New Celery Resists Attacks of Disease

Celery growers in Michigan, who market a crop valued at $2,500,000 in normal years, are greatly pleased with the announcement from the plant pathology section at Michigan State College that a variety of celery has been perfected here which is highly resistant to a disease which has seriously threatened the state crop.
Celery from Wolverine fields enjoyed the reputation of being as high quality as any marketed. The appearance of leafyow disease in 1914 forced growers to plant varieties which were not as good as the one most damaged by the plant malady. Kalamazoo fields were affected first but the disease spread into all districts.
Many supposedly resistant varieties of celery have been advertised for sale but tests at the college and field plantings have proved the falsity of such claims. All these pseudo immune varieties failed in the past two seasons when disease caused the total loss of many plantings.
The new variety, named Michigan Golden, was obtained by plant breeding work with individual plants which had survived in diseased fields. This celery has the color and blanching qualities needed to place a first class product on the market.

In Japan there is a fan for almost every use one can think of, such as the tea fan, the court fan, the kitchen fan, and the dancing fan. The fan in Japan and China is not a part, merely, of feminine apparel, being an article of use carried by mistress, maid, priest and soldier.

W. C. T. U. Notes There is plenty of political ballyhoo about the results of prohibition; but unemotional science disposes of the noise and presents prohibition in the light of unassailable fact. Recent compilations of scientific discoveries have been explained to audiences by Robert E. Corradini, a national executive of the Foundation for Narcotic Research Information, and the further science goes, it would appear from Mr. Corradini, the more complete the present advance against alcohol. Mr. Corradini takes wet and dry states in contrast to show the differences between the effects of alcohol in communities which observe prohibition on the one hand and flout the law on the other: "In the United States" he says, "deaths due to alcohol last year were at the rate of 3.5 per hundred thousand. In dry Kansas the rate is just half of that, while in Nevada it is five times as high. While the wets claim that the corn and barley farmers will do much better if prohibition is repealed, market reports show that when yellow corn was selling in Chicago at 34 cents a bushel it was selling in Buenos Aires at 28 1/2 cents a bushel; no prohibition in Buenos Aires. Barley was selling in dry United States at 42 cents a bushel and wet and beer-soaked in Canada 32 cents. Beer certainly did not make Canadian barley high in price. Twenty-Six Years Ago "The claim that Maine assumed to make men sober by law is most absurd. Prohibition aims to prevent people from being made drunkards by law. Men are naturally sober. It takes the saloon and the hotel bar and other forms of liquor selling to make them drunkards. These places shall not exist, says the prohibitory law. "It is claimed that the prohibitory law breeds hypocrisy. This may be said of all laws. The murderer and the robber and incendiary are not very open and frank in their ways. There is more hypocritical illegal selling in license states than in Maine; for every joint or blind tiger under prohibition in Maine, there are sixteen blind tigers in license New York plus twenty seven thousand state licensed saloons." Lillian M. N. Stevens, pres. National W. C. T. U. Speaking in 1907.

WHAT SOURCE TAXES? With the tax limitation amendment still hanging in the balance by reason of the stupendous vote muddle in Detroit, involving some 40,000 lost, strayed or stolen ballots, speculation is nevertheless rife over the state regarding the probable effect of the curtailment of revenue from the general property tax. After the tumult and shouting died and the dust of battle subsided, it became evident that the amendment had the support of two classes with rather widely varying interests, the farm owners of the state and industrial interests connected with the Michigan Manufacturers association. The farm folk, it seems, acted advisedly, with full realization of the possible consequence of a curtailment of revenues, but a determination notwithstanding to force a shift in the burden of taxation. If it is finally proven that the amendment carried, it will then be necessary for the legislature to put the law into effect through some manner of enabling act. This may be deferred indefinitely, as certain state laws regarding reapportionment of representation have been. But eventually the hand of the legislature can be forced. And then what? There is the sales tax. The usual argument is that a sales tax would bankrupt all business men living close to state lines, by driving their customers to the adjoining state to avoid the higher prices necessitated by such imposts. But Michigan is largely bounded by water or by international boundaries, and only limited portions of the states of Indiana, Ohio, and Wisconsin adjoin. Now a movement is under way for a state sales tax in Indiana. If successful, it will remove any objection on the part of business men in this section. It seems possible that adjoining states might act in concert in the passage of the sales tax. Jesse G. Boyle states that a sales tax was introduced into the lower house of the Michigan legislature two years ago and failed of passage by that body by only four votes. It was at that time strongly opposed by certain manufacturing interests, he stated. At that time there was a valid objection that there were already sufficient sources of revenue available and that another tax meant merely an added tax, with additional burdens on the public. But now that a shift of the source of income appears in the offing, the sales tax may again be considered. It has the merit of providing a sure source of income, which will vary less than almost any other conceivable tax, and which is more easily collected than any other revenue. If a small tax, say 1 per cent, is imposed on not only the luxuries but the necessities, the income to be derived will be certain and not greatly variable. It will preclude the inclination to mendacity that always hampers the collection of the personal property and income taxes. It is open to the objection that it is a "hidden tax," that the man who helps to pay the tax is never sure of the size of his bill and consequently never knows just what government is costing him. However, a matter of simple book-keeping should enable anyone to estimate approximately the tax he pays. In case a tax of one per cent is imposed, the total amount of purchases made by any individual of the items covered by the tax would represent the total tax paid. The person who spent a thousand dollars for commodities subject to a sales tax of 1 per cent would pay an annual tax of $10. This is probably considerably greater than the annual purchase of the average consumer, on items open to such taxation. Possible sources of revenue suggested by the Michigan Manufacturing and Financial record are as follows: 1. Severance tax on production and sale of natural resources. In a year of normal demand, a tonnage tax rate such as is applied to the natural resources in Minnesota would produce in Michigan about $2,500,000 from iron ore, nothing from copper ore until the market price rises to somewhat near 10c per pound, $1,000,000 from limestone, and at least $2,000,000 from sand and gravel, a total estimated income of $5,500,000. 2. Beer tax. A tax of $4 per barrel on beer, if and when it is legalized, might raise $10,000,000 but that would greatly hamper the alleged liberties to be enjoyed under the repeal of the dry laws and would be violently opposed by all prospective consumers of beer. 3. Income tax. The state Farm Bureau recently went on record favoring a graduated state income tax as a relief from the general property tax. The income tax is open to the objection that in times such as the present when governmental units may be in need of emergency funds to deal with necessary relief, the revenue from incomes may be almost obliterated. Difficulty of collection and possibility of concealment add to the objections. 4. Gasoline and weight taxes. Any diversion of income from these sources from their natural object, the construction and maintenance of public highways, would be poor practice. Meanwhile it is alleged by the opponents of the tax limitation amendment that it was very clumsily written, so clumsily, in fact, that it would be practically unworkable. It would be necessary for the State Supreme Court to interpret it. It might be possible that that body would find it feasible to invalidate it. In the meantime, at least, the situation is stimulating some very hard thinking on tax matters that will not be a total loss.

Buchanan Stops Coloma Victory March Here

HAND 19-0 DRUBBING TO TITLE RIVALS

St. Augustine of Kalamazoo Only Undefeated Rivals for Title in S. W. Michigan.

Buchanan's fighting Maroons were just a little too much for a desperate Coloma team last Saturday, and Buchanan won handily by a 19-0 count. This victory gives Buchanan the Class C title for this district, and if there were any possibilities of a play-off for the state title, the Bucks would play St. Augustine.

Buchanan's first touchdown came in the early stages of the first quarter. Buchanan received Coloma's kickoff, and Jesse returned the ball to the 23 yard line. Coloma was penalized five yards on the first play. Ellis made five yards. Louie Morse scampered 11 more yards. Ellis ripped off 34 yards to the Coloma 17 yard line. Louie Morse made four. Ellis added two. Ellis made four. Louie failed to gain. Ellis made three more yards. Ellis carried the ball again and ran the remaining four yards for a touchdown. Due to adverse weather conditions and the muddy field, the kick for the extra point failed.

In the second quarter, the Bucks scored again. Coloma's punt was downed by Buchanan on his own 23 yard line. Ellis made five yards. Louie Morse scampered 11 more yards. Outstanding again was the work of Captain Ed Charles Cripe, Claude Denno and Glenn Jesse, the quarterback. These boys showed their ability to great advantage. Time after time they broke thru to set Coloma for a loss. Denno showed up very well. Buchanan's line was the factor that gave the Bucks their victory this season. There were marches of 72 yards, another march of 72 yards and the last one was 27 yards. This makes a total of 213 yards for their three touchdowns. These long and sustained marches thru a team that hadn't been beaten previously this year, shows that the Buck line was functioning, and functioning in as impressive manner as anyone ever saw in a high school team. The backfield performed well, but the credit for the victory should go to the line. They made the holes for the long drives to touchdowns, and it was they who held the very serious threats by Coloma. Many of the boys were playing their last time and wished to make an impressive showing. That they surely succeeded is the general opinion of their classmates and all who saw the game.

Mike Editor Evens Scores

By Audrey McClen One day in journalism class Miss Hanlin called Bernice Newsom to her desk and this is the conversation which went on behind the protective sides of the desk.

"Now, Bernice, dear, seeing you are such a sweet child and I like you so much, I am going to let you be editor and chief of the Microphone news this week," purred Miss Hanlin.

"Oh! Miss Hanlin, how perfectly dear and you know, I will be just overcome with pleasure to take that job. Just wait. I'm going to assign all the hard assignments I can think of to all the kids I don't like. Now let me see, who do I hate the most? Ah! ho! I know. It's Audrey McClen."

Then like the villain in the dime novel Bernice hissed, "Ah! ha! I know what I'll do. I'll give her an assignment in journalism that will wake her up."

Then with a voice like thunder she roared, "Audrey, come here at once. I want you to write a story about Thanksgiving."

"The poor (not financially embarrassed) innocent victim stammered, "Y-es, Bernice dear. I'll do anything for a mark."

"So, ladies and gentlemen, this is how this article was written. Maybe you have noticed that But then I ask you what have I to be thankful for after such a terrible assignment?"

B. H. S. TO OPEN CAGE SEASON VS. BERRIEN SPRINGS

Bradfield has Wealth Experience Material but Only 2 Wks. to Whip Team in Shape.

Buchanan will open its basketball season at Berrien Springs on Friday, December 2. Coach Bradford will have to work hard to whip his 1932-33 team into shape by that time.

Buchanan's first team is intact, and Strayer's vacancy has many applicants for the job left by him. The seniors besides Strayer, who graduated last June are: Harry Dumbolton, Marian Dretzier and Joseph Letcher.

The members of the G. A. A. had a meeting Wednesday during Home Room period. This meeting was called to discuss the initiation of new members into the Girls' Athletic Association.

Buchanan faces again! The Scholastic announced last week that Dee Weaver won first prize in the "Name This Author" contest for October 8th.

Who's Who

Harry Dumbolton, a very familiar post graduate of the high school, was born May 7, 1914. Harry says he likes blondes.

George Zachman, or Pee Wee, as he is called by his classmates and others, was born October 23, 1914. George says that he is not particular whether his girl friends are blondes, brunettes, or red heads.

Berl Brewer, a bright junior, was born October 24, 1916. His liking of girls is confined to brunettes. Going to Niles is his best hobby, as he says he doesn't like the brunettes in Buchanan.

Beatrice Neal or Bee as she is called, a mere sophomore, was born July 23, 1917. She says her idea of a boy friend is a brown-eyed brunette or a red head.

Dorothy Dunlap, a pretty freshman, was born October 28, 1918. She goes for brunettes in a big way. (How about it, George?) Dorothy hates onions, but how she likes lemon pie.

Yo-yo Spinner Demonstrates to H. S. Assembly

"Spinning the yo-yo top is the favorite pastime of the 'Filipinos,' said Jose Mackalad, a native of the Philippine Islands, who was speaker in general assembly Wednesday.

The Philippine Islands were discovered by Magellan in 1521, and were named in honor of King Philip. The islands are situated between the China sea and the Pacific ocean, 10,000 miles from the United States.

"At the time of the Spanish American war in 1898, America sent 1,000 teachers to the Philippine islands to educate the Filipinos. In turn, the graduates took the place of these American teachers, teaching their own native people.

"The Philippine government is more centralized than the American. They have two houses, the upper and the lower. The man that participate in this government are elected by the people. The man at the head of the entire Philippine government is an American, the son of Theodore Roosevelt. He was appointed by Mr. Hoover to run the government.

"They play American games such as baseball, volleyball, and tennis, but about 300 years ago the forefathers originated the spinning of the yo-yo top."

"See, what did I tell you? Didn't I say that I'd be seeing you again? Well, here I am with the latest news of B. H. S. for this week."

"Monday—Oh, yes! The Mason Jubilee Singers sang for us today. Everybody enjoyed them, but Eddie Rolen in particular. I'm telling you he's got it bad. After he heard them sing, he went home and what do you think? He made so much noise trying to imitate them that his sister, Shirley, put in a complaint about it. She said, 'Why I actually think he's gone crazy. The way he twists his face around you'd think he belonged to the baboon tribe.'"

"Tuesday—My! My! These dignified seniors, you should have seen them. They had their pictures taken today, and they're so dressed up that you'd hardly recognize them. Even Charles Cripe, the great Romeo, has done his new suit. Something wrong somewhere."

"Wednesday—A lecture was given concerning the Philippine Islands this afternoon. Helen Fletcher stated that she'd like to live there just so she could play with a 'yo-yo'."

Weaver's choice of quotations was from "Threnody." "This so truly expresses the anguish of a father's heart," was the reason given for the choice.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

Edwin S. Rydges, Editor of The Kenton (Ohio) News-Republic, says:

"Mr. Merchant, the newspapers from the larger cities near your community are coming into the homes of your own customers these days with advertising columns bursting with announcements of real values.

"They are drawing the dollars out of the pockets of the people who should be purchasing from you.

"These city merchants know their advertisement in their city newspaper will bring results that they wouldn't be spending good, hard-earned money for that advertising.

"Your own values are just as outstanding—and even more so—than the values being offered your customers by the city merchants.

"If you are to get the dollars that are rightfully yours, you will have to inform your customers of this fact in big, bold headlines in your home town newspaper, and then back those headlines up with the price tags on your merchandise.

"If you will go to your home town newspaper advertising man, he will help you with your advertising problems and make your advertising just as appealing to your customers as the 'big city' advertising is.

"Local advertising has the jump on advertising that comes in from the outside, but you, Mr. Merchant, have to keep that lead by properly utilizing the home town newspaper columns consistently and with careful attention to the preparing of copy."

Introductory thought: There are two kinds of prayer—the prayer of surrender and the prayer of intercession. In the preceding eight lessons the thought is developed that the Lord's prayer is a prayer of surrender. No matter of intercession is in it. We are to surrender to God as a child surrenders to his father, as a creature to his Creator, as a subject to his ruler, as a servant to his master, as a pilgrim to his Saviour, as a prisoner to his deliverer. Each comparison has its own meaning. It takes all to describe the full surrender of the soul to God.

Christian Science Churches

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism Denounced" is the subject of the Lesson Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, Nov. 27.

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Matt. 7:21): "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven."

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following: (p. 206): "Will-power is capable of all evil. It can never heal the sick, for it is the prayer of the unrighteous; while the exercise of the sentiments, hope, faith, love, is the prayer of the righteous. This prayer by Science instead of the senses heals the sick."

Pleading for Health
It is to bring a smile to sad, wistful faces like this little boy's—littered from the sanatorium cot, his home for many long months—that the children on the 1932 tuberculosis Christmas seal are singing their song. They are just a pretty picture to this joy child, but tuberculosis is a grim reality. Already in his baby way he has learned to perform the acts of precaution taught every sanatorium patient that he may prevent his disease spreading to others. Tuberculosis is the "great, big, black, bogey man" of the tales that such little children must hear until the "Good Fairy," Health, has sent the shadow of disease away. Happy endings to all their stories are hastened by are built penny by penny, during the annual sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals.

Pierce, Knight Win Numerals at Kalamazoo
The Buchanan athletic twins were back together this year performing on the gridiron on the freshman team at Western State Teachers college, after a separation of a year. Both men, Harold Knight and Harold Pierce were among the 23 freshmen honored by the athletic board of control with their frosh numerals for their play on the yearling team for the undefeated season just closed, the fourth successive undefeated season that Western State yearling teams have had. It was noteworthy this year that both freshman and varsity teams at the Hilltop were undefeated teams, the varsity team playing a seven game schedule, scoring 174 points and having just 6 scored against the team. The frosh in three games scored 30 points and had 19 scored against them.

Outstanding competition was given the frosh eleven and it won its opener against Hope frosh. Michigan State college frosh were tied 13-13 and last week the University of Detroit frosh, undefeated and unscored upon, was played to a 6-6 tie.

Both Pierce and Knight are seen as having plenty of chance to break into future varsity lineups at Western State Teachers College and Coach Mike Gary of the varsity team is looking forward to another season when they will be members of his squad.
