

Buchanan State Bank Will Pay Dividend of 15 Per Cent Saturday

Now Here's the Proposition

Well, folks, we went to the big milk powwow down at the hay headquarters Tuesday evening and listened to the troubles of the milk farmer and the milk distributors and when both sides got through there was enough tears in our eyes to water a milk can. It seems that it is a bad situation. The farmer can't afford to produce the milk, the distributor can't afford to peddle it, and the consumer can't afford to buy. The only one that's getting a break so far is the cow. And they take her calf away from her.

The farmer is losin' every day and the distributor is distributin' at a loss, while the consumer is thinkin up new ways why he can't pay his milk bill. Of course the farmer has the use of his cows. And look at all the fun the milkman has!

Of course, sooner or later the grass will probably start growin' in the streets if the Democrats stay in and then every householder can keep his own cow and stake her out in front, or else let the city commission herd the town cows. Years and years ago that's the way it used to be and if you dig in the old village records you will find regulations for herding the town cows, and also where the village of Buchanan once bought a bull and charged him to the taxpayers. Talk about your relief!

The meetin' started at 8 p. m. and lasted until 11:30 p. m.—forty-six farmers and distributors wrangling over 92 cents or two cents apiece. It would of seemed a better way to have called a lawyer in to tell them how to divide it and then give him the 92 cents.

Of course from the size of the water tax bill Harry Post shoved at us we can readily understand why the distributor can't pay his way. And with hay shooting to $40 a ton mark this winter you can see how the farmer is goin' to have to put green goggles on his cows and feed 'em excelsior. Before the winter is over they will be sellin' hay in bunches in the floral shops.

Notes of the Loop

The favorite diversion of a lot of the boys around the Loop district lately is watching the watches. The watches they watch are in the Hamblin and Ogden windows. The watch in the former window is the object of a guessing contest and the watch in the latter window is a test of your arithmetical powers, if any. For further details of these magnificent and entirely unparalleled offers, see Messrs. Ogden and Hamblin.

Phil Karling, promising young banker, has been promoted from the post of teller to assistant cashier at the Galien-Buchanan state bank. The exact difference of the post is outside our knowledge of banking, but if you must know, ask Mr. Karling, who is a graduate teller and can doubtless tell.

All we know is that to the best of our knowledge it is just another step on Phil's way to the head of the Chase National.

Charlie Ritter says drouth has one good use—it has made the watermelons sweeter than ever before this year.

The Buchanan Farmers Inc. have just completed the installation of a double garage and a new railway leading dock in the rear of their Days avenue plant.

Judge and Mrs. Lee Mathie and their little daughter enjoyed a week end outing to Saugatuck, with all the modern conveniences in the maiden cruise of hizzoner's new trailer. The local crime ring declared a truce during his absence. Strange as it may seem, or perhaps because of the fact, the town had a very quiet and peaceable time over the week-end with both Judge Mathie and Night Marshall Kean out of town. Of course Clarence Patton was watching 'em. He is pinch-hitting for the night marshal while the latter is visiting his daughter in Portland, or is it Seattle?

A new high and low mentality was set yesterday afternoon when Tom Smith, Pete Fuller and Doggy Luke were seen parading through the Loop with skis and a snow sled. It musta been the heat.

FIRE DEPARTMENT PUTS OUT ROOF FIRE

The Buchanan fire department was called to the home of Hayden Post, South Days Ave., Friday morning to extinguish a small roof fire.

DIVIDENDS PAID TO DATE TOTAL FORTY PER CENT

State Department Comments
on Record of Dividend Payment; To Pay $44,286
in Cash.

A dividend of 15% will be paid to all depositors of the Buchanan State Bank by Receiver Harry Boyce beginning Saturday morning, the dividend amounting to $44,286.51 and bringing the total of the dividends paid to date to 40%.

The order for the release of the dividend was signed by Judge Charles E. White Monday and was then approved by the state banking department and the funds were released by the state treasurer. The state banking department commented on the excellence of the record of the local institution in payment of dividends in comparison with other banks under its jurisdiction. The arrangements for the dividend were made thru the local legal firm of Landsman, Burns & Hadsell.

Receiver Boyce stated that an intimation made earlier that the dividend was pending was made on the assurance of the backing of the Home Owners Loan Corporation, but that it is now being made without recourse to HOLC loans.

WILL CONDUCT PAWATING FUND DRIVE LOCALLY

Progress Club of Niles to Canvass for Maintenance;
Many Buchanan Cases Cared For.

Buchanan people who are interested in the maintenance of modern hospital facilities within ten minutes motoring from the city, will have a chance to help to that end during the drive for funds for Pawating hospital, Niles, which will be carried on here.

It is a matter of common place knowledge that hospitals rarely are able to maintain themselves from their own income, the extent of the deficit depending on the amount of charity or part-pay services rendered. Large private hospitals in the cities are usually carried by surgeon's fees, but the majority are institutional affairs with some endowment basis. The Pawating hospital has no endowment producing current income, being dependent on patients' fees, with yearly deficits that must be made up.

That the institution has been of real service to Buchanan is attested by the fact that in the past year 90 patients from this locality have been treated there.

The drive is being conducted by the Women's Progressive League of Niles, with the Progress Club of that city in active charge. The chairman is Mrs. E. A. Wolford.

Remembers Races of The Steamboats on St. Joe River

Races between rival steamboats played a part in the early history of the St. Joseph as well as of the Mississippi, according to Capt. Guy Bunker, native of the Bend of the river, who was in Buchanan Friday visiting the Record office while here.

Bunker recounted how one Sunday morning in 1868 he was routed from bed by his father, Abram Bunker, to see a race between the steamboats Magnolia and Kalamazoo, which then plied between St. Joseph and Niles. As young Bunker, then eight years old, came out where he could see the two boats were racing down the river under full steam, the Kalamazoo having the inside track as they came around the bend just above the bridge. (This bend is now under water). The Kalamazoo was a side wheeler and the slower of the two boats but the pole position gave it the advantage and as the two crafts came out in a straight shot to the bridge, it was evident that it would reach the center first, where there was only room for one boat, so the Magnolia slowed down and the Kalamazoo chugged triumphantly down the river, and on across the riffle below the bridge.

FOULKES WILL EXPALIN GOVT. LOAN POLITICS

Congressman Will Answer
Critics Who Charge New Deal With Radicalism.

Congressman George Foulkes will speak after the band concert here Wednesday evening, Aug. 22, for the special purpose of explaining the Farm Loan and amortization the Home Owners Loan act, answering "any questions which anyone interested may propound."

In addition to the above subject he will talk on Radicalism and the New Deal. Relative to the subject matter on which he will talk, Congressman Foulkes stated:

What the people want is not less progressiveness but more. They are not frightened at the prospect of government interference with business. On the contrary they are exasperated because the old government did not interfere long before this with the shameful robbery that has impoverished our citizens.

In no spot on earth should hard-boiled reaction and stubborn attachment to ancient ideas be less liked. The very spirit of America is that of progress, of change, of advancement of pioneering into new realms. The country with its institutions belongs to the people. Instead of shunning innovations and evading reforms, let us look them frankly in the face and give them impartial consideration.

Report Several Coffee Trees on Isaac Wells' Farm

Several trees believed to be of the family popularly known further south as the Kentucky coffee tree are to be found in the woods on the Isaac Wells farm, according to Mr. Wells, who brought a branch of the tree to the Record office yesterday. One of the trees was reported on the Postlewait farm on the east side of the St. Joseph river by an amateur Chicago botanist three years ago. They are, of course, not actually coffee bearing trees, but they are true members of the family. They have bulb-like excrescences on the leaves resembling coffee berries.

FARMERS WIN 15 CENT RAISE IN MILK PRICE

Mass Meeting at Buchanan
Farmers Inc., Protests
Division of Retail Increase.

Buchanan dairymen selling whole milk to local creameries for retail trade won an advance of 15c per hundred pounds as the result of a meeting held at the Buchanan Farmers' Inc., headquarters Tuesday evening in protest of the share of the recent retail advance allotted to the producer.

The local farmers had, until recently been receiving $1.40 and $1.55 per hundred pounds for their whole milk. When the recent advance of two cents a quart was made to the consumer the two creameries agreed to advance the farmers' price to a uniform $1.35 per hundred pounds.

The farmers circulated a protest and called a meeting, stating that the handbills sent out to notify local consumers of the retail advance had signified that it was being raised in order to make possible a larger payment to the farmer, and that consequently they should get the full benefit of the advance, which amounted to 92c per hundred pounds, on the basis of 46 quarts to the hundred weight.

They stated that they were getting less than half of the advance. After the meeting was called to order, Amos Harhoff was elected as temporary chairman and William Whittaker secretary. A motion was made that the farmers demand the Chicago code price of $2.25. Distributors objected that farmers could not ship it to Chicago and get that price, as there would be a carrying charge of from 15 to 20 cents per hundred pounds and that furthermore they would then be obliged to conform to the very strict sanitary requirements of the Chicago Board of Health. These requirements include entire separate accommodations for cattle and horses, regular spraying and white washing of quarters, a modern sanitary milk house and cooling system and other improvements requiring an outlay of expense.

The farmers then made a second motion asking for an advance to $2, and after an hour and a half of debate both creameries signed an agreement to pay this amount to all customers for milk bottled for the retail trade.

The farmers stated that their costs had advanced on account of the drouth, hay now selling at $25 in the barn, with prospects of much higher figures, and other feeds up accordingly. Several stated that their hay crops were so short that they would be obliged to sell all or part of their herds unless relief in the form of advance in milk prices was afforded. One producer stated that he had already sold three cows for $15 each to the packers, the feed shortage having wiped out the market for dairy stuff.

The distributors stated that they sold large quantities to stores and other retailers on which they had not received the full two cents advance and that they sold some milk in other markets where they had not been able to advance their prices at all on account of competitive trade.

After three hours and a half of debate the matter was settled and the two parties to the discussion parted amicably.

THE PICNIC'S OVER

Well, folks, the employees picnic of the Clark Equipment Co. was a big success. We started off at 10 o'clock and there was something doing every minute from that time until the final bell rang at 6:30!

There were about 1500 in attendance and from the reports believe everyone had a good time.

The committee wishes to thank everyone who took part either by donations, loaning of property or their services to make this picnic possible; also the newspapers for their very generous co-operation.

There will be no further reason for M. L. Hanlin to complain of not getting enough exercise for he has a new bicycle to ride to work. Also D. E. Taske, Bob Stevens and Wilma Boone can work out a little on their roller skates. In case the Buick refuses to start some morning this winter, we will expect Fred Burger on the job as he held a number drawing a pair of roller skates, too.

GALLEN FARMERS TURN BACK ARMY WITH BALL BATS

in Historic Contest with Regular Cavalry on Ball Grounds

The cavalry had bivouaced for the night on the baseball grounds. The correspondent from Galien reported that the number was 360 men and 300 horses. Other reports placed the number of men at 1,000 the size of the estimates apparently depending on how badly the estimator was scared.

They moved on early Wednesday morning, passing south of Buchanan en route to Camp Custer, Battle Creek, about 7:30 a. m.

LOCAL BANK TO LOAN MONEY ON APPROVED RISKS

Sums of from $100 to $2,000
to be Loaned at $5 Per $100
Discount Rate for Repair, Alteration.

The machinery for the extension of the benefits of the credit plan of the National Housing Administration for loaning money for repair or modernization of homes of other buildings has been established for the Buchanan and Galien communities through the approval by the national treasury department of the local bank as a suitable financial institution to operate under federal insurance, and the acceptance of the insurance plan by the local Galien-Buchanan State Bank, according to D. W. Ewing, cashier.

All who may be candidates for loans under the plan may inquire for complete details of Mr. Ewing, who has at hand blanks for applications under the several forms of credit offered. The set-up of the National Housing Administration provides that such loans shall be made at a cost to the borrower not to exceed five dollars per $100 of the original note for discount and all services.

It is not necessary that the applicant be a depositor in the bank. All that is required is assurance of ownership and of sufficient income from salary, commissions, business or other source. The income of the applicant must be at least five times the amount of the loans up payment on the notes. Payments will ordinarily be met in equal monthly amounts of not less than $10 per month. No security will be required beyond assurance of income and of a good record in the community. Amounts borrowed may not be less than $100 or more than $2,000.

The entire management of the loans will be in the hands of the Galien-Buchanan State Bank, the government entering the set-up only by insurance of the loans up to 30 per cent of the face of the notes. The government also offers to loan any approved financial institution the face of the note at a less rate of interest than the borrower pays if conditions should require.

The money loaned must be used for the improvement designated, which may be on one-family, two-family or other residences, apartment houses, stores, office buildings, factories, warehouses, farm buildings.

81,988 titles were issued on new vehicles or 83,999 more than for the corresponding seven months in 1933. Two hundred twenty-three thousand four hundred titles were issued on used cars as compared 1524 fewer than last year.

Another interesting fact is the 24 per cent decrease in the number of vehicles that are repossessed. Thus far this year, 5,445 cars were repossessed, being 1,524 fewer than last year.

During the past seven months 845 cars were reported stolen and of this number all but 69 have been reported as recovered. Up to Aug. 1, 1933, a total of 1,114 cars were reported stolen. This decrease in auto thefts is significant when it is realized that 114,398 more vehicles were licensed for operation on Aug. 1 this year.

County Attorney Warns Destroyers of Political Signs

The following clause of Sec. 385, Act 328, of the 1931 law is published at the request of the county prosecutor's office, as the result of complaints from several political candidates of the destruction of their advertisements:

"Any person who shall wilfully tear down, destroy or in any manner deface any signs, bills, or notices on any private lands of this State or on any lots and premises in any township, city, or village shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Providing that such signs, bills, or notices are not in violation of any general law of this State or in this municipal ordinance and were placed by the owner or lessee or by their consent."

Says That Congress Needs More Members Like Geo. Foulkes

I have been watching with considerable interest the activities of Rep. George Foulkes, a member from Michigan. Foulkes' vigor and independence reminds me somewhat of Thomas E. Watson of Georgia. It is refreshing to have such a man as this hard-hitting, plain spoken Michigan Congressman in the house. I take off my hat in sincere respect when a member of Congress gets up on the floor and makes such a statement as this, which Foulkes made recently:

"Therefore, I appeal to every member of this congress and to every citizen generally, to stand firmly for peace, against war, and against the whole infamous machinery of the munitions trust and against the whole infamous conspiracy to plunge us into another war, so that the man can pocket millions and billions of dollars from the blood of their brethren." This bold statement made in the face of hostile listeners and their cohorts in one of the most brilliant speeches ever made on the floor of the house against war, comes along like a breath of sanity from out the middle west. If enough Congressmen would take a similar stand, there will never be another war. If the middle west have any more available like this Congressman, and them along. We need them badly at this time.

Where Violet Came From Although the violet has come to be a symbol for modesty, an old fable relates that it sprang from the "purple" blood of Ajax.

Anchovies in Demand
It is estimated that a single flock of guanays, the bird from which Peru obtains its vast store of guano, consumes in a year anchovies equal to a fourth of the entire catch of the fisheries of the United States.

Cheetah Speedy Animal
There is no way by which the speed of wild animals may be determined for certain, but the cheetah or hunting leopard of Asia and Africa, is generally credited with being the fastest four-footed animal for short distances.

Perfect Clock
For the measurement of time there was supplied, when the earth was created, an almost perfect clock. ROUND ABOUT BUCHANAN

DOES BUCHANAN CARE MORE FOR ITS DEAD THAN ITS YOUNG PEOPLE?

Said a man who is professionally interested in the development of local young people:

"The improvement and maintenance of cemeteries is a proper concern of any community, of course, but what strikes me is that in these relief work allotments selected by the city and endorsed by the county and state it seems easier to get consideration for the dead of Buchanan than it does to get consideration for the living.

"In other words, the minds of the people of Buchanan seem to be put in the cemetery more than in the future of the young people growing up among them. Or if not, why can't we get some provision for watering and caring for the turf on the new gridiron at Athletic Park? Why can't we have the banks of McCoy's creek along the park transformed from unsightly weed patches to scenic assets to the city? Why can't we have two outdoor summer swimming pools at the park, one for the boys and one for the girls? The cost would not be great?

With child labor laws preventing children from working and the amount of time on our hands increasing, we have to face planned supervision for recreation, whether we like it or not. The situation is right with us and it would not be hard to prove that neglect will be more expensive than the necessary provision.

ADVERTISE THE REDBUD TRAIL

Opportunity knocks but once, so the old saying goes, but facts constantly disprove it.

For example opportunity for through highways has knocked at the door of Buchanan in the past and found the city unawake to its interests. But in spite of that fact it seems possible that opportunity is again knocking in the possibilities of the Redbud trail.

The trail is not yet entirely completed although open to traffic. Its advantages as a scenic route surpass the anticipations of its boosters. But of course it is a gravel road, and most of the motoring public are concrete-minded on the subject of roads, and their opinions on the merits of gravel have all the fluidity of set concrete. But last week we rode over the trail to Berrien Springs and returned by an asphalt stone road. We were riding in the back seat and we had a smooth, enjoyable ride over the gravel trail, while we found it necessary to race ourselves from going through the top of the car on our return.

The point of the matter is that if the volume of traffic over the road can be built up; if its scenic beauties are advertised; if its advantages as a cut-off are heralded far and wide, then sooner or later it will be recognized as a major highway and a modern concrete highway will be built, routing thousands of tourists through Buchanan on their way north and south. This is the opinion of the county and state engineers conversant with the road.

Famished Cattle Find Water and Grass

Western cattle branded with the letters of the Emergency Relief administration, after they had been bought by the government from farmers whose farms are now almost waterless, are driven to an island in the middle of the Savannah river, near Augusta, Ga., where there are 300 acres of pasture land. It must feel great to them to get back to water and real green grass again.

INDIAN TOWN OF MOCCASIN NAMED IN TREATY 1828

Number of Villages on Portage Prairie When Indians Were Removed From Mich. in 1833-6

Of the whereabouts of the Pottawatomie Indians in the vicinity of Buchanan immediately before their removal in the Thirties of the last century the accepted histories are not very definite.

At that time most of the Pottawatomie lived in villages on their reservation, comprising parts of the present Bertrand, Buchanan and Niles townships. West of the present site of Bertrand, known anciently as the parc aux vaches (drinking place of the buffalo) was the village of Chief Pokagon. North of Pokagon's village, according to Weissert's history of southwestern Michigan, was the Pottawatomie village of Swopstock, headquarters of Chief Topinabee. On two miles east and near the site of old Fort St. Joseph (Niles), was the village of Match-kee. Near Buchanan, according to Weissert, was the village of Mish-aqua-ka. Weissert says nothing of the traditional village of Chief Moccasin, which is reported to have been on the flats below Moccasin Bluff.

But there is evidence that Moccasin's village was more than a tradition, in the description in the treaty of 1828 of land ceded by the Pottawatomies to the United States government reproduced in Fuller's Beginnings of Michigan, as follows: Beginning at the mouth of St. Joseph of Lake Michigan and thence running up the said river to a point on the said river half-way between La-vache-pisse and Moccasin village; thence in a direct line to nine-tenth mile tree on the northern boundary line of the state of Indiana; thence with the same west to Lake Michigan; thence with the shore of the said lake to the point of beginning.

"Port of Marietta"

Marietta, Ohio, in the first half of last century was a port of clearance where vessels could receive regular papers for a foreign country, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. On one occasion a ship, built at Marietta, traveled from that port to New Orleans and thence to St. Petersburg, Russia. When the naval officers there, examining the papers, saw that the ship had cleared from Marietta, Ohio, they had the captain and his ship seized on the grounds that the papers were a forgery. Procuring with great difficulty a map of the United States, the captain traced his finger up the Mississippi and over the Ohio to the mouth of the Muskingum, where lay the port of Marietta. This satisfied the Russian officials, who released the American and his vessel with apologies and tokens of respect.

Some Never Will Learn

A distinguished naturalist tells of the strangest of all animal and bird migrations. Every four or five years a large number of lemmings, a small rodent, an inhabitant of Norway, treks from north to south, the migration being caused by over-population. Arriving at the south, they plunge headlong, and without apparent rhyme or reason, into the North sea and are drowned in hundreds. Many centuries ago, this part of the sea was dry land, and the rodents have not yet learned that it is sea.

Reclaiming Land in Netherlands

The method of reclaiming land in the Netherlands is called impoldering. This consists in the total enclosure of a marshy area by enclosing dikes. The land thus reclaimed, called a polder, is normally extremely fertile and needs little or no fertilizer. The draining of part of the Zuider Zee, provided in a law of June 14, 1918, is the largest impoldering scheme on record. The first stage added four polders to the country with a total area of about 820 square miles.

South Bend's Industrial Exposition and Fair Aug 15-18

The Industrial Exposition and Fair that is to be held at Playland Park, Aug. 15-18 is receiving very gratifying support from the leading manufacturers, retail stores and general business firms, with the result that the exposition building almost all gone.

A representative display of St. Joseph valley products will be made, including many of a "movable" nature, with machinery in action and work people employed. A central spot of interest in this building will be the outdoor radio broadcasting station installed by WSET-WFAM of the South Bend Tribune, where interesting programs will be sent out over the air direct from the fair grounds at frequent intervals during the afternoon and evening. This central location will also be used for fur fashion displays with living models; a Shirley Temple contest for little girls under six years of age; most closely resembling the favorite child movie star in the opinion of the judges; an old Fiddler's contest for participants over 50 from the surrounding towns and rural districts; a newsboys' harmonica contest for lads from South Bend and Mishawaka, and many other lively and entertaining features.

A number of the best ideas from the county fair have been retained and track events, free acts, balloon ascensions and other outdoor displays will be made attractive every afternoon, while in the evening a wide variety of programs have been arranged in front of the grandstand, including a Military Musical and Song Fest, with the Studebaker male chorus of 50 voices, the Bremen high school band of 65, drum corps, soloists, and a colored chorus. On two evenings, Thursday and Friday, a spectacular pantomime of good cheer will be staged with sham battles, comedy interludes and an elaborate display of fireworks.

Objects to City Restriction on Auto Speed Rate

August 14, 1934
To the Editor of Berrien County Record.

Dear Sir: In last week's issue of the Record I read an account of the new traffic regulations for Buchanan 15 miles per hour for the business section and 20 miles for the residence districts. Passage by the City Council has enacted this as a law. In my opinion I think it is a rather unnecessary restriction. A man walking can make five miles an hour and a horse traveling lively could cover a short distance at a 15 mile gait. Under the new ruling a man would be exempt from violation and the horse might be liable to arrest. This would be unfair to the horse since he cannot read the signs on the pavement. I believe that more people get bumped on the sidewalk on band concert night than the number that are involved in vehicle collisions in a whole year.

I would abandon all stop signs in our city with the exception of those at the intersections of Front street and Terre Coupe and Main and Portage streets. In large cities where traffic is a hundred times more dense, one would be chased off the street unless he made 25 or better miles per hour.

The council made a decided improvement when they passed an order abandoning the stop and go signals at Oak and Front and Portage and Front. The only reminder that such signs did exist at a former time is the feeble light from the insipid and pale yellow bull's-eye which many strangers in our city mistake for some kind of a nest for birds. I would be in favor of knocking out the glass and let the birds have it. Then the stranger would be justified in his suspicions.

I think the traffic officer should be retained and arrest all violators of careful driving, and I mean everybody who in the opinion of the officers is guilty. Not to exempt the favored and punish those who are so unfortunate as not to be included in that class.

Of course, some of you will say that we must have a speed law in order to establish a case of violation but I think that charging the accused of reckless driving would be sufficient for our justices to impose a fine.

No town or city is very popular which has a lot of "Don'ts". Every driver and pedestrian should exercise judgment and care and if the City of Buchanan will credit the great majority of its citizens and visitors with common sense and sound manners I think we will become known as a city of liberality and not restrictions.

Respectfully,

William M. Mathis

NILES, MICH.

CASS COUNTY PIONEER DESCRIBES HOW THE POTTAWATOMIES LIVED AND WORKED IN MICH. 100 YRS. AGO

Manners and Dress of Natives is Described; Also Characters of Leading Chiefs.

Last week the Record published the first part of a history and description of the Pottawatomies, the aborigines of this district.

The selection printed ended with the relation of the progressive degradation of the Indians by the traders, who took advantage of their weakness for whiskey. The debauchery of the Indians came to be a recognized part of the business of trading with them, the more reputable trading companies complaining that they were driven to it by the tactics of competitors. Whiskey was a main factor in the bargain driven by the whites in trading the Indians out of their last retreat here, the fertile stretches of Portage Prairie.

The story, written by A. B. Copley, a former resident of Cass Co. in pioneer days and a member of the state legislature from that county:

Indian Life
The writer's experience, except in the summer camp above referred to, recalls no such instance of debauchery. The Indians came in families, rarely more than two or three together, made their camps, hunted, fished, picked berries, and traded venison, berries, tanned deer skins and moccasins for salt, potatoes, flour, pork and bread. They were, however, inveterate beggars, teasing for bread and other food for themselves and papooses, and generally, when sober, sharp at a bargain. The bargaining was conducted mostly by signs and by certain words or phrases as "white man," "Indian," "deer," "venison," "corn," "flour," "pork," "bread," "shilling," "good," "bad" and a few others comprised the vocabulary of trade, numbers being computed by holding up the fingers and hands. There was never much difficulty in making a trade, although the Indians were often supposed to understand the language of the whites better than they pretended, in order to profit by the communications of the whites with each other. They were friendly and hunted and fished with the whites on the best of terms, always strictly honorable in the laws of the woods, any game taken in partnership being divided equally except for the skin, which went to the hunter who wounded the game first, though ever so slightly. If a bee tree was found in the spring and the finder wished it to remain there until there should be an accumulation of honey, a simple chipping of the bark preserved the right of discovery intact, and no charge of theft was ever laid to an Indian, though the tree was miles from the owner's home.

The squaws did the work, planting the corn, cultivating it and caring for it, dressing the skins, getting the wood, doing the camp work, making cord from some preparation of bark, and gathering rushes to weave into mats for covering their wigwam or making beds. The Indian bucks in camp were generally smoking, cleaning their rifles, drying their clothes or moccasins, as the rains, dews and swamps made this vocation almost a necessity. Dogs were common generally a small, thin, cowardly set of curs, and if a fat dog made a rare Indian feast, as is claimed, then they must have had

To the Republicans of the 4th District:

Two years ago you made a change. Berrien county elected the present Democratic Congressman. You are sick of what you got.

If you buy clothing, groceries, anything, you try to get your money's worth. If you hire a man, woman, doctor or lawyer, you seek someone who can do the job, who will give you value for the money you pay.

Too often you select a Congressman because he wants a job, is a member of some political ring, has been in office long enough to get these strenuous times. You want a man who will work for you. With all due respect to the other candidates, conceding their honesty and their good intentions, his friends know that Clare E. Hoffman can give you the best service. This is conceded throughout the district. But the politicians say, "He doesn't belong to our faction in the party and perhaps we can get some political advantage by nominating someone else."

That may be fine for them, but what you want is service. That is what he has to offer. Thirty years of successful operation of his own business, serving his clients, a profound respect for our Constitution, sincere belief in religion, faith in our Government, common sense and ability, coupled with the willingness and desire to work and to be known as a servant of the people, who can accomplish something leads to the conviction that, if not stated, he will put on a fight, and don't be fooled it will be a fight to elect every Republican candidate in the District, and at Washington, represent you and not the politicians. He will make the Best Republican Congressional candidate at the November election.

few in Michigan. Indian ponies were their main beasts of burden, the squaws next. These ponies were small and all seemed to have their work to do. The older ponies would be almost buried under camp equipage, with a squaw on top, and even yearlings would carry a boy or girl. One or two of the leading ponies wore a bell which was stuffed with leaves while on the march, but in camp the leaves were removed and the ponies hobbled, which was done by tying the fore feet together loosely with bark.

These ponies were a comparatively new acquisition to the Indians. The early French explorers never wrote of them, and it is supposed that they were first introduced to the Indians by the spoils of Braddock's defeat in 1755, as the Mexican Indians obtained theirs from Cortez. The hardships of winter exposure and poor feed gradually changed the high-bred English horse to the dwarf pony of the Indians.

There were exceptions to the allotment of the camp work solely to the squaws. One afternoon in October two Indians about thirty years of age passed my father's house on foot, going into the woods south of where Nicholsville is now, which woods were then a dense forest from eight to fifteen miles in extent without habitation. They had blankets, a camp kettle and rifles and were accompanied by several dogs. From the firing heard from day to day we knew that they were camped within a mile or two. About a week from the time of their arrival they came from the woods without the dogs or camp fixtures. The next day being Sunday, the frontiersman's holiday, my brother and myself went to their camp which we readily found on the main trail, about a mile distant. The dogs made pretense of defense at a distance but ran to the woods on our approach. The Indians had killed six or seven deer and built scaffolding of poles on which was the venison, cut up into pieces about an inch square and strung on strings of bark, like apples, to dry, above the reach of the dogs, showing that they had employed their time diligently. In two days they returned with ponies and got their jerked venison. It is claimed by some writers that Indians used discretion in regard to the game, hunting in one locality one season and not repeating the visit for several years to permit the game supply to recover, but I do not think this was true of the Pottawatomies. At the time I write of, they were accustomed to come yearly and even to kill game when out of condition, as for instance they decoyed wild turkeys in the spring at pairing time, when they readily came within reach of the rifle at the counterfeit call of the hunter. A more cruel practice was by means of a reed instrument by which they could successfully imitate the cries of a fawn in distress and thereby lure a mother deer which had fawns hidden near by, so that she perished by the rifle and the fawn by starvation. Having often heard the Indian hunter, I imitated the sound one day while driving cattle from the woods at the proper season and was surprised not to say frightened at the result. A doe came rushing through the brush, her hair turned forward, indicating attack, making a frantic rush to release the supposed captured fawns.

Speaking of the reed instrument used for decoying deer reminds me of a similar one used by a young chief, producing a monotonous plaintive flute-like tone which was supposed to fascinate the dusky bells of the forest. We often read of "Laughing Water," "Star of the Sky" and the other nymphs of the woodland glades, with the step of a fawn, neck of a swan and eyes of a gazelle, dressed in robes of the richest furs trimmed with the plumage of rare birds, moccasins gaily decked with porcupine quills and colored with the brightest dyes. These existed mainly in the brain of the poet or novelist as there's not many in existence. I remember but one and she was dressed in calico, and some of her brilliant beauty was evidently owed to a remote friend ancestor. The squaws were usually dressed in blue broadcloth leggings with fringes, perhaps one and a half inches wide on the outside of either limb; a blue figured domestic calico short gown over which was worn a blanket unless it was in warm weather. On their feet they wore moccasins of dressed deer skins. The blanket was supported by a belt at times, especially if there was a papoose a year or two old who rode on the back of the mother inside of the blanket. If the child was young it was strapped to a board and hung on the back of a belt over the mother's forehead. The hair was wound up on a chip two inches square and fastened just back of the head; another style consisted of a braid hung down the back. If the weather was inclement the blanket was brought up over the head, otherwise there was no head covering. The carrying strap was an indispensable article of female use, it consisted of leather four to six feet in length, two inches broad at the center where it crossed the forehead, the remainder being about an inch broad for convenience in tying up the immense packs of household goods or other articles to be moved. The Indians wore leggings, moccasins, a calico shirt, generally of light color when new at least, the leggings were generally of light colored blanket cloth, the fringes of the colored border seen on Mackinac balmkies. A blanket was bolted at the waist and worn loose over the shoulders. In the belt were carried a knife (protected by a leather sheath) and a small axe or tomahawk, which depended from the right shoulder, there hung on the left side the powder horn, charger and bullet pouch containing bullets, bullet moulds, bullet starter, patch cloth, and extra flints for flint locks were in common use, and any other needed extras for the chase, also not forgetting pipe and tobacco. On the head was invariably worn a large colored cotton handkerchief, wrapped around somewhat in turban style. This dress, with a rifle across the shoulder, whose lock was protected from dampness with a fox squirrel skin, completed the costume. Sometimes a feather or two was added, especially if the party was high in rank.

Topinabee, the head chief before mentioned, had other chiefs under him, the principal of whom were Pokagon, Weesaw and Shavehead. Pokagon was a relative of Topinabee by marriage, his wife being a niece. His headquarters were near the prairie named after him. He was exempted from the removal of the Indians and went to Silvercreek township, where he died in August, 1840. Weesaw was more nearly related to Topinabee than Pokagon, having married his daughter. He had two other wives but the princess was the favorite. She had the place of honor and walked next to him in the rear, the other wives followed her whenever they visited the whites. Hon. George B. Turner describes him as being every inch a king, tall, stately and dignified, fond of ornament his leggings being bordered with little bells, his head adorned by a brilliant turban, his waist bound like a sash, while on his breast he wore a huge silver amulet, kept very bright, and heavy rings of silver depended from his nose and ears. He had a village near Niles, also at a later period in Volinia township on the Buell farm.

Shavehead was a different man from either of the others, being much older. He had participated in many battles and had a settled hatred of the whites. His home was in the southeastern part of Cass County on a prairie of that name. Many incidents are related of his vindictiveness. Claiming his right as a proprietor of the soil he levied tribute at a ferry of the St. Joseph river at Motville. At other times he took property such as he wanted, without pay, until the settlers chastised him for it, and although law-abiding thereafter, he was always morose and sullen. He is currently reported that he had ninety-nine white men's tongues strung on bark and meant to have the hundredth before he died. The writer saw him frequently. What hair he had was drawn tightly together upward and tied with a string, making a tuft on top of his head with sometimes a feather or two inserted.

When only women and children were at home he enforced his demands for food by laying his hands on the knife in his belt. The first time I met him he carried an old rifle. Within a year or so his rifle had been reamed out and was termed a smooth bore, using either ball or shot. Not long afterward his smoothbore had been exchanged for a shotgun and a dead partridge firm and it could be seen that he was but the shadow of the proud chieftain of other days. On his last appearance to my recollection the shotgun was gone and in its place he carried a bow and arrow; begging his food and shooting at pennies in a cleft stick, the coin to be his if he hit it. He had a faraway look that seemed to reach back to childhood days when he roamed the woods without restriction from the hated paleface. Or else he might have thought of the wild battle scenes of the warpath trod by him in youth. The writer once saw him when he was recalling such events. He and two French traders were sharing the hospitality of my father's cabin. They were talking to him in his own language and he was telling them of old battles he had passed through. I could understand only the later interpretations of the traders but by significant gestures he acted out with flashing eyes the chase, the surprise, the struggle and the triumphant result. His death like his life, is shrouded in mystery, the subject of legend.

One story runs thus: He had a white friend, a hunter, who lived near him on Shavehead prairie, and they hunted together. After a time Shavehead told another settler that the deer were getting scarce, not enough for both and that either he or his white companion must go. The white hunter heard it and interpreted it as meaning that either he or Shavehead must go to the Happy Hunting Grounds. On the next occasion when they hunted together the white man returned alone.

Another story is this: The island on Diamond Lake was first purchased and occupied by a hermit named Jacob Wright who fished, hunted, trapped, made baskets and farmed a little. He was known as the basket maker and little also was known about him, except stories that he had been a soldier, a sailor, had lost his fortune, been disappointed in love, etc. One afternoon he was in Cassopolis disposing of his wares and making necessary purchases. He had concluded his business and was about to leave when his attention was attracted by a street group, in the center of which was an Indian partially drunk, gesticulating violently in the rehearsal of some tragic exploits on the war path. The hair on the back of his head was shaved and his appearance caused the basketmaker to linger. Hearing the word Chicago he pressed closer and paid strict attention to a recital which he evidently understood, of the brutal massacre of the garrison of United States troops at Fort Dearborn, together with women and children after they surrendered and abandoned the fort and were a mile and a half on their way to Fort Wayne in accordance with the terms of the surrender.

The Indian warmed up to his subject, forgetful of his audience, told the fearful tale with all its horrors, and when he boasted of his proud achievements, even to braining of innocent children clinging to their mothers' knees, striking down their mothers and then with reeking hands, tearing their scalps from their heads even before death had ended their sufferings, the hermit started and muttered with compressed lips: "It is now I thought it was at first, and now I know it is for certain." He involuntarily took his gun from his shoulder but then paused, evidently changing his mind, and listened carefully as it seemed, while carefully watching the Indian's further movements.

Just before sundown the old brave left the village and the old soldier, a survivor of the massacre as we now know him to have been, silently took the trail of the red man, with his gun off his shoulder resting in the hollow of his left arm, and with the right hand clasped about the lock and forefinger, toying restlessly with the trigger. The last rays of the setting sun from the west bank of Stone lake cast lengthening shadows of their forms, red man and white alike. But it never did so again. It was a common remark in the village that Shavehead had not been seen or heard since that afternoon.

There is another less romantic story which runs thus: The old chief, enfeebled by age and worn out by toil and poverty was taken sick on the old DePeew farm within two or three miles of Four Mile lake, where he was cared for by the Indians and treated professionally by the late Dr. Andrews of Paw Paw. He finally died and was buried in a hollow log in the woods, where one dark night Dr. Clapp trod by him in youth. The writer once saw him when he was recalling such events. He and two French traders were sharing the hospitality of my father's cabin. They were talking to him in his own language and he was telling them of old battles he had passed through. I could understand only the later interpretations of the

State Keeps Tab of Fish Catch of Indian Lake, Cass

Relative to the problem of maintaining the supply of fish in the lakes of Michigan the department has the following to say in a bulletin recently released:

On the opening day of the lake season on Indian lake, Cass County, a small body of water comprising 660 acres, 68 persons were checked. They had caught 839 blue gills, 38 bass, 29 sunfish and 114 perch, a total of 1,020 fish. On this basis, the conservation officers declared that an average of 15 fish per person would give a total catch of 4,500 fish on that lake on that one day.

It goes without saying that such a demand calls for adequate measures to meet it. Funds provided by a general fishing license of 50 cents and non-resident fees are applied to this work. Due to a liberal policy of low non-resident rates, Michigan is attracting a larger number of out-of-state visitors.

The technical side of fish culture as, indeed, of all conservation, has developed a new science and a new profession. The department turns this work over to the Institute for Fisheries Research, a department of the school of conservation, University of Michigan. The relation of food supplies and of living conditions to the number of fish in a given stream of water or lake can support has been found to be important. The old practice of dumping fish into every piece of water regardless of its suitability for that species, is undergoing a radical change and under the new approach.

It has been found that streams can be improved by overflow dams, water deflectors, log jams properly placed to provide hideouts and similar devices. Sand can be automatically removed from gravel spawning beds by water control and food supplies increased. These ideas actually permit a greatly increased fish population on a given stretch of stream. In lakes similar adaptable methods have been found equally efficacious. Study of food supplies in each lake give important results and explain why fish are lacking or small or do not do well. Introduction of missing elements is thus possible. A lake and stream survey is an important necessity to make stocking efficient and not wasteful. Waters have been found containing too many fish, strange as that may seem, because the popular conception is that is impossible.

Michigan has some of the largest, best developed and most interesting as a curio in the collection of the pioneers of Van Buren county.

Would You?

Let a blacksmith repair your watch? Certainly not, you would take the watch to a skilled watch repairman, who makes watch repairing a business.

portant hatcheries in the world. With over 50 acres of ponds the Wolf Lake, newest and most modern of all fish hatcheries, located near Paw Paw, provides not only bass and blue gills, but trout in wholesale quantities. Similarly Thompson in the upper peninsula is a trout hatchery on a production basis equivalent to the automobile factories. Others are equally modern and efficient.

Michigan has made excellent use of labor provided under the welfare bodies, advancing its facilities for fish propagation fully 10 years ahead of its original program. The exact amount of this assistance has amounted to $280,000 for wages and salaries for 463,480 man hours of employment; $19,475.58 for teams, trucks and equipment, and $30,469.62 for material, a total of nearly $400,000 over and above all legislative appropriations or license collections invested in Michigan's plants for the preservation of inland fishing.

Speaker Rainey, Speaker National House Representative Comments on Congressman Foulkes

Carrollton, Illinois, August 2, 1934.

Mr. W. W. Holbrook, Wayland, Michigan.

My Dear Mr. Holbrook:

I am in receipt of your letter inquiring as to the record of Congressman George Foulkes of Michigan.

In reply, I desire to say that out of 25 test votes selected by the Speaker, Congressman Foulkes has voted with the Administration and in support of the House leadership on every vote except as to the matters in which soldiers were interested and on those matters he voted for the soldiers. This is not held against him, however. Many Democratic members of Congress voted as he did in this particular. His record as a supporter of the Administration is considered excellent and is among the very best.

Congressman Foulkes has been assigned to the Committee on Agriculture and this is a committee in which his state is particularly interested. He is rendering splendid service on this committee. The Committee on Agriculture is considered so important that Democratic members of Congress who are assigned to it are not permitted to serve on any other committee. The service of Congressman Foulkes is characterized by intense loyalty to his district and his state. He has made rapid progress in Congress and is popular with colleagues. His earnestness and energy have won for him the respect of his colleagues. He is frequently consulted by the House leaders on matters of policy.

Very truly yours,
Henry T. Rainey

Business Management

AT A time when business management and trade practices are under critical examination and much is being said to reform, it is well to consider what constitutes sound business management, what are the qualities which lead to success.

Business management expresses certain qualities of thinking. Every business or trade policy,
whether of local or far-reaching effect, is first formulated in thought before it can be given expression in the conduct of business affairs. It is essentially mental in origin and nature. The merchant, executive, or board of directors has in thought some method to pursue or object to attain.
The policy or practice evolved is directly the product of the kind of thinking which has formulated it;
hence the importance of carefully choosing the right mental qualities, thus making use of the power for good which they express, instead of the unsatisfactory and unreliable qualities of narrow and selfish thinking.

Honesty is plainly an essential quality in the councils of sound business management. If honesty is expressed, the business will be founded on a rock that can never be shaken under investigation.
Honesty has nothing to hide and nothing to hide from. This quality of thought helps one to know what is the right thing to do, and when to do it, and does not change with the shifting winds of argument. It is respected by all right-thinking people, and it carries within itself the law of its own success. By contrast, dishonesty, even in a degree, is foolish and futile. "Provide things honest in the sight of all men," counseled Paul, who was well qualified to write on sound rules for business.

Justice is another distinctly desirable quality which insures fair dealing with all, under all circumstances. It never misleads, and does not permit false impressions to go abroad. It takes into account the interest of all concerned and establishes for those who exercise it a permanent reputation for trustworthiness. Justice does not risk the future for an unfair temporary advantage, and avoids questionable alliances. It leads men to mind their own business, and mind it well, and to enjoy the fruits of their work. By contrast, injustice and greed are poor substitutes to intrust with the management of any business.

Obedience to law is another of the qualities of true wisdom. Much complaint is heard today of restrictive and regulatory legislation. The obedient business man, moral and legislative, would unquestionably result in less need for legislation. In any event, obedience to law will make for a sound business management, while arbitrary disobedience is never a sign of wise management.

If in the thinking of those concerned faith in the right, thoroughness, peace, courtesy, constructive vision, courage, and joy
are combined with honesty, justice, and obedience to law, business management is certain to be in good hands. These qualities of thought carry the positive force of true wisdom. "Against such there is no law."

Christ Jesus, while still young,
was about his Father's business.
The Master knew well that, whatever form or organization it might have in human activity, true business is always the expression of God, infinite Mind. He taught the groundwork of sound business. He stressed love for God and man as the first requirement. He gave the rule that needs no further law or supplement: "All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them."
He gave also the unending business forecast, based on that rule:
"With the same measure that ye meted out, it shall be measured to you again."

Christian Science is again teaching and demonstrating the divine rules of life which the Master laid down for the permanent good of mankind. Many thousands of men and women today are finding their lives enriched and blessed.

by the earnest study and application of his Science of Christ, or Truth. This finding it applicable to every manner of problem.

In the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mary Baker Eddy has written (p. 128):
"The term Science, properly understood, refers only to the laws of God and to His government of the universe, inclusive of man.
From this it follows that business men and cultured scholars have found that Christian Science enhances their endurance and mental powers, enlarges their perception of character, gives them ac-cuteness and comprehensiveness and an ability to exceed their ordinary capacity." Wherever it touches human life, Christian Science broadens men's vision and reveals ways and means of attaining good by doing good—of attaining right results by doing right; and thus achieves the only real success which can ever withstand the buffetings of economic cycles. It teaches a strict observance of true law, for it is only in accordance with the spiritual laws of God that anything truly worthy and enduring can be established and sustained.

Mrs. Eddy sounds the call to a new, yet old, dispensation among men when she says (ibid., p. vii):
"The time for thinkers has come.
Truth, independent of doctrines and time-honored systems, knocks at the portal of humanity."—The Christian Science Monitor.

Liszt, Great Composer, Gave Wealth to Charity

Franz Liszt, the great composer, was born in Raiding, Hungary, October 22, 1811, and evinced such talent at an early age that several nobles undertook to finance his musical education. He was instructed by Czerny, Salieri and his father, and appeared in Vienna at the age of eleven, when Beethoven set the seal of approval on his performance. In France he was hailed as "Lits," la Nouvelle Merveille du Monde. In France, where he heard the violinist, Paganini, he was fired with a desire to emulate at the piano his technical brilliance, and succeeded. In France, also, he met Chopin, Berlioz and Mme. La Comtesse d'Angoulême, his intimate friend and mother of his three children. From 1838 to 1848 he enjoyed a series of phenomenal artistic successes in all parts of the world.

Liszt dispensed his wealth with generosity, not only in the name of charity, but in such gestures as paying for the completion of the statue of Beethoven at Bonn when work was discontinued because of lack of funds. When he retired from the concert stage in 1848 he devoted his time to teaching, conducting, writing and composing. He had some 300 private pupils, among them some of the most illustrious pianists of the day. He conducted the opera at Weimar, seizing every opportunity to introduce new works. His motto was "First place to the living," and consequently he produced Wagner's "Lohengrin," "Flying Dutchman" and "Tannhauser." Berlioz's "Benvenuto Cellini," Weber's
"Euryanthe," Schumann's "Man-
fred," and many others. He died at the Wagner festival in Bayreuth July 13, 1886, while visiting his daughter Cosima.

Columbian Exposition Coins

There were five million fifty-cent pieces struck for the Columbian exposition in 1893. The plan was to sell them for one dollar apiece to help in financing the fair. A disappointingly small number was sold as mementoes at this price, so it was necessary to use them at face value to meet obligations.

Christian Science Churches
"Soul" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, Aug. 19.

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Pa. 42:5): "Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope thou in God; for I shall yet praise him for the help of his countenance."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following
(p. 322): "When understanding changes the standpoints of life and intelligence from a material to a spiritual basis, we shall gain the reality of Life, the control of Soul
over sense, and we shall perceive Christianity, or truth, in its divine Principle."

Seventh Day Adventist Sabbath School (Saturday) at 10 a. m. Lesson study: "Parallels between the Exodus and the Advent Movement."
Note: As the exodus movement came about in the fulfillment of prophecy, so also the advent movement has come in fulfillment of the prophecy. Rev. 14:6-9. Dan. 8:14.
The priestly service of the typical sanctuary in ancient Israel closed with the "cleansing" of the sanctuary on the last day of the ritual year. It was the yearly hour of judgment for all the camp of Israel. Lev. 23:29.

The yearly round of service in the earthly sanctuary was a "shadow" of Christ's priestly work in the heavenly sanctuary. Heb. 8: 5.
Therefore the heavenly service
must close with the "cleansing" of the sanctuary, the work of the Judgment hour described in Daniel 7:9, 10. Counting from the autumn of 457 B. C., when the decree of Artaxerxes to restore and build Jerusalem was forth, the 2300 years would end in the autumn of 1844. Dan. 8:14, 9:25. And as the appointed time of 1844 brought the opening of the judgment hour
in heaven above, the world-wide advent movement was rising on earth carrying to all nations the message, "The hour of His Judgment is come." Rev. 14:7.

4 TEAMS BATTLE FOR TOP AS CITY LEAGUE NEARS END

Clarks, Hollywood, D's Cafe and Ramblers have Chance For Place in Finals

This week-end sees two games of utmost importance to the fortunes of the four leading teams in the Buchanan Softball league, Clarks, Hollywood, D's Cafe and the Riverside Ramblers, who are lined up in that order as the league negotiates its semi-final week of play in its present 14-week schedule.

The games that will prove of most interest to the followers of the sport here are the game on Thursday night between the league-leading Clarks and the second-place Hollywoods and the tilt Friday night between the D's and Ramblers, in third and fourth place, respectively.

Thursday's game will find Fredling of the Clarks and Proud of the Hollywoods hooking up in a pretty pitching battle. On Friday night there will be a pitching duel that is promised to be equally as interesting when Heckathorne of D's and Zimmerman of the Ramblers clash.

The Ramblers can expect no better than fourth place, regardless of the outcome of the week-end games, but should Clarks lose, Hollywood would go into a first-place tie with the factory crew. A victory by Clarks and D's would put the latter in a second-place tie with Hollywood and put Clarks out in front by three games.

Tonight, the Clowns play Cities Service and tomorrow night the o'cwoys and Bradley's Hair Trimmers tangle. All four teams are in the second division. All these league games will be played at Athletic park, and also on Wednesday night the Cities Service and Cowboys teams will play off a postponed game.

The following is the standing of the local softball league teams at the end of the 12th week's play Saturday:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Clarks	8	2	.813
Hollywoods	8	2	.727
D's Cafe	8	4	.667
Ramblers	6	5	.545
Cowboys	5	6	.455
Hair Trimmers	4	8	.333
Cities Service	3	7	.300
Clowns	2	10	.167

Wheelmakers Turn Back Charge of Biscuit Shooters

Ray Babcock's fast-stepping Clark River street team is sitting comfortably in first place, two full games ahead of the Hollywood Theater entry, as the Buchanan softball league entered the semi-final week of its 14-week schedule Monday.

The Clarks maintained its lead by turning back the thrust of the second-place D's Cafe last Friday night, with the aid of invincible pitching by Glenn Jesse, who allowed but two hits and struck out seven batters to shut out the D's 5 to 0. The defeat sent the D's team back into third place, a game behind the Hollywoods, which prior to Friday's game had been tied for second place with the D's. The Clarks batted out 10 hits, including three-baggers by Jesse and Myer, off Lawrence Heckathorne, D's pitcher, to make the game a walk-away for the equipment company team. The only hit off Jesse were singles in the third and fifth respectively, by Al and Ed and Batchelor. The Clarks had one big inning, the fourth, when three hits, two walks and an infield error gave the Clarks three of their five runs. A run was also scored in each of the first and second frames.

On Monday of last week, the Hollywoods collected 15 hits off the combined pitching of Fabiano and Juhl to defeat the Clowns, 19 to 1. The Clowns solved Proud's pitching efforts for five hits but the team made nine errors.

On Tuesday night, Cities Service, with Brewster allowing eight hits, four of which were bunched in the sixth to not the losers all three of their runs, turned back the Bradley Hair Trimmers, 6 to 6. The Service team maced Sammy Marrs, barber pitcher, for five blows in the second to bring in all of Cities Service runs.

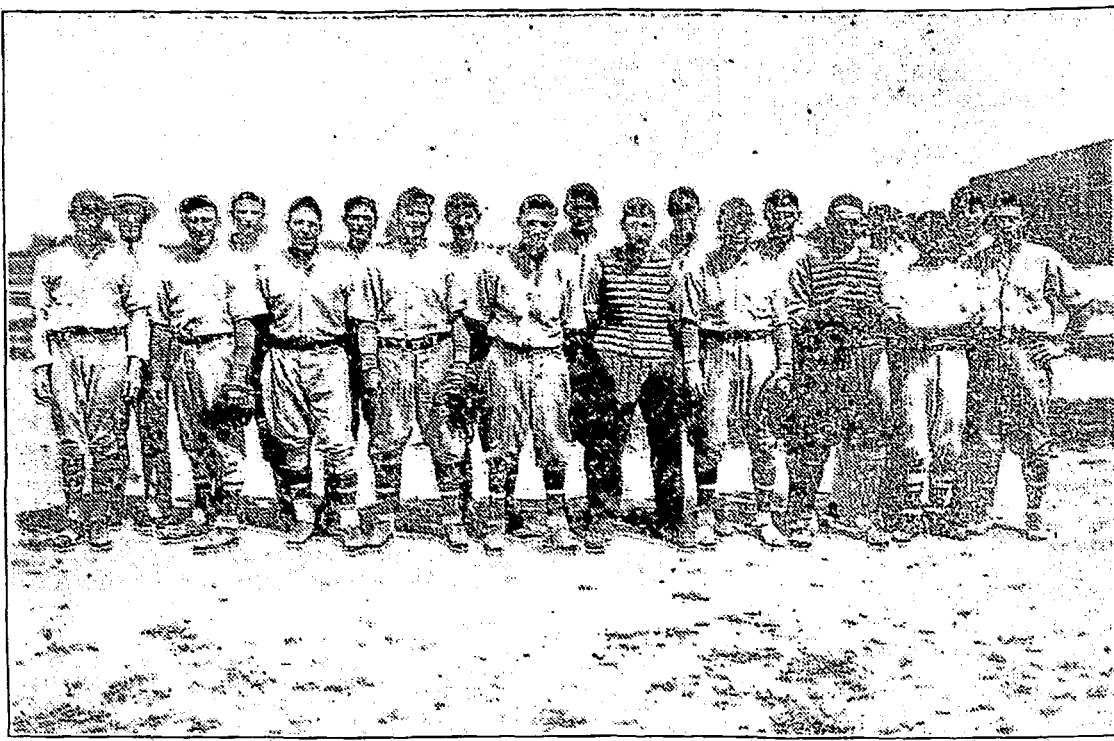

On Thursday night, Seals, Niles importation making his first start for the Riverside Ramblers, allowed but six scattered hits and struck out 10 men to defeat the Cowboys, 9 to 6. The Ramblers found Jim "Lefty" Ellis for nine clean hits, but seven errors by his teammates was largely responsible for Ellis' defeat.

The feature game of the week, notwithstanding Clark's victory over the strong D team, was the meeting Wednesday night of the Cities Service and Hollywood Theater crews, the playoff of a postponed game.

It was a pretty pitchers' battle between Pete Sinner of the Service team and Proud of the Hollywoods, both speedball pitchers. At the end of the regulation seven innings the game was tied up in a scoreless deadlock and went into extra innings. In the ninth, Bachman, walked, stole second, took third on a wild pitch and scored the only run of the game on a single by Harkider.

Sinner allowed but two hits, and both of those came in the ninth and were successive singles by Howard and Harkider. Proud allowed but three hits, Reed making two, one in the second and the other in the eighth, and Fuller drawing a single through second in the fourth. Sinner struck out five batters and Proud three. It was undoubtedly the best game played here this season.

The score by innings:
Hollywood 000 000 001—1 2 2
Cities Service 000 000 000—0 3 1
Batteries—Proud and Savoldi; Sinner and Hawkes. Umpires—Simpson and Dokey.

Merry Buchanan Co-Ops Drive the Black Clouds Away

The Buchanan Co-Ops again indulged in their favorite pastime of slaughtering Hoosier ball teams at the Letcher diamond Sunday, by pounding the Ajax aggregation from the darktown section of South Bend all over the neighboring farmsteads and sending them home on the small end of an 18 to 2 score. The game proved first-class batting practice for the contest to be held against the Lyddick nine next Sunday at the Letcher diamond. The Lyddicks are one of two Hoosier outfits that have turned back the Co-Ops this season and the latter will see what can be done about it next Sunday. Come out and see a hot ball game.

The score sheet read:

Clowns Clown Out a Win Over Cities Service

Every once in a while the Clowns, tail-end team in the Buchanan softball league, play a red-hot game, and Monday night was one of those occasions. The team was clicking and defeated Cities Service, 6 to 3, thanks to a home run by Walter Pfingst, Clown catcher, which scored two runs ahead of him after Dreitzler had tripled to open the seventh and last inning and had scored the tying run.

Pfingst's hit was a long drive to deep center and Koscow and Boyce, both outfielders, had previously singled, ambled home ahead of the fleet Clown catcher.

The Cities Service team offered tough resistance. The Service team scored one in the first and the Clowns came back in their half of the inning and scored two. In the third, V. Corners, Cities Service pitcher, on base by virtue of Shortstop Max Smith's error, scored on French's double to tie the score at 2-2. The Service team scored one more in the fourth and maintained a 3-2 lead until the rally of the Clowns in the ninth which netted the latter four runs and the ball game.

A most remarkable coincidence in Monday's game was the fact that no man on either team, was retired by the strike-out route. This sets a record here in the more than twelve weeks of local league play as there has been no game played here previously this season in which not a single batter struck out.

The score by innings:
Clowns 200 000 4—6 9 2
Service 101 100 0—3 9 3
Batteries: Fabiano and Pfingst; V. Corners and Hawkes. Umpires, Dokey and Simpson.

ARROWS MAINTAIN VICTORY MARCH IN GAME SUNDAY

Win From Elkhart Servols 14-5 in Ninth Straight Win Arrows Star in All Departments of the Game

The Buchanan Arrows, back of the sterling pitching of Glenn Jesse, who allowed but eight hits and struck out eight men, had an easy time defeating the Elkhart Servols, 14 to 5, Sunday afternoon at Athletic park. It was the Arrows ninth straight victory, and their 18th win in 17 starts.

Jesse held the opposition scoreless and hitless the first four innings. In the fifth Elkhart got its first run as the result of double steal, in which Gay, shortstop came home when they played on Elkhart, who pilfered second. Elkhart got a single in each of the sixth and seventh, but in the eighth had a big inning, scoring five runs on as many hits and three errors. However, in the ninth the temporary scare of the eighth was but a memory and the side was retired in order.

Buchanan scored single runs in the second and fifth and a brace of counters in each of the fourth and eighth. But, in the sixth, the Arrows had a big scoring session, scoring eight runs on three hits, two mechanical errors and several battery misplays. A feature of the inning was Ellis' triple to deep right with the bases full. Thirteen men batted before the side was retired.

"Sensational fielding plays were turned in by three Buchanan players, Jackie Schneider, Dellinger and Steiler.

The Arrows will play the Glenwood Independents, the same team they defeated a week ago in an overtime battle, next Sunday at Glenwood, near Dowagiac.

The score by innings:
Arrows -- 000 215 024—14 11 3
Servols -- 000 010 050—6 8 6
Batteries—Jesse and A. Topash; Weaver and Menhart, Kilmer.
Umpires—Reyback, Buchanan, at the plate; Gay, Elkhart, first base; Mangold, Buchanan, second and third bases.

"Deeds, Buchanan shortstop, kept up his hitting stride started a week ago at Glenwood in Sunday's game he got a double and two singles out of four times up. A. Topash, Buchanan catcher, hit two doubles.

Niles Kawneers Defeat Buchanan All-Stars 7 to 4

The Kawneers, one of Niles' best softball teams, clubbed out twelve hits off the combined pitching of Zimmerman and Sherburn to defeat the Buchanan All Stars Monday night at Liberty Heights park, 7 to 4.

Dittmar, on the mound for the Kawneers, allowed but six scattered hits, was invincible in pinches and yielded not more than one hit in an inning until the ninth when Buchanan staged what appeared to be a winning rally. After Corkhouse, batting for Weaver, All Star third baseman, had fanned to open the ninth, Batten singled through short and scored when Wynn tripled to deep right center. Wynn was thrown out at the plate in attempting to stretch the triple into a home run. The Buchanan team protested the decision at home, claiming that Catcher Korman failed to touch Wynn as he crossed the plate. Sherburn, the next batter, ended the game by flying out to Villwork at third.

The Kawneers had a big inning in the eighth, scoring three runs on five hits. There were plenty of sensational fielding plays on both sides, but outstanding among the spectacular plays afield were a summersault catch in center field by Schmidt who fell in making a shoestring catch, coming up with the ball and thereby robbing Rothfuchs, Buchanan second baseman, of a hit, and a thrilling stop by Weaver, All Star, third baseman, of Lynd's hard hit ground ball in the

Earl L. Burhans, Paw Paw, representative in the state legislature from Van Buren county since 1930, and now in the race for the Republican candidacy for Congressman from the Fourth Michigan Congressional District, now held by George Foulkes, spoke during the band concert here Wednesday evening.

Atty. Burhans received the respectful attention of several hundred people massed about the bandstand. He advocated that no real prosperity can be effected until the farmers again receive an adequate price for their products, contending that the buying power of the nation rested with the agricultural group and that general industry could only succeed when the farmers' buying power was restored. He contended that there would have to be government stabilization of prices of certain essential farm products so the farmer would receive cost of production plus a reasonable profit. In this list of essential farm products he mentioned the grain, cotton, and wool crops of the country as being necessary to the happiness of the people in peace times as well as in war times. He further advocated better treatment of Veterans, contending they should have preferred and privileged classification in employment on all expenditures involving PWA and CWA moneys and hospitalization at government expense for service and non-service disease and injuries. He brought to the attention of the audience the fact that the office of Congressman had been held in this district continuously for thirty-six years by two men and contended for a fair tenure in office whereby this would not occur again, arguing that the counties in the district and the citizens had a fair right to have a chance at the office. He pledged himself to send a weekly letter from Washington to the newspapers of the district so the people might know what goes on at the National Capitol, his service being similar to the service that he rendered the district during his term in the Legislature.

Numerous Substances Are Isolated From Our Coal

Valuable chemicals extracted from coal, and scientific investigation shows that it contains a great deal of potential wealth and happiness. Very few people, states a writer in the Birmingham Weekly Post, have any idea of the vast number of entirely different substances which can be derived from coal. For instance, twenty-one and a half tons of gas can be extracted from one hundred tons of coal. From the same one hundred tons of coal we get 1,000 gallons of tar. From the tar also come all the colors of my lady's dress in the form of dyes. Coal, tar, too, is the base of one of the best known and most effective remedies for diseases of the skin—the liquor carbonis detergens. This is also used as one of the principal ingredients in coal tar soap. From what remains of the carbonized coal we get graphite, coke, ammonia and the residual fuel dust. These are the main by-products, and once they have been extracted and isolated the scientist gets to work and starts to separate them to the last ounce. Nearly two hundred substances have been isolated from coal, including the heavy oil with which ships are driven.

Taking Over the Mail

On July 2, 1774, William Goddard published in his Maryland Journal the first announcement of a plan for a "constitutional" postal system in opposition to that of the British government, to which he objected as an unlawful method of taxation and because mail carried by the crown post riders was frequently subject to espionage. Goddard had toured New York and New England seeking support for his scheme, which everywhere aroused enthusiasm. The project was undertaken as a private venture, and soon "constitutional" post routes were in operation between Portsmouth, N. H., and Williamsburg, Va. By means of Goddard's post, committees of correspondence in the 13 colonies enabled the American patriots to co-operate in their fight for freedom.—Telephone Almanac.

The Barnacle Goose

The barnacle goose, a small goose closely related to the brant, owes its name to the curious belief which gained much credence prior to the seventeenth century. The Arctic nesting places of these birds were as yet undiscovered and it was believed that the goose developed from the barnacle, a small crustacean that grows on wood that is exposed to salt water. Theologians who accepted this strange theory got into endless disputes as to whether or not the flesh of the barnacle goose should be eaten on Fridays or fast days, for they were unable to decide whether it should be considered meat or fish.

Saucer and Cup

A saucer has not always accompanied a cup. The word saucer is derived from the old French "sautier," or "saussiere." It was originally a receptacle, usually of metal, for holding condiments at a meal, or a dish or deep plate in which salt or sauces were placed on the table. In this sense it is mentioned in English literature as early as 1345. Later the word was used of a small, round, shallow vessel to support the cup and to catch any liquid spilled from it. The earliest recorded instance of its use in this sense is 1753.

No Flawless Emeralds

The emerald, when large, clear, and dark, is the most costly precious stone in the world, despite the fact that a flawless one has never been found.

Many Types of Moths

There are many different types of moths, one type being the clothes moth, whose larvae are destructive to household cloth articles. Many types of moths such as those occasionally observed outside houses, especially at night, are not harmful.

Bats Are Not Blind

Contrary to common belief, bats are not blind. They possess very good eyes, which, however, are very often hidden in the fur on the face to the extent that they are not readily visible. In addition to eyesight, however, a bat possesses very keen sensory nerves in its wings which enables it to fly about in pitch black without striking any object which may be in its vicinity.

"COME ON," SAID MRS. BROWN, "LET'S GO OUTDOORS AND See Where the Fire Is" and Sure Enough There was the Roof Blazing Right Over Their Heads.

The householders of Buchanan may rest quietly in their homes henceforth, as far as the ravages of the fire demon are concerned, calm in the assurance that the eternal vigilance of Chief Bunker and his crew of smoke eaters will guard them from spark and flame. The Buchanan fire department set up what is considered an all-time record for Johnny-On-The-Spotness Friday when they mounted the roof of the home of Mrs. Emma Brown, Days avenue, and were extinguishing a patch of blazing shingles before the occupants knew the house was on fire.

Mrs. Brown stated that she heard the whistle while she was in the house playing with her little grandchild. "Let's go out doors and see where the fire is," she said. They went out doors and looked up and down the street for the fire engine. Sure enough here it came, out of Chicago street and up Days Avenue and wheeled to the curb in front of the home of Mrs. Brown.

"Why you must be mistaken, there's no fire here," said Mrs. Brown but the firemen grabbed a ladder and raced up to the roof, where several square feet of shingles were on fire.

"I'm glad we didn't know about it," Mrs. Brown said. "We would have been so excited."

What's the Use?

Jud Funkins says he believes in payin' as you go, but what's the use when there's no place to go and you haven't any money.

Belgium Bilingual Country

Belgium is a bilingual country. The Walloons speak French, while the Flemish speak Flemish, a language closely related to Dutch. Latin is in no sense an official language in Belgium, although it is, of course, used in the Roman Catholic church.

AT THE THEATRE

Clark Gable and Myrna Loy in "Men in White"

"Men in White," Sunday through Tuesday film fare at the Hollywood Theatre, is significant, substantial fare. It is an excellently mounted piece of work, boasting all-around competence and sincerity and a credit, individually and collectively, to everyone concerned in its composition.

As a play "Men in White" was heralded as an earnest and authentic saga of a clan heretofore unexploited in the theatre—men of the medical profession.

Clark Gable, as Dr. Ferguson, surpasses any characterization he has ever essayed. Jean Hersholt is unforgettable as the eminent Dr. Hochberg, sage mentor, solicitous only of the career of the brilliant young Ferguson. He plans a noble career for the younger man, austere refusing to countenance any social or domestic infringements.

Myrna Loy, the one character representing the detached lady,

Origination of Geometry
Authorities differ somewhat concerning the origin of geometry, but most are agreed that it originated in ancient Egypt. The word "geometry" literally means "earth measurement." In Egypt the periodic overflowing of the Nile made surveying necessary, hence its original application.

day, where Damon Runyon's "Little Miss Marker" opens as feature number one on a double bill program. This particular good thing's name is Shirley Temple. Although she is barely five and weighs little more than forty pounds, we'll wager that you never before saw so much personality, such direct straightforward and admirable acting as this divinely dimpled little charmer lends to her role in a whimsical and vastly entertaining chronicle of a little-known Broadway. Topping the cast with Miss Temple are Adolphe Menjou, Dorothy Dell and Charles Bickford. As feature number two the Hollywood presents Tim McCoy as a Big-City fireman-hero in "A Man's Game," a departure from his western pictures, but full of zip, pep and action that always characterizes McCoy's films.
