket of kittens on the door step. Sprinkled about the yard are thirteen off-springs of shorthand characters. How cool and fresh she looks in the gingham apron as she runs to greet her husband who resembles that familiar character "ship." Why, who is it? None other than—Miss Niffenegger.

As a whole the program was a success, and we hope our future meetings may be as interesting and beneficial as the first one.

Grade News

The faculty and pupils feel very grateful to Miss Abell who has spent better than three weeks' readjusting the pictures in all the rooms. This took not only Miss Abell's noon hours but she spent hours before and after school. Some of the pictures had to be re-named or new shields on the backs or a little touching up of different colors either on the picture itself or the frame. All the glass had to be washed, frames brushed up, wires lengthened or shortened—but Miss Abell saw this through, with the patient help of a number of the pupils from both the high school and the Junior high. Miss Abell appreciates this help.

The parents of the fifth graders are invited to the high school on Thursday, April 10th to enjoy a program arranged for them by our school nurse, Mrs. Lamb. Further notice will be sent to them after school begins April 7.

Several pupils living in the country were unable to make school last Thursday and Friday due to the condition of the roads. The Zerbe boys remained in town with their grandmother, Mrs. Hattie Keller, after shoveling Wednesday morning from 7:30 to 10:30 that they might cover a distance of three miles.

Miss Hollis Clayton is spending her vacation in Laola, South Dakota, visiting her parents.

Last Wednesday Miss Skeels, head of the Home Economics Department, did a thriving business during the noon hour. She reported having ordered 25 pounds of meat, 3 pounds of butter, 5 gallons of milk, plus all the trimmings, with orange pudding for desert. This is as heavy an order as we had at any time during the winter months.

Regular grade faculty meeting was held last Monday night during which time a report was given on the visit made by Mrs. Pennell in the Watervliet schools the previous week.

Miss Theo Olson left us Wednesday night that she might attend the International Convention of Musicians held in Chicago during the entire week. She will spend her vacation visiting her parents in Chicago.

Mrs. Reba Lamb, school nurse is finishing the weighing and measuring of pupils for this semester. This allows Mrs. Lamb a "close up" with each pupil that advice may be given where advice is needed.

Marjory Kill from Dayton, entered our sixth grade this week. Virginia Terrie is back with us. She returned from California a short time ago with her parents.

A donation of twenty books from different companies was sent over to Mrs. French's room this week. These books, all new, were received gladly by all concerned, and shall be used by the pupils at different periods during the day.

The fifth and sixth grades enjoyed the assembly put on by the high school last Friday during the fifth hour. At this time skits from the Junior play were shown, and also two reels of pictures illustrating parachute landing were shown. The latter was under the supervision of Mr. Hubbard.

ENJOYING BREAKFAST

One of the huge black bears that are common in Rainbow National park burrowing for his breakfast. These bears are quite tame, and frequent the camps and hotels for whatever food is available.

A complete outline of all the work being done during the entire year in the grades has been handed in to the superintendent's office. This is to help make the booklet which represents the work of the entire school, which Mr. Stark has printed each year.

During the last week the following rooms were 100 per cent in banking: Miss Simmons', Mrs. Clayton's, Mrs. Whitman's Mrs. Walton's and Mr. Knobloough's. This is a very good record considering the general conditions.

Mr. Flanar found no time for idle dreaming the last few days. He is always busy but doubly so since the weather decided to cause him to shovel several tons of corn each day that all those in his car might be warm and comfortable.

We return to school April 7 for nine weeks of happy work when we shall reach the end of the year's efforts.

BREXER RABBIT TAKES PLACE IN BUSINESS FIELD SHOW ATTRACTS HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE TO MICHIGAN STATE COLLEGE.

The introduction of the rabbit into economic society in Michigan by means of a week's short course and a show attracted many people interested in this new industry to Michigan State College.

Forty-four rabbit owners enrolled in the course of study, 125 attended the banquet at which rabbit meat furnished one of the reasons why the industry is popular, and hundreds saw the meat and fur rabbits exhibited at the show.

J. F. Cox, dean of agriculture, assured the audience at the banquet that the college will do anything possible to aid the owners of rabbits in solving problems encountered in growing the animals.

Winners of championships in the show were William Agores of Holland; Clifford C. Lewis, of Lansing; Oscar Reynolds, Diamonddale; and Balderson's Rabbitry, Ionia.

For best exhibits, awards were made to C. R. Colvin, Lansing; Michigan Rabbit Assn. of Albion; K. O. Engler, Edgerton, Ohio; E. T. Swartout, Lansingburg; Albion Association Rabbitry, Albion; Loren W. Busch, Warren; Mrs. E. P. Green, Okemos; Louis A. Pringnitz, Royal Oak; and Gus Siegmund and Co., Redford.

More than a hundred exhibitors won prizes in the regular classes of the rabbit show.

Another Famous Highway

Those who read that interesting volume, "The Shepherd of the Hills," by Harold Bell Wright in 1907, recall his reference to the rugged, undeveloped country in which the characters of the story lived and labored. The scene was in the Ozark mountains in the southwestern part of Missouri, where little of the natural beauty has been spoiled by man. Highways were unknown when Wright was there, an occasional rude road was open, there were many trails over and around the hills and most travel was on horseback or on foot.

There was one route marked out over the mountains, Wilderness Road, a trail used by the pioneers who located it, used by frontier people, made usable during the civil war for troops and supply wagons, given historic prestige by many and literary fame by the author. Wise men who direct highway improvement in Missouri have decided to widen and pave Wilderness Road next year. It touches many of the most historic and beautiful sections of the Ozarks and will be open to tourists throughout the year. Only those who have traveled the Ozarks know the rugged beauty and scenic splendor found in abundance there. Improvement of Wilderness road will open a treasure house for those who love the beauty of nature.

Paved roads and motor cars have made some of the Ozark sections available for tourists. There is joy for the tourist who travels the roads there. Nature was lavish in her gifts to the world when the Ozarks came forth during some prehistoric upheaval. The crudities of life are there, many villages, orchards, vineyards, there is just enough of the modern to make the natural easy of access. The day will come when the Ozarks will be one of the popular playgrounds of the nation. Wilderness Road and the Shepherd of the Hills can be visited and studied. There is enough historic importance and literary flavor about both to make the ordered improvement of interest to the entire country.

Interstate Bus Regulation.

With nearly 100,000 passenger busses in operation in this country, the greater number engaged in interstate traffic, the need for federal regulation and control developed quickly after the introduction of busses in transportation. There is pending in Congress a bill that would provide interstate bus control by the federal government. The purpose of the bill as given by its author, is to protect the public, in transportation and investment, before wrong conditions become established.

The development of the bus lines in the states has been one of the rapid movements that follow an offering of a new convenience. The bus lines are operated from ocean to ocean. Each day a dozen busses carrying business from New York to San Francisco are operating. They have regular schedules and maintain them with surprising ease. Passengers may ride all night in making their trips, or stop for the night in a city and resume the journey the next day.

There is state control over the bus lines in most states, but on many occasions the need for a federal control has been in evidence. Many bus lines have been prudent in operation and have had few serious clashes with state authority. Interstate regulations need place no heavy burden on them, rather it should insure the lines under wise control from competition developed by the reckless and venturesome. Patronage of the bus lines has developed to a point where interstate control and reasonable regulation is required to insure the safety and protect the interests of the public.

Covered Wagon Centennial.

Days of the pioneer, the covered wagon in which they traveled and the dangers they faced, all will be recalled if the suggestion made by President Hoover is accepted by the nation. He would have the covered wagon centennial kept in mind from April 10 to December 29, this year, with gatherings of citizens in many communities and speakers to recount the history of the covered wagon era.

In constructive importance that was a great period for this country, as courageous pioneers gathered their earthly possessions into the wagon, supplied themselves with food, arms and ammunition and started out on the long trek across the wild and open stretches of the west to find homes and establish government on the Pacific slope. The first covered wagon destined to reach Oregon left St. Louis April 10, 1830. That was the opening of the Oregon trail, a migration of people to a new country that was continued for three-quarters of a century. It was quite proper for President Hoover to refer to that movement, as "the great westward tide which established civilization across the continent." The covered wagon centennial is planned to do honor to the memory of the hardy men and brave women who had a part in that historic movement.

Today one may drive in comfort over improved highways from Boston to San Francisco, then to all points where the western end of the Oregon trail was located a century ago. There are hotels in which tourists may rest at night, eating houses at convenient points, filling stations as one may need them, with high powered autos in which to travel farther in one hour than the covered wagon train could travel in a day. Men and women made the trip largely on foot in many of the groups of travelers, the wagons being heavy for the horses or oxen, the road rough, so the homeseekers became walkers. The people who established civilization in the new country were the hardy pioneer type, fearless and unafraid. In courage and high purpose they were the best the country produced. The nation today cannot afford to pass over unnoticed the centennial arranged in their honor. They marked safe pathways. They were the unconquerable Americans. They merit all honors we are able to pay.

Old Friendships.

When old friends get together, their greatest enjoyment usually is in the conversation between them. They recall old happenings, old scenes, old devilements and old flames. They laugh and they chuckle and there is a note of sadness here and there when they speak of one who has passed on or one who has not fared so well in the world. Almost every county in the state is represented by some such organization. Early spring usually is the time they meet to renew friendships. As uninteresting as these organizations are to outsiders, they are an important part of the community. They serve to keep old friendships fresh and they serve as a medium for social times. They keep the bonds of association tightened and create a homey atmosphere for people who feel the loss of company of their former neighbors.

False Illusions.

It is pitiful how some people cling to illusions, especially fostered by religious fanaticism. Adherents to the House of David were led to believe that their leader would never die; that they themselves had hope of an everlasting physical life, and at last their hopes have been shattered. They have admitted that their leader, who succumbed three years ago, is dead and will not rise again, on this earth, at least. In many instances men who promulgate such religious do so for their own self-advancement, often for financial gain. In other instances they are generous to a fault usually don't have a hardship is worked upon the deluded people who are induced to follow such impossible faiths. Religion plays an important part in the lives of people and when a religion is discredited those who have conscientiously followed it suffer a severe shock that affects the whole course of their lives.

Wall Street and the Market

Six large banks joined with the house of Morgan to form the Wall Street pool and purchase securities thrown into the stock market during the panic. The pool was not formed for financial profit. It sought to restore orderly buying, prevent needless sacrifice of values and stabilize the market. Its operations were not announced publicly, but estimates were that the pool purchased in excess of a hundred million dollars worth of securities.

Recently formal announcement was made that the purchases had been liquidated and the pool dissolved. The operations are said to have shown a small profit, the securities being sold when the market had regained its strength. It was rumored that a considerable portion of the purchases had been retained for permanent investment by the purchasers.

There was a large public advantage provided by the formation and operation of the pool. It provided a picture of mammoth financial strength arrayed on the side of sanity in the stock market. It prevented the great breaks in the market that frighten investors and wreck fortunes. It helped out disorder and restore order. In that way it served the nation well at a time when good service was needed. It was a short but lively campaign in which the wealth of Wall Street was employed in protecting public interests. It represented the wealth, courage, sound judgment and wisdom of the leaders in Wall Street. It supplied an interesting chapter in the financial history of the country.

AVIATION INDUSTRY TO SHOW PROGRESS AT DETROIT SHOW

The third All-American show, April 5 to 19, will mark the dedication of Detroit's $1,000,000 hangar and exposition building, scheduled for completion next week, in the first major commercial exhibition ever to be held on an airport. The show, sponsored by the Detroit Board of Commerce, promises to be the outstanding aeronautical event of 1930.

Present indications are that there will be between 90 and 100 ships on the show floor with an equal number parked on the 250-acre municipal landing field for demonstration purposes. The accessories division will have between 100 and 110 exhibitors.

Several new ships will have their initial showing at Detroit and engineering innovations, which are likely to have a far-reaching effect on the industry, will be introduced, according to Ray Cooper, show manager. The feature display is a 32-passenger, four-motor transport plane, the largest ever flown in the United States, entered by the Fokker Company, subsidiary of General Motors. The smallest ship, weighing 350 pounds and powered by a two-cylinder air cooled motor, was entered by the Aeronautical Corporation of America, Cincinnati.

The Keystone Aircraft Corporation proposes to show the Patricia, luxurious 22-place cabin monoplane, and there will be a 12-passenger Sikorsky amphibian on display. The Stinson Aircraft Corporation, which recently stirred the industry with a series of drastic price cuts, will show the new four-place Stinson Junior cabin craft and the eight-passenger, three-motor Corman transport.

The aeronautics section of the Society of Automotive Engineers, numbering in its membership the leading figures in the aircraft industry, will be in session during the show and, at the society's request one day has been set aside for glider demonstrations. The National Women's Aeronautical Association also meets during the show. More than 500 flyers, manufacturers and business men are expected to attend the annual aviation dinner which is an annual show feature.

Production schedules of many airplane manufacturers will be fixed at Detroit during the show. Manufacturers decided at the aircraft exposition of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce held in St. Louis last month to call two conferences of purchasing agents. At the first meeting, makers and dealers in airplane parts will get together to discuss prices and trade conditions. A closed meeting is to follow at which a definite line on production during the remainder of the year will be charted. The series of price reductions announced at St. Louis prompted the calling of the conferences.

Attendance at the show is forecast by Mr. Cooper at upward of 125,000 persons. The committee directing the exhibition is composed of 20 business men headed by Edward S. Evans, president of the Detroit Aircraft Corporation, a pioneer in the organization of air transit lines.

Although the show will be centered at the municipal airport, important activities are to take place at neighboring airports. Wayne county's mile-square airport, where a $350,000 hangar is being completed, will be opened on April 1, with a dedicatory program. The country airport represents an investment of $2,000,000. The Ford airport at Dearborn, the Detroit-Wayne Industrial airport and the Grosse Ile air terminal will have their share of the show activities.

The hangar at the municipal landing field covers five acres and provides shelter for 200 planes. The building has an overall length of 1,014 feet, an extreme width of 250 feet at one end, terminating at the other end in a bay 127 feet wide. The hangar has a large repair bay, wash racks for planes, radio, telegraph and telephone station, reading rooms, sleeping quarters, a restaurant, a large waiting room and space where the public may observe field maneuvers.

During the next month, work of putting the field in shape for the show is to get under way.

During the show, air traffic will be heavier than has ever been experienced at Detroit. W. J. Wallace, manager of the field, is working with O. D. Bedinger, supervising inspector for the aeronautics bureau of the Department of Commerce, in working out a set of rules to govern flying.

Bedinger will require all planes to land counter clockwise on the field after circling once, and will prohibit stall take-offs, climbing turns and flying at less than 1,000 feet. All acrobatic flyers, who will be permitted to stunt over adjacent territory, must wear parachutes. Starters will govern take-offs and landings, two sections of the field being used to facilitate flying.

Both the city and county fields are close to Detroit. The municipal airport is five miles from the city hall, while the Wayne county field is 15 miles from downtown.

The 1930 show is being laid out after the plan of a city, with "airways" taking the place of streets. The principal airways are named in honor of leading figures in aviation including Colonel Lindbergh, Admiral Byrd, Orville Wright, Glenn Curtiss and the following: General M. M. Patrick, former chief of the army air service; Admiral W. A. Moffet, chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics; W. I. Glover, assistant postmaster-general; C. M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics; David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics; W. P. McCracken, former assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics.

NEW ISO-VIS does not "thin out" or "break down" in your motor.

You will find that its body is as heavy when you drain it off as it was the day you put it in your crankcase. It will give you a new idea of the type of lubrication it is now possible to put into your automobile.

New Iso-Vis also gives what engineers call a "greater viscosity range". It not only stands up better at high engine temperatures but it gives more effective lubrication when the engine is cold.

In addition, there is a radical reduction in carbon deposits. Both labora-by far the largest annual toll since the auto became an accident factor and represents a 18 per cent increase over the 1928 record. Motor vehicle registrations increased only 8 per cent during the year.

The figures are based on reports from 31 states, covering, in most cases, an 11-month period of 1929. They have been substantiated by reports from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, whose mortality experience has been found to be a reliable index. More than 50 per cent of the victims were pedestrians. The total will place motor vehicle accidents as representing approximately one-third of all accident fatalities in the country. The 1929 figure for this type of accident is nearly three times what it was 10 years ago.

The Old Timer's Corner

Mrs. Winch Recalls Construction in The 1860's

Days Avenue, a street through the Day farm—became the main thoroughfare to the depot as soon as it was finished. Many good houses were built upon either side of the street.

In 1860 the Methodist church erected a substantial building on the west side of the street. A supper ensued on its lawn. There were in the very first church supper in Buchanan. It cost 15 cents except to the "elder blooms," who cooked, designed and carried on, with expediency, the new festivity. The girls of the church and some others waited on the patrons at table a long improvised affair. The girls wore hoops, pantalettes and shawls—some in white, pink and blue. None of them had ever had a silk dress or ever heard of a silk stocking. The girls were attractive, perhaps the supper was more so. Chicken, nests of eggs in dishes of mashed potatoes, pound cake, pl. in cake, cookies and of course doughnuts from Yankee kids. The great American staple, pie, was there in great variety. Supper was over before 8 o'clock and it was time to go home. One of the guests, a young chap from the Bend of the River, told me that he had tied his canoe on the river bank below Moses Bluff. So he walked home with me. He tried to row over the Moccasin ripples somewhere between the islands, tipped the canoe over and caught on the Chandler dam. The mill men rescued him the next morning. I think he afterwards went to Buchanan by way of the bridge.

That summer was memorable as the one of Abraham Lincoln's first presidential campaign. Only the second one of the Republican party. Strange! A presidential candidate from the west. The leaders grumbled. Who was Lincoln? A rail-splitter, it was said in derision. The slogan was "boomerang." (I am telling only of Berrien county). Rail-splitting, getting out oak fence posts, reading borrowed books by candle light or a pine knot in the fireplace, were not unknown in Berrien county in 1860. Kindred spirits. In Buchanan a band or company of young men, "wide awake," equipped with tin lamps on a long stick, like a broom handle, over their shoulder and with fire and drum, marched and shouted for Lincoln. A favorite line was on Main street to the Carlisle place. Here under the shady oak trees they assembled to meet the garrison crowd to march for Lincoln. Men sometimes spoke there for Lincoln. Buchanan people generally, had a fellow feeling for the kindly worker, Lincoln. Citizens called a meeting at the Christian Church of girls who had been invited to represent the states at a mass meeting at Niles. We each drew one state from a hat passed around by Harvey Roe, who was in charge. I drew Missouri, to my great chagrin, amid the jeers of "border ruffian states." Our caps, with the name of the state, and our blue cambric scarves, were furnished us. We made them together at the home of Mrs. Phineas Bunn on Oak Street. The campaign before, Carrie Fess, dressed in the deepest mourning (for a like occasion) represented "Bleeding Kansas." Missouri was denounced as "border ruffian." The fires of sectional hate even then, were smoldering, and soon burst into flames in the sulphurous conflagration of Civil War. With deluge of blood, deprivation and devastation of four years duration.

The six cities completing disposal plants since 1928, according to the report, were: East Lansing, Sparta, Flint, Nine Mile Road, Sturgis and Petoskey. A plant at Hastings is now almost completed.

At Utica, Lyons, Murr, Saranac, Boyne City and Three Rivers, water supplies are such that sewage disposal is unnecessary, the report indicates. At 13 Michigan cities the past year consulting engineers have been employed to develop sewage disposal plants. Among these cities are South Haven, Hillsdale, Wayne, Ypsilanti, Midland, Alpena and Ann Arbor.

Eight cities have submitted plans for plants which have been approved. In these cities sites have been purchased. The cities in this group as listed in the report are: Lake Odessa, Lansing, Alma, Mt. Pleasant, Otsego, Marysville, St. Clair and Plainwell.

The report lists 38 cities submitting plans for sewage disposal plants, plans which have been approved by the state.

"We cannot at this time take into account the fact that among the 38 cities who have submitted reports, many of them are in various stages of progress; work which is anticipated will assume a more progressive construction state in the near future," the report said.

"Among such cities are Lansing, Ypsilanti, Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, Muskegon, Grand Haven and Saginaw, besides these, Clawson, Ferndale, Pleasant Ridge, and others to the extent of eleven communities are just now on the verge of adopting a joint disposal plan under the Oakland-Macomb drain project."

Referring to the work of the Stream Control Commission which was organized through an act of the 1929 session of the state legislature, the report says:

"It is felt that the most important work to be accomplished by the Stream Control Commission for 1930 is that of such organization and accumulation of personnel as funds permit to make a definite start on the systematic survey of the various rivers and streams of Michigan."

"Such work as exists to date is without system having been collected here and there as the occasion demands."

"The foundation upon which careful and intelligent stream control work must rest is that of a definite knowledge of the chemical, sanitary and physical condition of various streams out of which will grow the degree of pollution and therefore the degree of purification which will be required of the various committees along each stream."

"Simultaneously with this should continue the gathering of data of details as to the conditions of Michigan cities on the one hand and the classification and study of Michigan industries on the other."

TELEPHONE SERVICE STOOD STRAIN WHEN CHAOS REIGNED IN WALL STREET

The Stock Exchange
Quotation BoardBrokers Office—Six Telephones to a Man—and Six Calls to a Minute.

DURING the recent stock market panic in the financial section of New York, chaos reigned in Wall Street, but the telephone system held up under the strain of the greatest peak of traffic in the history of communication.

Five central offices, two dial and three manual, were put to the severest imaginable test when the number of calls completed in Manhattan jumped up 335,000 almost overnight. The percentage of increase over normal conditions was 74 for incoming and 35 for outgoing calls. The dial office of Hanover alone handled over half a million outgoing and incoming calls in a single day. Nor is the praise due alone to machinery, for there were thousands of out-of-town calls to be handled by operators.

As an illustration of the emergency which was met by the telephone system of the metropolitan financial district we cite this incident. The normal capacity for handling calls at the "B" board of an exchange, where incoming calls are set up, is 700 calls per hour per operator. During the chaotic days when the stock ticker spelt disaster to thousands, one "B" operator is credited with having set up 1,340 calls in a single hour. That means about one call every three seconds.

The plant forces of the telephone company were in evidence 24 hours a day building and assembling apparatus designed to afford relief. Jobs were done in a day's time that would ordinarily require much longer. The power system was taxed to the limit and for several days the emergency power equipment was kept running to supply electric current to carry the hundreds of thousands of voices that sped over the wires. So far as is known this is the first time it has ever been necessary to resort to this measure. Lunch hours were cut in half, and there was no end of night work and overtime, let alone the constant demand for speed.

While Wall Street was busy at night catching up on its tremendous bookkeeping job, the telephone central offices were correspondingly busy. Four times the usual number of operators worked nights and Sundays so that the service did not fail. On a Sunday the outgoing traffic in one office was 335 per cent above normal, but it went through.

In addition to the regular operating and plant maintenance forces, who were taxed to the limit, an emergency trouble-shooting gang was formed and remained on duty each night clearing every difficulty as fast as it appeared. No piece of apparatus could be allowed out of service in such times. Every bit was needed.

The entire system of telephone communication was taxed to the limit, and when panic and chaos seemed in the saddle, this vital factor in carrying on the business of the financial world coped with a hitherto undreamed of situation, with efficiency, calmness and dispatch.

B. H. Taxi Driver Sentenced 5 Years Negligent Homicide

Stanley Wims, driver of the taxi cab which crashed into a truck while rounding a curve near Paw Paw Lake last September, resulting in the death of a cab passenger, Blaine Caster, was sentenced to from one to five years at Jackson prison on a charge of negligent homicide in the Berrien County Circuit Court Friday. Wims and his three passengers were alleged to have been drunk, as the result of a "whoopie" party at a Paw Paw lake resort. Two other passengers were injured.

COUNTY LETS BIDS FOR 1930 ROAD PROGRAM

CONTRACTS AWARDED FOR 7 PROJECTS TOTALING $203,513.60.

Contracts for seven roads, totaling 13.5 miles and representing the 1930 road building program for Berrien county, were let Friday at the joint meeting of the county road commission with the supervisor's advisory board, the bids totaling $203,513.60.

This is approximately 50 per cent less than the 1929 program. Bidding were very close, with from six to ten bidders for each project, second low bidder being in some cases within $150 of the low figure. The contract prices do not include contingent costs, surface treatment, and other items of expense.

Covert road bonds aggregating $273,800 were sold to finance the projects. A Detroit bond firm was the successful bidder, contracting to pay a 3-4 per cent interest, a premium of $442 and to pay the printing bill and attorney fees, amounting to more than $1,000.

Contracts were awarded as follows:

East road, one mile, Lake township, from the south quarter post of section 17-6-19 to the north line of section 17, awarded to Bryan Wise at $12,959.90.

Lemon road, one mile, Lake township, from the end of the present road west to U. S. 12, awarded to Bryan Wise at $13,750.

Dutch Lane road, 1.5 miles, Sodus township, from the River Road east to the Eau Claire-Sodus road, awarded to W. J. Cleary at $20,900.

Buffalo road, 2.25 miles, Galien township, from Mt. Zion road to Cleveland avenue, awarded to Ackerman Bros., at $39,635.50.

Shanghai road, three miles, Pipestone township, Eau Claire-Sodus road, awarded to Cleary at $54,814.70.

Lakeside East road, 2.8 miles, Chickaming township, from the west quarter post in section 20-7-20, to Three Oaks-Sawyer road, awarded to Ackerman Bros., at $39,632.50.

Lubke road, 1.6 miles, New Buffalo township, from U. S. 12 south-west to New Buffalo, awarded to Bryan Wise at $21,821. There were 10 bidders, L. Wittenberg, New Buffalo, former county road commissioner, submitted a lower bid of $20,977.18, but failed to accompany his bid with a certified check.

Michigan Leads
In Great Lakes
Fishing Industry

An army of 5,438 men is employed in the commercial fishing industry of the Great Lakes. Michigan, with the most extensive fisheries interests of any one state on the lake has 2,237 men engaged in this business, or approximately half of the total for the Great Lakes.

These figures, received by the Department of Conservation from the Federal Bureau of Fisheries, Department of Commerce, shows the Great Lakes commercial fishing industry producing annually more than $5,000,000 worth of fish, with half of this figure originating in the waters surrounding the State of Michigan.

Lake Michigan, utilized by fishermen from Wisconsin and Michigan, ranks second among the Great Lakes in the value of fish taken, with an annual production of more than $2,000,000. This is due, it was explained, largely because the most important catch is lake trout, which has a relatively high market value.

Lake Superior, utilized largely by Michigan fishermen, ranks third in 1928 produced 34 per cent among the Great Lakes with catches aggregating in value three quarters of a million dollars.

"Considering the catch by states, the State of Michigan was the most important in both quantity and value," says the Bureau of Fisheries' report, showing that this State's commercial fisheries

KENNEL CLUB PLANS BERRIEN CO. DOG EXHIBIT

FIRST ANNUAL CANINE SHOW
TO BE HELD AT B. H.
APRIL 15-16.

The recently formed Berrien County Kennel Club is arranging plans for its first annual dog show to be held in the Naval Reserve Armory on April 15 and 16. In an effort to score a success the first year, the club has secured Selwyn Harris of New York City, a nationally known judge and authority on dogs, to act as judge. Promoters state that a showing of dogs may be entered comparable to those shown annually at Lansing, Battle Creek and Grand Rapids, if a representative selection of the blooded dogs of the county is entered. Officials of the club are as follows: Donald Ross, B. H. president; Stanley R. Banyon, B. H. vice-president; Fred Martinie, B. H. secretary; Kirk E. Sutherland, St. Joseph, treasurer.

Membership is open not only to dog breeders and fanciers, but to anyone in Berrien County interested in dogs.

In addition to the promotion of exhibits for pedigreed animals, the club will work toward the protection of dogs from death on unfounded suspicion of rabies, when in reality they are suffering from disease of another nature, to protect dogs from death on highways. A bureau will be established for lost dogs, and arrangements will be made to find homes for tramp dogs.

Berrien Springs

Park is Improved

The Berrien Springs town park was further beautified last week by the installation of a number of evergreen trees donated by Arthur Eldson from his nursery. They were planted by the Wednesday club which has charge of the beautification of the park. Sidney Smith of the National Marl & Humus Company donated landscape gardening plans for further park improvement and has donated marl for fertilizer.

Benton Harbor

Now Possesses 2

Houses of David

Benton Harbor now has two "House of David" colonies, the divided factions of "Queen Mary" and Judge DeWhirst having each assumed the name on the event of their separation. Final division of property ending the civil war between the "Queen Mary" and DeWhirst factions of the House of Israel cult of Benton Harbor occurred Tuesday, April 1, when the former mate of the former "King David" Purnell led her flock from the colony headquarters, she going to her new "palace" in the Eastland Avenue residence and the remainder to the various farms and other properties allotted them, including the House of David Hotel at Elm and Colfax Streets, Benton Harbor. The queen's new palace was originally built for her during her exile in 1927 when Judge Louis Fead banished both "King David" and "Queen Mary" from the colony headquarters during the receivership of the state. She was never obliged to occupy the "palace," a temporary "stay" delaying the banishment until the sudden death of King Ben.

Aged Farmer Kills Daughter and then Destroys Own Life

Murder and suicide, having their origin in mental aberration due to illness was the solution adopted following the location of the dead bodies of John W. Schwass, 73, and his daughter, Miss Clara Schwass, 34, in their home at Scottsdale Friday. Neighbors searched the house and investigated the cause, when their suspicions were aroused by the non-appearance of the farmer and his daughter, and the fact that the lights burned in the house all day. The young woman had apparently been beaten to death in her bed, following which Schwass made assurance doubly sure for himself by taking poison and then hanging himself.

J. Shane, Driver Death Bus Gets Light Sentence

John Shane, driver of the Indian Trails bus in which six persons were killed and fourteen seriously injured when the side of the vehicle was sheared by a large truck operated by the Goodrich Transit Company, was fined $250 and costs of an equal amount and placed on two years' probation by Judge Charles E. White in the Berrien Circuit Court Saturday.

Shane was arrested following the accident last September and was found guilty of negligent

Would YOU Sell at Par?

An analysis of the material in a human body reveals that its actual value is about 98c. Naturally, if you were selling yourself, you wouldn't have to quote the par value of your body—98c. But how much more are you worth?

In other words, (aside from your potential earning power) have you systematically built up a reserve in a Savings Account? For if you have, you are worth a great deal more than "par." But if you haven't, wouldn't it be wise to come in and open your Savings Account now—and plan to increase your value steadily?
