City Commission Adopts New Ordinance Defining Fire Zone Limit

CUTLER WINS OVER MILLER BY THOUSAND

Jesse Boyle Returned to Office by Majority of Over 1300.

AMENDMENTS ALL LOSE Entire G. O. P. State Ticket Wins; Brucker Has 125,000 Majority

Buchanan candidates were returned to office as the result of the general election held Tuesday, Don Pears breaking precedents in Berrien county political history by hurdling the third term jinx and winning over his Democratic opponent, Vincent O'Neill, by a majority placed at 178 at last reports.

Jesse G. Boyle, candidate to succeed himself as state representative from the first district, defeated Julius Krueger, Democrat, by over 1,300 votes.

The surprise of the election to many was the defeat of Charles J. Miller, Republican candidate for sheriff by over 1,000 votes at the hands of his Democratic opponent, Fred J. Cutler of Benton Harbor. Cutler apparently owed his victory to his great popularity in his home city, where he practically secured his margin of victory. Several other precincts in the county apparently reflected the partisanship engendered by the primaries.

Reapportionment Losses The amendment providing for reapportionment of membership in the state legislature carried in Wayne county by a 130,000 majority, only to lose in the state by a majority of 50,000, due to a heavy rural opposition, according to a statement carried by a Detroit paper this morning.

CITY FATHERS AIM MEASURE VS. PEDDLING

Old Ordinance Declared Null on Account Discriminatory License Fees. NEW FEES ARE UNIFORM $50 Per Year, $3 Per Day for All; Selling on Contract Not Included.

A new hawking and peddling ordinance was passed by the City Commission at the November meeting Monday evening, designed to replace the old ordinance which had been declared to be invalidated by discriminatory provisions.

The former ordinance had imposed a license fee of from $2 to $5 per day for peddlers and hawkers, which made it possible for the city authorities to impose a heavier fee on out of town persons. The new ordinance provides for a uniform license fee of $3 per day for all engaged in peddling, hawking or canvassing.

Also persons who are merely canvassing contracting for later delivery are excepted as coming under the Interstate Commerce Commission's jurisdiction.

The ordinance provides for an annual license fee of $50, payable in advance, all licenses so issuing expiring the first day of May unless a previous date is specified, or the license is revoked for cause. No license issued under this ordinance is assignable, and all may be revoked by the City Commission for reasons specified in the text of the ordinance, which is printed entire on another page of this issue.

For violation of any of its provisions, the ordinance provides a fine of not more than $100 or a jail sentence of not more than 60 days, or both at the discretion of the court.

PETITION BOULEVARD LIGHTING

City Commission Postpones Action; Objects to Expense.

A petition signed by a number of residents and property owners on Days Avenue and calling for an extension of the ornamental boulevard lighting system on that street from Central Court to the Michigan Central right-of-way was presented to the city commission at its Monday evening, action being postponed.

It was represented that sixteen additional lights of the boulevard type would be required, with an additional maintenance that members of the commission felt was not advisable at the present time. The terms of the petition provided that the expense of installation would be born by the municipality, whereas, according to commission members, the charter definitely provides that such improvements must be paid for by the property owners on whose premises they are abut.

Members of the commission further objected that the main north and south drive of the city now is Portage Street and that any further extension of the boulevard lighting system should be on that street.

"HE WHO SERVES BEST WILL PROFIT MOST"

In assuming the active management of the Record, I am again refreshing my mind to the fact that a man in business, and especially the newspaper business, is a public servant.

I believe that a newspaper should stand for something in its community. The so called "power of the press" can actually be a working, creative power for good in the territory it serves or it can be left to lie dormant and fail to be a real servant.

The Record will continue to print all that comes under the head of legitimate news, it will help any movement that is for the good of the city of Buchanan and Berrien county, it will try to be of unusual service to the business interests of Buchanan.

On this three-point policy The Record will proceed, trying to serve and hoping to reap the rewards of a good servant.

Dist. Enlarged to Include Part Clark Plant and Addit. Business Blocks.

TO STOP FIRE CHASING Following Fire Engine Within 500 Feet, Parking in Block of Fire Banned.

Fire limits for the city of Buchanan were enlarged to include the greater part of the Clark plant and a number of business houses on the east and a number of business houses on the south of the old limits by an ordinance which was adopted by the City Commission Monday evening and which will go into effect Nov. 18.

The starting point for the description of the newly adopted limits is the southwest corner of the Wallace Hospital lots on Front Street, the boundary running thence north to Dewey Avenue, thence east on Dewey Avenue to the east line of Main Street, thence north eight rods on Main Street, thence east to the Michigan Central right of way, thence along that right of way to the south line of Rynearson Street, thence due west to the alley adjoining the Booster Cigar Store, thence south on that alley to Lot 2, Block M, thence due west to the alley between Days Avenue and Oak Streets, thence north along that alley to Roe Street, thence west on Roe Street to a point directly south of the point of beginning.

On Days Avenue the new southern boundary runs on the south line of the lot on which the McCollum Garage stands. The eastern boundary of the former fire limits passed along the alley adjoining the Niles Star property, and extended only to the Beehive apartments. The ordinance further directs that all buildings erected in the future within the fire limits shall be of incombustible materials. It is directed that all depositories of ashes within the said limits shall be built of brick or other fireproof material.

It is further directed that in case of fire all vehicles shall yield the right of way to the fire trucks and that no private vehicle shall follow any fire truck closer than 500 feet, and that no private vehicles shall be parked within block of the place where a fire is located.

Penalties of not more than $100 fine or not more than 60 days in jail, or both, at the discretion of the court are provided by the ordinance for violation of any of its provisions.

A Law Worthy of Study.

Twenty years have passed since the General Assembly of Indiana passed a law restricting release of convicted individuals on bail pending an appeal to a higher court. The object is to prevent the practice of appealing for the sake of defeating or delaying justice. An individual convicted may ask for release but a court shall not grant bail unless the application makes a showing of a probability of reversal of judgment. The results have been gratifying and nearly ended the captious appeals once numerous. In one year only 13 appeals were made to the supreme court and 12 to the courts of appeal in the state. Releases on bond were granted in about one-half the cases. Appeals cause delay no matter what may be the final verdict, and delay is helpful to men contending with the law. The Indiana law is worthy of legislative consideration in Michigan.

Cotton Acreage Too Large.

Another campaign has been started by the federal farm board for the purpose of interesting farmers in the southern states in reducing acreage for cotton and increasing acreage for other crops. The plans will be presented to the men who have been depending wholly or in large part on cotton growing.

For years experts have urged diversity of crops on the cotton growers in the southern states but without important results. The custom for generations has been to grow cotton and there is hesitancy in adopting a plan that leads away from that crop. With nearly 46,000,000 acres of land planted to cotton last spring there is excess production. It is forcing lower prices in a market already overcrowded.

Agricultural and live stock experts have studied conditions there and their conclusions are available for the farm board. In some sections dairy products and live stock would find a market close by, in other sections different plans would have to be adopted if the cotton fields are to grow new crops promising a profit.

The task of inducing wheat growers to plant fewer acres of wheat is difficult, but no more so than inducing cotton planters to turn to diversified crops. Low prices for wheat and cotton may aid the farm board in trying to decrease planting that would lessen the output and permit normal conditions in the market.

Severe Winter Predicted.

Under the law of averages in the weather department this section of the country may expect much snow and plenty of cold weather during the winter now close at hand, in the opinion of Weatherman Alexander, who has had a long experience in forecasting and is familiar with weather history and records. Michigan and nearby states had a torrid summer. The drought was prolonged and severe. We are short on rainfall and we are far ahead on heat units above the average for the summer. One extreme usually follows another. Even in matters of weather the pendulum appears to swing with regularity, hence the suggestion that it might be well to put extra fuel in the basement and make ready for the grim ordeal of winter. The weatherman may miss his guess but why not take heed of his suggestion and be prepared?

Family Dinners.

This country should revive the fine old custom of having family dinners, when the extension table was pulled out to its limit, relatives and neighbors invited, and a dinner fit for a king served. An appeal for a revival of the art of eating was made at the recent convention of grocers in New York.

The family dinner social custom flourished in the pioneer days. In the modern day of rush and hurry it has lost out. It is too easy to telephone the restaurant and order a dinner for a certain hour.

Most people can recall family dinners where joy reigned and sweet domestic peace was all about. They helped make the home the most popular place known to members of the family, helped build up family life and agreeable understanding. The family dinner has a place all its own and it might be revived with good results.

The Queen's Tears.

Ah, what news the superstitious folk received from the announcement that King Boris and his bride were lost in a storm. Wasn't it just two days ago that the papers told of the terrible storm that raged while the king and Princess Giovanna stood before the nuptial altar, her bridal gown drenched in rain and her cheeks soaked with tears?

It was inevitable that misfortune should come to King Boris and his bride, for superstition tells us, "The Bride Who Weeps on Her Wedding Day Will Find Misfortune in Her Way."

Girls who catch the bride's flowers as she tosses them after the wedding and girls who sleep with a piece of a friend's wedding cake under their pillows know that it is bad luck for a bride to weep on her wedding day. Fortunately the Boris storm was merely an annoyance and not a disaster.

Bittersweet Vandalism.

Most people enjoy gathering, bittersweet in late October when the leaves have fallen and the ovate, red berries, bright and tempting, provide color in a picture where most else is drab. Probably its locations are but the accident of circumstance, but often the finest specimens sighted are secure from human hands. It may be that some high limb has the vine decked with red berries where they cannot be reached, or that may be on a cliff one cannot climb. Much bittersweet is easily accessible.

While the practice of cutting it for home decorations cannot be condemned, people should be reasonable, not slash vines to the point of injury, and bear in mind that a crop is desired again next year.

Doing Things Bigger

In every line of transportation there is the constant cry for something larger, stronger and speedier. Railroads are using locomotives double the size of those a generation ago. Ocean liners under construction are large enough to dwarf all others afloat. This country is having constructed at Akron, O., a naval airship 1100 feet in length, more than twice the size of the Graf Zeppelin. The airplane DO-X, of a size hitherto unknown, has the world guessing now on what all it may be able to accomplish in load, cruising distance and speed.

Let the DO-X come on and show us what she is able to do, let the great liners be completed and put in service, let giant airplanes be sent on their journeys, let size be increased and power multiplied—the public will support these improvements. The world is filled with adventurous people who want to travel on these monster machines and experience the thrill of doing things in a big way.

Expelling Pupils.

When a 14-year-old school girl in Detroit was expelled from school because she smoked cigarettes, she considered herself disgraced and committed suicide. She insisted to her mother she was not guilty.

Those who may feel an interest in this strange story have a right to question the soundness of the judgment of those who ordered her expulsion from school, even if she were guilty of smoking. The right, valid or assumed, to expel a child from school should be exercised only after sober consideration of all the facts.

The cold fact is that expulsion of a child pupil is an admission the teaching staff has failed, or is unwilling to try to handle the case. In either event the blame rests on the teachers identified with the case. While the corner is making his investigation it would be entirely proper for the board of education to make an investigation of the teaching staff at the school the girl formerly attended.

Don't Kill 'Em All.

More than 6,000,000 hunters were licensed in the U. S. last year to make war on the game birds. A large number of licenses will be issued this year and the slaughter will be greater. Next year another war will be waged. How long will the supply of game American hunters held high carnival for years with the buffalo and had the government not interfered, these great animals of the plains would be out of the picture today.

Improvements in this country and Canada make more difficult the problem of life for the wild game birds each year. They need the wild country, the open spaces, where they may nest and rear their young undisturbed. They must have natural protection. As forests are cut and population in the once open spaces is increased, the game birds find their asyllum invaded or destroyed.

Each acre of woodland cleared makes life more hazardous for game birds and wild animals. The custom has been to give to them no thought in making our improvements. Unless we give them protection they will perish.

Some one suggests that divorced women should wear a distinctive ring, with a diamond to indicate each separation, but to prevent cluttering up all the fingers of some of our habitual divorcees it might be more practical for them to wear a gem-studded belt.

The Old Timer's Corner

Old Timer Comments on Lawlessness Increase

Old Timer's Corner
 Glad to see the letter from John Holmes last week. His suggestion for a remedy for drunken drivers is good and I say "amen" to it. I would like to suggest also that along with the good sound whipping he suggests, that they be denied the privilege of either driving or riding in any motor drawn vehicle for the period of from one to five years. I think they would do less damage when drunk if they were forced to walk where ever they wanted to go. Maybe they would get very far and surely they would do less damage with one of them than with a motor driven car. Lets hope that someone that makes the laws will be of the same mind and will start some thing of that sort for those that need it.

The increase in lawlessness is a thing that should attract more attention than it does. We know of course, that there is every reason why there should be less attention to law, since the prohibition "experiment" here in this land of ours has had more trouble than anything that ever was forced upon us. The effect of the World War on our nation along with all the nations of the world and then the fact of this "mess" that is called prohibition, coupled with the possible new ways of getting to and from places in a hurry, via fast motor cars and via the air, even with business at a stand still and no work for the people to do to earn an honest living; they take to the method of obtaining a means of livelihood thru illegal practices. I have talked to many a good regular American of late, who is going in for bootlegging and kindred digressions of the law and they simply say "everyone is doing it, so why shouldn't I?"

Even men in my own profession, who are allowed a certain amount of pure alcohol for professional use each year by simply making application to the government and paying them direct at regular prices are taking advantage of it and selling their quota of that stuff at high prices. If I have to resort to such practices to make a living, I hope I will have judgment enough to stop pretending to be a dentist, at all and be an out and out bootlegger and be done with it. To me, the law of the land is a sacred thing, but this prohibition thing is impossible and while I hope never to see the real old-time saloon days again, yet I prefer them to what we have right now. In my time anyone who drank straight alcohol was considered as being in the last stages of that line. It was called, in the vernacular, "the white line." Now the elite and ultra fashionable of the land carry it with them as our people used to carry perfume for ladies and cloves or "sen sens" for the men. Unless your breath is loaded down with the smell of liquor, now, in society, you are old-fashioned and out of date. Well, maybe so, but I hope to live to see the day when the people will get rid of this farce and control the drunkenness in a different way. It can be done and it should be done. We are only making millionaires of a lot of hoodlums and bums at the expense of the people that think they must have it, and at the same time, it harbors and incites crimes in general, from the fact that the younger generation are made to disregard all laws as well as the 18th amendment.

Let's strike at the cause of the "drunken drivers" and it will take many years to undue the harm that has already been done; I can assure you.

OLD TIMER.

 Glenn Easton, Editor

In a hard fought contest Saturday afternoon, Buchanan-high defeated the fast Watervliet high team on the home grounds, taking location, as far as prominence is concerned as may be found in the town.

The new voting booths are a curiosity to a majority of the voters, but they are an improvement as far as they go. It was the evident intention of the former of the law to prohibit the handling of tickets outside the polling place, but he seems to have missed that part of the plan. This will be a small job for the next legislature.

The old grist mill is to have new "innards" built on the most approved plan of modern times and will be grinding good flour in about two months. Meanwhile the contract between the farmers and Charles Black by which he is to improve his power at the mouth of the creek is still in force so that we are assured of two good mills for custom grinding.

The human family is a queer animal. This was demonstrated by the remarks on the new-fangled election process. Some Democrats growled about it because it was a Republican contrivance. And some Republicans didn't like it for some other as trivial reason. Thusash pit. To obtain more heat, far we have not heard of a single the ash door flap should be opened man who went through the voting fully and the turn damper opened

Fuel Engineer Compiles Interesting Data on Furnace Economy in Winter

To make the work of tending the household furnace a simpler job, L. Norman Burnside, well known Fuel Engineer of the D. L. & W. Coal company, has compiled some interesting data on the proper care of furnaces for the home owner.

The most common mistake in the handling of a household furnace is the method of refueling, Mr. Burnside states. Here is how it should be done. When re-coaling, the damper should be opened and the fire shaken down until a red glow appears in the ash pit. Then, and this is most important, a mound of live coals should be pulled to the front of the furnace so that there is always a small mound of burning embers just inside the furnace door. This small, briskly burning heap of coals burns all gases that are generated, and gives the new charge of coal a chance to burn clearly. All ashes should be removed from the pit each time the furnace is refueled for the most satisfactory results.

The following are some fundamental rules outlined by Mr. Burnside for the proper care and management of a furnace:

Starting the fire: If there are ashes on the grate they should be shaken down until an even layer only an inch or two in thickness remains. It is waste of coal to remove all the ashes. Cover this bed of ashes with a thin layer of coal. If the grate is clean, a layer of coal should be placed over it before the kindling is put on.

Then a kindling of paper and wood should be placed on the bed of coals and after the turn damper on the furnace pipe and the fire slide and ash door flap are opened, the kindling should be lighted. It is a common mistake to keep the slide on the furnace door shut while starting a fire, according to Mr. Burnside.

When the kindling is burning briskly, the fire should be covered with a light charge of coal and the turn damper partially closed. The ash door flap and the furnace door slide should be kept open until all of the wood is burned and the coal properly ignited. Then, if a slow fire is wanted, all dampers should be closed and the fire door slide left slightly open.

Medium Fire: For a medium fire open the damper in the furnace pipe part way and partially open the ash door flap. The fire door slide should be shut and the ashes shaken down until a slight glow appears through the grate in the ash pit. To obtain more heat, far we have not heard of a single the ash door flap should be opened man who went through the voting fully and the turn damper opened

Banking the Fire: The last rules outlined by Mr. Burnside apply to the banking of the fire. To bank the fire, fill the fire pot to the line of the fire door at least, but the small heap of live coals pulled to the front of the furnace with each new charge should never be covered. Then the damper and ash door flap should be closed. The door slide and check damper should be opened. If these things are done, the pile of bright embers in front of your furnace door will burn any gases that develop in the closely confined fire pot and keep them from coming through the open door slide, and besides, you will have a fire burning and ready for enlarging over a long period of time.

Buchanan Gridsters Trample Otsego 21-0 Sat.

LOCALS WIN 2ND VICTORY OF SEASON

Green Local Eleven Exhibits First Grid Form of the Year. VISITORS OUTGLASSED Locals to Meet Coloma, Aspirants for State O Title, Next Saturday.

Buchanan high school's football team annexed their second victory of the season Saturday, when they downed the Otsego eleven by the decisive score of 21 to 0. Buchanan completely outplayed the visitors and could have piled up a larger score yet.

Otsego threatened once in the first quarter when a long pass gave them a first down on the Bucks' 20 yard marker. This was as far as they could get, however, and they were never dangerous from then on. From the 20 yard stripe, the Morse brothers carried the ball to Otsego's 32 yard line in two plays. Ellis then took the ball to the 6 yard line and there was no one ahead of him, when an Otsego player dove and just tripped him, and then Ellis fumbled. The visitors punted out, but the Bucks marched right back, and on the last down Ellis missed a first down on the 3 yard stripe by inches. Otsego punted to their own 22 yard line and Fox was sent in for Imhoff. On the first play Fox dashed around right end for a touchdown. Lauren Morse plunged for the extra point.

Buchanan's high-scoring team rang up victory number two Saturday. They should have beaten them more but they ran so much that they were tired by the time they got to the goal line.

The Bucks lost one touchdown when Bob Ellis plowed through the line, and was almost over the line when an Otsego player dove from behind and just hit Bob's heel enough to trip him. This play caught Ellis by surprise, in fact it surprised him so much that he dropped the ball. Ellis showed plenty of drive when hitting the line and looked pretty good Saturday.

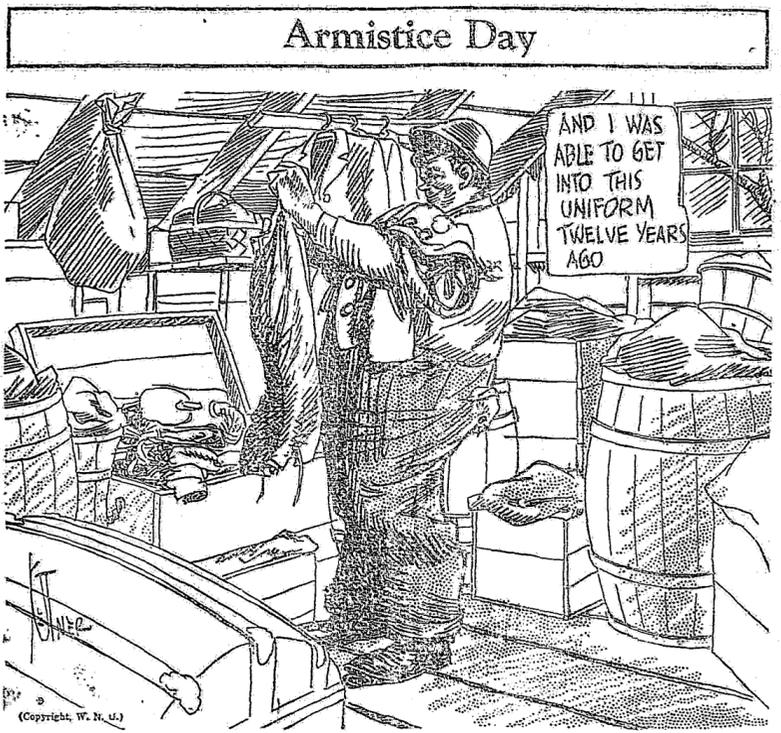

Buchanan had a sophomore backfield working most of the game, after Chubbie was forced from the game. It was this bunch of "youngsters" that rolled up the 21 points. Sounds good for the next couple of years.

Dale Fox pulled a fast one on the Otsego boys, both figuratively and literally. Fox was sent into the game in the second quarter and was given the ball on the first play. Then he galloped twenty-two yards for a touchdown. Some fans had said that he was fast if he could only get away, but this is the first time that he has demonstrated.

Buchanan's last touchdown caught Otsego flat-footed. With the ball on the 25 yard line, Morse passed to Strayer on the first down, but the opponents must have expected a line play or else they

I am decidedly in favor of all school parties. Why not have something in which everyone can participate instead of just one class? This way no one is slighted and everyone has a chance to have good time. Class parties are all right, but it means a lot of expense to one class. Let everyone co-operate and all will have a good time. Marjorie Lamb.

I think high school parties are more enjoyable because more attend, and "the more the merrier." Elsie Paul.

I prefer high school parties because they're attended by all the students and they make co-operation among all the classes. Elizabeth Hess.

Homes Gives Few Slants on Old Time Politics, Editors

The item from "Galen forty years ago" telling about George A. Blakeslee being the postmaster at Galien for so long a time, calls to memory the remark he made to me, that it took one democrat (Buchanan) to appoint him to that office and another democrat (Cleveland) to kick him out. That was when Cleveland was taking care of "deserving Democrats."

There was, along in the eighties, a peculiar character in that section named O. D. Hadsell, publisher of the Hartford Day Spring, and something of how peculiar he was may be seen by the motto he carried at the head of his paper. Here it is:

"The poor man's friend; the orphan's benefactor; the woman's defender; and a vindicator of labor, temperance, morality and religion. No money, no paper, dead beats 'Stand from under.' We do not belong to a master, Our paper is wholly our own, Whoever likes it may take it, Who do not can let it alone."

The prospect of the "short cut road" from South Bend via Buchanan looks as if my plan to ride over the paved road on the "narry gauge" (Perry Fox) right of way on my motorcycle is yet to be fulfilled. My eightieth birthday will be one year from next Saturday, Oct. 4.

Pheasants Need Winter Feed Says Game Department

Unless a concerted and extensive feeding program is carried on during the coming winter, hunters may face a real shortage of pheasants next year, according to Dr. Miles D. Pirnie, state ornithologist who made a plan for the birds by urging all sportsmen farmers and other individuals and organizations to make plans for winter feeding of pheasants and quail.

The drought of the past season with its grass fires that burned over much bird cover; poor crops that resulted in almost barren fields; and over-grazing of pastures and swamp lands have combined to threaten the ground-dwelling birds with starvation the coming winter.

The best way of feeding pheasants, prairie chicken and quail, Dr. Pirnie said, is to leave standing corn and other grains in the fields. Where this is not feasible, artificial feeding stations may be arranged.

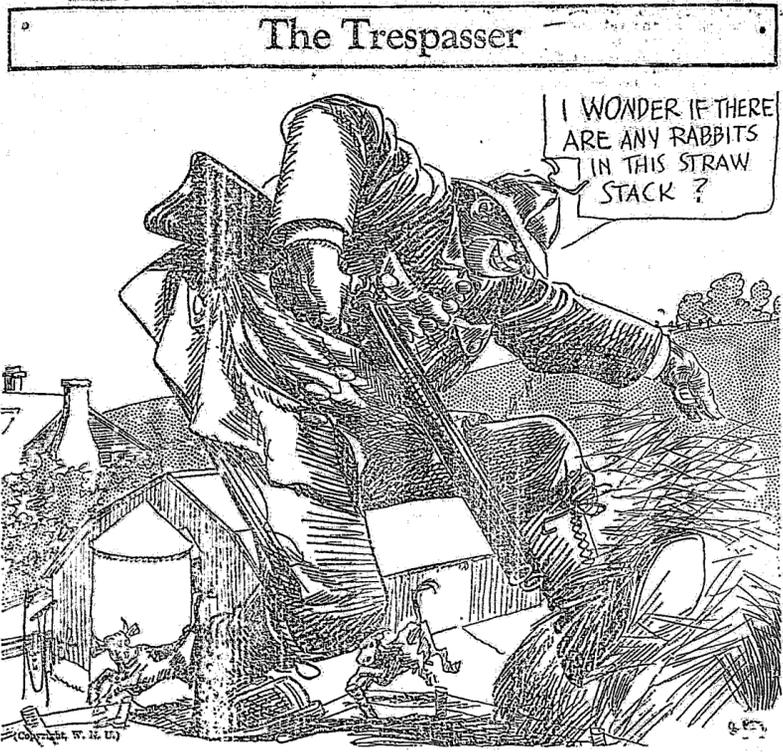

Various feeding methods are explained in a bulletin which has been prepared on winter feeding stations and foods for ground feeding birds. This booklet is sent free on request made to the department of conservation, Lansing. The booklet is illustrated with pictures of some of the various kinds of feeding stations and the text discusses what foods are the best and how the stations may be maintained in the cheapest and most effective manner.

ORIOLES DEFEAT 3 OAKS ELEVEN 7 TO 0 SUNDAY

WILL ATTEMPT TO MAINTAIN UNSPOTTED RECORD ON HOME FIELD HERE NEXT SUNDAY.

The Buchanan Orioles defeated the Three Oaks Independent eleven on the local gridiron Sunday afternoon by a score of 5-0 in a hard fought contest. The two elevens ended the first half in a scoreless deadlock. In the third quarter Gregory broke through to block a punt and recovered it on the Three Oaks ten yard line. In the second succeeding play, Capt. Conrad made a seven yard run to the goal line and Stubbs Boyce added the extra point with his toe. Heckathorne and Tony Kraft starred for Three Oaks.

The Orioles will meet the South Bend Tigers here next Sunday, and hope to maintain intact their three year record of no defeats on their home gridiron. The Tigers have played several games but will come to Buchanan with a completely reorganized line-up which will average about 180 pounds in weight.

Dept. Engineering Research Grows at Univ. of Michigan

Growth from an experiment in cooperation between industry and college specialists in industrial engineering problems begun in 1921, to a valued service which expended $323,441 and employed 313 persons during 1929-1930 is the record of the University of Michigan Department of Engineering Research, according to Director A. E. White. Service charges to clients of the Department amounted to $300,921, exclusive of fellowships and trust funds. This was 66 per cent more than the previous year, despite recent adverse business conditions, and at least three quarters of this sum was paid for research of a very fundamental scientific nature. In addition to its use and value to Michigan industry the Department has done rich service to the University as well. In addition the Department expended $4,584 for research activities, making $5,466 available to other departments for research purposes, spent $5,336 for publications, added over $200 worth of library books and bought $32,573 worth of research equipment.

CHEVROLET TO EXHIBIT 1931 MODEL

Will Be Larger Than Present Model; Many Changes in Appearance.

LENGTH IS INCREASED

Definite assurance that Chevrolet will introduce a new car for 1931 on Saturday was revealed in Cleveland, O., during the staging by Chevrolet factory officials of the first of fifty dealer meetings to be held in the next five weeks throughout the country.

Included in a carload of equipment brought in for the meeting was a new car substantially bigger than the current model, and extensively changed in appearance. Although the meeting was closed to the public, it was learned that H. J. Klingler, vice president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co., who attended the meeting here, told the 500 dealers and associated bankers in attendance at the city auditorium that the car would be publicly announced the coming Saturday and that despite its increased size and improved appearance, it would be priced considerably below current levels.

Dramatic incidents attended the presentation of the car. It was trucked under canvases from the freight shed to the stage of the auditorium, and there, boxed in by velvet drops and under a flood of spotlights, disclosed to the audience.

A burst of applause greeted the unveiling of the car and when the announcement of new lower prices was made, a wild cheering dealer group interrupted proceedings for several minutes.

The car is longer than the present Chevrolet, and changes and refinements are so extensive that it has a decided "big car" appearance, one dealer reported.

If the sentiment among the dealers is any criterion, the new car ought to prove the most successful product in the history of the company.

Chemistry Wizard Locates Cheaper Newsprint Source

A chemistry Aladdin laid before an Atlanta chamber of commerce luncheon recently - white newsprint made from a new source - slash pine.

He said it opens the prospect of a new and wholly American supply of newsprint and high grade book paper made from southern pine trees, probably of all sorts.

The Aladdin was Dr. Charles H. Herty of New York, former president of the American Chemical Society. He made his discovery public without reservations, and proposed that southern business men make use of the knowledge to enrich the south.

Southern pine long has been used to make paper of a yellow variety, Dr. Herty said, but not to compete with the high grade sulfite process newsprint and white book paper made from spruce.

DEMOCRATS WIN IN MICHIGAN BY LARGE MAJORITY

SELECT GOVERNOR; PLACE EVERY COUNTY NOHNEE IN OFFICE.

The question has been put and the Democrats have it.

As far as can be learned up to noon today, Tuesday was a poor day for Republicans everywhere. The Democrats have carried about everything worth having from one end of the country to the other. The Chicago Inter Ocean figures next Congress as follows: Democrats 225, Republicans 100, Farmers Alliance 5, Independent 1.

The Democrats have elected Winans governor of this state by a large plurality variously estimated at from 3,000 to 10,000, and the balance of the state by healthy pluralities. But five of the eleven Congressmen are Republican, a loss of four. Mr. Burrows' plurality is figured at 238 instead of over 4,000 as two years ago. In this county, Benton Township which has a larger Republican majority than the entire county, refused to have a candidate on the Republican ticket, apparently in expectation of a slaughter of the ticket, in a district which is about 225 Republican. A Democrat, Dr. Rockwell, is elected to the legislature by a majority of 500. The entire Democratic county ticket won out by majorities ranging from 200 upward.

In this representative district George Lambert, Democrat, received 111 majority. The north district has a good representative; but this district is not as well off as in the last legislature. Berrien County Record, Nov. 6 1890

Ford Schemes to Beat Tariff by Foreign Factory

In a recent interview in Paris, Henry Ford announced that he expected shortly to begin manufacturing his automobiles in France and to do away with the assembly system which he previously has employed. He hinted that he might adopt this policy throughout Europe. He stated that he was looking over French plants before deciding his plans, but intimated that he would erect a plant near Paris. The car to be manufactured in France would have the same motor and same model as the car made in America, Ford said.
When asked concerning wages and living conditions, Mr. Ford replied that he would pay the same wages proportionately as in Detroit. Answering the question whether he expected to raise the French standard of living, he said: "I certainly think the French need higher wages when I see men making $1.12 a day." He praised the new American tariff and said that it will cause other countries to raise tariffs on American products, thus forcing American manufacturers to build factories abroad.
Construction has been started on the $5,000,000 assembly plant of the Ford Motor company at Richmond, Cal., near San Francisco. The plant is designed for a capacity of 400 automobiles daily and is expected to employ 2,400 people. Its main building will be 950 feet long and 320 feet wide.
Atlanta, Ga., plant of the Ford Motor company increased schedules this week, hiring 650 more men and increasing output by 25 cars daily.
Ford dealers throughout the country are staging a Ford de luxe car week. Until this year, there were only two de luxe cars in the Ford line, the town sedan and the convertible cabriolet. During the last six months four de luxe models have been added: the de luxe sedan, coupe, phaeton and roadster.

IRISH HILLS TO POSSESS FINEST MICHIGAN PARK

IMPROVEMENTS ON WALTER J. HAYES STATE PARK NEARING COMPLETION

The first of the improvements that will eventually make the Walter J. Hayes State Park in the Irish Hills, perhaps the most beautiful in Michigan, has started, with the beginning of construction of one of the largest bath houses in the state. It will contain 880 bathers' lockers. The building of colonial type will be situated in a grove of trees on the bathing shore of Wampler's lake. The portico flanked by colonial pillars, will overlook the lake. The building will be 109 feet long and 48 feet wide and two stories high.
The lower floor will be occupied by lockers, sanitary facilities, a park store and a large foyer. On the second floor will be living rooms for park employees.
The foundation is now being constructed. The building will be ready for use with the opening of the 1931 park season.
The Walter J. Hayes State Park was made possible through land gifts made by Miss Mercy Hayes of Detroit. The Park is a memorial to her brother, the late Senator Walter J. Hayes.
Other extensive improvements for the park are planned within the next two or three years.

Advance Guard Winter Tourists Reach Buchanan

The advance guard of the winter tourist trade is reported to have reached Buchanan in the past two weeks, a total of eight guests having availed themselves of the hospitality of the municipality on election night, when they shared the jail with the judges, clerks and inspectors of election in Precinct No. 1. It is reported that gentlemen of transient habits have established a "jungle" near the Athletic Club, where they have improvised a temporary hut and an extemporaneous fire place for cooking and warmth. Six guests inhabited the jail Wednesday night. It is reported that the "one night only" rule is being enforced.

Benzie County Closed to Deer Hunting for Year

Benzie county has been closed to deer hunting, but only for one year, or until the department of conservation determines upon some definite policy relative to the opening or closing of deer hunting of all counties in that section of the state.
The Benzie county board of supervisors asked the Conservation Commission for a closed season on deer for a five year period.
The old closing orders for most of the counties in that section of the state expire in 1931 and 1932. It was decided that Benzie should be closed for no longer than the others if and when the Commission decides on a general policy relating to deer hunting.
It appears, according to the report on which the Commission acted, that in past years the deer in Benzie were so nearly exterminated that it was not considered to be in deer territory and along with neighboring counties of Grand Traverse and Leelanau, was left nominally "open," while the near by counties of Charlevoix, Manistee, Wexford, etc., were being closed on deer. Like Grand Traverse and Antrim, Benzie contains relatively little wild land of a character and blocking to make deer territory. "It is never apt to become an important deer district; but that a considerable increase of deer might result from protection, and that such deer would be of interest and value in connection with summer visitors, seems probable," says the report.

The Game Division is now making an inventory of Lower Peninsula deer cover and distribution. This should be ready by the end of the hunting season, together with this summer's tally by field officers of all the deer seen by them, locating where seen, ratio of does, bucks and fawns, etc. By late fall, the division expects to have fairly accurate data on which to base a general policy to cover all the deer and near-deer territory which is due to open during 1931 and 1932.

cent depression stood like a glass partition between them and prosperity. After a few feeble efforts to break thru the partition, they take for granted that the barrier is permanent.
This great country of ours has gone through dozens of off years and emerged each time richer and stronger than before. Watch history repeat itself!
Old clothes, old shoes, old furniture, old houses and old cars won't last forever and must be replaced. There are 2,93,000 people in Brooklyn who need and are going to buy things this Fall.
Money is plentiful and cheap. The savings banks of Brooklyn have deposits exceeding a thousand dollars, more money and more depositors than they had at this time last year.
The Namm store is ready for the biggest Fall business in its history. More space, wider assortments and lower prices than ever before.

all of the field crops in continental United States have been introduced into this country."

The new varieties include acala, a variety of cotton now being grown in the southwest at an annual value of $50,000,000; 2,000 varieties of soy beans from the Orient with an annual value of over $20,000,000 and the Washington navel orange introduced from Brazil, which now yields a crop estimated at $35,000,000 a year.

Behavior of Fish Illustrates That of Buying Public

The following was run as an advertisement recently in the Paul Block string of newspapers:
The Namm department store is one of the very large stores in Brooklyn. They have just run an advertisement which has so much logic and so much truth behind it, that it deserves to be copied. This is what it stated:
A large and rambunctious bass went to live in an aquarium. In the tank next door, separated only by a partition of clear glass, were some small, fat, appetizing minnows.
The bass made a lunge at the minnows and bumped his nose severely against the clear glass. Several times a day thereafter, whenever his appetite for minnows grew strong, he bumped his nose again. Then he stopped. Even a fish is no fool.
But one day the clear glass partition was gradually removed. The wise bass, however, remembering his bumped nose, made no attempt to taste a minnow.
People are like bass. The re-

"Plant explorers" of the United States department of agriculture are constantly scouring the world for new plants which may create new fortunes. Knowles A. Ryerson, horticulturist, told the Inter-American Agricultural conference recently.
