City Declares War on Violators Traffic and Speed Ordinance

Now Here's the Proposition

The Smoke Eaters Yessir, life is an awful funny thing. The particularly funny thing that occasioned this philosophic remark is that in the old days when the fire boys used to have to rush the engine to the fire, there used to be a waiting list, but now that they can get on and ride 30 miles an hour on a Lincoln car they don't seem to be interested any more.

And now that, on the recommendation of the Michigan Inspection Bureau (which has something to do with insurance rates) we are facing the problem of increasing the personnel (not a bad word, what?) of the fire department what can we do to arouse interest once more? How do you suppose it would work to take the motor out of the Lincoln and let the boys push the engine to the fire again? You don't think it would do any good? Well, maybe not. Times have changed.

Another idea that might work better would be to revive the social side of the fire department. It used to be back in the seventies and eighties that membership in the fire department was the equivalent of the social register of the city. If you were a social climber you took to the hook and ladder squad. In other words it was the distinction of belonging rather than the extinction of fires that used to keep the boys interested and the waiting list fat. There was a lot of honor to it then. The boys had their uniforms and on gala occasions they headed the parades. Boy, you ought to have seen Sam Bunker and Charlie Blodgett prance with their fire regalia on.

Another idea for increasing the membership is that back in the days when they all wanted to join they gave their service gratis, whereas now that it is hard to get members, they pay them $1.00 per hour in summer and $1.50 per hour in winter. Perhaps if they could work for nothing again it would be more of an incentive to join.

The thing that puzzles us most is that the boys who get paid for don't seem to be crazy about going but the boys who don't get anything and have to pay for their own gas can't be scared away by threats. They're climbing all over the premises and getting in the way of the fire fighters until they are a regular nuisance. You would think that some of those boys who go to every fire would jump at a chance to get paid for it, but if you offered them a dollar an hour and free gas to go they would immediately be bored with the whole thing. Which suggests one way of eliminating the fire engine chasers—draft them on the department.

Linda Eichelberg Weds Ernest Stein

It will be of interest to the friends of Miss Linda Eichelberg to learn of her marriage to Ernest Stein of LaPorte in a quiet ceremony at the home of her parents at LaPorte last Friday.

The bride was beautiful in a gown of empire blue crepe fashioned with a high monk collar and white accessories. She wore a corsage of Talisman roses and blue delphinium intermingled with baby breath. The bride is a graduate of Westville high school and attended LaPorte Business College. She has been employed in Buchanan for the past 2 and one half years. The groom was formerly of Jamestown, N. Y., and at present is foreman at the Metal Door & Trim Co., of LaPorte. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served to the immediate family.

The young couple left for a trip to New York. They will be at home soon in LaPorte at 205 E. Lincoln Way. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Wilbur B. Burns of the Portage Prairie Road and John Eichelberg of east Buchanan. Those attending the wedding from here were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Burns and family and John Eichelberg.

ROBERT RINKER APPOINTED CITY TRAFFIC OFFICER

Growing Laxity Local Drivers in Observance Forces City to Employ Special Police.

Robert Rinker, former local deputy sheriff and conservation officer, was appointed city traffic officer yesterday with orders to discourage any and all violations of traffic or speed limit ordinances by anyone whatsoever, regardless of the alleged prominence or any other consideration.

Mr. Rinker went on duty this morning with a refurbished motorcycle and it is confidently expected that the growing laxity in regard to speed matters will be curbed by warning or by action if that fails. The question as to whether the local or the state law has jurisdiction in the city limits is a problem still at issue, but there is considerable speedometer area in excess of either limit which local motorists have a tendency to exploit.

The local ordinance sets the limit at 20 miles per hour. The state law fixes the limit at 25 miles an hour in the residential district and 15 in the business section. A number of motorists who have been taking Front street at from 30 to 40 stand in some peril unless they change their driving habits.

State Bureau Recommends Larger Fire Dept. Here

The fact that few cars for the lot of a volunteer fireman was brought on in a discussion at the commission meeting Monday evening of the recommendation by the Michigan Inspection Bureau that the local force be raised from 10 to 12, in addition to the chief. Instead of being the leader of parades and the social lion of other years, the fireman gets little honor and much censure these days. He is required to be ready to go at all times at call, whether attired in overalls or his Prince Albert. Although paid only for actual hours in fire fighting he is expected to display the proficiency of the professional full-time smoke eater. In Buchanan most of the force work at the Clark Equipment company which releases them on fire calls.

Berrien Schools to Get $135,000 From Thatcher-Sias Aid

Acting upon the authorization of the Attorney General's office, a general distribution of Thatcher-Sias Aid will be made to school districts that have not received 50 per cent of their total allocation computed on the basis of $15,000,000. It is probable that the distribution, requiring approximately $2,000,000 will be made in two installments during August.

Mandamus proceedings brought by Iron Mountain, Ironwood, and Escanaba, to compel the distribution of the total equalization fund prior to the distribution of the primary supplement fund, has been referred to the October term of the Supreme court.

The method now used gives each district 50 per cent of its total allocation under the terms of the act. With the completion of the present distribution the following amounts by counties will have been given school districts through the Thatcher-Sias Act: Under the Thatcher-Sias distribution the schools of Berrien county will receive $135,345.

HAIL INFLECTS DAMAGE PORTAGE PRAIRIE HARVEST

Entire Prairie South of Chicago Road Devasted by Hail; Damages Heaviest on Fruit, Corn.

Heavy crop damages from the hail storm of Thursday evening were reported from the southern part of Portage Prairie, extending as far north as the Chicago road, according to reports from farmers of that section.

Although the hail was felt in streaks further north, the heaviest damage was apparently through a strip about two miles wide north and south and extending westward the entire length of the prairie south of the Chicago Road. The heaviest damage along the Portage road to South Bend center about the Chapel church district and extending west through the Korn neighborhood, where truck gardens were ruined, corn stocks stripped bare and grapes pounded from the vines.

At the York and Smith farms at the York corner an eighty per cent loss in the grape crop was reported and a similar loss in corn. The hail there came as large as hickory nuts, driven by a hard wind, that imbedded the stones an inch deep in watermelons. A large loss in windfall apples was reported in this section and many trees were broken and damaged.

The Buchanan vicinity experienced a fine rain, the precipitation being unofficially reported as in excess of an inch in the city.

RARE CACTUS SPECIMEN EIGHT FEET HIGH IN ROCK GARDEN OF L. B. SPAFFORD ON RIVER STREET

Famed Lyceum Artist Works Out Many Ideas in New Form Statuary in His Basement Workshop.

Anyone interested in rare garden flora should pay a visit to the rock garden of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Spafford on River street, where a fine specimen of the Cochal cactus, a native of New Mexico, has reared its handsome height to an altitude of over eight feet in the past year.

The Cochal cactus is one of the cylindrical varieties of cacti attaining a great height which features the plains of the Southwest. It has several lobes in its circumference which traverse the entire height of the plant, and its surface is covered with spines two inches in length and is marked here and there by rusty white patches.

The specimen in the garden of the Spaffords is a very fine one and true to type, notwithstanding that it was constructed by Mr. Spafford of concrete over a frame of iron and wire mesh and is merely one of the fine specimens of concrete statuary with which he has been experimenting at his basement workshop. The concrete statuary idea which Spafford has experimented with has attracted considerable attention, not only locally but abroad. Among those

EVAN LEAGUE WINNER OF STATE HONOR 3RD TIME

Young People Local Church Lead Michigan Conference in Mission Contest.

The Young People's League of the Evangelical church received notice in the past week that they had won the banner awarded to the Evangelical organization of young people in Michigan with the highest average contribution per member to missionary funds.

This is the third time consecutively which the local organization has won this honor. Last year the league won permanent possession of a banner which had been awarded to them two years in succession. The league of the Mack Avenue Evangelical church of Detroit had won the trophy the three preceding years. According to the terms of the contest the banner is competed for five successive years and is permanently awarded to the organization which wins it the fifth year.

The success of the Buchanan league this year gives it possession for a year of the new banner in addition to the old which is now a fixture on the walls of the church. The Buchanan league competed with the young people's organizations of several score of Evangelical churches in Michigan. During the three years in which it has led the state was headed for two years by Miss Nina Nelson and this year by Milford Schultz.

75 Attend the Annual Reunion of Kansas School

The annual reunion of the Kansas school was held Saturday with seventy-five in attendance, made up for the most part of former pupils, with Louis Rough as the only teacher.

The oldest of the former pupils present was Louis Cauffman, 82, who started to school there in 1857 and who attended for ten years until 1867. This was the year that the school was built, Mr. Cauffman stated. His father, Michael Cauffman, had moved to Portage Prairie in 1855. The carpenter who were building the school boarded at his father's home. Previously the nearest school had been the old log school, still in use then, located about 20 rods south of the Portage Prairie Evangelical church.

Mr. Cauffman listed the following pioneer teachers who gave instruction at the Kansas school while he attended: Ben Chamberlain, Benjamin Fiske, Annie Blake, Libbie Swobe, Libbie Miller, Mrs. Brown, Frank Fisk, John Kaiser, Steve Colgin, Maria Sampson, Maria Hicks, Lou Alexander, Delia Breckenridge, John Young, Will Plimpton, Kate Myler, Willard French. Of the above, Maria Hicks now lives in Buchanan. Her present name is Mrs. E. T. Morley.

INDIAN TOWN OF MOCCASIN NAMED IN TREATY 1828

Number of Villages on Portage Prairie When Indians Were Removed From Mich. in 1833-6

Of the whereabouts of the Pottawatomie Indians in the vicinity of Buchanan immediately before their removal in the treaties of the last century the accepted histories are not very definite.

At that time most of the Pottawatomies lived in villages on their reservation, comprising parts of the present Bertrand, Buchanan and Niles townships. West of the present site of Bertrand, known anciently as the parc aux vaches (drinking place of the buffalo) was the village of Chief Pokagon.

North of Pokagon's village, according to Weissert's history of southwestern Michigan, was the Pottawatomie village of Swoplock, headquarters of Chief Topinabee. On two miles east and near the site of old Fort St. Joseph (Niles) was the village of Match-kee. Near Buchanan, according to Weissert, was the village of Mish-a-qu-ka. Weissert says nothing of the traditional village of Chief Moccasin, which is reputed to have been on the flats between Moccasin Bluff.

But there is evidence that Moccasin's village was more than a tradition, in the description in the treaty of 1828 of land ceded by the Pottawatomies to the United States government reproduced in Fuller's Beginnings of Michigan, as follows: Beginning at the mouth of St. Joseph of Lake Michigan and thence running up the said river to a point on the said river half-way between La-vache, qui-pisse and Moccasin village; thence in a direct line to nineteenth mile tree on the northern boundary line of the state of Indiana; thence with the same west to Lake Michigan; thence with the shore of the said lake to the point of beginning.

where he stands on Public questions. Read his strong plea for ---
Safe,
Progressive Government!

To the VOTERS
of the 4th Congressional District

Any candidate for the high office of Congressman, who has, from experience, thought and study, carefully weighed the many complex and difficult problems that must be confronted by this most important legislative body, during the next few years to come, can not but feel an enormous responsibility. As one of those candidates, I hesitate to extend any attractive promises of specific and immediate cures for our economic ills, but I do pledge that I shall, if nominated and elected, act with careful and conscientious judgment in an effort to restore conditions to normal, based on successfully tried business principles, with which I am familiar through experience in private and public business, over a period of many years.

We are living in a changing Nation. Legislators must keep in progressive step with changing economic and social needs. Truly progress comes from experiment and trial, but safety in business or government is attained through adherence to tried business principles, so we should experiment only in-so-far as safety permits.

Opposes Government Regimentation

The established principles upon which our nation's business is founded are the result of hundreds of years of experience and experiment, eliminating unsound principles and retaining the sound, as occasion demanded. The mechanism has served us well, we must repair as necessary. I do not favor discarding all tried business principles for a so-called regimentation of business, under government control. (Government regulation of big business is necessary.) I have faith that the brains of private enterprise which have served so well in the past, will rise to cure our economic ills, if interference is withdrawn, and probably will do a better job than can be done by our best politicians or theorists.

I believe in the principle that the people who are the best governed are the least governed, but citizens' rights must be protected against those who disregard the rights of others. Delegation of legislative, judicial, and other powers, rightfully belonging to other branches of government, to bureaus, boards and agents of the government, must be avoided if we are to have orderly government, which will be acceptable to the people.

Would Abolish Bureaus

It appears to me that governmental expenses can be greatly reduced by withdrawing needless governmental bureaus, agencies and employees now engaged in minor regulation and control of public and private business operations. I am sure that the savings made would be welcome, if the government will retract in this field of operations and in the development of more farm land which we do not need, through various pork barrel expenditures, such as irrigating dam construction, etc.

I propose no new form of federal tax nor an increase in the present levy, but a more sensible and judicious expenditure of those revenues now being collected.

Agriculture Basic Industry

Agriculture constitutes one of our most important basic industries and any benefits that can be derived through removal of restrictive legislation or by new enactments which would prove beneficial must be encouraged. I am in favor of extending this industry an opportunity to work out its problems with the least government interference. I pledge my efforts to measures that would prove beneficial to this enterprise.

Our veterans must not be forgotten. They have done their bit in our "common defense." The government debt to veterans must be paid in 100-cent dollars.

The desire for people to own real estate should return. Lower taxes and lower financing costs would remedy the situation. Likewise, this remedy will do much towards bringing back agricultural recovery.

I am opposed to foreign entanglements; government foreign loans have proven unwise.

If there is a "forgotten man" in America, it is the "Middle Class" man, who has struggled hard with his farm or shop or store or trade, to maintain his family expenses and contribute toward the expense of federal, state and local governments. This man will appreciate any reductions in government expense, thereby leaving the difference for him to spend for his own private needs.

Our people who work for salaries and wages comprise an important part of our citizenry. Every product on the market represents their skill and effort in its production. Salaries and wages should advance as rapidly as agricultural and industrial recovery permits, the more rapidly these advancements come, the sooner recovery will arrive, because these earnings are practically all used for purchases of farm and manufactured products.

Prosperity can never return through extravagant government spending, because the government merely spends the people's money and usually in certain localities where only a few receive the benefits, whereas private spending covers the whole area and is widely distributed.

The right of free speech and of the press and radio must be preserved. The acts of public officials and public bodies are matters of public concern, and no law nor code should be enacted that would stifle honest criticism through the press, nor stifle the service that supplies such news.

I expect, if elected, to pursue about the same course in fiscal matters as has been my policy in the past.

Reduce Government Spending

It is fundamental that the support of all government and government activities must come from those who pay its cost through tax and other forms of government revenue. The public treasury contains only money that comes from the earnings or possessions of the people. Therefore, any public treasury is your treasury and mine, and the expenditures therefrom must be carefully guarded against waste and unnecessary outlays. Public expenditures can only be made in accordance with laws made by the legislative, or law-making body. So it is plain that the responsibility for government costs lies with this body, making the legislative probably the most important of the three divisions of government. Healthy government and its activities can only continue so long as there is ability to pay for its costs from part of the earnings or profits accruing to its people. The cost of government should fluctuate in ratio with the ability of the people to pay. Government operations must surely end when all earnings and savings have been used for its support. I can say, without fear of contradiction, that our units of government are being supported today, and for the past four years, principally from past savings, which will, if allowed to continue, result in disaster.

The safety of a self-governing nation lies with the educational institutions. Education must forever be encouraged.

The unemployed must be cared for efficiently and in such a manner that self reliance and self respect will not be destroyed.

Efficient, economical and speedy distribution of products and goods occupies such an important place in the scheme of agriculture and trade that legislation should be so framed that all forms of transportation would be encouraged, rather than hindered, in the extension of their facilities.

While my statement does not cover all public questions that will be involved in the duties of a United States Congressman, because such a document would be too lengthy to publish, it does contain enough matter so that no voter need be deceived as to my general attitude, when he selects his candidate for the office for which I am a contender.

Very sincerely,

GALIEN GLEANERS GO TO LA GRANGE FOR CONVENTION

Arbors Stage Programs at Annual Berrien-Cass
Meeting Wednesday

Armed with their lunch baskets to the number of twelve and journeyed to the La-Grange Center, three miles north of Niles, where Berrien and Cass counties held their county meeting.
