

MUST REDUCE FARM TAX, BRUCKER SAYS

Kalamazoo District Summer Conference Held Here Aug. 19 to 30

Now Here's
the Proposition

REMEDIES

By Haws

If one should come to me today And stand before my desk and say:

"I want to make a full confession,
I am the cause of the depression;
I am the guy that you can thank for fifteen hundred busted banks;
'Twas me with U. S. steel played the hob

And made a pauper out of Schwab And sent John D. and Ford to snoop
Among the breadlines for free soup;

Because of me each market's close Sees stock quotations hit new lows
And keep on hitting them, did not I?"

Though wise guys bought them at the bottom—
And now, since you can hardly doubt it,
What do you want to do about it?"

Why, likely, in a case like that I'd want to hunt a snubnosed gal
And bore him with a slug or two To let the gladness shine thru,
Or bust him with a hefty rock
And yet, although one hearty sock, Perchance might help assuage my grief

And bring a period of relief,
"Wouldn't take up the business slack,

Nor help to get my money back Nor hearten up the market quotes, Nor stir the interest on my notes
Nor stir the dust on the machines, Nor unspool any scattered beans.
And so, why should we gallop round.

Until some one to blame is found,
Some poor, sad goof whom we can blame
And point at with the heart of shame.

Best turn our backs upon the dead
Dark days and forge, full steam ahead.
What e'er the origin may be—Revenge is not the remedy.

"But if there's robbers back there,

BOY IS TAKEN IN CUSTODY FOR VIOLENT ATTACKCo. Officers Take Joe Heim to St. Joe to be Entered in Detention Home.

Joe Heim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Heim, who reside a mile and three quarters south of Buchanan, was taken to St. Joseph Tuesday in custody of Deputy Sheriff Fred Hall to be held until Sept. 1, when he will be entered at some state industrial school.

Action was taken as the result of an attack by young Heim on his parents with a knife when they withheld the use of the parental car. Several weeks ago local officers were called and took a gun from the boy with which he had threatened his parents.

The boy had been sullen and brooding over the refusal of the use of the car and suddenly attacked his father with a knife which he had spent some time sharpening. The father struggled with him and averted serious injury until Mrs. Heim summoned William Martell, who was able to disarm him.

MERCURY TOUCHES
50 DEGREES IN WEATHER RELIEFGrain Yields are Reduced by the Long Stretch of Hot Weather.

Mercury readings which touched 50 degrees yesterday morning and which have been running between 70 and 80 degrees in the daytime brought relief to the Buchanan district this week, after one of the most prolonged and extreme hot weather periods in the memory of inhabitants.

The east yields of this section proved very disappointing according to results from threshing outfits due to the fact that the heads were shrunk by the hot weather which blasted them in the milk. Oliver York, who has three machines in operation on Portage Prairie, reports that the average oat yield per acre in that section was 22 bushels. Wheat yields have been much better. A yield of 34 bushels was reported from the York farm and of 35 bushels from the Marsh farm in the Buchanan district.

Complete Paving
on M-60 to Pike
Lake Fill Today

The Lewis & Frisinger Construction Company will complete paving on the new M-60 to the Pike Lake fill this evening, according to estimates by the contractors yesterday and will then merely lay their tracks for 1500 feet over that fill and the Dayton fill and complete another mile to the west before moving headquarters to Gallen.

The state highway department engineering force is now engaged in jetty work to complete the settlement of dirt in the Dayton Lake fill, which was left undetermined after the dynamite blasts to drive the muck from underneath last summer. The construction company will be able to lay the track for their industrial railway across the two fills but will not be able to install paving there until some later date. It is not known at present how long the completion of the paving at the fills will be delayed.

The Evangelical Sunday School picnic was held at Hudson Lake Saturday with an attendance of 100. Miniature golf and a number of contests formed the entertainment. William Schultz was in charge of the sports.

DAYTON TIGERS
EVEN SCORES
WITH ORIOLESOrioles to Meet Buchanan
Grays on Local Diamond;
No Admission.

In a complete reversal of form, the Buchanan Orioles suffered a 6-2 defeat at the hands of the Dayton Tigers. It was a game which was presented to the Tigers who deserve credit for playing a game. The Tigers presented Buchanan with only one run, while the Orioles were so big-hearted that all of the Tigers' runs were unearned.

Sebasti, after a shaky start pitched excellent ball, allowing only 4 hits, two by Art Ross who continues his fine hitting. Marrs pitched well also, but the odds were against him.

Buchanan got the only earned run in the first inning. After Chain's demise, Roti singled, held first while Wynn popped out, and then came home on Ross' long two bagger. Ross later scored on an error. These should have been enough to win the game, but in the 5th an attack of lethargy seized Chain and with the bases loaded and two out, he muffed two grounders, then Querio caught the disease and muffed L. Leiter's easy fly, thereby climaxing the rally.

The crowd was very pleasing and next Sunday the Orioles promise to snap out of their sickness when they battle the Buchanan Greys in a civil war at the local diamond. Admission free.

Former Buchanan Man Married in Panama Canal Zone

The Record has received a clipping from a Panama Canal Zone paper relative to the nuptials of N. E. Dillman, a former Buchanan resident, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Dillman. The Dillmans left Buchanan fourteen years ago, going to Antigo, Wis., and young Dillman went from there to the Canal Zone, where he has lived several years. He is a brother of Mrs. Lloyd Rough, a resident of Portage Prairie until recently.

A very pretty but quiet wedding was solemnized last evening at the Union church parsonage when Miss Maxine Potts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Potts of Ancon, and Mr. N. E. Dillman of Balboa, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, the Rev. R. E. Marshall, pastor of the church, performing the beautiful ring service.

The bride was most attractive in a gown of silk embroidered eyelet net, wearing a corsage bouquet of bride's roses and a picture hat of white proline braid trimmed with white roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Constance Smart, was dressed in peach colored georgette wearing a corsage bouquet of pink roses with hat to match. The groom and his best man wore tropical white. Mrs. Potts, mother of the bride, was most becomingly gowned in orchid georgette and lace.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the Miramar Club, the relatives of the bride being present.

Mr. and Mrs. Dillman have been residents of the Canal Zone for a number of years and have many friends who wish for them a happy and prosperous future. Mrs. Dillman is physical directress of Ancon Playgrounds. They will go to housekeeping immediately.

EARLY SHIFT
TAX BURDEN
IS NECESSITYSays Visible Property now Carries Brunt; 9,000,000 Acres Tax Delinquent.

In the not distant future the Michigan farmer must have tax relief, declared Gov. Wilbur N. Brucker in his address before 3,000 farmers at the Tri-County Grange and Farm Bureau picnic held at the Crystal Springs camp grounds Saturday afternoon.

The only real and effective relief that could be extended to the farmer is tax relief, the governor stated. At the present, he and the other real property owners shoulder the entire burden, because their holdings are visible to the eye. As a result 9,000,000 acres of public lands were returned as tax delinquent in the past year.

State economies can mitigate the tax burden only in a minor degree, Brucker stated, because the fact that only 10 per cent of the burden is state tax, the remaining 90 per cent being imposed by county, township, school-board and municipalities.

"I've had a lot of fun poked at my little old slogan of 'kitchen economy' but I think I will stay right with it," said the governor and was greeted with a salvo of applause.

Brucker stated that it would not be possible to cut the cost of public institutions, in view of the present problems of law enforcement. The net increase in the number of prisoners in the Jackson prison alone during the first four months of the year was 600, he stated, as compared with a total prison population of 1600 in 1930.

"I have not let out a single prisoner by pardon or commutation of sentence since the first of the year," he said, "I would rather have a record of that sort than to turn those rascals loose on society to repeat their depredations, even if it does cost the state more money. Certainty of the fact that there can be no mitigation of sentence will have effect in deterring the commission of crime. The Michigan is going to be enforced."

The governor was followed by Congressman Ketcham, who devoted his time mainly to a plea to the farm organization to throw their weight as heavily as possible against the rail rate increase of 15 per cent, on which hearings will be resumed before the interstate commerce commission. The latter part of the present month.

Agriculture's freight bill in 1930 was $398,854,000 the congressman stated, and a 15 per cent increase would amount to $134,828,000 on the costs of carrying the farmer's product to market, leaving out of consideration the increased charge the farmer would pay on products shipped back to him. Ninety-five per cent of the wheat from Topeka, Kas., to Galveston, Tex. is 21.3 cents per bushel. From Galveston to Liverpool the boat freight is eight cents per bushel, a total of 29 cents, which, subtracted from the world price of 61 cents per bushel, leaves only 32 cents, out of which the farmer must pay production costs, carrying charges, Topeka insurance, warehouse charges and other costs.

Sergeant Needham of the state police delivered a pointed and instructive talk on safety on the highways. He stated that out of 1,000 applications for drivers licenses, 100 had been rejected under the examination provisions of the new state law.

Ninety-five per cent of the accidents on the highways are due to mental fault on the part of the driver, only 5 per cent being attributable to mechanical faults of the cars.

Sergeant Needham conducted a safety driving contest in the morning, which was won by Richard Ridenour of Dowagiac, C. H. Bookwalter of Niles, and Francis Schell of Dowagiac.

WHEN you buy a Ford car today, you buy what is unquestionably the greatest value in the history of the Ford Motor Company. Never before has so much beauty, comfort, safety and performance been offered at such a low price.

The low price of the Ford is something to think about because it means an immediate saving of many dollars — always an important consideration. But far more significant than price alone is what you get for that price. When high quality is combined with low price, you may justly take pride in having found a most satisfactory purchase.

See the Ford — ride in it — learn something about the value that is built into every part. The more you know about it, the more certain you will be that it is the car for you. It is literally true that when you get the facts you will get a Ford.

Automobile Insurance Information

Stock Company Insurance

In stock company insurance the policy holder transfers his risk to an incorporated company, which company assumes all such risk in return for a fixed premium. The company's agreement in the assumption of such risk is guaranteed by capital paid in by the stock holders of that company, which capital must be maintained unimpaired so long as the company does business. The policy holders assume no liability; and in no event can they be subjected to assessment. There is no form of insurance so sound as stock company insurance.

Mutual Insurance

In mutual insurance the policy holder becomes a member of a company which agrees to assume the policy holder's risk, but there is no capital to cover payment of losses in excess of the premiums or deposits collected, and each member assumes a contingent liability to assessment, if needed to pay excess losses, and each member (policy holder) assumes this contingent with or without limit, depending upon the terms of his policy, the charter of the company, and the laws of the State which granted the charter. Consequently, a mutual insurance policy, instead of being an asset, may become a liability—and sometimes a "whale" of a liability.

In other words, the risks, which in a stock insurance company are shouldered by the stock holders, in mutual insurance are borne by the policy holders.

Some mutual companies issue what is known as a "non-assessable" policy. It may readily be seen that a mutual company has no capital, its method of obtaining funds to make up loss deficits must be through the medium of assessments. If, however, the mutual company's policies are non-assessable, the very feature on which mutuals depend, in lieu of capital, to guarantee payment to policyholders, is wiped out. And it needs to be realized that the validity of a non-assessable mutual policy is conditional. There is always danger that a so-called non-assessable policy may be held in fact to be assessable.

Reciprocal Insurance

In reciprocal insurance individuals (usually called "subscribers") simply exchange insurance among one another. Each subscriber agrees with every other subscriber to assume part of the latter's risk, thus in effect creating something in the nature of a partnership in risk, and thus making each subscriber an insurer as well as an assured.

In reciprocal insurance the insurance contracts are issued through an attorney-in-fact. The attorney-in-fact manages the business and does so for his own benefit, but he assumes none of the risks. All of the risks are borne by the subscribers, and naturally such risks are not only complex and varied but are often extremely serious for financially responsible individuals.

A feature of reciprocal insurance, of which many policy holders have not the faintest idea, is that they themselves are insuring large numbers of other policy holders about whom they know nothing. They execute extraordinary powers-of-attorney, whereby they make their attorney-in-fact a perfect "czar", to run an insurance business for them uncontrolled, at their risk, but for his profit, which is apt to land them in a financial and legal quagmire from which escape will be ruinously expensive.

Some Do's and Don'ts

In the purchase of any kind of insurance the purchaser should determine carefully not only the extent of protection promised but also the certainty of protection afforded him by the policy. One should view with more or less skepticism any insurance that is offered largely on the basis of how cheap it is. It may be cheap to get in, but most expensive to get out.

Never sign an application for insurance without first carefully reading and fully understanding it. If such application subjects you to the assumption of new risks or liabilities, or places you in a position where you may be subject to assessment, or causes you to agree to abide by the rules of some association over which you have no control, then the only safe and sound rule to follow is: "Let it alone."

FINALLY—Read your policy—ask questions—buy sound insurance. If you make sure you are getting what you think you are getting; if you select your insurance company on the basis of sound business principles, rather than on the basis of "cheapness" or of "good fellowship" then in case of trouble insurance will prove to be your best friend.

ROUND ABOUT BUCHANAN

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF

A couple of years back the late Clayton Niles attended a Chicago-Buchanan society picnic here and while chewing the fat with the other old timers present he told of the battles waged in those days between the boys of Niles and Buchanan. For the boys of one town to visit the girls of the other was considered rank trespass, Niles said, and usually ended in a battle royal that sometimes developed in a running fight, back to the other city if the invaders were outnumbered.

That this practice is still in vogue is indicated by a battle between two Niles and two Buchanan boys on the vacant lots opposite the Four Flags. The local youths were out-weighted and one of them was laid out cold, so we are told, when the survivor suddenly decided the fray by laying out both his opponents with a pop bottle.

BACK YARD GOLF COURSES

Although the premature golf course never really arrived at Buchanan in a commercial way, there are nevertheless a number of the vest pocket variety in the local back yards, where the future Walter Hagans and Bobby Jones are turning in par scores daily. There are at least two that we know of on North Oak Street, one in the Charles Ellis yard and another in the John Leiter yard.

The players use improvised golf clubs made from crooked sticks, which were selected out in neighboring woods with great care to imitate the real thing. The holes are tin cans sunk in the dirt. The holes are from 15 to 30 feet apart and are frequently negotiated in one. The Ellis course has nine holes but the Leiter course at present has only eight. Par for the Ellis course is 22 strokes and for the Leiter course 17 strokes. We have never seen the Leiter course but the Ellis course is a very "sporty" affair, with a real natural sand trap and a lot of rough.

WOODEN-LEGGED MERMAID

Recently we heard of something that sounded like what is known in newspaper parlance as a "feature."

A girl with a wooden leg was said to be swimming and diving at the Columbian Beach resort at Clear Lake.

Our first impulse was to grab a camera and rush to the beach and ask for the privilege of a picture and an interview. In view of the alleged physical timidity of the fair and unfair sex, it seemed more than worthy of mention that one of them should overcome not only fear but a heavy physical handicap as well.

But then it occurred to us that women are excessively vain about the appearance of the nether extremities once designated as "limbs," but known in this franker age as "legs!" We have been made indirectly aware on numerous occasions that the greatest insult you can hand any woman is to insinuate in any way that her legs would not pass muster in a beauty revue.

She can bear with equanimity remarks which reflect on the shape of her nose, and the size of her mouth or ears, or the color of her hair, but belittle the appearance of her legs and she is an enemy for life.

And so we decided reluctantly that instead of appreciating our motive, the young lady with the wooden leg would undoubtedly take our camera from us and bang it over our heads.

LEARNS NEW BRAILLE SYSTEM

One of the most contented men in Buchanan, if appearances and the maintenance of an air of cheerfulness counts for anything, is Dell Jordan of South Days Avenue.

If we heard correctly it was in 1887, 44 years ago, that Dell lost his eyes, as the result of an accident that occurred in the old windmill factory which was located in the room now occupied by the Record print shop.

Now Dell puts in his time at his modest home listening most of the time to the radio. His main solace seems to be a religious faith that is quite different from that of most other people, but which works as far as being a comfort to Dell is concerned. And one outward and visible test of a religion is certainly the state of mind in which it puts its possessor.

Just recently Dell took a correspondence in a new improved Braille system of reading for the blind. It consists of a sort of shorthand in raised dots which he reads with his fingers. Now he has mastered the new system and is reading books in it. He can go through a book with his fingers almost as fast as the ordinary person can with the use of his eyes.

WHAT IF THE DEVIL SHOULD BLOW THE WHISTLE?

In the short stories of Edgar Allen Poe there is a tale entitled "The Devil in the Belfry," which relates the fate of the Holland village of Vondervotteimitis. This village had a great seven-faced clock which kept exact time and which regulated the entire town, so that all the inhabitants did everything at the same time. That is, until the devil got into the belfry and mixed up the hours, and the whole town went crazy.

While not regulated to the same extent, Buchanan, nevertheless has a regulator in the form of one, Arlin Clark, High Chief Blower of the Whistle, by whose daily blasts hundreds of Buchanan people get out of bed, go to work, return for dinner—not to mention run to fires and shut off the water.

Mr. Clark blows the whistle five times daily, at 6 a. m., 7 a. m., 12 noon, 1 p. m. and 6 p. m.

And when the whistle blows for six or seven o'clock, you can bet your bottom dime that it is just that o'clock. The whistle is blown in accordance with an electric clock that is regulated daily. On the rare occasions when Clark fails to get to his push button within a matter of a few seconds of the exact hour, the whistle is not blown for that day. Clark has a wire connection from his home to the electric siren, with a button attachment. In addition to the five daily whistles, there are occasional fire warnings, one long, continuous blast until the first fireman arrives. As a warning before the water is shut off four intermittent blasts are blown.

Skilled and Careful Car Washing

There is a difference, folks! There are many ways of going over a car with water, a sponge and a chamois, but the way our men are trained to wash cars is to do it without harm to the surface, with shining methods that give the longest-life to luster, and getting into the little corners.

The Old Timer's Corner
Watch Your Step During Hot Weather, Says Old TimerAnd it had been a very hot day and we were all in from the heat (and incidentally the "humidity") but we couldn't help noticing the little rustling breeze that now and then came along and fanned us gently. It was true to form, and old Mother Nature never gives us more than we can rightfully stand. When she sees that we are getting a little off thecourse, she sends along a little relief to sort of prod us along and make the going a little easier.
It has been a mighty hot time for the last month or so and makes me feel as though its nearly winter time again. The fields all short of wheat and oats and rye and "such," the corn in the tassel and going strong, and it won't be long now until it will all be over.Yesterday we had our coal bin filled to the top, preparing for the days of fall and winter just around the corner. Yes, I believe in "preparedness" in so far as it is humanly possible.I haven't been over "home" since the last of June, but if it gets a little cooler I want to run over again and just live among the old friendly trees and lakes and the good old river, and stop worrying about everything for a little while and rest. We have to keep up a certain "pitch" or we slip backward, but we can "let down" now and then, stay out of the hot sunshine, and just rest. It's great.
I never was able to do that when I was a youngster, for I always found something that I felt had to be done, just then, and couldn't rest at all even though I forced myself to "sit a while." The mind would keep going and making plans for the next step etc. But now we are older and it just sort of comes natural to really stop and rest part of the time.I think that all "old timers" have it coming to them to take it easy, even if they are not rich, for they have done the best they could as they saw it, at the time and now they are letting others take the fore-front and they have to sit by and look on, to a certain extent. Some of us have to keep on plodding or we wouldn't "eat."
But we don't eat as much as we used to. Ha Ha. I think that all of us older ones should take a little more time for things, now, and not go out in the hottest part of the day unless we can find a shady place to do our work. The old human body is a wonderful machine, but who ever heard of any other machine that would work as long as the one we call the "body?" It is impossible for any machine, human or otherwise, to run on and on for always, (even a Ford will break down some time), and so will you and I, but we can keep them going and putting up a pretty good bluff if we just take a little time for it and don't rush matters too much for this old machine of ours. Hot weather is not so good for us, but we will come through O. K. if we don't overdo a good thing.Mighty glad to see new names now and then signed to articles in "the corner." Good work. That was the one idea in starting this little spot in our "home paper" so that we could get news of our old friends and all letters are welcome, no matter if you don't think it sounds like "much" for it will be read by some one that will like it and be glad to have heard from you. Let's hear from more of you I guess I started it, but it is not to blame for having a "bum starter." Watch your step while it is so hot and write a letter to us.

OLD TIMER.

Will Wood Visits
And Talks Over Old Times in BuchananWill Wood of South Bend was a visitor in the Record office on Tuesday. He stated that as a boy his first job was working for Orville Carlisle, who had the contract for painting wagon wheels in the third story of the wagon factory. Later he worked for Gus Kuntz in the windmill factory which was located in the newer annex built on to the east.He also stated that in the course of his travels over the country as furniture salesman he occasionally met John Holmes, editor emeritus of the Record, in Cedar Rapids, Ia., and that Holmes was lively and chipper, with a remarkable memory for old times.Born to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph

Mrs. Emma Rorrow was married Saturday afternoon to Lawrence Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R.

mony being held in St. Peters Evangelical church of South Bend. They will live at Bakertown.

Let the World-Mover Do It

A statesman says that the matter of unemployment should be in the hands of women legislators. Any woman, he claims, can always find work for a man to do.—Minneapolis Journal.

Woman Warrior's Banner

Joan of Arc herself designed her flag or banner. It was made of white linen and fringed with silk.
On it was painted a figure of God holding the world in his hands, with the hills of France on either side.
The hills of France were dotted over the linen and the words "Jesus Maria" were inscribed. There is a record in the public library at Tours that this flag was made by a Scotchman named Poulton, who received 25 francs for his work.Esther Winch Contributes Memories of Galien WoodsThe Name Galien
The Record's newspaper accrued in obtaining the origin and significance of the name Galien was an accomplishment. I had wandered, like a distracted ghost, through volumes of northland history to find the word. Mr. Fox's errand and especially his excavation of French historical lore seems really a "King Tut" episode in miniature.I thank the Record and Mr.
Fox for the answer to "Why Gallien?" Eighty years ago (more or less) I heard over and over, stories of the great flocks of birds in the "thick woods." Hordes of them. Sometimes they got off from their habitat and ravaged the small crops in the settler's clearings. Chief Pokagon took action against them. I have long since forgotten the story. These birds were called pigeons by the settlers. White Pigeon—it was said, was named from the numerous flocks of pigeons or doves thereabout. Those I saw, long, long ago, shot by hunters, were of dark color. There were, no doubt, millions of birds, doves, pigeons or pheasants, by whatever name, that lived in the Michigan woods. The long occupancy of French missionaries, discoverers trappers give entire credence to Galien's French origin, as a name.Through the centuries the Indians were almost as numerous as the birds in the mid-western woods of Michigan. They left only names. The Shawnees, Wyandots, Hurons, Osages, Pottawatomies and Ottawas, left only their tribal name in the vicinity of Kansas City, where they were sent from the waterways and woods of Michigan to the western plains.One feels twinges of pity when reading "A Century of Dishonor" or hearing a story (my father told) of the good Indian Sonton-Amarril, Tex.ago, who saved many white people during the British invasion of New York in 1812. Theodore Roosevelt says, in his history of "Winning the West" it was killed or be killed by the savages. Perhaps so.Michigan has been, is now, nature's great horn of plenty, open at both ends. Crossed and surrounded by nature's highways, it's woods full of game and furry creatures, nuts, berries and wild fruit in great profusion, Michigan long ago was a haven and a paradise for tribes, trappers and breeders.
Its territory lost and won, lost and won again under the American flag, gave the state the uncounted wealth of its timber and productiveness of its soil.I may not come by way of the Galien Woods again. So the corner (I know) will pardon this digression. My husband, M. Rollin Winch, who lived sometime in Buchanan, was born in 1846 and grew up in Galena, LaPorte Co., Ind. This was in the Galien Woods, a half mile from the state line. Three Oaks, the trees, were five miles away. Three Oaks, the town then had no existence. The woods ended somewhere in La-Porte County. LaPorte—the door —opened in the prairies southward. The Galien boundaries were indefinite. The thick woods, as it was called, crossed the state line into Indiana. Sometimes after settlers came to Galena township packs of wolves were neighborhood menaces. Bears occasionally wandered within rifle shot of homes. Imagine this! (less than 100 years ago within 20 miles of Buchanan).In 1848 a single track of the M. C. R. R. reached New Buffalo.
Wagon loads of children for miles around, were taken to New Buffalo to see the cars. They also were taken on the train from the station to the wharf. They had seen real cars. They too, had seen wolves. Rollin and his sister met one on their way to school. They, tiny tots, thought it was a dog and began to pet it. The wolf said nothing but a "miracle" man came to their rescue.Although I have lived three-fourths of my 87 years in a city, memory lingers happily in the Ga-lien Woods "boarding around."

comply with all of the regulations for taking of non-game fish.Perch and pike-perch, which

Facts Taken From Census Report on County of Berrien

Berrien county has 546 divorced men and 470 divorced women residing within its borders, according to the 1930 government census figures released recently. Widowed men there are 1432 and widowed women 3042.

Many other interesting figures are revealed by the report, which is now being sent out by the government. Of the males 15 years of age or over in the county, 8990 are single and 18973 are married, while of the women, 5790 are single and 18884 are married.

Not quite all of the younger children in the county have been attending school regularly, but the percentage is high. 98.3 per cent of the youngsters from 7 to 13 years of age inclusive, have been attending school, the report shows, and that is 10674 out of a possible 10,853.

After 15 years of age, the record drops off rapidly, however, and for the 18 to 20 years of age inclusive class only 21.1 per cent were attending school, or 866 from a possible 4112.

Just how many babies are there in the county, is a question often asked, but seldom answered. The census report reveals that there are 1347 under one year old, 634 boys and 663 girls, and at the time the census was taken only 28 Negro babies, 15 boys and 13 girls, were included in the number.

The population of the county, which is 81066, divided 41630 males and 39436 females, in any age division is from 35 to 44 years, the census report shows. In this age group are 11190 and in the 45 to 54 division, second, are 9244. The report lists 1836 negroes in the county and their largest number in any age group is greater in the 35 to 44 years division, 355 persons being in that division. Of the older persons, white and negroes, 1,779 were 75 years or over.

The county has 1363 persons ten years old and over who are classified as illiterates, or a percentage of 2.1, which is average among the counties of Michigan which has an average of only two per cent. That is a good showing, too, for it is a decrease of one per cent in ten years, the 1920 figures being three and a half per cent of this county's population were illiterate in 1920.

Of those in the county now 1025 are foreign born whites and 117 are negroes.

From what countries do the 1,056 foreign born whites in the county come? How many are there from each country? From England there are 363, Scotland 70, Wales 12, Northern Ireland 14, Irish Free State 92, Norway 83, Sweden 446, Denmark 88, Netherlands 92, Belgium 45, Switzerland 71, France 53, Germany 2087, Poland 1465, Czechoslovakia 516, Austria 192, Hungary 170, Yugoslavia 87, Russian 1641, Lithuania 80, Finland 41, Rumania 51, Bulgaria 4, Greece 55, Italy 450, Spain 0, Armenia 4, Palestine-Syria 6, Turkey 5, Canada-French 41, Canada-others 87.

Of even more interest is the number of native white persons in the county of foreign or mixed patronage. Sons and daughters whose father or mother, or both, were from England there are 1087, from Scotland 260, Wales 50, Northern Ireland 157, Irish Free State 688, Norway 204, Sweden 715, Denmark 193, Netherlands 264, Belgium 74, Switzerland 175, France 205, Germany 8627, Poland 1808, Czechoslovakia 575, Austria 389, Hungary 199, Yugoslavia 106, Russia 2480, Lithuania 75, Finland 22, Rumania 76, Bulgaria 5, Greece 44, Italy 683, Spain 2, Armenia 0, Palestine-Syria 10, Turkey 6, Canada-French 220, Canada-others 1800, all others 126.

The industries of the county were led by far by the agricultural group, 7348 male and 375 female giving agriculture as their occupation. Among the next highest were those in the wholesale and retail trade, exclusive of automobiles, 2226 men classifying in this section and 705 women. 1819 men and 14 women were engaged in the building industry and 51 men gave their occupation as forestry and fishing. 801 persons were listed under blast furnaces and steel rolling mills and 3518 men and women under other iron and steel industries. Under saw and planing mills, the number was 234 and under other woodworking and furniture industries 392.

Getting Even
Life is far too short to waste its precious hours on revenge. Better is it to devote the fleeting minutes to deeds of love rather than to thoughts of hate. Any man can "get even," but the price will be his self-respect.—Grit.
