'If it's good enough for the Graf Zeppelin If it's good enough for the byrd Expedition

... it's good enough forme"

This famous oil gives premium quality at no extra cost

No longer need you concern yourself with the conflicting claims made for various motor oils.

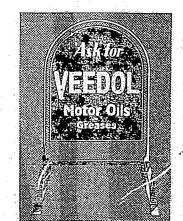

Performance is the thing that counts.

And VEEDOL has proved in the engines of the Graf Zeppelin and the planes of the Byrd Expedition that no other motor oil in the world can furnish better protection for your car.

What is the use of worrying about technical claims . . about where the oil comes from or how it is blended . . . when a man like Dr. Hugo Eckener, Commander of the Graf Zeppelin, is willing to say-

"If we had paid $1.00 a quart for our oil we couldn't have gotten better performance than we did with VEEDOL."

Here is the same oil for your motor that took the Graf Zeppelin around the world and took Rear Admiral Byrd safely over the South Pole on the most hazardous flight in aviation history. Even if you drive a $10,000 car you cannot get better motor oil than VEEDOL.

Stop for oil where you see this sign!

Installer Given President's Medal

MICHAEL J. HARRINGTON

THE first telephone man in the Long Island area to receive the President's Medal, awarded by the National Safety Council, is Michael J. Harrington, installer in the South Brooklyn Division.

Mr. Harrington resides at Edgemere, Long Island. By prompt application of artificial respiration, he saved the life of a neighbor who had been overcome by gas and whom he found lying unconscious in her home. When the physician whom he had called by telephone, arrived, he found the victim conscious and breathing without assistance, and the physician praised the well-directed efforts of the telephone man which undoubtedly saved the woman's life.

The recent celebration of the fiftieth aniversary of the jubilee of the incandescent lamp recalls the reaching effect on mankind, the telephone and the electric light. came into existence at about the Applications Point same time. For when Alexander Graham Bell was struggling with his invention of the telephone, Thomas Alva Edison was wrestling with the idea which brought forth the incandescent lamp.

The early careers of both men are somewhat parallel in that both were young men when they conceived the ideas which were to make them each famous, and that both were laughed at and ridiculed when they tried to interest the public in what they had done.

Unlike many inventors, both Bell and Edison lived to see the child of their dreams accepted by the world and become one of its most domineering factors. Bell didn't live to take part in the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the telephone in 1926, having died in 1922, but he did live to see the range of transmission increase from two miles in 1876, until, in 1915, he took part in the operating of the first transcontinental line. Successful tests of twoway transmission across the Atlantic were also made during his lifetime, and even in the early days of telephony, when most people were making fun of it as simply a child's toy, he had the vision to foresee the day when the telephone would virtually make a neighborhood of the entire world.

Air Commerce Bulletin of the aeronautics division, Department of Commerce, states that the airways program for the next fiscal year involves an expenditure of $7,944, of which approximately two-thirds will be used for the maintenance of air navigation facilities already constructed along along the civil airways.

The extension program for new airways covers the lighting of 3,000 additional miles of airways and the installation of routes for day lying on approximately 900 miles The radio program provides for the extension of the radio-beacon system by the construction of 33 additional radio-range stations and the construction of 20 airways radio stations for the broadcasting of weather information to the pi-

Nine radio-range beacons of the aural type have demonstrated the safety of radio flying under con-ditions of bad weather. Twentysix additional stations of the aural type are under construction which will extend the service to about 50 per cent of the lighted routes now in operation. The development of the visual type of beacon has been completed by the Bureau of Standards and seven visual type radiorange beacons have been built by the airways division for trial under service conditions.

The group camp system was in-augurated to provide a place for boys and girls to camp in the parks. Each camp building is 34 by 54 feet in size, with a large dining room and recreation room, wo wash rooms and two kitchens. Groups using the camps pro-vide their own bedding and dishes. Calling attention in a recent editorial to the fact that the whole world has been drawn closer together by this network of telephone wires which circles and crisscrosses it, the St. Paul, Minn. Pioneer-Press refers to the fact that as of the latest date for which comparable statistics were available, there were 15.3 telephones for every hundred persons in this country while Canada was second with 13.2, and New Zealand third with 10. In total number of telephones Germany, however, was second to America, but in proportion to population it had only 4.4 instruments for each hundred of the population, and the proportion in England and France was even smaller. The Pioneer-Press also called attention to the extensive use of the telephone in smaller communities and on farms. In the smaller communities of America there were 12.2 instruments for every hundred persons and for this class of service New Zealand ranked second with 10, and Canada third with 9.6.

"The development of the telephone on this continent since its invention." continues the newspaper, 'has been remarkable. And the figures show further that the Americans make from five to fifteen times as much use of the telephone as do Europeans, which is natural, considering how many more percons they are able to reach."

SHALL VILLAGES SUE TOWNSHIPS FOR ROAD CASH

FARM BUREAU SAYS GET STATE AID FOR TOWN-SHIP ROADS.

Taking issue with the Michigan funicipal League which recently rged villages throughout the state to consider legal action to re-cover certain road funds which he League claims the township governments may have retained ilegally, R. Wayne Newton, Director of Taxation of the Michigan State Farm Bureau issued a statement recently issued a statement n which he suggests that village officers should go slow in follow-ing the League's advice, His statement follows:

"The recent effort of the Municipal League to foment litigation etween the villages and the townships over road funds is ill adrised and will prove a boomerang both against those who have coun-selled this action and those who ollow the advice without careful consideration.

"Township road taxes are only a be bound to ask for an inquiry in-to the assessments of village real and personal property on request of members in any case where an efort is made to shoulder onto the township the burden of restoring such road funds, much of which has been spent with the full know-ledge of village officers.

It is an open secret that assess-ments in many villages have not been up to the level of those on the surrounding farms. A suit which sought to recover road taxes and ended with a review of valuations by the State Tax Commission on petition of over-assess-ed farmers might easily place a larger tax on the village than is now imposed. The Farm Bureau will make every effort to secure such reviews, at the request of its members, whenever it develops that the village files a suit for road taxes, as the municipal league advises, and we will call particular attention to the assessments now being placed upon personal property in these places.

'In any event, village taxpayers and officials will do well to remember that a favorable result in a suit against the township will probably mean the spreading of a tax over the whole township including the village and will therefore take money out of one pocket in order to put it in another. In push the suit may be the principal loser.

Dates for the field days for the convenience of visitors who wish to inspect the soils building program supervised by the soils department of Michigan State College upon four farms located in Mecosta, Kalamazoo, Jackson and Cass counties have been fixed for June 13, 14, 20 and 21.

The owners of these farms co-operate with the college in testing the kinds and amounts of lime and fertilizer most profitable for use in increasing the fertility of the soil in the area where the farm is lo-A wide variety of crops will be growing upon the test plots and the fields on each of the farms so visitors can see what effect the various soil treatments have.

Alfalfa and sweet clover on each farm this year show the advantages of the use of lime and potash. Various amounts of each of the materials has been tested to small part of all taxes, and we will find the most economical quality to use.

One benefit shown from the use of lime and fertilizer on alfalfa is the reduction in losses from the freezing out of plants. This is particularly apparent on costa farm this year.

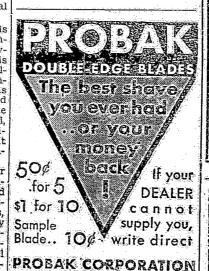

TO EXPERIMENT MICHIGAN FARMS

REED CANARY VARIETY HAS PROMISE FOR USE ON LOWLANDS.

Reed Canary grass, a native plant which recently has shown promise of being adapted for use on Michigan lowlands for pasture or meadows, will be tested on the College experimental farms at Lake City and Augusta.

The grass is strong stemmed perennial which grows to a height of from two to eight feet. It is leafy and nutritious and is well liked by animals. Flooding of the plant on marsh lands does not in-jure it, and winter flooding appears to have a beneficial effect upon Reed Canary Grass.

The grass forms a close dense sod when it becomes well established. The sod will bear the weight of animals and tractors on lished.

farmers who wish to try this crop plant the seed at the rate of two

The usual time for seeding is in the spring, but fall sowing is possible, especially on burned over ground. The seed germinates slow-ly, from three to five weeks, so fall seedings should be made early enough to permit considerable growth before the heavy fall rains.

"A Veritable Tower of Beauty" can rightly describe the vase sketched. Or shall we say a thousand feet of utility and attractiveness in 10 inches of glass vace. If you need a vase to hold flowers, real or artificial, if you need an odd piece for a window or to cheer up a corner, this unusual vase is the one we recommend for your inspection. As to its quality we need say no more than, "it is by Fostoria." It can be had in many of the season's popular colors and is moderately priced.

Fights Mortgage on Ground That Wife Forged His Name

The attempt of William Robards, Royalton farmer, to prevent fore-closure by Dr. Hugo Betz on a $4,-500 note on the ground that his signature had been forged by his wife, prior to her death last Jan-uary, was overruled by Judge Charles E.
