Lowering Skies Limit Attendance in Dedication Service For Redbud Trail.

Effective dedication ceremonies for the new Redbud trail were held Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the Buchanan Lions club on the grounds of the beautiful Park home, lowering skies and threats of rain limiting the size of the attendance to about three hundred people.

Those attending were most appreciative of the various events of the program and the reproduction of the LaSalle expedition in pageant on the river was most effectively handled by the boys of Scout Troop 80 with Frank King in charge.

As they receded up the river, the notes of Cadman's fine Indian song, "In the Land of the Sky-Blue Water" beautifully rendered by Mrs. H. E. Thompson being out over the stream, a piano accompaniment by Marvin Gross.

Chairman A. L. Knoblauch was in charge of the program, introducing Dr. Rausch of South Bend, president of the LaSalle Memorial Association, who in turn introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Judge John V. Seis of Fort Wayne who made a brief but effective address on the historical incident after which the Trail is named.

Fitzgerald Wins G. O. P. Nomination for Governor in Runaway Contest.

Interest in the Michigan primary was centered mainly in the Democratic nomination for governor at a late hour yesterday because of the neck and neck race for that position between the present governor, W. A. Comstock and Arthur J. Lacy, who still held a small lead.

Frank Fitzgerald won conceded the Republican nomination for governor with 200,000 votes already in the bag.

Frank Picard won the right to oppose Arthur Vandenberg for United States senator in the general election.

Clare Hoffman of Allegan won the race for the G. O. P. nomination for Congressman from the Fourth District, leading his nearest rival, Barnard, by 1,700 votes.

The hopes of Atty. Landsman for the Republican nomination for prosecuting attorney when the north end of the county failed to split its vote materially, rolling up a heavy majority for Westin that carried over by a wide margin.

Supporters of Atty. Landsman in the Buchanan district gave him a handsome majority here, but not enough to counter-balance a runaway race by Atty. E. A. Westin in the northern part of the county.

Nephew of Local Man Has Original Plan for Getting Up

The following story is taken from a paper published in Fremont, O., and concerns the little nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Scherf of that city. Vern Scherf is a nephew of E. F. Mittan of Buchanan.

Bud, 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Scherf, has invented a new system for arousing slumbers in the early morning, but he has not been given a chance to put it in practical use.

He tied a rope about his arm and tossed the end out the window. The idea was to have his pals appear in the morning, tug the rope and arouse the inventor from profound sleep at six bells.

Mr. and Mrs. Scherf, arriving home after Bud had retired and placed his alarm system in order, were astonished to see a rope hanging out an upstairs window. They had visions of burglars but investigation revealed the cause of the rope. It was unfastened from the sleeping lad's wrist and hauled in from the window.

Bud was pretty peeved over the failure of his system. He overslept, missed the game and was all out of sorts.

ROUND ABOUT BUCHANAN

CREDIT FOR THE REDBUD TRAIL

In the exercises at the Redbud Trail dedication Saturday afternoon there were several omissions in the matter of credit due for the creation of the scenic highway.

In the first place it must be said that Buchanan and vicinity have secured a real asset from the Federal work relief program in this project. There may have been many projects open to criticism on the score of utility and expense, but hardly this scenic trail. It would have been entirely impossible to build the road for some years to come, in the event that the project had not been approved as a proper task for work relief. It would have been also impossible to build the road entirely from local work relief. In other words Buchanan benefited very considerably by the transfer of labor from other sections to complete the project. Mrs. Ann Parsal pledged herself to finish the road, regardless of the ultimate fate of the FERA and she carried out the promise, by dint of much maneuvering. The achievement was well worth the effort, as there are few FERA projects in southwestern Michigan that will compare with it in utility as well as in scenic possibilities. Whatever our attitude may be toward the FERA administration in general, Buchanan must recognize a substantial debt to those FERA officials who manifested a friendly attitude toward the local project and worked for its successful completion.

The county engineers' staff has likewise manifested a very friendly attitude toward the road, and has gone out of its way to insure a satisfactory highway. It may be said that the project met with much favor from John Bateman, county road board engineer-manager. Much was also contributed to the success of the project by Engineer Heath Calvin, who was in direct charge of the construction, and to his engineering staff, all of whom displayed a live interest in pushing the project. The dedication service was first suggested by M. Ludwig, engineer in charge of local FERA projects.

The pioneer work done for the road by farmers who live along its right of way should be recognized. It was through the efforts of a few farmers living on the "river road" that paving was begun in 1930 and completed from US-31 to the Oronoko line. When paving was held up by financial reasons then, these farmers, organized in a Highway Improvement Association, began active negotiations to effect the completion of the trail as a relief project. They were joined in their efforts by the Buchanan Civic Association, and it was through the joint efforts of the two organizations that the project was approved by the state for relief construction.

Those who are actively interested in the promotion of the road believe that Buchanan as a community does not realize even yet the possibilities of the development of this road as a scenic attraction of merit. The endorsement of such development as a project by the Buchanan club should be an assurance that the promotion will be carried through to a conclusion.

LET'S BUILD THOSE BACKSTOPS

Although the double concrete tennis court at Athletic park will be completed within a few days, there will be no tennis to speak of played there this year or any other year until there is provision made for backstops.

It is the opinion of a number interested in the completion of the courts that the provision of the backstops is a proper project for private individuals and organizations interested in the development of local sport resources. There are a number of local organizations whose announced aims pledge them to interest in provision of proper recreational resources for young people. There are also a considerable number of young and middle-aged people who want to play tennis. If everybody will "kick in" moderately all around, we will shortly have the first real tennis court that the city has ever had and we will have several glorious weeks of fall weather left to play tennis in. Public agencies have already done a lot for us in the construction of the courts. Let's do the rest ourselves.

The Convenience of Checks

If you carry a checking account and are thus in position to draw checks against that account, you do not have to go to the post office or express office, fill out an application and pay in your money plus the fee in order to pay money to some person or firm in a distant city.

And if you wish to pay a number of bills in your own town you do not have to provide yourself with a call at each place to settle your grocery, meat, light, etc. But you can sit at your desk in your office or in your home and with the utmost convenience write out your personal checks and mail them.

All you have to do is to write the check and fill out the stub in your check book and you have both paid the bill and kept a record of it, as well as having an indisputable receipt for the payment.

The detail of getting the actual money to those you owe is done by the bank. This involves, of course, some labor and expense to the bank, but so well organized is the system for handling and clearing checks that the cost is less than any other known method of transferring funds.

Indeed this cost may be fully covered by the use of the balance you keep on deposit in your checking account, if that be ample, but if not, then the small service charges made by the bank enable you to enjoy this service at very slight expense.

Paying by check has settled many disputes, preserved friendships and avoided paying accounts a second time.

Checks Provide Best Record
Keeping track of one's expenses is a chore that is unpopular with almost every one.

Yet few things are more important. Certain expenses such as taxes and interest can be deducted from your income before figuring income taxes. Frequently you save an overcharge by looking up what you paid last time. Often bills are paid a second time because no receipt was taken.

The easy way out is to let the bank be your book-keeper. Deposit all money or checks you receive, noting the same on duplicate tickets or on the back of the stubs in your check book, then pay all bills of any consequence by check, and your check book becomes an almost complete record of your finances.

Each month the bank gives you a statement of your account and returns your cancelled checks, which are of a size convenient to file as receipts.

The bank is really doing most of your bookkeeping for you and its system enabling you to do your part in the simplest and easiest manner possible.

And the cost to you consists only of maintaining an adequate balance or paying the small interest charges made by the bank, always in proportion to the amount of service rendered.

If you receive a Check From Chicago . . . And if there were no bank in your home town, how would you get it cashed? . . . Of course you could make a trip to Chicago and get the money but that would be mighty expensive.

It would be cheaper to go to the nearest town where there is a bank, and if they know you, they may cash it for you, for a fee but if they do not know you, then they could "take it for collection," and you would make another trip to that town three or four days later and get your money, less a fee.

This would not cost as much as going to Chicago but would still be very expensive and most annoying.

Maybe some mercantile would cash it for you, but you would be imposing on him for he would have to do the very thing that you have thus avoided.

How infinitely simpler and easier for you if there is a bank in your home town, and you carry a checking account where you can deposit your Chicago check and draw your own checks against it. No other system has ever been invented by which you can so easily and quickly receive or send remittances from or to other persons in your own town.

And no other system handles this service so economically. So true is this that, as we have said before, a good local bank is vitally necessary to every citizen if a community is to handle its money matters promptly and successfully.

A Hundred Dollars is "A Lot of Money" . . . Of course it is, but when you deposit a hundred dollars in the bank, you do not give the hundred dollars to the bank. You simply let them use as much of it as they can legally and safely lend, which is not over $80 at best.

With the limited amount of good local loans now obtainable and the low rates paid on government securities and the larger amount of idle cash necessarily carried by the banks, a balance of $80.00 does not earn net over 30c per month in interest.

And 30c is most emphatically NOT a "lot of money."

It will not cover the cost of carrying on a bank's books even the smallest checking account with no more than a transaction or two per month.

It is natural for the depositor to think of his account in terms of his total balance, not realizing that it is interest earnings only which can be kept by the bank and that at least 20 per cent of the balance must be kept on hand in idle cash.

Bankers have thought too much in terms of balance instead of in terms of earnings.

When the bank's customers all learn to think of their balances in terms of monthly interest earnings, no one will ever complain about the really very low service charges made on checking accounts not having enough balance to pay the cost of handling them.

Michigan's Early Capital
The territorial capital of Michigan was Detroit. There the first legislature called after the admission to the Union in 1837. The constitution of 1835 contained a provision which was adopted after a bitter struggle of delegates to the Constitutional convention. That provision read, "The seat of government for this state shall be at Detroit, or such other place as may be designated by law, until 1847, when it shall be permanently located by the legislature."

Gas Tax Limit Would Nullify the 15-Mill Amendment

On November 8, 1932, the majority of the voters of this state marched to the polls and approved an amendment to the State constitution which limits to 15 mills the total tax on real estate, exclusive of debt service on bonded obligations incurred previous to that date. I was a victory, so far as owners of homes and other real property are concerned. Its benefits are enjoyed largely in the rural areas.

Now comes a special group asking voters to approve a cut in the State's gas tax, from 3 cents to 2 cents. What has this to do with the 15 mill tax limitation provision in the State constitution? Just this: the total of the highway bonded indebtedness of the State and the counties, now being paid out of gas and weight tax revenues, is $13,259,802 in 1934, and will continue at that level for many years. The state and counties are heavily bonded for its roads.

Every dollar of road obligations represented by this annual load for bond requirements, was incurred before November 8th, 1932. Every dollar can be placed on real estate. The 15 mill amendment permits it. Take about $7,000,000 out of the State's gas tax revenues each year, by the proposed cut of one cent a gallon in the tax, and you automatically open the door to an increase of at least this sum in the property tax, State and local, for highway purposes. The money must be paid from some source to meet the bonds. How do you prefer to pay it?

A vote for the gas tax amendment is a vote to nullify the effectiveness of the 15 mill tax amendment.

If we have a 2 cent gas tax, goodbye 15 mill amendment. Further, the counties of the State are today getting not only the whole weight tax, but in 1934, they are getting $5,550,000 of gas tax revenues. This gift increases $500,000 annually until it reaches $6,500,000 in 1936. Cut the gas tax and see how long counties get this aid in meeting their highway burden. They will lack more than $5,000,000 of meeting this total burden in 1934 with the present gas and weight tax rates. Why vote to raise your property tax when, only three years ago, you voted to reduce it?—Exchange.

Heavy Rains Cut Banks Redbud Trail on Moccasin Bluff

A corps of men and trucks under the direction of Heath Calvin, engineer, was engaged yesterday in repairing washouts on the outer banks of the Redbud trail along Moccasin Bluff and also at the bill fill opposite the old Gazley mill dam. The engineer stated that none of the score or more washouts threatened traffic and that with settling and sodding of the banks this trouble would be overcome later. The success of the road in standing up under the record downpour of yesterday morning is believed to be an answer to the critics who have been pointing to the danger of washouts. There was no trouble at the sand draw where disastrous washouts occurred on the old narrow gauge road.
