O. E. S. Officers Entertain in Honor Mrs. Bessie Bilger

Officers of the Sylvia Chapter of the Eastern Star gave a party Friday evening honoring Mrs. Bessie Bilger, on the eve of her departure for Aberdeen, N. D., to make her home.

The Line of Succession

Sooner or later, in the course of human events, it seems likely that the responsibility for winding the cat and putting out the clock at the local post office will be transferred from Republican to Democratic hands and there is naturally not a little conjecture as to whom the mantle of greatness may descend.

WE ACQUIRE AN OFFICE CAT

It was many and many a year ago, so the tale runs, in the regime of Charles Dana on the New York Sun, that a big story broke by whatever wire service the daily paper had in those days.

Odd Fellows Elect Officers For Next Term

B. H. S. To Open Cage Season at Berrien Springs

BRADFIELD HAS MATERIAL FOR FINE QUINTETTE

Niles will Clash with Locals on Latter's Hardwood Friday of Next Week.

After a very successful football season, Buchanan athletes are all ready to begin the basketball season tomorrow, Friday, Dec. 2nd, against Berrien Springs on the hardwood at Berrien Springs. Buchanan has an extraordinary good chance to have a wonderful team this year and every person who is interested in the progress of the Bucks should be at Berrien Friday. Glenn Jesse, varsity guard, has predicted an almost perfect season. Everyone hopes he is right and from all indications, it will be formed. Buchanan has a tough schedule to crack, but it seems that the squad is undaunted and ready for the opposition. Berrien Springs, Dec. 2, there. Niles, Dec. 9, here. Open as yet, Dec. 16. Benton Harbor, Dec. 23, there. Dowagiac, Jan. 6, there. Coloma, Jan. 13, here. Bridgman, Jan. 20, here. Niles, Jan. 27, there. Three Oaks, Feb. 3, here. Watervliet, Feb. 8, there. Dowagiac, Feb. 10, here. Berrien Springs, Feb. 17, here. Bridgman, Feb. 24, there.

Coach Bradford is looking forward to a bright season and he states: "We must win one or two games if we're lucky." See every game this year. Follow the team on its out of town trips. Back them to the limit. They can go places and do things if they feel that they have their town back of them.

Faculty Facts

Miss Hanlin, Marjorie Weaver, and Una Kelley attended a lecture given by Vicki Baum at the Progress club at South Bend Saturday. Mrs. Dunbar spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. A. Weaver of Buchanan. She spent the week-end in Three Oaks. Mr. Hyink spent Thursday at Spring Lake, Michigan, and the remainder of the week at Holland, Mich. Miss Shriver spent Thanksgiving at Hudson, Michigan. Mrs. Winters had as her guest, her aunt, Mrs. Anna Logan, for the holidays. Mrs. Weaver and sons, Dee and Lazell, spent Thanksgiving in Berrien Springs with her sons' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Weaver. Mrs. Weaver attended the Business and Professional Women's club banquet at the Four Flags hotel, Niles, Saturday night. She was accompanied by Mrs. Vada VanEvery, as her guest.

School's Shiek—Joe Dunlap, Glen Jesse. Greta Garbo—Alene Riley. Man Hater—Doris Campbell. Woman Hater—(That is, all women but Alene)—Maurice Aronson. Sophomore Shiek—Fred Riley. Biggest Flirt—Peggy Merrifield. Sweetest Jr. Boy—Eddie Donley. Worst Anger—Marvin Gross (Also the most intelligent). Biggest Eater—Helen Mogford. B. H. S.'s Dream Girl—Louise Howe. Lloyd Kolhoff, one of our surplus, is a post-graduate. "Kollie" didn't want this publicity and so when asked what he liked—"I don't eat. I don't like women. I'm indifferent"—Ah! The great Gabe. He has those mysterious green eyes that hold you spell-bound. Another post-graduate is Marie L. Post, a little girl with smoldering brown eyes, wavy black hair, and a pleasing personality. Postie likes all kinds of sports and while in school was a member for two years of the soccer team. She is a perfect dancer, maybe 'cause she has a feeling for a certain orchestra-player.

School Slants

Can you imagine Louie Morse being called Louie? Well, that's just what is happening. I didn't catch any of the rumors going around, so I took it for granted that he considers himself quite dignified. Roy Ruth has learned to "spank the baby." We all know that practice makes perfect, and he surely can make that Yo Yo top spin. My, but the high school girls are getting ambitious. The other noon the girls were industriously brushing crumbs from the tables and chairs and sweeping the floor in the home economics room. Someone whispered to me that Miss Thompson had a little something to say to the girls which accounted for all the extra work. The only thing Pete Donley needs to set off his beard and complete the picture, is a lion's skin suit and a club grasped in his hairy hand. "Oh! dear, Oh! dear. I'll never do it again," wailed Rose McGinley. "What won't you do?" anxiously inquired her friends. "Wash my hair. It looks like the dickens," replied Rose. Charlie Blake should go out for housework. Such talent as his shouldn't be wasted. In the study hall he was industriously mopping the floor, and judging from the neatness of his work, he must have had some practice. Really, he looked so cute and sweet. His name should have been "Bridget O'Hare."

Marjorie Hamilton has become a very popular Juliet. If you should see the Romeos going around with pale faces and puffed eyes, you'll know "Harmie" has been hard hearted and broken their hearts. Why, Mary! Spring's not here yet. Whatcha have your hair cut for? Audrey McClen asked Floyd Huss if he knew where she could get some birds to put on her hat, which she wears in the junior play. Floyd gallantly answered, "No, but I'll shoot you some."

Some of the boys have been trying to get the low down on "Stretch" Gladwin. They have just found out why "Stretch" didn't report to basketball practice Monday afternoon. After they had cornered him in the locker room he stated that he had too many social affairs to attend, since he is the senior president. We also found out that he has taken a liking to some of the senior girls.

Feminine Aid is Required to Open Window

"Oh, Edward, will you please come and empty this dish of hot water from under the radiator?" chimes Miss Thompson, who is in charge of sixth hour study hall. Eddie jumps up, then marches up to the windows and proceeds to open one. "Umph, gee, I guess this window doesn't open; neither does this one. Well! This one doesn't either," wails poor Eddie. "Get one of the girls to open it, Ed," barks a voice from the back of the room. It is Chuck Blake. Eddie gives up. He looks appealingly at Miss Thompson and falters, "I guess these windows don't open."

Miss Thompson then walks to the window, and lo and behold, it opens to her touch. Our young hero now proceeds to empty the water slowly—oh so slowly—the pan is full and now—now he lifts it up—up—up—it goes—splash! Out goes the water, but partly on Miss Thompson's dress. "Oh, dear! What a job," cries Ed. Everyone settles back in his seat and everyone stops laughing. "Teacher, may I wash my hands?" only too glad to get out of the room. You'll learn, Eddie Spasek.

H. S. Musicians Tuning Up for Dowagiac Meet

The high school choir is going to sing at a music festival at Dowagiac Thursday, December 8. Some of the songs they will sing are "Pilgrims' Chorus," and "The Water Boy." The orchestra has been practicing on some of the selections that they will use in Niles on January 8, namely, "Two Guitars," "Stony Point March," "Mignonette," and "The National March."

Around B. H. S. Howdy, everybody! How's every little thing this week? Are you ready for the news of last week? Coming up, Catch! Monday—Some times we have some very blue Mondays for some people, but it didn't prove that way to Helen Mogford, Marvin Gross and Thomas Quirk, our honorable debaters. They went to Dowagiac today, and from all reports they showed the Dowagiac debaters what debating is. Good for them.

Tuesday—"Would you be arrested if you went to Salt Lake City with more than one wife and didn't belong to the Mormon society?" was a question asked by Lester Beadle in history class today much to the surprise of the rest of the seniors. What's the matter, Lester? Are you figuring on going to Salt Lake City to live after you graduate? You wouldn't leave this fair city just to have more than one wife would you? Wednesday—What news! We get out of school today for our Thanksgiving vacation. Of course, the scholars won't eat too much to make them sick; but we wouldn't be surprised about the faculty, in fact, the student body would just as soon have a little longer vacation. They don't mind at all.

We have missed Miss Rockenbach, our physical education teacher, and we hope that she has had a pleasant Thanksgiving also. That's all for this week, so I'll be seeing you.

H. S. INTERCLASS CAGE TOURNAMENT TO BEGIN FRIDAY

Seventy Per Cent of Boys Play in Intramural Tournament; Silver Cup for High Team in Series.

The keen rivalry between the classes of Buchanan high school in basketball has arrived amid much shouting and predictions as to who will cop the championship. The battle is pretty much narrowed down to the juniors and seniors who both have excellent material. However, anything can happen in a race for a championship and it behooves the favored class to look sharp for the unexpected. Last year the classes each had two teams and about 70 per cent of the boys in high school participated in the game. Harold Bradford, athletic director, has arranged to have each class muster three teams and thereby give every boy in high school a chance to play. This interclass competition is primarily for those who for one reason or another failed to get on the high school varsity squad. This year a team arrangement is expected to draw 90 per cent of the boys into the competition and will there ever be competition? And how!

The class advisors met Wednesday during home room period with the boys from their classes and chose captains and coaches for their teams. Bradford says each class must have a coach to handle the team as to substitutions and fair play and the date they will play. This year a loving cup will be awarded to the team or rather the class which shows the best percentage for all three of its teams combined. The contest will run through the middle of March and announcement of the winner will follow shortly. Boys on these class teams may advance from the 3rd team to the second, and if he is good enough, may advance to the 1st team. But he may not and can not be placed back on either the 2nd or 3rd team. This is to prevent a small group of boys playing on all their teams and must be strictly adhered to or forfeiture of a game will follow. All players must be eligible, up in their studies. Any team using an ineligible man must forfeit the game in which he played.

The officials for this year's games will be Bob Rinker, Clem Savoldi, Bud Proud and Bob Morse. OH, WE HEARD! You can easily see who Roy Ruth's idol is, from just his appearance lately. He came to school Monday in a new sweat shirt with an adorable picture of Skippy on the front. The seniors have been posing for Mr. Franks for nearly a week. They like it so well that some of them posed the second time. In history 12, Mrs. Whitman told her class the male sex of the Mormon tribes had many wives. Marjory Pennell intelligently asked, "How many husbands can the women have?" Marjory Weaver has assumed the nickname of "Peggy." We wonder where she got it? Bill Bromley is expecting a new set of teeth around Christmas time. Don't become alarmed though; Mr. Franks is going to fix them. Mrs. Shriver's home room was selected the most attractive in the school.

ANNOUNCEMENTS Mr. Walters, superintendent of the Eau Claire high school, presided over a meeting held in that high school Monday, Nov. 21. Mr. Stark, superintendent of the Burlington high school, was present at this meeting where final preparations for the musical concert which will be held, Dec. 8, at the Dowagiac high school, were made. A P. T. A. meeting was held at the Buchanan high school on Monday, Nov. 28. An outside speaker was present at this meeting. W. D. Henderson, the man by whom the Buchanan high school building was dedicated, will be a speaker at a program given at the high school, Wednesday, Dec. 14. Season tickets for the season's basketball games were on sale at Mr. Knoblauch's office, Monday and Tuesday of last week. The first basketball game will be played with Berrien Springs in the Buchanan high school gymnasium, Dec. 2.

AMERICAN BEAUTY

Reviewed by Marjorie Weaver From the title of this book by Edna Ferber, you might conclude that the story is about an American Beauty rose or perhaps a beautiful American girl. These conclusions would be wrong, for the plot centers around a grand old house, which typifies the first architectural beauty in America. This house is re-discovered by Candace Baldwin and her father, True Baldwin, as they travel through Connecticut. In order to obtain the impression she desires you to have of the house, Miss Ferber takes the reader back to the year of 1708, at the time the house was built by Captain Orange Oake. The house was built of brick made of red clay that was dug, moulded, and baked on the grounds surrounding the house. The wood used for the interior was hewed from the forest located on the farm, and the gigantic foundation stones were wrenched from the soil of the farm. Thus the magnificent house was built. It contained twenty rooms and twenty fire places, but it was the faint glow from the front door that gives the structure its final touch of utter completeness. The story acquaints you with the generations of Oakes, as they struggle to keep the home on the farm from the year 1708 up until the time you meet Orange Olszak in 1930. Very few writers are able to take a house and weave an interesting story around it, as Edna Ferber has in her book "American Beauty."

Editorial

What Are Your Daydreams Worth It is natural that we should want to have spare moments, some hours which we may spend in a land of make-believe and charming mystery. But there's a time for action and a time for dreaming. For instance, there is a girl I know who lives in a little dream world of her own creating. She does her school work in a haphazard way. Her classmates and teachers are not as real to her as the people who live in her imaginary world. Is it right for her to neglect her school work, to neglect making friends among the other students just for her dreams? There's a time for day-dreaming and there's a time for work. The different times must be kept completely separate.

In direct contrast to this young girl is a young man who is intensely interested in his work. For interested. He has neither time for pleasure nor time for the making of friends. He does not even have time to plan for the career that his hard work will win for him. When his daily assignments are prepared he is too tired to dream of the wonderful things the future will hold. This young man is as strong in his own way as is the young girl who spends all her time in day-dreaming.

Vision is needed and the ability to dream, as well as perseverance and hard work. In our school work and in our home life, we must strive for a balance, if we are going to get the most out of life. Some of the greatest books in the world have grown from day dreams. Some of the greatest inventions have been made by minds who have had courage to look ahead. Our daydreams may hold something vital to us and to the world. But we must use our daydreams to the best advantage. Even though our dreams are not of adventure or achievement, they may be the foundation of some gracious deed; a kindly word that will make our life and the lives of those around us a better thing.

VICKI BAUM By Marjorie Weaver Miss Helen Hanlin, journalism teacher in the local high school, had two high school students, Una Kelley and Marjorie Weaver, attend the lecture given by Vicki Baum at the Progress Club in South Bend, Friday, Nov. 25th. Vicki Baum, author of "Grand Hotel," is a woman of striking personality. She is tall and slender and wears her smart clothes with a distinguished air. Miss Baum began her talk by telling how she first began her writing career. She was born in Austria, of parents of moderate means. When she was fourteen years old, she bet a neighbor boy a chocolate bar that she could write a story and have it published. The boy in question had had many stories published for his father was a publisher. Miss Baum won the bar of candy and received $5 for the story that was published. Her father forbade her to write as he wished her to become a musician. She continued writing until her father's knowledge of her was 17. At this time she won her first prize in a story contest. Her father was greatly displeased so Miss Baum ran away. She married a young man who also was interested in a literary career. She declared in her talk that this first marriage was only a "puppy marriage." Vicki Baum and her young husband tried editing a magazine. But his, her husband was editor-in-chief and laid on a couch smoking a cigarette in hopes that an idea would be born, while Miss Baum wrote twenty different stories in as many different styles and signed as many names. She divorced her young husband when she was nineteen. Later she married again. She now has a young man who is one of the greatest orchestra leaders in Germany. Miss Baum is an accomplished harpist.

Miss Baum said she is asked by many people how to attain success. To this question she answers, "If you want a thing enough to sacrifice many things you desire for it and are able to put your entire will power into your work, you will surely be successful." "Many people ask me how I am able to accomplish so much work," said Miss Baum. "My only solution to this is: every day has 24 hours, every hour has sixty minutes, and a great many things may be done in sixty minutes."

To Miss Baum a story of a beggar's life is more interesting than the biography of Napoleon. She studies human nature and the result of her interest in all types of people is revealed in the wonderful character portrayals in "Grand Hotel." Vicki Baum wrote "Grand Hotel" twenty years ago. It only took five months to write, but she did not consider it worth publishing. When she came to the United States to see her book "Grand Hotel" presented in a Broadway play, she knew very little English. The first words Miss Baum learned go for Christmas baskets. English The study of Hamlet has been completed by the senior English class. They wrote papers entitled "Procrastination in Hamlet" to finish the study. In their study of Greek literature, including Greek lyric poetry and epic poetry has been pursued. Juniors are continuing the study of seventeenth century literature. Exercises on phrases and clauses have been worked on by the sophomores. They dramatized the correct office procedure as to delivering messages, answering telephones, and meeting callers. They also spent time on the business form of money orders, telegrams, and advertisements. Mathematics Division problems have been started by the ninth grade algebra classes. Law of signs and exponents is their chief objective. The ninth graders have also been doing problems by dividing polynomials by monomials and polynomials by polynomials. Geometry classes have been studying the relationship between the sides of a triangle when the angles are unequal. They have also been working problems about relationship of a parallel line, which is drawn parallel to any side of an angle, to the other two sides. Pupils taking advanced algebra have had a test over the twelve weeks work. They have begun the study of dividing synthetically and the solving of equations synthetically.

Historic Valley The Shenandoah valley is more than 100 miles long and varies in width from 20 to 30 miles; included within its area are Berkeley and Jefferson counties, West Virginia, and Frederick, Clarke, Warren, Shenandoah, Page, Rockingham and Augusta counties, Virginia. All Government-Owned Land in Canberra, the capital of Australia, cannot be held in fee simple, the title always residing with the government.

Class Activities Debating The Buchanan High School debating team, under the coaching of Mr. A. L. Knoblauch, won from Dowagiac Monday afternoon. They received the unanimous vote of all three judges. The question was, "Resolved that Michigan should adopt a State income tax." Buchanan took the negative side. The winning of this debate gave Buchanan 4 points out of a necessary 12 points for eligibility for the state championship. The debate was held at the Dowagiac High School and the officials were Mr. Milton, Principal of the St. Joseph high school; Mr. Perry, history instructor at Benton Harbor; and Mr. Stewart, mathematics instructor at Benton Harbor. The next debate will be with Paw Paw here, on December 2.

Members of Miss Hanlin's ninth grade English classes handed in their projects Monday on literature they have studied this year. They have begun work on written composition, and have taken a discovery test over sentence recognition, direct objects, and predicate nominatives. The eighth grade English classes have been continuing the study of nouns, pronouns, and cases. Journalism Class work in journalism has been on effective sentences. The object is to write clearer and more concise sentences; sentences that would appeal to the reader and yet be easily understood. Another phase of their work was describing a scene, since a scene written in journalistic style differs from one in English composition. Notebooks were handed in. A few of the best were selected for the exhibit. Manual Training Mr. Miller presented a wonderful display of drawings from his mechanical drawing classes Monday night at the high school exhibit. Each pupil had at least one drawing on exhibition. It proves that the mechanical drawing class is advancing rapidly. Due to the early date of the exhibition the shop classes had very little accomplished, although each project which they had on display was very skillfully made. Some of the best work was unfinished, but it was displayed to prove the ability of the student. The mechanical drawing and shop classes were opened to all people from 7 o'clock to 8 o'clock.

Arithmetic Mr. Weaver's commercial arithmetic students are making out payroll checks. The eighth grade arithmetic classes are learning how to find the areas of rectangles and parallelograms. History The 10th grade has been studying about England in the past week. They studied the life works and the influence of Alfred the Great. The citizenship classes are considering topics of transportation and communication. The twelfth grade history classes are studying the main events which led to the beginning of the Civil War. Home Economics Department The clothing department tenth grade girls have made for their own use and for gifts was on exhibit Monday evening, Nov. 28. Cafeteria lunches started Monday. Girls of the tenth grade are in charge. Seventh grade girls began their luncheon unit. They are working with main dishes. Eighth grade girls are planning dinner desserts. Ninth grade girls have begun first-aid and invalid cooking. Junior and senior home economics classes sold candy at the open night, Monday. The money will

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Ps. 107, 8, 9): "Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men! For he satisfieth the longing soul, and filleth the hungry soul with goodness."

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 423): "The metaphysician, making Mind his basis of operation irrespective of matter and regarding the truth and harmony of being as superior to error and discord, has rendered himself strong, instead of weak, to cope with the case, and he proportionately strengthens his patient with the stimulus of courage and conscious power."

So glaring was the omission that an explanation seemed necessary. So that Mr. Dana took occasion the next day to write a personal message to his readers in the warm and intimate style that editors adopted in those days, and created a mythical character, the Office Cat, whom he blamed for eating the story.

The Office Cat, he said, was ordinarily a valuable part of the office equipment and subsisted on such stories as were fit to print but unsuitable for publication. The Office Cat, he stated, had an uncanny scent for free publicity donations by "space hogs."

He was strong for unduly long obituary poetry, for calumnious letters sent to the editor unsigned, for offerings of self seeking politicians who were willing to be quoted to any effect and to any extent, so that they were quoted. And whenever some designing person sent in a flagrant piece of advertising disguised as news, the Office Cat was seized with a frenzy and would claw madly over the contents of the waste basket.

If an article came in that looked suspicious, as though some one might be slipping something over, it was necessary only to submit it to the inspection of the office cat, and if the truth were as suspected, his back would arch and his tail go up like the oriflamme of war.

But sometimes, Dana said, the Office Cat made a mistake and got away with information that was not intended for him. In any case, Dana said, if anyone sent a story in and it failed of print, there was no grounds for whipping the editor, because the Office Cat doubtless made away with it.

Well, the Record office has lately acquired a cat or rather a cat has acquired the Record office. No fooling, a real cat has come to live with us, one with a Maltese complexion and a voice clear out of proportion to its diminutive size. It started to work Tuesday morning, and has been doing well on what material was on hand, but the job cut out for it is large and mistakes may be made, of course, so if your story didn't get printed, why just hold your horses, keep your shirt on and don't bite yourself or anyone else—it will be, of course, the office cat.
