Funeral Rites

For J. J. Sterling
at 2 p. m. Friday

Funeral rites for the late John Sterling, mayor of Benton Harbor, who lost his life in the wrecking of a giant United Air Lines transport plane near Salt Lake City Friday, will be held from the Methodist Episcopal East Temple, Benton Harbor, at 2 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, Friday, March 2. Rev. Floyd E. Bloomfield will preach the funeral sermon.

Mayor Sterling was well known by many Buchanan people, and was a frequent visitor here. He addressed an open air audience at the bandstand at the corner of Main and Front streets in the campaign preceding the last general election.

Mayor John J. Sterling of Benton Harbor, one of the victims of the airplane wreck in Utah, had devoted much effort to the development of aviation during his long public and professional career in Berrien County.

A prominent attorney in his native county, Sterling used planes extensively in his professional trips and last week was returning from Los Angeles, where he had taken a deposition, when the air liner crashed.

During his first term as mayor of Benton Harbor from 1929 to 1931 he fought unsuccessfully to have the city take over a tract of land for development as a municipal airport.

Sterling was born in Berrien county 56 years ago in a Bainbridge township log cabin. After becoming a lawyer, he studied at home, then in a Benton Harbor law office and finally at the University of Michigan. He opened a law office in Benton Harbor and in 1910 was elected Benton Harbor city attorney. During the World War he was twice elected prosecuting attorney of Berrien county.

He has been serving his second term as mayor and is said to have been contemplating running for Congress.

Besides his wife, his relatives include a son, Webster, also an attorney in Benton Harbor; his 90-year-old mother, Mrs. Mary Sterling, and twin grandchildren.

No Filings Made For City Offices At Spring Polls; Deadline Midnight Mar. 13

Terms of F. C. Hathaway,
Claude Glover, Lee Mathie,
Rex Lamb, Ed Mitchell,
Fred French Expire

No filings had been made last night for nominations for the eight city offices which will be open for election at the spring polls April 2, although the deadline for filing is March 13, only two weeks hence.

In the city commission the offices of F. C. Hathaway and Claude Glover expire. F. C. Hathaway has stated definitely that he will not run. He has been in harness as a member of the commission and as mayor for the past six years, serving as the first mayor to be elected under the commission form.

The terms of Harry Boyce and William Fette, as members of the county board of supervisors, expire, as do also the terms of Lee Mathie and Rex Lamb as justices of the peace and of Fred French and Edward Mitchell as constables.

The only intimation of filing to date is a rumor to the effect that friends of C. J. Wilson have been grooming him for the race.

TO ORGANIZE REGULATION B. B. TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Meeting to be Held at Chevrolet Garage Next Tuesday Evening to Consider Organization of Amateur Sports.

Plans for the organization of an amateur twilight baseball league playing regulation baseball week-day evenings are scheduled for consideration at a meeting to be held at the Chevrolet Sales room next Tuesday evening, March 6.

The announced aim of the backers of the plan is the formation of a community league of six or eight clubs, including at least four teams representing local business institutions and the balance of the league teams recruited from neighborhood communities. The sponsors of the league are Harold C. Bradford, the local high school coach, R. R. Rouse, a former Elkus manager and Wilson McLeod, local news writer.

The plan which is to be placed before the meeting is the formation of a league to be supervised by a committee of members of the Buchanan city commission and of the local board of education, which will also act as a supervising body for other amateur sport activities, as basketball, football, tennis and softball.

The community league would be a seven-inning affair to be played at an early evening hour at least three evenings a week.

The league would be entirely amateur in status and consequently would not affect the status of high school and college athletes participating. All proceeds from gate receipts, collections, or other sources, would be used to defray the cost of equipment and other necessary expenses.

Twilight baseball played with regulation ball and on regulation diamonds is rapidly supplanting softball as a popular sport and this year will see it gain more popularity than ever. It affords the high school athlete an opportunity to develop his baseball talents and affords enervating exercise for the youth of the city as well as giving diversion to local fans who feel they can attend evening baseball whereas other tempting diversions make the attendance at Sunday games impossible. Kalamazoo and Dowagiac have twilight baseball now as an established summer sport. And the throngs of people who attend the games is evidence of the popularity of the sport in those cities. In Kalamazoo it is common to find as many as 3,000 at a single twilight game. In Dowagiac 1,000 persons have attended a single contest. In Dowagiac last year a sum of $350 was netted by the league above all expenses, and this money was turned over to a committee of the board of education for use in promoting athletics in the Cass county city. Jim Lewis, high school coach and two assistants, were in charge of the league affairs in Dowagiac. Activities included baseball, golf, tennis and water sports. A swimming instructor there took groups of children to nearby lakes several nights a week, golf tournaments among the city's simon pures were promoted and there was keen competition in tennis activities.

Miss Marion Wiley, 56, of 4949 W. Washington Boulevard, Chicago, died suddenly Sunday evening at Pawating hospital, Niles, following an operation.

Friday she was taken to Pawating hospital. Sunday she underwent an operation, but failed to revive and passed away about 3 p. m.

She is survived by two brothers, Robert Wiley of Chicago, with whom she made her home, and William Wiley of New Rochelle, N. Y. Robert Wiley arrived at the hospital Sunday and William Wiley arrived from New Rochelle Monday morning. T. D. Marvin Gross Member Winning Debating Team

Marvin Gross, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Gross and a member of the Buchanan high school debating team for three years, was a member of the two-man A-ZA debating team representing the South Bend Branch auxiliary which won first place in a tournament between teams from five states at Columbus, O., this week. Young Gross and his teammate, Louis Sandak of South Bend, debated both the affirmative and negative of the question, "Resolved, That the Establishment of a Jewish National Homeland in Palestine is Essential to the Preservation of Jewish Life in the Diaspora." World Journalist Gives Interesting Discussion Events

The United States is at present the scene of a race between intelligence and violence, said Frederick M. Snyder, lecturing news-hound, in his talk on "Keeping Ahead of the Headlines" before the teachers institute here Tuesday evening.

Snyder gave a very interesting interpretation of the current world situation. He had escaped the day before from a Chicago automobile accident which sent his driver and several others to the hospital and had only recently traveled in the United Air Lines plane in which Mayor J. J. Sterling of Benton Harbor was killed.

Over 400 teachers from all parts of the county were present for the afternoon and evening program.

RELATING TO THE HISTORY OF PROF. FOXY DIGGINS AND HIS TROOP OF 15 REFINED CANINE AND SIMIAN ACTORS

Life was Always One Thing
After Another, Either the Monkeys Took Their Pants Off or Your Celluloid Collar Got on Fire.

It was in the late nineties that Charles (Foxy) Diggins cut loose from Gentry Bros. Dog and Pony show and started barnstorming the "opry" houses of the cities of the east and middle west with his own act, described in his literature as "a refined, up-to-date act consisting of fifteen well-trained and obedient canine and simian actors. An act suitable for any refined audience, especially pleasing to children and almost equally so to their elders."

Jack Bishop of Buchanan was his manager and the act had a good run—good enough that Foxy stayed at hotels and rode on the cushions between stops with his troop of fifteen refined canine and simian actors comfortably ensconced in the baggage coach ahead. Needless to say the Diggins animals were well-trained and as a general rule things went on scheduled without any hitches. Some-

VELMARIAN TO STAGE 3 PLAYS FRI. AFTERNOON

Short Dramas by George Spatta, Anna Grace Rana-han and Jean Russell to be Presented.

Three original one-act plays will be presented by members of the Velmarian Literary Society Friday afternoon at 2:45 in the high school auditorium. Admission will be 5c.

These plays "Crazy People" by George Spatta, "Little, But—" by Anna Grace Ranahan, and "Dancing Desire" by Jean Russell are all written and acted by members of the society and are directed by Mrs. V. E. Dunbar. The plays were chosen by a vote of the society from those written by each member of the group in the course of daily class work.

This is the second of such performances; last year's plays were both a financial and a literary success, and one of them written by Alene Riley won honorable mention in the Scholastic's national literary contests.

In the cast of "Crazy People" are George Remington, who plays Bill Benton, a boy of 13; Robert Willard, who plays John Benton, Bill's brother; Lowell Batchelor, Mr. Benton, the boys' father; Alene Dodge, Mrs. Benton, their mother; Maxine Howe, Miss Mor-daine, a guest at the Benton home; Rosemarie Schlee, Susan, a Swedish maid; Anna Grace Ranahan, Miss Peabody, the village gossip; Jimmy King, who plays Bobby, an 8-year-old cousin. The plot revolves around Miss Peabody, the village gossip, but the other characters are nicely drawn.

Anna Grace Ranahan's play, "Little, But—" has only three characters: Hiram Spoolingwell, played by George Spatta; Hiram's long-lost wife, played by Marie Reese; and a baby. This plot deals with the baby which is left on Hiram's doorstep and the complications which arise. The sound effects are supplied by Rosemarie Schlee.

"Dancing Desire" by Jean Russell deals with an aspiring dancer, Marion Todd, played by Jean Russell. The supporting cast consists of Mrs. Todd, Marion's mother; Bud, her brother, and Mr. Darwin, a big producer, played by Ethel Sibley, Richard Boone and John Godfrey.

Stage managers are Bill Frame and John Godfrey and the publicity managers are Rosemarie Schlee, George Remington and Thomas Quirk.

SHIPPING ASSOC. PLANS TO OPEN MACHINERY HALL

Lease Fuller Garage Building on Days Ave., Where Grand Opening will be Held
March 17.

Just in case that $2,000,000,000 of estimated increase in the farmers' income actually gets into his pockets this year, a lot of it is going to be paid out in replacement of worn-out farm equipment.

It is with a view to that expansion of business that the St. Joe Valley Shipping Association, the local unit of Co-Operatives Combining, is launching out during the next month into the farm machinery business, having leased the Fuller garage building on Days Avenue, where a grand opening of "Machinery Hall" will be staged on March 17.

The St. Joe Valley Shipping Association has for the past two years, been working with Three Oaks Shipping Association and the Central Farmers Association of Cassopolis in a combination which they have been pleased to term Co-Operatives Co-operating. This combination is launching out into the farm machinery business and expects to open up one of the most completely equipped Machinery Halls in southwestern Michigan.

The main line of machinery to be displayed will be the New Co-op line brought into Michigan by the Farm Bureau Services Inc., of Lansing. They in turn are combining their efforts with seventeen of the Mid-Western States in a gigantic farm machinery purchase through an organization known as National Co-operatives, Inc.

These implements are to be manufactured for this farmers' organization by the B. F. Avery Co. of Louisville, Ky. The company is one of the oldest in the industry. Its distribution in the past has been almost entirely confined to states south of the Ohio river. They have one of the newest and most modern factories in the industry, covering an area of some 52 acres.

A. J. George, who is manager of Co-Operatives Co-operating and also director of Farm Bureau Services Inc., predicts this to be the beginning of a real revolution in the Farm Implement business. It is the first large concerted effort of a farmer-owned Co-operative Company, entering the field of farm machinery.

This line will include tractors and tractor drawn tools, as well as a complete assortment of horse drawn tools, including plows, drags, cultivators, seeding and harvesting machinery. They have planned on quite an extensive program for their "Opening Day," March 17. This program will be presented at Buchanan, this being the central one of the three organizations.

A full announcement will appear in a later issue.

New Government Rulings Render Benefits Available to Small Hog and Corn Growers.

Estimates on the income available to farmers of the Buchanan district from the corn and hog crop reduction bonuses will be available by the middle of March, according to members of the committees for the districts, who are entrusted with canvassing the growers.

According to the terms offered the farmers, they will be paid at the rate of 30 cents per bushel for the 20 per cent average reduction, and $3 per hog for the 25 per cent reduction in number of hogs raised. The committee will ascertain the 1932 and 1933 corn and hog crops of each farmer, and the bonuses paid in 1934 will be based on an average of these figures.

By the terms of a recent ruling, farmers who have only one or two brood sows will be permitted to participate in the benefits as far as possible. This ruling was made in answer to the protests of many small farmers, who objected that they were required to pay the processing tax, while only the large producers would be able to share in the benefits of the reduction bonuses. Where a farmer has only two brood sows and has raised 100 litters each year, he can reduce 25 per cent, by eliminating one litter for one of the sows. In the case of the farmer who has only one brood sow it is presumed that he can get a bonus for reducing to one litter per year.

The government has also ruled that farmers who butcher pork for retail sale will be exempted from the processing tax to the extent of 300 pounds of pork, unless they sell more than 1,000 pounds of pork, in which event they will be classed as commercial butchers and will receive no exemptions. If they butchered only 1,000 pounds, they would be exempted on 300 pounds and pay the processing tax on 700 pounds.

The committees for the Buchanan district are as follows: Bertrand township, Fred L. Reum, John C. Redden, Clarence Cripe, Charles Gillette, Fred Koenigshoff.

Buchanan township: August Ernst, H. R. Adams, Ira Neiswender, Frank Wright, Dean Clark.

Niles township: Ray Foster, Miles Tichenor, Russell Fife, Noah Anderson, Tracey Dickey.

As soon as the committees complete the canvass of their districts, more meetings will be held under the direction of County Agricultural Agent Harry Lurkins to make reduction allotments.

Introduce Weight Tax Bill

A bill calling for reduction of automobile license plates to three, six and nine dollars was introduced in the House of Representatives last week by Rep. James G. Frey of Battle Creek. Under the proposed law, light cars would pay $3 per year. Medium-weight automobiles would pay $6 while the heaviest cars would pay $9. This would mean a saving of from $5 to $20 a year for each motorist in the state.

Two other measures were sponsored by Rep. Frey. In the first, the annual weight taxes of trucks would be reduced considerably. It calls for a two-payment plan for trucks in future years. The measure also sets small trucks used by farmers to haul their own produce and light delivery trucks used by grocers, in a different class from trucks used solely for commercial purposes with a corresponding reduction in the cost or license plates.

The third measure was necessary to set up methods of distribution of the gasoline tax and weight tax receipts. Under the new proposal, funds collected by the branch offices of the Department of State would be turned over directly to the various county treasurers. This would eliminate the present delay in receipt of funds by the counties. Hearings under the proposal would be classed as passenger cars.

The three bills were drawn up to conform with the ideas of Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald. In the senate, another measure calling for a 36 per cent reduction in present weight tax fees is under consideration.

Michigan has won the $2,500 prize for states competing in the Sinclair national safety award. The result of the competition was announced recently, by H. F. Sinclair, chairman of the executive committee of the Consolidated Oil Corporation, who sponsored the award to promote greater safety in automobile driving. The $2,500 prize will be paid into the Michigan State Police fund through the Sinclair Refining Co.

Awards by M. Sinclair, totaling $7,500 for safest cities were recently announced, with Rochester, N. Y., first, and Oak Park and Evanston, Ill., sharing second prize.

Nine states competed for the state award. Michigan's success carries with it the honor of being considered "safest state" among those entered. Rhode Island was ranked second and Pennsylvania, third, in the award period, which extended from October, 1932, to September, 1933, inclusive.

A reduction of 9.3 per cent in fatalities due to motor vehicle accidents was indicated by total figures from the competing states compared to their showing in a preceding 12 months' period. The ranking of the states considered safest had the confirmation of an independent analysis of the figures by insurance experts and traffic engineers.

The nine competing states reported a total of 6,523 fatalities in contrast with 7,197 in the preceding comparative period. There were 171,493 cases of personal injury due to motor vehicle accidents reported in the award period. These were in states having a total population of approximately 32,000,000 with 6,155,000 motor vehicles registered.

Bases of awards were accident figures taken in their relation to population, motor vehicle registration and gasoline consumption. Traffic hazards and similar factors familiar to insurance experts also were considered.

"Splendid State co-operation and the character of the reports submitted to us demonstrate that highway safety has first consideration and constant attention of state officials," said Mr. Sinclair. Through the announcement of our award we hope that public attention will be directed to the necessity for complete co-operation on the part of drivers in order that official safety efforts may be made fully effective. All of the competing states are to be congratulated on records which are reassuring of greater safety on the highways."

ROUND ABOUT BUCHANAN

AND ECHO ANSWERS "WILAT?"

One of the strangest aspects of the current scene is the fact that so many of the boys who hollered their heads off a few years back for a chance to legalize their drinking now seem unwilling to drink legally when they have the opportunity.

It is not going beyond the facts to say that the present liberalized law is probably violated as consistently as was the old dry law. An open and above-board drink in a legalized place seems to have less kick than one where you walk up two flights of stairs, down a dark hall and talk through a hole in the door. The boys justify it on the following grounds:

"Until the government sells as cheap as the bootleggers, we have a right to buy from the latter."

In other words, the licensed proprietor, who pays heavily in license and bonding fees and taxes, must compete with the undercover man who pays none of these charges. It obviously can't be done.

The question then arises: Since the various units of government, city, state or federal, have accepted license money from the legalized merchant, have they or have they not entered into a contract to see that they get the business?

Among the strangest cases of alleged violations or near-violations is that of the sale of branded candy in local candy stores. If reports be true, these sugar-coated "slugs" have enough alcoholic content to yield a distinct "kick" if eaten in any quantity. And they may be purchased by anyone who has the price, from six to ninety. It is reported that these candies are bought in considerable amounts by mere youngsters, and that if eaten long enough they are distinctly habit-producing.

The "squawk" which is coming from the proprietors of licensed places of sale over the fact that the government has taken their money and is not making any marked attempt to see that they get the business, seems to us quite understandable.

"What encouragement are we getting for living up to the terms of our contracts with the government, when the government is paying no attention to illegal sale?" they ask.

And echo answers "What indeed?"

MONOTONY

"All the rivers run into the sea, yet is the sea not full." The man who wrote these words was not marveling at the wonder of the fact his words express. He was not of the mind that considers how fortunate it is for man that the sea is not made to overflow with all the rivers running into it. He was voicing a bitter protest against the monotony of things. He was wearied with routine and sick of sameness. He could find "nothing new under the sun" and what he did find he called "vanity of vanity."

Monotony is one of the facts of life. Routine and repetition are everywhere. Rivers are only rivers wherever we find them. Some are larger, some smaller, some muddy, some clear, but all rivers are the same. Trees are only trees—roots, trunks, branches, leaves, however, the types may vary. People are only people, different in color, climate and country to be sure—but people for all that. At the bottom of things the same hopes and fears, loves and hates, joys and sorrows are met.

Sameness is a characteristic of this sphere on which we pass our human days. We do get "fed up" day out. We do get tired of seeing the same faces, of the same job, of the same ways of seeking pleasure. The old grind does become gruesome. We may even become of a mood with Shakespeare's disgusted Hamlet and cry: "How weary, stale, flat and unprofitable seems to me all the uses of this world."

Yet for all its monotony, life has infinite variety. "Every common bush," as Mrs. Browning says, "is afire with God." Of course, "only he who seeks takes off his shoes." The soul knows constant surprises in the least expected places. It "spies the summer thro' the winter land, tastes the fruit before the blossom falls, hears the lark within the songless egg, finds the fountain where they wait'd, 'Mirage'."

Life is only dull to the dull as all things are foolishness to the fool.

Velmarians to Present Original
One-Act Plays Fri.

The Velmarian Literary Society is presenting Friday afternoon, March 2, at 2:30 p. m. three original one-act plays written by members of the 12th grade English class who make up the "Velmarian Lit." Everyone is welcome to attend; the admission is the nominal fee of 5c.

The three plays are the best of the entire class' work and are said to be very interesting. George Spatia got his inspiration for his play "Crazy People" from some unknown place. Jean Russell did some deep thinking and finally received a brilliant inspiration and as a consequence wrote "Dancing Desire." Anna Grace Ranahan concocted the last of the series, "Little But ..."

Glee Clubs Sing
At Co. Institute

The Glee Clubs sang at the Berrien County Institute, on Tuesday evening. In the afternoon the orchestra gave a very fine program, which included some of the late song hits and classics.

The beginner's division is doing remarkably well states Mr. Robinson, the music instructor. It is now practicing overtures and waltzes. It contains 22 pieces and has all the necessary instruments for a full band.

Homicide in 10
Easy Lessons

"I want to kill the man. How shall I do it?" whined a miserable junior seeking to find an ending for a short story.

Mrs. Dunbar assigned the juniors a week in which to write on two out of three types of creative writing, namely: short story, essay and poetry.

All week they have been tearing up vain attempts to imitate O. Henry and Longfellow on paper. But in spite of the groans, Mrs. Dunbar claims they handed in an unusual set of papers.

In Re Apparent
Senior Lunacy

If by any chance you happened to pass Mrs. Dunbar's English room at any time between 8:10 and 8:35, you would have thought that the seniors were either having a nervous breakdown, losing their heads or going insane. Such a commotion was never heard in the high school before. First a shriek and then a baby's crying reached your ears. What could it be? What were they doing?

Ever after you had looked in at the door you couldn't understand it. There were only a few students standing up in front of the class.

Although, it may not look just right, the seniors really haven't gone insane. They were just practicing for the Velmarian Lit. plays which are to be given Friday.

English

The seventh grade English class is working on the indirect object; also they are learning to develop story writing from poems.

The study unit "Romantic Writers," is the interesting subject of the eleventh grade English classes. They are spending most of their time in the appreciation of the poems of Burns, Wordsworth, Byron, Scott, Coleridge.

Senior English students are finding word pictures in Milton's epic "Paradise Lost." They are also getting the Biblical background of the poem. The minor English epics they will study are: "Paradise Regained," by Milton and "Drake" by Alfred Noyes.

Editorial

Since the beginning of time, one of the natures of the human race has been to make blunders and then attempt to remedy them by too hasty action. A splendid example of this characteristic is the recent mistake made when all existing air mail contracts with commercial companies were cancelled by Postmaster General Farley.

Recently Mr. Farley cancelled all the contracts after charging that their negotiation had been fraudulent. President Roosevelt consulted the officials of the Army to learn if the present corps had enough experience to fly the mail safely and efficiently. Upon receiving an affirmative answer, the President issued the order to the Army.

That the Army was not adapted to flying the mail has been shown. The majority of the young pilots were entirely inexperienced, with stormy weather. Many had to fly routes they had never before traversed, and, as a consequence, the completion of the first week of actual flying has seen the death of five young officers and the injury of several others.

If the present rate of destruction continues, there is a decided probability that the mail service will suffer considerably. Had the government taken over the mail gradually, and the inexperienced youths been permitted to travel with the experienced veterans over their daily route for several weeks, until familiar with it, the loss of life and property would undoubtedly be considered less and the service granted, better.

Who's Who

Donald Burrus was born in Dayton Feb. 4, 1917.

When five years old Donald entered the Dayton District School. There he spent the first eight years of his education.

Since he enrolled in Buchanan high school as a freshman four years ago, Donald has made a very good scholastic record.

In his sophomore and junior years, Donald was a member of the orchestra. He also belonged to the Glee Club when in the tenth grade.

This year Donald is Editor-in-Chief of the Microphone, assistant business manager of the senior annual, and treasurer of his class.

Donald plans to study medicine in college.

Donna was born in Niles, April 7, 1917. However, she made her home in Buchanan until she moved to San Antonio, Texas, at the age of six.

When living there Donna attended San Antonio schools previous to January last year. At that time she came to Buchanan to stay with her grandparents.

While living in Texas, Donna was a member of the Gamma Theta Sorority. This year she was an outstanding member of the junior play cast.

Class Activities

History

The eighth grade history classes made Washington note books and each pupil made an outline of the battles of the Civil War showing the locations, generals, plans, and results.

The eighth grade reading class have been discovering all about "Evangeline," keeping note books as they do the work. It was required that they memorize the Prelude of this poem. They are also learning to identify figures of speech.

Discovering about the British Isles, with special emphasis on just what the British possessions are, has been interesting work for the seventh grade history classes. They have been keeping note books on this material. Albert Maxson brought a picture of the Royal Scot train that was displayed at the Century of Progress.

Mrs. Whitman's history classes are now able to enjoy reciting in a bright and clean room, as the CWA workers have completed the painting of it in two contrasting shades of light tan.

Other rooms also, are undergoing a complete redecoration.

These improvements better the appearance of the school and make the work of both teachers and students more pleasant.

Algebra

The solution of fractional equations is the work of the algebra classes. They are also having graphical representation of statistics.

Geometry

Application of the Pythagorean theorem is the work of the geometry class.

Trigonometry

Trigonometry classes are proving identities which show relationship between functions of angles.

Jr. High Cage
Team Trounces
3 Oaks Juniors

The scrappy junior high team trounced the Three Oaks Juniors in a fast game on the local floor a week ago, by a margin of 34-11.

The locals led at the half 14-8, but opened up in the second period and seemed to score at will.

Stewart paved the way to victory for Buchanan, when he sank 7 baskets for a total of 14 points. Smith did some fine under basket work and piled up 10 points, as did Jerus with 8 counters. Fuller, Stevens, Dairymple and Antisdale didn't do any heavy scoring, but fed the ball well, which made it possible for their team mates to score.

The junior high reserves also won their game when they defeated the Three Oaks yearlings 21-11. "Bud" Backus was the main point getter with 11.

Hand-Painted
Dog Comes to Class

If you saw a small white dog spotted with black and having a reddish tinge on its back, do not blame your eyes nor repeat. It was merely Grey Best's dog which he brought last Thursday to school for Miss Hanlin's sake. Grey states the red on the dog's back was merely an innocent trick of his small brother, who seems to have a mania for painting things, including dogs, with mercurochrome.

Class Activities

Commercial Department

The bookkeeping class is applying the finishing touches to their practice sets for November by closing the ledger and other necessary transactions.

Studying the abbreviating principles, compound words, and figures is the pastime of the short-hand students.

After completing work on simple business letters, the first year typists are laboring over longer and more complicated kinds.

Typing 12 classes are finishing up work on tables and other statistical matter.

Languages

Nouns of the fourth and fifth declension are being learned by the Latin 9 students.

Miss Shriver is finishing the book, "Rome and the Romans," this week. The class took notes on it, and a test will be given when the book is finished. Class is reading "National Heroes of Greece" in their second year book.

First year French classes are still reading in their "Pas a Pas." "Ou je voudrais aller," or where I would like to go, is this Friday's theme for the French 12 students. They are continuing with their French readers.

English 9 and 10

The ninth grade English students began the study of Imitation Ballads this week, the main one being "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner."

The students of the tenth grade classes are discussing the poems of Emerson, the life of Hawthorne, and some of his selections.

Journalism

The chapter, "News of Sport and Athletics," comprised the work for the Journalism class.

Notes were taken from the book "History of American Journalism" concerning the life of Horace Greeley, and the New York Tribune, which he founded.

General Science

The students in general science are dealing with the study of light. During the past week the class took two trips. They visited the telephone office and the Holmes Battery Shop.

Manual Training

The shop students have completed their working drawings and have started back to their shop work.

Mechanical drawers in the first year class are sketching the machine vise.

The advanced mechanical drawers are working on machine shop drawings.

Girls Physical Ed

The girls physical education students have finished their basketball tournament. The winners are the seniors first, and the juniors second. These are the first teams. Of the second team players the juniors came first. The senior first team, whose captain is Ethel Sibley, will play the Niles first team, who are the juniors, next week.

Miss Rockenbach is working on the gym show, which will probably be given the last of March. The show will include all grades from the first through the twelfth.

The first aid classes are studying wounds of the abdomen and the treatment for snake bites.

Boys Physical Ed

Mr. Bradford will continue to drill his classes in preparation for the gym show.

Tumbling, parallel bars, buck, horse, stunts, and various games will be constantly drilled on till after the show.

The grade children will take part in the games and stunts.

SCHOOL DAYS

French

Students in the first year French classes received the addresses of French students taking English Friday.

The letters will be written half in French and the remainder in English. This enables the students to correct each other in grammar, and also learn more of the customs of both lands.

Through mail many pictures and snapshots of both countries are exchanged and likewise greetings at Christmas and New Years.

Science

A science club, having three divisions, is being organized in the school.

There will be divisions in Chemistry, Biology, and Electricity and Radio.

The clubs will be under the direction of Paul Moore, science instructor, and will meet during the newly organized study period between the 5th and 6th periods of the afternoon.

About 20 boys have signed up for the club, which was organized through the efforts of Fred Riley, Seventh Grade Social Studies.

For the last week we have been studying in geography about the British Isles. Tuesday, Feb. 13, we elected a new leader and council members. The leader is a very intelligent boy, Delos Watson. The council members are: Ruth Jean Haslett, Karol Dunlap, Robert Wesner and Philip Pierce. Wednesday our division had a Valentine party. Miss Negus, our teacher, gave each of us a big chocolate heart.

Thursday, Feb. 15, we appointed a committee to write a constitution for the Bucktown colony. They are going to meet tomorrow night after school. The members of the committee are: Delos Watson, Bob Habicht, Betty Ann Miller, Betty Jane Widmoyer and Lewis Pascoe.

Reporters: Bill Strayer and Lewis Pascoe.

LICENSE DEADLINE MARCH 10

Frank D. Fitzgerald, Secretary of State, has announced that he will extend the deadline for the purchase of new automobile license plates to March 10. Fitzgerald previously had set the extended deadline at March 1.

Fitzgerald said he was making the extension independent of any request from the Legislature although the Senate adopted a resolution urging him to extend the deadline to April 1. Fitzgerald said that the March 10 date would be the last extension.

He said that the so-called stickler plan of installment purchase of plates should offer sufficient relief for those who are unable to pay the full price at this time.

Dogs Will Learn,
Monkeys Won't; Men
Descend from Latter

A monkey has the best brain but the least desire to please, and consequently he is second to the dog in proficiency at learning. A monkey is very temperamental. There was Martell, the dog-faced monkey who rode a bicycle attired in trousers, a sweater and a cap with a bill. When in a tantrum it was Martell's wont to tear off his clothes, stacking both coat and trousers right out in public.

A dog is trained through his intelligence," said Diggins, "a monkey through fear and a horse through his nerves."

For instance a horse does not attempt to learn a trick. But he will respond in certain ways to pressure in certain parts of his body.

The life on the road was hard Diggins said, but nevertheless he liked it. One of the difficulties was the jealousy between the performers in the various acts that made up a bill.

Since Diggins' thirty-minute performance was not long enough for a show, he was obliged to team with other performers under a single manager. Each "artist" usually considered himself far and away above the level of the others.

One performer, a juggler, was disgusted to think that his act came next to a dog show. "I suppose," he said, "that the next thing I will have to travel with a troop of educated skunks."

Diggins quit the road because of his wife's health. He gave his last performance in an Illinois town and then went home in response to a wire that his wife was not expected to live. He then sold his animals and quit the road.

The following notice appeared regarding his appearance at the Palace theatre in South Bend, then known as the Springbrook Casino:

A vaudeville bill which pleased a large audience was given at the Springbrook Casino last night. The act which delighted the audience more than any feature this season was the final number of the program in which the Diggins dogs and monkeys were introduced. The animals performed difficult as well as amusing feats, walking ropes, swinging on slack wires, dancing, jumping, etc. For educated dogs, the animals were equal, if not superior to any that have been in the city for some time, their work comparing with the performers in the Gentry show.—South Bend Daily Tribune, Tuesday, Aug. 27, 1901.

The following description of the Diggins troop is taken from one of his bills:

The troop consists of nine fine working dogs, thoroughly trained and equal to any ever shown, and six monkeys and baboons; one of the latter is very large and exceedingly intelligent. The balance consist of baboons, rhesus monkeys, etc. All the baboons and monkeys are appropriately costumed in every performance as well as such dogs as is necessary to the best presentation of the act.

The properties are neat and complete in every detail. The amount of baggage carried is approximately 1500 pounds.

Chance of Riches
Right at Our Door,
Says John Holmes

Editor Record.

Here's a proposition.

In 1893, when the first dam was built there was a large lot of gravel and sand drawn from the bluff on the west side of the river uncovering a bed of very valuable clay running at that point to a depth of over thirty feet, and covering, no one knows, how much territory.

When I had my well dug on Front street, we found it in a bed seven feet thick, and 60 feet down, at the Jennings-Slater place on Front street, it is fifteen feet thick and on the level of the creek bottom. On the Liberty Weaver place a half mile north-east from the dam it was found 48 feet down and over 100 feet thick, so there is a certainty of supply for all purposes.

I tried to get the organization of a brick works on the old Kinyon place, and in figuring around I had the clay tested and found it made the finest quality of dry pressed front brick for buildings. It made a good quality of pottery, jugs, crocks and such.

It took a fine quality of enamel for fancy brick work, and for floor tiling. I had that feature tested by Mr. J. Lindroth, a ceramic chemist in Chicago. He charged me $10 for the test and the remark he made about it was well worth $10.

I sent samples of the clay to Chisholm Boy & White in Chicago and had samples of the pressed bricks made.

The clay burns to a light buff, and is of the very finest texture, making a surface equal to a bone.

The lands most feasible for the work is owned by Gus Smith, Herbert Roe, E. C. McCallum, Harry Boyce, Richard Schwartz, Herbert Batchelor, Frank Sanders, and L. & M. Co., the five acres where the axel works stood.

Most feasible because of the ease of removing the "over burden."

I have a copy of the magazine "Clay Worker" published in Indianapolis, in which is a plan of arriving at the value of clay for brick making, which includes the cheapest kind, as being five cents a ton, and an acre has about 3,000 tons per acre for each foot in thickness, for common clay; for shale the tonnage is about 3,500 per acre. That clay is worth more for its character. Aside from that we have, as I figure, $4,500 per acre for thirty feet depth, and saying nothing about the trimmings already on the land.

Now here is my suggestion: For the owners I have mentioned to pool their holdings, make thorough tests to verify what I have told, and more, and the values will be sufficient foundation to finance the building of complete works and operate it.

Recently I showed some of the samples I had made in 1874, and he said the retail price of such brick is now $20 per M. At the time I was figuring with it I had a buyer in Chicago ready to take the entire output of the plant for that price f. o. b. Buchanan.

Send samples of the clay to the same people I did at 57th and Wallace streets in Chicago, where they are still in business. Each sample should be at least a bushel of the clay.

A four mould press will make 2,000 bricks in an hour, and require ten h. p. to run, a dry pan for pulverizing the clay about the same power. The clay must have enough moisture so that a handful pressed will remain in form when the hand is opened.

Now, get busy.

J. G. HOLMES.

One assistant accompanies Mr. Diggins.

Rube, the wonderful slack wire dog, balances and swings on small wire, a wonderful act and an exclusive feature.

Hoop and wire jumping for introduction only.

Figure Eight.

The celebrated McDooley Family, with the clever waltzing dogs, the baby 'toddies, the big horse, Major, and the funny big baboon coachman, Tige. The costumes in this act are fine throughout and the act is always popular.

Bag punching by Spot, a lively fox terrier.

Barrel rolling (old and seldom presented.)

Baboon, walking on crutches very funny and never seen before.

Dog walking tight rope carrying dog on his back.

Dog walking rope on front feet only.

Baboon walking tight wire and balancing pole.

Leap frog by two dogs (not usually shown.)

Serpentine dance. Beautiful costume and a very taking act, with pretty white dog.

Globe juggling by Prim, a lively little monkey, on a small globe.

Meat stealing act. A funny canine farce using five dogs, including a funny black clown and a monkey doctor.

Perch act by Tommy, a Rhesus monkey. This act is one of the most popular ever shown and is a novelty. The monk ascends a pole and does hand stands, etc., in mid air.

This act is concluded by the high dive in which Spot ascends slowly a 25 foot ladder lighted by incandescent lights and at the word of command leaps into the outstretched net beneath.

FARMERS EATING WAY OUT

An upward swing in butter prices of from 16 cents per pound for 92 score butter on Dec. 16 to 25c on Feb. 14, is said by the dairy department at Michigan State College to be caused by an increased use of butter by farmers themselves.

All dairy organizations united to further this plan of having dairymen eat themselves out of the field of unprofitable prices and the success of the scheme is now apparent. Owners of dairy cattle were asked to pledge that their families would consume four pounds more of butter a month than they had been in the habit of doing.

This increase of four pounds of butter per month multiplied by the 90,000 families of Michigan dairymen meant 360,000 pounds more of butter consumed in one state in one month. Other states co-operating in the plan gave additional impetus to the butter-eating campaign.

Dairy prices had been depressed by the huge stocks of butter in storage. Production of butter per cow had dropped but the supply of this food in the cold storage plants prevented this decreased production from affecting prices.

Dairy specialists at the college say that eating four more pounds of butter per family earned each Michigan dairymen $5.01. In addition, the family had better meals and a larger supply of the essential vitamins present in butter.

Increased consumption of butter by farm families and by families in businesses which depend upon the dairymen's buying power for success will mean more two dollars in Michigan pockets.

Associated Press dispatch from Washington under date of Feb. 22, announced "a great gathering of NRA code authorities and elected delegates of business, here March 5th."

Quoting the dispatch further, "The outgoing of criticism and suggestion which Gen. Hugh S. Johnson desires at the preliminary public sessions starting next Tuesday is admittedly designed not only to produce information, but to impress the elected delegates of business with their social responsibility."

Along with the "outpouring of criticism and suggestion which Johnson desires" the press dispatch omits mentioning any outpouring of questioning, at the preliminary public session.

And a flock of well thought questions directed to Gen. Johnson by business men and others of the public interested, is the one thing lacking in the Washington report, to round the hearing out into a fair board proceeding. The people should know just where the NRA stands, what it expects, and just why and how it hopes to effect its results.

At this NRA conference the authorities must talk with the delegates of business, and not merely to them, after having heard suggestion and criticism.

Efforts of people and government to get-together on common ground for a common purpose, national well-being will be nullified in event of any holding back of information or doctoring of facts.

Straight forward conferences for future action may either succeed or fail in effecting a desired end. But councils attended by secrecy on either side, are foregone failures from the start.

Truth will out, and omitting answering questions plainly, on the part of business will endanger the NRA, and failure of explanation on the part of the government will destroy chances of a second term for the present administration.

Seventh Day Adventist Sabbath School (Saturday) at 10 a. m. Lesson study: "The Holy Spirit and the New Covenant." Memory verse: "In that He saith a new covenant, He hath made the first old." Heb. 8:13.

Introduction: No theme is of more vital interest and importance to mankind than is that of the new covenant. It is God's eternal covenant of grace whereby sinners, members of Satan's "kingdom of darkness," may become members of the royal family, members of "the kingdom of His dear Son."

Notes: The old covenant was a mutual agreement based upon the promises of God and His people, but the promise of God was conditioned upon the promise of the people. Ex. 19:5, 6, 8. The failure of the people to keep their promise (Ex. 32:1-6) released God from His obligation under that particular covenant. Under the terms of the old covenant, the people promised to make themselves righteous by keeping the law of God, written upon tablets of stone. Under the terms of the new covenant, the Lord promises to make the people righteous by writing the same law upon the fleshly tables of the heart. When the Holy Spirit enters the heart of the sinner and transforms and changes it, the sinner no longer loves his manner of living. His pleasures are now for God, not in sinful practices and worldly pleasures, but in righteousness. He loves the law and meditates upon it. With the Saviour he can exclaim, "I delight to do Thy will, O my God, yea, Thy law is within my heart."

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Niles and Buchanan is making preparations for its annual Public Relations meeting at the Four Flags hotel March 12 as its contribution to the national re-employment campaign sponsored by the national federated women's clubs during the week of March 11-17. The occasion will consist of an evening dinner at the Four Flags hotel, followed by an address by Dr. W. D. Henderson of the Extension Department of the University of Michigan, who will speak on "The Changing Order, Cosmos or Chaos." The meeting is open to the public and a fee of 75 cents will admit to both dinner and program.

Dr. Henderson is a member of the University of Michigan history department and a speaker of note. Mrs. Alta Rouse, president, and the executive committee are also arranging a further program. The campaign will be opened March 12 by a radio address by Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who will speak on the movement to re-employ at once 10,000 white collar women. Each of the 1,300 clubs of the nation will attempt to secure jobs for eight women. The public relations meetings are a part of a ten year plan inaugurated by the B. & P. W. clubs two years ago calling for the study of economics and its social implications.

Perfect Modern Law Office Recreated in "Councillor at Law"

Elmer Rice can cut a slice of life practically anywhere and prove that "Julia O'Grady and the Colonel's lady are sisters under their skins."

In "Councillor at Law," the screen version of his successful stage play of the same name, starring John Barrymore, which opens a three day engagement at the Hollywood theatre, starting Sunday, he has taken the ante room of a great criminal law office for his laboratory and, like a skillful surgeon dissecting a cadaver he proceeds to put on exhibit as fine a cross section of American life today as has ever been seen before on the stage or screen.

All types of people come to a criminal lawyer—and people with all sorts of problems. Rice has taken these people and their problems and reduced them to the level of common understanding in broad treatment and deft human touches.

That was the secret of the smashing success of the stage play. And that is the essential fundamental that makes the photoplay, "Councillor at Law," one of the year's outstanding screen dramas.

Bebe Daniels and Doris Kenyon share honors with John Barrymore in the lead roles, with Onslow Stevens, Melvyn Douglas and Theima Todd in supporting parts. After living for generations in story book land, all the strange, unusual people that roam the pages of Lewis Carroll's beloved fantasy, "Alice in Wonderland," have come to life on the screen. They can be seen at the Hollywood Friday and Saturday of this week as feature number one of another double feature bill. The picture includes such star names as Richard Arlen, Roscoe Ates, Gary Cooper, Leon Errol, Louise Fazenda, W. C. Fields, Skeets Gallagher, Cary Grant, Baby LeRoy, Polly Moran, Edward Everett Horton, Jack Oakie, Edna May Oliver, May Robson, Charlie Ruggles, Allison Skipworth, Ned Sparks—not forgetting Charlotte Henry, who brings the famous personality of "Alice" to life in "Alice in Wonderland." And for the second feature, eight persons, friends, enemies, lovers, trapped in a penthouse high above New York City, battle a hidden and ruthless foe in the new production, "The Ninth Guest," with Donald Cook and Genevieve Tobin.
