

Now Here's the Proposition

Well friends and neighbors, there was a lot of inquiries about the absence of this column last week (Buchanan folks are sure polite) all of which we referred to the manager and we hope he gets an idea from it and if he does get one and can find two more he will have three ideas.

The best news we know this week is the weather. The ice got nearly a foot thick on Pike lake during the long cold spell of February and is still there but is getting sort of rotten. Ed, Mitchell and Doc Beistle was out to Pike lake Sunday fishin' thru a hole and Ed got 25 bass and Doc got four. Doc said the cavity wasn't big enough for him to work in.

We are still hatching it, our wife being in Chicago (adv.) and between our cooking and the daily chores at the office and working a little on LeCave's Battle Cry of Freedom we don't have much time lately to crack jokes.

Mrs. Archie Morley hands us a note for our wife asking her to bring as many cents to the ladies' aid as there is inches around her waist and we tell her the ball and chain is in Chicago and she asks if we don't know the dope anyway and we says "Sure and is there any more statistics about the other members you want?"

And then after she is gone we remember that she never told us whether the measurement was before or after breakfast. That is about as denitive as a woman ever is.

There will be an African bushman here next week, one of these guys with a ring in his nose and a necklace made out of teeth to talk before the Lions and a bushman ought to feel right at home surrounded by Lions even if some of them are a little short on mane. They are putting on a feed for the cannibal and are reported to be looking around for a nice juicy fat boy which makes us glad that our curves are not pronounced.

Mort Snyder got back Friday from Lansing and is tellin' everybody what Governor Comstock said to him and what he said to Governor Comstock.

We was almost knocked off the perch this week when we heard Mrs. Sanders admit that she was a fan for murder mystery films, although if we had to set and listen to tax beaters all day we probably would go to murder mysteries every night and imagine we was the slayer. Anyway there has been some hot ones at the Hollywood lately, according to all reports. A few nights ago a great big he-man fainted away right in the middle of one and Manager Monroe hollered: "Is there a doctor in the house," and Doc Waldo who was going in for a little hair raising that night came to the rescue and just as they had pulled him out of it, why THUD! went another guy on the lobby floor right behind them. Doc Waldo has been engaged as house physician on murder mystery nights at the Hollywood so you can all go ahead and faint with some assurance you will be took care of.

You heard all about the crack-ups on River street Thursday? We haven't got much space to waste on them—they can crack up before we go to press if they want to get notice from us. Somebody was tellin' us Mrs. Boone drives a Dodge instead of a flivver. Well, she better train it to dodge trees. Jack Knight broke the flying record from Omaha to Chicago and what's more Johnny Jerue broke all road records Sunday between Buchanan and LaPorte via New Carlisle, where in heck did we put that note? Well, it was something like 32 miles in 26 minutes.

Politics have been out in front this week. Tuesday night Frank Kean was walking around with a big scowl and his gun strapped on and there was some state police in town and a rumor got out that suspicious lookin' guys in town and one of them looked like Dillinger but they finally got it figured that it was just a bunch of out-of-town democrats here organizin' a young Democrat club and they mistook Bill Starcke for Dillinger.

Lee LeCave unfurled the standard of Democracy to the battle and the breeze in the Niles Shopper-Press and they say the morning it struck Niles they had to hang nets under the bridges to catch the Republicans who were jumpin' in the river.

Try and keep your noses clean boys and girls, as Dillinger said to Sheriff Lillian, and don't get fooled by any wooden money—or wooden guns.

Sky Knight Cracks Plane Speed Mark Omaha to Chicago

Jack Knight, formerly of Buchanan and nationally known as the "man that invented flying," circled over town yesterday in a big Boeing 247 transport plane with which he had broken all transport flying speed records the afternoon before in making the flight from Omaha to Chicago in two hours and three minutes, averaging over 250 miles per hour. The big plane has a top speed limit of 210 miles per hour, but a hard tail wind was lifting it along. He carried passengers, a reserve pilot and a stewardess, making the record on the regular run. The plane has a wing spread of 79 feet and 1400 h. p. When Knight first made the flight with a DeHavilland plane 11 years ago it took almost six hours.

Housing Shortage Is Again Becoming Acute in Buchanan

On Monday afternoon a new-comer in Buchanan searched the city over for a full half day before he could find a house to live in, which indicates a promising condition which has recently developed here.

The housing shortage is now as acute as it was here in the ante depression days, according to E. C. Wonderlich, who states that he has had to turn several away daily because of lack of available quarters. Many of these are coming to Buchanan to work from other towns. A factor in the situation also is that many families which had "doubled" with others in one house are now searching separate accommodations on account of improved economic status.

The above is a scene on the Moccasin Bluff sector of the Redbud Trail, a section of the LaSalle Memorial scenic highway along the St. Joseph river now under construction by the CWA.

AFRICAN BUSHMAN TO ADDRESS H. S. AND LIONS CLUB

LoBagola, Member Mysterious Tribe of Black Jews in Heart of Africa to be here March 15.

Bata Kindai Amgoza Ibn LoBagola, the African Bushman, whose sensational life history has been written into a best seller, will lecture Thursday evening, March 15, at the high school building after speaking previously at a banquet at the Lions club, under whose auspices he comes.

Born a member of the mysterious tribe of "Black Jews" who have been lost for centuries in the heart of Africa, LoBagola spent his early years on the lookout for apes, and hooklizards. But at seven, thru a strange freak of circumstance, he found himself running naked through the streets of Edinburgh and was then installed as a curiosity in the home of a Scotsman.

At 11 he returned to his native land, married his allotment of six wives and built a miniature village for them and his progeny. The dramatic narrative of this man, traveling back and forth between Africa and Europe, too refined for the primitive crudities of his tribe and too wild for sophisticated society, is an adventure story without parallel.

LoBagola is a most witty speaker. He has taught, among other things, at the Brothers college at Jerusalem, at the Great Benevolent Coptic School in Tanta, Egypt, and has lectured in the department of social anthropology at Oxford university. He has spoken in leading schools of the East and in universities everywhere.

He is the first Bushman to become articulate enough to tell in frank, realistic English the customs, taboos and superstitions of his race.

Articles recently appeared in "The Literary Digest" and "Scribner's" regarding LoBagola. Probably more columns have been written about him in leading periodicals than about any other individual.

BUCHANAN VISITOR TELLS OF LIFE AS DRESSMAKER IN FORTS AND MINING TOWNS OF OLD WEST

Miss Hattie Gates Learned Her Trade in Honor Wilson's Shop and Followed it Over the West.

It's been many and many a year ago, as Ed Poe once remarked in another connection, since the trade of the milliner and dressmaker flourished in Buchanan, but there is a guest in the city who learned her trade here in the last century in the shop of Mrs. Honor Wilson over the E. S. Dodd drug store and who then pursued it many years in divers strange places in the United States.

Miss Harriet Gates came to Buchanan two weeks ago, called by the death of her nephew, Charley Page Ingalls, and has since been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Viele. And although there's obviously been some water gone down McCoy's Creek, since Miss Gates left here back in the last century, just a slip of a girl, to join the trek of the homesteaders to the Dakotas, you'd find it hard to realize it if you talked to her and watched her bright alert eyes, younger than those of most young people.

But you'd probably wonder just what it was about her that impressed you as different from the other natives, until you heard that she went west as a girl and pursued the vocation that she learned in Honor Wilson's shop in the military forts, mining camps, military reservations and boom oil towns of the old west and then you'd say: "That's why she's different."

Miss Gates went to the Dakotas with her older sister, Mrs. Ellen Gates Glover. A number of Buchanan people went and took up land in the same section, the lead being Tom Stevens. With them was his son A. C. Stevens, later proprietor of the Hotel Rex, as it is now known, who died last year there.

A second meeting will be held at the city commission chambers on Thursday evening, March 15, beginning at 8 p. m. All Democrats, men or women, between the ages of 18 and 40 in the city of the immediate vicinity are urged to attend and acquaint themselves with the purposes of the organization.

Former Resident Brought from So. Bend for Burial

Funeral services were held at the Church of Christ at 3 p. m. yesterday over the remains of Walter Metz, 50, which were brought here from South Bend for burial. Rev. Elmer Ward Cole, South Bend pastor, preached the funeral sermon and interment was made in Oak Ridge cemetery.

Metz lived in Buchanan in his youth and young manhood, leaving here about 20 years ago. He joined the Church of Christ when 16 years of age. He is survived by his father, Eli Metz, by three sisters and a daughter.

From the opening whistle of the two final games on Saturday night, there was never much doubt as to the Class C and D winners, both New Troy and Buchanan scoring almost at will against their rivals, Edwardsburg and Bridgman. The fighting Trojans from New Troy, although leading by the narrow margin of only one point at half time, came back the second half and scored a total of 27 points against 7 for the St. Joseph quintette, leading 34 to 16 at the final whistle. The Trojans who saw action against the Saints included Ritchie and Bihlmire, forwards; Wetzel, center; Hardline and McGuigan, guards, replaced by Streffing, Pearson, Prenkert, and Gintner. Wetzel, with three field goals and three free throws, held high point honors, closely followed by Prenkert with four field goals.

The Bucks, out to avenge the 22 to 17 defeat suffered at the hands of the Bridgman cagers on the local floor in the final game of the season, out-guessed and out-played the former Class C champions throughout the entire game, winning 38 to 29. Although Bridgman outscored the Bucks in the final period, the lead held by the locals was too great for the Bridgman cagers to overcome.

Scoring 21 points in the first two periods, the Bucks led 21 to 11 at half time. In the last half Bridgman displayed much more power offensively than in the first two periods, but was unable to stop the Bucks' fast breaking offensive play, and the locals played outstanding basketball until the game ended, 38 to 29 in favor of the Bucks.

Coach Bradford used Danny and Augie Topash in the forward posts, Batchelor, center, Dreitzler, Leifer and Deeds, guards. Danny and Augie Topash led in the scoring, collecting ten and eleven points respectively, for high point laurels.

Competition at Kalamazoo is expected to be quite stiff for both the Bucks and the Trojans, the Class C contenders being Paw, Covert, Waterhouse, and an ex-Bridgman from G. (Continued on page 381fc)

AT THE THEATRE

"Only Yesterday" Panoramic Romance Amer. Life and Love

An important event for local theatregoers will take place when John M. Stahl's Universal love drama, "Only Yesterday," opens at the Hollywood theatre next Sunday, March 11th, for a three day run. Not since "Back Street" has a picture directed by Stahl reached the screen, and the new production is said to exceed in every way any previous photoplay filmed by this master in building domestic drama.

Margaret Sullivan, John Boles, Reginald Denny, Billie Burke and Edna May Oliver play the featured roles, and their supporting cast includes thousands of extras and more than 75 well known screen players.

The story based on the best selling "Only Yesterday," of Frederick Lewis Allen, covers a span of 12 years, follows the tragic love affair of Margaret Sullivan and John Boles, whose only meeting takes place at a dance while he is an officer in training at a local camp. Sudden tragedy and disillusionment follow, with the story peeping on through the Armistice and the painful November, 1929, the day of the stock market disaster.

Even in these days of staggering box office combinations of star casts, the roster of players collected for "Only Yesterday" is unequalled for fine, expert casting. In Margaret Sullivan, Director Stahl firmly believes the screen has found a new, enduring star.

William Powell, who thrilled the movie audiences about three years ago with his clever characterizations as Philo Vance, debonair gentleman detective, will be seen again in the same role in another S. S. Van Dine detective mystery story, "The Kennel Murder Case," as feature number one of another double show at the Hollywood tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday of this week. A large galaxy of theatrical notables who have been successful on both stage and screen are associated with Kay Francis in "The House on 50th Street," which comes to the Hollywood as feature number two Friday and Saturday. Ricardo Cortez, Gene Raymond, John Halliday, William Boyd and Frank McHugh are those cast in the top list of this picture.

To film a motion picture within a motion picture was the unusual task that befell producers at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios during the making of "The Blonde Bombshell," the story of a sensational motion picture star's life and troubles which comes to the Hollywood on Wednesday and Thursday.

The picture, co-starring Jean Harlow and Lee Tracy, tells the tale of a glamorous star, her intimate life in her home and at the studio, of the fame that is cheap

FORD V.8 ECONOMY

More than 2½ extra miles for every gallon of gasoline

THE 1933 Ford V.8 was mighty economical on gasoline and oil, but this new 1934 car is way ahead of that. It delivers more than 2½ extra miles for every gallon of gasoline.

These extra miles per gallon of gas are yours because of a new dual carburetor and dual intake manifold. By this improvement, every cylinder is given the same fuel meal of perfectly mixed, perfectly vaporized gas. This means every cylinder delivers the same powerful punch. It means greater power, a smoother engine at all speeds, better idling performance, quicker starting in cold weather, and greater fuel economy.

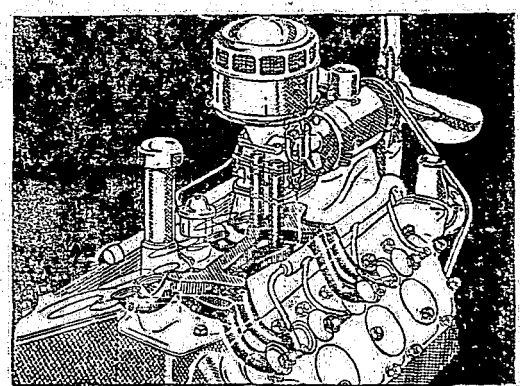

Engine refinements reduce oil consumption — no additional oil is needed between regular 1000-mile changes.

No other full-size car, regardless of the number of cylinders, costs less per mile through its entire life.

But gas and oil economy are only part of Ford savings in operation and maintenance. You'll welcome freedom from repairs, low cost of parts, low cost of service, and high re-sale value.

TUNE IN FRED WARING and HIS PENNSYLVANIANS over any station of the Columbia Chain. Sundays, P. M. Thursdays, P. M.

See and drive this New Ford V.8 before you buy any car. You'll find it the most completely satisfying car you have ever driven — regardless of price.

The new dual carburetor and dual intake manifold. Note how the dual intake manifold distributes the vaporized gas in equal quality and quantity to each separate cylinder. Maximum smoothness, minimum crankcase dilution. Watertight thermostat let engine warm up more quickly and maintain most efficient operating temperature.

River Street

Scene of Three

Traffic Accidents

River street adjacent to the bridge took on a busy not to say cheerful aspect, early Thursday morning when three cars ran amuck and climbed trees, moved down mail boxes and otherwise disported themselves to the astonishment of the natives.

Most serious of the accidents was that of Mrs. Cora Boone, who was en route to her daily stint in the CWA offices at Benton Harbor. Mrs. Boone had been warned that the highway conditions were unfavorable but with the dogged intrepidity of an army air mail flyer she said "The mail must go" or words to that effect and kicking the starter on her trusty flier she started for work.

The sequel to the story is that a half hour later the driver of a passing truck found her seated in her car on the left side of the road opposite the Olson summer home on North River street, the car having come off second best in a collision with a tree. Mrs. Boone suffered a slight concussion and is yet unable to report what happened. She was taken to Pawtucket hospital where an examination revealed that none of her injuries were serious.

The same morning D. A. McIntosh lost control of his car in the same locality while on his way to work in Berrien Springs, moving down a mail box and a South Bend paper box before he finally righted his vehicle.

It is only fair to say that the accidents were due to icy roads.

Scrip for the Journey

By Harry W. Staver

ALTERNATIVES

"Choose you this day." Alternatives are our opportunity. They may, also, be our undoing. "Destiny is made up of cross-roads."

What life is depends, ultimately at least, on what ends for life one chooses and to what uses life is put. There are three ways in which life may be employed in its social relationships.

One may use his life to get the best of other people. Some do use life that way. They have no scruples about taking unfair advantage of others, sometimes even of their friends, if it serves their own selfish ambition and purpose. The Golden Rule is no part of their philosophy. Life is to them an arena of blood in which men, like beasts, "tear each other in their slime." With what poverty and pain do such as these fill a world that might be made so fair.

One may use life in another way. One may use life so as to call out the best in other people. Some do use life that way and what benefactors they are. Who can number the individuals who have risen up and become something because somebody summoned forth the best that was in them. Weaklings have been made strong. Cowards have been filled with courage. The disappointed have been redeemed. The wretched have been reformed.

John Mill's tribute to a friend in a poem called, "A Memory," shows in a beautiful way how the thing works. "My life grew weary and, with toil, my spirit broke. I met a man I knew and when he spoke I seemed to see the Master; heard him speak his message to the weary and the weak. And now I catch his name—the man who made me think till sun set on the field touched every clod and helped me know I lived and worked with God." It's a great thing to use life so as to call out the best in others.

A third way in which life may be used is to use it so as to give one's best to other people. That's the way every savior the race has ever known has used life. It is the way of the Christ. There are those who "count life not dear unto themselves," but lay it down joyously and gladly to serve the larger hope. Is such life lost? Aye! But strange contradiction, lost—and found.

Foulkes Endorses Better Prices for the Milk Producers

The newly formed "Dairymen's Bloc" composed of over 100 members of the House of Representatives organized to fight for better prices for the milk producer, was heartily endorsed by Representative George Foulkes.

Foulkes attended the meeting the other night, held in the caucus room of the new house office building when a dozen or more speakers painted a vivid word picture of the plight of the dairyman and urged remedial action. Resolutions were adopted asking the agricultural adjustment administration to modify its policy and authorizing the naming of two committees, one to call upon AAA heads and, if necessary, on the President, and the other to draft proposed amendments to the agricultural adjustment law. The meeting was presided over by Congressman Howard Smith of Virginia and Congressman Francis H. Gullin of New York was secretary.

"While distributors have been pocketing huge profits," said Representative Foulkes, "milk producers have been receiving starvation prices. Such a state of affairs cannot continue. It is nothing less than criminal. The spectacle of infants, children and the aged being unable to obtain the greatest of all foods, milk, while profiteers are gouging the public and while the dairyman are impoverished, is shameful."

I have no criticism of the agricultural department and the AAA and I do not join in any loose and hasty complaints. I merely want to demand the greatest possible speed in alleviating the sufferings of the dairymen of the Nation."
