racers who live on the farms in this country are prostrate and helpless and unable to protect themselves against these noisy alert minorities. Is not the answer to be found in carelessness, lack of interest and loose minded citizenship on the part of the agricultural communities?

"It is your indifference that corrodes and decays the political structure. To be indifferent is the unpardonable sin. If you people, who carry this great burden are not concerned about government, what inspiration is there for good men to enter the field of politics? The basis for good government is a sustained and loyal interest on your part. There are some splendid men still in high places, but oftentimes their spirit is broken by a refusal of you men and women to give them your support and confidence. Sometimes I think the most tragic comment a citizen can make is when he or she says, 'I am not in politics.' Politics are corrupt and I will have nothing to do with them. The person who takes that position is really the undesirable citizen. It is only through diversity of opinion that truth is revealed. Our great challenge now and our great opportunity is for all of us to become actively interested in this sorry mess in which we now find ourselves involved. Let us not become paralyzed with fear or confused with issues. We must work through and out of a period which will go down in history on one of its blackest pages. History is like an iron chain ceaselessly moving, and no man can neither stop nor speed its motion. Then the chain snaps and shivers man's ideals to bits. It is at this juncture that the common man finds its usefulness and asserts its full power, again grasps the chain of normal life and compels it to move after the true pattern and structure of his making. This my friend is your task. It confronts each and every one of us today. The men who pay the bill must bring this about or it will not be done. He made a logical but stinging attack upon the present state administration. He said, 'We are honestly resentful of our treatment at the hands of those who, though our servants, have now become our Masters. Lead to our plendings and callous to our necessities.'

"They have compelled us their masters, to economize until we are practically all bankrupt, while they themselves have refused to economize and are still indulging in the grossest extravagances. Worse still, they flaunt all sensible suggestions on how to balance the budget and reduce their cost. They cry, more tax, more money, more work. This, my friends, presents a picture of government gone mad. The great crying need today is for farm leadership. Somewhere in this mighty mass of farm humanity there MUST be an outstanding man whose integrity and honesty of purpose cannot be denied. But when you find him, this motley crew of office holders, like the Scribes and Pharisees, as of old, will again call him odious names and tell the people he is demented. If he should be strong enough to take the lash of your scorn and contempt and drive the money changers from the Temple Gates, and cry, 'You have made my Father's house a den of thieves, the mob would again shout, 'crucify him.' The common people would rise and call him blessed. All progress is half pain. All advancement means work. The hand sickle is replaced by the self-binder and the leaders of a new movement remain leaders only so long as they keep their hands clean, or they in turn are displaced by others better fitted. Happily, the term of office of most of these men ends shortly, then shall the unfaithful be cast out. We need a change. You pick your candidates for office. We'll take your choice. We care not what their color or what their creed, but they MUST be clean."

Mr. Foulkes was accompanied by W. E. Bicknell, a farmer of thirty years experience in Van Buren county. Quite a number of farmers who have heard him at other meetings were present and many favorable comments were heard among the crowd after the meeting. Other meetings this week were at Galien, Three Oaks and Basswood school.

Betty Kollenberg Francis Forburer Were Wedded Fri.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Mary Kollenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore F. Siekman of Portage Prairie to Mr. Francis Harold Forburer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Forburer of Momence, Ill., was solemnized Friday afternoon, June 10th at the Evangelical Lutheran parsonage in Crown Point, Ind. Following the ceremony the young couple motored to Momence, where they visited until Sunday, when they returned to Portage Prairie. The bride is a popular young lady, a graduate of the Buchanan high school with the class of '28 and of the South Bend Business College in 1930. Since her completion of the business course she has been in the employ of the Indiana Michigan Electric Co. Mrs. Forburer is also a member of Epsilon chapter, Beta Gamma Upsilon sorority. Niles Methodist Church Celebrates 100th Anniversary

Final plans were announced today for the celebration of the 100th Anniversary of the founding of the Methodist church of Niles. The week's celebration will be opened on Sunday evening, June 19, at the evening service with the presentation of a historical pageant. It will be given in the church auditorium with a cast of approximately 100 characters, picturing the history and growth of the church from a point ten years before the organization, up to the present date.

The pageant brings forth many interesting facts. According to the records, the first meeting place of the congregation was the bar room of the hotel. When the first school was built it was used for a meeting place until 1839, when a building was completed in which to worship. The present place of worship was built and dedicated in 1863, although extensive remodeling took place in 1919. One of the most interesting items brought forth is the service rendered by J. S. Tuttle and Dr. J. D. Greenmeyer as superintendents of the Sunday school. Between the two men, they served their church in that capacity for an unbroken period of 68 years, continuously from 1843 to 1916. This record probably has never been equaled in the state.

Wednesday night the Biblical drama, "Saint Claudia," will be presented in the church auditorium by the Olmsted Platform Players. On Friday night the men of the church will have a supper and after a program, the evening will be devoted to reminiscence. Sunday morning, June 26, the pastor, Dr. R. E. Meader, will bring the Centennial message and a basket dinner will be served to a home-coming crowd. The week's program will be brought to a close Sunday evening with the other churches of the city uniting for a union service. The pastor of the various churches will give short talks and bring greetings from their congregations.

Dr. C. L. Kiehn Wedded Sat. to Cassopolis Girl

The nuptials of Dr. Clifford L. Kiehn of Buchanan and Miss Margaret Ann McNab of Cassopolis were solemnized at 11 a. m. Saturday, June 11 in Trinity Episcopal Church of Niles, the Rev. Harry L. Nicholson, rector, reading the marriage ritual. Only a few immediate relatives attended the wedding. Dr. A. B. McNab of Cassopolis gave away the bride. Earl Baker of Buchanan was the best man and Mrs. Frances Sudworth formerly of Washington, D. C., and now of Cassopolis, was matron of honor. She is an aunt of the bride. The bride was attired in a light blue silk suit with white accessories, with a bouquet of gardenias in her lapel.

Immediately after the ceremony the party adjourned to the Four Flags Hotel, where a wedding breakfast was served at noon. Dr. Kiehn then left on a motor tour to visit the former's brother, Howard Kiehn, in New York city and return by way of Montreal and Toronto. They will be at home in the residence which Dr. Kiehn has furnished for his bride on Third street.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. A. B. McNab of Cassopolis, but has lived since the death of her mother with an uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. C. W. McCutcheon of Cassopolis. Dr. McNab is associated with Dr. McCutcheon in the McCutcheon hospital there.

She attended school in Washington, D. C., was graduated from the Ann Arbor high school and later spent two years in Albion College. Dr. Kiehn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Kiehn of this city. He came here thirteen years ago, was graduated from the Buchanan high school with the class of 1924, afterwards taking a college course at Ferris Institute and the dental course at the University of Michigan, from which institution he was graduated two years ago. Since that time he has been practicing dentistry here. The community extends most cordial wishes.

REPORT FEED TRIALS TO STATE STOCKMEN

Tests on All Classes of Livestock at M. S. C. Show
Values of Rations.

Barley puts gains on beef cattle faster than either corn or oats, but both corn and wheat are better than barley in producing rapid gains of pork, according to figures from the past year's feeding tests at Michigan State College, which were presented to the group of livestock men who attended Feeder's Day.

The gains made by beef on ground barley were also cheaper than the pounds of meat made by feeding corn or oats. Pigs made their cheapest gains on whole wheat in the college trials. All costs of gain were computed by charging all grains at 75 cents per hundredweight plus a 10 cent charge for each hundred pounds of ground feed.

Time used in serving out individual feed portions to lambs was so much waste motion in the tests made at East Lansing, as lambs running on self-feeders finished much better and sold for a higher price than did the lambs that were hand-fed. The most rapid and cheapest gains with lambs were secured with a ration of self-fed shelled corn and alfalfa hay.

In one of the feeding experiments with pigs on rape pasture, an added reason for the use of tankage was discovered when it was found that the pigs did less rooting if fed tankage. The trials with pigs on pasture also showed more rapid gains on barley than on wheat, which is the reverse of the findings with pigs confined in a feed lot.

Another change in the feeding habits of pigs when on pasture was the consumption of more tankage when fed wheat than when barley, but, in the dry lot, pigs ate more tankage with the barley ration.

Mary Jane McFallon
Died Sat. at Haven
Hubbard Home

Miss Mary Jane McFallon, 77, died at the Haven Memorial Home after a short illness Saturday, June 11, and the funeral was held from the Presbyterian church here at 2:30 p. m. Sunday with Rev. H. W. Slaver in charge. She was born near Buchanan on June 30, 1854, the daughter of James McFallon and Betsy Hartline McFallon. With the exception of a few years spent at Goshen, Ind., she spent her entire life in and about Buchanan, until leaving for The Haven Hubbard Memorial Home about eight years ago.

Death was due to a stroke of apoplexy, which she suffered at 8 p. m. Friday evening. She had made all arrangements for her funeral when she entered the home eight years ago, and her wishes were carried out. Burial was made in Oak Ridge cemetery. Two brothers had preceded her in death, and only a few distant relatives are the only known survivors. A number of friends and relatives from Elkhart, and Sturgis, attended the funeral.

TOMATOES NEED PRECAUTION TO PREVENT DISEASE

2 Types Blight can be Controlled with Proper Spray Applications.

Tomatoes, which are often the chief pride of the home gardener, are attacked by several diseases which can be prevented or controlled by simple treatments, according to experts on plant diseases at Michigan State College.

Two types of blight, early and late, at times cause serious losses. Plants attacked by early blight show brown spots with concentric rings or ridges about the spots on the leaves. Black spots which become covered with a black, velvety growth appear on the fruits. This disease appears early in the growing season.

Late blight usually does not occur until the latter part of July, and the plants attacked by it show dark, water-soaked areas on the leaves, an appearance similar to that caused by freezing. A white, downy growth appears on the undersides of the leaves. The fruits usually show rot near the stem end and this spreads around the circumference of the fruits faster than it penetrates into the interior.

Spraying with a 4-4-50 solution of Bordeaux mixture at intervals of a week or 10 days will control both the blights of tomatoes.

Another enemy of the tomato plant called Grand Rapids disease because it first appeared near that city. The symptoms of this disease are a progressive wilting of the leaves from the bottom of the plant upward. Rough, brown spots surrounded by a white halo may occur on the fruits and make them unsuitable. Sprays and dusts will not control this disease.

Affected plants should be pulled and burned to lessen the spread of the disease.

A detailed discussion of tomato diseases is given in Circular Bulletin No. 139, which will be sent free to anyone requesting it from the bulletin clerk, Michigan State College, East Lansing, Mich.

GARD OF THANKS
I wish to thank the city fire department for their aid in extinguishing the fire at my home on Tuesday morning, also Earl Beck, Ralph DeNardo and Ed Ashbrook for their help.
Mrs. Grace Rogers.

Hebrew Money
The monetary system of the Hebrews was based upon the Babylonian system of weights. The ratio of the value of gold to silver was 1:13 1/3 and prevailed over all western Asia.

Sighting Rainbow
The rainbow is always seen along the circumference of a circle whose center is on a straight line with the eye of the observer, hence no two persons see strictly the same bow.

Healthful Humidity
Humidity in houses shot up from 30 to 50 per cent, but in best houses it is probably 20 per cent or lower—too dry for health. The dryer the air the more difficult it is to heat a house, as moisture in the air carries and retains heat. If frost forms freely on the inside of the glass, there is probably enough humidity. If there is no sign of frost, the air is too dry.

Buzzard's Limitations
With its remarkable eyesight, power of flight and size there probably is only one reason why the vulture or buzzard is not one of the most active pursuers of living prey instead of feeding upon dead or helpless prey—the absence of talons with which to seize and hold living prey.—Capper's Farmer.

Seventh Day Adventist

Sabbath School Saturday at 10 a. m. Lesson study, "The Kingdom Within." The keynote:

"The Lord Jesus is making experiments on human hearts through the exhibition of His mercy and abundant grace. He is effecting transformations so amazing that Satan, with all his triumphant boasting, with all his confederacy of evil united against God and the laws of His government, stands viewing them as a fortress impregnable to His sophistries and delusions. They are to him an incomprehensible mystery. The angels of God, seraphim and cherubim, the powers commissioned to co-operate with human agencies, look on with astonishment and joy that fallen men, once children of wrath, are, through the training of Christ, developing characters after the divine similitude, to be sons and daughters of God, to act an important part in the occupations and pleasures of heaven."

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 509): "Mind made the plant of the field before it was in the earth. The periods of spiritual ascension are the days and seasons of Mind's creation, in which beauty, sublimity, purity and holiness, yea, the divine nature, appear in man and the universe never to disappear."

Politicians, scared by organized wet propaganda and the concerted drive to disobey and ridicule the law, are seeking a road to success via "resubmission." This will lead to the ultimate dissolution of any party not squarely facing the issue.

We have conferred with dry leaders in every county of every state in the union and we can say confidently that the dry forces of this country will withdraw their support from the party and candidates sidetracking prohibition by a resubmission plank.

Prohibition, with imperfect enforcement at first, and continually improving enforcement at present, is responsible for certain major social and economic results which cannot be ignored. Poverty from drink has almost entirely disappeared from America. By reducing the death rates from alcoholic causes, prohibition has saved 180,000 lives; the bettered economic condition under prohibition has brought us blessings denied to other countries, during the world depression.

No better illustration of the benefits of prohibition can be given than the conclusions of the leaders of public school education, who, speaking through the National Education association, declare that "many of the three million additional students who have sought a high school education within the decade have come from poor homes where in former times drinking was a heavy burden on the family income," and that "unquestionably the 18th amendment has benefited the schools beyond measure."

For the past two months some time has been spent in preparation for the Council Field day at Madron camp, a number of first places were taken and several second and third places, the troop being pushed out of first place for the day by a troop from Niles. Eighteen scouts attended the union services at the Methodist church on Memorial Sunday, and about twenty-six scouts marched in the parade on Decoration day.

At the baccalaureate services, June 5, the ushers for the evening were all scouts from our troop and they were glad to be of service. The remainder of the time from now until camp will be spent in assembling their equipment and passing tests, so that all may be ready. There are about twenty-four boys planning to attend camp and they expect to capture all honors, the week that they are there.

L. R. Mangold is Candidate for County Treasurer

L. R. Mangold, well known accountant and former government official, today announced himself as a candidate for county treasurer at the primaries Sept. 13. He is the second to formally announce his candidacy for nomination to this office on the Democratic ticket.

Mr. Mangold has long been associated with accounting, corporate and municipal financing in Berrien county, serving as deputy collector of internal revenue for several years with offices at both St. Joseph and Benton Harbor. In this official capacity he had personal contact with a large majority of Berrien residents and also the opportunity of familiarizing himself with tax conditions in county.

Mr. Mangold has never been a candidate for office before, but has always been interested in taxation matters both local, state and federal, he feels that if elected to the treasurer's office he would be able to render the voters and taxpayers of Berrien county a competent, capable and efficient administration.

He has been a resident of Berrien county for twelve years, coming here as a government employee after his discharge from the Army in which he served during the world war, having seen active service in both France and Belgium with the 91st, a combat division. He is a member of both the local Veterans of Foreign wars and American Legion posts, and he is well and favorably known throughout the entire county.

Mr. Mangold today stated: "At this time I want to thank all my friends and acquaintances who have come forward with their many offers of support. Due to the delinquent tax conditions in Berrien county the treasurer's office is handling a greater volume of work than ever before and the office will continue to have an increasing volume for several years to come, this candidate makes it absolutely essential that the successful candidate for this office be competent and capable. The taxpayers and voters of Berrien county are entitled too, and should receive not less than one hundred per cent efficiency in all of our county offices."

Alfalfa Meal Used in Feeding Lambs

Ground alfalfa mixed with cracked corn is a very satisfactory ration for self-feeding lambs, according to the animal husbandry department at Michigan State college where livestock men of the state will meet Friday, June 10, to get the yearly report of the livestock-feeding experiments. The alfalfa ration for lambs was used in a trial to find a home grown product which could be used by Michigan feeders to replace by-product feeds which have been bought in the past to add bulk to the lambs' rations.

One of the college's feeding trials with hogs was planned to find the amount of protein supplement which can be profitably added to the pork producing ration. A test was also made to find if it is desirable to grind grain for hog feed.

The report given during Feeders Day will include trials with all classes of livestock, and the animals used in the tests will be exhibited so visitors can judge the comparative merits of the different rations used. Members of the animal husbandry department will discuss the feeding methods. Prominent livestock men will talk to us visitors during the afternoon program. A noon luncheon will be held in the meats laboratory at the college.

Boy Scout Camp Will Open June 26

Now that the spring roundup is over, scouts are turning their attention to the big summer camp which will start June 26th, at Madron lake. Carpenters are busy making several changes in the club house so that still better service may be given campers. A new 100-foot pier is to be erected and a large float which will be fitted up with a 16-foot diving tower. Work is to commence soon on the marksmanship range which will be built on the north side of the camp grounds to take care of merit badge work along that line. The new sailing canoe, six of them given to the camp by L. C. Upton, president of the council, have arrived in Benton Harbor and will soon be taken to the lake. One of them is now on display on the floor of the Sears Roebuck store, thru the courtesy of Mr. Riley, the manager. Special attention is to be given all water sports this year as there will be three American Red Cross men on the waterfront. Supplies are coming in daily for the handicraft department and many new features will be added this year at a much reduced cost to campers. With the registrations coming in to the Area office daily, it

Benton Harbor Man Enters Ring For Register Deeds

Dean Peters, well known Benton Harbor business man, and for 36 years a resident of the twin cities, today announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for register of deeds.

Mr. Peters is the first prospective candidate to formally announce his candidacy. News of his intention to run was received with much interest among his legion of friends, not only in Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, but throughout the country's farming districts, where the candidate has a wide acquaintance built up during his quarter century as a Benton Harbor hardware merchant with his father, the late Philip D. Peters.

"I have no elaborate platform, and do not and will not make any elaborate claims," Mr. Peters said. "I have had a great deal of clerical experience and business training, and I believe I am fitted to serve efficiently. I shall, if elected, give my best to the office."

Mr. Peters has never before sought a political office. Born in Keeler, he came to Benton Harbor when a boy. When he reached manhood he went into the hardware business with his father, who once served as supervisor from the fourth ward.

Mr. Peters has always been active in fraternal circles. He is a past exalted ruler of the local Elks, and also a prominent mason.

This Day's Work
Today is your day and mine, the only day we have, the day in which we play our part. E. E. English Is Dem. Candidate For Probate Judge

E. E. English, Benton Harbor real estate and insurance man, who received his early education in the New Troy high school, and later taught for two terms in the school two miles west of Three Oaks, today announced his candidacy for the office of Judge of Probate of Berrien county. He will run on the Democratic ticket, and feels confident of the nomination in the primaries to be held September 13.

"First I wish it understood that I am not running because of the insistence of my friends. I am running because I want the office, and feel that I can be elected."

"However, I have many offers of support from my friends, and I want to take this occasion to thank them, as well as many others with whom I have come in contact, who, I believe, will give their support," Mr. English said today in an interview.

"I feel that I am entirely qualified for the office, having had 25 years of general business experience, nearly four of which I was Justice of the Peace in Benton Harbor, which gave me a general knowledge of legal forms and legal procedure."

"If nominated and elected, I promise to give my full and complete time to the duties of the office, so that everyone, regardless of race or creed, or political or social standing, will be satisfied. My platform, if elected, is to discharge the duties of this office in a just, efficient, and business-like manner," he said.

Mr. English is known in nearly every section of Berrien county. For eight years he was engaged in the teaching profession in various parts of the county, during part of which time he served as a member of the Berrien County Board of School Examiners. In 1909 he came to Benton Harbor, where he has since conducted a general insurance and real estate business.

For the past 20 years, Mr. English has been one of the leaders of the Democratic party in Berrien county. He feels confident that he will be the voters' choice in the primaries, and will conduct an aggressive campaign.

Portage Prairie

Defeats 3 Oaks

All-Stars 11-2

The Portage Prairie nine played good ball Sunday when they defeated the strong Three Oaks All-Stars 11 to 2. The All-Stars got their two runs on over throws at third. H. Lewis, Greyhound star, struck out 11 men and allowed but four hits. Liska and Kell did most of the hitting for the Greyhounds, the first getting a three-bagger and a single, the latter, a double and two singles. The two Letcher brothers, known better as the "Speed Kings," each stole two bases.

The line-up was as follows:

Source of Cocaine

Cocaine is obtained from the leaves of the coca shrub, which grows on the eastern slopes of the Andes and in Java, Ceylon and the Malay states. Cocaine was first isolated by Niemann in 1860, its anesthetic qualities discovered by Von Anrep in 1883 and first used as a surgical adjunct by Koller in 1884.

Christian Assembly
To Be Held at Rock
Lake July 31-Aug. 14

Speakers for the fifteenth annual session of the Rock Lake Christian Assembly will include many of the outstanding leaders of the Church of Christ in Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Ohio. Fifteen years ago a group of leaders in the Church of Christ of the fifth district of Michigan gathered on the shores of the beautiful lake for a day or so fellowship in preaching, teaching and planning for a larger program for the district. Out of this meeting the assembly idea sprang, and now it has become one of the outstanding assemblies in the brotherhood of the Church of Christ, and ranks among the leaders in the field of summer conferences.

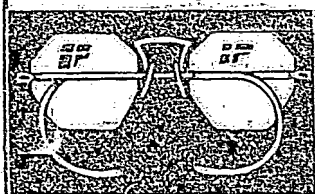

The assembly includes a school of methods of five classes for the first five days of each of the two weeks. The afternoons are given over to supervised recreation. Two services are held in the evening, a vesper service at 6:30 in charge of the young people and an evangelistic service at 7:30. The Sunday programs have three services, Bible school at 10:00 and worship at 11:00 a. m., with afternoon communion service and evening service the same as for the week days. Sunday services are often attended by more than 2000 people. A large tabernacle provides for classes and meetings. Rock Lake is on M46 fifteen miles west of Alma.

The Nilgiri Hills

The Nilgiri hills form a plateau rather than a range of hills, rising abruptly from the plains of south India to a height of 6500 feet above sea level. The highest point is called Doddabetta, which is 8760 feet high. They are sometimes referred to as the Blue mountains.

"Ego," writes an amateur etymologist from Erie, "has always seemed to me as being that bumpiness which inflates pompous persons with the importance of their big 'I's. Would you mind, he requests of the Dispatch Herald, 'giving me your definition of the word?' 'Not at all,' replies the editor. 'Ego is the glue that enables a man to get stuck on himself.'"

"CARS ARE LIKE HUMANS" says this Nurse

Miss Lana learns from Mrs. Chester Orchard, nurse of Peoria, Ill., that cars, as well as humans, need good care. The Orchard has driven a Ford Model A 30,280 miles.

An Interview by
MARGARET LANE

Reporter, London Daily Express and International News Service

ANY NURSE will tell you the same. A clean system spells a clean bill of health. And that goes for cars, as well.

Ask Mrs. Chester Orchard of 716 West Maywood, Peoria, Illinois. She's both a nurse and a motorist, and she sees to the clean running of her car the same way she keeps a trained eye on the health of her baby daughter.

"I don't know much about a car's insides," she admitted,

"but there is one sure way to make it run smooth and give no trouble. My husband put me up to it. He insisted I use Iso-Vis and he was right."

We drove fast and smooth from her suburban home the odd mile to the hospital. "What's wrong with that?" she smiled, flicking off the ignition, "sounds pretty good, doesn't it?"

"Well, I suppose I take good care of her; I have her overhauled as conscientiously as I take my baby to the doctor, but there's never been an ounce of engine trouble."

Mrs. Orchard's 30,280 trouble-free miles prove again what Iso-Vis has demonstrated in laboratory tests and in A.A.A. tests on the Indianapolis Speedway—Positive Lubrication Protection. Iso-Vis (a Standard Oil product) will not thin out from dilution. See the Ball and Bottle Test at Standard Oil stations and dealers.

Arthur E. Huntley Heads Telephone Pioneers of America

Arthur E. Huntley of Saginaw, Central division commercial superintendent of the Michigan Bell Telephone company, has been elected president of Wolverine Chapter, No. 10, Telephone Pioneers of America, by the chapter's 600 members scattered throughout the state. Mr. Huntley has been in telephone service since 1895 and is widely known throughout Michigan. He will assume office July 1. The voting was by mail and announcement of the result was made by Frank L. Curtis, secretary, in Detroit yesterday.

Other officers elected are as follows: Vice presidents—Detroit division, M. B. Huntton, assistant equipment engineer, Detroit; southern division, Harry Paulsen, district plant superintendent, Kalamazoo; northern division, T. O. Manes, plant chief, Iron Mountain; central division, Fred D. Nelson, right-of-way agent, Traverse City; secretary, Frank L. Curtis, Detroit, assistant secretary of Michigan Bell Telephone company; treasurer, Arthur C. Kuhn, Pleasant Ridge, auditor of disbursements of the company.

Mr. Huntley, who succeeds Eli L. Dietsch of Detroit, division construction superintendent, as president, became a telephone inspector at Grand Rapids in 1895, advanced to manager at Holland in 1899, manager at Muskegon in 1900, district manager at Ludington in 1905, district manager at Benton Harbor in 1911, went to Petoskey in the same position in 1915 and to Saginaw in that capacity in 1919. He was named district commercial superintendent in Saginaw district in 1919, and central division commercial superintendent in 1920. He is president of the Saginaw Rotary club.

Mr. Huntley was formerly in charge of this territory.

Corn's Many Products
Not much more than half of the great corn crop of the country finds its way to the dining table. The remainder goes to the refineries to be made up into a large variety of materials. These include the "sparklers" which do fourth of July duty, explosives, face cream, soap, artificial rubber and silk, varnish, tanning extracts, radio batteries, textiles, paper carpet, mudclage, salad dressing, sirup, cooking oil, vinegar and milk acids. Some considerable success has attended the manufacture of paper from the stalks, and it is probable that at no distant day a profitable use will be found for the piles of corn stalks which accumulate each year on the farms of this country.

Famous Dinosaur Skeleton
The dinosaur on exhibition at Peabody museum of Yale university is nearly 74 feet long, 16 feet high, and the skeleton weighs six and a half tons. Its estimated weight when alive was between 37 and 40 tons. The specimen was discovered by William Reed in Wyoming in 1881, and the bones were brought to Yale under the direction of Prof. Osborn. C. March, whose research resulted in this type's being known as Brontosaurus excelsus. At Yale's bicentennial in 1901 a portion of the skeleton was mounted and exhibited. Lack of space prevented the erection of the rest, which remained in storage. A few years ago the mounting was begun anew, the hall of Peabody being especially constructed to house this one animal.

Slow Starting
Modern machinery often requires a considerable time to get under efficient working speed. A new 120-ton gyro-stabilizer, described by Collier's Weekly, has a 55-ton rotating wheel powered by a 200 horse power motor, and requires almost an hour to attain its working speed of 15 revolutions per second. It runs on its own momentum for two hours after the current is shut off.

SEARCH FOR GOLD OF FAMED BANDIT

Ancient Papers Tell of Ali Pasha's Hoard.

Athens.—Treasure amassed by the notorious Ali Pasha of Tepeleni, who terrorized the Balkans 150 years ago, is being sought near Janina, in northern Greece, where the pasha held his court. Working from recently discovered documents, archeologists have found a tunnel which supposedly leads to the buried treasures. In the tunnel they discovered the skeletons of nine workmen hired by Ali and killed by him so that he alone would know the hiding place. The splendor of Ali's court at Janina has become almost a legend throughout the Balkans. Ambassadors of the great powers came to him and the poet Byron was his guest. He was successively the ally of Napoleon and Lord Nelson. At the peak of his career his glory outshone that of the sultan in Constantinople.

Humble Start.
Yet Ali arose from a humble beginning. He was a 17th century peasant, a hill village in Albania. His father, who held the hereditary office of bey of Tepeleni, was killed by neighboring chiefs who seized his territory when Ali was fourteen years old. Ali was left in the care of his mother, Khanko, a woman of extraordinary character. She herself formed a brigand band and inspired the boy with her own fierce temper. Within a few years he regained possession of Tepeleni and took vengeance on his enemies. Then, to secure his own power, he murdered his brother and imprisoned his mother on a charge of attempting to poison him.

In Russian War.
In 1787 Ali took part in the war against Russia and was rewarded by being made pasha of Trikala in Thessaly and Derwend-Pasha of Rumelia. His power was augmented when he succeeded in being nominated pasha of Janina.

It was only natural that his power should arouse the jealousy of the Sultan Mahmud II, who had formulated a policy of curbing the strength of the provincial pashas. The sultan's pretext for an attack on Ali came in 1820 when the "Lion of Janina" violated the sanctity of Istanbul itself by attempting to procure the murder of an enemy in the very precincts of the sultan's palace. The bulk of the Turkish forces under Khursid Pasha were sent against him.

Although over eighty, he held his own for two years. He was forced to sue for peace in the spring of 1822.

He was granted an interview with Khursid Pasha, was received and dismissed with friendly assurances. As he turned to leave the tent he was stabbed in the back. Though his head was cut off and sent to Constantinople.

Although Ali was known to have amassed much treasure, the existence of a buried hoard was considered a legend until the recent discovery of the document. Now the discovery of the tunnel has stimulated efforts to find the treasure.

Pecan Or ards
Pecan trees may bear a few nuts when three to five years of age, but, generally speaking, pecan orchards do not come into commercial bearing until they are about ten years old. With proper care and adequate spacing the trend in yields is then upward as the orchard grows older.

Real Purpose Served by Cultivating Hobby

If more people had real hobbies there would be fewer cases of nervous breakdown, according to Dr. R. H. Kilander, writing in Hygeia, the Health Magazine. Hobbies keep children out of mischief and they relieve the monotony of routine life for adults. It is well to be able to lose oneself for an hour, an evening, or even for a day in something that is not related to the daily tasks, this author related.

A desirable hobby should furnish enjoyment, pleasure and gratification; it should require a minimum of equipment and expense, in Doctor Kilander's opinion. Many hobbies may be distinctly educational. Literature, music and astronomy are examples of that type. Physical as well as mental health may be improved by a hobby; sports are of distinct value.

Many hobbies are started accidentally without forethought. It is well, however, suggests Doctor Kilander, that parents and educators should plan indirectly to guide children in certain desirable interests in order that their leisure time may be wisely spent.

Recreation has become a necessity, writes Doctor Kilander. The trends of the times indicate that the schools must include more training in the use of leisure time not only for the years that the student is in school but also for the time when he is an adult.

State Flowers

NEW YORK—Rose.

The state flower movement in the United States was started by New York, although its legislature has not yet officially sanctioned a flower. In 1890 a school vote was taken in the entire state, with the result that the goldenrod was adopted by a vote of $1,308, as against 79,866 for other candidates. A year later the case was re-opened, and this time the rose led, receiving 294,516 votes, as against 208,402 for all other entries. From this time the rose has been considered the official flower of New York, though the vote did not specify any particular rose.

TEXAS—"Buffalo Clover," or Bluebonnet.

In Texas on February 28, 1901, a senate concurrent resolution was introduced, the preamble of which recited the fact that the National Society of Colonial Dames of America, Texas Branch, had requested of the legislature that they adopt Lupinus Subcarnosus, generally known as the buffalo clover or bluebonnet, as the state flower. Sentiment in favor of the bluebonnet was so general that there was little debate, and the measure was passed, and finally approved by the governor on March 7, 1901. The bluebonnet flower is at top-most point of a long stem, and consists of a cluster of flowers resembling in form our sweet peas—only blue in color—and blossoming a few at a time at lower part of cluster, while upper part is a mass of buds, maturing into bloom gradually, similar to a hollyhock stem of buds. They choose the bluebonnet because it was different. It blooms in spring, and has a range rather more limited than most of the state flowers. One authority tells us that it is a great body, and never crosses the Texas line of the Mexican border. The Lupinus are, it is true, found in sterile, waste lands, gravelly banks, exposed hills, and like places, but they do not impoverish the land. Rather, they choose poor soil for their home, adding to the landscape's beauty and fertility. There are about 70 species of lupines in America, mostly in the west, where they transform many a sandy waste into an oasis of color and beauty. The blossom has five petals, the upper one an advertising banner, announcing to the passing bee that the table within, is laden with choicest viands, and that no daintier food was ever served in flowerland. The Lupines sleep at night.

WASHINGTON, WEST VIRGINIA—Rhododendron.

The superb beauty of the rhododendron has won for it universal admiration and the distinction of being the flower of two states. The legislature of West Virginia and the state organizations of Women's clubs in Washington have elevated it above all other floral rivals in their communities. In West Virginia the subject of an official state flower had long been a theme of discussion among teachers and others interested in school work. It did not take form, however, until 1901, when the governor in his message to the legislature recommended the adoption of a state flower and suggested the rhododendron, or big laurel as the most appropriate. In 1902 a vote by the school children was taken which resulted in a majority in favor of the above named flower, and on the 8th day of January, 1903, by action of the state legislature it became the official state flower. The Women's clubs of the state of Washington held a contest in the choice of the rhododendron as that commonwealth's flower. The chosen variety of West Virginia is "Rhododendron Maximiliana," while that of Washington is "Rhododendron Californicum," also called the "California rose bay." The latter is the most splendid of shrubs. Both kinds are of the heath family, cousins of the mountain laurel, and have delicate, waxy blossoms, tinted like the "rosy-fingered dawn," with upper petals flecked with golden and greenish spots. A tree artist in selecting its background, the rhododendron not only surrounds its exquisite blossoms with smooth, rich green leaves which set them off effectively, but also makes its home commonly on moist, forested mountain sides, where the gloomy greens and browns of dark rocks and lofty trees, contrast with its dainty pink and white ruffles. A field and mountain side with a cloth of gold, men, women and children make a festival of poppy gathering, like the Japanese at cherry-blossom time. Tradition alleges that a tiled mesa north of Pasadena when aglow with poppies in the spring used to serve as a beacon to coasting ships 25 miles away. Certain it is that early Spanish explorers saw some of the hillside covered with these flowers, and named the coast "The Land of Fire."

set aside the early summer day for pilgrimages to our mountains. There the laurel and rhododendron bloom, in order properly to appreciate these perfect gifts of nature.

CALIFORNIA—Golden Poppy.

California had long been advocating the enactment of a law making the golden poppy the Golden state's official flower. In 1902 a bill was introduced in the senate and had passed both houses, recognizing the yellow "hued" beauty, but the governor vetoed the measure. The house then passed it over his veto, but the senate permitted it to die. The bill was re-introduced in the next legislature, Jan. 21, 1903. It passed the senate on Feb. 2 by a vote of 28 to 1. It received practically a unanimous vote also in the house. On March 2 the new governor advised the legislature that he had approved the bill, and the golden poppy became the state flower of California. The very essence of California's sunshine has woven its brightness into the history of the Pacific coast. During the spring months, when it covers valley, field and mountain side with a cloth of gold, men, women and children make a festival of poppy gathering, like the Japanese at cherry-blossom time. Tradition alleges that a tiled mesa north of Pasadena when aglow with poppies in the spring used to serve as a beacon to coasting ships 25 miles away. Certain it is that early Spanish explorers saw some of the hillside covered with these flowers, and named the coast "The Land of Fire."

KANSAS—"Sunflower"

The bill to make the sunflower the floral emblem of Kansas, was introduced on Feb. 10, 1903. The senate passed it by a vote of 30 to nothing. It is fitting that a genuinely American commonwealth as Kansas, should choose a genuinely American flower to represent it at home and abroad. And the sunflower is such—for the Old World's eyes never fell upon it until the days when the exploration of the New World began. The tracks of Peru, and the furrows of our country, alike were enjoying it as a cultivated crop when the white man first visited them. They used it much as the bamboo growers use the bamboo as a "jack of all services." Its seeds they found useful alike as food, and as a raw material or a home-made hair oil, its leaves served them as fodder, and from its stalks they secured their thread. The wild sunflower is the one that gave Kansas the title of "The Sunflower state." Its range extends from the Atlantic seaboard thru Kansas, and from the northwest territory to the Gulf of Mexico. In China its seed is used as adulterant of silk. In southern Russia the seeds are widely employed both in making oil, and as a substitute for our peanut. When the Spaniards first visited Peru, they found the sunflower as much the national flower of the Incas as it today is the state flower of Kansas. The Incas gave it a deeper reverence because of its resemblance to the radiant sun. In their temples the priestesses wore sunflowers on their bosoms, carried them in lieu of tapers, and otherwise used them in their services. In North America there are about 40 known species of sunflowers. South America has about 20 species that do not exist on our continent.

SOUTH DAKOTA—Pasque flower.

In the case of the South Dakota flower, while the artist portrays the species pasque flower, known as Pulsatilla Patens, the South Dakota law designates the anemone patens. The main difference between the two seems to be the matter of the name. The pasque flower is the name of several plants of the genus anemone. Inhabiting dry soil and prairie lands, blossoming through March and April, ranging from Illinois to the Rocky mountains, and from Canada to Texas, the pasque flower, elected queen of flowerland by the legislature of South Dakota, need never fear to stand in an flower company, however charming. The pasque flower has some lovely cousins. For instance, there is the Virgin's bower or clematis, the wood anemone, the buttercup, the larkspur, the Monkshood, the Columbine, the gold thread and the horned lark. Its immediate relatives are the anemones, among which it is one of the prettiest. With the first warm sunshine of spring the pasque flower begins to lend its soft purplish hues to the landscape. If its lovely flowers gladden the hills while ungenial winter wanes, its fruiting period also has beauty to offer. A head of silky seedlets with their dainty plumes, leads people to call it the ground clematis. The stem of the anemone lengthens considerably after the plant flowers. Those familiar with garden varieties have noticed how it grows longer even after it has been cut. If the stems be put in water, they readily double their length. This power of cell-making with only air, light and water, out of which to manufacture tissue, seems a wonderful gift. Devoid of roots and possessed only of local energy, it is hard to understand how the stalk continues to grow. Opinions differ as to how it came to its name of pasque flower. Some say that before the Gregorian revision of the calendar, it was the most abundant flower of Easter tide. Others declare that a dye for coloring Easter eggs was obtained from it. Be that as it may, the pasque flower itself brings delight to the prairie, even before the first winter winds have roared their farewell.

IOWA—"Hawkeye" state has the wild rose for its state flower, and the state motto is: "Our liberties we prize and our rights we will maintain."

The wild rose was chosen by common consent. There is nothing about the simple loveliness of the wild rose to suggest that she is a queen who has never come into her own; she resembles rather a little flower princess, too fragile to brave the dangers of rocky hillsides or meadows, close to busy highways. However, nature has provided this "seemingly innocent" with arms for protection and wiles for preservation. Sharp, downward turning prickles discourage cattle from eating the foliage and prevent the field mice from climbing the stems to steal the fruit in the autumn, when the hips or berries are ripe. These prickles also help the plant to hold its position when it grows on the side of a bank. The delicate fragrance of the usually solitary pink blossoms, and the solid center of bright yellow stamens, rich with pollen, attract a variety of insects. The wild rose never outstays St. Mary Magdalen, for a fairly true English saying, for her day, July 22nd, generally ends its season. Each delicate flower has about 2 days of life. During rainy weather the petals fold over the green stigmas and the yellow stamens to protect them from moisture. The blossom closes with the last rays of daylight, and reopens as the sun dispels the darkness, so that only the careful observer and the early riser realize that it "draws the drapery of its couch about it and lies down to pleasant dreams." The choice of the wild rose, by common consent, as the state flower of Iowa, is only one of the many tributes to it. English poetry breathes its fragrance in many pretty verses. The scenes of Scott's "Lady of the Lake" are profuse with "Wild rose, Eglantine and broom." Yet so elusive is the charm of this blossom's simplicity that it remained for a great American composer to express it most truly in the wistful sweetness of music.

ARIZONA—

The "Apache" state has the "Saguaro Cactus" for the state flower and the motto is "God Bless the Riches."

When the legislature of Arizona selected the "Column" Cactus, known to the layman as the Saguaro, for its state flower, it chose a representative which, for tenacity and ability to live under stressful conditions is unsurpassed. It thrives on the mountain slopes, where other plants cannot survive the shortage of moisture, rearing its thick cylindrical branches straight up into the air as high as 40 feet. Sometimes it grows to resemble a large upstanding cucumber, and again like a huge candelabra. It is armed with rows of spines arranged in star shapes, and in May and June bears exquisite whitish, waxlike flowers, perfect in form, and opening in the daytime. This cactus has so arranged its household economy for "making hay" while the rain falls. In wet weather it converts itself into a sort of green-hued sponge, drinking up great stores of water. It long ago suppressed the last vestige of a leaf, and in lieu thereof has covered itself with a thick, hard, impervious coating, which sometimes has a grayish bloom on the surface. In this way it is able to prevent evaporation of its moisture under the fiercest sun, and calmly to await new supplies. It is indeed the vegetable counterpart of the camel, woodpeckers make holes in this cactus column for their nesting places. Other small birds of the arid regions move in when the woodpecker moves out. One of these is a small owl, said to be the tiniest of all members of the owl family or tribe. Another feathered friend of the cacti is the cactus wren. It builds a large, flask-shaped nest of grasses and twigs, which it lines with feathers. The nest is entered by a covered way or neck several inches long. The column cactus, like most of its relations, is a prolific producer of seeds. Millions reach the ground, thousands may germinate, but only now and then does one escape the perils of childhood, and become a full-grown cactus. The fruits of this species have a crimson, flesh, and black seeds, reminding one of the Georgia water melon in these respects. The Pajaro Indians eat both the meat and seeds.

Laws to Curb Indians

Laws against nudity on the public streets during daylight hours once adorned ordinance books of Phoenix, Ariz. It was disclosed in a survey intended to eliminate regulations of horse-and-buggy days. The laws applied to Indians who came to town virtually naked in the good old days. It also was necessary, old records show, to curb the Indians in other ways. Grass was grass to the Indian, so he thought nothing of feeding his ponies on the carefully tended lawn of a prominent citizen. So a law was passed against feeding Indian ponies on private lawns and another one was enacted saying that horses and vehicles should not be parked on sidewalks.

Ancient Roman "Racket"

Crassus, reputed to have been the richest man of his time, amassed a great fortune by his ingenious operation of a private fire department in old Rome. When a fire would break out, he or one of his agents would rush to the owner and offer to buy the burning structure at a very low figure. The owner usually would sell for almost nothing to get some salvage. Thereupon, Crassus would call up his fire brigade and, in many cases, put out the blaze. In this way he became owner of a great many buildings. It is hinted by early writers that when business was dull his agents may have had a hand in starting an occasional conflagration.

Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat
In Just 4 Weeks

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I lost only 25 lbs. and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment."

"Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it's the SAFE, harmless way to reduce excess fat. Thousands of men and women know. For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at any drugstore. The cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back."

IN WOLVERINE WOODS

(An appreciation)
By Charles O. Carpenter

It is Saturday afternoon in summer. As the week ends, full release awaits from the stress and duties of many months in a crowded city. An earned outing is to be enjoyed today by indulging in a long (although regrettably solitary) stroll through a Michigan orchard and adjacent woodland. It is the time of year and the kind of day for true lovers of the pastoral, of the more remote rural regions, to there roam and revel in deep-felt admiration of wondrous nature's matchless artistry.

As the few miles are traveled, broad, beautiful meadows are viewed; fertile fruit farms and cultivated fields; alternate with verdant, rolling pastures. In this spacious country area, how clear, clean and invigorating the very air! How splendid all the landscape! Cosmos, moss-rose, hollyhocks; within one oval enclosure are displayed five thousand (actually 5,000) fragrant, dainty old-time petunias, near a neat cottage home and garden.

Now, at both right and left, the alluring orchard; that strangely pleasant scent of fully ripe apples, very reminiscent of happy youthful days and the cellar of that old farm home, its winter stores heaped high; tempting indeed is the true fruit aroma wafted from other full-bearing trees, the reddening peach, many purpling plums, mellowing, delicious pears, and large clusters of ripe grapes appear in lush profusion.

Then a group of gnarled quince trees and their rather odd product; down the long slope of a beautiful grassy valley, over a hill, another valley, the ground almost covered with native pepper-mint; a taste proves its usual pungency. Probably forty shades of green vegetation are now visible! Sweet clover, red and white clover; the unmistakable and wholesome odor of new-mown hay; (likely the most necessary plant grown in all the world is the unadorned, little noticed grass; for without that, within a few brief years our entire planet would become quite uninhabitable).

The path leads across a small rivulet, more heard than seen because of the heavy foliage; over a "foot-log" with guiding hand-rail, sweet-scented, familiar wild flowers ornament these banks and attract scores of honey-bees, with their perpetual example of ordered industry and amazing perseverance.

Higher, on the hillside, the rankly growing water-cress mainly conceals another murmuring brook. Wild grapes in abundance; prolific hazel-nut bushes, swiftly recalling boyhood's joyful gleaming, and many gleeful visits to cheery, most hospitable "Aunt Lucy's", near whose home these grew thickly. A small wild-cherry tree has ample fruit of finest flavor! It is early August; the time for golden-rod to be a bloom; near that great locust a dozen showy spires stand proudly on exhibit, full-flowered in gleaming yellow. BEHOLD! On every hand blooming, gorgeous MID-SUMMER in luxuriant, superb array! This very shapely, glossy-leaved shade tree is none other than a "Tulip Poplar", rare here but recognized at once by an admirer of the species. A final quarter-mile, and into "The Welcoming Woods". Comes the poet Bryant's line, "The groves were God's first Temples." And was not this the sentiment of Lord Byron? "There is a pleasure in the pathless woods, there is a rapture on the lonely shore."

How gravelly impressive the solitude of a stately forest! Among those timber-dwellers seen and heard and seeming to have first claim here, are the wrens; (two in a nearby willow thicket are in animated dialogue) the alert, litting robins; a musical brown thrush; crested cardinals; golden orioles in their wide-swinging but wholly secure nest; crooning mourning doves; several wood pigeons; the blithe meadow lark; blue birds; perhaps half a hundred flashy butlerflies; a flock of bronzed starlings; the quail; (and of all living things seen this memorable day, no other is quite so winning in mute appeal as this mother-quail leading her month-old chicks.)

A pair of gray squirrels approach the intruder, seeking what he may have to offer. From those strong boughs how easily might be attached several safe swings, to provide long hours of innocent play and pleasure for many laughing children!

A serene, soothing silence rests like a veil over this densely shaded retreat; no harsh nor dreaded sounds, no distracting discords penetrate; no person or human habitation is within sight or sound; what ideal isolation! While seated on this thick cool moss among these towering oaks and elms, these massive, wide-spreading maples, green-robed monarchs a century old, what precious, sadly-sweet memories are revived of blissful care-free childhood, of delightful rambles like this, long ago (but not alone) in what surely was then "The Enchanted Wood"; O how subtly appealing its charm of beauty and mystery! And... with heartfelt emotion of that best beloved paragon of parents, that darling, sainted Mother, fondly, utterly devoted, who led there her eager young son and in smiling love-language, instructed him in all her rich lore of forest and flower, of fern and field, and of the untamed creatures often glimpsed there; of that handsome lad, that little blond brother, who shared those always happy journeys, many times taken on radiant Sunday afternoons in blossom-time of balmy spring.

Further Wandering. Another enticing glade is entered, profoundly enjoyed, reluctantly left. Then here is a specially inviting spot, thickly sodded with blue grass deep enough for one's reclining, for complete relaxation and rest;... far above, queer fantastic forms of the cirsium, the cumulus and other cloud stars suggest much to the imagination. Sight and touch of this tall black walnut, of this "shell-bark" hickory, rouse remembrances of discovering lofty hidden homes of wild animals and birds, of locating "bee trees" and securing much delectable wild honey; of gathering forest nuts after October frosts, and of early hunting adventures; of the harvest of corn to be later garnered during hazy "Indian Summer" days!

Overhead, the delicate tracery of those small, uncounted branches, their lace-like maze of curving, leafy contours, their almost rhythmic motion from the cooling breezes, all here tends to quiet and repose.

Direct sunbeams at times burst partly through this canopied avor, casting weird patterns upon the grassy ground; one recalls the fabled "magic carpet."

Ever varying figures and designs, shifting shapes and shadows,... changed... uncertain, how like life itself... or Destiny!

With the wealth of poetic imagery of a Milton, a Burns, a Wordsworth, how might one describe this scene!

The pervading calm and charm of this secluded silent valley should relieve distressed worried souls and heal weary ailing bodies, could they but dwell here for terms of perhaps one month twice each year; for in this haven for the heart-sick, the afflicted, great Nature (gently but most powerfully curative) yet holds high dominion, and if permitted would restore priceless healthful vigor, and hopeful joyous courage to all who came.

Ah, what supreme mental poise, and peace, what spiritual uplift and power one might acquire from a continued stay in so tranquil and restful a spot!

For the greatly gifted writer of stirring prose or epic poem, his soul under the impelling urge of the genius, what a site wherein to find keen transcendent inspiration to express in brilliant style, the essence of his ideals, or philosophy!

Under this auspicious influence, the highly talented artist might vividly portray inspiring scenes of ineffable, unforgettable beauty, of compelling dignity and grandeur, or others of moving pathos, of intensely dramatic events.

The master musician could here create most rapturous harmonies, such concerted, entrancing melodies, such thrilling tonal symphonies that they and his name should be deathless throughout the ages, to delight the hearts and cheer the lives of millions yet unborn.

cants have agreed to carry out instructions furnished by the game division and the resulting birds may not be released on commercial pheasant farms, shooting preserves or on lands where a charge is made for hunting privileges. It is expected that about 18,000 pheasant eggs will be distributed for hatching to private parties.

Make Careful Plans For Electric Power

Proper planning to secure the right sizes and types of equipment will save trouble and expense in wiring farm buildings for electric lights and power, according to the agricultural engineering department at Michigan State College. The increased use of electrical power and the extension of power lines into new territory sometimes tempts farmers to install equipment without first investigating the desirability of the job for which they pay. The use of improper sizes may create a fire hazard, and the installation of unapproved equipment may lead to disapproval with electricity as a power.

Five rules are laid down by the college engineers for farmers who intend to wire their buildings. The wiring plans and specifications should be listed and then bids secured from two or more reliable contractors. Only materials approved by the Underwriters' laboratories should be used. The wiring should conform to the national code and should meet the requirements set by the state, the power company, and the community where the work is done. The job should be approved by competent disinterested parties before it is accepted.

Ask Help In Finding Lincoln Relics Here

What have you in the way of Abraham Lincoln relics in your home?

Dr. Louis A. Warren, director of the Lincoln Historical Research Foundation, Fort Wayne, Indiana, asks the Spring County Record to help in locating any really genuine Lincoln relics in this section. In the Foundation's museum and library and in many other historical institutions all over the country, he states, there are innumerable priceless mementos of the Great Emancipator, yet he feels that treasured away in many a home or office there must be manuscripts, newspaper and magazine articles, books and pamphlets, pictures, medals and other Lincoln items that are every bit as valuable. He seeks the aid of this newspaper and its readers in bringing these to light.

Sometime next summer at Fort Wayne, according to Dr. Warren, the Foundation will dedicate a massive bronze statue of the famous sculptor Paul Manship. In connection with this dedication there will be held a two-day "open house" in the Foundation's museum and library. For this "open house" Dr. Warren is planning a special exhibit of Lincoln relics collected from individual owners and not heretofore shown in public. Each of the displays will give full credit to the owner, and perhaps the more important ones will later be purchased by the Foundation. Dr. Warren promises that all items submitted for the special exhibit will be returned.

Local people who feel that they have something of unusual interest should communicate immediately with Dr. Louis A. Warren, Lincoln Historical Research Foundation, Fort Wayne, Indiana, giving full details concerning the articles in their possession. Dr. Warren will then decide whether an article is worthy of special exhibition and make arrangements for sending it to Fort Wayne.

And Lazy Folks. A scientist says that within 300 years there will be nothing but standing room left on the earth. That'll certainly make it hard on folks with fallen arches.
