REQUIEM—1931
Walter C. Hawes

The old year hastens to its close:
The sands run low, the sands run fast;

Across the chill December snows
The present harkens to the past.
Small store have I to offer, Lord,
Of deeds achieved, or victories won.

Yet, for what grace it may afford,
These are the things I have not done.

I have not saved a foolish face
By deeds of others done in vain, Nor have I cloaked my own disgrace

By holding up another's stain.

Because a brother missed his goal
I have not smiled or found relief Or warmed a shrunken and weazened soul

By looking on another's grief.

If others slipped and fell, the while I have not seen with heart unstirred

Or raised a hand to cloak a smile,

Or ran to speed the traitorous word.

Nor brave achievements deck the scroll,

Oh year! whose sands are almost run!

Yet grant one credit to my soul—

These are the things I have not done!

SIXTY DINNERS ARE DISTRIBUTED TO LOCAL NEEDY

Troop 41 Reconditioned 250
Gifts and Distributes
Them to 27 Families.

The sorrow of a bleak and joyless Christmas was spared to a number of Buchanan homes thru the activities of the United Charities, Scout Troop 41, and other organizations, whose generous forethought and provision resulted in the distribution of dinners and gifts to many local families.

Mrs. John Fydel, head of the local United Charities, states that sixty dinners containing Christmas dinners were distributed on Thursday, of which twenty came from the Niles chapter of the B.
F. O. E., ten from the local Methodist church and thirty from local individuals.

Scout Troop 41 distributed 250 reconditioned toys, taking care of the gift requirements of 27 families. These included every description of gift for girls and boys short of such expensive devices as electric trains. The American Legion had undertaken the same work, but on learning that the Scout Troop had made plans, the Legion turned over what toys they had collected and left the field to the Scouts to avoid duplication.
Many of the toys were repaired and repainted.

Aurora Scouts
Spend Holidays
at Black Hawk

A party of Boy Scouts arrived Saturday evening from Aurora, Ill., to spend several days at their summer headquarters at Camp Black Hawk, three miles north of Buchanan on the west bank of the St. Joseph river. There were ten in the party, headed by Scout Executive M. Guest and assistant leader Al Porter. They planned to spend the week in canoeing and water sports, and also brought along their skis and skates in view of possible severe weather. They will leave for Aurora Thursday evening.

POST OFFICE NOTES INCREASE XMAS MAIL HERE

Co-Operation of Public Facilities Handling of Large Traffic.

Depression did not make a great difference in the Christmas card and letter business as it was reflected in the Buchanan postoffice, according to Postmaster G. H.
Batchelor, who states that a total of 35,000 pieces of first class mail were cancelled here on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday preceding Christmas or two thousand and more than in the same period last year.

In spite of the increased amount of first class mail it was handled by the same force in three hours less time daily, due to the fact that the public honored the request of the office by facing their bundles of letters one way and presenting them to the stamp window instead of shoving them through the mail slot in a promiscuous mass as in previous years. Last year the office was obliged to hire additional help to sort and face the letters for cancellation.

On account of the co-operation of the public the local office was able to clear all the incoming mail out of the office by Christmas eve, and a smaller per centage of belated Christmas packages than last year.

CORONER SAYS DEATH WAS DUE TO AN ACCIDENT

Last Rites Held Today Over
Remains of Popular Gallen Youth.

Russell Unruh, 20, was killed at his home three miles south of Gallien Monday afternoon by the accidental discharge of a small bore rifle which he was carrying.

The exact details of the tragedy will never be known. He had been playing a game of checkers in the house with his father, Alba Unruh, and got up shortly after 5 p. m. and started out to do the evening chores. He took with him a rifle which had been kept on the porch loaded for the purpose of killing crows. The family heard the discharge of the gun but supposed that he had merely fired at a crow and did not inquire further.
A little later one of the family left the house and found his lifeless body stretched on a cement platform over a well near the house, a bullet in his forehead.

Dr. Corey of New Troy was called and later R. J. Kenney of Gallien. They called Coroner Marion Rutherford of Niles. He surveyed the situation and decided that there was no occasion for an inquest. The family stated that the young man was of cheerful disposition and had no known reason for taking his own life.

Young Unruh was graduated from the Galien high school with the class of 1929. He had lived his entire life in that community.
He is survived by his parents, by one brother, Ross, and one sister, Mrs. Muriel DeBoise.

A short service will be held from the home at 1:30 p. m. today, followed by funeral rites from the Olive Branch church at 2 p. m.
Elder J. W. McKnight of Galien will be in charge of the services, assisted by Rev. Charles Moger of Olive Branch. The pall bearers will be Carl Roundy, Lyle Doyle, Robert James, Dick Norris, Fred McLaren and Harold Heckathorn.
Burial will be made in the Galien cemetery.

transportation which carried him as far as

St. Augustine, Fla. He was gone a total of 15 days, several of which he spent visiting enroute. He came back to Buchanan to get warm, he stated, inasmuch as he was obliged to wear all his clothes to keep warm in the allegedly sunny south.

Old Timer Sends Greetings to Survivors of Thanksgiving Day

Well the fall festival of Thanksgiving has come and gone, and we are still able to be about. That helps some. Maybe we could rearrange that sentence and make it "we are about to be," and wonder what "we are about to be." Well, as long as we are not sick from over eating, I guess we should be thankful, all right. I, for one, didn't over eat, this time, for we just had a sort of "regular" dinner instead of trying to make and eat everything there is, and so we felt that, in keeping with the times, we would sort of conserve, and be regular.

Guess our "late summer" weather has taken cold, and now we are falling better for it. Too many chances taken in that "unusual" weather makes for colds and sickness, and now that we have some frosts and old enervating north winds, we will all feel better and the merchants will sell some of their winter stuff and everybody will be better off. I don't know what people are going to use for money to buy things with, if they are in my fix, but let's hope that they have some money, anyway. Glad to welcome Mrs. Winches "pup" into the "Corner." Reminds me of the oft repeated saying, "the more I see of some people, the better I like my dog." Any one that don't like dogs is somehow, wrong, somewhere. They just simply belong with humans and any one that don't like them is missing a lot. Living as I do, in the city, it is impractical to have a dog, here, but every dog in the neighborhood knows his friends and so he knows me, and often stops at my back door for a bite to eat and maybe a pan of water or milk. They know their friends and appreciate a little kindness much more than some humans do.

I have a friend that is going to be in Cedar Rapids, Ia., for the holidays, and I am going to ask him to look up our friend, John G. Holmes.

OLD TIMER

J. Holmes Meets Democrat in Wild State in Cedar Rapids

Editor: My first school teaching was in the "swamp" district, one and one half miles east of Adamsville, and 13 miles east and two miles south of Niles, and 12 miles directly north of Elkhardt in the winter of 1873-4, nine years after Mrs. Winch was at Edwardsburg. In the next township east from my school was a settlement of negroes who had come north from slavery on the "Underground Railroad," and had gathered in the town of Calvin. They used to haul cordwood to the market in Elkhardt going past my school in trains of 15 or twenty wagons loaded with wood, and two or three times a week. It was told that in an early time in that settlement there came into Kalamazoo a frisky young chap who had opened a law office, and after he had been there a few months undertook to have a lot of those negroes arrested and sent back to their owners in the South. The story was that he did not succeed, nor did he remain in the area, but sought a more healthful climate. While in that district I made my home in the family of a Mr. Bishop, who had been one of the sailors on the keelboats carrying freight on the St. Joe between St. Joseph, Elkhardt. His wife had been Mary Pott, whose people lived next farm to George Witter in the town of township five miles south of Buchanan. Since I came to Cedar Rapids it has been my fortune to "meet up" with a genuine Democrat. I met him in a grocery and in the 5 minutes of talk I had with him he handed me an earful. He said his name was Brown; that he owned 1600 acres of cypress on the Black River bottom lands in Kentucky; that he was here for the winter with a son; that he was a member of the Morgan cavalry brigades that made the famous raid during the Civil War into central-southern Ohio; that Wilkes Booth never killed Lincoln; but that he was killed by one of his own men; that Booth died long after in Canada and was brought back to Kentucky for burial; that anyway Lincoln ought to have been shot; that he would have shot him himself if he had had a chance. Do you recognize the figure? Can you see that class of fellows having full control of the country if the Democrats elect both houses and president. How would you like it?

Berrien County Has River That "Runs Both Ways," Says J. Holmes

Cedar Rapids, Iowa Dec 25, 1931. Editor Record: There is in Berrien County something of a curiosity in the form of river which runs both ways, not at the same time but alternating. At least those were its antics when I saw it in 1893 and I have never since that it had changed its habits or moved out, but any river so fickle as this one was would be likely to try any thing unexpected. This river is only eighty rods long and about twice the width of McCoy's creek in Buchanan. It is on the Sebastian Smith farm two miles north from Watervliet. It was first designed for an outlet from Raw, Ed Lake into Raw, Ed Lake, and whether it acts as an outlet or inlet depends on whether the mills on the river down in the village are operating or shut.

When I first moved into Buchanan there was a well and old established institution in the person of George Bird and his bus line, which had been giving Buchanan a most excellent service. Among his duties was the carrying of the mail under contract with the government and running through 20 years or more. It was said of him George Bird was never late with the mail. When his son Ed grew to be able to harness a horse he was put to driving, and has been at it ever since. At one time when he made his regular trip to the depot he had for his only passengers L. P. and Mrs. Alexander, who were returning from a visit to the family of their son-in-law, Harry French in Cassopolis. Ed got them seated in the bus and was busied with some other details out on the walk when the horses concluded they were ready to go and started for town with no one in the driver's seat. Ed saw the conditions and made a quick jump for the rear seat of the bus, caught the ladder and with his feet on the sills of the windows and hands holding the railing around the roof worked himself around to the driver's seat. By that time the team had reached Methodist hill and running their best. The passengers were gathering gray hairs faster than ever before. Ed delivered his passengers at their home with no damage aside from the scare. Mr. Alexander in telling the story to me later said that up to that time he had not liked Ed very well but his respect for him had taken an abrupt advance.

Formerly this family of seven sons and two daughters, lived four miles south of Buchanan, on their homestead, now owned by L. F. Cauffman. They were H. I. Cauffman, W. R. Cauffman, George W. Cauffman, John W., L. F., Jacob E., and S. Edward Cauffman, Mrs. Eliza Smith and Mrs. Mary Ellen Moyer. With the exception of Mrs. Moyer, who resides in Hooper, Neb., the remainder of the family live in the vicinity of Buchanan, the members of this family living are 106.

It was deemed advisable at this meeting by the older members of the family, to discontinue the time honored custom of meeting at one of their homes each Christmas day to feast and enjoy a program and Christmas tree, on account of the advanced age of the original promoters. The young folks of the family, heretofore, conducting a summer reunion in June, will take charge of the social activities of the family. The retiring officers are, president, H. I. Cauffman, aged 84, the oldest member of the family; vice president, J. E. Cauffman; secretary and treasurer, L. F. Cauffman. No deaths occurred during the year, one member was added by birth and one by marriage.

Mankind Really Knows

Little About the Sea

An outward spinning whirl, an oddity added to the long unexplained mysteries of the sea, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society. It is just and half in awe that one refers to the bounding main of old devil sea." In olden days sea was believed to be people strange monsters which devoured both ships and men. Even with all the safeguards and efforts of modern travel, a ship is not without its horrors. Mothers are constantly menaced and unexpected tricks of man's knowledge of the sea, his centuries of study and hence, is extremely meager.

Explorers and geographers have been signaling for new lands conquer may find their best, paradoxically, in the sea. It is realized that nearly three quarters of the surface of the globe consists of water, it is rather remarkable how little we know of the surface of the solid sphere. It lies under this screen of liquid.

The most impressive thing about the sea is its shallowness compared with the size of the earth and its depth as compared with the height of the land. If one were to take a globe six feet in diameter and excavate the deepest trench of the ocean thereon, it would be bare pincers deep—about twentieth of an inch.

Royal Soup Calls for Variety of Ingredients

The recipe for the famous soup made for the Austrian emperor, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society, "since the time of Empress Theresa's father," has been traced in Budapest. It is said to have originated in Spain, and the recipe was revealed by a pensioned chief. The stock consisted of beef, mutton, venison and game roasted in butter and boiled. Calves' feet and ox-tails turned into jelly, were added together with white cabbages, with smoked and fresh pork, peas, chestnuts, lentils, poultry and carrots roasted with butter.

The combination was laid to simmer for four hours, so as to remove every trace of grease. Next day the soup was prepared of beef and mutton bones, mushrooms and other vegetables, making a liquid cleared by the addition of egg whites, beef, ox liver and white stock. The boiling bouillon was thickened by cooked fowls, duck, geese, pigeons, pheasants, game and wild duck. It took two days to prepare and two nights to complete the preparation.

The last thing done was to strain the concoction through muslin bags. When porcelain jugs filled, the guests were served in small china cups.—New York Times.

City of Immortals

The city of the Medicis, Boccaccio, Savonarola, Raphael, scores of others might be mentioned, but the city of the Renaissance must never be forgotten. No matter what your tastes, you will find something in life, Florence has something for you. When Bayard Taylor there he said it was the city of the most charming city in Italy. He breakfasted for five cents for twelve cents and saw the city for every night for ten cents in the seat. It is yet a good city to live in, if you want to live well in small cost. Here you can see over the Ponte Vecchio, trace the work of Michelangelo, see George Eliot's Roma, walk through very homes of Duse, Galileo, Browning, Amerigo Vesputi, near the Arno, see where Shakespeare wrote his most famous drama.

Almost Colorless Ink

There is no colorless ink. Is, however, a certain form of moulage in which figures and letters are painted on a background of the same color. This is done by coloring the paints with pigments or mixtures of pigments, of which one another in color composition. They match or other because the impression on the retina of the eye is the combined effect of all of the light that are transmitted to it from the painted surface. A piece of glass partially analyzes the light by absorbing some of the light and letting others through. It gets through to the eye is the same in both cases, hence the ground and the design do not appear the same color.

Opium in the Dried Milky Juice

Opium is the dried milky juice of the unripe capsules of a plant which for this product has been cultivated through many centuries. Every species of poppy is capable of yielding it to a greater or lesser extent. Opium is procured by making incisions in the poppy husk, capsule, taking care not to penetrate its cavity. The juice exudes in drops, and after being allowed to remain for a day upon the edges of the incision it is scraped off—a brownish, jellylike mass. As the soft opium accumulates, it is molded into roundish lumps of regular flattened cakes of various sizes and put aside to dry. For proper consistency it is generally wrapped in leaves and sold in the market.
