

MERCURY DROPS 45 DEGREES

Time Limit For Filing For September 9 Primary is Now Passed

Now Here's the Proposition

"Fundamentally Sound"
By Haws:

It is among my chiefest joys—
To laugh until I wilt my collar—
To listen to the business boys
While chasing the "consumers dollar."

he time I bought my kid's car
from the salesman's firm insistence.
He did not sell me anything
He just "broke down my sales resistance."

He followed me persistently until at last he finally cracked me ran three blocks and climbed a tree
fore he managed to "contact"
me.

s true I bought that car on time.
—, plainly, debt was not the word.
We never spoke of that at all—
"Twas just that "payment was deferred."

And when they found I could not pay.
Say, you would never even guess
it!
They did not take my car away.
They merely came and "repossess-ed" it!

It is a pleasing circumstance
To me that so they chose to class
it.
I'm thankful that they left my pans.
Or else my legs were "frozen assets."

FIRE DEPT. DEMANDS PAY FOR SERVICE

Will Make No More Country
Runs Unless Money
Is Assured.

CHEMICAL TANK $5.00

The Buchanan fire department will make no more runs outside the city limits unless the party who may send in a call will assure payment of the regular charge, according to Fire Chief Tenny Bunker, who states that he has the authority of the mayor in this ultimatum.

Chief Bunker states that he has been in the habit of making the runs on emergency calls without raising the question of pay, but in a number of instances payment has been refused. Since the country districts do not contribute to the support of the fire department
by taxation, a very reasonable charge of $5 per run for the chemical tank and $50 for the pumping outfit has been made. In the case of the charge for the chemical tank, which is ordinarily the only one used for country runs, a charge of $1 each is made for the service of the chief and for his helper.

The only recent case in which the pumping outfit was used was the Clear Lake fire, in which case
C. H. Fuller paid $50 for the fire department services.

PETITIONS ENTERED BY TUES. JULY 22

Jesse Boyle and Don Pears
are Only Buchanan Entrants in Field of 41.

DEMOCRATS FILL TICKET

Sheriff Fight May Resolve Into North-South County Contest.

The time for filing petitions qualifying candidates for places on the primary ticket ended at 4
p. m. Tuesday, at which time both major parties had a complete array of entries in the field.

Buchanan has only two entries in the field, Jesse G. Boyle for re-election as state representative and Don Pears for re-election as county register of deeds. Considerable interest has been manifested in the candidacy of C. S. Over-cash of Niles, who is in the five cornered fight for the Republican nomination for sheriff. Overcash is making a strong bid for the support of the southern end of the county and is considered by many to be the most likely nomination possibility in the field. It is rumored that the county democrats are planning to make the sheriff's office a bone of contention between the north and south ends of the county.

There is only one contest for nomination within the Democrat ranks, between Fred Cutler of Benton Harbor and David J. Carson of Fair Plain for nomination for sheriff.

PILGRIMS TO SILENT NORTH ARRIVE HOME

Hottest Weather Experienced
At Juneau, Alaska,
72 in Shade.

ESCAPE HEAT WAVE

The Buchanan party of pilgrims
to the Far North, where the men are reputed to be strong and silent and the women at least strong, arrived home at 2 a. m. Wednesday, after a most interesting trip to the edge of the Arctic Zone.

The tourists made the trip without mishap of any kind, except that M. E. and Clinton Monday of Chicago, were obliged to turn back at Vancouver, B. C., on account of the illness of Mrs. Monday.

The others went on by steamer
up the Canadian coast, over a route of wonderful scenic interest,
the steamer's path being flanked on either side by islands which are in fact, submerged mountain peaks. The point of the trip, that had snowy peaks on the landward side.

They stopped at Juneau, the capital of Alaska, where they experienced the hottest weather of the entire trip, the thermometer registering 72 in the shade. The coldest weather had been experienced in a side trip part way up the side of Mt. Hood, near Portland, Ore., where the mercury sank to 45 degrees while a snow storm was in progress on the summit.

They visited Skagway, the old outfitting point for parties of Klondike gold seekers, and there viewed the grave of Sopay Smith, notorious gambler of the gold rush
days and the one-time "Al Capone"
of Skagway, who was disposed via the point of a gun without the aid of a grand jury investigation.

They visited Bennett, once the rallying point of the gold seekers
before starting over the trail,
where 30,000 camped in the summer of 1897. They took a narrow gauge mountain railway tour which parallels White Pass, the old gold trail, for about 40 miles.

On their return they report that they experienced none of the hot weather in which the middle west was sweltering, a cold wave preceding them as they travelled eastward.

Those making the trip were Mr.
and Mrs. L. L. Hanlin, Miss Helen Hanlin, Phil and Harold Hanlin,
Mrs. Mae Whitman, Miss Margaret Whitman, Miss Ethel Roanbach, Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Strayer, John, Bob and Bill Strayer, Miss
Alice Platt of Niles, Mr. and Mrs.
F. E. Cooper of Pittsburgh, Pa.,
Frederick Stultz, Jr., of Gary, Ind.
Ida Rice and Elmo Montague.

Several members left the party
at Chicago, Miss Rothenbach leaving for her home at Lake Zurich, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Cooper taking a different train for St.
Paul, Minn., where they will visit their friends here last week.

ing the cause of death.

Clary was manager of the old carriage axle works located on the south bank of the St. Joseph River opposite the power plant from 1904 until it burned down in 1913.
During the latter years of its op-

mobile manufacturing field, producing an auto axle designed by R. J. Burrows. Burrows and E.
C. Mogford were members of the engineering staff of the Lee & Porter Company. After the factory burned, they were in the employ of a Jackson firm for a year before associating with the Clark Equipment company.

years, making his home in Ann Arbor and spending the summer months in a cottage on Magician Lake. He is survived by a wife and two children.

He was very well known in Buchanan and had many friends here.
The funeral was held at Ann Arbor yesterday.

RESTRICT USE OF WATER FOR SPRINKLING

Need of Lawns and Gardens in Drouth Overtakes the Plant Capacity.

ALL MUST USE NOZZLES

Town Zoned with Front Street
as Line Two Hours for Each Side.

Restriction of hours for use of the city water for sprinkling purposes went into effect Monday by order of the city commission in order to relieve the overload placed on the pumping plant by the extra needs of the lawns and gardens during the hot dry weather.

During unrestricted sprinkling the pressure in the city mains had been reduced from a normal of 60 pounds down to 35 pounds, which made it almost impossible to draw water from the faucets in many homes in the higher sections of towns.

According to the regulations which were published over the town by handbills, sprinkling may be done with a nozzle only, and is restricted until further notice as follows: south of Front Street, during the hours from 6 a. m. until 8 a. m.; north of Front Street, 6
p. m. until 8 p. m.

The city commission has in mind
several means of relieving the situation by an addition to the city water supply, which may be discussed and a choice made at the August meeting. Among the means available are two extra wells at the water plant not in use at present.
Members of the commission stated that the pumps had been working at full capacity and that the water supply is not low, but that the demands of the town during the drouth period exceeded the
plant capacity.

BLUES LOSE SECOND GAME TO NILES NINE

Will Play the Deciding Game
of the Season Here on August 3rd.

HOUSE OF DAVID SUN.

Game at Eden Park May Be Toughest of Season's Schedule.

With the game apparently well
in hand and a three to one lead,
the Buchanan Blues slumped in one lone inning, the seventh and let the Niles Michigan Central nine register four runs and take the second of the three game series played here Sunday.

A combination of three hits and three errors enabled Niles to circle the bases four times before they were retired. Second baseman Swift of Buchanan started them on their way when he fumbled an easy grounder. After securing Smith's straight pitching backed up Smith's straight pitching with errorless ball and held the Blues scoreless until the end of the game.

Grooms pitched excellent baseball for Buchanan allowing six hits and fanning eight, while Smith of the Niles team fanned eight and allowed nine hits.

The percentage of the Blues is now 300, as they have won eight out of ten starts. They will face the hardest test of the season next Sunday when they face the House of David nine at Eden Springs Park.

SHERIFF DEPT. RAIDS ANOTHER NEST BANDITS

BARODA ARREST CLEARS UP SERIES OF FILLING STATION, STORE ROBBERIES

Solution in part at least of the succession of store and filling station robberies which have terrorized the northern part of Berrien county during the past four months was achieved Thursday when a force from the sheriff's department raided the farm home of Homer Evans just east of Baroda and arrested the occupant and his wife, recovering some of the stolen merchandise.

Evans was positively identified by Tom Cleary, whose filling station was held up several weeks ago in addition Byron Cookson, owner of the Cookson Drug Store on East Main Street, Benton Harbor, identified a quantity of candy and fishing tackle by the coat marks still on them. In addition several cartons of cigarettes, cigars, and other merchandise were found. The victims of the robberies also identified the Chevrolet driven by Evans as the one used by the robbers. With the merchandise were found a number of pieces of small rope, apparently that used to bind the victims at the time of the robbery.

Evans and his wife were arrested by Deputies Charles H. Andrews, Fred Taylor and Frank Priebe, who drove to the Evans home in company with Cleary on the pretext of looking for another party. When Evans came out, he was visibly nervous. The officers drove on a short distance and were told by Cleary that he was sure Evans was the man who was at the wheel of the bandit car when he was held up. They turned around, and Evans attempted to run from the house as they approached. At the command of one of the deputies he stopped. The officers entered the house and Mrs. Evans, sensing trouble ahead, attempted to hide a box containing three revolvers and 300 rounds of cartridges in the oven. She was seen by one of the deputies, who also recovered a physician's stethoscope which she had thrown in the fire box. Other merchandise was found in the bed rooms.

Evans refused to talk but Mrs. Evans attributed the robberies to her nephew, who is an ex-convict, and to a friend of Evans. The pair have each served terms in Joliet, and are now believed to be in Illinois. Evans was formerly employed at the Auto Specialties factory in St. Joseph and went to Baroda in May when he purchased the farm on contract. The pair referred to had visited him while he lived in St. Joseph and since he moved to Baroda.

Among the places believed to have been held up by this gang include the Wolff Market on Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, the Standard Oil Filling station at East Main and Fair avenue, Benton Harbor.

FREE OF STOMACH TROUBLE THANKS TO NEW KONJOLA

ASTOUNDED AT QUICK AND COMPLETE RELIEF NEW, DIFFERENT MEDICINE GAVE HIM.

Mr. D. W. Coughlin
"Before I tried Konjola, my stomach was in such poor shape that food did me no good," said Mr. D. W. Coughlin, 354 Ferry Avenue, Pontiac, Michigan. "It did not digest properly and I had pains in the pit of my stomach all the time. Terrible headaches made it almost impossible for me to do my work. I tried different medicines, but I could not get the slightest relief. I heard and read a great deal about this new medicine, Konjola, and thought I would give it a trial. The first bottle did me no more good than any other medicine I had tried. Four bottles relieved every pain in my stomach and the headaches are a thing of the past. I am going on with this wonderful medicine, knowing that new and glorious health will be my reward."

That's the kind of medicine Konjola is—one that keeps the faith; that brings results; that makes good. From six to eight bottles are recommended as a complete treatment.

Konjola is sold in Buchanan, Michigan at W. N. Brodrick's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

State Parks Have Record Crowd on 4th

The state parks of Michigan were filled with the largest crowds July 4th, than at any time since the parks have been organized, in the opinion of P. J. Hoffmaster, superintendent of state parks.

The crowds exceeded even those of Labor Day, 1929, until that time holding record breaking attendances.

Every available parking space was utilized, every building was crowded and the bathing beaches were filled with people. Mr. Hoffmaster said. Despite the fact that in the more than half hundred bathing beaches there were thousands of bathers, there were no serious accidents.

With the summer season well under way the number of campers using the parks is growing every week, with little doubt left but that the parks attendance this year will exceed the 1929 season.

Michigan Gets Aid From Federal Forest Fire Fund

Through helping itself in giving increased protection to its forests from fire, Michigan has gained an additional $40,000 from the federal government.

The Forest Fire Division of the department of conservation has been notified by the United States Forestry Service that an additional $40,000 has been granted this state for the year 1931, from the Clark-McNary forest fire protection fund. With the $80,000 already received annually from the federal government, Michigan will receive $120,000 next year as a subsidy to the fund used to prevent and fight forest fires.

Crosby Hoar and A. G. Hamel, federal inspectors, examined conditions in Michigan this spring and at the same time surveyed the work and organization of the Forest Fire Division. Notification of the decision to increase Michigan's subsidy was the first notice the state received indicating the nature of their report to Washington headquarters.

Money granted by the federal government to states under the Clark-McNary Act, is in proportion to the amount each state spends itself on forest fire prevention and control. In awarding money from this fund the federal authorities consider not only the money being spent by a particular state in protecting its own forests, but also the efficiency of the forest fire organization in that state.

The money allowed by the federal government may only be spent in preventative work, such as the building of fire lines, buying of equipment, forest fire prevention propaganda, etc.

Calls Hunter Record A Monument to the Safety of Aviation

The accomplishments of the Hunter boys over in Chicago in establishing a new endurance flying record and of Charles Kingsford-Smith and his trio in spanning the Atlantic ocean will be recorded among the important human achievements of the year. The outstanding significance of these accomplishments, however, lies not so much in the skill and endurance of the aviators as in the endurance of the flying machines.

A quarter of a century practically spans the life of aviation yet in that time man has succeeded in perfecting a machine which now out-birds the birds themselves. The wonder is not so much that the flyers were able to keep on for they had rest periods, but that a motor could keep turning over for so long without a stop. Such a record is a monument to the safety of aviation. Motor failure has been considered the great danger of air transportation in the past but the new Chicago record is proof that this danger is passing.

The latest spanning of the Atlantic is further evidence of the safety which has come to aviation. The plane used was the Southern Cross, which was employed over a year ago in the record-breaking flight from the United States to Australia. It is significant that a new plane is no longer considered a necessity for an ocean trip. Manufacturers are building greater endurance into their product.

Michigan is sharing in the progress being made in aviation and is certain to share in the success which this progress will engender. The plane, which has just established the new endurance record, is a Michigan product, having been built by the Stinson Aircraft Corporation. The success of aviation spells success for a growing Michigan industry.

Residential buildings constructed in Rome, Italy, last year, contained a total of 40,945 rooms.

DRY BASEMENT IS AID TO HEALTH

MODERN METHODS INSURE DRY AND LIVABLE BASEMENTS UNDER ALL CONDITIONS

It is not only possible to have a dry, healthful basement under all ground and weather conditions, but builders agree, no other kind of basement need be tolerated.

There is more or less moisture in the ground at all times. In some localities, where the natural drainage is poor, the amount of moisture may become so great that there is actually "shooting" of water pressing against the basement wall and floor. But, whatever the conditions, it has been found that a concrete wall, constructed according to well established principles, is a water-tight wall.

There are two types of concrete walls, monolithic and masonry. The first, as its name implies, is a solid unit of concrete, cast between forms. The second is built up with units of concrete masonry held in cement mortar. Naturally the monolithic wall, lends itself well to massive work, but even in relatively thin sections it makes a strong, dense barrier against moisture, termites (those destructive boring ants, rodents and all the other agents of decay, disease and discomfort. Under ordinary circumstances, such a wall requires no extra treatment to insure water tightness. However, where poor drainage indicates the possibility of external water pressure, an external coat of cement plaster, thus providing for artificial drainage, is advisable. A protecting coat of hot tar or asphaltum, composed of is another effective means of securing moisture protection.

A wall built of concrete masonry units is an effective water-tight wall, providing ordinary care is taken to insure strong, tight mortar joints, using cement mortar. Additional protective measures for a masonry wall, on the type of masonry used, coating of plaster or tar is required when dense, dry concrete masonry units are used.

It is, of course, important the basement floor should be impervious to moisture. Walls, for external water pressure, acts simultaneously on both walls and floor. A standard six-inch concrete floor, equaled with proper backwater or seal drains, can be relied on to let out ground water, providing the joints between floor and walls have been properly designed and filled with pitch.

1930 Figures Give State Pop. of 4,818,371

The fifteenth federal census report, or commonly known as the 1930 federal census, just completed, shows Michigan with a total population of 4,818,371 persons. The state's net population gain is 1,139,641. The gross increase, concentrated in 35 counties, totals 1,243,507, while the 48 remaining counties reveal losses of only 138,866.

Eighty-five per cent of all the state's population is contained in 35 lower peninsula counties, which would lie south of a line drawn from Saginaw to Muskegon. All but nine of the counties which are recorded as gaining in population are located in this region. These counties represent a population of 4,101,315 persons.

Michigan has 41 cities of 8,000 or more population, which communities contain more than half of all the residents of the state, their combined population being 2,980,194, an increase during the decade of 976,336. There are 4,517,475 persons in the lower peninsula and 300,896 in the upper peninsula. The trend in population from the northern part to the southern part of Michigan began early in the 20th century, as the lumbering industry gave way to the manufacture of automobiles. This movement was also helped by the trend in population from the farm to the urban centers, most of which are located in the southern part of the state.

Detroit, the fourth city in the nation, has a population of 1,593,546 persons, according to the latest figures. This represents an increase over the 1920 total of 579,865 persons. It also means that in Detroit over 33 per cent of the entire population of the state resides. Wayne county is the largest county in the state. Its population is 1,888,731, a net gain of 711,086 over the 1920 figure. Next in line is Kent county with a population of 240,078, a gain of 97,082. Genesee county has a population of 211,332, a gain of $5,671. Oakland county had the largest gain in its 1930 population of 210,041 being 120,351 more than in 1920.

The smallest county is Osceola, which has only 1,728 inhabitants, or a loss of 55 for the decade. Houghton county, although credited with a population of 52,627, suffered a 19,309 decrease, the largest in the state.

Lake Michigan Water Dispute Comes to Close

We have finally come to the end of the so-called Chicago lake level water controversy. The rivers and harbors bill has been passed this year, with a cheap concession to those who have been denouncing the allowance of water to Chicago for sewer dilution and navigation to the Mississippi. We people who were most zealous in our demand that Chicago should have no inter-water shed allowance for these purposes have been very easily satisfied with a verbal victory, put into the bill to the effect that no amount of water injurious to the navigation of the Great Lakes should be withdrawn from them. Of course nobody ever proposed any such withdrawal.

The degradation of lake levels came as the results of perfectly understandable natural phenomena. These seem to have reversed themselves and the lake levels are not higher, in some places too high. These phenomena have to do with sun-spots, earthquakes in the Pacific and the shifting of rainfall areas. Now the earlier motivations seem to have changed. At any rate Chicago will get its water and is taking 6,500 feet a second now and will take it for some years. The canal to the Mississippi is thus assured. The quantity of water required to operate it will not be missed from the Great Lakes, unless the earlier natural phenomena recur. If they do Chicago will be no more to blame for it than it was in the past.

Changes on the Railroads

Recent years have brought far-reaching changes in methods of handling business on the railroads. Not long ago the way freight was one of the best known trains in operation. It stopped at all stations, unloading small lot shipments of all sorts and picking up others of the most varied nature. The conductor and brakemen would unload the freight, with the help of the station agent if he could be induced to help, they they all would join in loading the new business and hurry on their way.

The local passenger train was another favorite with the public and always welcomed by the depot loafers and others. It handled mail and express, stopped at all stations, regularly or when flagged for business, and was popular with short-distance travelers. Representatives of the railroads made the service on the local passenger as pleasant as possible and soon learned the regular travelers. It is possible the way freight and the local passenger trains never made big money for the company but they were each important in the complete service given.

It is not so now. Railroad managers seek car loads and train loads because they supply larger earnings and that is what makes business good, so the way freight accommodation passenger trains have lost favor with the men who direct matters. Recently the president of the Pennsylvania said the time was not far off when all short hauls in freight and passenger service would be supplied by trucks and busses owned and operated by the railroads.

That would leave the locomotives and crews ready for handling the big freight trains that are hurried over the divisions and make no stops at the small stations. That would increase the earnings of the lines because shippers who send out large consignments are interested in speedy and certain service. Railroads are wise in catering to that line of business. They make their money from the operation of the long trains that move freight speedily towards destination.

Just what the public will say if railroads send out their fleets of freight trucks and passenger busses to travel over the paved highways remains to be seen. These freight and passenger transports operate over costly paved highways free of charge. With the present number now in use by private operators the principal roads are becoming congested, the big busses and trucks monopolize much space and other users are forced to make way. Doubtless there can be a new relation established when truck and bus transportation is developed in a larger way. Railroads would serve the public in an important way with these proposed improvements and courts might consider the service gives them the right to use of the highways, putting on as many big fleets as their business required.

We Are Well Off

It is not with the intention of proving anything particularly that we present a few figures to contrast the tax burden on the individual between the American and the Englishman, but merely to give ourselves a feeling of well-being. We howl a great deal about taxes, but when our income taxes, for instance, are compared with the income tax prevailing in England, our lot is a happy one.

In Great Britain a bachelor who has a $3000 income must pay $659.75 tax a year on it. A married man with the same income is required to pay $558.50. In the United States for the same income a bachelor pays only $13.13 tax and a married man only $5.62. That's quite a difference. There the tax on income alone amounts to more than 10 per cent, an exceedingly high rate. When we feel bitter or angry with the state of affairs in our government we might mitigate the feeling by thinking of how much worse off we might be if we lived under a different rule.

Legs and Education

Again the feud between style and education breaks out, this time in a New York town where two high school girls who appeared in the classroom without stockings were ordered home. To our unimaginative mind legs are legs and whether they are bare or sheathed in sheer silk makes little difference. In fact their appeal is rather less, if anything, when without the artificial aid of stockings.

But that is beside the point. It is unconventional, to say the least, and perhaps even silly for young women to gad about minus stockings. It is certainly a waste of energy for educators to divert their force to the suppression of harmless fads instead of using it all in the more positive work of education. Mere orders not to do such and such rarely are effective, and naturally are antagonistic. While we do not encourage widespread indulgence in all foolishness, we see no reason to rant against those people who find satisfaction in doing so. Being young, the two high school girls no doubt will change their ways as they grow older.

Burdens in England

Millionaires in Great Britain are able to bear the heavy cost and tax burdens incident to purchase and ownership of luxury automobiles, but other people there are not so fortunate. They search for the light home built car, with small engine, so the greatest mileage per gallon can be secured. There is an important duty of one-third the cost of the foreign made car, the annual tax is $1.00 or $5 per horse power and the petrol tax is 8 cents per gallon. The popular car there is the 24 horse power car that makes reasonable speed and uses the smallest amount of gas. These taxes have been in effect there for a number of years. It is still extremely expensive to own a car and use it freely in Great Britain.

Wild Turkeys in Kentucky

Quite properly the editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal finds much to please in the report that the wild turkey can come back as a game bird, in fact has come back in that state. The same condition is found in many other southern states, and he speaks for all the states in welcoming back to the fields and woods and on proper occasions, to the banquet hall, this wonderful and beautiful bird. To his mind it is plain that the territory in the southern states is the ideal section for wild turkey.

Pennsylvania knows the wild residents of the woods and fields will return and increase in numbers if the hunters are restrained and a reasonable chance given them for life. The Keystone state actually is suffering from the wild deer, there are too many for the country, they forage gladly in the fields of the farmers, and do much damage. Deer shooting is permitted now and bear shooting in a more restricted sense. Even the beaver has become troublesome because of numbers. Pennsylvania has made plain the fact that wild animals, given an opportunity, will give any state a real comeback party.

Other states may claim things that meet state pride, but Kentucky finds herself supremely happy that the bronze turkey, the wild bird that made the woods beautiful and fits snugly in the place of honor at the festal board, has returned to the Bluegrass and other southern states. It suggests that game preserves be established, the turkeys given havens, where in a few years, their numbers will have been largely increased. Where could one go to find a finer game bird than the wild turkey, the feathered aristocrat of the wooded country?

Strawberry Millions

Strawberries have brought millions to growers on the slopes of the Ozark mountains in Missouri. The fruit exchange at Monett has kept complete records covering 13 years. The Kansas City Star says these records show a naverage production of 70 crates an acre, average price $3.38 per crate, average cost of production $1.25 per crate, average profit for the grower $140 per acre.

This year the Ozarks estimate their berries will bring at market prices above $4,000,000, counting the entire berry territory, that 20,000 people will be employed as pickers, production costs can be paid, leaving a net profit around $2,000,000. These figures show the financial importance of the strawberry, transportation having been developed to insure each crate will be delivered at the market in prime condition.

The ring to the rip cord of a parachute is placed on the left side, because, it is explained, a falling person always grabs for his heart, and if that's true we should think they would hang the ring right over one's mouth.

President Hoover's doctor has just been promoted to a captaincy in the navy, while President Wilson's medico was an admiral and President Harding's a brigadier general, so, with the present slight downward trend there is still some hope that a buck private may have the pill-rolling privileges on the White House lawn.

Farms on which stills are found will be pad-locked. Thus, between being held secure by mortgages and padlocks, there is little danger of the American farm vanishing.

It is still an open question after all these years of argument whether gentlemen really prefer blondes or merely have low powers of resistance.

Now that dry agents are authorized to seize the makings, bottles, corks, raisins, hops and wash boilers, the farmers are going to be a little timid about planting corn, for fear their motives will be misinterpreted.

Wonder what Mussolini would do if he lost his only collar button and was due to address a banquet in 15 minutes?

Wall Street speculators caught in the present slump may take consolation from the fact that they won't miss their shirts as much as they did last winter.

Wonder where all the bottle flies stay while they're waiting for someone to start cooking a pot of cabbage?

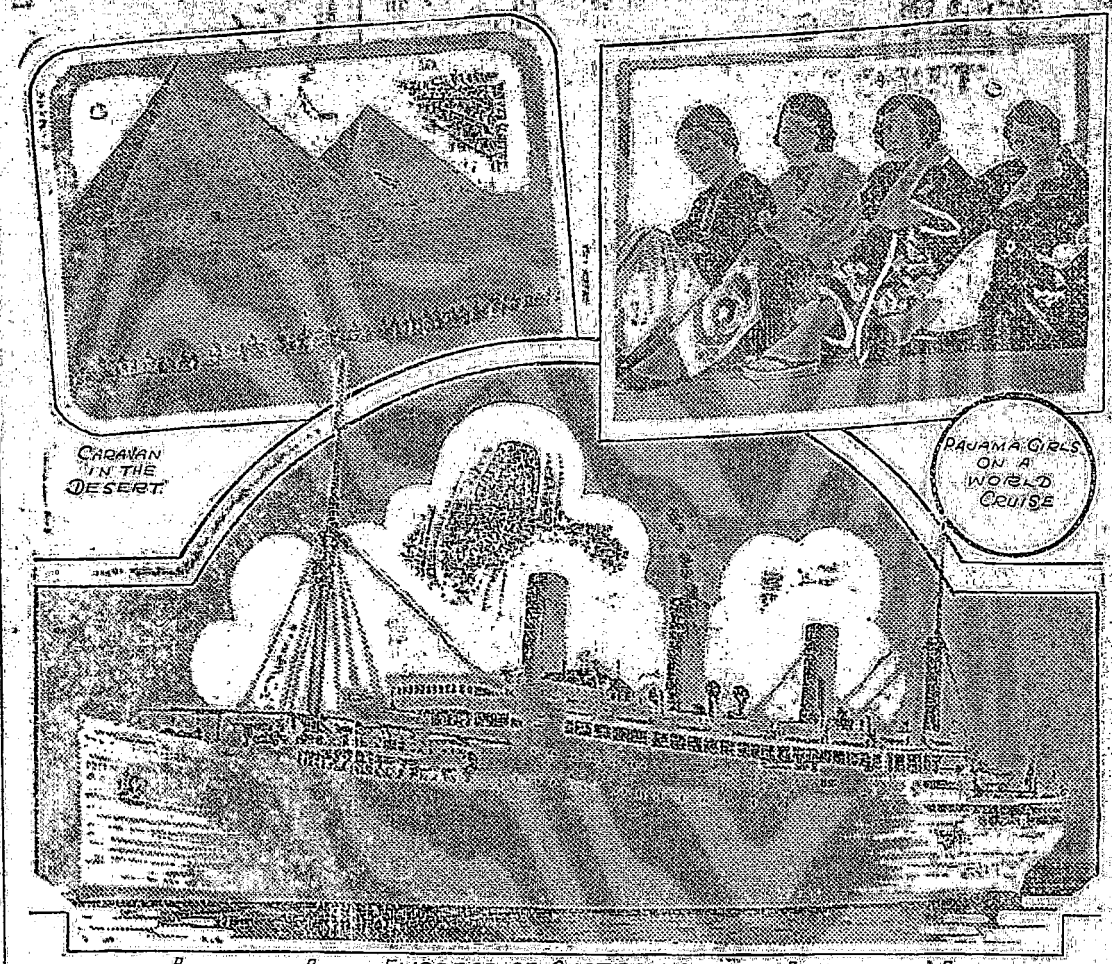

They're building that tariff wall so high that nothing can get over except the Congressional bull.

Students at Ohio University have been found to discuss dates and sex more than anything else and most anyone will agree that the subjects are related.

Empress of Australia, "Dream Ship" of Cruises, To Make Another Globe-Girdling Voyage in 1930-31

In these days of trans-Atlantic flights, radio and other marvels, the various countries of the world are being brought closer together.

Americans are showing a very lively interest in Europe, Asia and other parts of this great universe. "See this world before the next" has become the slogan of thousands not only in the United States but in other lands, and the great steamship companies are doing their best to keep pace with the growing demand for world travel. The Canadian Pacific Steamships, for instance, have announced that they have again designated the 21,850-ton "Empress of Australia," the "dream ship" of cruises, to make her fourth successive round-the-world cruise, leaving New York Dec. 2, 1930, for a voyage of 137 days visiting all ports and places in 21 countries. The Empress will sail eastward from New York, touching first at picturesque Madeira, then Gibraltar, the great British fortress, after which her passengers will see Algiers, Nice, Naples, Pompeii, Athens and other historic places on the Mediterranean, the cradle of civilization. They will spend Christmas in the appropriate setting of the Holy Land, visit far-off India in the cool season, see Japan when she is glorying in a profusion of plum-blossoms, and return to New York via Honolulu, the Panama Canal and Havana on April 17, 1931.

Independent world travel is difficult for the uninitiated, for there are all kinds of details to attend to—baggage, port dues, sight-seeing fees, hotel reservations and so forth, all of which are not only annoying but are none too easy for those unacquainted with the language of the countries visited. On a cruise such as that outlined above, all these details and hundreds of others are arranged by the steamship company which has offices and agents in every country of the civilized world. Thus the globe-trotter is free to enjoy his trip to the utmost, his thoughts dwelling on the strange sights he sees rather than on the burdensome details of travel.

The Old Timer's Corner

Old Timer Tells of Joys of Visit to Old Stamping Ground

Back in the city and not glad and not sorry. I had a good time while out at the home of George and Mrs. Dressler. I spent most of my time "trimming" weeds and thistles around the place and hood the melons and a patch of potatoes that were pretty well gone to weeds and Canada thistles. When I got too hot I would go over under the shade of some big trees in the ravine and cool off. It is great to be a "hired man" without a boss. Ha, Ha. Each morning I would ask George what he wanted done today and he would tell me to do anything I wanted to do, or do nothing at all. Fine. Guess he knew that in that way he would be sure I would do something all right for I never was accused of being lazy. I could have spent another month out there doing things that George hasn't time to do, and been happy doing them, but business was getting away from me here in town, so I had to hike back and I landed here just in time for the "big July thaw" with the temperature ranging from 90 to 110 degrees, night and day. But we have electric fans, thank the Lord and sometimes the weather here has been moderated by a good cooling wind off the lake, which is the case today, or else I would not be writing this letter. Sunday it was too hot to even think. We intended to go for a little trip in the country, but decided to stay in front of the fans, instead. Early this morning the wind shifted around from off good old Lake Michigan and right away we began to live again. Speaking of melons, I wish it was time to go out in the "patch" and help yourself to ripe water-melons, etc. I have an invitation from one or two friends over home that I will be welcome to visit their "patch" this fall when things are right, and believe me I will be the "little yellow haired boy" who will be on the job and don't forget that. It seems funny that when we were kids we liked always to get melons from some other patch besides our own. They always seemed to taste better than our own. Why is that? Same reason that the old saying tells about: "the pasture is always greener on the other side of the fence," guess.

I thoroughly enjoyed seeing many old friends, while over in the vicinity of Buchanan, and am glad that I had the chance to talk to old friends. I got to see many old friends at the annual picnic but there are a lot of the ones that I want to see most, that do not come to the picnics, so I had to go to their farms and look them up. Some of these are: Charles Richman, Will and Charles "Humboldt," Emory Roughton, Harry "Boots," Bob, Franklin and many others. I presume that you all noticed the article in the Record a week or two ago, regarding the picnic of Buchananites held in Los Angeles. I read it and was glad to see a move in the right direction on their part. They were started in and four of the railway boys it last year, when Lee Mead of the Chicago-Buchanan Society and his wife, were vacationing on the west coast, and they suggested it. I think, with the help of some of their friends, got a bunch together for a day and had a regular old-fashioned Chicago-Buchanan society affair. Fine. More power to them.

You may, and you may not, know that this society of ours over here is the only one of its kind in existence, or was until this bunch got started out in California. There are all sorts of "state" and college societies here and elsewhere, but ours is the only one that gathers its membership from one small city or town. There is no other on record any place, that we can find, and we think it is an honor to the old home town and we figure it also an honor to ourselves to belong to such an organization.

I have been looking into the origin of this society and find it was organized in 1905 or 6, and that Mrs. John Platts, Mr. Mrs. Harry Day and Fannie Curran were the instigators of it. Milton Platts was the first secretary elected, at that time, but we have no records to show whom the rest of the officers were.

So we hasten to send our best wishes to the "branch" society of "ours" out on the west coast, and wish them as good times as we have had, or even better. They have better climate conditions but usually we are fortunate in having ideal weather here at home for our affairs. I have written them a letter of congratulation and hope that we will hear more from them as time goes on.

OLD TIMER.

Forty Years Ago

Issue July 24, 1930

John G. Holmes, editor

The first featherbone was made in Buchanan Thursday afternoon. The first threshing report to reach us was from Mathias Huss, 28 bushels per acre and no smut.

Prof. Swain arrived here with his family of three children and is comfortably settled for the year in the Henry Stroms house on Detroit Street. It is being sold in the eastern part of the state for 78 cents. None has yet appeared on this market, although the threshing machines have been running some time.

Township and county conventions, and caucuses are now in order. Candidates are beginning to show their heads, and the campaign will be on shortly.

Efforts are being made to start another furniture factory that shall utilize, their old Excelsior building and power. May the effort be crowned with success.

229 tickets were sold here to the Harvest Fair at Michigan City, their part. They were started in and four of the railway boys sleighs, steam velocipedes, wind-mills, water tanks, furniture, oil cans and featherbone. Boom—the town.

The Gazette Publishing company have rented the rooms in the Ross & Pears building over Weaver's Clothing Store for a term of five years at a rental of $100 per year. It is the expectation of the company to put a small wheel in the old mill stream to furnish power for driving their presses, using a cable to transmit from the wheel to the press room. It will be a convenient arrangement, should nothing occur to call for the old mill and its power.

Mr. W. A. Runner has bought the property occupied by W. A. Severson, when here on Clark Street for $675. Mr. Runner lived there some time. Dr. Frederick has leased the Dining House, occupied by Mr. Runner and will occupy it as soon as Mr. Runner obtains possession of his newly-bought home.

We have received, from an Indianapolis, claim agent blanks to be filled out for our application for a pension under the new law. As the Great American Unpleasantness occurred when we were but 10 years old, we had supposed our term of service was too short for a pension, but maybe the agent knows better.

Studies Methods

Control of Lake Mich. Sand Dunes

Studies of means of controlling the movements of west Michigan's sand dunes, their normal tendencies upset by the advance of settlement and improvement, will be continued this year under the direction of Professor T. D. Scott of the University of Michigan. It has been announced by the Division of Geological Survey of the Michigan Department of Conservation.

Several years ago rapid development of the dunes belt along the western shore of Michigan, for resorts and recreational purposes and for summer homes began. Most of the dunes are heavily wooded and are especially adapted for such purposes. The clearing off of the timber growth and the excavating and grading for buildings, lawns and roads have enabled the strong westerly winds from across Lake Michigan to attack the dunes in the exposed places.

This is resulting in "blow outs" excavations by the winds of the interior of dunes hitherto fixed by vegetation. The sand from the numerous "blow outs" is carried over to the lee side of the dunes where in many places it is burying houses and cottages, forests and fruit farms. A dune once in motion continues to advance slowly year by year, burying everything in its path unless some way is found to stop it.

Dr. Scott will give special emphasis to methods and means of control. Several of these methods have been suggested or tried out in an experimental way.

Dr. Scott's studies will continue in a limited way until the studies of plants, especially the experiments with control plants, have been worked out. It is expected that this will take two or three years.

The United States census bureau in 1926 reported the Protestant church membership at 36,019,977. The Methodist Episcopal church had 4,080,777.

Behind the question "Who gives this woman to be married," to this man? was the one time accepted belief that a woman was a chattel, like furniture.

NO EXCUSE FOR A "SPITTING HEAD"

There's no need for an aching, itchy, spitting head. At the first warning, take Dillard's Aspirin. Chew it a few minutes. Almost before you realize it, you have checked the pain. It's as simple as that—no tablets and no chewing. There is no unpleasant taste—no choking.

Because you chew Dillard's Aspirin, the aspirin mixes thoroughly with the saliva so that all its soothing qualities are effective quickly, continuously.

Keep a package of Aspirin on hand for quick, harmless relief from the pain of headache, neuralgia, neuritis, etc. It helps break up a cold, soothes, relieves, restores, even cures severe cases of fever, rheumatism, etc. If you digress does not have Dillard's Aspirin send for free sample to Health Products Corporation, Dept. Burglars Don't Seek the Limelight Darkness is their stock in trade. They work by stealth—unheard and unseen—their movements cloaked in secrecy. It's honest folks that seek the light. They are the only ones who can risk it.

It's the same way in business. The manufacturer or the merchant who is not sure of his goods does not dare to advertise. Advertising would hasten the end of his business career—put him to a test he could not meet.

The man who advertises, deliberately, invites your inspection. He tells you about his product or his merchandise and then lets it stand on its own merits. You can depend on him. He knows his product is good.

That's one reason why it pays to read the advertisements you find in the columns of this paper. It is thru advertising that you are able to keep in touch with the good things that progressive business men are spending their money to introduce and to keep before you.

Advertisements are interesting, instructive and profitable. They throw a powerful light on the very things that concern you most. Read them!

MARKETING IS CHIEF TOPIC ON COLLEGE PROGRAM

FEDERAL FARM BOARD MEMBERS TO ADDRESS FARMERS DAY VISITORS

Charles S. Wilson, of the Federal Farm Board, will tell visitors on the Michigan State College campus Farmers Day, Friday, August 1, some of the aims of the Board and what they plan to accomplish in assisting farmers in bettering marketing conditions.

C. A. Beamer, Blissfield, president of the National Livestock Shipping association will give a speech of dedication for the six new units of livestock buildings which are completed or under construction.

The addition of these buildings to the college equipment will furnish college research men with better and more modern equipment in their search for methods of assisting the livestock producers of the state.

Three barns are built for experimental work with beef cattle, sheep, and horses. Another will house the college beef cattle herd, and the fifth will house the breeding horse herd. The college poultry plant completes the list of new buildings. This plant provides many of the facilities which the poultry department has lacked in their previous work.

Winners of the livestock judging contests held in the morning will be announced during the afternoon program, and the boys' band from the state vocational school will give a band concert.

Europeans Claim Americans Have Poor Ideas on Investment

Since the stock market break of last year all manner of comment and advice has been made about investments and investing. The stock market affected that class of operators who are speculative for quick returns. Some of them were holders in full of their property. The holders in full took a paper loss. The margin traders were largely wiped out unless they could transfer themselves to the class of fully paid owners. The most of the advice that has been given since last year referred to margin traders. They are the short term holders.

Of the other class it cannot be said that they will ever cease stock panics. Sir Joshua Stamp, an eminent English economist, in commenting upon these situations recently said: "I do not see any necessity for stock panic. Stock exchange values should not depend upon an immediate outlook, but on a long distance outlook, and the long distance outlook seems certainly to be as good as ever."

This is the view which has long characterized the foreign investor. They buy for a "long pull," and while they do not always profit by it, they do not get panic-stricken and upset other people's confidence. There have been very marked examples of this class of investors. Take the group of Grand Trunk Railway stockholders. Their ancestors put their money into this property in the early 50's. They were, perhaps, pioneers beyond their time. At any rate they got few dividends. Returns finally ceased. Yet every year these stockholders trooped up to London for the annual meeting, which they attended in person and indulged on the stockholder's privilege of casting out the management. Finally the war broke the railroad, and to keep it going for economic and military uses the government had to take it over, freezing out the stockholders, but they retained their organization, and they are now endeavoring to get some recompense for the underlying interest which their ancestors acquired.

BLACK BASS BITE BEST IN COOL EVENING

FAVORITE GAME FISH DO NOT RESPOND TO BAIT IN HEAT OF DAY

In order to make a successful catch of black bass during the extreme warm period of midsummer, it is necessary to do your fishing late in the evening and at night. Daytime fishing may prove successful off and on, especially when the sky is overcast, just before or after a rain. The fish lay deep in warm weather during daylight and are usually found lory and unwilling to bite.

"Late evening" fishing is thrilling," declared George B. Scott, executive of the Lezak Walton League of America and one of the best known anglers in the country. In a recent interview on the habits of piscatorial life during midsummer. "There is a certain appeal to casting your bait out over the waters, then waiting for it to drop with a light splash as it lands somewhere out there in the darkness. The shore-line is merely a darkened object and one must judge to the best of his ability how far to cast. The rushes, weed beds and snags cannot be seen clearly and by remembering as well as possible the outline of the shores little difficulty results from snagging your line."

An anti-backlash reel of the lever-winding type is best adapted for night fishing, as such a reel eliminates the necessity of spooling the line and also automatically retards the spinning reel-spool as the lure strikes the water. It is almost impossible to determine the exact moment when the bait is about to strike the surface when fishing on a dark night and a reel that handles the situation for you is naturally the best kind to use, especially for the occasional fisherman who is not an expert caster.

The bass feed close to the surface at night and are found in among the reeds and rushes or in the thick lily pads. If the lake is deep, the fish are usually located close to shore or on the bars that extend out from a point of land. Shallow lakes, however, will produce good catches in almost every section where the weeds are thick.

Says That State Has Very Valuable Agricultural Land

Albert Stoll, in the Detroit News recently, called merited attention to the state's policy with regard to lands whose titles have fallen in to it by reason of defaults in tax-paying. The state has many millions of rich acres. They are assorted and those which are contiguous to state forests are added to them. In addition much land on which taxes were paid have been bought by the state for additions to forest areas. On these a small local tax is paid by the state, but not enough to maintain the county and town organizations as they should be. The situation is causing many complications.

Mr. Stoll's idea that the state should endeavor to sell more of these lands has much merit, many body who has traveled interior Michigan for the past 20 years will recognize that agriculture has encroached on the forest area, northward, by about two or three miles a year. This is proof that the lands are not barren. As drainage has come from the making of state highways, lands whose principal fault was lack of drainage have been given their preliminary fitting for agriculture. These lands, many of them, produce the best grass crops in the world. They are, therefore, becoming available for the pasturage of cattle and sheep. They are producing beans and sugar beets. The lands which lie beyond them and are, in great areas, state lands, ought to do as well. Of course there will have to be pioneering, but there has been pioneering in every agriculture area in Michigan.

Mr. Stoll's idea is that the state offer these lands for sale, and catalogue them so that adventurous pioneers may know where they are. As fast as such lands are sold they would again become tax-payers. That is what is needed most in many northern counties.

IT'S THE TRAINING TABLE THAT SETS THE STROKE

By Richard Glendon, Jr.
(Coach of the Columbia University
Crew Inter-Collegiate Champions, 1929)

IN the old days, when a coach was looking around for a place to locate his training camp, he usually spotted a hotel or boarding house that specialized in corned beef and cabbage, for corned beef and cabbage was the plus ultra of training fare in the "dear and fortunately dead days." And yet, while the men stowed away as much of Jiggs' favorite dish as they could hold, they were allowed only a limited quantity of water. The idea, then, seemed to be to stuff 'em, and then bring them to a keen, competitive "edge" quickly through sweat and lots of purgatives. Needless to say the after results were anything but desirable.

Today a coach goes about bringing his men into shape in just the opposite fashion. I always start the men as early as possible, so that there will be no need for last minute, intensive grinding to bring them to the "peak."

The more gradually a man can build up his stamina and drive, the more effective he will be and the less apt to go stale. Balanced against the necessary meat in our crew diet is always an impressive assortment of leafy and fibrous vegetables, the cellulose or bulk of which promotes intestinal hygiene and helps carry off the residual poisons in a normal and healthy manner. This same "veg-

no coach of any sport has ever rocketed into a deserved place of such national-wide prominence in such a short time as has "Dick" Glendon. Son of an illustrious father who has guided Navy crews to so many stirring victories in past years, the younger Glendon after temporarily replacing his father at the Naval Academy, came to Columbia just four years ago. In those four years he has completely rejuvenated rowing at Columbia, his freshmen winning in 1926 and his varsity chalking up two wins and a second in the next three years. Realizing the supreme importance of conditioning in such a grueling race as the 4 mile race at Poughkeepsie, we have asked Mr. Glendon to tell us something of the training requirements imposed on a crew man, particularly in regard to what he may and may not eat.

—EDITOR.

stable effect" is achieved, also, through use of certain cereals such as rice, bran, and corn. Whole rice is especially ideal in that it is not only highly palatable, but also forms a bulk whose smooth texture is kind to the tenderest of lining membranes.

When the first call for crew is made, early in the year, I find the men in all sorts of conditions. There are always a few conscientious ones—would that their number were larger—who report in excellent condition; but there are others who have to start from scratch every year. These men I watch with particular care to see that their physical grooming keeps pace with the early spring workouts. Nothing whips such men into shape more quickly or more effectively than a diet which keeps appetite at a keen edge and works off, sanely and normally, the residues collected during the athlete's lay-off period of inactivity.

When eight men swing their shell in line for the 4 mile grind at Poughkeepsie, these men should be carrying in their stomachs nothing but energy supplying foods. They will call upon—and need—every ounce of reserve they can carry before they pass the finish marker. Naturally, the men in the best condition to meet this exacting demand upon energy are those whose training has removed from the body all the dead weight and useless residues.

One hears a great deal of talk—and sees much written about the stroke used by this or that crew. Naturally, each coach teaches his men the stroke which he believes, through experience, will be most apt to drive his colors out in front and keep them there. But no type of stroke in the world is worth a plugged nickel, if the men manning the oars have not been properly conditioned to set a winning pace and then have the stamina and reserve energy to hold it.

A sensible diet then, which includes plenty of roughage, cellulose or bulk (choose your own name for it) is as necessary in the long training grind, as the actual work-outs in the racing shells, for a crew man needs every ounce of usable foods that he can store in his body. When the coxswain increases the beat for the final spurt, it takes a perfectly trained human machine to stand the gauntlet.

State College Plans Erection of New Buildings

Considerable construction is in prospect at East Lansing. Two buildings, involving expenditure of $500,000, are to be erected on the Michigan State College campus, while a business block to cost between $25,000 and $50,000 is also planned. The college buildings are a women's dormitory, specifications for which are now being completed by a Detroit architectural firm, and an animal disease research and anatomy building for which $100,000 of state funds were released.

The business block is being planned by V. M. Shoemaker and F. W. Fabian on property at the northwest corner of M. A. C. and Grand River avenues. The building is to contain 11 store locations, according to the tentative plans drawn by Harold Childs, architect.

State No Power Over Motor Boats On Inland Lakes

Following a ruling from the attorney general that the department of conservation has no authority to regulate in any way the operation of motor boats on inland lakes, the Oakland county board of supervisors has taken action on complaints of county residents by adopting an ordinance placing severe restrictions on the operation of motor boats on the inland lakes of that county. The signature of Gov. Fred W. Green will be necessary to make the ordinance effective.

The department is constantly receiving complaints from property owners along these lakes, but according to the ruling only the county boards of supervisors because of the absence of state legislation, have authority to make regulations.

LIBRARY AND CITY OFFICE TRANSFERRED

New Council Room and Public Comfort Stations are Ready for Use.

LIBRARY OPEN MONDAY
Up-To-Date Regulations for Borrowing Books to Be Enforced.

The city library and seat of government are being transferred this week from the old location on Main Street to the fine new quarters at 105 West Front Street, where the library will be opened to the public about the first of the week.

The city commission chamber in the rear of the library is now ready for occupancy and its fine new appointments are in keeping with the dignity of the city government. A new maple floor has been installed, with a raised platform for the mayor's seat and table. The old chairs taken from the former council chamber over the city jail have been repainted and a number of opera seats taken from the former furnishings of the Princess theatre have been placed around the wall for the use of guests.

The new comfort stations for men and women are now open for public use. That for women is in the rear of the library room and is entered from Front Street. That for the men is at the end of the council chamber and is entered from Oak Street, in the rear of the post office.

City Clerk Harry Post, who is also ex-officio librarian, states that when the library is open the first of the week, all patrons will be required to take out cards and to conform for the future to the regular rules which govern all modern libraries. All minors and non-taxpayers will be required to have their cards signed by a responsible guarantor. A fine of 2¢ per day on all over due books will also go into effect and will be rigidly enforced.

By adding an extra "plane" or wing to a monoplane being constructed in Holland the machine will have its carrying capacity increased from six to 10 passengers in a few moments.

State Studies Cause of Death Among Lake Fish

A multitude of causes, all or most of them closely inter-related, makes the investigation of reasons for fish deaths extremely difficult, and except in isolated cases, little has been accomplished in the way of finding ways and means of reducing the death rate, according to Dr. Carl L. Hubbs, director, and Wendell H. Krull, fish pathologist, of the Institute of Fisheries Research in a report to the Division of Fisheries of the Department of Conservation.

Dr. Hubbs' report was made in reply to a question raised by the Division of Fisheries relative to the reasons for occasionally reported wholesale deaths of fish in some Michigan lakes.

Such trouble is a recurrent condition and seems to be rather general for the lakes of this and other states, Dr. Hubbs' report said. There are differences in the lakes as to the severity and time of these epidemics, which may in turn be attributed directly or indirectly to many causes such as the number of fish in the lake, food supply, temperatures of the water, the physical and chemical conditions of the lakes, breeding grounds and season, age of the fish, parasites and mechanical injuries.

Investigations of this nature cannot readily be isolated and attacked by accurate experimental methods, because of the multifarious inter-related conditions.

"From the present standpoint of our knowledge, the loss of fish during the spring or early summer seems to be inevitable and more or less natural. Whether this can be avoided or be reduced, except in isolated cases, still remains a question. Little can be accomplished in most cases by investigating fish deaths in natural waters. Nevertheless, severe or unusual epidemics should be reported, so as to give some idea of the frequency of the deaths in different lakes, and to yield opportunities for such investigations of natural fish mortality as can be made."
