A Verse to Accompany Roses Mothers Day, 1934. Roses have many words in a petal...

Not to the dull of heart are uttered their meanings splendid, Only to those that know is the mystical message released...

Well, friends and neighbors, this has sure been a hard week for us—news was harder to catch than John Dillinger and things looked awful dark about Tuesday noon...

The big question of the week is the band concert—in other words, to toot or not to toot. Some of the merchants want the concert on Wednesday and then again, others think they could hear it better after they had their Saturday night bath...

This weather sure looks bad for the Democrat party, if we do not have a rain before long. The big peach freeze last winter was a hard blow to the party and it couldn't stand another jolt like that...

Another thing that looks bad for Comstock right now is the way the fish bite. Narry a fish worth lyin' about has been caught yet. Us fishermen are goin' to revolt if this keeps up...

The seniors hired a bus and went to Chicago for Skip Day yesterday. They said they were goin' to see the Field Museum. Poor kids. We know a lot better places than the Field Museum in Chicago...

Probably Carl Remington Could Make a Sword But There is Not Much Call for Them.

Among the many professions that have followed the dodo into the limbo of half-forgotten things is the time-honored trade of the blacksmith.

There are still blacksmith signs displayed—witness the front of Carl Remington's shop—but there is no longer a blacksmith's business in the old time sense, according to the genial proprietor of Buchanan's lone remaining smithy.

Nowadays, Carl says, he does not shoe many horses, and there is not a call for a sword from one year's end to another.

Fate Seems to Hold Grudge Against Dayton Postmaster

When Fred Richter, postmaster at Dayton was on the way home from Buchanan last Friday about 6:30 during the rainstorm, his car skidded on a curve near the Austin Sarver farm, going off the highway, striking a wire fence and turned completely over and landed on the other side of the fence.

The car finally came to a rest on its side. Mr. Richter says the trick is very simple without any experience whatever, but in order to make it a success you must have some science, "lotta luck," a cool head and think it is an every day experience, then let her go.

SUCCESSOR TO THE VILLAGE SMITHY TRANSFORMED BY MACHINE AGE FROM HORSE SHOER TO EMERGENCY MECHANIC or the casting of experimental models of new machines. In the place of the farmer who formerly brought in a team of horses to be shod, or a set of wagon wheels to be tightened, the principal patron is the machine operator who rushes in for an emergency repair or a casting that he can't wait to send to the factory for.

When Elmer Remington bought out the business and shop of "Spike" Merrill back in the late nineties, the shoeing of horses and the making and repairing of wagon and carriage parts were the staples of the blacksmith business. Carl Remington says that he can remember when eight horses would be tied in the shop and as many more waiting their turn outside.

Two men were busy all the time shoeing and another man divided his time between that and general work about the shop.

When Merrill operated the shop there was a carriage painting room in the front upstairs, with a runway leading up from the south side. When Elmer E. Remington bought it he dispensed with the carriage painting business and expanded the blacksmithing work.

The Co-ops will have with them a scatcher their old standby J. Miller and also a relief pitcher to help out Lester Sebasty. It's going to be a ball game—and what a ball game!

BLOSSOM DISPLAY OF FRUIT BELT RUSHED INTO FULL SPLENDOR BY RECORD HEAT WAVE OF PAST WEEK

Patsy McCracken, Former Buchanan Girl is Chosen Queen of St. Joseph Schools; Local Dancers on Kiddies Program.

Buchanan has an added interest in the twelfth annual Blossom Festival program this year in the choice of Miss Patsy McCracken, as city school queen of St. Joseph.

Miss McCracken will be one of the reigning divas at the Kiddies Ball at Shadowland this evening. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner McCracken, formerly of Buchanan. She was born in this city, leaving with her parents for St. Joseph a year ago. She celebrated her sixth birthday in the past week.

Among the performers at the ball at Shadowland this evening will be a group of pupils of the Teresa White School of Dancing comprising the following: Mary Elizabeth McKinnon, Sally Tharing, Donnavee Burrus, Judith Hoinville, Eleanor Enders. They will present a Japanese dance number. Miss Gwendolyn Ibrie will be the featured dancer of the Kiddie's program, appearing in an acrobatic dance which won the attention of the Blossomard committee at the Gaiten selection.

After speculation as to whether the Spring showing of blossoms might not be too late for the festival dates this year on account of cold April weather, the record May heat wave of the past ten days has brought the blossoms on with a rush, so that the event is not threatened by the opposite contingency.

TO DEDICATE BEAUTIFUL SCENIC ROUTE ALONG ST. JOE AS PART OF THE LASALLE MEMORIAL TRAIL ROUTE

CWA and Relief Labor Utilized to Construct Scenic Route which will have Immense Value to Buchanan; Planned to Plant Redbud Trees Along the Road Next Fall.

With the opening of the Redbud trail scheduled for Memorial day or thereabouts, plans were inaugurated here in the past week for some form of fitting observation of the official dedication which will recognize the fact that the route is an accepted part of the scenic LaSalle Memorial trail which is eventually to skirt the west bank of the St. Joseph river from South Bend to St. Joseph.

It is doubtful if any Buchanan people recognize the wonderful asset which this community is receiving from the trail constructed in the past winter chiefly from CWA labor. There is no CWA project in southwestern Michigan which will compare with it in lasting value. Skirting the side of Moccasin Bluff from the north end of Portage street, the trail commands one of the finest river views in the entire course of the St. Joseph. The interest which the road is already attracting was attested by the large concourse of Indiana cars which thronged the road Sunday. The lateness of completion this spring has prevented the planting of the redbud trees at this time and it is now planned to plant them in the fall instead.

The plan has been endorsed by Dr. L. A. Rausch of South Bend, president of the LaSalle Memorial Trail Association, who urged that it be taken up by the local Lions club and who assured the collaboration of his organization and of other interested organizations in that city.

At the meeting of the Lions club held last night Acting President Lovell Swem appointed a committee to look into the matter and report back at the next meeting on the feasibility of sponsoring the opening. The committee named consisted of Arthur Johnston, Dr. H. M. Beistle and Walter Haaves.

Forced by the hot weather of the past ten days, the redbud trees already in bloom and the scattering trees along the route give a faint indication of what the trail will be in a few years hence when the idea is fully realized. The redbud tree is by far the most beautiful of all blossoming trees of this latitude and it has the merit of staying in bloom for three weeks or more in ordinary springs. It requires three years for a tree to arrive at blooming age. Already the trail has commanded wide attention because of its scenic quality and if the idea is realized which was launched last winter the route should become one of the most famous trails in the Middle West, drawing many thousands of tourists during the blossoming season.

The fact that the blooms are out at the time of the annual Fruit Belt Blossom Festival should attract to Buchanan a large amount of the throng which attends that event.

To the end that the opening may be advertised as widely as possible, plans have been made to interest the Lions clubs of South Bend, St. Joseph and other neighboring cities which are interested in the completion of the LaSalle Memorial Trail.

The 4.60 miles of new and reconstructed road which formed the CWA project now nearing completion have been accredited by the LaSalle Memorial Association of South Bend as a part of the Memorial trail, which is now scheduled for completion in 1937. The plan also includes a memorial monument somewhere along the route over which LaSalle and his men portaged with their eight canoe from the St. Joseph river to the headwaters of the Nappanee river.

A force of 150 men, a fleet of trucks and a steam shovel are now engaged in rushing the road to completion. The steam shovel and county trucks are transporting dirt from the old narrow gauge railway grade to the large fill opposite the Lutz farm near the Oroonko county line, where 1000 yards of dirt are being dumped daily. About 75 men from Niles have been working on the road for the past several weeks since the termination of the CWA.

During the winter from 50 to 80 Buchanan men were employed regularly on the road, working under county engineers but paid from CWA funds. Although the method of hand labor slowed down the progress, very good results were secured for the money spent. A force of Buchanan men were again placed on the work during the past week.

Some criticism has been aroused over the fact that local men were withdrawn from the work and Niles men were used. This was because of the fact that after the cessation of CWA about April 1, there was some delay in the planning of relief work for the unemployed in communities of less than 5,000 population, which were listed as agricultural rather than industrial.

Since considerable pressure had been brought on the CWA headquarters at St. Joseph to secure completion of the road, a force of 75 to 80 men was brought regularly from Niles, while the type of relief work in the smaller communities was under discussion. It was distinctly a favor to the Buchanan community that this labor from Niles was kept busy on the road during the month of April, since it ensured the completion in time for summer traffic. Buchanan unemployed were not hurt by the diversion of labor since the men employed on relief work now receive only pay equivalent to budgeted grocery orders, and the local unemployed were cared for thru relief. A force of fifty county men are also employed now.

Engineers in charge of construction stated that they hoped to have the road completed by Memorial Day, as far as the major operations of grading and graveling are concerned, although there will be another month of work in installing guard rails and other pick-up work. Although the road may not be officially completed by Memorial day throughout its entire extent, it is believed that it will be traversable through its main extent, sufficient for holding a general "trail warming" with appropriate exercises.

AT THE THEATRE

Amazing Cast of 14 Stars in "Dinner at Eight" Hollywood Sunday

The picture which you have heard talked about for months as the most remarkable achievement attempted by Hollywood producers will have its first showing at the Hollywood Theatre starting Sunday for three days. It is "Dinner at Eight," the photoplay version of the George S. Kaufman-Eddie Ferber stage success which ran on Broadway for more than a year and was subsequently purchased by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film studios at a price which ran well into five figures. At the time of its purchase of the play rights, Metro executives intimated that the camera version of "Dinner at Eight" would be something in the nature of the extraordinary with a cast which would dwarf any comparisons.

One glance at the amazing lineup of stars in this picture indicates that the earlier predictions were no idle boasts. Here we have, believe it or not, in one talkie, Marie Dressler, John Barrymore, Wallace Beery, Jean Harlow, Lionel Barrymore, Lee Tracy, Edmund Lowe, Billie Burke, Madge Evans, Jean Harsholt, Karen Morley, Phillips Holmes and May Robson, together with eleven supporting players. This million dollar cast, comprising most of the outstanding stars in Hollywood, sets a new record for lavishness in film entertainment. It has never happened before, and in all likelihood it will never happen again. Frank Borzage made a motion picture in Hollywood reflecting the utter horror and tenuity of war. Yet, in the unfolding of the story proper there is not a bomb thrown, a cannon fired, a gun discharged. Borzage's new picture is Fernie Molnar's "Paul Street Boys," brought to the screen under the title of "No Greater Glory." It is an intimate story of two rival bands of youth, picturing the efforts of the one to defend their previous playground from the attack of the other, the futility of the fight and the tragedy which results from it. "No Greater Glory" is Liberty's newest four-star picture in the issue of three weeks ago, and come to the Hollywood tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday as feature number one of a double feature bill, George Braxton, Frankie Darro, Lois Wilson, and Frank Morgan have the lead roles. "No Greater Glory" is a brainy, now studio release, a human, thrilling drama picture every member of the family should see, and particularly children of school age. Zasu Pitt, Pert Kelter, El Brendel and Janner Gleson in "The Meanest Gal in Town" is the second feature on Friday and Saturday's program.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has dedicated its most recent picture, "This Side of Heaven," which plays the Hollywood on Barton Night next week Wednesday and Thursday, to the average American family. The picture deals with the interwoven dramatic, high aspirations, youthful romances and disappointments of a typical everyday household. Lionel Barrymore was chosen to head the cast as the typical head of the average American family, whose story the picture tells. Others in this typical family cast are Tom Brown, Mac Clarke, Fay Bainter, Mary Carlisle, Dietrich Moore and Eddie Nugent. The picture is laid in modern settings and tells the story of a family with all their troubles, tragedies, romances and disappointments, deftly woven into a film that maintains interest and suspense from beginning to end.

the fact that people are buying "something just a little better," and are buying in greater volume. "Our analysis shows that people are not spending unwisely," he said, "and that they are careful about not wasting money. They are, however, carefully choosing their products, weighing their values, and are buying a product that is just a little better than is needed for bare transportation. Since the first of this year, the ratio of de luxe to standard Ford V-8 cars has been rising steadily. During the past month more than 60 per cent of all Ford V-8 cars ordered were of the de luxe type. This is an encouraging symptom in our progress toward economic recovery."

Village Smithy Lays Off Horses; Does Machine Work

(Continued from Page 1) the back of his blacksmith shop and installed an addition on the back of the blacksmith shop proper to connect the two structures. He then employed Chris Lentz to take charge of the woodwork. Later, Lentz, Clyde Marble and William Bupp were all employed at the same time in that department with three blacksmiths in addition to Remington. At that time there were four other shops operating in town under Burgess Miles, Frank Chappel, Frank Fisher and Joe Burch.

Twenty-five years ago they dispensed with the old hand-bellows, and installed instead the bellows that operated with a crank. These were later displaced by the electrically powered blowers of which various types have been in use since. About seventeen years ago the elder Remington sold his building and frontage on Days avenue, extending from a point ten feet south of the shop to the Hotel Rex lots including the present Indiana & Michigan site to Harry Boyce. Later Carl Remington bought back the blacksmith shop.

RALPH SEBASTY AND STRAUB LEAD IN DAIRY HERDS

Rank High in 114 Herds, 1762 Cows in Southwestern Michigan for Fat Production.

Note: In the following article these abbreviations are used: G for Guernsey, J for Jersey, Gr for grades, PBH for Pure Bred Herds, PE for Pure Breds. One hundred and fourteen dairy herds with 1762 cows under test reported from southwestern Michigan according to the test reports received by the dairy department, Michigan State College, from the following counties: Allegan-Central, John Foster, tester; Berrien-North, Noble Walcott, tester; Berrien-South, Eddie Omland, tester; Cass, Noble Walcott, tester; Kalamazoo, George Mitchell, tester; St. Joseph, L. C. Beal, tester; Van Buren, Maurice Bailey, tester.

The Cass county herds averaged 31.23 pounds fat and were high, not only for the area but for the state. A cow owned by Howard McKenzie of Cass county produced butterfat at a very efficient rate so that a test was made by the tester to confirm the record. The high herd in butterfat production for the district was owned by John Fenwick of St. Joseph county. The largest number of cows culled during the month was reported to have been culled out of the St. Joseph county herds. Slightly more culling is noticed in the test reports than heretofore, largely due to lack of feed and high feed prices.

Individual high cow records for the area belong to Ralph Sebasty of Berrien county with a two year old, Dean Straub of the same organization had the high cow for the area and for the state in that his four year old produced 2209 pounds of milk and 93.3 pounds of fat. The Berrien county infirmity had the leading three year old milked twice a day while two cows in the A. L. Jones herd of Three Rivers led in the three and four year old class under three times a day milking.

Dealers Report Increased Sale of Ford V-8 Models

Evidence of rapid betterment in economic conditions in this territory, as reflected by increased sales of higher priced models, is seen by local Ford dealers following an analysis of passenger car sales made by the Ford Motor Co. for the past month. The analysis was received today by Mr. F. R. Montague. "The Ford company's analysis, conducted throughout the national sales organization of the company, shows the general public to be buying automobiles that are beyond bare transportation requirements," said Mr. Montague. "There is a tremendous demand for Ford V-8's of the deluxe type, and a similar lessening in the demand for standard body types. This is a direct contrast to automobile buying in 1933, when standard types were in demand and deluxe cars sold in lesser numbers."

In this territory, he said, increased sales of the new de luxe Ford V-8 are plain indication of

Scrip for the Journey

By Harry W. Staver
The Color of Things

An old and interesting legend tells how the blue bird got its lovely coat of blue. It seems that when he and his mate left the Ark, their feathers were drab and dull from being so long shut in. They might have bemoaned that fact and done nothing. Instead they shot straight toward the heavens, pouring out their hearts in glorious song, and bolted right through the blue of the sky. As they passed through the brilliant blue it stained their coats the rich color it now is.

That is only a legend. But as Victor Hugo says "Legend has its truth as well as history." The truth of this legend is that we not only take the color of the things we contact but that we can, very largely at least, choose what that color shall be. I remember an incident, of which I once read, in which a caller said to a certain young woman who was ill: "Sickness does color things, doesn't it?" To which the sick one replied:

"Yes, and I propose to choose the color." She was purposed that her condition should not make her life a black and bitter business. Other things besides sickness colors things. The kind of companions one delights in will do it. Associations are crucial. There are those who ridicule and those who revere; those who pull down and those who lift up. They color life. The kind of books one reads will do it, too. There are books that smell of the sewer and books that are bracing as a mountain breeze. There are books that take the soul out of a man and books that wake the soul in a man. Let one choose wisely that which will make or mar the mind. With a world of beauty all about and a world of good to choose from, who 'is to blame if a man build his life into a pig-pen when it might be a palace?"

A Footnote to Hermit Biography

By John G. Holmes

Editor Record,
Mr. Marble, whose death was recorded in the Record, was named Rhoderic, for an uncle, youngest brother of his father, whose name was Edward. As a child this man was called "Rhodie."
When about ten or twelve years old he was wounded by a shot gun and lost the hand.
J. G. HOLMES.

OUR LEGACY TO YOUTH

At no time within the memory of any living person has youth been subjected to temptation, so insidious and yet so compelling, to yield to the allurements of the liquor traffic, as that which confronts them today. Even the head of the Crusaders, that wet organization which conducted its campaign for repeal principally on the plea to "save the youth from hip flask and speak-easy" prohibition, is quoted in a Chicago newspaper as saying that the saloons of today are more vile, more rotten, than the worst dives of pre-prohibition days.

Investigation by newspapers, which championed repeal, testify that boys and girls in their teens constitute a large proportion of the patrons of these dives.

Then there are the "respectable" saloons which in some respects are a much greater peril to these youngsters, most of whom until repeal had never tasted an alcoholic beverage. These are the places, I quote from an editorial of the American issue of April, 1934, "The places disguised as drug stores, restaurants, candy shops and similar stores." They are the first step to the dive saloon and the worst of all, the "Night Club."

It is in the night club with its insinuating music, where all restraint is thrown to the winds and such drunken and disgusting orgies as these reported by a Chicago newspaper and quoted by the editor of the American issue. But the state and nation need the revenue.

Repeat, what a legacy to hand to the oncoming generation! When its results are so terrifying as to alarm the champions of repeal, how can the dregs remain indifferent?

Unless the liquor makers and sellers are checked in their mad drive to promote "true temperance" the next generation will be the most drunken of the past century.

When liquor advertising comes floating over the ether waves is the time to write to the station to which you have been listening, and remind station managers that the political party in power promised to guard dry territory and the radio has no regard for state lines.

Your children and my children should have the right to turn on the radio without hearing liquors exalted.

I know a large number voted for the repeal to raise a large sum of money in revenue to lower taxes and give jobs to the idle, but it did not come in that way. Those who expected to receive a golden egg in return, received a lemon. We are still poor, riches do not come over night, it will take time and effort.

Liquor will not make a better America to live in. Let us notice what a famous physician has to say about alcohol.

Alcohol fails to serve the body in other respects than as a fuel. Has certain drug and poison effects which unfit it for the diet of a child or for physical work. Not necessary or desirable; excluded in athletic or skilled work, not good for muscular work.

Depresses higher functions, prevents proper control.
For some, a habit-forming drug. (No one knows before-hand whether it will thus affect him.)
The poisonous effects of the alcohol in beer make even its narrow nutritional uses strictly limited and of little value to an adult.
In moderate doses causes disinclination for effort, clumsiness and carelessness.
Not a digestant, gastric tonic or stimulant to digestion.
Impairs judgment and removes inhibitions that make self-control possible.
A cause of accidents, increases danger of infection of wounds, and of complications in recovery, increases mortality.
A "tolerant" drinker has lost to some degree normal protection against alcohol and is therefore apt to take enough to seriously damage his tissues.
Moderate amounts of weak beer (3 per cent by weight) can produce effects which interfere with efficiency and safety.
If these undeniable facts about alcohol could become generally known the effect upon the sale of liquor would soon become very marked, and of vast importance to the dealers and to socially minded citizens, for different reasons.
Let us spend more money to educate the children and our youth.
Money spent for liquor never has paid. It is the enemy of every home where used. There you see children poorly clad, no shoes and little to eat and a cold house to live in during the winter. Drunkenness cases mount since repeal, deaths through crimes and accidents because of liquor.
William F. Boettcher.

Eight children were born to this union, seven of whom were born in that home, the oldest, Alma, having been born in the log cabin which was the original home of the Spaulding family in this vicinity.
The deceased's record as a public servant in our neighborhood is well known; as one of the first public school teachers in Berrien county, when at the age of 15 she received $2.00 weekly as the teacher of a rough log school which was located in the present site of the village of Baroda. Later she became one of the four teachers of the first St. Joseph public school. Darwin Pangborn, Albert Nutt and Maria Russell were among her first pupils.
The four remaining children, Clarence Spaulding and Dell Kempton of Buchanan, Belva Austin of LaPorte and Verna Spaulding of Ferndale, were present at the funeral. Six of the nine grandchildren were present as were all of the eight great grandchildren.

Alfred Devine
Alfred Edward Devine was born in New York city, May 11, 1849 and died Friday, May 4th, at his home four miles north of Buchanan, Michigan.
As a child he came with his parents to South Bend, Indiana, where he lived about 35 years, after which he moved on a farm near Granger, Ind.
He was united in marriage to Miss Elizabeth Cooper, October 15, 1889, and lived in Indiana until about 13 years ago, when he came to Michigan and settled on a farm north of Buchanan, where he spent his last years.
Mr. Devine was a good husband and a wonderful father, a good neighbor and citizen. He was blessed with good health until this spring when his health began to fail. But his work is done, he has answered the roll call and his spirit has gone to God who gave it.

His parents and two brothers and sister preceded him in death. He leaves to mourn, his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Eliza Smith of Buchanan, and three grandchildren, besides other relatives and friends. The funeral service was held on Tuesday at the home at 2 p. m.

Obituary

Flavilla Bickford Spaulding
Flavilla Bickford Spaulding was born in Concord, Somerset County, Maine, Jan. 19, 1843, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Quint, the youngest of eight children and the remaining member of the generation from their parental homestead in Maine in 1854. By covered wagons to Albany and the recently opened Erie Canal to Buffalo was followed by a then laborious railroad journey on the newly founded Michigan Central railroad to Niles from where they completed their trip by ox team.
The eighty years following Mrs. Spaulding's arrival in Buchanan township, she has made her home here, from the log cabin in the uncut woods of the Coveney neighborhood to her last earthly home.
Mrs. Spaulding was married to Ezekiel Spaulding, a Berrien county pioneer, in 1866, following his return from the Civil war in which he served the entire duration and for thirty-five years made their home at the Spaulding homestead on the upper St. Joe road, which is well known to all here.

Bible Conference At Winona Lake to be Greatest Ever

The Winona Lake Bible Conference program for the 1934 season bids fair to surpass anything of its kind ever offered at Winona Lake, or in fact anywhere in the United States.

For forty years the program has been run for ten days, but this coming program has been lengthened to fifteen days, beginning on Sunday, August 12, and continuing through August 26. There is an average of ten hours of sermons, lectures or Bible studies each day from which the attendants may make their selections as to what they want to hear.

The program is again under the direction of Dr. William Edward Biedervolf, who for more than 40 years has been associated with the religious activities of Winona Lake Institutions and has been in charge of all religious activities including the directorship of the justly famous Bible Conference.

The program has been prepared especially with the needs of the ministry in view and a larger number of denominations than usual will be represented on the program. Wednesday, August 15, will be known as United Brethren Day; Thursday, August 16, as Jewish Day; and Friday, August 17, as Moody Bible Institute Day; Monday, August 20, as Baptist Day; Tuesday, August 21, as Disciples of Christ Day; Wednesday, August 22, as Evangelical Day; Thursday, August 23, as Methodist Episcopal Day; Friday, August 24, as Presbyterian Day; Saturday, August 25, as Missionary Day.

The temperance drama entitled "Senator North's Deciding Vote" will be given Saturday night, August 18.

The Misses Janet Kelley and Una Kelley went to Battle Creek Saturday, accompanied by Mrs. Con Kelley, and took part in the contest for Interlochen scholarships in piano and violin held under the auspices of the State Federation of Music Clubs in connection with the Michigan High School Music Festival. While the girls did not win, they acquitted themselves with much credit and received much inspiration from the event.

News of Buchanan Schools

Collected and Edited by Members of the Student Body

Editorial

Perpetual strife pursued the senior class at the beginning of this year's study. The class as a whole was a complete flop, although individually it was somewhat of a success. The trouble was lack of co-operation. This trait developed into almost alarming proportions; the class threatening to take decided sides on one occasion.

But, however, this development proved its own undoing. The entire senior division of the high school became conscious that the lack of co-operation was availing them naught, and what was best, it set about to remedy the situation. At present the class is showing remarkable team-work.

The senior class is not the only one to show good joint action; the rest of the individual classes and the whole school are, at present, showing team-work. When the report cards were handed out a week ago, Mr. Knoblauch requested that everyone co-operate and return their cards immediately. A tabulation shows that over 90 per cent of the students given cards complied with the request. If over 90 per cent of the student body would work together in order to bring such an unimportant thing to pass, would it not co-operate on matters of greater importance?

Class Activities

The members of the junior and senior classes are looking forward to the junior-senior prom, which will be held Friday, May 11.

All the students in these two classes are allowed to bring one guest, providing of course, that the guest has tickets.

Naturally, every one looks forward to this event with the expectations of having a good time, who wouldn't?

When gazing dreamily out of the window of journalism class, a person is liable to see many interesting things.

The girl's gym class is gallantly battling an indoor ball around Joyce Kohlman surely makes the fielders run almost out of sight.

A rather slim, pretty girl took a grand, spectacular nose dive.

Mr. Moore heard the call of the wide open spaces, Tuesday, when he took his biology class out into the open air for a field trip. Every student wished he had struggled through that subject, just for a sniff of spring air, instead of trying to get his mind on the declension of Latin nouns.

Languages

Latin 9 students have begun studying the subjunctive during the past week.

"Caesar's War on the Belgians," a Latin story, has been read by the tenth grade Latin class.

The junior French class has been learning direct object pronouns.

Due to the early examinations for the seniors, the French 12 class has been finishing up the work in their text books this week.

Commercial News

All typing classes are working on legal papers, how to arrange them, sign them, etc.

The shorthand class has been reading business letters in Speed Studies and writing letters in shorthand, also taking dictation and transcription of business letters.

Sales and purchase discounts, columnar cash books, and reviewing the work at the close of the fiscal period has been the work of the bookkeeping class.

Trigonometry

The trigonometry classes are studying problems of surveying, and they are considering graphs of functions, also relation of radius to a degree measure.

Geometry

The geometry classes are working on the chapter entitled "Regular Polygons." They are learning how to construct regular polygons.

Algebra

The students of the algebra class are studying the solution of quadratic equations by completing the square.

Citizenship

The students in Mrs. Whitman's citizenship class are now dealing with the question of taxation. The various functions which come under this topic include the levying and collecting of taxes and tax reform.

History 10

The world war is the subject the sophomores are discussing in history class this week.

American Government

The seniors in the American government class, under the supervision of Mrs. Whitman, are finding out about the government and problems of cities and towns.

7th Grade

The seventh grade arithmetic classes are studying the areas of triangles, rectangles, circles, and parallelograms.

The eighth grade is determining the heights of trees by measuring their own shadows. They are studying similar triangles and measuring distances across rivers.

English 9 and 10

"What's happened between you and him? Not he." This is one of the many mumbles heard during the English essentials tests which were given this week.

The median of the ninth grade in September was 64 while the result of the last one was 59. The tenth grade's median was 58 in September and 56 in May.

Both classes are finishing their exercise books and having a general review over them. The ninth grade classes have covered capitalization, parts of sentences, and punctuation. The correct use of pronouns and letter writing completed the work of the tenth grade.

Journalism

It was necessary for the journalism class to cover two chapters concerning book reviews and publicity writing.

Writing book reviews and planning a publicity campaign finished the work for the year. Review will be started for the final examinations.

Mechanical Drawing

Carson Donley, Chandos Jackson and George Spatta are making sketches from the inspection room of the Clark Equipment Co., under the direction of H. B. Thompson.

Shop

Junior high classes are studying the uses of wood and their identification.

English 7-5

Review has started in the eighth grade history class. They are reviewing the Civil war and in addition are covering the world war. A comparison of the wars is also being made.

Michigan

Michigan is the topic of the 7th grade geography class. "Romantic History of Michigan" is being read to them. In a map study Constance Kelly, Burdett Walter and Joseph Phisarcator were out to locate the greatest number of places.

The eighth grade English class has taken the English essentials tests and finished the study of verbs. Pronouns are the next step. In spelling they are taking 30 new words a week in order to cover 8th grade spelling.

Home Economics

The tenth grade clothing class has studied the unit on home furnishing this week and is preparing scrap books containing material on that subject. These books will be due at the end of the term.

Later on, the girls will take up the interesting discussion of planning and redecorating their own rooms. Also doing their own individual projects as usual.

Social Studies

In the social studies classes, the geography of Michigan has been the object of study during this week, and the pupils will continue in the same line of work next week also.

Physical Education

Practice for the baseball tournament has been completed. The girls' tournament starts Monday. Miss Rothenbach is having the girls run off track events during the class hour.

G. A. A. awards have been sent for. These awards will be given to the respective girls on honors day.

The last lesson has been given this week in First Aid. It is on sprains, bruises and dislocations. After this lesson is finished, the classes will start review for the final exam.

The boys gym classes will spend half their time on the track and field events and the other half will be taken up by playing playground ball.

Did You Know

How many of you knew Ben Franklin was a contortionist? Well, you would have believed it if you had seen him in Mrs. Dunbar's room last week. You see, it was like this:

Ben, busily engaged in conversation, did not notice a bowl of flowers in the window. He nonchalantly put his elbow on the window sill. Out went flowers, bowl and all. But that isn't the end of my story.

Ben was going to surprise them, so he reached out a long arm and plucked the bowl out of a clear sky and set it on the window sill as before.

Perhaps the girls in the sewing room below thought some one was pulling a May day joke on them, but anyway, Ben was the hero of the hour.

WE WONDER:

How many Niles girls are coming to the prom? What some of the upper classmen are going to do for dancing partners as no underclassmen are allowed at the prom? Why a few seniors are going around with sad looks on their faces. It won't be long now! Where "Tucky" Brewer's sailor hat has gone? What separated our senior class car's headlights. Anything to say on that, "Chandy"? Why everyone uses "dentist appointments" as an alibi when they skip?

Who's Who

Chandos Jackson, one of the prominent members of the senior class, was born in Buchanan on Sept. 23, seventeen years ago.

At the age of five Chandos commenced his scholastic career in the Buchanan school.

Since then he has become very popular with his fellow students. Due to his dependability, Chandos received the position of student manager in athletics when a sophomore and has held the office for three years.

Being good in dramatics, he was one of the leading actors in the junior play, "The Boomer," last year; in "Speaking of Father," a P. T. A. production staged last fall; and this year's senior play, "Regatta." Chandos has also been a member of the Latin and Glee club.

One of the cutest girls in the senior class is Jayne Briney. Jayne was born near Galien, on July 1, 1918. When five years of age she started to the Eaton district school, which is near Galien. Since that time she has attended the Ruggles school, near Baroda, Wagner, Dowagiac and Buchanan schools.

After the time of her enrollment as a freshman, Jayne has belonged to the Glee club and Vesperian Literary Society. Last year she carried one of the important roles in the junior play, "The Boomer," and this year she was in the senior play, "Regatta."

DEEDS, THE KING!

Ah-hah! That brilliant "Tarzan" of the junior class was at it again 1 o'clock noon when he tried to show the "underclassmen" how to hit a base ball either right or left handed.

Deeds nonchalantly walked up to home plate, after a refusal to join the "Cubs," and picked up the extra bat and stood behind the batter, actually hitting every one that the batter missed.

Ah, but the great "king" was foiled when "Lady Killer" Trapp went up to bat.

Trapp made a false move to hit the ball, but didn't on purpose, and Deeds missed!!!

School Slants

H. C. Bradford and A. L. Knoblauch attended the meeting on the 1934-35 football rules and interpretations held at the University of Michigan last Saturday.

Something new! Something flashy! Something different! Grey Best is that "something" in every sense of the word.

Wednesday morning he blossomed forth in his new spring attire. The girls gasped in open admiration and the boys' eyes popped out in envious glances. Even Miss Shriver took a second look when she beheld him.

Lo and behold! He is featuring rattlesnake trousers.

Haven't you noticed the melancholy look in "Tucky" Brewer's eyes lately? And just the other day he was caught gazing dreamily into the contents of a current song hit folio.

After drinking in all of the fair words and phrases, he slyly copied down on a paper, two of the choice selections and hummed a wistful tune.

Upon being seen, he immediately tucked the paper away, and tried to ward off the giggles and comments with one of his "Clark Gable" smiles.

Two officers from the Paw Paw division of the State Police, members of the radio squad now patrolling Berrien county, were driving slowly down Chicago street at noon Tuesday when they encountered a group of grade boys crossing the street.

The officers, evidently desiring to make an impression, looked sternly at the youngsters crossing in front of the police car. As they started to pass the group, one little lad about ten years of age yelled:

Trophies in Greece

In ancient Greece, a trophy was a memorial of victory erected on the spot where the enemy had turned in flight. Often one or two shields, and helmets of the routed enemy, placed upon the trunk of a tree, served as the sign and memorial of victory. After a sea-fight the trophy consisted of the beaks and stern-ornaments of captured vessels, set up on the nearest coast.

Origin of French Tricolor

The French tricolor originated at the outbreak of the 1793 revolution as the badge of the National Guard. The red and blue were selected as the arms of Paris, and the white was added as the color of the army, to show the intimate union which should exist between the people and the national defenders.

SAFE in the Electric Refrigerator—kept at a temperature always below 50 degrees—is the fresh milk so necessary to your child's health. Safe, too, is the food for the whole family.

Most food spoils rapidly, if it is not kept at a temperature below 50 degrees, and is often dangerous to health. The temperature of an Electric Refrigerator is automatically controlled and set below 50 degrees for adequate protection to food.

Wherever Electric Refrigerators are sold, a demonstration will be gladly given. The model of your choice may be purchased for a small amount down with the balance on easy time payments.
