Father of the Silhouette
The silhouette is named for Etienne de Silhouette, who was born in 1707 and died in 1760. He was a French minister of finance, who was so rigidly economical that he often withheld funds from worthy subjects. His name came to be applied to anything imperfect or incomplete. Silhouettes were first popular in 1760. They are made now as they were formerly, by cutting out pictures from black paper.

Slavery Among Indians
It was a common practice among most of the American Indian tribes to make slaves of their captives. In many cases the captives were adopted into the tribe of the captors and in the case of women they were often taken as wives by their captors. But many of the tribes, particularly in the northwest part of North America, practiced slavery in the usual sense of the term. After African slavery was established in America some of the Indians owned negro slaves.

House of David to Hold Kiddies Day on June 27

Hey there! Skinnie. Hey! Freckles. Hey there, all you kids! The Berrien County Record has some real news for you. Saturday, June 27th is Kiddies Day and through a special arrangement of this paper with the House of David, every boy and girl in Berrien County, under seventeen years of age can have one free ride on the miniature train, including the round trip or return ticket from the Park and free admission to the House of David Zoo Gardens. A train ticket will be given you at the main entrance good for the round trip. The Zoo gates will be open all that day, free admission to the Zoo both for children and adults. The House of David expects ten thousand children at their park on that day, and for this special treat to the children has arranged for three regular trains from ten o'clock in the morning to five o'clock in the evening, and on account of the large number expected, cannot arrange for more than one free round trip. Additional round trips may be taken by the kiddies that day between 10 a. m. and 5 p. m. for five cents each. The regular round trip ticket is twenty-five cents, but parents may come with their children and share in observation of Kiddies Day, at a special rate of ten cents round trip for each adult, between the above hours, with no charge, no admission to the Zoo Gardens. Ample tables and fine spring water fountains for picnic parties, also free parking.

So kiddies, remember the date. Bring Dad, Mother, and Aunt Lou and Uncle Fred. Remember this, kiddies, get your ticket, although free, you must have a ticket, given you at the main entrance, wait till the little train stops, don't rush or crowd or hurt anybody for there will be room and time for all, and don't get off till the little train stops. Then get off at the other depot, see the birds and animals. After you have visited the Zoo, go down to the band stand and listen to the free entertainment given by the orchestra. Sandwiches, drinks, ice cream and candy may be purchased at the stands near by. When you get ready to return home, take the little train again at the new park depot and return to the main entrance.

Starr Commonwealth Will Hold Tag Day Here Next Saturday

The supporters of the Starr Commonwealth, an institution for underprivileged boys located three miles west of Albion, Mich., on Montcalm Lake, will hold a tag day on the streets of Buchanan, Saturday, June 27. "THAT LITTLE GAME"

Saturday upon the streets of this city the little red tags will again be offered for sale, the proceeds to help carry on the work for nearly 90 boys whose very future depends upon their building character that will make them worthy citizens of our state. Probate Judges, Guardians, Friends of the Court, are looking more and more to this school for help with their problem children. There are upwards of 1000 applications every year, while the accommodations, in the way of cottages is limited, as they should never be. An incident of the recent hard winter will show how Starr Commonwealth figures in the work of succoring children deprived of their rightful chance.

The welfare workers were called to a home in lower Michigan where some children were seen stirring around with evidently no one to care for them. It was the bitter weather of January. When the officer went in, there were three young boys, the two younger, 7 and 9 with no stockings on, no fire, a bed of straw with ragged quilts, in the corner. Here they had been huddling for warmth. There was a loaf of stale bread, their only food!

"What was back of all this suffering and privation?" A father, who had slipped away from his obligation to a large family—a mother frantic with grief, lost in her illness rapidly culminating, she lose her little boys, a grandfather losing his job and returning the little fellow to the cold hovel, the mother in the county Home, mind gone from a goitre operation and the excessive anxiety about her brood! The officer called Starr Commonwealth and took the boys thither at once. Thru the "Door of Opportunity" they went and today all three are enjoying the privilege of proper environment, schooling. The mother, assured that her little ones are held in trust for her, is slowly recovering her health and mind.

In the studio window where the choir practices and where the Sunday Services are held stands "Kenneth's Geranium." May we give you the high points in this story?

The geranium Kenneth prepared for the boys at the Starr Commonwealth home—the Commonwealth. He is now the happy son in a cozy Michigan home in the north. One bitter winter day he, too, arrived at Starr Commonwealth, ten years old, deserted by his unprincipled mother and a father, who loved the dance hall and the drink that went with it. The little fellow, had hollered out a cave into it had dragged the things he needed, procured as he could get them, going down the road of delinquency! The authorities found him, took him to the County Infirmary, for there was no open door for him. There was no schooling! Until they got in touch with Starr Commonwealth for Boys and Women, he would have been trained and molded into manliness, and where the scars on his young heart were somewhat obliterated by loving care. A pair of galoshes and a top Kenneth carried with him that bitter January day. Now he is a loved member of a home in the northern part of Michigan where they needed a lad to grow up in the beauty of state! It is for such lads as these, missing the heritage of home and the training which should be the birthright of every child, that you are asked to buy a tag when the boys offer them to you on our streets, Saturday next.

There are nearly ninety boys at Starr Commonwealth for Boys. Were you to come to visit them you would be surprised and moved to see how the vision of Floyd Starr who bought the original 40 acres, and who is now developing over one hundred acres, has become a reality. The boys find of the highest possibilities, fraught with so much in the way of opportunity for the fellow who has not the chance, for the little boy who already has stepped off with the wrong foot on the road of criminal tendency.

"A house is built of bricks and stones and sills and posts and "A home is built of loving deeds that stand a thousand years."

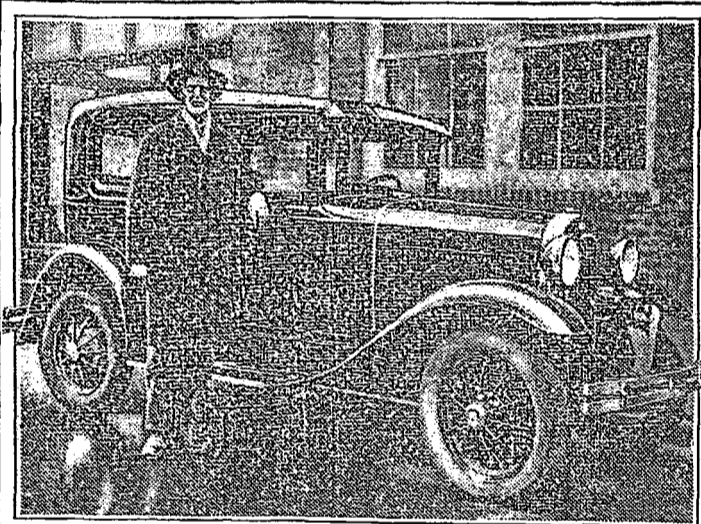

Harm in Self-Distrust
"Self-distrust," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "is a dangerous falling since it seems to base on intimate information a warning to others to withhold confidence."—Washington Star.

OLDEST FORD DRIVER

J. M. Crow, 89, of Ethel, Miss., the oldest Ford driver in Mississippi, traversed the historic old Natchez Trace in a covered wagon eighty-seven years ago.

As rugged today at 89 as the age in American history he so picturesquely typifies, J. M. Crow of Ethel, Miss., is the oldest Ford driver in Mississippi and one of the oldest in the United States.

When as a babe of two years he rode with his parents in one of a train of 30 covered wagons out of Cobb county, Georgia, into Mississippi, the old Natchez Trace followed by the brave little band was still infested by the swashbuckling ruffians whose bloody outrages gave that era its place in this country's history as "the outlaw years."

One of his vivid memories is hearing, as a boy of six, the news of General Scott's victorious assault on the heights of Chapultepec which ended the Mexican War in 1847, and his proudest memory is of honor.

Present-Day Wonders
Many lists enumerating wonders of the present-day world have been suggested, but there is no final authority for any group. A favorite list includes the steam engine, electric power, radio, telephone, the phonograph, the automobile and the airplane.

Cotton in Road Building
As an experiment, 500 feet of road were built near Gonzales, Texas, with unbleached canvas as a binder. After 15 months of heavy traffic the pavement showed no signs of wear. If the material continues to stand up well, it is said that the state will adopt this form of construction.

Sunstroke Easy to Acquire
In the equatorial regions you may get a sunstroke from 18 seconds' exposure. You can also get one under canvas or below an iron roof. The last is a slower process.

Beaver Meat Palatable
The body meat of the beaver has a gamey flavor, but if properly cured for and cooked, is excellent, and was generally preferred by trappers to any other game, even in the early days, when buffalo, elk and deer were abundant. Countries Within Voice Range of the U. S. Include Five of the Six Continents
During the year 1930 the overseas radio telephone service was extended north, south, east and west, until today 91 per cent of all the telephones in the world can be connected with any telephone in the Bell System.

Extensions on Three Continents
A new Farthest North was reached during the summer, when service was extended to points within the Arctic Circle in Sweden. A new record to the south was established when communication was opened with the Argentine Republic and with the cities of Santiago, Chile, and Montevideo, Uruguay. Eastward the service now extends to Viborg, Finland, which is just opposite Leningrad in Soviet Russia, while late in the autumn voice connection was established with the Antipodes. As a result, overseas telephone service now reaches five of the six continents, and plans for connecting the sixth, Asia, are now being made.

The first extension of this service during 1930 occurred on January 15, when practically the whole of Northern Italy and the City of Rome were brought within reach of North America, the first time that transatlantic telephone service was extended south of the Alps. On February 1 service was opened to Warsaw, the capital of Poland, and on March 10 to Helsingfors, the capital of Finland. On April 3 came an epoch-making ceremony, when, with impressive ceremonies, the heads of the governments of the United States, Chile, and Uruguay, and the representative of the Argentine Republic opened service to these countries.

31 Countries May Be Reached
On June 12 a second telephone network in Mexico was brought within reach of Bell System telephones, and on June 30 radio telephone service was extended to include all telephones in Sweden. Another very important event came on July 5, when service was extended to the State of Vatican City, the residence of the Pope. On July 16 service became available to the cities of Memel and Kovno in Lithuania, and this was followed on October 27 by the opening of commercial telephone service between the United States and Australia. Finally, on December 3, the service was extended to include all telephones in Denmark, Finland, Hungary, Luxembourg, and Norway, and eight more cities in Poland were added to the network.

The number of countries which may now be connected with any Bell System telephone, including the United States, is thirty-one. The approximate number of telephones in the world is 35,750,000, and of these 32,500,000 may be connected with any Bell System telephone.

Negotiated to Induce Coming of Clark Equipment

rien Springs choir had a great curiosity to hear each others voices over the telephone.

We installed what would now be called an ancient switchboard, in shape an upright board two feet long and one foot wide, with wooden pegs pointed with steel to make the connections. Some of my brother managers may remember the style of board we used in those days.

We continued our exchange for only a year. The business men thought that it was not very profitable to them and requested me to discontinue the service as they could not afford to pay the rates. So that brought me back to where I started with only the toll office. I continued the toll office until 1896 when Mr. C. E. Wild was superintendent of the southern division. Three of our business men wanted telephones installed and Jack Clifford was sent here to install the Smith Board which was a small board somewhat similar to the other board.

Jack had a terrible time sweating and stewing while installing the board. It was Sunday and he wanted to get back home to see his best girl. He finally finished up and went home happy. This board was continued until 1898. It was then taken out and another Smith board installed which has since remained.

The work of installation was done by Paddy Herson and J. C. Boyce. The principal of the high school came to me one day and asked my permission for three or four of his class who were studying electricity, to visit the office and see the installation. I introduced Paddy to the principal who explained to him.

Paddy said: "Yes, come down tomorrow night but don't bring too many." Paddy was all set for the lecture and in they came in droves until my stove was filled.

But Paddy did well with his lecture and all were well pleased, particularly the ladies. To make it more interesting, Big Bill Cocran, an old time lineman, stood back in the crowd with a dinky hat on one side of his head, talking in signs to Paddy.

Paddy's face looked like a blood of orange but he stood up under it pretty well to the end. Then he came back to me and told me never to get him into such a scrape again.

Fidelity & Deposit Company Capitulates in Sewer Suit; Pays City $12,500

STORMY CHAPTER IN CITY HISTORY THEREBY CLOSED

Defendant Reconsiders After Appealing Circuit Court
Judgment $12,996.

The matter of the Third and Portage street storm and sanitary sewers became a closed incident and a stormy and more or less complex chapter in city history was closed Monday with the arrival of a check for $12,996.01, transferring that amount from the account of the Fidelity & Deposit company of Maryland to the credit of the city of Buchanan, to cover costs to the latter party for replacement of faulty work by Frank Reed.

The settlement automatically removes the case of the City of Buchanan vs. The Fidelity & Deposit company of Maryland, which was pending in the state supreme court from litigation. The Berrien County Circuit Court had, on Jan. 15, 1931, handed down a verdict of $12,996.05 in favor of the city. The bonding company appealed, but eventually settled out of court for $496.05 less than the judgment, the city commission having agreed to settle for that amount in order to avoid the costs of carrying the case on through the supreme court.

The city is thus entirely recompensed for all the expense to which it was put by the faulty work of Reed on Portage Street, where it was necessary to reinstall a considerable section south of Front Street. Reed originally contracted to install the sewers for $31,271. He eventually threw up the contract and the city employed A. E. Hipskind to complete the contract and to reinstall several hundred feet, where the joints had been made so poorly that the tile was filled with ground water.

The bonding company contended in defense that the city had forced the use of unsuitable material and that in replacing they had paid an excessive price. The court ruled that the matter of excessive price did not enter into the case unless fraud on the part of the city could be shown.

The city paid $126.01 of the amount received Monday to St. Joseph court stenographers, leaving to its own credit $12,500.

Formal Opening at Winona Lake Set for June 28

With the formal opening of the famous Winona Lake Chautauqua summer season set for June 28, thousands of people have already arrived from all parts of the country. Practically all cottages have been opened and the numerous hotels are ready for the summer business.

Last summer the Winona management for the first time in its long existence, inaugurated a policy of open gates. Free admission to the grounds last summer brought the greatest crowd in Winona's history. The same plan will be in effect this summer. Charge will be made only for admission to entertainments.

James Heaton, executive manager, has announced a program of exceptional interest. The outstanding feature for the opening week will be the appearance of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd on the evening of July 4. Admiral Byrd will conclude a notable patriotic program which is being arranged by the Winona management in conjunction with the American Legion.

Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, former British divine and now pastor of Tabernacle Presbyterian church at Philadelphia, Pa. will deliver sermons on the opening Sunday and is scheduled to give lectures during the first week. Other outstanding chautauqua features will help furnish entertainment during the week and throughout the six weeks of program preceding the annual Winona Bible Conference which opens August 14 and continues for ten days.

The Winona Band and Orchestra which operated successfully last year, will open its second year's session June 22 and will continue until August 6. An orchestra provided by this school, composed of outstanding young players, will furnish programs throughout the summer under the direction of Colston R. Tuttle, leader of the championship Marion, Ind., high school band.

During the second week the regular chautauqua program will be augmented by a special health program offered by the State Board of Health under the personal direction of Dr. Ada E. Schweitzer. This will be known as "Child Health Week," an annual event at Winona. In connection with this program will be held the Northern Indiana conference on Child Health and Protection.

The annual Music Festival, Aug.

10 to 13, will make Winona the mecca for music lovers. This will be staged in connection with the School of Sacred Music conducted by a splendid faculty headed by Homer Rodeheaver, noted choir leader.

Foundation Day will be observed on Aug. 9 and the Rev. "Billy" Sunday will speak in the forenoon and afternoon in the great "Billy Sunday" tabernacle which seats 8,000 persons.

Many meetings and conventions will be held at Winona during the summer and boys and girls camps will entertain many thousands.

Wisconsin Plans to Build Ninety Grade Crossings

Wisconsin is now busily building overhead grade crossings over railroads with two thoughts in mind, the elimination of her most heavily traveled and dangerous grade crossings and the provision of employment.

In May overhead crossings had been awarded for construction and bids have been received on seven more, and advertised for bids. The Wisconsin program calls for the construction this year, with the co-operation of the railroads, of the 90 overheads which were to have been built in 1931, 1932 and 1933.

Wisconsin has proceeded on this accelerated construction program with the belief that aside from the employment of hundreds of men, it is justified through the prevention of costly motor-train accidents. The overhead crossings are being paid for with part of the funds accruing through the gasoline tax which was recently increased from two to four cents a gallon.

Although there were fewer passenger automobiles in the United States in 1930 than in the previous year, the accident total was five per cent greater, a fact that is decidedly out of line with the principles of civilization. But motorists have a predilection for running into things, and the tendency to collide with pedestrians, other cars, trains, street cars and so on, is increasing. If the motorist of 1930 had run into people and various other objects the motor death figure would have been reduced from 33,000 to 4,290 deaths, the difference being enough people to fill the homes of thriving Brownsville, Texas.

Wisconsin's program is not particularly amazing when considered along with the state's resources and population, but when compared with the activities of other states it can be regarded only as something out of the ordinary. Wisconsin's plan is a sensible way to provide highway facilities which will help keep motorists from breaking their necks.

Thongs View Construction of Giant Air Ship

Thousands of people, more than 60,000 on Sundays, are each week inspecting the progress of construction of the USS Akron, which the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation is building for the U. S. Navy, according to Earl Beck, the local Goodyear dealer.

The USS Akron, the world's largest airship, now has nearly half its fabric outer cover in place, and seven of its eight 560 horsepower engines have been installed in motor rooms in the hull. Doping is also in progress, and the nose of the ship has been covered with the aluminum dope which gives lighter-than-air ships their silvery appearance as they glide through the sky. Provisions for visitors have been made, and one end of the dock and a portion of the west side of the structure have been made available for persons wishing to inspect the ship.

With its length of 785 feet, the USS Akron will be but nine feet longer than the famous Graf Zeppelin, but its greater diameter gives it a lifting capacity of nearly twice that of the German ship. The Akron will have a capacity of 6,500,000 cubic feet of helium, America's non-inflammable, non-explosive gas, as compared with 3,700,000 for the Graf, and 2,400,000 for the USS Los Angeles, present navy dirigible.

Use of helium eliminates fire and explosion hazard, and allows installation of the motors inside the hull itself, instead of in separate gondolas as has been the practice in previous ships. A specially designed outrigger with a rigid drive shaft will deliver power to the propellers outside the hull.

One of the most interesting features of the ship will be its air-plane compartment, Mr. Beck states. This compartment will house five pursuit planes, which may be released and picked up in mid-air, and which will be used for scouting, or for offense and defense of the mother ship.

While visitors are interested in the airship, the mammoth dock is in itself a major attraction. A semi-paraboloid in shape, the dock is 1175 feet long, 25 feet wide and 211 feet high, the largest structure in the world without interior supports. The floor area of 64,000 square feet is unobstructed by pillars or posts. More than 7200 tons of steel were used in the building and its doors, and because of this immense amount of metal it was necessary to place the girders on rollers in order that the structure might expand and contract with changes in temperature.

It has been estimated that 10 football games could be played simultaneously under the roof of the dock, that six miles of standard railroad track could be laid on the floor area, and that the great Woolworth Building could be laid inside and the Washington monument thrown in for good measure.

Mr. Beck has installed an attractive window display showing the airship dock and a Zeppelin of the USS Akron type, giving a visual impression of the immensity of both.

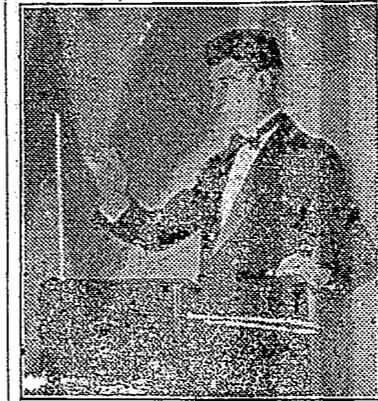

Found guilty of forgery, Lazor Samulak of Boian, Canada, was let off with only a suspended sentence because he had suffered through-out the trial from a severe tooth-ache.

Plays Without Touching Musical Instrument

Mr. Charles Stein, who appears at The Princess theatre Saturday of this week, will play the "Theremin," a new and novel musical instrument which resembles a conductor's music stand, with upright and horizontal antennae toward which the musician moves his hands. Without touching the instrument, Mr. Stein is able to produce wonderfully pretty music electrically controlled from ether waves surrounding the machine.

The tone is rich and full and has a range of about three and one-half octaves. Perhaps the first thing that impresses the person who sees and hears the Theremin, is the apparently miraculous effect produced by moving the hands easily in the thin air above a polished mahogany cabinet a little more than waist high. It is as if the hands were running over strange and invisible strings. The weirdness of this first impression, however, soon gives way to interest in the compelling beauty of the tone produced. In the lower register it sounds like a bassoon or cello, further up the scale it is more like a violin, and at a still higher point can be said to represent a human soprano voice when humming.

Parachute jumping Sundays and holidays to thrill crowds has earned enough money for Hugh Thomson 16 years old, of Hopkinsville, Ky., to pay his way through school.

Hatcheries Move 4,500,000 Trout to Feeding Stations

More than four and a half million trout fingerlings are being transferred from hatcheries to trout feeding stations.

These fish will be fed during the summer, to be released in the public waters after September 1 at advanced fish from four to seven and a half inches long.

An unusually rapid growth of trout has been observed this spring in hatcheries having spring water supplies in which the temperature ranges from 45 to 47 degrees. Many of these trout are now two inches in length.

The Baldwin and White River stations have been considerably enlarged, the Baldwin station having accommodations for about twice as many fingerlings as in former years.

Expect Increase Number Visitors to Isle Royale

The conservation commission is concerned over the forest fire hazard which will probably exist on Isle Royale this summer. Because of the publicity recently given this area in connection with the possibility of its becoming an administered National Park, it is believed that many times the usual number of visitors will visit the island this year.

The anticipated number of visitors and the extreme dryness which prevails on Isle Royale as well as elsewhere in the Great Lakes region contain the making of a bad forest fire season, according to Commissioner Harold Titus, chairman of the forest fire control committee. Mr. Titus pointed out the difficulty the state control committee has in the additional protection needed on Isle Royale this summer because of the heavy demands for the same service in the populated areas of the upper and lower peninsula. The fact that Isle Royale has no roads making fires difficult to reach increases the hazard. A boat loaded with fire fighting equipment is now patrolling the shores of the island.

Posters and signs bearing fire warnings are planned for Isle Royale to be posted where visitors will be most likely to see them. Property owners on the island will be requested to co-operate with the Department and to issue constant fire warnings to all visitors.

Cons. Department
Reports Increase
State Forest Fires

One quarter as many forest fires have already occurred this season in northern Michigan as were reported during the entire 1930 season according to the Forest Fire Division of the Department of Conservation.

The Division reported that 784 fire reports had been received at the Lansing office. Since these reports are received from ten days to two weeks after the fires have occurred, it was estimated that approximately 1,000 forest fires have burned in the upper and lower peninsulas since the fire season began early in April.

With fire hazard conditions worse than in 1930 it is feared that the total number of fires for the season will create a record for several years. Five months remain of the 1931 season and some of these will bring conditions far worse than those encountered during April and May.

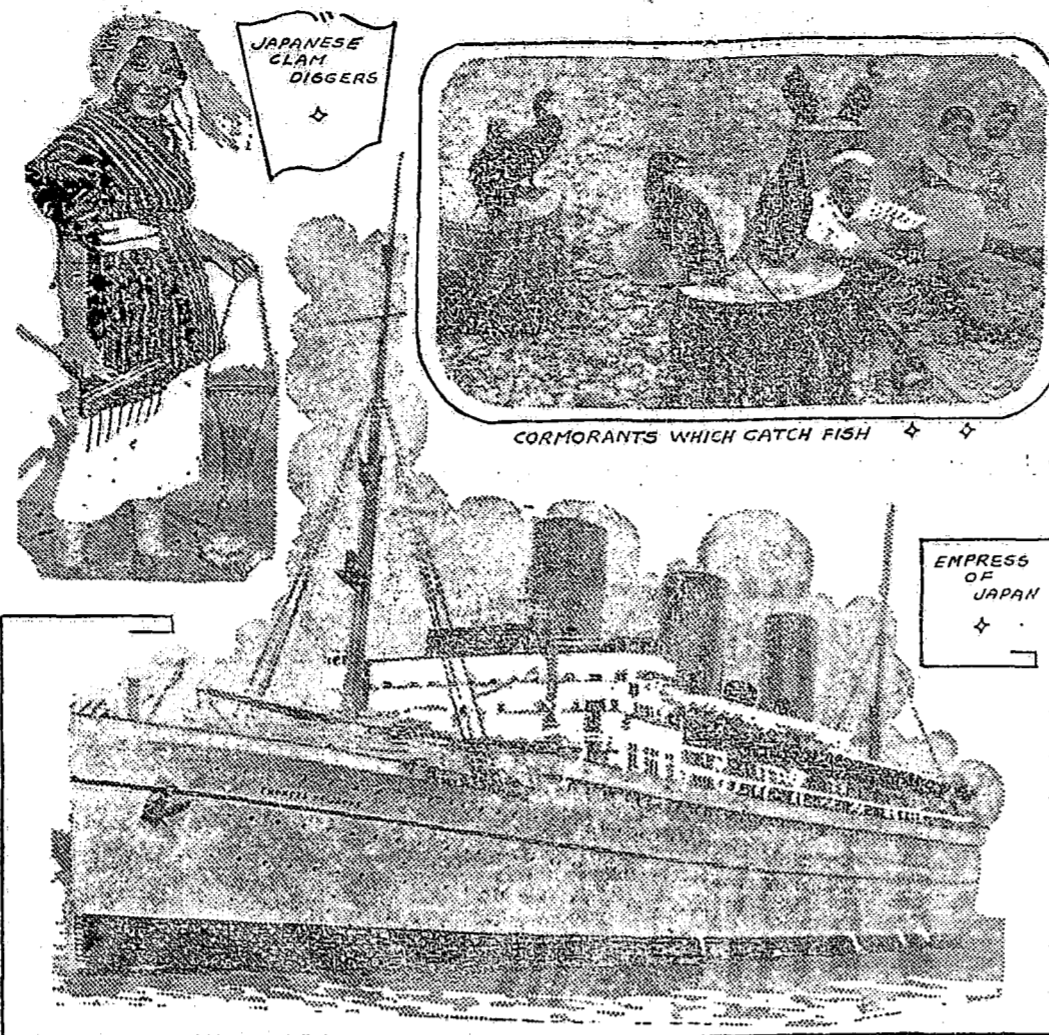

The rains that fell during the middle of May in the lower peninsula were successful in putting a temporary halt to the fires, but two days after the rains ceased the woods were dry again. The upper peninsula received only a light rainfall during that period.

According to the Fire Division's record, of the 784 reported fires, 480 occurred in the lower peninsula and 294 in the upper peninsula. Fifty two counties are included in the report. These counties compose the "fire district" of the state or that area north of a line drawn from Grand Haven to Bay City.

So far this season the western part of the upper peninsula and the central part of the lower peninsula.

Japan's Fishermen Use Cormorants—Birds With Rings
Round Their Necks So They Can't Swallow the Fish

CORMORANTS WHICH CATCH FISH

EMPRESS OF JAPAN

Fishermen in various lands use all sorts of methods in their trade, but probably the most original and interesting is that of the fresh-water fisherfolk of Japan, the Land of the Rising Sun. These enterprising people employ trained cormorants—queer, long-necked black birds capable of diving to great depths—and they teach their feathered fishers are constantly hungry so that they will show proper zeal in seeking their prey. To prevent the birds from swallowing the fish, their necks are bound by rings, so that only the smallest specimens can pass through their artificiallynarrowed throats. By this means, nothing larger than a healthy sardine ever goes down the bird's throat. The fishermen go out in light boats, each manned by a team of two men. One handles the boat while the other looks after the diving birds. A cormorant tender handles up to a dozen birds by strings attached to the birds' necks, precisely as a marionette artist works his puppets. Cormorant fishing is usually done at night, but as the fish dislike moonlight, dark nights are chosen, and the fishermen work by torchlight. The exact date of the origin of this style of fishing is unknown, but it is believed to have existed a thousand years ago.

Japan is becoming more and more popular with winter travelers, and fine new steamers are constantly being built to accommodate them. One of the latest additions to the trans-Pacific fleet is the new 26,000-ton Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Japan, the largest and fastest vessel on the Pacific, which makes the run from Vancouver, via Honolulu, to Yokohama, in 14 days, thence proceeding to Kobe, Nagasaki and other Oriental ports. The Empress of Japan holds the blue ribbon of the Pacific, recently wrested from her running-mate, the Empress of Canada, for the fastest sailing time from Yokohama to Vancouver.

Insula have suffered most from fire. Dickinson County alone has reported 60 and Delta county 33. Lower peninsula counties leading in the number of fires are: Arenac, 48; Gladwin, 43; Midland, 41.

It is estimated that approximately 50,000 acres of land have been burned over so far this year.

Hard Surfaces
Come Easy to Pelican State

Four years ago Louisiana did not have much to offer in the way of rural roads, mileage and little else. At the close of 1927 that state had but 60 miles of hard surfaced pavements. But that was the start of one of the most amazing highway building programs of all history, amazing in itself and amazing in consideration of the size of the task as compared with the state resources and population.

In a handful of years Louisiana has evolved a plan that will bring that state a total of 3,000 miles of hard surfaced roads, the job is one fourth done and the way is clear for finishing it in short order.

Louisiana has let 1,507 miles of concrete pavement to contract and half of this has been completed. Already this year contracts have been awarded for the construction of 760 miles and awards are pending on an additional 180 miles.

At present more than 80 paving outfits are busy laying concrete. Some of these paving outfits have had no difficulty in placing 1,500 feet of pavement daily, the best mark so far this year was the placement of 2,004 feet. Altogether the contractors now at work can likely turn out, if the weather is good, between 12 and 15 miles of pavement daily, which indeed is surcease for the pavement, thirsty Louisianian.

Louisiana has been able to speed up the paving of her state system by issuing road bonds which are easily financed by part of the funds accruing from the four-cent gasoline tax.

Lowly Carp is Becoming Leading Commercial Fish

The lowly carp, refused by many on the grounds that it is unsavory, is now ranked among the foremost six important species of commercial fish in Michigan.

During 1930, according to figures compiled by the Fish Division of the Conservation Department, commercial fishermen in this state took 1,501,000 pounds of carp in the four Great Lakes bordering Michigan.

The catch of carp has been growing for the past three years after a slump in 1928. In that year 860,000 pounds were reported as taken in Michigan waters. The following year the catch had increased to 902,000 pounds. The amount of carp taken in pounds for earlier years was: 1924, 1,336,576; 1925, 1,639,569; 1926, 1,571,410; 1927, 2,849,093.

The only commercial species exceeding carp in the size of catches now are whitefish lake trout, herring, suckers and chubs.

The carp is finding an increas-

Some of the Railroads are at Last Waking Up

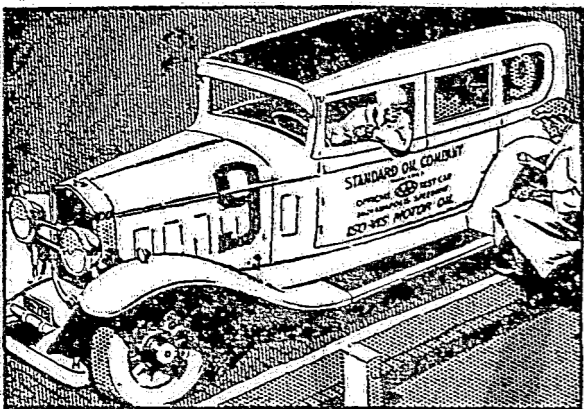

As part of its program to meet the growing competition of motor and air transportation, the Pennsylvania Railroad is planning the electrification of its lines between New York and Washington during the coming two years, at an estimated cost of $175,000,000. To defray some of the expense involved in this program, the Interstate Commerce Commission recently authorized the Pennsylvania System to issue $100,000,000 of bonds. Correspondence between the Commission and the railroad relative to this issue of securities produced the information that $100,000,000 of the $175,000,000 will be expended during the present year. The plans of the company call for the operation of electrically equipped trains between New York and Washington, on a three and one-half hour schedule. Most of the express trains now require four and three-quarters hours to cover the distance between the two cities. Under the new plan, the running time between New York and Washington will be reduced about one and one-quarter hours.

With smoke and soot eliminated and with speed greatly increased, the Pennsylvania hopes to regain some of the passenger traffic lost during recent years to the bus and the airplane.

For many months, the Interstate Commerce Commission has been holding hearings, both in Washington and at various points throughout the country, regarding the problems involved in the co-ordination of rail and motor transportation. At these hearings there has been a great deal of talk about the necessity of further regulating and taming motor transportation in order to equalize competition for the railroads.

Hollywood Defender

GEORGE ARLISS, dean of the stage and screen, has emerged as the defender of movieland. Believing that Hollywood and its screen personalities have been gravely maligned, he is carrying his championship to the air in a new radio series described as the "Newspaper of Hollywood." This radio series is designed to take the public back of the scenes in the film capital, and each week will introduce some outstanding star. John Barrymore, Dorothy Mackaill, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., are among the featured actors in his radio championship of Hollywood. Arliss says he will prove that the "wild life" there is a myth created by idle gossips.

Under-Privileged Children to Have Use State Parks

Every possible facility of Michigan's state park system will be placed at the disposal of the under-privileged children of the state. The conservation commission, at its May meeting, authorized and instructed the Parks Division of the Department to co-operate in every way with the Detroit Board of Education or any other organization wishing recreational facilities for the under-privileged child.

No new buildings will be constructed, at least at the present time, but buildings not in use and land that can be spared, will be set aside for the use of the under-privileged children when such requests are received.

Attention to the question was brought before the Commission through a letter from Alice B. Metzner, director of special education of the Detroit School system. Miss Metzner asked the state's co-operation in furnishing a camp site for the use of under-privileged Detroit children. The actual camp expenses will be paid by the Children's Fund of Michigan.

Michigan's state parks are designed for the use of those who have no other such recreational facilities, the commission said. No better use could be made of the parks system than to provide a place where under-privileged children may find educational and healthful recreation in the out of doors. The Department hopes that its ability to care for larger

Editor Sees Papers Operated by Government

"The newspaper that is demanding that the government go into some business other than its own, but is willing to urge the government to engage in the newspaper business, is, of course, mentally dishonest."

This statement is made editorially by the San Jose, Calif., Mercury Herald.

"Presumably," the Mercury Herald declares, "no American newspaper would advocate that the government enter the newspaper business in competition with privately owned publications. It would be unfair to existing papers for the government to enter the field as a competitor with tax-free property, and tax privately owned newspapers to meet the deficits of papers run without regard to their earning capacity because the taxpayers could be tapped to keep the government papers going."

"Nevertheless," continues the editorial, "many newspapers complain because President Hoover has vetoed the bill to put the politicians in the electric power and fertilizer business at Muscle Shoals with capital furnished from the federal treasury. This, despite the fact that existing power concerns are subject to state regulation of their rates, and are also subject to the injurious and administrative powers of the federal government."

At this point in the editorial, the Mercury Herald makes the charge of mental dishonesty, as above quoted, and follows it with:

"Such newspapers are hastening the time when newspapers shall first be made public utilities and then subjected to government competition. This day is being hastened by newspaper consolidations and the establishment of newspaper chains, which place the control of the publishing business, and along with it, a great power for the control of public opinion, in a constantly decreasing number of hands."

"There are just as many arguments for government entry into the newspaper field as to any other field of business; more, probably, because a newspaper is a public service enterprise in its ability to lead public opinion."

Michigan Expects 10,000,000 Guests in State Parks

Ten million people, more than twice the population of Michigan, will visit the state's parks this season. That is the estimate made by the Parks Division of the Conservation Department, and based on past attendance records.

The total attendance for all of the parks last year was 8,891,880, an increase of 19 per cent over the previous year. The figure for 1929 was 7,454,741, representing an increase of 39 per cent over 1928.

If last year's increase is maintained the 1931 season will record 10,229,000 visitors. The number of visitors and campers at the parks is largely dependent upon the weather. In normal seasons the increase has averaged 15 to 20 per cent. The large increase in 1929 was due, to the unusually warm summer.

Inaugurate Air Service from South Bend to Detroit

South Bend became an important focal point of operations on the Chicago-Detroit unit of the Century Air Lines, Inc., with the establishment of three daily direct runs from this city to Detroit, according to an announcement by L. B. Manning, vice president and general manager of the company.

Century Air Lines began operations on March 23 of this year, connecting Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland, Chicago, Springfield and St. Louis and carried 5,013 passengers in the first thirty days of operations, establishing what is believed to be a record for any American air line for a similar period.

South Bend, as a unit of this network, makes possible direct air connections to the east from Detroit, the west, from Chicago, and the south from St. Louis.

"The establishment of South Bend as an important stop on the Century Air Lines route marks a further step in making the Middle West the center of aviation in the United States," said Mr. Manning. "There is a very definite growing demand for more frequent and convenient air line schedules at fares comparable with railroad rates. We feel that the importance of South Bend as a business and industrial center warrants the frequent daily schedules which we have established."

Tri-motored ten-passenger Stinson planes are used by the Century Air Lines on their various routes.

These planes, equipped with Lycoming motors, have traveled 1,103,253 engine miles in the past sixty days, or the equivalent of more than forty-four times around the earth, with no motor failure of any kind since the line has been in operation. This more than doubles the world's record for stability of motors in service.

The Century tri-motor order for 100 planes placed last October with the Stinson Aircraft Corporation, was the largest order of its kind ever given. As these ships are completed and delivered to the Century Air Lines, they are placed into immediate service on the various units.

Chicago planes will arrive at South Bend and depart for Detroit at 12:10 p. m.; 3:10 p. m.; and 5:50 p. m.; Central Standard time, reaching Detroit one hour and 30 minutes later.

Planes from Detroit to South Bend will leave Detroit at 1 p. m.; 2:30 p. m. and 4:20 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, arriving at South Bend at 1:40 p. m.; 3:10 p. m. and 5 p. m. Central Standard time.

The fare from South Bend to Detroit is $9.95, between South Bend and Chicago, the fare is $4.95.

Millions Awaiting Salvage
The largest known bulk of "drowned gold" is that of the Vigo Bay plate fleet belonging to Spain. In 1703 the flotilla took refuge in Vigo Bay, northwest of Spain, guarded by French warships, but was sunk by British raiders. The gold and silver ingots are reported to have represented $100,000,000.

Mich. and Canadian Men Exchange 2 Wild Geese

This spring Willard Ferguson trapped at the South Flats of the Muskegon River, a Canada goose that had been banded by Jack Miner in Ontario, Canada, and a few days later Jack Miner caught a wild goose that had been tagged by Ferguson.

The record as received by the Department of Conservation is as follows:

On April 6, 1930, Ferguson marked a wild goose with Biological Survey Band "A660-775." On April 6, 1931, exactly a year later, Miner trapped this bird at his sanctuary near Kingsville and put one of his hands on the bird so that it now bears two "bracelets."

This spring among the geese captured by Ferguson was one which Jack Miner had trapped and banded in the fall of 1928, more than two years ago.

Evidently the wild geese zig-zagged across the country on their northward migration or they chose new routes these years.

Ferguson banded 30 geese a year ago and 37 more this year. Of those banded in 1930, five were reported as having been killed by hunters last fall; three in Illinois, one in Indiana and one in North Carolina. Ferguson has also banded several hundred ducks in co-operation with the state department of conservation.

Mallard Had Made Speed

According to a report made to the bureau of biological survey of the Department of Agriculture, a Mallard duck banded on November 23, 1930, at Big Sannico, Green Bay, Wis., was killed five days later near Georgetown, S. C., which is a record for individual speed of migration.

Constitution First

The Constitution was written before the preamble, and voted upon, section by section. It was then submitted to the committee on style, which made the final draft, placing the preamble in its proper place. It was then voted upon in its entirety.

MORTGAGE SALE

Default having been made in the Said mortgage provides that should default be made in the payment of any of the sums in said mortgage provided or any part thereof for a period of four months that the mortgagee may cause a computation to be made of the sum remaining unpaid upon said mortgage, and declare such sum to be due and payable immediately, and whereas, more than four months have elapsed and the said mortgagors have failed to pay the principal and interest as required said mortgage, and no suit or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the moneys required by said mortgage or any part thereof.

power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the Statute in such case made and provided, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that on Mon-hipped branch. Once the home of the calicoes, always their home.

The unidentified "beautiful lady" shown in the Record office photograph was none other than Miss Flora Sterrett, who came from Decatur and while in Buchanan she made her home with her sister, Mrs. George I. Blowers. When she left the Record she and Miss Lenah Michael went to Ann Arbor and embarked in the millinery business.

I am quite interested in the story of Mr. Calvert regarding the portraits of Buchanan and vicinity. It was Charles A. Chapin, instead of Chaplain who bought from the Beckwith estate. When the dam was sold to Beckwith they paid $4000 for the equity above a $30,000 mortgage and after operating it a few years and after the axle works they erected was burned, the sale brought $100, 000. At the time the sale was made to Beckwith I was in hactury to keep a lively case of pneumonia cool, so did not attend the sale.

Another feature of that dam(n) sale with which the Buchanan general public was not familiar:
Holmes & English had opened negotiations with one millionaire named Stone from Chicago to take over the property, improve and extend it. Stone and son came out to Buchanan, viewed the property and pronounced it good, but in order to be sure of getting all outstanding claims cleared he demanded it be taken through a receiver's hands, so to Grand Rapids it went into Judge Withey's court. The whole scheme was to include the building of a twenty foot dam across the Paw Paw river at Benton Harbor, backing water to Watervliet so lake boats could run up there, when there was just the same use for lake boats in Watervliet as there is now for ocean ships in Bakertown.

When proceedings had gone so far that the property was thoroughly tied up, bucked and gagged Stone made an extra requirement which could not under any circumstances be complied with and then vanished. The public knows the rest.
Holmes and English were then driven into a receivership.

No one can think of John Morris without the association of the telephone in Buchanan, the electric phone. In its first establishment he had the switchboard in his store with ten customers. Before that there was quite a system of tin can and cotton string phones quite completely covering the town. The first of these I recollect connected my home in what was then the Howell F. Strong home at the corner of Fourth and Main streets, and the home of John Mansfield, the next house at the North and about ten rods away, using two cans and a tight twisted cotton string. This was followed by sounding boxes with drum leather dia-phram and at first a single strand of binder wire but that made too much music with the aeolian vibration. This was avoided by twisting two strands together.

George Slater and George Howard made quite a business of erecting these very convenient contrivances.

The best fish story for that section was of the farmer who caught an eight pound pickerel out in Terre Coupe Prairie with a pitch fork about three miles east of New Carlisle, Cottage Hill way continuously in six weeks the fish was wandering about looking for a suitable place to spawn. Believe it or not. 'S' fact.

R. R. Executive States Society Owes Men Jobs

In a recent discussion of the present industrial situation Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, said:

Mr. Owen Young, in a very thoughtful and interesting address, declared "The world does not owe man a living, but business, if it is to fulfill its ideal, owes man an opportunity to earn a living." I agree with Mr. Young that all men are entitled to an opportunity to earn their living under any economie system worthy of the name, but I do not agree that the responsibility for furnishing the opportunity rests entirely upon business. On the contrary, I think the responsibility rests upon society as a whole. Business is but one of the many manifestations of our social activities. Society must assume the burden of providing for steady employment of labor because it is for the benefit of society that we have mass production and reduced costs.

Some time ago, I was asked to appear before a special committee of the United States Senate which had been appointed to investigate the matter of unemployment, and at that time I ventured to call attention to some of the changes in our economic conditions which had occurred within the period of my own recollection. Among other things, I said that fifty years ago a boy living on a farm in New England felt no serious concern regarding his future. He might conclude, as in my own case, that Vermont was fully or sufficiently populated and that some of the younger generation would find it desirable, if not necessary, to look elsewhere for employment. Even so, that picture held no terrors for him or for me. On the contrary, rather, it presented an attractive challenge.

At that time, the so-called West was new. Millions of acres of the best farming lands were to be had at moderate prices with easy payments. New cities were growing up. Railroads were being constructed. There was plenty of opportunity in those so-called newer regions for young men to obtain employment such as might best suit their inclinations.

Today, the situation is entirely changed. The best lands in the West have been taken up. The period of rapid railroad expansion is closed. The cities, large and small, have reached a more stabilized condition, in keeping with the present day requirements. When a man now, young or old, finds himself out of employment for any reason, the problem of securing a new job suitable to his capacity and inclination is a much more serious one.

Tea for Three, Backstage

HERE are three little girls from a current Broadway success enjoying a sweet snack between acts back stage. Sweet? Oh, yes, they say it must be sweet, because scientists have proved that sugar is the quickest acting of all energy foods. And energy is what they need, for the moguls of musical comedy have decreed that the girls in their shows must have "vim, vigor and vitality" plus. So, if the girls feel a little peppy at the end of an act, they send out an "S. O. S. for a sweet. Fannie Brice takes her energy straight in the form of lump sugar.

Stabilization or employment will be promoted greatly by a state of mind reflecting a conscious desire to effect such stabilization. We have developed a new state of mind that did not exist in pre-war days when men were discharged or employed more freely and sometimes, I fear, without sufficient consideration to the effect of such action on the men themselves.

It is only fair for me to point out that the uncertainties arising out of the Transportation Act have had a deterring and unsettling effect upon the operation of railroads. Please understand that I am not speaking in any spirit of criticism when I say that our immediate operating problems have been made more difficult to solve by the uncertainty arising from the still unsettled status of railroad consolidation as provided for in the Transportation Act. The Baltimore & Ohio management was able in the past, before the passage of the Transportation Act, to decide with reasonable promptness matters pertaining to the future needs and development of the property. Its officers could plan intelligently for the care of additional business which might be expected in the future but, as conditions actually have been since the enactment of the consolidation provision, it has been quite impossible to deal un-derstandingly and definitely with many problems which constantly arise.

It is my thought that, in the con-summation of any plan of consoli-dation or unification involving the Baltimore & Ohio which the Com-mission may approve, the Balti-more & Ohio should undertake to safeguard the interests of all its employees. More specifically, this means that every man employ-ed by the Baltimore & Ohio should be retained in the service of the com-pany in the same work and at the same compensation so far as pos-sible and justifiable, and that this same treatment should be extend-ed to the employees of other com-panies which may be unified with the Baltimore & Ohio. In the event that, because of such unifi-cation, it becomes necessary or economically desirable to combine any of the functions of the prop-erties constituting the unified sys-tem or, through the modification of existing operations or practices, to suspend or terminate certain classes of employment at certain points, the Baltimore & Ohio should un-derstand, to the best of its ability, to provide similar or equivalent employment for such employees at other points and to assist in their relocation.

Chevrolet Stages Million June Demonstrations

A national demonstration cam-paign, with a goal of one million demonstrations during the month, has been mapped out for June by the Chevrolet Motor company.

The campaign is in line with Chevrolet's previously expressed opinion that the potential buying capacity of the country is unim-paired and requires only intensive sales effort to develop a satisfac-tory volume, according to H. J. Klingler, vice president and gen-eral sales manager.

The past four months for which registration figures are complete show that Chevrolet sales have led the domestic passenger car market.

During the month of June, ev-ery one of the 35,000 Chevrolet dealers, sales managers and sales-men will be required to fill an as-signed quota of demonstrations, appraisals and sales.

The campaign is unique in that the objective is directly aimed at increased demonstrations, and that special recognition will be given salesmen who fill their demonstra-tion quota.

During the month the campaign will be strongly supported by deal-er window displays, campaign but-tons, wind-shield stickers, special advertising literature and helpful guidance from the factory.

"Time and experience have proven that sales are made directly in proportion to the number of con-vincing demonstrations and this fact was never more true than in the case of the 1931 Chevrolet car. The smooth six cylinder power of this car, together with its beauty of line and wide range of selection makes it unquestionably the great American value of the year," Mr. Klingler said.

Mich. Land Value High Compared to Remainder U. S.

Michigan scores favorably in comparison with other states in maintaining more stable farm land values, even in the face of the present depressing influences surrounding agriculture. While the state's land values have been carried downward from the high point reached in 1920, the extent of the drop has been much less than for the United States as a whole and less than for any other corn belt state. Taking the average value of all farm lands, including improvements, for the period of 1922 to 1931 as a base, or 100 per cent, it is found that farm real estate values steadily advanced in Michigan from 1912 until, in 1920, they were 54 per cent above the pre-war level. Since that year, they have been lower each successive year and are now only 15 per cent above the base period.

Beautiful Mess Hall of a Soldiers' Home

A striking view of the new modernistic mess hall at the National Military home at Satele, Calif. This attractive building replaces an old frame structure which burned down, and is part of the program costing $1,000,000 of the $2,100,000 government appropriation for replacing old buildings with new brick, concrete and steel construction.

ed in Michigan from 1912 until, in 1920, they were 54 per cent above the pre-war level. Since that year, they have been lower each successive year and are now only 15 per cent above the base period.

For the United States as a whole, farm lands rose in value to 170 per cent in 1920 and have since declined to 106 per cent. The respective values for some of the leading agricultural states are as follows: Ohio, 159 and 82 per cent; Indiana, 161 and 72 per cent; Illinois, 160 and 80 per cent; Wisconsin, 171 and 104 per cent; Minnesota, 213 and 116 per cent; Iowa, 213 and 98 per cent; Missouri, 167 and 79 per cent; Nebraska, 179 and 106 per cent; Kansas, 151 and 103 per cent. The only states showing a less decline than Michigan are the New England group, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Florida, New Mexico, Nevada, and the Pacific Coast states. In general, the states experiencing the greatest appreciation during and immediately following the war have suffered the heaviest slump in values since 1920. These deductions are made by the Michigan Co-operative Crop Reporting Service and are based upon yearly reports of pre-acre land values made by Federal State crop reporters for their individual localities to the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

It will be noted further that the states reporting the greater declines in value are those whose farming activities center chiefly around grain and livestock production. In Michigan, New York, New England and the Pacific coast states where extensive diversification is practised through the inclusion of fruit-growing, truck farming, dairying or other specialized forms of agriculture, the change in land values has been the least marked. Hence, the farmers in these states are in a relatively better position today than in other sections of the country, just as the manufacturing and business concerns whose invested capital has maintained the greatest stability through this period of rapidly changing values are now looked upon as the safer investment.

There is always a strong urge to invest in any commodity when its value is moving rapidly upward. This was the case with farm lands between 1918 and 1920. These farms have since declined in value to such an extent that the mortgages in many cases exceed the present value of the farms. It is this class of farm investors who have suffered most severely. It is probable that, with the present financial depression approaching its end, land values are very close to the bottom and many economists are predicting that they are now cheaper than they will be for several decades, and possibly cheaper than they may be in the future. It would seem from these indications that, notwithstanding the present unfavorable prices of farm products, now is the most opportune time for the young man who intends to engage in farming to make his investment and on the other hand, it is not a favorable time for farm owners to dispose of their holdings.
