Let's All Be Young Again and Go to See Douglas Fairbanks

Let's all be young again next Sunday or Monday evening and go to the Princess and see that lot of our youth, Douglas Fairbanks, in "Mr. Robinson Crusoe." Actually it will help you see the years to see Doug in action again, as virile and handsome as of yore. If Doug can still look like that and act like that, why, h-m-m—we can't be so outmoded ourselves. "Mr. Robinson Crusoe" is the romance of a voluntary castaway in the South Seas. Out on a yachting party, so the story runs, he makes a bet that he can live four months on a South Sea Island, just as Robinson Crusoe did. He swims ashore with his dog, builds him a house, a radio and other gadgets, and ultimately a beautiful native girl flying from her fiancé takes refuge there—but see it for yourself. Anyway, Doug has a great time on this South Sea Island and you will have almost as much watching him. Co-starring with Doug on the Sunday and Monday programs will be Morton Downey and Vincent Lopez in orchestration and band selections.

Chinaman Dreads Water A Chinaman is said to dread water more than fire, and a violent mob on the streets of China can be subdued in a few minutes by a stream of cold water from a fire hose.

Snake Plays 'Possum When loud hissing and threatening movements of its broad, ugly head fail to frighten its enemies, the hog-nosed snake feigns death by rolling over on its back after a performance of writhing slowly back and forth as though in great agony. The inconsistent phase in this maneuver is that if turned over the snake at once returns to its upside down position, apparently thinking it looks more like a corpse that way.

Light and Radio Waves Light waves and radio waves travel at the same speed—186,300 miles a second. According to the electro-magnetic theory of light, their waves are the same in kind and light as an electro-magnetic phenomenon. The speed of the waves of sound varies. In dry air, at a freezing temperature, sound travels 1,087 feet a second. In glass it travels 13,000 feet a second, in steel 16,400 feet, and in water 4,703 feet.

Slaves in Rome The number of slaves in Rome at first was small, gradually increasing. They were used on the great estates for agricultural work principally, because they were not subject to military service. There was a continual increase in their number and their work became more varied. Town slaves managed the household affairs and were also employed in the several trades. Later public slaves were employed to do the work of the city.

City Moves to Curb Spread of Scarlet Fever

City Physician R. H. Snowden announces that all children who have been out of school even for a day with throat trouble must not return without the approval of their physician, in order to ward off the possible spread of scarlet fever. Three cases have been quarantined with the disease, two at the home of Mrs. Six on W. Alexander street and one at the home of Elson Rough on N. Portage. It is believed that a number of cases which were diagnosed by the parents as German measles were in fact scarlet fever.

Announce New Low Goodyear Tire Prices

New low levels have been reached in tire prices, according to Earl F. Beck, local dealer for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. In addition to sharply reducing prices, Goodyear will produce but two lines of tires—the well-known All-Weather Tread and the Pathfinder, discontinuing third and fourth line brands. Prices on All-Weather tires are now at the level paid for Pathfinders a year ago, while Pathfinders may now be bought at prices comparable to those paid for the Goodyear Speedway line at that time. All-Weather prices are 48 per cent under 1929 rates, while Pathfinders cost 48 per cent less than in 1929, not including government tax.

Boy Scout News

Early Friday evening many of the Scouts and leaders of Troop 41 were started from their sleepers and evening pastimes by the stirring call of a troop mobilization. The M. E. church yard was soon a scene of great activity, and in less than 20 minutes after the first unexpected call went out, almost 30 boys were assembled.

In case of an emergency where Boy Scouts could be of assistance, this efficiency means of rallying the troop might prove to be of great value. The system is quite thorough. The Scoutmaster notifies the assistant scoutmasters, who call the senior patrol leader. He gets in touch with each of the five patrol leaders and they in turn notify their assistants and the word is passed on to the rest of the patrol by these assistants.

The purpose of this mobilization was to inform the scouts of the information contained in the latest news bulletin from staff headquarters.

The troop is having an inter-patrol indoor baseball tournament and the first game was held on Saturday. The Pelican patrol defeated the Rattlesnakes by a score of 17 to 10. The game was played on Liberty Heights diamond, Ken Blake, umpire.

This Saturday the Bat patrol will play the Hawks, the game starting at 1:30 p. m., and visitors are welcome.

SENIORS SELECT 'KING RIDES BY' CLASS DRAMA

Was Selected as One of Four Best School Plays of Last Year.

Mrs. Dunbar has started preparations for the annual senior play. It will be entitled "The King Rides By," written by Lee Owen Snook.

This romantic mystery-comedy was ranked among the four most popular high school plays for 1931-1932 by the Players Magazine.

The play is one of the Gateway series of Tested Plays; the advisory board personnel of which is as follows: Burns Mantle, Editor of "The Year's Best Plays."

Hatcher Huges, Director of play writing at Columbus University, Chester Wallace, Director of the theatre at Carnegie Technical Institute.

Garrett Leverton, Director of Northwestern University Theatre, Glenn Hughes, Assistant professor of English and dramatics in the University of Washington.

Claude M. Wise, Director of the School of the Drama, State University of Louisiana.

Several schools in the western section of the country have staged this play and it has been a huge success. A few of them are as follows: Everett high school, Everett, Wash.; Grant high school, Portland, Ore.; Santa Fe high school, Santa Fe, New Mexico; Central high school, Kansas City, Mo.

Tryouts were held Wednesday evening and the cast and assisting staff will be announced later.

With spring at our feet we will be looking for something that is harmonious with the mood that the season brings. "In the spring a sunnier, brighter turns" and it may be in the direction of a certain member of our student body.

She is really one of the nicest girls in our high school with a large number of friends. She has brown eyes, curly hair, and a most charming personality all topped with a smile. Her hobbies are bracelets that are different and ear rings. Pink is her favorite color for it harmonizes with her complexion acquired in Florida.

Exams are a dread to her and mathematics are an awful bore. Her voice is very high but has a pleasing southern accent. Among her favorite pastimes are bridge, dancing, sports, books and jig saw puzzles and she is very good in her own class. If you want to know who she is, look in the Microphone of Jan. 12, under the column of "Believe it or Leave It," and it tells you that this person also admires chivalry and likes the gallant dashing type of youth.

Track Biography A gentleman who should burn up the cinders this year is Dee Weaver.

Dee was born on a farm near Buchanan, Dec. 3, 1914. He went to school for two years, then moved to the big city of Buchanan where he has been attending school ever since.

When Dee entered high school he was too small to indulge in football, so he played interclass basketball, a little item he's participated in for four years.

Last year Dee decided to go out for track. He immediately won the 440 in the interclass track meet, and took second in the Niles track meet.

In the District meet at Niles he broke the record for the grueling 500. So he journeyed to Kalamazoo the following week, and booked himself a medal by taking 3rd in his specialty.

At Lansing he took another third and won himself another piece of tin. Dee also ran on the relay team and always gave a good account of himself. This year Dee hopes to break his brother's record at Kalamazoo.

Dee indulges in other pastimes other than track also. He is quite a John Barrymore, playing in the junior play last year and the minstrel show of the same year. He is also a playwright. One of his plays was shown in the Velmorian Lit.

His favorite dish is cottage cheese smothered in apple sauce. (Someday he'll die eating the stuff.)

He has no inspiration like Glenn Jesse and "Pete" Donley have, but only his sheer desire to emerge the winner.

Dee hopes someday to become a mechanical engineer.

"Pete" Donley read this article and said if his biography wasn't in the next issue, he'd sue the "mighty press."

Agriculture Dept. The horticulture class has been assimilating material for unit three which deals with the production, pruning and thinning of orchards.

Economic phases connected with live stock producing activities have been taken up by the annual husbandry class. This is found in unit six of the text book.

Class Activities

1st Grade, Miss Carnagan. The annual physical examination of the pupils in our grade was given recently by Mrs. Lamb, the school nurse. The following was found:

One has decayed permanent teeth, 16 have decayed temporary teeth, 7 have had all dental work completed this year by a dentist, 7 have enlarged tonsils and adenoids, 3 have had tonsils and adenoids removed this year, 7 are 10 percent or more underweight, 1 has defective hearing, 1 is crippled from infantile paralysis and is now receiving treatment.

During the past month we have conducted a Clean Hands Health Campaign. Each child was given a sample bar of soap and a Washup Chart. Each attempted to keep the following pledge: "Cleanliness is the first law of health. I owe it to my family and my country to keep my body clean, strong and healthy, free from dirt and germs. I'll try."

These people have returned their charts, earned their pins and won 4 stars entitling their names to be placed on the Honor Roll. Doris Jean Allee, Edward Hempel, Betty Jane Bristol, Richard Habicht, Jack Hess, Pansy Maxson, Jack Leggett, Earl Judd Walls, John Moyer, Donald Rohlen, Gael Pierce, Dorothy Sherwood, Lazell Norton, Vernon Rossow and Resille Ross.

The physical examination recently given by Mrs. Lamb, the school nurse, showed the following conditions in the fourth grade: 7 have decayed permanent teeth, 11 have decayed temporary teeth, 9 have this year had all dental defects corrected by a dentist, 5 have enlarged tonsils and adenoids, 2 have had tonsils and adenoids removed this year, 1 has defective vision, 4 are 10 per cent or more underweight, 31 were examined, 3 have discharging ears.

We are making tree books in school. We are drawing a picture of the tree, its leaves, and its fruit. We are making strolls and painting forms of people on them. We have a bird calendar that we are keeping a list of the birds that we see in April. We are studying birds in school. We are glad that we have won a prize in it.

The prize winners are getting something for the room. These are the people who have their finals in Palmer: Lynna Rohlfuchs, Bill Snyder, Betty Ann Miller, Ruth Wales, Ruth Lightfoot, Valora Rohl, Kathryn Longworth, Anna Mae Lintner. Below is a poem written for language.

The robin is a happy bird He sings the whole day long, And people come from far and near To hear his happy song.

The robin is a pretty bird His vest is crimson red, He builds his nest high in the tree Where he may get the breeze.

The robin is very gay, He comes to play on this bright May day, He comes to my window and sings a song That makes me feel happy all the day long.

By Valora Rohl. Written by Jeanette McGowan and Betty Widmoyer.

9th Grade English At last our up and coming young freshman students have ended a long visit with "Vocabulary Building." You should hear these freshmen talk. They sound like walking dictionaries. One person even wrote a note using tongue-twisting ejaculations.

Finding errors in themes and recognition of direct and indirect objects have been studied by the 9th grade classes for the past week.

7th Grade English Spelling honors of the 7th grade last week went to Betty Semple, Iris Dalrymple, Marian Gassel, Phyllis Lamb and Agnes Kovich. Keith Dalrymple of the first division and Ione Raven of the second division stood up the longest in a contest over parts of speech. They are developing story writers in which they stress direct discourse.

Home Economics Whether any more free luncheons are served for the kiddies depends on how the grade teachers feel about it. If necessary, luncheons will be served.

Garments are being finished by the seventh grade girls in preparation for the exhibit which will occur the latter part of April. Over spring vacation the girls of this class held a doll's clothes making contest. This contest was sponsored by McCall Pattern Co. Ribbons are to be given to the winners. This contest was not required. These dresses will be judged at the exhibit by the mothers. They will be asked to cast their votes. A lesson was also given in washing and ironing curtains.

Samples of wardrobes and closets have been turned in by the 9th grade girls. They will be on display at the exhibit. Garments are being finished by all classes.

Tenth grade girls have had a course in colors in relation to dress. Working with paints has occupied their attention in this work and studying the principles of design, which includes color, line, mass and rhythm.

History

The 8th grade history classes are learning new things in connection with General Grant. This time it is Grant's administration. This is not the only time your government has had financial problems, because the students of the history classes will also prepare themselves to answer any questions on this subject that they find while reading the administration.

Ross Lolmaugh, 7th grade, brought pictures of Canada to class last week and pictures of Quebec were brought in this week. The students are getting ready to study about the French colonies and their struggle with France.

English Each day the two divisions were given ten point English Essentials test on parts of speech. The first division has the best record. Book reports will be due very soon. A decided improvement has been made as the students have been reading books of much better quality. A contest has been held in reading good books.

The 8th graders have been studying voice, correct usage, and the conjugation of verbs. Mathematics The students in Mr. Hyink's algebra class are going to study graph work. They are going to be coming books of much better quality. A contest has been held in reading good books.

The geometry students will use the work on radii of proportion for the next few weeks. In the solid geometry class the students will work on columns of pyramids, cones, frustums of pyramids and cones.

Girls Athletics The high school girls have elected the following captains for their indoor baseball teams: freshmen, Mary Peacock; sophomores, Lillian Peacock; Ruth Cripe, juniors; Freddie Portz, seniors. The junior high school girls are also going to play "indoor" but, as yet, they haven't elected captains.

In the first games of the double round tournament which began last week the freshmen defeated by the sophomores with a score of 18 to 4.

The tournament is continued this week. Track practice will start as soon as the weather permits.

Science For some time the physics class under the direction of Mr. Moore have been working deeply into the study of electricity and they are just finishing this study. After completing this section they will immediately start their study of sound.

The chemists of Buchanan high school are now involved in the study of Organic Chemistry and carbon compounds. Biology students are continuing their work over the behavior of plants and animals.

Language Welcome back, Miss Shriver! Miss Shriver has started work again. She is being very generous to the freshmen, Latin 9, by reading to them "The Unwilling Vestal," an interesting book of early Rome.

French 12 classes are also listening to a very interesting book, "Who are These French?" written by Sieburg, a German; so the seniors are really getting the low down on the French.

Latin 10 have finished book 1 and have started book 2. Commercial Dept. In Miss Chandler's bookkeeping class the following persons handed in perfect reports on the first half of the Practice Set: Goldie Leiter, Margaret Richter, Geneva Trotter, Esther Marsh, Joyce Kohlman, John Hattenbach and Edwin Arthurhult.

Before closing the ledger for the month the class will complete a special exercise on this procedure.

Journalism Members of Miss Hanlin's journalism class have discarded the text book for this week and are reviewing the outstanding news events of international interest and importance, in preparation for their future examination which will be given the latter part of this month.

Identification of all the prominent persons in various countries has constituted the main part of their work lately in preparing for the examination.

The entire class is planning to take a trip to the newspaper plants in South Bend soon. Manual Training Mr. Miller gave his mechanical drawing classes their final assignments which have to be completed before the end of the year. First year students have to hear the machinest view. The second and third year classes have to have all parts of the airplane motor completed.

These assignments leave most of the student much yet to complete in the short period of time. The 8th grade science classes have been continuing the study of light which was started last week and extended through this week so the students could get a thorough knowledge on the subject of light.

10th History The tenth grade history has begun the study of Nationalism; how and when it began in all the European countries.

A discussion on all points concerning Nationalism will be made by the class.

Announcements

On April 3, Corporal Ray Sullivan, Michigan State policeman, spoke at the Parent-Teachers Association meeting on the subject of "Crime Prevention." The meeting was held in the Junior High Assembly.

The Class C and D conferences were held at Buchanan high school April 11. This meeting was held to discuss track and baseball and to elect the season's officers.

Physics classes are learning the principles pertaining to electric dynamos and motors, their parts, uses, construction, and the order in which they work.

Word usage and correct forms of grammar were the chief work of the ambitious freshmen. The points that are used in the English Essential Test were emphasized a great deal. Work was started on vocabulary building.

Life, something each living creature must have, Given by the will and grace of God, Which follows us till the time of death, In every work and place we tread, Death, the cries of each person to avoid, The victor over everyone; That in time shall take away all signs Of life, and there'll be none. —Roy Ruth.

Umbrella Joke Ancient When a London editor lost a new umbrella recently he investigated and found that "borrowing" of rain shields and jokes about it dated back more than 200 years. In the Female Tatler in 1708 appeared the following advertisement: "The young gentleman belonging to the customs house who, in fear of rain, borrowed the umbrella at Will's coffee house in Cornhill is hereby advertised that, to be dry from head to foot on the like occasion, he shall be welcome to the maid's patterns."

Eye witnesses declare he achieved a beautiful musical tone which resounded around the room and then suddenly skipped out as fast as he did!

All in all, the efforts of the freshmen have certainly been noticed and appreciated.

Incidentally, a junior who read this over my shoulder told me I had grossly exaggerated this tale. I'm afraid I forgot my new freshman courtesy and said certain things, but, ah me, is art never to be appreciated?

Etta Kett Visits Frivolous Freshmen (By Una Kelley)

The teachers of dear old B. H. S. on a certain day last week, registered the following unusual symptoms on their usually sad and resigned faces: pained suspicion, hopefulness, realization and then most unusual of all, glorious warmth, friendly smiles.

Noticing this phenomenon I decided to stick my nose into it (my nose is a thoroughbred when it comes to nosiness) into it and, if possible, discover the cause. It didn't take long. Into the range of my piercing gaze three stalwart freshmen came striding down the hall bowing elegantly as they passed each teacher. Before the flabbergasted faculty could catch upon them with bright and smiling faces.

"Hello, Miss Shriver!" "Good afternoon, Mr. Hyink!" The sounds re-echoed down the hall and pandemonium broke loose. One teacher actually had to lean against her door for support!

I quickly pulled my nose out of the terrible scene without stopping to look for the cause of this unusual freshman conduct—because being a freshie myself (and, incidentally, not quite as green as last Sept.) I already knew the state of mind the freshmen were in.

It's really a very common disease. The freshmen have simply fallen in love! Call it spring fever if you will, but spring fever can be just as bad as measles (I happen to know. I've had them both worse than measles).

It all started when Etta Kett visited English 9 classes as the guest of Miss Hanlin. The boys fell for her social grace. The girls, seeing the huge train of boy friends she carried in her wake, took some tips and started to humanize their wise cracks.

That reminds me, Ben Franklin, that prominent freshman "man about town," was heard to say that he considered girls who made "gross wise cracks" very vulgar and discourteous. Take the tip, girls, if you wish.

So great has been the influence of Etta Kett that even the irrepressible Eddie Rohl has succumbed to her gracious charms. The other night when he left English class he sang a glorious, "Good night, Miss Hanlin!"

Eye witnesses declare he achieved a beautiful musical tone which resounded around the room and then suddenly skipped out as fast as he did!

Primary Health Education

By Rosemary Thompson Health Habits Eight simple health rules which lay the foundation for the future.

The health material is given to the little children in a most interesting manner. Free booklets and articles are obtained by our school nurse, Mrs. Lamb, from the State Health Department, Michigan Tuberculosis Society, Cream Companies and many other health organizations. These free booklets and posters are distributed to the different grades of our school.

In the first four grades there is no text book used, but each day along with some other lesson such as reading or art, health habits are presented to the children. In this way, the ideas of health, cleanliness and neatness are impressed upon the minds of the little ones.

Simple little rhymes for clean teeth and hands are taught to the grades and from these the children learn their health habits along with improving and informing their minds.

Everyone does not realize the importance of the health material that is taught to the children, but without this teaching they could not realize what it means to the body to have decayed teeth and dirty hands, etc.

By teaching these simple rules in early childhood the care of the body becomes a daily habit instead of spasmodic attempts at correction of bodily defects.

This health material besides being useful and easy to learn is also very interesting and attractive and for this reason does not seem to bore the children.

A great deal of the health material is presented by the teacher and not by Mrs. Lamb, as they both feel that the teacher understands her children better and that she is able to teach this material to them along with an interesting subject, in order that it might not appear too monotonous.

Each morning there is "morning inspection." This includes clean teeth and clean hands and clean handkerchiefs. Some times the children of the class act as the inspector and go through the class and look to see if they all have clean hands and handkerchiefs.

Many health projects have been done by the grades, but I will not attempt to describe these for there are so many of equal quality and cleverness, that it would hardly seem fair to distinguish between any two of these.

Had it not been for the combined efforts of Mrs. Lamb and the teachers, many more illnesses would have been contracted among the children of the lower grades.

Clyde Treat Tells of Deer Hunt in the Sierra Madrone Mts.

The following letter is descriptive of a deer hunt enjoyed by Clyde R. Treat, son of Frank Treat of this city. Mr. Treat left here about fifteen years ago, and is now located at Buena Park in the oil fields southeast of Los Angeles.

Dear Dad: If you will draw up a comfy chair, reach over and grab yourself a good cigar, we'll take a trip, just you and I, up in the Sierra Madrone mountains for a little deer hunting.

I haven't done any deer hunting for about eight years until this year. Don't south among the people I know, there are not many hunters, like up in the old Kern county. So I didn't have any one to go with. This summer some friends in Los Angeles kept telling me about a friend of theirs who wanted to go deer hunting and they had told him of me.

So I cleaned up the old rifle and drove into Los Angeles to this friend's house. We left there at 11 p. m. Drove until 2:30 in the morning when we reached the head of Lockwood valley and as far as we could go with the car. Lockwood valley is north of Fraser mountain, part of which is a game refuge. We were to hunt north of it. We left the car with his blankets, canteen and two days provisions besides his rifle. We started down Lockwood Creek by flash light. That creek is no city boulevard by daylight at best and after the first thousand feet, boulders and steps in the creek I lost track.

had us down. We hung him in a small tree seven miles up where we had opened him up. As we could, stuffed pine needles in his ears, eyes and nose and left him, figuring that I would go, the next morning early, to the rancher at the head of the Lockwood and get a mule. For it would be any five miles to the car from where we had left our blankets and I didn't match a mule carrying our blankets out on our backs let alone a big deer.

I suppose you read of the big forest fire we had out here in the Matillaja country? Well that fire and the files fixed my deer. We didn't realize it at the time. We thought it would cool off during the night. I got up at daylight and hit it up the Lockwood. I found the rancher in but it was after 9 o'clock before I got a mule. It was noon before I got the mule to where the deer hung and about one and a half hours later before the two of us got the deer on the mule. That mule smelt blood and only those who have had similar experience know what we went through. I had been alone I would have shot the mule and walked off and left both of them there. Despite our sewing, the yellow jackets had got inside. They lay an egg which hatches a maggot in about 24 hours and what they can do to a hunk of venison is nobody's business. I noticed the deer had commenced to smell as we put him on the mule. I started out alone to get him off this mesa. There was only one ridge a mule could get down with a deer and I missed it and came down one further. How we got down, I don't know. It was so steep that zigzagging as I was the deer slipped down along with the saddle, over the mule's shoulder or on to his neck. He knew something was wrong and refused to go any further.

You must remember that I had been up one whole night, and had worked the day before, had hunted hard the next day with not much sleep that night on the ground, and had walked about 8 miles the next morning. The day like the one before was terribly hot and my canteen was empty. Get the picture—take a house with a good steep pitch roof, then imagine it twice as steep and the mule standing with the ridge of his back parallel to the ridge of the roof. Try as I would I couldn't get the mule down. We went round and round on that mountain side, mixing a few right hooks interspersed with a healthy kick or two besides slipping another fifty feet or so further down the mountain. Each time. The same was so steep that a fly would congratulate himself upon sticking, we would be in about the same relative position. That is, the mule's ridge would still be parallel to the top of the mountain. I wanted him to stand with his head up the slope, then it would be an easy matter to loosen the cinches, slide the deer and saddle back in place and soon be down to the creek bed where the rough going would be over. I knew that if I loosened the cinches the way he was standing and the deer and saddle went on the ground, they'd stay there for all of me. I never did get that mule in position. I finally got on the lower side of the mule, loosened the cinch, held my breath, and wiggled the deer and saddle partly in place. The mule seemed to do everything was O. K. So we hit the floor of the valley in no time.

I hit the trail to our camp where Carl had dinner ready. Before I ate, I took off my clothes, dug a hole in the creek bed and took a bath. Boy and how that did feel good.

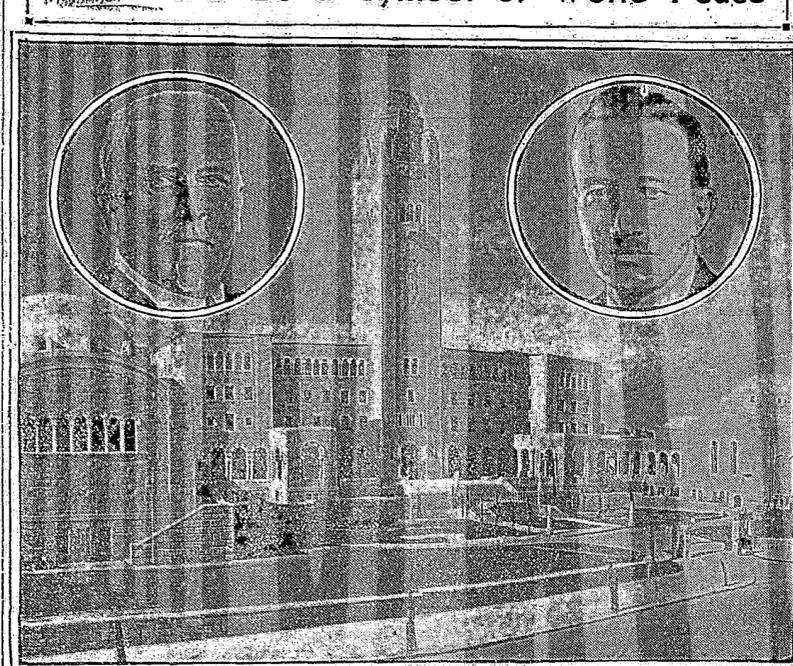

We gutted him and started to carry him out. He was plenty heavy. Carl said about 130 pounds. The ranger who checked him in had hit him right where I wanted to, in the shoulder. At my shot the two does ran up the slope and disappeared. Carl never heard my shot and wouldn't believe it until he saw it.

How much would two beers a day cost, if actual beer came back? Well, in actual money, at 5c a month's beer would cost $3.10. If the drinker's family was poor and every penny counted, it would mean that the following articles could not be bought: 1 can of spaghetti, 1 can beans, 1 can tomato soup, can vegetable soup, 1 lb. cocoa, 10 lbs. onions, 5 lbs. flour, 15 lbs. potatoes, 2 lbs. sugar, bag salt, 12 oranges, 4 lbs. apples, a head of cabbage, bunch carrots, a box pancake flour, can sirup, box rolled oats, box raisins, 3 cans of evaporated milk, half pound bacon, pound rice, 2 cans tomatoes, 12 eggs, lb. prunes, lb. butter, 2 loaves bread and, in addition, 3 cakes of soap.

The cost of two beers a day for a month would buy just that much food. Crime Among Youth. The motion picture aids crime and makes criminals. The further increase of crime among youth of New York City was ascribed to the glorification of the gangster in motion pictures and in newspapers by Commissioner Ed. P. Mulrooney of the New York police department in an address at the Army and Navy club in New York City.

The Beer Congress. "While banks are crashing and millions are unemployed, Congress is wrestling over 'How to Get Beer' is 'at two (a due)', as it is called when the game is reduced or 'set' to two strokes to be gained, in order to win it. The term 'due' is still preserved in the French form, a duc, corrupted into the English duce."

New Y. M. C. A. Home in Jerusalem Will Be a Symbol of World Peace

New "Y" Building to be Dedicated by Field Marshal Allenby, British General Who Made Peaceful Capture of the City in 1918. Inset, left, the late James N. Jarvie, of Montclair, N. J., whose generosity made the building possible; right, Waldo Heinrichs, General Secretary, who will direct the association's work in Jerusalem.

An international effort to promote peace in the most turbulent city in the world, Jerusalem, has taken tangible form in the Young Men's Christian Association's new buildings which will be dedicated in the near future by Field Marshal Edmund Lord Allenby who conquered Palestine in 1918.

Overlooking a scene that has witnessed forty invasions in thirty-four centuries, the new million dollar plant of the Association will mark one of the most significant experiments in international and inter-racial understanding in history.

The woman pays. She ate the crusts and wore the rags of the old saloon days. She got the blows and sheltered her babe. She paid not only with poverty, shame, tears and lost love, often with life itself.

While brewery propagandists are even now persisting that beer will furnish jobs for half a million people, the accurate Associated Press investigates the situation and finds that only 50,000 men would be employed in all the breweries that could open. That is 10 per cent of the brewers' boasting claims.

That the historic settings of "Gabriel Over the White House," sensational drama of an American president, opening Sunday, April 18th at the Ready Theatre, are entirely authentic was made certain by the presence at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio of Eugene Thackeray, expert on national affairs.

The woman pays. That is why she is starting her crusade to keep the 18th Amendment. It is not just an empty gesture nor sob-ground that can probably be seen from any other eminence in the world. Included in the buildings are reading, writing and music rooms, social halls, game rooms, lecture halls, a cafeteria, swimming pool, gymnasium and dormitory rooms.

Waldo Heinrichs, an American with a war record that won him a Victory Medal with five bars and four citations, and a Croix de Guerre with palm, awarded personally by Marshal Petain, is in charge of the Y's work in Jerusalem as General Secretary.

Thackeray's job to see that Walter Huston followed them to the letter. "Gabriel Over the White House" is considered to be the most sensational story of a President ever to be filmed. The cast includes, besides Huston, Karen Morley, Arthur Byron, Franchot Tone, Dickie Moore and C. Henry Gordon.

These are the reasons why she formed her unions and it is the reason why she is still continuing them. She knows the fight was not finished. That is why she is out in front locally and nationally calling the country to arms against repeal.

Orders allowing claims were filed in Melville E. Harger estate while orders closing the hearing on claims were issued in the estates of Anna M. Smith, Charles Maranto, J. Charles H. Millar, Mary E. Duell, and Mary A. Kessler.

Thackeray was constantly at the side of Walter Huston, who plays the role of the President, when he took over the powers of a dictator, lined gangsters against a stone wall to be shot and settled the problems of unemployment. The traditions surrounding the Presidency are great, and it was

ROUND ABOUT BUCHANAN

DECORATING THE APPROACHES

Last spring several Boy Scouts of this place were struck with an idea. If any civic organization would stake them to funds, they would supply the labor to plant and care for beds of scarlet poppies in the triangular spaces between the rounded curbs and the sidewalks, encircling the lamp posts at all corners of streets leading off Front street. Since this is the "main stem" for outside traffic through the town, these bright color spots would make a favorable impression on the passing tourist, and eventually tend to make the surrounding district more "Buchanan-conscious."

But the plan, sad to say, died a-borning because no Civic Club then extant felt enough in funds to take up the offer. Yet the expense would not have been great, with the element of labor donated.

This idea is not new, in fact it has been adopted by many towns and cities over the country. One of those to form plans this spring is Omaha, which has adopted the hollyhock as the official city flower, and is planning to plant rows along the principal approaches to the city.

If the banks along M-174 on the rounding curve east of the Chamberlain hills could be bedded according to some such plan it would afford a most pleasing impression to guests of the city from the south.

Thousands of Known Fish

The number of named species of fish in the world is between 14,000 and 15,000. There are undoubtedly many more which have not as yet been described. This statement applies only to the true vertebrate fish and does not include all marine fauna.

"Between Devil and Deep Sea"

Erasmus, who lived from 1465 to 1536 quotes the phrase from the Greek in "Adagia." It means that there is not much to choose between two courses, one being about as bad as the other, and that the person is at loss as to what to do. This phrase has since been used, with several slight variations, by many writers.

Camel is Treacherous

The camel has the reputation of being the most generally ill-tempered and treacherous of all animals domesticated by man. It is said to be quite as natural for the camel to gnaw the hand or arm of its master as for an intelligent horse to whinny with pleasure at his approach, and kind treatment and abundant feeding apparently have little effect on its disposition.

Legislature to Spend Revenue Plans

Organization of the state revenue system will be the main business of the 57th assembly during the coming week, difficulties in meeting the mid-April payroll forcing the hand of the legislators.

It was agreed at a series of legislative conferences between the Upper and Lower Houses in the past week that the state would not entirely forego all participation in the revenue arising from the 15-mill general property tax permissible under the constitution, but will appropriate the revenue accruing from one mill or

It is estimated that this 1 per cent will yield over $5,000,000. The beer tax is expected to yield from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000. If the proposed maximum corporation tax increase of from $50,000 to $250,000 materializes, an additional $1,000,000 will be forthcoming.

The legislature is confronted with the problem of raising the additional $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 necessary to cover the anticipated appropriation bills, which are expected to total from $17,000,000 to $18,000,000.

It is anticipated that the sales tax will raise that remainder, plus some $20,000,000 to defray the cost of proposed state aid to the schools, old age pensions, unemployment insurance, and direct welfare relief.

In addition to an overdraft of $10,000,000 on the state books, the payment of outstanding obligations would deplete the cash on hand to about $100,000 or hardly more than enough to meet the mid-April payroll.

Dishonest Bankers Not Chief Cause Bank Panic, Say Professors

Early in January the University of Michigan banking department sensed the coming of the financial storm which broke in February, according to Prof. Roger D. Rodkey, and prepared a plan advising that the government guarantee all bank deposits 100 per cent.

"We understood that such a guarantee was a dangerous step, but we believed that it would, if adopted in time, stop the spiral of deflation."

If the government had given frightened depositors such a guarantee at the time that Gov. Comstock issued his proclamation on Feb. 14, the situation might have been saved, Prof. Rodkey stated, but by March 4, it was evident that there were many unsound spots in the general banking situation that such guarantee wasn't possible. At that time the University banking group recommended a 50 per cent guarantee for old deposits and a 100 per cent guarantee for new deposits. The objection was that the plan did not distinguish between sound and unsound banks. Another factor which deterred the government from such guarantee was the fact that $800,000,000 in governmental obligations matured March 15.

Rep. Dykstra introduced a similar bill two years ago which the house passed as a joint resolution by the Senate. The bill was transferred to the upper house in a baby carriage, wheeled by a special committee.

This year the measure is receiving more serious consideration and it is considered remotely possible that a law limiting the employment of married women to those whose husbands are not working will be passed. The legislature has already passed a bill asking the state departments and institutions to discharge married women whose husbands are employed.

Street Car, Bus Service Suspends in Lansing

Street car and bus service ceased in the city of Lansing Sunday as the Lansing Transportation Co. receivership gave up the ghost, mainly according to Receiver J. F. Collins, because of the invasion of "courtesy cars" operated by private parties in competition. The People's Transport Corporation of Muskegon has offered to install bus service within 48 hours after the acceptance of its proposal.

Thousands Organize in Lansing

Hundreds of unemployed in Lansing are finding their subsistence through the activities of Community Co-Operative Industries of that city. The service is managed by Fred J. Kiehne, former well-salaried sales executive who receives scrip, food and clothing for his work. The organization accepts no cash for anything, does carpenter and construction work, repairs automobiles, taking pay in produce of the person who has the work done. The produce is stored in a warehouse and scrip with which the workers are paid is entered against it.

Rep. Dykstra introduced a similar bill two years ago which the house passed as a joint resolution by the Senate. The bill was transferred to the upper house in a baby carriage, wheeled by a special committee.

This year the measure is receiving more serious consideration and it is considered remotely possible that a law limiting the employment of married women to those whose husbands are not working will be passed. The legislature has already passed a bill asking the state departments and institutions to discharge married women whose husbands are employed.

Street Car, Bus Service Suspends in Lansing

Street car and bus service ceased in the city of Lansing Sunday as the Lansing Transportation Co. receivership gave up the ghost, mainly according to Receiver J. F. Collins, because of the invasion of "courtesy cars" operated by private parties in competition. The People's Transport Corporation of Muskegon has offered to install bus service within 48 hours after the acceptance of its proposal.

Thousands Organize in Lansing

Hundreds of unemployed in Lansing are finding their subsistence through the activities of Community Co-Operative Industries of that city. The service is managed by Fred J. Kiehne, former well-salaried sales executive who receives scrip, food and clothing for his work. The organization accepts no cash for anything, does carpenter and construction work, repairs automobiles, taking pay in produce of the person who has the work done. The produce is stored in a warehouse and scrip with which the workers are paid is entered against it.
