An Appreciation

To Our Customers:

We wish to take this means of conveying to our customers our sincere appreciation for their patience and cooperation during and following the worst sleet storm Southwestern Michigan has had in years. With over 400 miles of our primary lines crippled and out of service, in most cases because of tree limbs crashing onto them, it was absolutely impossible to restore service to all of our customers without some delay and inconvenience.

In order to repair the lines just as quickly as possible, fifteen crews of experienced men were put into the field. The damage was so extensive, however, that in spite of the fact that some of these crews worked 60 hours continuously with little or no rest, the interruption of electric service to some of you was bound to be a serious inconvenience.

Nor can we speak too highly of the loyal service of our line crews and others who labored night and day under adverse weather conditions to bring service to you as quickly as possible.

We are very grateful to you for your helpful patience and forbearance during this emergency.

ROUND ABOUT BUCHANAN

WAS G. D. KENT RIGHT? The late C. D. Kent, pioneer groceryman and one time postmaster of Buchanan, and a rockribbed Republican at that, nevertheless once delivered himself of this significant bit of economic philosophy, which is even more significant now than when it was uttered: "No man is as big as a million dollars."

This remark of the old time merchant is recalled by the incidents surrounding the arrest this week of Charles E. Mitchell, erstwhile chairman of the National City Bank of New York City, reputed boss bull of the Hoover bull market, one of James Gerard's famous list of the "59 actual rulers of the United States." That list, it will be remembered, did not include the name of President Hoover or of any official of the U. S. government. It did contain the names of Sam Insull and George Eastman.

In respect to salary Mr. Mitchell was one of a number of million dollar beauties of the industrial and financial world.

BANNING THE 5-DAY BANS

Dean Morley of New Troy got his name on the front page of the state prints this past week by sponsoring a bill to repeal the state 5-day marriage law.

While Mr. Morley was perhaps incited to his action by Twin City interests who wish to restore the status of that place as a marriage mart, a repeal of the law would be popular here.

A minister in one of Buchanan's largest churches, whose tenure of his pulpit will be two full years in May, reports that to date he has performed only one marriage since he came to the city.

All the others of his congregation whom have taken on themselves the holy vows of wedlock have been contented with the services of an Indiana minister or justice of peace. In a previous charge located so far from the state line that his parishioners could not evade the 5-day law conveniently by leaving the state, he performed 43 marriages in two years.

It's not good for people to run away to be married," he thinks. "They should be married at home by their own pastor in their own church, as they used to be. This Michigan 5-day law should be annulled, unless it is made the same in all of the states."

A COMMUNITY NECESSITY

Ordinary business is business, every tub should be able to stand on its own bottom, and a community cannot be charged with the responsibility for maintaining a private interest, further at least than it is warranted by value received.

With the exception of course, of a few institutions that are in the nature of public necessities, such as the school and the church. Not exactly on the same basis as these, but in the nature of a quasi-public utility at least is the moving picture theatre. When all is said that may be said concerning the possible dangers of the film show, that institution is among the great possibilities for education and high-grade entertainment for young and old, and every community needs at least one of them. True, excellent shows are available to Buchanan people within a few miles of the city, but in times when many cars are retired for financial reasons, the maintenance of a picture show in the city is an end for which we can afford to make some effort. The film antics of Will Rogers and of Mickey Mouse are among the great national assets in entertainment, and no one can be completely educated in his own times who does not keep an approximate check on them and on the other great offerings of the galloping celluloids.

We want a moving picture house in Buchanan; to that end we need to give it our patronage. The other side of the picture is that if we give the picture house the patronage necessary to keep it afloat, we have the right to demand a certain level of entertainment and education. But the more we patronize our picture show, the better pictures the management will be able to buy.

And then if they don't suit, why—tell Graff about it. He will be glad to hear from you.

Characters in "State Fair" All Authentic

Truth aids fiction in "State Fair," the prize novel by Phil Strong on which Fox Film's all-star picture of the same name is based.

The story concerns the loves and adventures of four members of a farm family at the Midwest state fair, and Strong is intimately acquainted with his characters and locale. He was raised in a rural community such as he describes in his book and as a newspaper reporter "covered" many state fairs. With one exception, the characters played in the Fox picture by Janet Gaynor, Will Rogers, Lew Ayres, Sally Eilers, Norman Foster, Frank Craven, Louise Dressler and Victor Jory are fictional, but they represent authentic types. The exception is the country storekeeper portrayed by Craven. Tna. storekeeper in real life is E. L. Strong, the author's uncle and the proprietor of a rural general merchandising establishment. "State Fair" comes to the Ready theatre, Niles, on Sunday, April 2nd, for three days.

State Beer Legalization

Manufacture and sale of beer and other liquors of 3.2 per cent strength will be legal in Michigan by April 17, according to Governor Comstock, who states that a bill to that end should be ready for his signature by that time. Although this will be a few days after the congressional liberalization act becomes effective April 7, the governor states that he prefers tardiness to makeshift legislation.

Poor Dad

An eminent educator says all his sympathy goes out to the youth of today who is up against a stone wall, but a lot of ours goes out to poor old dad, who will have to settle the garage repair bill.—Boston Herald.

Few Great Colorists

According to Hunskin, "There have been only seven supreme colorists among the true painters whose works exist—namely, Giorgione, Titian, Veronese, Tintoret, Correggio, Reynolds and Turner, but the names of great designers are multitudinous."

tion act becomes effective April 7, the governor states that he prefers tardiness to makeshift legislation. A bill legalizing the manufacture and sale of 3.2 per cent beer in Michigan will be ready for the action of the legislature early next week, according to Gov. Comstock, whose 17-member bi-partisan board is completing its recommendations this week. While details of the plan were not disclosed, it is believed that it will permit sales in unbroken packages in groceries and other suitable stores and in a bottle or glass in restaurants and hotels.

It replaces a bill drafted by Atty. General O'Brien, which was opposed by state administration leaders on the ground that it was a makeshift.

Gov. Comstock plans to take an active part in campaigning for the election of wet candidates to the state convention April 10.

Revision of the statute governing the administration of Relief Finance Corporation funds to permit of the continuance of Michigan highway relief work program was asked by State Highway Commissioner Grover C. Dillman in a letter to the Michigan congressional delegation.

World Limit Insurance Loans, Surrenders. A resolution, previously passed by the senate, was passed Thursday by the lower house of the Michigan legislature, directing Gov. Comstock to put in effect rules and regulations protecting insurance companies as to policy and cash surrenders until appropriate legislation can be enacted. Chas. E. Gauss, state insurance commissioner, said 22 states had imposed such restriction, and that it would not be unfair to have such regulation in Michigan.

Charges Politics in State Relief Management. Charges that state relief director, William S. Carpenter, had played politics in the distribution of excess clothing among the counties of the state were made in the upper house of the 57th Assembly last week by Senator Ray Derman of Iron Mountain during the debate on a resolution directing the department to pursue such distribution. The resolution stated that the administrative's boards purchasing commitment had directed that 20 per cent of the surplus clothing go to the Upper Peninsula communities to be distributed under the direction of three senators from that area. Derman charged that $34,000 had been borrowed last year from the state garage's revolving fund to purchase clothing from the federal government. The money, he stated, was subsequently given a Detroit man who sold the clothing to a New York broker to pay back loan and the clothing was sent to South Africa.

Would Ban Employment for Married Women. Representative John Dystra of Muskegon introduced a bill declaring an emergency exists and forbidding all employers to keep on payrolls any married woman whose husband is able to support her, on penalty of $100 for violation.

Demand States Action for Direct Relief. The state legislature was accused of "dallying" in non-essentials while permitting a relief crisis to become acute by Harold D. Smith, a director in the Michigan Municipal League. Smith called a meeting of 200 welfare leaders of the state in Lansing Tuesday. The relief must come from some other source than a property tax, he stated, possibly from a luxury tax.

Among the attendants at the meeting was James Fitzgerald, president of the Detroit Welfare Commission, who stressed the necessity of some action toward direct relief by the state. The R. F. C. has so far advanced $8,46,000 to the city of Detroit, but intimates that no more help will be forthcoming until the state makes some provision.

The delights of thought, of truth, of work, and of well-doing will not descend upon us like the dew of the flower, without effort of our own. Labor, watchfulness, perseverance, self-denial, fortitude, are the elements out of which this kind of joy is formed.—S. C. Jones.

Worth Remembering

A Squelcher
In his life of Herbert Acquit, J. Alfred Spender tells of a bore at Oxford, who entertained a long and tedious speech at a debating society by saying, "I'm not an orator, but I am a good churchman." One of his hearers commented, "The first part of that remark is obvious, the second of limited interest."

VOYE DRY

What's the Use? vs. Let's Fight
Within the last few weeks the repeal of the 18th Amendment has, by action of Congress, been moved from this body to the forty-eight states. Every state must decide against or for repeal. The bill presented to the states does not provide against the return of the saloon, and thus each state must vote in favor of the saloon or prohibition. Each voting citizen must vote for or against the saloon.

In Michigan a bill called the Heidecamp bill, which was signed by the Governor on March 11th, which provides that a committee composed of the Judge of Probate of the county, the County Clerk and the County Prosecuting Attorney of each state legislative district shall appoint one "wet" or one "dry" candidate from each legislative district, these shall be voted upon by a committee of general spring election held April 3, and those receiving the nomination will then go to Lansing April 10, where the constitutional convention will be held, and these candidates are to vote according to the side they represent. There are to be 100 such delegates through the state of Michigan.

If we want to hold Michigan as a "dry" state, it is important that the "dry" vote is gotten out on April 3, in the small towns and county districts especially, as these are the stronghold and only hope of the dry forces. Too many of our cities are hopelessly wet.

There are times in every great war when many say, "What's the use? We cannot win. We had better give up." We have far too many of the "what's the use" type of people in this country today. They are now beginning to express themselves. They were quiet until the fighting became hard—now they talk. "What's the use?" The wet have all the money-power, influence, Congress and the legislators. What's the use. I need it for my business, you need it for a few ministers.

But I hear something else. I hear those who say "Let's fight." The harder the battle the better the fighting. We may have our backs to the wall, but quit—never. This is a growing group, it is fast becoming an army. I am seeing men, women, youth and ministers praying that an instrument will come out and join this army. I hear them say, "Let's fight—let's hold the line." "The saloons must not return." "The liquor traffic shall not pass."

This is the spirit of America. It is now the time for those who believe in a sober nation to join the army of the "Let's fight" and men fight. Fight right, as we have never fought before.

This is a government of the people, by the people and for the people. April is your time to speak, not only for yourself, but for all those in whom you are interested. If you speak then you will have done your part, and your one vote will be added to the cause in which you are interested. But think as you are interested. Do not fight until by the voice of the people we write across the eighteenth amendment, we placed you in the constitution and you're there to stay.

The "dry" candidate to the constitutional convention from the 1st and 2nd legislative districts are Emma Jean Hall, Berrien Springs, (Buchanan's representative) and Attorney Edwin H. Whitney of Benton Harbor, for the second legislative district.

BEAUTY! is only skin deep THE most perfectly molded features can be spoiled by a dull, faded complexion. When you subject the delicate texture of your skin to the searing heat of old-fashioned cooking methods; when you stand for hours in the stale air of a stuffy kitchen, robbed of much of its oxygen by flaming fuel; when you allow your complexion to be withered by noxious fumes and clogging greases, you are destroying your beauty. Do not let the drudgery of preparing meals three times a day over an open flame range steal your charm away and line your face beyond repair. Famous beauty experts tell us that it is not the years, but dry skin that ages a woman. Electric cookery is cool, clean, and automatic, so that your hours in the kitchen are few and you have much happy freedom with which to build up your vitality and put the sparkle in your eye, while your meals cook to delicious perfection without attention. A visit to our showrooms will allow you to see demonstrations of all standard makes of electric ranges and to choose the make and model best fitted to your need.
