ILL FEELING CULMINATES IN TRAGEDY

Jacob Till Shoots William Krug, Coal Dealer of Chicago.

CHARGED WITH THEFT Hides in Timber and Kills Self When Ordered To Surrender.

The Sabbath calm of the peaceful community of Galien was broken last Sunday by one of the worst tragedies in the history of the community, when Jacob Till, tenant of the old Lintner farm a mile west of town, became enraged at his landlord, William Krug of Chicago, and fatally wounded him with two discharges from a shotgun, which he then turned on himself with mortal effect.

The two men were alone at the time of the controversy, but it is known that ill feeling existed between them, due to charges brought by Krug that Till had been selling the property of the landlord and pocketing the receipts.

Till had come from Chicago a year ago in April, having leased the farm through an advertisement run in a Chicago paper. According to the contract with the owner, Henry Krug, a Chicago coal dealer, the landlord was to stock the farm entirely and Till was to receive a share in return for his labor.

Krug reserves the second story of the large farm house which he fitted for himself as a flat where he and his family might spend week ends.

Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Krug and their son and a colored maid came to the farm to spend the Decoration Day holiday and the week end. At that time, Krug investigated reports that his property had been stolen and a result of his findings he had a warrant served on Till to appear in the court of Justice of the Peace Charles Clark to show why he should not be restrained from selling the stock off the farm.

It is reported that the ill feeling between the two men increased and on Saturday Krug consulted an attorney on ejecting Till from the farm.

The quarrel reached its climax Sunday morning when the two men were arguing in a porch at the rear of the farm house. The only one to hear any of the conversation was Till's daughter, Helen Till, who was washing the dishes in the kitchen. She stated that she saw her father rush into the kitchen and pick up his gun from the corner, rushing back to the porch and taking aim and firing through the screen. She was terrified and ran out through the living room door on the east side of the house, when she saw Krug come around the corner of the building holding his face in his hands, the blood streaming from a wound in the jaw. She saw her father rush out on the porch on that side and take aim and fire again. She ran to the home of Will Meyers immediately across the road and told them what was happening. Meyers called Deputy Sheriff Floyd Lintner, and then ran to meet Krug who was still on his feet and staggering through the front yard. He met him in the road and tried to aid him in walking a few rods. Krug collapsed and died in the road. The second shot had entered the back of his neck. Lintner had started immediately and was speeding down the mile stretch of road between Galien and the farm when he saw Krug collapse in the road. Dismounting from his car at the farm, he saw Till running across the fields toward a wood about three-quarters of a mile directly north. He started in pursuit and was about 300 yards behind the fugitive when he entered the wood. Realizing that he had a desperate man to deal with at a disadvantage, Lintner shouted to Till that the woods would be surrounded and that he must surrender or be killed. Receiving no answer, he went to a neighboring farm house and telephoned to Sheriff Bryant at St. Joseph. He then guarded the wood and waited for the arrival of the sheriff with reinforcements.

When Bryant arrived with a large force of deputies, they circled the timber and closed in. On

Rev. Griffith Delivers Baccalaureate at High School Auditorium Sunday Night

Graduating Class of 1930 Hears Inspiring Address on the Theme "Essentials of Success." Mixed Chorus from the Glee Club, Renders Two Fine Numbers.

"Unsatisfaction is the first essential to success," stated Rev. J. L. Griffith in an inspiring baccalaureate address delivered before the members of the Buchanan high school graduating class of 1930 and their relatives and friends, who packed the auditorium of the high school to its capacity Sunday evening.

Rev. Griffith drew a sharp distinction between this "unsatisfaction," which he termed "the first essential of success and 'dissatisfaction,' which is rather an obstacle.

"The dissatisfied man," he stated, "is like the vulture who looks ever groundward for the carrion which other birds shun."

He used the Apostle Paul as an instance of a man who was successful in attainment and accomplishment and who yet was unsatisfied.

He emphasized the point that the main purpose of life is not only doing rather than being, but that in this day it is doing some particular thing which means concentration and strenuous action. He used as an instance of concentrated power the lightning that destroyed the oak, and the tornado that ravaged a path through the forest. It is the soul on fire that kindles fire in another soul.

Other essentials to success are the power to leave the past behind and to press forward to the prize with concentrated energy. The intense man is guaranteed success, he stated, but the man who looks backward can never perform creditable deeds.

"We should all feel that we have a high calling in life," Rev. Griffith stated, "we should all magnify to ourselves the great importance of what we do. For there are no small callings, if we will but make sure to select something that is honorable. All callings in life are the same, if they serve humanity."

He closed with a repetition of the quotation from Paul which had formed his text: "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended, but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press forward toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

Other ministers who took part in the service were: Rev. Hayes (Evangelical) invocation; Rev. Williams (Advent Church of Christ) reading of scriptures; Rev. Rice, (Methodist) prayer; Rev. Staver (Presbyterian) benediction.

Two fine selections were sung by a mixed chorus selected from the boys' and girls' glee clubs of the high school and directed by Miss Theo Olson.

Snyder Observes Decoration Day in Own Peculiar Way

Among the outstanding celebrations of the annual Decoration Day holiday was that of Morton P. Snyder, well known local restaurateur, at his home at Third Street. To some people Decoration Day means attendance at a speed contest, dog fight or other dignified and appropriate ceremony benefitting the hallowed traditions that surround the day. However, to Morton P. Snyder Decoration Day suggests decorating and if it don't mean that, then what does it mean.

Mr. Snyder planned a safe and sane Decoration Day under his own vine and fig tree, dressing up in his best and only suit of store clothes and sauntering out in the back yard. Next door Charles Abell was also carrying out his ideas of Decoration Day by having his house painted. Mr. Snyder stood at a safe distance and appraised the work with a critical eye. Just then the scaffold chose that particular minute to collapse, spilling painters and paint into grand deluge in the Snyder garden. The painters made a forced but safe landing in the soft dirt and Mr. Snyder caught the paint bucket. His new store clothes, it might be added, caught the paint. And the dry cleaner caught the business.

Orchard Hills to Meet Berrien Hills in Tourney Sunday

The Orchard Hills Country Club will send a team of 25 men for a joint handicap tournament with the Berrien Hills Country Club on the latter's course at the Twin Cities Sunday.

BLUES LOSE TO TWIN CITY TEAM SUNDAY

Weakness in Fielding and Batting Spells Local's Downfall.

MORSE PITCHES WELL

Weakness with the stick and erratic fielding spelled disaster for the Buchanan Blues in their second start of the season against the Minot All Stars of Benton Harbor Sunday, the guests taking the adult end of a 1-8 score. Left Morse again pitched good ball, but very poor support converted several plays into hits, helping to swell the grand total of 13 hits assessed against him on the score book. Buchanan had an opportunity to win in the first part of the game, when pitcher Berndt went wild, walking eight men and hitting three before he was retired in favor of Green.

Morse struck out six men, while Berndt struck out four and Green two. Berndt passed eight, Green four, while Morse issued no walks. There were no home runs, Nash hitting a three bagger for the locals, which he converted into a run. Bohn and Jacobs cracked two baggers for the visitors.

Marches in Parade First Time Since Spanish-Am. War

Among those who fell into ranks and did their stuff after a lapse of thirty years at the Memorial Day observance in Buchanan Friday were Frank Rinker of Buchanan and his guest, Peter Weil of Buffalo, N. Y. For the latter it was the first time in parade march since he was discharged from the service at the termination of the Spanish American war. Weil and Rinker were formerly associated at Chicago, and the former had stopped here for a visit while en route home from California. The two were the sole representatives of the Spanish-American War in the parade.

Thieves Attempt To Steal Frank Automobile Sun.

Thieves attempting to force entrance stole the handles from the front doors on each side of the Philip Frank auto Sunday evening while Mr. and Mrs. Frank and children were attending a show in Benton Harbor. The Frank family had parked their car in front of the Premier Hotel on Fifth Street about 5:30 p. m. When they returned at 8 p. m. both handles were gone, but the thieves had not been able to get the doors unlocked. It is assumed that the work was done by someone who intended to steal the car.

Van Halst Infant Buried Here Tues.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Arney for their grand niece, Beverly Jean VanHalst, the six week old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester VanHalst who died from whooping cough, at Grand Rapids Monday. FIRE DAMAGES ST. JOE VALLEY CREAMERY BLDG.

FLAMES STARTED FROM DEFECTIVE WIRING DAMAGE INTERIOR.

The St. Joe Valley Creamery was the scene of a fire which damaged the interior of the building and some equipment shortly after Mr. Boyle and his force had left shortly after noon, intending to close the plant for the Memorial Day exercises. About half an hour later Boyle received a telephone call informing him that the building was on fire. The fire department made a run to the scene and extinguished the flames before the damage was extensive. The fire started in the creamery near a motor which is installed overhead near the ceiling. It caught on the wall and ceiling and burned out several yards of wainscoting and several rafters. The motor and a belt were ruined.

HENRY RIFFER, BEND OF RIVER PIONEER, DIES

CAME HERE FROM GERMANY IN EARLY DAYS; LIVED HERE 70 YEARS.

Henry Riffer, 82, a resident of the Bend of the River section for about 70 years, died Sunday while visiting at the home of his son, William, at Racine, Wis., and was buried in Oak Ridge cemetery yesterday, funeral services having been held at 2 p. m. Wednesday from the Evangelical church, Rev. W. D. Hayes preaching the funeral sermon.

Riffer was born in Hessen, Germany, and came to this section when a young man in company with his sister, who later became Mrs. John Hess. On October 3, 1875, he married Elizabeth Hess. To this union were born five children, of whom three survive.

Before leaving Germany he had become associated with the Lutheran church. After arrival here he attended the Lutheran church at Niles and later the Evangelical church at Buchanan.

He lived on what has long been known as the Riffer homestead three and a half miles west of Buchanan, until a few years ago when he retired and came to live on Ryeonaster Street. Eight months ago increasing feebleness obliged the aged couple to move back to the farm to live with their son, Ed Riffer. About five weeks ago they went to visit at the home of their son, William Riffer, at Racine. Mr. Riffer suffered a stroke of apoplexy about 9 a. m. Sunday and died at 4 p. m. that day.

He is survived by his wife; by two sons, Edward of Buchanan and William of Racine; by one grandson, Harvey Hess of South Bend; by one daughter, Mrs. Katherine Gilbert of Berrien Center; by twenty-three grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

LARGE CROWD AT MEMORIAL DAY SERVICES

Oak Ridge Cemetery is in Best Condition in Many Years.

LOTS ARE CARED FOR

Rev. S. A. Raemers of Notre Dame Makes Fine Speech.

Memorial Day received a more general and fitting observance in Buchanan Friday than in many years previous, thousands thronging to Oak Ridge cemetery during the morning and afternoon, and most work being done in improvement of appearance than ever before.

Many compliments were heard on the beautiful appearance of the cemetery, and on the fine work of Mayor Matt Kelling and the cemetery board in arousing a feeling of community responsibility. A force of men had been engaged for two weeks previous to Memorial Day in mowing grass and clearing the grounds.

Traffic was difficult through the grounds after an early hour in the morning, due to the crowds engaged in caring for their lots.

A large concourse of people were present at the Memorial services in the afternoon, listening to the eloquent address by Rev. S. A. Raemers, M. A. Ph. D., of the faculty of the University of Notre Dame, who came at the invitation of Ralph Rumbaugh-Post.

Rev. Raemers' address was characterized as one of the finest ever delivered here on a similar occasion, and was highly appreciated by the members of all faiths composing the audience. He said in part:

"Today we have met to pay tribute to the memory of stalwart men of war, men who did not hesitate to venture into the very jaws of death, men who, still dripping with blood and gasping for their last breath, gathered 'tip enough courage to rise to their feet for the last time and proclaim to the world that man is a rational creature of God, and that, as long as human beings people the earth, men will exist who will recognize this fact, and be ready to lay down their very lives to substantiate this belief."

"To the men who fought for home and country in the Civil war, the Spanish-American war, and the great World war, we pay special tribute today, because they are nearer and closer to us, and because their immediate survivors are still in our midst. Yesterday they sat and broke bread with us; today their places are vacant because they have passed into the great beyond. Yesterday we gazed into their countenances, and their smiles and our melted in one fond embrace; today they are mere shadows, lingering on in the small hours of twilight and patiently awaiting the rising sun of resurrection morn."

"An old pagan moralist once wrote: 'De mortuis nil nisi bonum: Of the dead, having nothing but good things to say. His injunction is merely negative, and, in this instance, almost superfluous, for language is not rich enough to express the thoughts of sorrow, admiration, and gratitude overflowing in our hearts at this present hour. To these brave warriors, we owe our liberty, our homes and our country, and the good things of life which, for us, they have made secure. To them do we owe our ideals, our government, our religious and civic institutions, which, without their loyal support, would have crumbled of necessity and passed out of existence forever."

"To their disinterested, unselfish, patriotic fathers and mothers who now stand grief-stricken at the edge of their freshly closed graves, we also pay homage and respect, commiserating with them in their sorrow and assuring them of our love and affection, poor substitute though it may be for the love and affection which their children bore for them, because they also serve who stand and wait."

"To that most worthy of institutions, 'The American Legion,' under whose auspices this touching ceremony is being held, we pledge our most sincere thanks, because they have reminded us so kindly of a duty which we are apt too soon to forget: the respect and honor of our dead."

Arrive for Visit Fifteen Min. After Death of Relative

To arrive for a visit at the home of a relative fifteen minutes after he had died suddenly from heart failure was the startling experience of Lieut. and Mrs. Webb Kent of Greencastle, Ind., when they motored to LaPorte Tuesday for a short call at the home of the latter's uncle, J. J. Guenther. Lieut. and Mrs. Kent had been visiting since Decoration at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Nan C. Kent, and had driven Sunday to LaPorte to visit at the Guenther home. At that time Mr. Guenther had complained of ill health, but was still about and in no apparent danger. They returned Tuesday evening just after he had been found dead in the garage by his wife.

Senior Drama Reported Box Office Success

The business management of the senior play announces total receipts approximating $300, which is fully equivalent to the box office receipts of other years. The play created a very favorable impression on the two capacity houses in attendance. An element in this impression was the new background, the memorial gift of the classes of 1930 and 1931. This background is known as a standard Repp cyclorama, colored a neutral tint to accommodate it to colored lighting effects. The light tints were changed during each of the three acts of the play, shading from lavender to amber and blue.

Konjola Saved My Life," Says Detroit Lady

NERVOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION OF YEARS-STANDING YIELD TO NEW MEDICINE; 4 BOTTLES BRING HEALTH.

MRS. MARGARET HAYNES "Konjola saved my life," said Mrs. Margaret Haynes, 2784 4th Street, Detroit. "I was a nervous wreck, so nervous that I could not bear to be in the company of my own family. I frequently left the table at mealtime in order to be away from everyone and everything. I was unable to eat and became terribly run down and was losing weight rapidly. No matter what I tried nothing relieved me until I took Konjola. "Before I took this medicine I was listless, sleepy and unable to do my work properly. This had been going on over a period of fifteen years. I have taken four bottles of Konjola and today my nerves are in much better shape. I have an excellent appetite and am free from the misery of constipation. I cannot say enough in praise of Konjola and I have all my friends taking it." When given a real trial over a period of from six to eight weeks, Konjola has made a record that would often challenge belief were the actual facts, not known and verified. Konjola is sold in Buchanan, Michigan at W. N. Brodrick's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

GALIEN MEETS AND OBSERVES MEMORIAL DAY

Captain of Military Intelligence Bureau is the Speaker.

TWO CIVIL WAR VETS

Mrs. Cornelia Chilson, Gold Star Mother is Honored.

Two veterans of the Army of the Potomac, Sam Jackson and William Keefer, who represent the rear guard remnant of the G. A. Custer Grand Army post of Galien, were guests of honor at the beautiful and well attended exercises held Friday morning in the Galien cemetery.

The line of march formed in front of the Lintner garage and started for the cemetery at 10:30 a. m. with the handsomely uniformed Buchanan high school band, directed by R. R. Robinson, in the lead.

Following the band was the Nelson automobile handsomely decorated with bunting and containing the two Galien G. A. R. veterans, and also Mrs. Cornelia Chilson, Galien's gold star mother. Following came the members of the Roy Chilson post of the American Legion, led by Commander John Seymour. Then came the Boy Scouts and a group of girls dressed in white and carrying flags.

On arrival at the cemetery, the G. A. R. veterans and other guests of honor took their seats on the reviewing stand and a large crowd stationed themselves in the seats built in front and among the graves nearby. Commander Seymour directed the Legion men to decorate the soldier graves and then return and form again in front of the reviewing stand. After their return, the post chaplain, Milford Nelson, offered prayer.

The Buchanan high school band then played several patriotic selections after which the address of the day was made by Captain James Howe, a member of the U. S. Military Intelligence Department, stationed at Chicago.

Captain Howe said: "It is a pleasure to be able to speak to the people of Berrien county who have demonstrated in the past their attitude when the fundamentals of patriotism are at stake." He complimented the World War veterans and other ex-soldiers present as men who had demonstrated their patriotism by deeds. The pacifist, he stated, is almost invariably one who has never lifted his hand in service of the ideals of country.

Following his address, his wife, Mrs. James Howe, read Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. The program closed with the firing of three volleys over the grave of Roy Chilson and the rendition of "Taps" by Phil Hanlin of the Buchanan high school band. The day was very beautiful and the cemetery had been prepared for the occasion by a more than usually fine display of flowers.

Gold Star Mother Of Galien Honored Guest Memorial Day

Among the honored guests at the Memorial Day observance at Galien Friday was Mrs. Cornelia Chilson, who makes her home in a pretty cottage in the northwest part of the town. Her son, after whom the Galien Post was named, died in a recruiting camp at Syracuse, N. Y. on Oct. 4, 1918. He was born on the old Chilson homestead, a half mile north of Galien, where his sister, Mrs. Merton Shephardson and family now live, and was educated in the Galien schools.

Presbyterians Plan Children's Day Observance

Next Sunday will be Children's Day at the First Presbyterian church. A program entitled "Worship the King," prepared especially for the occasion by the church school department of the Board of National Missions, will be used. Recitations by various members of the school, songs by the children of the kindergarten and primary departments, the presentation of promotion certificates and other items of an interesting nature will make up the program.

The exercises will commence at 10:30 a. m., the time of the regular class periods and the preaching service being occupied in the one program. "A cordial invitation is extended to all interested in this annual young people's day.

"KONJOLA SAVED MY LIFE," SAYS DETROIT LADY

NERVOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION OF YEARS-STANDING YIELD TO NEW MEDICINE; 4 BOTTLES BRING HEALTH.

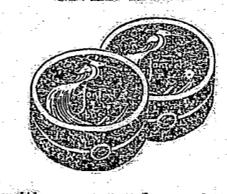

MRS. MARGARET HAYNES "Konjola saved my life," said Mrs. Margaret Haynes, 2784 4th Street, Detroit. "I was a nervous wreck, so nervous that I could not bear to be in the company of my own family. I frequently left the table at mealtime in order to be away from everyone and everything. I was unable to eat and became terribly run down and was losing weight rapidly. No matter what I tried nothing relieved me until I took Konjola. "Before I took this medicine I was listless, sleepy and unable to do my work properly. This had been going on over a period of fifteen years. I have taken four bottles of Konjola and today my nerves are in much better shape. I have an excellent appetite and am free from the misery of constipation. I cannot say enough in praise of Konjola and I have all my friends taking it." When given a real trial over a period of from six to eight weeks, Konjola has made a record that would often challenge belief were the actual facts, not known and verified. Konjola is sold in Buchanan, Michigan at W. N. Brodrick's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

1930 EDITION SENIOR ANNUAL GOES ON SALE

DEDICATED TO THE CLASS SPONSOR, MRS. VELMA DUNBAR.

The 1930 edition of "The Pines," the senior annual, was placed on sale at the high school last week and the entire issue of 250 is now nearly sold out at $1.50 per copy.

The edition is of unusual merit, both in workmanship and in quality of contributions. The prevailing note is the "light" theme, in keeping with the idea of the Edinburgian light year. The light motif is carried out in decorations on title pages and tail pieces. The art work this year was done entirely by students, and is of unusual quality. The greater part of the drawings are the work of the two art editors, Ralph Pfingst and Ellsworth Bristol.

The staff is as follows: editor, Kathryn Reed; business manager, Richard Zerbe; literary editor, Elizabeth Montgomery; society editor, Mary Friddle; jokes, Ray Barbour; snap shots, Esther Bradley; sports, Maynard Post; art editor, Ralph Pfingst; assistant art editor, Ellsworth Bristol; chronicler, Edith Eddy; business adviser, E. H. Ormiston; literary adviser, Mrs. Dunbar.

The volume is dedicated to the class sponsor, Mrs. Velma Dunbar, to whose aid as literary adviser much of the merit of the volume is due.

The senior class has asked that the following notice of correction be printed.

Due to an oversight in proof reading, a serious mistake has appeared in our 1930 high school annual. Below the picture of Supt. Stark may be found the statement "A member of Phi Beta Kappa." We take this opportunity of erasing any misconception. Corrected it should read "Phi Delta Kappa." This is a distinction given to students in the educational field of outstanding scholarship as well as personality.

Christian Science Church Holds Annual Meeting

At the annual meeting of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, The Mother Church, in Boston on Monday, announcement was made that eighty-two new churches and societies of the denomination have been formed during the past year. Twenty-one of these are in Europe. More than 6,000 Christian Scientists attended the meeting.

Duncan Sinclair of Boston was appointed president for the ensuing year. He was formerly a lecturer on Metallurgy and head of the science department of Glasgow Academy. New members of the Board of Lecturers are Miss E. M. Whitcomb, Boston, formerly second reader of The Mother Church and Ralph B. Scholfield, London, who served as captain in the British army in France and Belgium during the Great War, and was afterwards an employee of Lloyd's London.

The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $215,354.01 in the general fund, and $632,761.74 in trust funds. Expenditures for the year were $1,837,536.01, which included $794,095 spent in the construction of the Sanatorium of the Christian Science Benevolent Association at San Francisco.

More than 3,000,000 persons attended public Christian Science lectures during the year it was reported. Relief funds were expended to aid sufferers from the hurricane in Florida and from floods in Vermont, Kansas, the Mississippi Valley and in Tasmania. Relief work in the government hospital for disabled veterans at Oteen, N. C., has continued, as has some work in Germany and contribution recently was made to China Child Welfare.

Increases in the circulation of all periodicals of the denomination were noted. The circulation by the Weekly Christian Science Sentinel is now 191,000.

Mrs. Annie M. Knott, member of the Christian Science board of directors, formerly of Detroit, called attention to the substantial number of Christian Scientists who are now devoting their entire time to the healing work which is a fundamental part of the Christian Science religion, founded in 1866 by Mary Baker Eddy.

County Agent Issues Bulletin On Cherry Spray

The following bulletin to cherry growers was issued to the press of the county this week by County Agent H. J. Durkins:

Cherry Growers: We cannot afford to neglect the cherry foliage even though it looks as if our cherry crop would be small. Cover it with 2 1/2 gallons of liquid lime sulphur plus 2 pounds lead arsenate in enough water to make 100 gallons spray solution. If you use dry lime sulphur, use at the manufacturer's recommended strength. For sweet cherries use 2 gallons of liquid lime sulphur plus 2 pounds lead arsenate. This spray is for leaf spot, brown rot, curculio and slugs. We cannot afford to lose the leaves. Watch for black cherry lice. If they appear, dust with 4 per cent nicotine dust when air is calm and hot.

Coyotes Reported Drifting South

Two coyotes, both females, have been killed in Shawwassee county. The two animals may have wandered south from Bay county where coyotes were reported last fall.

One of the coyotes, a yearling female was shot on the William DeFrenn farm, five miles north of Owosso. The other, a full grown female was killed by Garvin Telfer seven miles north of Corunna and about a mile away from where the first was killed.

During the last few years the coyote has been extending its range eastward. Last year several were killed in Midland county and the year before it was reported that one had been taken south of Mason. It is possible that these stray individuals have wandered up from Ohio and Indiana instead of coming down from the Upper Peninsula.

Have Close Shave In U. S. 12 Mishap

Harvey Fitzmaurice and Joseph Feely, whose names figured in sporting pages a few years ago as star grid and track men for Yale University, narrowly escaped death at St. Joseph last week when their car plunged through the guard rail on the overhead bridge in South St. Joseph last week, lighting upright on the Pere Marquette tracks. The occupants of the car, both salesmen for the Checkometer company of Chicago, escaped uninjured. Fitzmaurice was driving and was able to keep the car upright during its descent. The men tried to flag an oncoming Pere Marquette passenger, but were unable to attract the attention of the engineer and the engine demolished the car.

Relief from Curse of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says: "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. Wm. N. Brodrick. 16132

Early Diving Suit
The diving suit is not so new as one might think. A patent was granted to John Stapleton on March 17, 1893, for "a new engine so by him contrived as to permit a person enclosed in it to walk under water, and to a new invented way to force air into any depth of water to supply the person in the suit engine therewith and for continuing a lamp burning under water; also a way to make the same serviceable for respiration."

Niles Credit Men Meet at Banquet Here Monday Eve.
Officers and directors of the Niles Retail Credit Association met at a banquet in the Grill here Monday evening, at which time they met with a number of Buchanan merchants with a view to organizing a branch association here. It is expected that the Buchanan service will be operating by July 1. The records of the Buchanan branch will be kept on file in the Niles office.

The purpose of the association, as outlined by an official, is as follows: The object of the association is not with the view of curtailing people credit who pay their bills promptly, but to weed out the slow payers and call a halt on those who are inclined to be a little negligent and overstep their obligations. By all of the Buchanan merchants co-operating with each other thru the central exchange office the black sheep or the dead beats in the folds will soon find out that they are listed as such and will change their paying habits or will else look for new grazing grounds. In the future it is the hope of Buchanan's more progressive merchants that all of their business men which will include bankers, doctors, and lawyers, will be affiliated with this large organization. The tendency has always been in the past in all small towns to grant credit freely without inquiring from a member merchant because they did not want to appear to know less than their fellow merchant or let him know that they also took a chance and got stung. Through the means of this association credit will be cleared through a central office and the fellow merchant will give out as much information as he has, they not knowing who wants it, and in turn it will be passed on to the credit grantor and put on record at headquarters. This being a most wonderful service to the business man, it will behoove all of the Buchanan business men to join forces to help wipe out the dead beat.

entering the wood, Lintner met Till's dog, and noticed that the animal was splashed with blood and was acting strangely. The dog started back into the timber and Lintner followed it until he found the body of Till.

The weapon used for both the murder and suicide was a twelve-gauge shot gun loaded with B shot. Till had five loaded shells in his pocket when found.

The bodies of Krug and Till were taken to the Kinney mortuary, the remains of the former being sent to his home in Chicago the following morning. Till was buried by the township Tuesday in the Gallien cemetery.

A peculiar circumstance was the fact that in Till's pocket the sheriff's force found $45 in bills, which had been folded around a wad of newspaper to imitate a large roll of currency. Till had exhibited this roll a short time before, claiming that it represented $700 which Krug had paid him to leave the place.

Till had boasted to acquaintances that he had been an aviator in the German army during the World War, but his family denied that he had been in service at all.

Krug was associated with his brothers in the ownership of the South Shore Fuel Company of Chicago. He had an excellent reputation among the people of Gallien whom he had met.

Till was a native of Jugo-Slavia, a former province of Austria-Hungary. He had lived in Chicago before coming to the Krug farm. He was 37 years old and is survived by his wife and a son and daughter.

Will Continue War Against Mich. Barberr

The war against the common barberr which harbors and spreads the rust which attacks Michigan grain crops will be continued this summer in this state, according to F. B. Powers, state leader for barberr eradication.

Michigan cut-over lands provide an ideal location for the barberr, and the detection of the seedlings and bushes in these areas requires the services of trained scouts...

Small seedlings which have not developed an extensive root system are removed by digging, the state leader says, but large bushes are killed by applications of common salt.

Each barberr bush is the center of infection for the rust of grains. The rust lives over winter on the barberr and during favorable weather in the early summer the rust spores mature on the barberr and are released and infect any grain with which they come in contact.

Hot, damp weather favors the spread of the disease, and under favorable conditions the rust spores from one barberr bush will be the source of infection which may ruin many acres of grain.

The greatest amount of work on the barberr this summer will be done in Presque Isle and Leelanau counties.

Anglers Stampede When Camp Fire Escapes Control

When forest fire wardens answered a call to the banks of the Manistee river, they found a deserted camp burned. The tent was in ashes. Two fish rods and reels were scorched. A pan of fish and a pan of beans over the abandoned camp fire had been charred to cinders.

Two anglers, frightened when their camp fire got out of their control just as they were preparing a meal, ran away. The fire they had permitted to start burned over ten acres before it was placed under control.

John Holmes Writes of Iowa Migrations

In times past there have been numerous migrations from the south end of Berrien county to some parts of Iowa. Some time before the sixties, there came from Buchanan township, to Poweshiek county, Ia., a man named Ed Sackett, and settled a farm. He made a success and the stories he wrote to his relatives, the Hall family, started a craze to follow, and in 1865 George and Elijah with their children sold out and took their share of the Iowa riches.

From the same neighborhood there came to Greeley in Delaware county, a similar gathering, the earliest in my knowledge being Henry Drybread, who used to own the farm extending from the "Holmes" school west to the Dayton road turning south from the "town line" road to Dayton, and also forty acres of huckleberry marsh running north to Buchanan township.

Flattering the Newspapers.

It was quite flattering to publishers when they were told the other day that newspapers contributed more to the advance of civilization than any other force. Such an expansive statement can well bear inspection, for while newspapers no doubt are important, any institution—or individual—will do well to take unrestricted praise with a grain of salt. Looking a gift horse in the mouth isn't always bad policy. Those great, unseen forces which operated to bring the world to a point where it was ready for newspapers probably are greater, at the present time at any rate.

It may be conceded that the world is moving toward some end and that millenniums and myriads of forces are operating to keep it moving. Newspapers may be a great or only an incidental force in that direction. Time only can tell. In this day, when newspapers see their duty as that of a means of communication of ideas and as a means of bringing the activities of humanity to light, its place is important. The newspapers set down the facts and allow the people to draw their own conclusions on numberless problems and puzzles, if they so desire. What these conclusions will be finally, obviously is important, but they are only a phase, the importance of which no one can classify, of an unlimited movement of forces working toward an unseen end.

Suppression of Evolution Gains.

Maynard Shipley, president of the Science League of America, writing in the May issue of Current History, amazes us with the statement that the teaching of evolutionary principles, so far at least as man and his institutions are concerned, has been widely abolished throughout the greater part of the United States.

We had thought, doubtless like others, that the anti-evolutionary outbreaks of a few years ago had subsided and that once again science had been left free to go its seething way. But not so. The anti-evolutionists, Mr. Shipley points out, have merely been using a quieter method of suppressing teachers and views which are contrary to fundamentalist belief.

It is not the fact that theories of evolution are opposed that matters. Evolution, so far as we know, may or may not be true. That is beside the point. What matters is that man, giving away to dogmatism, is attempting to suppress investigation and thought. It adds the mind into activity, and whether any conclusions about the genesis of man is arrived at, makes not the slightest difference. The important thing is that it makes people think and try to think logically. As a matter of fact few scientists are satisfied with any extant theory of evolution. All are more or less incomplete and at some future date may be proved to be entirely wrong.

There should be not the slightest bar to dissemination of theories of any kind, so long as they are offered only for what they are, and so long as all sides are examined and defects recognized. It is the process of building a theory that counts, not its conclusion.

The Law of the Pack.

No finer story of man's faithful friend, the dog, has been given the public in years than the story of Chinook, that was in the newspapers recently.

Chinook was a Canadian huskie, leader of the pack the Byrd expedition took to the south polar regions to pull sledges when tours of exploration were made. His owner and driver was Arthur Walden. Dog and man had developed friendship in long tours over Canadian and Alaskan wilds. Chinook was leader of the dog pack in the Byrd expedition, leader chosen under the law of the wild.

Age made heavy the feet of Chinook, other dogs in the pack sensed that fact. It was time to choose a new leader, the best fighter would be leader. For the first time in his 12 years of life Chinook was worsted in the fight when his mastery was challenged. Dog that he was he knew what defeat meant. The law of the wild is that the ex-leader must depart.

That night Chinook visited the cot where his master slept. Three times he went there, licked the hand of his friend. It was his farewell profession of friendship. There was no whine from the big dog. The next morning he left the camp, turned to the pathless wilds of ice and snow hunted out a quiet place in which to die.

That is the law of the pack, the rule of the wild. Wild elephants quit the herd, seek out a quiet place man never has been able to find, and meet the end there. Leaders of herds of elk, deer, moose and buffalo lose leadership and wander off to die alone. The dethroned leader utters no lamentation. There was no whine when Chinook, hero of a thousand grueling drives, licked his master's hand in silent farewell. It was the law. He obeyed.

Men who know the law of the pack understand the strange things that take place in the wild herds and droves in the forests. They see and recognize the deeper meaning, the unquestionable rule of the law under which these animals live. Most men have some information about dogs. To them the story told by Walden will read like the story of a good friend. They can love Chinook, as his owner loved him. They can sense the great understanding dogs have, they can pay one more tribute to man's good friend, the dog. Has any man who reads this forgotten the dog friend of his boyhood days?

To North Pole by Submarine.

Plans more weird and novel than were in the dreams of Jules Verne have been made by Sir Hubert Wilkins and his party of explorers for their next journey in the north polar regions. Their idea is to use a submarine and make the tour beneath the polar ice fields. The journey is to be from Spitzbergen to the North Pole and on to open water in Behring Sea. The submarine is to be equipped with machinery to bore holes through the ice, even if it be found 50 feet in thickness, they will have a balloon for use when their sub is in open water. To make their under-sea journey more fantastic they will have radio and television equipment, and scientific apparatus that will enable them to know at all times in what part of the wild territory they are located.

Early explorers in the polar region used ships for the water journey, dog sledges for traveling across the ice, but depended on man power for much. Only a few years have passed since the first airplanes droned its way through the air above the fields of polar ice, then a Zeppelin made the journey, marking out the pathway in the air. Thus far the waters under the great waste of ice remain uncharted and untraveled, and there Sir Hubert and his party seek to be first to make the journey. In his public announcement the tour is mentioned as an international geographical investigation, a claim most people may be ready to admit as they contemplate the plans announced.

The trip these scientists have planned illustrates man's hunger for the unusual, the appeal presented when an unknown field is studied. Climbing to the peak of the highest mountain, searching for the headwaters of the River of Doubt, daring death and disease in strange countries, speed tours around the world, speed tests on land, in the air, over the ocean and in the water, speed and exploration challenges the bravest. The history of the world is filled with such stories, and man has conquered most of the difficulties he has met. As others are found hardy men will put new tests under way. Nature has erected many barriers for man, but the spirit of exploration still is strong. Through all history man has been longing for new fields for exploration, new worlds to conquer.

The Millionaire's Hospital.

Millionaires, like paupers, are in a class by themselves. The great majority of people live somewhere between riches and penury, and so it is proper that the millionaire should not be slighted any more than the pauper. He is of a special class, and just as charity provides help for the poor by building hospitals and supplying food and clothing, it is as necessary that the millionaire should have a hospital for his use. He is used to things Mr. Average Man is not. He would be made as uncomfortable by a quick transfer from a life on a high plane to life on an ordinary plane as the pauper would be by a sudden transfer from a lowly plane to one higher. Either could adapt himself, of course, to new conditions, but it is difficult. In this respect the millionaire has no advantage over the pauper.

It's awfully hard to get excited any more when someone flies across the Atlantic, or even falls into it in an attempt to.

Gene Tunney is keeping so quiet that there is a suspicion that he's preparing for another ring championship by reading Dr. Elliot's five foot shelf.

Rudy Valee has won his varsity sweater, but Paul Whiteman would have to get a whole alphabet before there would be enough to show.

There is talk of establishing a college for the education of parents. This will take some of the burden off the children's shoulders.

We suppose it is only a question of time until the more progressive filling stations, service palaces, or whatever they are called, will install these vest pocket golf links back of the station for the customers to play on while having their tanks filled.

Students of Dartmouth College, being too small in numbers to start a riot on a scale to compare with those recently staged by Yale, Harvard, and others, did the best they could to get publicity by taking off their pants.

Despite all that has been said to the contrary, there must be a good bit of tolerance in this old world, else there would be more murders of persons who continually interrupt, "check and double check."

Well, we see the annual outlay for perfumes, cosmetics and toilet soap is $410,000, and yet there are times, especially in under-ventilated rooms, when one realizes that the appropriation should be increased.

It has been several months now since a foreign hussy has invaded our shores with the claim that she had the world's most beautiful legs, bar none, and we just wonder if they had a crop failure over there.

Sometimes it looks as though the weather was being run by the prohibition department.

The Old Timer's Corner

Old Timer Writes of the Spell Cast by 'Magic Lantern Days'

As I was sitting in a "talkie" a short time ago and while a part of the show was going on that wasn't very interesting to me, my mind reverted back to the beginning of the "movie" business, and I recalled the old days of the magic lantern show.

It is a far-cry from what we look upon at this date, but at the time when we were youngsters, it was a source of great amusement as well as an education to sit and watch the different "slides" thrown upon the sheet, which was used for a screen. It was usually held in some church or school, and the price of admission, if so be that it was a "paid" show, was usually not more than 25c, and they would show pictures of Cleopatra, different kings and world known characters. The benefit from the show would go to the Ladies Aid Society or some such thing. Usually the parson of the church stood in the semi-darkness at the side of the screen and announced the titles of the different pictures. They would come under the name of "stills," now-a-days, for the pictures didn't show any motion, but you could imagine all sorts of action, from your own knowledge of history and the subject on the screen would seem to be real to you, while you sat along side of your "best girl" and secretly held hands in the darkened room. I'll say that it was almost as good a thrill as the talkies that we now witness, representing the "gang" warfare of our city thrillers.

We saw such things as "The Boy Stood on the Burning Deck," "Stopping the Leak in the Levee," "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and war stories, etc., and thrill after thrill was our's as we sat spell bound in the old hard board seats or stiff chairs and kept very quiet so as not to disturb the announcer. Some of the young folks would giggle and snicker at times and cry at others.

The lantern sometimes would go on strike and the operator would have to "get down and get under" and the "gas" that they used would sometimes fail to work, and a sizzling noise always accompanied the correct working of the machine.

Oh, "them were the days of real sport," all right. The very best part of the show was going after your girl with the horse and buggy and taking her home again afterward. The old horse would be tired and perhaps cold from standing so long and would prance and make monkey-fishes" while you "cramped the buggy" for the girl to get in. But as soon as you got under way and headed for the "longest way round" the old nag would loose heart and decide to take it easy, and you could wrap the lines around the whip socket and let him take his own way while you close up to the happy girl-friend and made up long stories and plans for the future.

If you were of an "intellectual" turn of mind, the main subject, on your way home, was all about the wonderful pictures that you had just seen, but more often that was a matter to be thought over in your own quiet moments when there wasn't any girl to "love up" sitting beside you. Yes, I speak from experience. The kids now are no better and no worse. We are all "chips of the old, old block" and movies is the off spring of the magic lantern show.

Some of the "comedies" we had at that time were "Uncle Rastus and His Mule," "Mr. Timorous and His Dog," "Darius Green and His Flying Machine."

Often one of these short comedies was the fore-runner for a temperance lecture or long drawn out talk on foreign missions. They had to have something to get the crowd in a congenial mood before giving them the sad news and taking up the collection. That was showmanship, just the same and as I look back upon it now, I can see our modern methods, used in their own way, at that far back time.

Some local soprano would sing a touching song, right after the lantern had shown the humble home and the life story of the drunkard's wife, etc., and then they were off on their real program for the evening. Showmanship. That's all it was, and it worked then as it does now.

When they got to the point of having the slides in sets or series, telling the story, with the help of the announcer, it was fully as good or maybe better than what we have to tolerate at the present day "talkies" sometimes.

Few people in the community would miss such a chance to see the newest things represented on the screen. Whole families would attend "en-mass," and the "pews" would be full to overflowing. In the little church and the pastor would be in his glory at such a splendid audience, and would wax eloquent in his announcements and his prayers.

Such was the life of those who saw the fore-runners of the movies. No one at that time imagined that we would ever hear the screen "talk" but we have kept step with them and we are still here to enjoy its progress. But we cannot and should not fail to remember its humble beginning in the good old Magic Lantern Show, of long ago.

OLD TIMER.
Conserv. Dept. to Test New Methods of Fire Fighting

With representatives of the United States Forest Service, the Forest Fire Division of the Department of Conservation is preparing to begin experiments in the recently created open air forest fire fighting laboratory in Roscommon and Crawford counties.

The area is being mapped to determine the conditions present and just how they can best be fitted to the experiments desired. Weather data is being compiled to determine the applicability to specific areas of the fire-weather forecasts now being received from the United States weather bureau station at Chicago.

The experimental area in which fires will be actually ignited to determine the best ways and means of fighting them, consists of about 1,700 acres covered with a varied growth and on varied soils.

This month and early summer the Forest Fire Division will build long fire lines to prevent any of the experimental fires from spreading, and to determine the costs and efficiency of these lines.

Fires will be built and will be allowed to run along a section an eighth of a mile by 120 feet. All kinds of fire fighting equipment will be available at the station and will be used to determine the best means of fighting the various kinds of fires. Motion pictures will be taken of the experiments to familiarize all of the 1,000 or more forest fire fighters in the state with what is being done.

The forest fire experimental plot is to be used by the Department of Conservation and the Lake States Forest Experimental Station.

This group constitutes men and women who work eight hours a day and six days a week; who have little money and less time. With the development of the automobile to prices within their reach they turned to it as their chief means of recreation in the limited idle hours available. A large number now want to acquire and employ airplanes for the same purpose, but how to learn to fly and become plane owners on small incomes and with only short periods of leisure has been the problem both for this group and for the industry as well. The obstacle between the buyer and seller has been prices that the buyer could not meet and the seller could not fix.

U. S. Incomes Increase 35 Per Cent in 10 Years

The total realized income of the people of the Continental United States, estimated in current dollars, has grown from $65,949,000,000 in 1919 to $89,419,000,000 in 1929, or by 35.8 per cent, according to the National Bureau of Economic Research. The report states that the total national income in 1909 was $29,605,000,000, which is but 33.1 per cent of the estimate for 1928. The bureau's report estimates that the average per capita income for all inhabitants amounted to $749 in 1928, making $3,745 for a family of five if the total realized income had been equally divided. The average person working for a money return is reported to have received $1,898 in 1928. Salaries are reported to have risen from an average of $976 in 1909 to $2,084 in 1927, and wages from an average of $527 in 1909 to $1,205 in 1927.

PROPER RATION WILL CONSERVE FEEDERS MONEY

LIVESTOCK MEN WILL HEAR FEEDING TRIALS EXPLAINED JUNE 18.

The roast beef of old England was eulogized by the writers of past centuries but the methods of feeding cattle to produce those cuts of meat would put the modern cattle feeder in the poor house, according to members of the animal husbandry department, Michigan State college, who have completed plans for the annual Feeder's Day to be held at the college, Friday, June 18.

Modern tastes demand small cuts of meat which have the fat distributed throughout the cut. Livestock men have met this demand by developing early maturing strains of livestock which will furnish tender cuts of meat. These animals can be marketed when young and the economic waste of providing a maintenance ration for two or three years is avoided.

To put these specially bred animals on the market with a finish which will bring top prices takes an intensive, well planned feeding program. The college in its experimental work, which will be explained Feeder's day, uses several different rations in finishing cattle, hogs and sheep. The gains made by the animals are recorded and the expense of making these gains is computed. The information is then given to feeders in the state, who are saved the expense of making trials of rations in their own feed lots.

The feeding trials have been made by the college for the past seven years. This avoids the danger of error which might result as an accurate gauge for the measurement of the worth of the different kinds of feed.

New Attendance Record Expected At Winona Lake

A new attendance record is expected to be established this season at Winona Lake. The new open gate policy, adopted for the first time this year, is expected to bring thousands of new visitors to this famous educational, religious and recreational center of northern Indiana. James Heaton, who this year assumes the duties of Executive Manager after many years of service as program and platform manager, announces unusual interest in Winona. This is manifested through an increased number of inquiries regarding cottages and hotel reservations, and requests for program information, coming from all parts of the United States.

For thirty-five years, since the founding of Winona assembly, the gates to the park have been closed during the chautauqua season and admission has been by ticket only. This year entrance to the park will be free and charge will be made only for the admission to the great tabernacle or auditorium where entertainments are given.

With the adoption of the open gate policy, Warsaw citizens have indicated an increased interest and the Warsaw Chamber of Commerce has guaranteed in Warsaw alone, the sale of 1200 season tickets to the entertainments.

An unusually strong program has been arranged for the chautauqua which opens June 29th and continues for six weeks, ending August 10. Bachman's Million Dollar Band, one of the most colorful band organizations of the country, will be an outstanding attraction during the first week, playing two concerts daily on July 3, 4, and 5. On the fourth of July there will also be an interesting program of sports.

The season is crowded full of unusual features. Almost every week will find conventions and conferences of national scope in progress and throughout the season summer schools of almost every character and of accredited standing will be in session. The great Bible conference will open August 15 and conclude August 24. Noted speakers from all parts of the world will appear on the program.

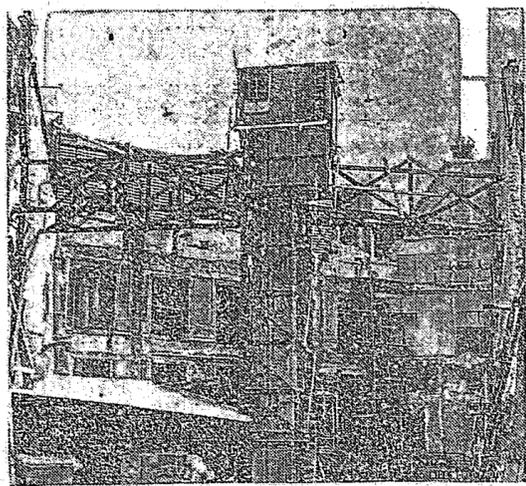

Michigan Beet Planting Grows 25,000 Acres

A substantial contribution to the national sugar bowl is indicated by the increase in the sugar beet acreage which Michigan farmers have been able to plant, according to reports from the farm crops department at Michigan State college. This year's acreage will be 90,000 in Michigan, which is an increase of 35,000 from last season's total. The beet growers have their crop contracted at seeding time so the larger production is not reflected in decreased market returns.

Unfavorable labor conditions in many cities have made it possible to secure laborers for the beet fields much more easily than during recent years. The production of a good beet tonnage depends a great deal upon the labor spent upon the crop and the inability to get men to work in the fields discouraged growers.

Members of the crops department believe that 75 per cent of the beet crop is already planted. Early planting permits growers to get the beets off the working program before other crops demand attention but is not essential for the production of a good crop. Beets are one of the crops which will grow during the fall months.

This Man's Home Was His Castle

An insurance company recently bought a Paris building to demolish it and on its site construct a new one, but met with the obstinacy of a tenant who would not move. He had a small shop and room on the sixth floor which made it necessary to erect a scaffold for the tenant until the construction should include his room.

Farm Profits Check Movement To Cities

Two methods of making profits from Michigan farms are expected by J. F. Cox, dean of agriculture at Michigan State College, to check any rapid movement of rural residents to the cities.

Dean Cox states that the diversity of crops and livestock which can be produced in Michigan makes it possible for the operator of a small farm to make profits from the efficient management of poultry, dairy cattle, fruits, or field crops such as seeds or potatoes; and the owners of large acreage can operate their holdings profitably through the use of power machinery in the production of grain or other cash crops.

Improvements in living conditions are also cited by him as reasons for the stabilization of the farm population. Michigan farmers have the benefits of good roads, educational facilities are improving and it is now possible for the farmer to equip their homes with all the latest household conveniences.

The use of group enterprises such as co-operative associations for the improvement of marketing conditions and of herd improvement associations for the improvement of production practices is pointed out by Dean Cox to be evidence of the farmer's continued interest in the future of their business.

Season to Open On June 25 for Bass and Bluegills

With the trout season now well under way, Michigan's bass fishermen are preparing for the opening of the season on their favorite fish.

June 25th, when all inland lakes will be open to fishing, the season will open on all bass, bluegills and sunfish. The size limit for black bass is not less than ten inches and for calico, rock, strawberry and white bass, not less than seven inches. The day's catch limit for black bass is five, and 25 in a day as an aggregate of all other kinds of bass, bluegills, sunfish and perch.

"The bass season is opening ten days later this year than last," F. A. Westerman, head of the Fish Division of the Department of Conservation said, "but we do not anticipate violations through ignorance of the new regulations. The later season will more nearly assure anglers that they are not catching bass during their spawning season. The ten days later season will undoubtedly mean an increase in the number of bass in our lakes because of the increased protection given spawning fish."

Seven Millionth Chevrolet Car Was Finished May 28

The seven millionth car built by the Chevrolet Motor company is on its way to its owner somewhere in America. The epochal car which happened to be a coach, rolled off the assembly line May 28, in the company's huge plant at Flint. The car was the 1,845,938 six cylinder car produced by Chevrolet since this model was brought out in January 1929.

Chevrolet's newest record-maker arrived without benefit of ceremony except for the cheers of the workmen along the final assembly line who halted work long enough to give it welcome and watch it being driven to the loading docks for shipment. Then work was resumed and not many seconds later car No. 7,000,001 went to join its historic companion.

Various dates in the life of the Chevrolet Motor Company on which the millionth car marks have been passed furnish a graphic picture of the rapid strides made by the company to its position of 6-cylinder leadership in the industry.

Nearly 12 years elapsed after the company's organization before the one millionth car was built on Feb. 27, 1923, but the second millionth car rolled off the assembly line less than two years and five months later, on July 20, 1925. A year and six months later, on Jan. 12, 1927, the three millionth car was produced.

Thereafter less than a year was required to reach each of the succeeding million marks. The four millionth was produced on Jan. 11, 1928, in 363 days; the five millionth on Sept. 3, 1928, in eight months, three days; the sixth millionth on June 25, 1929, in nine months and 17 days. The seven millionth mark, just passed, was reached in 10 months and 25 days.

Commenting on the production of the seven millionth Chevrolet, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the company, declared that building a million 6-cylinder cars in less than a year is an outstanding indication of the enthusiasm with which the public has received a 6-cylinder car in the lowest price field. This class, he explained, offers to buyers to a greater extent than ever before the quality and performance formerly available only in cars of higher price.

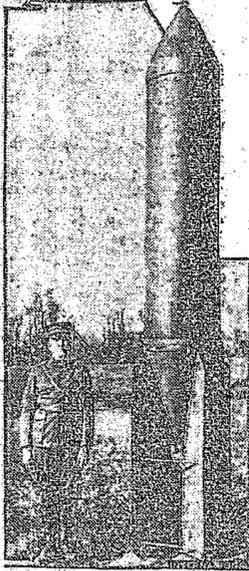

Fisheries Bureau Plants 4,500,000 In Lake Michigan

Assisting the United States Bureau of Fisheries, when its commercial fisheries patrol boat "Fulmar," was disabled in Lake Michigan, the Conservation Department Patrol Boat No. 1, loaded the "Fulmar's" planting equipment and planted 4,500,000 trout fry in the lake waters in the vicinity of Beaver Island.

The fry were loaded on Patrol No. 1 from the Charlevoix hatchery of the Bureau of Fisheries.

The automobile industry is a great aid to the railroads. Last year the latter received $306,000,000 for shipment of automobiles. This is an increase of nearly $13,000,000 over 1928's revenue.

Game Department Finds Sportsmen Obeying the Laws

The opening day of the 1930 trout season, May 1, Conservation officers in District 13, including Mecosta, Newaygo, Oceana, and Muskegon counties, interviewed 807 trout fishermen and not a single one had short fish or was without a license.

"This certainly points toward a remarkable advance in sportsmanship in this section of the state," W. C. Kridler, district conservation officer, said in reporting to the Law Enforcement Division office of the Conservation Department.

While the record in District 13, it was said, is unusual, throughout the state this spring, a greater tendency toward conservation law observance has been noticed by the officers.

Visitors Day at Landscape Garden Experiment Station

The Graham experiment station at Grand Rapids will be host June 18 to Michigan residents who are interested in landscape gardening.

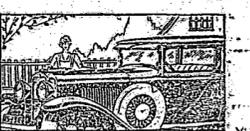

Specialists in landscape plantings have developed seven acres at the Graham station to show what can be done with shrubs and trees to beautify Michigan homes. Inspection of this work is scheduled for the hours from 9:30 a. m. to 12:30.

A picnic dinner will be held at noon and short talks will be given by Director V. R. Gardner, Prof. C. P. Halligan, and O. J. Gregg, all from Michigan State College.

HOW FARMERS HANDLE SHOOTING ON 16,000 ACRES

FARMERS, HUNTERS PRAISE WILLIAMSTON TOWNSHIP TICKET SYSTEM.

Co-operative effort by farmers in Williamston township, Ingham county, has evolved a method of handling the vexatious problem of trespass by pheasant hunters and others in a way that has made the Horton Anti-Trespass Act truly effective, and at the same time has won virtually unanimous praise from both farmers in the neighborhood and sportsmen as a definite forward step in game management, conservation and protection of farm property rights.

This conclusion was reached by Michigan State Farm Bureau representatives after an investigation made in the township.

Starting in early fall, 1929, with a mass meeting of protest at which about 300 farmers demanded organized effort to protect their farms from unwelcome intruders during the hunting season, an organization was created and by the opening of the hunting season about 16,000 acres of land, representing the holdings of two-thirds of the farmers in the township, was closed to all hunters except those admitted by members of the farmers' association and subject to the rules of their organization.

Under these rules no farmer can admit more than four hunters per day and each hunter must have a ticket from his host showing that he is entitled to hunt. However, any man holding such a ticket is entitled to hunt on any land included in the farmers' association provided he complies with three simple regulations. These are:

1. Close all gates after you.
2. Climb fences at posts.
3. Don't shoot toward stock or buildings.

Each farmer has full control of the disposal of his four tickets and can dispose of them in any way he likes. Some farmers claim that under the farmers' agreement they are entitled to make a charge if they desire, but no instance is known where a charge was made. One farmer reported that a hunter insisted upon paying 50c for a day's hunting and some hunters gave a part of their bag to their hosts.

As soon as the pheasant season opened it became apparent that the farmers had succeeded in bringing about a decrease in the number of hunters, and a better distribution of those hunting. One member reported that in a previous year he had arisen at day-break on the first day of the season and counted 42 hunters in one field, with 16 in a second field just across the road. Last fall, however, with only four permits per farm available, there was no such concentration of hunters on a few acres.

The success of the Williamston farmers in eliminating excess numbers of hunters of the less desirable type seems to have been due largely to the publicity the township received among sportsmen.

The impression was widespread that Williamston farmers meant business and they were given a wide berth by irresponsible gun toters. Guest hunters, thankful for the opportunity to obtain exceptionally good shooting, also assisted in some cases by acting as a volunteer police force. A life long resident of the township who was interviewed by a Farm Bureau representative told of being required to show his permit to a visiting hunter from Detroit who was jealously protecting the interests of the farmer who had given him permission to shoot over the lands of the farmers' association.

Damage to livestock, fences and other property so common in past seasons, seems to have been entirely eliminated last year, and it is believed that there were very few who exceeded the legal bag limits. At the close of the day it was necessary for hunters to return to the farm and hand back the permits and obtain their cars. In this way the farmer had an opportunity to look over the day's kill and to note any infractions of the law.

The success of the farmers' association seems to be due largely to the leadership of its officers and to the willingness of farmers and hunters alike to co-operate in improving hunting conditions. The president, H. G. King, is a well known farmer, and the secretary, Theodore Thompson, is owner and publisher of the Williamston Enterprise.

After one year of operation only two suggestions were unearthed for improvement in the operation of the farmers' association:

First, it is believed that a greater membership is desirable, and that this will be easily obtained.

Second, it is the opinion in some quarters that special policing should be provided in future years. There is some doubt as to whether it will be possible to operate another year without friction, with uninitiated hunters and some members assert that they will not take the risks in ordering armed intruders off their farms.

CLUB MEMBERS ARE NAMED FOR NATIONAL CAMP

STATE LEADERS SELECT THE BOYS AND GIRLS TO REPRESENT MICHIGAN

Four Michigan 4-H Club members who have done exceptionally good work in past projects, Isabelle McKellar, Freeland; Verna Dalke, Pinconning; Ludell Cheney, Mason; and Robert Johnson, West Ishpeming, have been chosen by state club leaders to be Michigan's representatives at the national club encampment at Washington, D. C., June 13 to 24.

Two other club members will represent their State at the leadership training school at Springfield, Mass. These two, Ingrid Mattson, Iron River, and Cyril Spike, Ypsilanti, have shown exceptional ability in community leadership and their attendance at the school will add to their ability to aid the younger people in their neighborhoods.

More Michigan Club members will be chosen by leaders in the counties to go as county delegates to the Washington camp. This state is entitled to send 50 boys and girls to the encampment but the number making the trip will depend upon the willingness of groups within the counties to finance the journey.

Real and Personal The difference between "real" and "personal" estate is that the former consists of freehold houses and land; the latter consists of leasehold property, money, furniture, and so on.

This Powerful Stride means passing up Repair Bills

New ISO-VIS lubricates properly at all engine temperatures. Some oils—satisfactory at low temperatures—do not stand up under intense heat. Others that are heat resisting refuse to flow in cold weather. New ISO-VIS Strides from one end of the thermometer to the other.

TO GET a motor oil that would stand up under sizzling heat and yet flow freely in cold weather, our engineers after long research, developed a new refining process. New ISO-VIS is a Wholly Distilled Oil. No undistilled parts of the crude have to be added to give it body as is the case with most oils. Only in March was it put on the market after six months of the most careful checking.

Besides its heat and cold resisting feature, this improved oil deposits far less carbon than most oils. And by a special patented process, New ISO-VIS is prepared so that it will not thin out in your crankcase.

New ISO-VIS will add miles to the life of your car. Your engine can be drained, flushed and filled with New ISO-VIS at any Standard Oil dealer or service station.
