Ballad in A-Flat
By Haws

It was a parlor in the days when this old town was young
And it might tell of days and ways if it but had a tongue
Two windows opening on the street, a closet far too small
A gas range and a folding bed, a chromo on the wall
A boisterous call from kids at ball, a frolic in the street,
A starter stuck upon a truck, a laugh when lovers meet
A radio beside, below, a radio above;
It scarcely yields us room to live but room and spare to love.
For you and I together it's a heaven blithe and blue.
At twenty-seven-twenty-nine on Dewey Avenue

When dreams come true, then I and you may leave this flat behind;
We'll leave the door and come no more, still it has been kind.
When I grant it us to thrive I am on the make,
We'll have a mansion on the Drive a cot on the lake
A big gay with a balustrade, and a servant three or four;
A chauffeur and a maid, a butler at the door.
And you shall never a finger raise for a thing pan or stitch.
But loaf about with haughty gaze among the idle rich.
And when 'tis so I trust we'll know the love that once we knew.
At twenty-seven-twenty-nine on Dewey Avenue.

BERRIEN PLAN MUSIC FETE IS PRAISED

Favored By State Pedagogues As Less Expensive Than State Contests.

MEET IN TRAVERSE CITY
New York State Plan of Equalization of School Tax Considered.

The Berrien County plan of country-wide music festivals instead of entering high school organizations in state competition with its attendant expense came in for complimentary notice at the conference of high school superintendents of the Michigan section of the North Central Association, according to H. C. Stark, superintendent of Buchanan schools, who attended the sessions held at Traverse City.

A study of costs of secondary education was a main factor of the program, with special reference to the expense involved in sending large bands and glee clubs to state meets. It was the sense of the meeting that the plan adopted here of having country-wide festivals without placing the contestants is an improvement.

Webster Pearce, state superintendent of instruction, gave his state educational program for the coming year.

The distinguished party arrived at 9:40 a. m. having been delayed nearly three quarters of an hour by motor trouble on one of the three large Greyhound buses which were especially chartered for the trip.

A drill team staged a number of well executed maneuvers at the intersection of Main and Front Street the band playing an accompaniment and the chanters singing several selections.

The party went from here to Niles and thence to Cassopolis and Klinger Lake, where they took dinner. In the afternoon they made stops at Sturgis, Constantine and Three Rivers. POLL CLERKS TO RECEIVE WAGE OF $8

Election Clerks and Inspectors Object to Increase in Polling Hours.

FORMER PAY $6 DAILY

The regular remuneration for services as clerk or inspector of election in Buchanan henceforth will be $8 per day according to a resolution placed in the town statutes by action of the city council at their October meeting, as the result of reported complaints on the part of persons previously serving in those capacities.

The basis of complaint has been that while the $6 allowed by the city was on the basis of a daily wage, the clerks and inspectors, as a matter of fact, served 20 hours or two and a fraction days of the September primary. Objection had also been made that the commission had lengthened the period of service by extending the hours of polling from 5 p. m. until 8 p. m. for the 1930 primary and regular election.

Consideration was first given to a proposition to pay the election officials on the basis of a day of eight hours, with each fraction of day counting as full time. After some debate and objection on the part of commission members pleading civic economy, the set pay of $8 was agreed on, regardless of hours served.

The advisability of complying with the regulation requiring parking lights for cars parked on streets at night is indicated by the collision of a car driven by Mrs. William Abell with another parked on West Front Street Tuesday evening, resulting in painful injuries to Mrs. Abell and damages to both cars. Mrs. Abell, who resides six miles south of Buchanan, was driving into town in company with her father-in-law, Carl Abell, entering on Front Street about 6:30 p. m. when rain and darkness combined to make vision difficult. Blinded by the lights of a car coming from the east, Mrs. Abell failed to see another car parked at the side of the street without lights and crashed into it. She received very painful cuts and bruises on her face. Mr. Abell was unhurt.

New Airport Sets Mark For Flying World

The latest remarkable contribution to commercial aviation was officially made in Detroit this week with the dedication of the new Wayne county (Detroit) Airport. A feature of the dedication was airplane rides given two-score pioneer owners of the airport site, one former owner, J. N. Johnson, is 72 years old.

This airport, one of the few adequately equipped airports in the world, was designed and built for the stimulation of commercial flying. Altogether about 400,000 square yards of concrete pavement have been installed in runways, aprons and taxiways, making the airport the best paved in the world.

In order to best serve the needs of commercial aviation as it grows, the Wayne County Airport leases no land to tenants. All structures for tenants are built by the airport, thus eliminating the possibility of ugly, temporary buildings.

Commercial aviation has been further aided by the placement of a series of hard surfaced runways for planes taking off and landing. This feature of construction is growing more and more necessary for large planes with heavy loads of passengers and express matter cause great damage to ordinary cinder, oiled or earth runways. The four concrete runways have a total length of 7,100 feet. These runways, nine inches thick and 100 feet wide, contain enough concrete to pave more than seven miles of 18-foot road.

The entire Wayne county airport was designated, not as a makeshift to meet present requirements, but as an airport with facilities and comforts that will further stimulate public interest and participation. From the planned 200-foot superhighway, leading

YES SIR! That furnace coil takes more coal than you think! WHEN your coal pile seems to shrink faster than you think it should, and you have to fire up pretty heavy on cold days, the hot water coil in your furnace is probably the root of your trouble. Contrary to the common belief that it heats your water, free, heating authorities have proved that the furnace coil, extending into the fire box as it does, not only absorbs heat that you need in your home, but interferes with the proper combustion of fuel to such an extent that much of it is completely lost. And after all, the hot water service you get from your furnace coil isn't very satisfactory, is it? You're wasting enough fuel now to pay for Humphrey Kalamazoo Automatic Gas Hot Water Service. Booster Day
The members of the student council believe in starting out in year with something big and spectacular. As their first enterprise of the year, they are sponsoring "Booster Day" which is the day of the game with Dowagiac.

Every class, club and organization is expected to be represented in the parade by a float or a banner. The most ingenious of these will win prizes.

The school alone can't make this day a success. If the townspeople give the team a great deal of support the "Booster Day" can be a great success.

Bucaneers Lose to Riley High School Team 12-0

BRADFIELD 11 SHOWS RAPID IMPROVEMENT

Locals Battle Hoosiers on Even Terms Except First and Last Quarter.

FROSH FULLBACK STARS

70 Yard Run to Touchdown By Chubb Ruled Out by Game Officials.

A fighting bunch of Bucks went down to defeat at South Bend Saturday at School Field after outplaying and out-scraping their rivals, the Poets from Riley high school, most of the game. The Hoosiers scored once in the first quarter and once in the last quarter.

It was a far different organization than that which took the field a week ago against Waterford. A stouter, harder-driving backfield and a harder-charging line made the locals look like a new team and gave the Wildcats such a taming that they looked like a bunch of eight day old kittens. Except for a brief letup in the last quarter the Bucks had the Poets' attack stopped cold, and in the first half ran some powerful plays right through the Hoosiers' stone wall. Mike "Runt" Spadafore, the Bucks' 200-pound fullback, ripped up the enemy line till it looked like a shredded wheat biscuit.

In the first quarter, Chubb intercepted a pass right off the bat and carried it to the Riley 40 yard line. Mike fumbled on the next play and Riley recovered, then marched to the 5 yard line and were halted. Mike punted to the 34 yard line, but a long pass gave the Hoosiers the ball on the locals 10 yard line. Three more plays failed but a lateral pass to Kotzenmacher scored the touchdown. The pass for extra point failed.

At the opening of the second period, the Bucks started right off marching down the field, the 10 yard line. Here Riley held and took possession of the ball on downs. However, when they tried to punt it, DeWitt smashed thru and blocked the punt, recovering it on the 10 yard stripe. Mike made 3 yds. and Chubb took it over, but a Buchanan lineman was offside and the ball was put in play on the ten yard line. Louie Morse made a yard and Mike took it to the 4 yard marker. Fourth down and four yards for a touchdown. Mike smashed off-tackle and was downed just inches from the goal line. Riley punted out of danger.

In the third quarter the Hoosiers kicked off to Hamilton who fumbled, but on the next play Chubb intercepted a pass and scampered 70 yards over the goal line. One of the officials ruled outside, however, and Richie's run went for naught.

In the last quarter the kittens got their eyes open and marched right down to the 12 yard stripe. Kotzenmacher again went around end for a touchdown. "Rip-en-up" Schultz blocked the try for extra point.

Next Saturday, Booster Day, the Bucks meet Dowagiac, a team that always gives the locals a real scrap. But if the Bucks improve as much as they did last week they can walk off with a neat victory.

The Lofter
"Yes," said Mrs. Newkind, "my husband is always careless, he's always losing the buttons off his clothes."

"Perhaps, my dear," replied Mrs. Oldstyle, gently. "It is because they are not sewn on carefully enough."

"That's just it! He's so frightfully slipshod with his sewing!"

Digging in a garden often improves one's philosophy more than the reading of books.

SIDELINE ECHOES

Well, Well! Another defeat for the Bucks. But what a change. Incidentally we thought the Bucks would score once more than the Hoosiers and they did (even though none of them counted).

About the blindest trick pulled was when "Lloyd" Hamilton was tripped by Riley lineman in front of the referee. The play was over and the official stood directly in front of "Lloyd." Mr. Riley, however, proceeded to place his foot behind the Buchanan guard and gently shove him over. The ref had a fly in his eye at the time and didn't see it.

Mike Spadafore, known to the locals as "Runt", looked pretty good in his first game. A little more experience should develop him into a pretty tough line-buster. Some of the other backs, including Chubb and Louie Morse, are beginning to show signs of improvement.

The Bucks crossed the goal line three times, were called back on each occasion. In the second quarter, DeWitt blocked a punt on Riley's ten yard line, and then Mike made 5 yards through the line. On the next play Chubb went over the line but a Buchanan lineman was offside and the Bucks were penalized, putting the ball on the ten yard line again. On the last down Mike again carried the ball, this time just falling over the goal. However, the ball was pulled back only inches from the line and Riley punted out.

The third crossing of the great divide came in the second play of the second half. Richie Chubb snagged a Hoosier pass on his own 30 yard line, and ran 70 yards behind perfect interference for what seemed to be a touchdown. The ball was then brought back to the 40 yard line where one of the officials (neither would take the blame for the decision afterwards) ruled that Richie had stepped outside.

The old Buchanan scrap was averted when "Curly" sent the majority of the reserves into the line-up, and they proceeded to pass their way to the Riley 5 yard stripe where the gun halted their journey. Jesse to Chubb and Jesse to Schultz covered about 30 yards in six downs.

Don't think for a minute though that the Hoosiers didn't have a real team. They were good.

With such a great amount of improvement as the Bucks have shown in the past week, one can hardly give them anything but the edge on Dowagiac. The Chiefs are always tough, but so are the Bucks. If Buchanan plays like they did against Riley High they should "take" Dowagiac by two touchdowns. See you all at the Booster Day game!

Wanted—An armchair, so as to lessen the danger of my falling out of my seat in the fourth hour study. It's rather embarrassing and quite uncomfortable to continually find one's self adorning the floor. An armchair of any description will be greatly appreciated.

—Marie Reese.

Woe be it to those that are late. That well-remembered session, ninth hour, has again been established for the benefit of those who delight in arriving late to their classes.

As a result of this drastic measure there has been a steady decrease in the list of tardy ones.

Each member of the faculty has had to undergo an interview lately from one of the students of Miss Hanlin's journalism class. We wonder which it was the harder for the interviewer or the interviewed.

Quite a large crowd attended the Buchanan-Riley high game at South Bend last Saturday.

Youths of Vancouver, Wash., gained weight while competing in endurance wood splitting contests.

Local Speakers to Defend Affirmative in Opening Trial Tilt.

CHAIN STORE IS THEME
State Interscholastic Debate On Effect of System On Public Interest.

The Buchanan high school debating team will hold its first practice tilt with the Niles high school in the auditorium at that place on the evening of Friday, Oct. 17, the local team taking the affirmative, "of the state question: Resolved, That chain stores are detrimental to the interests of the State of Michigan."

The Buchanan squad is composed of green material this year with the single exception of Marvin Gross, who participated in one debate as a freshman last year. The team which will face Niles will be composed of Pauline Van Every, Phil Hanlin and Marvin Gross. Lee Donley and Donald Burrus are the substitutes.

The schedule of practice debates for the Buchanan school team are to be as follows: Niles, Oct. 17; Berrien Springs, Oct. 24; Water-vliet, Nov. 7; Niles, Nov. 14.

The preliminaries for the state championship will be held Nov. 21, the semi-finals on Nov. 25 and the finals on Dec. 5.

Citizenship Class
Membership Grows

The citizenship class has grown from ten to twenty-three in the last month, under the leadership of Mrs. Whitman. The class was organized to create better citizens and to help the pupils to see others' mistakes, and how to correct them.

The class at present is working on the subject of the nation and the problem the foreigner creates. Also many subjects are assigned for research work. This helps to awaken the class to discussion and in so doing the greatest profit is reaped.

Debating Class
Studies Subject In S. B. Library

Two visits have been made to the South Bend library by the debating class and already the debaters are preparing their speeches for the coming debate at Niles.

The first three debates, which are county practice debates are scheduled for Oct. 17, 24, and 31. The first state league debate will be held Nov. 17.

There are only five members out for debate including Marvin Gross, Donald Burrus, Phil Hanlin, Lee Donley and Pauline Van Every.

Girls Practice To Make Class Soccer Teams

All girls are busy working to make their own class team in soccer. Monday and Wednesday night classes given to the freshmen and sophomores, while Tuesday and Thursday nights are practice nights for juniors and seniors. Four practices are required for each girl.

Upon completion of this preparation the election of captains will take place.

Journalism Class
Studies the Best Papers in Nation

Members of the journalistic writing class, under the leadership of Miss Helen Hanlin, are doing extensive work with newspapers. They have analyzed several of the outstanding newspapers of the country and expect to do likewise with many more, and perhaps later in the year study some foreign papers.

These papers have been analyzed and criticized to "help" the class to distinguish between a good newspaper and a poor one.

Besides studying newspapers, the students have been writing journalistic articles to prepare themselves for future work which they will be expected to do for the Microphone.

"Nothing happens by chance," Mr. Staver said. "Back of the Bible miracles there is something responsible for them. No effect is ever produced without a cause. Rain falls from above and the wind blows. These are not chance occurrences. Back of the storm, and back of everything, is a cause. Happiness doesn't just happen. Joy doesn't just drop from the sky, but all are affected. Laws have been obeyed and proven out. If we want to be happy, know joy, have peace and have character, we must fulfill the law and be obedient to the cause which is in back of everything."

"Some men thirst after fame, some after love, and some after money," "I know something that all thirst after," "What's that?" "Salted almonds."

GRABBED THE MACE

John Beckett, a left-wing Labor member for Camberwell, England, was responsible for the worst scene witnessed in the English parliament in 300 years when he seized the golden mace—symbol of parliamentary authority—from the table before the speaker's chair. Hoisting it across his shoulder with the cry, "Mr. Speaker, it's a d—n disgrace!" he marched toward an exit.

The indignity to the prestige of the house shocked the members and they booed and hooted the offender and later suspended him by a vote of 320 to 4.

Helen, George Spatta
Present High School Colosseum Picture

Helen and George Spatta, freshmen in high school, have presented the school with a large picture of the Colosseum in Rome. The picture has been hung in Miss Shriver's language room. It is about three feet, four inches long, and two feet, six inches wide. The gift is greatly appreciated by the entire school and especially by the Latin students.

Mechanical Drawing
Student Constructs Aeronautic Designs

The mechanical drawing classes are progressing quite rapidly under the direction of Mr. Miller. The beginners of mechanical drawing study geometric construction entirely, while those who have taken it before have more difficult problems to solve.

Ernest Beadle, who has completed his first year's course, is now drawing some aeroplane plans which are very interesting.

New material, such as triangles and T squares, have been received lately.

History Student
Illustrates Lesson Reaction in Verse

The general history classes are pretty well crowded this year. There are sixty-seven pupils enrolled in the classes to date.

The following poem was submitted by a member of the 10th grade history class as the pupil's reaction to the story of Egypt:

EGYPT
Sleepy rises the ancient sun, over the slumberous banks of the Nile, Slowly opens the lotus flower, showing its glowing hues the while.

Warm is the air on the fertile soil, green are the palms, 'side the cool deep well,
Light blows the breeze o'er the tropic flowers; gently tinkles the camel's bell.

Hot is the sun on the burning sands, far in the distance a pyramid lies;
Silent and grim the great Sphinx stands, staring away with inscrutable eyes.

Shorthand Class
To Enter Members In Gregg Contest

The shorthand 12 class has an enrollment of thirteen this year. The class has been taking notes on material in shorthand, manual, and speed studies so far, no original material being attempted.

The organization of a shorthand club has been considered. The aims of the club are to be better work and facility in writing.

The class is planning to have several entrants for the Gregg contests in speed and accuracy to be held this coming spring. It is hoped that Buchanan high school can "bring home the bacon" under the encouraging leadership of Miss Chandler.

Cost of harvesting wheat from combines in Nebraska was from $1.06 to $5.04 an acre.

A Business Index

Col. Leonard P. Ayres, Cleveland economist and statistician, who founded the pig iron index system for stock markets and business trend forecasts, for the first time in months sees enough improvement in the general industrial situation to be somewhat optimistic over the future. While he is careful to amplify his opinions with the cautionary proviso "of the present trend continues," he nevertheless believes that a hardening of the scrap iron market is a forerunner of a similar stiffening of prices and conditions in the steel business generally. Steel, one of the basic industries, is a hinge on which swings a wide section of our business conditions, and if the industry improves as Col. Ayres now thinks it will, business as a whole will benefit.

Credit for very largely saving the steel situation this year to date is given by the Cleveland economist to the large gas and oil interests which have been buying pipe in amounts hitherto unprecedented in industrial history. One company alone placed orders for some $40,000,000 of pipe and other orders ranged down to $14,000,000. This pipe, destined for lines that ultimately will be almost 1000 miles long each, is being delivered at present to the east, the middle west and the southwest, where lines are being built from the Texas Panhandle to Chicago and on through to the Indiana state line, and from Kentucky and West Virginia, to Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington.

Since the summer steel activities in the past have largely been dependent on the demand from the automobile manufacturers, the year would have been dull, indeed, without these pipe orders. The sharp curtailment in the world of automobile making caused a shrinkage in steel production that would have established low post-war records had not the pipe demands stepped in to make up for the decreased auto purchases.

Now, general conditions are swinging toward normal, Col. Ayres believes, and a slow, but steady, recovery is the outlook for the future.

Minnesota Plans Ahead.

In Minnesota an effort is being made to find a method whereby excessive unemployment in that state may be prevented this winter. Back of the movement to prepare for an expected emergency is Minnesota's governor, Theodore Christianson, who believes that the best way to prevent a future difficulty is to get ready for it in advance. What governor Christianson is doing is nothing more nor less than grasping the thistle firmly, which, it has been said, is the best way to pluck one.

Several general outlines of what may be the best way to control unemployment are being advanced in that state, the most persistent of which is a shorter working day for labor. The governor has indicated that he now favors that plan. Among a great many economists that thought has been entertained seriously as a permanent remedy for the evils of unemployment. Because the machine is throwing more and more men out of work and because for years the praises of the machine have consisted almost wholly of the promise of more leisure for the workingman, a lessening in the number of hours worked by each man persists as a solution to both technological and emergency unemployment.

Employers within the next few years will be faced with the problem, and they might as well go into it thoroughly. To turn aside from the suggestion without investigation will not answer the assertion that it is the only solution to unemployment. To investigate it honestly may be to reveal a method for a new and more steady era of prosperity.

Rockefeller, Jr., on Homes

As a business adventure along new lines John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has expended about $6,000,000 in building 81 new homes, a number of apartment houses and some business blocks on a portion of his vacant property in Cleveland. The property is for lease or sale, preferably the latter. It is not a charitable enterprise but a business activity of an unusual sort.

He has sought to provide desirable homes for those with a fair amount of ready money and ability to purchase modern residences. Others are less costly and suit those who are undertaking home buying for the first time and without waiting to accumulate the money to pay half the price in cash.

The Cleveland activity is a variation of his model tenement building in New York that has commanded attention during recent years. It tends to eliminate slums if carried out in a large way. A friendly response by the public in these better building enterprises is desirable because they bring modern homes within reach of people who have been forced to live in unpleasant quarters. Things that contribute to development of the home spirit are valuable to a community, and an increase in home owners adds firmness to the foundations of a city.

Weather and Its Prophecies.

The goosebone weather prophets will be out shortly with their predictions for the coming winter. It is easy to guess that after a summer extraordinarily hot and dry that there will be prognostications a-plenty which foresee a long, cold and wet winter. But goosebone weather prophets to the contrary the official records of the U. S. weather bureau hold no basis for the belief that compensatory cold follows undue heat, and the records stretch over a period of 50 years.

The vagaries of the weather are such that they cannot be accurately foreseen for very far into the future although scientists as well as backwoods observers attempt it. There are some geologists in the United States who believe they see a series of warmer summers coming as a result of the recession in the far north of the last of the great ice caps which covered this part of the world in the most recent glacial age. If they are right our summers will be hotter than the one just past and our winters will be warmer.

But so far as is certainly known there is no season to expect other than a normal winter this year. If it is exceptionally cold the coincidence will only serve to strengthen the beliefs of some people in the wholly unscientific theory that the weather balances itself by becoming unbearably cold following an unbearably hot spell.

The Services of Morrow.

Both the United States and Mexico are better off for the diplomatic service rendered there by Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, who quits his post in the sister republic with the satisfaction of having earned the gratitude of both nations. He has helped clear away questions that were obstacles to friendly understanding between the two countries. In his farewell address he spoke of the greatly improved means of communication across the borders and said there should be developed by this more intimate contact a finer feeling that would make for continuing happy relations.

Mexico is extremely rich in mines and forests, has vast undeveloped agricultural possibilities, is a natural market for the products of American industry and has great stores of products the United States can use and should have. Mexico needs the friendship of a strong neighbor as she moves out of her unhappy conditions toward the betterment that is in prospect.

Ambassador Morrow has helped establish peace and open the lanes of trade and business. He made a brilliant record. The Morrow policies should be continued.

A Practical Gift.

A fine illustration of practical philanthropy is provided by the successful campaign of a year ago to reduce illiteracy in four southern states for a more favorable census showing this year.

Nearly a quarter of a million illiterates in Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina and Louisiana were taught to read and write, an accomplishment made possible through the funds contributed by Julius Rosenwald of Chicago, who duplicated the sums raised by the states themselves for the purpose.

It is only another example of the many wise and utilitarian avenues in which Mr. Rosenwald has spent of his fortune, within his own lifetime, for the immediate benefit of mankind.

Saving Mammoth Cave.

Mammoth Cave, that great natural wonder in Kentucky, is to be saved as a national asset by being placed under the control of a national park association. Places of outstanding scenic beauty and the oddities nature has supplied should be taken over in the name of the public and saved for those who are to follow in the years to come.

The country is building more good highways each year, the manufacturers are supplying better and more comfortable motor cars, the American people are learning the importance of vacation and seasons of play, and the need for the playgrounds for the people becomes greater and more impressive each year. Mammoth Cave is a notable acquisition.

A girl with pretty knees never complains about the wind blowing.

As unconcerned as a 4 year old boy about the unwiped status of his nose.

"The wicked flee when none pursueth," but it's a good idea to keep in practice.

Automatic controls for airplanes must be about the same thing as a one-armed driver in an auto.

An old-fashioned man was one who didn't compliment a girl on her figure until after they were married.

Wonder if it's coincidence or what that makes our pastor, who has no radio of his own, drop in casually for a little chat on spiritual affairs whenever there's a prize fight being broadcast.

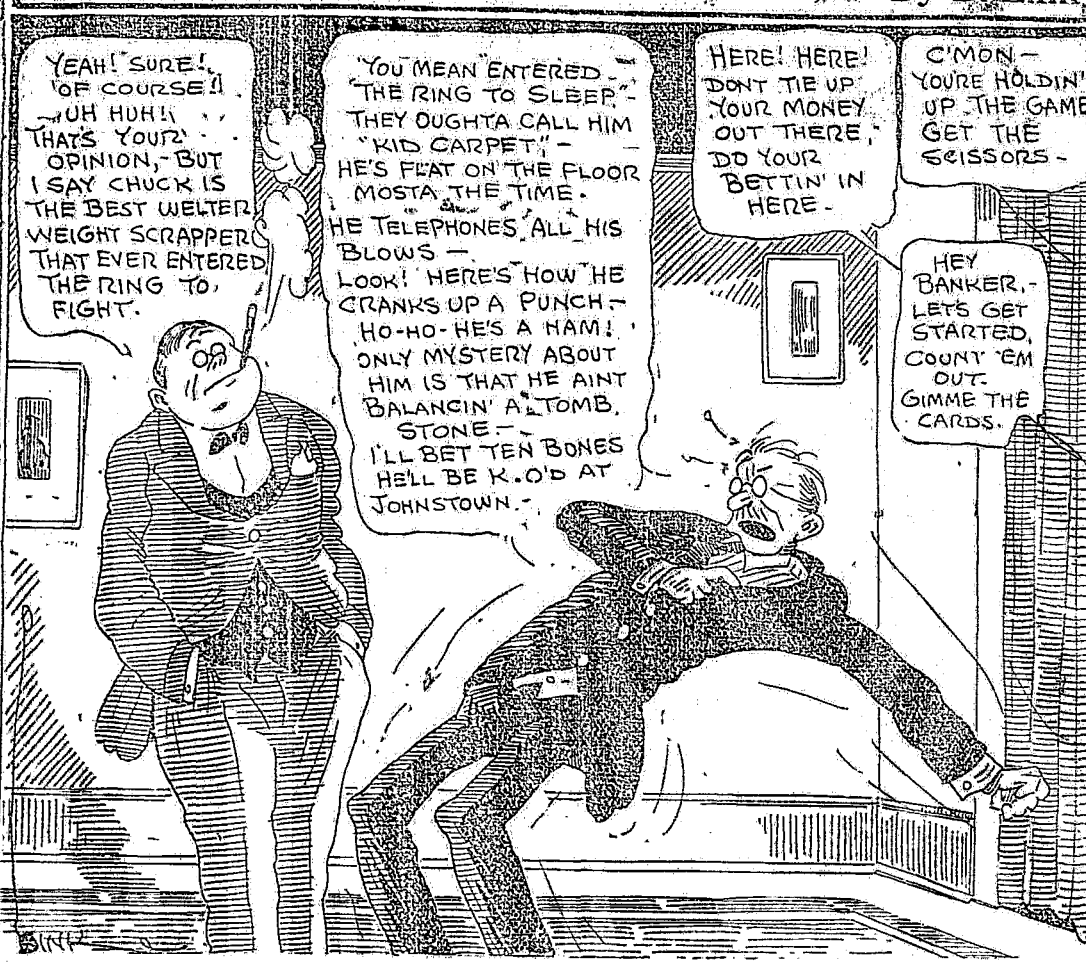

From the pictures of the dancer that New York judge was out with the day before he disappeared, we figure maybe he's out buying her some clothing.

Almost every day one sees items in the paper which should be a solemn warning to all girls to be careful about marrying strangers.

As civilization makes headway toward the ideal state the demand increases for more, bigger and better prisons.

FLINT TEAM BREAKS HORSE PULLING RECORD

LANGELY AND WEATHERMAN TEAMS SET WORLD MARKS AT COUNTY FAIR.

An opportunity to see two world's records broken the same day was presented to the audience which watched the horse pulling contests supervised by members of the animal husbandry department of Michigan State College at the Hillsdale county fair.

Previous performances of the heavy teams at other fairs made it probable that the record for their class would fall but the pulling ability of an untried lightweight team was a complete surprise to those in charge of the contest.

The new heavyweight record of 3575 is held by a team of Belgians owned by R. F. Langley, Flint, and the lightweight honors were annexed by a Percheron team whose owner is Wayne Weatherman, Cement City.

The Langley team had broken the Michigan pulling record at two previous fairs but the Percherons had never pulled in a contest before.

A pull of 3575 pounds on the dynamometer is equal to keeping a load of 119 tons moving on a level pavement and is also equal to pulling nine 14 inch plows set five and one-half inches deep.

MARY MARLEY GRAHAM Mary E. Marley, daughter of George and Christine Marley, was born in Buchanan township, Berrien county, Mich., Oct. 6, 1875.

Funeral services were conducted at the Church of Christ by the Rev. J. L. Griffith Monday, Oct. 6, at 3 p. m. Burial was made in Oak Ridge cemetery.

MRS. EMMA LAKE Mrs. Emma Lake, age 54 years, five months, three weeks and four days, passed away in her home on River street at Buchanan, Michigan, Friday afternoon at 12:45 o'clock, following an heart attack.

She was born in DeWitt county, Ill., April 8, 1876, the daughter of Joseph and Hester Ackerson.

December 20, 1895, she was united in marriage to Henry Lake and has spent 34 happy anniversaries.

ner and Mrs. Hester Warner, of Dowagias; one sister, Mrs. Ruth Baker of Clinton, Ill.; two brothers, James and Edward Ackerson of Buchanan, seven grandchildren and several other relatives and friends.

Professor Says Low Birth Rate Hurts Business

The declining birth rate is affecting business, Prof. Paul N. Nystrom of Columbia university told the Boston conference on retail distribution.

The relative decline in the number of infants and children in the total population is already producing a definite effect on production and distribution, Prof. Nystrom said. It affects, he said, not only the demands for children's clothing, furnishings, shoes and the like, but also the demand for food, home furnishings, toys, books and school supplies.

Prof. Nystrom sounded a warning for manufacturers and retailers that if they did not watch the change in demands they were certain to make miscalculations.

The birth rate decline, Prof. Nystrom reminded, was most rapid among people with higher standards of living. A noteworthy fact in this connection, however, he said, was that in families maintaining high standards of living the supply demand has decreased but the desire for better quality has increased. The demands for low priced goods remained about the same, he said.

How to Kill Enemies of Peach In Michigan

Two insect enemies of Michigan peaches are causing considerable damage in state orchards and growers are advised to use control measures suggested by the entomology department of Michigan State college to reduce the losses caused by the Alabama moth and the lesser peach borer.

The Alabama moth is a small, clay-colored moth which scrapes holes in the skins of peaches to enable it to feed on the fruit pulp. Rot organisms enter the openings made by the moth and the peach decays. The peaches should be picked while they are a trifle green, before they are attractive to the moth, and the picked fruit must be carefully covered to prevent attacks after it is taken from the tree.

The lesser peach borer injures the larger branches and the upper portions of the trunk of peach trees. This borer cannot be controlled by ordinary treatments with paraffin or kerosene, but a paint made by mixing one pound of this chemical with two quarts of crude cottonseed oil kills the borers when the mixture is painted upon the infested wood in late fall or early spring. The removal of loose bark and gum from the areas to be treated aids in the destruction.

The Alabama moth is a migrant from Mexico and Central America, which reaches Michigan in years when spring is early in the tropics and fall is late in Michigan. The insect attacks cotton in the south and the larvae is known as the cotton worm.

Autumn Colors Correct Shades For This Season

Women indulging in orgies of house cleaning and redecorating this fall might get inspiration for their color schemes from the autumn landscape and not be far from the shades regarded as "correct" this year. They include for living rooms copper shades, rose henna, green, gold, blue-green, rust and egg plant. For dining rooms hand blocked linens in many colors, tan and brown linens, and other fabrics, Rosewood, ly infected by the borer that the branches are dying should be removed and burned to prevent the migration of the borer to other trees. Orchardists who pile brush in their orchards for use in building smudge fires should never use brush taken from fruit trees.

Cherry and peach trees are attacked more frequently than other Michigan fruit trees.

White Seals, Long Regarded as Myth Found in Pacific

The existence of white seals, heretofore regarded as mythical, was reported by the San Diego

Zoological society's expedition after its return from Gaudelupe Island, off the Mexican coast.

Members of the party reported white seals had been found on the inaccessible rocks of an outer islet where landing was impossible. They were unable to obtain a specimen.

The expedition set out to hunt for stragglers of the now rare species of Townsend fur seal, once plentiful around Guadelupe. No specimen of the Townsend seal was found.

It is not often that a man can make opportunities for himself. But he can put himself in such shape that when opportunities come he will be ready to take advantage of them.

The Old Timer's Corner

Old Timer is Now Moved Into New Chicago Quarters

The thing that struck me, yesterday, while taking a little drive out in the country, was the lack of the usual color in the leaves this fall. They are simply turning brown and falling off, but the bright colors that usually accompany that process, is almost entirely lacking. Now we know what causes that, a lack of rain, of course, mainly, and the poor things are simply drying up and falling off, at their usual period, while they really ought to turn red and gold and purple and all colors, and make for a beautiful display, for their last fling of the season. It is disappointing to us in the city, as well as you who live among the trees and see all the gorgeous sights that accompany nature in colors etc. We have had so little rain that we cannot expect the trees and nature in general, to show the lack of it, in shedding their leaves for the season.

To some this season is "sad." Not to me. It simply means maturity. A child that is born must, if he lives, become a group up, and we do not usually cry because the boy or girl grows up, although it is too bad that they can't stay young longer, for they miss so many troubles and heartaches while they are kids. But it is the law of nature, and we have to just face it and make the most of it. Not with sadness, to me, for I am usually proud to see the boy or girl of yesterday turning into useful manhood and womanhood, and so I am glad to see the ripened corn, the garnered wheat and grain and the summer's work well taken care of, the tools all cleaned up and put aside, and things taking on a mature aspect that comes with the hibernating period of cold weather. It means long winter evenings before a roaring wood fire with hot buttered pop corn and red apples and cider. Hominy for supper and wheat cakes and maple syrup for breakfast, with fried sausage and fresh eggs. Sleigh rides, skating, parties and all the joys of winter weather. So why should I be sad about it? It can't be green and growing always. Even in the growing places where it never freezes, such as Florida and

Christian Science Churches

"Unreality" was the subject of lesson sermon in all Christian Science Churches, Sunday, Oct. 5.

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following taken from the Bible: "Fear ye not, neither be afraid; have not I told thee from that time, and have declared it? Ye are even my witnesses. Is there a God beside me? Yes, there is no God; I know not any." (Isa. 44:8.)

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Beggings in error, the error of believing that matter can be intelligent for good or evil, we can catch clear glimpses of God only as the mists disperse, or as they melt into such thinness that we perceive the divine image in some word or deed which indicates the true idea, the supremacy and reality of good, the nothingness and unreality of evil." (p. 205)
