Exercising Charity

VERSE from a cherished old scrapbook runs:

"If God were all-in-all to me,
I'd think good thoughts the while;
And inwardly I'd joyous be,
And outwardly I'd smile!
No thought of sorrow could there be,
Nor ought but what is true,—
If God were all-in-all to me,
If good were all I knew."

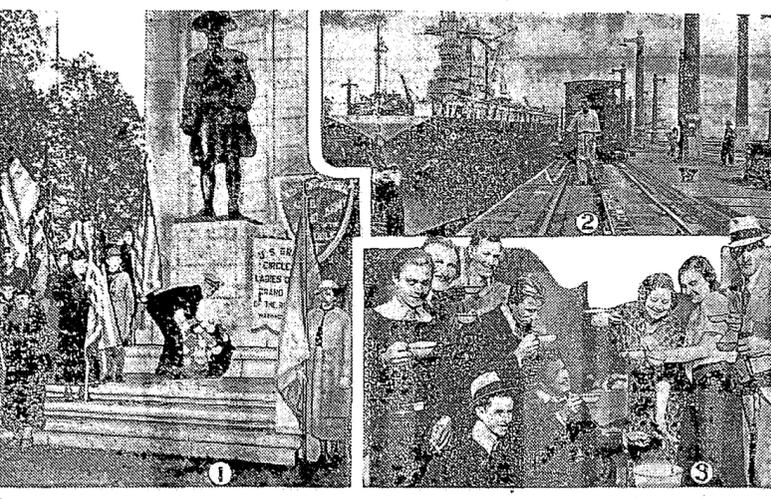

There are many earnest Christians who are not getting from their devotion to God a full sense of joy, health, and peace, such as the above verse indicates as conditionally possible. At such times there should be fearless, honest checking of our motives, aims, ambitions, in relation to our understanding of what God means to us. In this mental inventory, we may be forced to recognize and cast out some narrow theological views, doubts, educated beliefs, superstitions, in order to gain a clear realization of God as ever near, ever loving, ever watchful of the welfare of His children, bestowing only good. Paul, perceiving that some individual effort must be made, said in his letters to Timothy: "Pursue also youthful lusts; but follow righteousness, faith, charity, peace;" and again: "Refuse profane and old wives' fables, and exercise thyself rather unto godliness. For bodily exercise profiteth little; but godliness is profitable unto all things."

The godliness which is "profitable unto all things" is based on Love. In summing up the qualities to be added one to another in the Christian's life, Peter mentions diligence, faith, virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, brotherly kindness, charity. Our love for God and our exercise of brotherly kindness are more closely related than is commonly admitted. It may be that someone feels that love is not essential in his daily affairs. To another, charity may seem a sign of weakness; and he may feel that, while he is manifesting love, one expressing a sterner quality will deprive him of his rights. Still another may say that he possesses a great deal of love in his heart, but it is so difficult for him to express love that others are seldom aware of his inmost feelings.

Mary Baker Eddy asks this question (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 139): "Know ye not that he who exercises the largest charity, and waits on God, renews his strength, and is exalted?" And in the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," she writes (p. 57): "Human affection is not poured forth vainly, even though it meet no return. Love enriches the nature, enlarging, purifying, and elevating it."

A statement in Proverbs reads, "A friend loveth at a times." It is in daily contact with out fellow men that we discover constant favorable occasion to exercise charity—to train ourselves by practice to love wholeheartedly; for we are redeemed by the true love sustained and diffused within our own hearts. Where the right motive exists and the majority of one's acts are honestly sincere, love avails referring to past mistakes. Love enables us to resist hate and fear with good-humored

Making Images of Buddha

In line with the process used by the Japanese to induce pearls to grow within the shells of oysters by the insertion of small bits of a foreign substance that eventually becomes pearl coated is the method employed in creating the sacred clam shells that Chinese Buddhists believe to have a miraculous origin. These curious shells have small fat images of Buddha appearing as raised designs on their inner surfaces. The images have the same pearly luster of the shell linings and are really a part of the linings, showing no break or joint. In making one of these curious clam shells is priced open for the insertion of a thin metal image. It is then closed and the clam returned to the water where it is left until enough new shell has been formed to cover the image with a varnish of pearl thick enough to hide the metal, at the same time fastening it to the shell.

The Continents

Europe, Asia and Africa are usually classed as separate continents, even though Europe and Asia comprise one great land mass, Eurasia. To these must be added North America, South America and Australia. Some authorities add a seventh continent, Antarctica, the land mass around the South pole. A continent is defined as one of the great divisions of land on the globe, differing from an island or peninsula not only in its size but in its structure, which is that of a large basin bordered by mountain chains.

Fish With Sheep Teeth

The sheephead, one of the most valuable food fishes of the United States, derives its name not from the shape of its head, but from its teeth, which resemble those of a sheep to an amazing degree. The fish varies in weight from two pounds to about fifteen. Its teeth are used to grind up the shells of the shellfish, upon which it feeds principally. Young oysters, barnacles, mussels and similar crustacean are its favorite food. The fresh-water drum is a type of sheephead.

Aristotle's Weather Treatise

Aristotle's treatise on weather, written in the fourth century B. C., became the standard work on the subject for twenty centuries.

Fear of Pain Saves Us From Many False Steps

Mother Nature, for our preservation and safety, has hedged the trail from the cradle to the grave with pain. Pain is beneficial because it stands guard over our lives to protect us from penalties of broken natural laws. Were it not for pain, observes a writer in the New York World-Telegram, few children would grow up with all their fingers. The Canada thistle beside the cowpath keeps the barefoot boy inside the straight and narrow way as he drives the cows down at night. Prickers on blackberry bushes remind us that we cannot thoughtlessly gather the fruits of earth. Strong teeth on the smilax vine remind offenders that though the jungle offers sanctuary it is not to be received without due respect. The fear of pain is the well-spring of sagacity, forethought, careful living. Eating green apples in Eden caused distresses that have come down the ages and made millions of men and women eaters of legitimately ripened fruit. In the quick pain that follows the breaking of natural law probably lies the root of conscience, that unwritten code within each human breast upon which civilization, trade, government, banking and a thousand other human institutions are founded. The rights of others and the obligation to observe them are enforced by the poison ivy beside the swimming hole, the warning of the rattlesnake and the pale of neutrality about the hornet's nest.

The Law of Averages

The law of averages aims to demonstrate that, while the trend of human affairs cannot be forecast with certainty, it can be worked out to a considerable extent arithmetically by arriving at averages on statistics relating to the event.

Strange Wayside Orchards

Between Juliaetta and Troy, Idaho, the railway, winding through the Big Potlach and Bear Creek valleys, is lined with fruit trees which have germinated from seeds and cores thrown from trains by passengers who had been munching fruit. In the spring, beautiful blossoms on peach, cherry, apple, pear and plum trees scent the air. In the summer these domestic fruits ripen in the company of lofty pines and tamaracks, firs and hemlocks in the heart of the forests. Along the Juliaetta-Genesee road in the same state the same types of domestic fruit trees, untrained and unattended, have grown despite their accidental beginning. They grow from pines and cores thrown away by ranchers, salesmen and stage passengers in the days before the automobile was introduced.

Breeding Age of Seals

The bull fur seal does not come to breeding age until it is about six years old, but the female becomes mature during her second year and by the end of her third year generally gives birth to young.

Mrs. E. T. Waldo and son, Robert, are spending the week at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Huff of Dowagiac.

Editor Record, Continually appear the marks of how the Civil War ended. About mid-summer, there was a great celebration on in Richmond, Va.

An ex-Iowa judge and his wife now living in Washington, D. C., went there to attend the show. There they found the entire city wreathed with the Democratic emblems of patriotism, the Confederate flag. Mrs. Judge was shocked, and so tried to soften the disgust by buying a flag such as she had been used to, and when she applied at a store she learned very positively that they never sold that kind. The couple soon returned home.

At a recent meeting of the Grocers' convention in Chicago, by mere chance two of the ladies on a seat in the lobby of the hotel, casually entered into conversation. One said she was there on business connected with the "Daughters of the Confederacy." The other remarked "Why, how strange? I am a member of the ladies auxiliary of the C. A. R. Mrs. Southron gave her seat mate a look of the most positive disgust, arose from her seat and whipped across the lobby to another.

The real Democrats occasionally express the true sentiment of the party, as did Senator Huey Long Tuesday, Nov. 6, in a speech in Louisiana:

"The only way for us to get out of this depression is to secede from the United States—sever all connections and make a clean start. We ain't a-goin' to get anywhere until we get rid of these damn bureaucrats, hobocrats, autocrats and all those other 'crats up there (with a gesture toward Washington.)"

The old time-name they have for their northern members is "Mud Sills," sort of foundation on which they build the party. J. G. HOLMES.

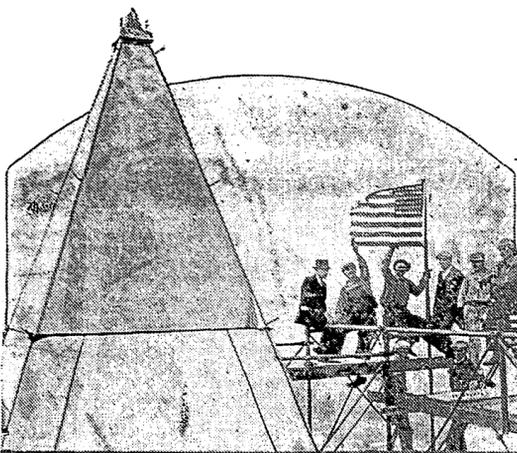

Yellow of Eye Most Sensitive The blind spot of the retina of the eye where the optic nerve enters is familiar to most persons as being a spot on the retina where there is no sensibility to light. Yet each eye has a yellow spot, points out a director of the Better Vision institute, which is in the center of the retina and which is most sensitive to light of the entire retina. It is with this spot that our vision is directed," he says in an article in the Salt Lake Tribune. "If we fix our eye on a line of printed matter, the center of the line is distinctly and sharply seen, but the words toward the end of the line are vague.

Flag at Pinnacle of Washington Shaft

With the last support in place, and the final bolt tightened in the structure, Old Glory was placed atop the scaffolding that has been built about the 555-foot shaft that is the Washington monument in the National Capital, and the work of renovating, repairing and refurbishing the great obelisk now goes forward. The erection of the scaffolding was a major engineering feat.

Commenting on the train's performance, Kettering insisted that it could have made the entire 57-hour trip from California to New York without refueling, could have made the span from Chicago to New York in 12 hours instead of 17, and could have started back within an hour after its arrival on a breakneck, non-stop run to the Pacific coast.

Beer Was Known as Far Back as History Goes Gambrinus was a real person, says the Indianapolis News. He was duke of Brabant in the Thirteenth century and derived his title from Jan Primus on January 1. The mythical Gambrinus was credited with the invention of beer, but the record fails to substantiate the story. Beer was known when the Egyptians were making queer-looking characters on papyrus, and writings of the time of Seti I (1400 B. C.) mention a citizen who became intoxicated on it. The Greeks, who had two words for it, learned about brewing from the Egyptians, the Romans experimented with malted liquors and the early Germans became fond of brew. Originally the Greeks and the Romans, loyal to the grape, despised beer as a drink of the barbarians. Pliny noted that beer was plentiful in Spain, and wrote that "so exquisite is the cunning of mankind in gratifying their vicious appetites that they have thus invented a method to make water itself produce intoxication." The natives of South Africa knew about brewing as far back as history goes.

Making Emery Wheels

Emery wheels can be made by mixing about one ounce of shellac to a pound of emery. Use finely powdered shellac and add a small portion of rosin, a piece about the size of a walnut, to an ounce of shellac, and a piece of old vulcanized india-rubber about the same size, to give toughness. These are well mixed and melted together.

HOW BANKS Benefit You and Your Community

If this community did not have a bank you and your neighbors and fellow citizens would get together and organize one, because banking service is needed here.

It would be highly inconvenient, if not impossible, to transact the business of the community if actual currency had to change hands every time a sale was made.

Then, too, the community is surprisingly dependent upon the interchange of services and products with other communities. If there were no banks it would take so long to transact business that there would scarcely be any business.

You benefit directly and indirectly because there is a bank in your community.

Indian Drought Legends

Like Stories of Bible Many legends of the southwestern Indians bear striking similarity to stories of Biblical times. For instance, there is the story of great drought when the hummingbird found food.

The people had begun to lose their faith in the Great Mother who ruled the universe. They turned from her teachings and her ways to follow their own desires and the mother, in order to punish them, took the clouds out of the sky and put them away and soon the land became parched and suffering became widespread.

For four years no rain fell and all entreaties to the mother failed to awaken any response. All efforts to locate her were futile. Only the hummingbird knew. To the hummingbird the mother gave instructions that her place of concealment should be kept secret and in return for preserving the secret the hummingbird was permitted to visit Shtup, place of origin and final resting place of the dead, where it was able to draw the honey from the flowers and satisfy their thirst.

After four years of suffering, during which many died, the people finally learned the truth that the source of all food and water was the mother, and when this truth was completely impressed upon them the rain returned and rejoicing was great throughout the land as the refreshing showers brought relief.

Dream Opals Carved by Craftsman of Long Ago

Many years ago there was a craftsman who made ornaments for lovely ladies. Slim wrists of Oriental dancers sparkled with his handiwork, regal heads were hung with creations of his dreams of beauty. But of all the jewels with which he worked the one he loved the most was the opal.

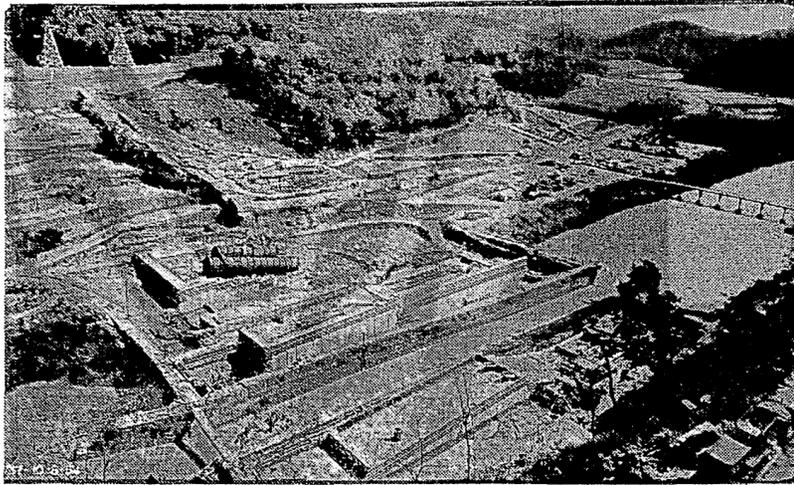

One day he found an opal of great size and price. It was as large as his closed hand, lustrous as the star above the crescent moon, and luminous with elusive fires. He would make of this opal, he thought, the most perfect jewel he had ever made, so that seekers of beauty would see and wonder.

With reverence he worked, as he carved his dreams into the shifting colors, until he had fashioned a bracelet fit to adorn the loveliest lady of all time. That was so many years ago, that most of the legends have been forgotten, and the craftsman's jewels are sealed in undiscovered tombs.

"Movie" Dogs Must Have Souls A celebrated trainer of dogs for movie purposes, and the first man to produce "dog operas," says that his dogs are all hand picked. "There are just two points I take into consideration when I select a dog for training: first, the dog's eyes must show that it has a soul. Second, it must have a broad head, sufficient to encase a good sized brain. Nothing else matters. He may be a wreck from kicks and curses, half starved and cowed. This shows that he needs only a friend. He will respond to your kindness quicker than the well-fed, contented dog that has known no hardships. With his confidence and you get complete obedience—idolotrous obedience, I might say. Then he will do anything you command him to do without asking why or questioning its practicability. That's what makes 'dog opera' possible."

Woman Cattle Kustler Lynched According to records "Catie Kate" was the only woman in the state of Wyoming who was lynched for cattle rustling.

Norris Dam Is One-Third Completed

The Tennessee Valley authority's $39,000,000 power and flood control dam on the Clinch river, near Knoxville, is now one-third finished. Over 10 per cent of the concrete for the dam has been poured. When finished two and one-half years from now, it will stand 233 feet high, eliminating all future floods on the Clinch and reducing materially the flood stages on the Tennessee river itself.

Bankers' Assoc. Has Served Public for 75 Years

Since 1875 the business of banking and the people of America have had the protection and service of the American Bankers Association.

The Association in many ways is active in the protection of banks. It studies banking practices, trends and results to aid banks guard themselves against methods productive of impairments, losses or failures in their operations. It watches vigilantly the course of economic and legislative developments affecting banking and acts to forestall detrimental developments in these lines. It maintains day and night a relentless system of prevention, investigation and pursuit in respect to crimes against banks.

The Association is an organization of protection for the public also. It distributes information in regard to safe ways of handling checking and other bank transactions, studies the causes of bank failures to aid in bringing about sounder banking conditions and it combats legislation running counter to principles of prudent public finance and thereby protects the public in its business life.

The organization is one of service to banks. It compiles successful experience in banking operations and by sharing these findings with its members puts them in the way of more efficient methods and better profits. It promotes group co-operation in local areas among bankers, whereby they can work effectively for their common benefit. It gives to its membership the benefit of economical telegraphic communication and other aids in the conduct of their business.

It is an organization of service likewise to the public.

In many problems of public policy, such as sound Federal tax revision, it seeks to give the public the benefit of the best banking thought. It conducts many activities aiming to increase public education and understanding regarding business and finance and is devoting continual attention to problems in the farm regions where materially better business methods have resulted from these efforts.

Concrete facts illustrating the foregoing are abundant. Back in 1897 the Association undertook to bring about uniform negotiable instruments laws throughout the 48 states so that bank checks and other credit circulation should be given an established character in the eye of the law in all parts of the country that would enable them to serve the people of the nation as efficient substitutes for money. Twenty-seven years of labor by the Association in co-operation with the American Bar Association and the State Bankers Associations achieved this end. This law is recognized among the most important business measures in the statute books of the nation.

More recently, in 1929, the Association started the comparably important task of obtaining universal state adoption of a uniform bank collection code to simplify and render consistent the multitude of conflicting rules that now seriously hamper business. Rapid progress characterized from the beginning this effort toward gaining nation-wide sanction of law to modern customs and practices, eliminating existing uncertainties, obviating conflicts based on obsolete conditions and making for safety to banks in handling collecting, checks and other paper of nation-wide currency irrespective of state lines.

Many other instances can be marshalled of similar action for the service and protection of banking and of the business of the whole people. The association works intensively in these endeavors—its organization is constructed to wrap in closely with all forms of banking and all phases of bank relationships with the public. Its National Bank Division, working through the branch office of the Association at Washington, D. C., serves all members, both national and state banks, in connection particularly with their Federal government contacts, such as witnessing destruction of cancelled national bank circulation or the presentation of requests, complaints or claims before government departments, whether the Comptroller's office, the Federal Reserve Board, the Bureau of Internal Revenue or others. This Division rendered especially practical service to national banks in the matter of the change in size of the currency, when it insisted that national bank circulation be retained, that its size should conform to the new general currency to avoid its being forced out of popular circulation as an awkward off-size currency and that a new master plate plan should be adopted to spare national banks the casts of new plates of the old expensive types. All these contentions of the division prevailed.

Intensive service, again, is given through the Savings Bank Division to institute in its field. It has helped implant school savings banking widely in the nation's educational systems as an established function of education, creating banking habits among the young that mean a continually broadening in intelligent banking clientele for the future. Along technical lines, the Division made comprehensive studies of methods for computing interest, found a chaos of over fifty ways in common use, mostly wasteful and uncertain, and then developed four standard and efficient methods which are becoming universally adopted and are bringing very substantial benefits to savings bankers. This Division holds several regional conferences yearly which render possible extensive interchanges among savings bankers of information and experience of value in promoting the efficiency and usefulness of their business.

The State Bank Division has a record of achievement in promoting better bank supervision along lines of fair, helpful and efficient services from state banking departments. It has helped create conditions conducive to more highly qualified bank commissioners, free from the influence of politics and changing administrations. It has brought about improved banking in many sections by extending the practice among banks, and the ruling among bank commissioners, that credit files be required for all borrowers on unsecured loans of $500 or more. The Division also started a nation-wide movement to bring the reserve requirements of the state banking systems into line with those of the national banks in order to remove the serious competitive handicaps against the state banks that it found prevailing in many states.

The Trust Company Division has long guided the development of standard practices among trust companies in respect to fees, trust forms and procedures and has rendered incalculable service thru promoting increased public interest in life insurance trusts, community trusts and other fiduciary relationships bringing business to the trust companies. The Division worked successfully in behalf of the uniform fiduciaries act, which renders trust business less hazardous by removing uncertainties in respect to legal liabilities; also in the passage of reciprocal state tax exemption laws of importance in fiduciary matters, and similar salutary enactments. This Division holds several regional conferences each year, enabling trust bankers in all parts of the nation to benefit by the interchange of experience, practice and technique developing in their field.

While these four chief Divisions of the Association function independently, reciprocal relations exist among them so that all departments, savings, commercial or investment, can obtain the maximum of benefit from each Division. Banking as a whole is served by specialized sections of the Association. The American Institute of Banking Section conducts the Association's technical educational work and in the neighborhood of 42,000 young bank employees are studying the law, the economics and the operating technique of all departments of the banking business through Institute courses and are thereby becoming more valuable to their banks.

The Clearinghouse Section, in touch with the 450 clearinghouses of the country, is continually active in promoting regional clearinghouses which have opened up a new era of co-operation for improving banking. It fosters credit bureaus to expose covert duplicate borrowers especially in country districts, and other lines of co-operative progress among banks. This Section obtained nationwide acceptance of the movement to standardize and simplify bank checks which brought substantial economies in this expensive operative item. It was a major influence bringing about widespread adoption of equitable service charges, now employed by 12,000 banks in more than 3,000 places. It also developed and promulgated scientific methods of comparative analyses of bank operations, enabling many bankers to cut down losses and expenses and to increase their profits. Thousands of banks in all parts of the nation are following the leadership of this Section along these important avenues.

The Section has also instituted regional conferences covering general bank management and commercial and investment banking practices, and one country banker attending such a conference declared that it was worth $5,000 to him in the things he had learned and would apply for the better conduct of his bank.

The State Secretaries Section also brings the work of the American Bankers Association closer to the individual banker through fact-finding committees, whose results are passed back to the State Bankers Association for practical application to the business of their members.

In these ways the fruitful influences of the Association for safer, more profitable banking are diffused throughout the banking business. In this behalf, also, a large number of special units are incessantly active. The Protective department annually causes the arrest of from a half to two-thirds of the bank criminals apprehended and jailed in the United States. It has made the name of the American Bankers Association the most feared symbol of law and order in this part of the criminal world. It handles every year some 400 criminal investigations. It advises banks of all sizes and in all localities on effective measures of self-protection and crime prevention applicable to their situation, and where its advice is followed a bank is usually avoided by criminals.

The Legal Department watches all types of legislation affecting banking, the currency and other related financial matters on behalf of both banking and the general public and supervises appropriate action through the State and Federal Legislative Committees and Councils of the Association. These arms have been successful in protecting the banks against discriminatory taxation, at the same time working out equitable plans whereby they carry their full share of tax burdens.

The Insurance Committee has brought about for banking broader, better clarified insurance coverage of all classes. The A. B. A. Telegraphic Code, available only to members, gives them a rapid accurate and economical means for conducting inter-bank business transactions that, it is estimated, probably saves to the membership as a whole through reduced tolls more than the total cost of the Association to them in dues.

The Economic Policy Commission has made comprehensive studies of bank failures, their causes and remedies, renders the Association advice regarding Federal Reserve policies and relationships and covers other economic subjects of general bank importance. The Commerce and Marine Commission investigates the interests of banking in foreign trade, transportation and in respect to laws and customs governing documents used in the movement and financing of merchandise.

The Educational Foundation, endowed by subscribed funds from bankers amounting to $500,000.00 supports over a hundred and twenty-five college loan scholarships in banking and financial economics. The Public Education Commission provides lectures in schools and before civic clubs throughout the nation on banking and allied subjects, while the Public Relations Commission distributes educational material and information regarding banking through the medium of the press and issues the American Bankers Association Journal which is the chief journalistic voice for organized banking in the United States. The Agricultural Commission through years of close study of the farm problem at first hand has materially promoted understanding between bankers and the farmers in all parts of the nation and has brought about sounder business and financial methods in the farm districts which have substantially increased the safety of banking there.

Nearly 70 per cent of the banks of the nation are members of the American Bankers Association. In a number of states 100 per cent of the banks are members. Over 90 per cent of the banking resources of the United States are comprised in its membership. It includes the biggest banks and the smallest banks, the country bank and the city bank, and it is constructed, geared and operated to render practical service and to give effective protection to all types.

The results of the American Bankers Association achieved annually could not be accomplished by any other means than thru the powerful group influence and continual expert handling it puts behind its work. Banks singly or in small numbers or by disorganized action could not achieve these results. Only those banks which are members of the Association can participate fully in the fruits of its work.

A long list of the things it has worked for is now a beneficial part of the daily technical operations of banking. There are always in process of development many additional projects for the further benefit of the business. The future holds many more problems that will call for the matured faculties of the Association to meet them if progress is to continue and advantages already gained are to be held. The American Bankers Association, therefore, is the indispensable force for stability and improved conditions for banking in the United States.

Spread of Glaciers Figures of the Alaska geological survey indicate that glaciers of the territory when at their maximum spread covered approximately 255,000 square miles.

"Streamline" The word "streamline" has been in use for a number of years in connection with hydrodynamics. It was defined by Horace Lamb in 1906 as "a line drawn from point to point so that its direction is everywhere that of the motion of the fluid."

Christian Science Churches
"Mortals and Immortals" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, November 18.

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Eph. 1:3): "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 63): "In Science man is the offspring of Spirit. The beautiful, good, and pure constitute his ancestry. Spirit is his primitive and ultimate source of being; God is his Father, and Life is the law of his being."

Methodist Episcopal Church

WEAK AND SKINNY MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Saved by new Vitamins of Cod Liver Oil in tasteless tablets.
Founders of firm healthy flesh instead of bony skeletons! New vitamins, win and energy instead of tired listlessness! Steady, quiet nerves! That is what thousands of people are getting through scientific latest discovery—the Vitamins of Cod Liver Oil concentrated in little sugar coated tablets without any of its horrid, fishy taste or smell.
McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, they're called "Cod Liver Oil in Tablets," and they simply work wonders. A little boy of 9, seriously sick, got well and gained 10½ lbs. in just one month. A girl of thirteen after the same disease, gained 8 lbs. the first week and 2 lbs. each week after. A young mother who could not eat or sleep after baby came got all her health back and gained 10 lbs. in less than a month.
You simply must try McCoy's at once. Remember if you don't gain at least 3 lbs. of firm healthy flesh in a month get your money back. Demand and get McCoy's—the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablets.
NRA—approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Refuse all substitutes—insist on the original McCoy's—there are none better.

"I Can Work Every Day Now"

If you must be on the job EVERY DAY, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets. They relieve periodic pain and discomfort. If you take them regularly... and if yours is not a surgical case... you should be able to avoid periodic upsets, because this medicine helps to correct the CAUSE of your trouble.

"I am a factory worker. I was weak and nervous and my stomach and back pained me severely, but since I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets the pains don't appear anymore."
Miss Helen Kolaski, 3906 N. Christiana Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Come to the little church in the country and enjoy the neighborhood spirit of worship.
Mrs. Kean's Willing Workers class will serve a ham loaf supper this Thursday from 5 to 7. The proceeds to be used as their contribution to the work of the church. Tickets 30c.
A class party for the O-4-O Sunday School class will be held in the church beginning with a co-operative supper at 6:30. Mr. and Mrs. Elson Rough, Mr. and Mrs. Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Archie Morley are in charge.

Seventh Day Adventist Sabbath School (Saturday) at 10 a. m. Lesson study, "Love and the Thought of Evil."
Memory verse: "Love thinketh no evil; rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth." 1 Cor. 13, 5 and 6.
Note: "As man thinketh in his heart, so is he." The heart must be renewed by divine grace, or it will be in vain to seek for purity of life. He who attempts to build up a noble, virtuous character independent of the grace of Christ, is building his house upon the shifting sand. In the fierce storms of temptation it will surely be overthrown. David's prayer should be the petition of every soul: "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me." And having become partakers of the heavenly gift, we are to go on unto perfection, being kept by the power of God through faith.

"As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he" for 'out of it are the issues of life.' What a man is, in the most secret desires and purposes of his soul, that is his character and life record in the sight of Heaven. "The Lord seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart."
Preaching service at 11:15. Sunday night at 7:30 the Youth Evangelist Paul T. Jackson, will speak on the subject, "The Three Worlds." Special music by Richard A. Mitchell.

7:30 p. m. Wednesday, Bible Training class.
7:30 p. m. Thursday, mid-week prayer service.

Evangelical Church
William F. Boettcher, Minister
10 a. m. Sunday school.
11 a. m. Morning worship, "We Have to Do With God."
6 p. m. League service, subject, "What Evangelicals Believe." This will be a joint meeting. William and Milford Schultz, leaders. Mrs. W. F. Boettcher will have the lesson. Come early.
7 p. m. Evening service, "After This—What?"
The messages will be brought by Rev. L. E. Willoughby. He reserves the right to change any of the subjects.
Rev. L. E. Willoughby will be with us until Nov. 23.
We offer to all, an hour of worship, delightful music and song. A hearty welcome to all our services.

Germs and Antiseptics
There is no one antiseptic that will kill all kinds of germs, says a well-known pharmacologist.

The Continental Divide
The continental divide has been so carefully surveyed by topographers that there are places in southern New Mexico where the line is established although the slope in either direction is indiscernible to the naked eye.

Basket Ball Season Opens Nov. 28
The Buchanan cage squad, under the coaching of George Wynn, has begun practice for the game at Berrien Springs, Nov. 28. Wynn has three lettermen back this year. The Bucks look forward to a successful season because they have a squad of eight seniors and other outstanding underclassmen.

ALONG THE CORRIDORS
By Izzat So
Senior pictures will be taken on Monday and Tuesday. Can't you just imagine how stunning they will look?
Boy! The seniors got taken down a couple of notches at the class meeting Tuesday by Mary Jane Zerbe. Nice work, Mary! Just ask Donald Blaney, a dignified senior—the meaning of cohesiveness—he will surely tell you: "Won't you, 'Dunno'?"
Oh dear! These essays on "Procrastination" are killing the seniors. What is the matter, you senior English students?
It seems that Shirley Howard and Geneva Troutfetter are losing their legs. Oh no! Not their own legs but those on the tables that hold their typewriters. Dear! Dear! What next?
Wonder where Frances Di Giacomo learned to type so fast. Not bad, Frances!

GENEROSITY!
It so happens that in fourth hour study hall, Thursday, one of the seniors, who was working on a map for history, had to have an eraser. She asked the girl sitting in front of her for one. When the eraser appeared the astonished senior saw an eraser about four inches long. In amazement she said, "I asked for an eraser, not a whole rubber factory."

Class Activities

Physics
Motion and the laws of falling bodies are being studied by the 12th grade physics class.

Chemistry
The 11th grade is studying the behavior of gases also Charles' and Boyle's law.

Science
Unit work on heat covering the old choric theory of heat and the new modern idea on heat is being done by the 8th grade science class.

Home Economics Dept.
The problem of improving the arrangement and general appearance in the laboratory was the work of the tenth grade home economics class. It consisted primarily of enameling the cupboards and making curtains for the cooking laboratory.

Desserts and main dishes for luncheons were being prepared by the ninth grade home economics class.

Public Speaking
Public speaking class prepared Armistice Day and American Education Week speeches.

Mathematics
Methods of solving problems by the use of equations are being studied by Algebra 9.

The geometry class is studying polygons and the methods used to find the number of degrees when the number of sides are known and vice versa.
Quadratic equations are being solved by the advanced algebra class by the use of graphing, factoring, completing the square, and the formula.
The general mathematics class is on problems of geography, immigration and agriculture.
Finding the whole of a number when the per cent is given is the work of the 7th grade arithmetic class, also finding per cents of increase.
The commercial arithmetic class has been studying the reduction of fractions, interchange of fractional forms, improper fractions, and finding the least common denominator.

BICYCLE RACKS AND HOW
Just four weeks ago the school got an idea of some kind—we wonder what it could be. Well, anyway, the school procured some cement by some hook or crook, and they made a nice square cement place down in back of the building. Of course, they intended it for a bicycle rack, but—well, er—ah, they just haven't had time to finish it. We wonder why they can't call some more fellows out of sixth hour study hall? Well, perhaps they didn't work hard enough. Ask "Pete" Fuller about the working part of it. Did you work hard, "Pete"?

GRADE NEWS
The Bluebird group in reading in Miss Carnagan's first grade has finished the Elson Pre-Primer and is now using the Primer.
Mrs. Heim's room is reading in the morning, "Happy Jack" by T. W. Burgess. They are leaving crunched nuts on the window sill to feed the squirrels. The second grade is also going to take a journey to "The Land of Health."
The following names have been added to Miss Boh's Dentola Honor Roll: John Batten, Evelyn Johnson, Wayne Six and Jack Miller.
Marlin Myers in the fourth grade at the high school building had his tonsils removed and has been absent a week.
Eleanor Inglethorpe and Margaret Semple made a product map of South America in Mrs. French's 5th grade. Eleanor drew the map. This was also a travel map for they indicated all of the important and interesting places in South America. In the study of geography a travel tour of various countries will be made.
Jean Dalrymple, Nancy Scheetz, Doris Rohl, and Doris Lamb made excellent individual maps.
The A and B classes in our First Grade have finished the pre-Primer and are reading in the Elson Primer.

Nine boys and girls of the opportunity room took part in the program given for Educational Week. The 4th grade has been talking about the care of teeth in their health lessons. The dentist examined the teeth and found six teeth whose teeth are all right.
There are ten children in the second grade at Dewey Ave., who have O. K. on their teeth.
The girls and boys in the third grade are glad to know John Govland is improving. He is to be brought home this week.
Robert Borst and Betty Dokey have had their dental work finished. Their names are now on the Dental Honor Roll.

350 Attend Grade School Pageant

"The Spirit of '76," the grade cantata, was given, Friday, Nov. 2, in the high school auditorium from 7:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.
This historical pageant was made up of scenes from the time of Columbus down to the making of the flag. The principal scenes were: the court of Isabella, sailing of Columbus, relation of Indians, and settlers, Pilgrims and Puritans, Paul Revere's ride, Revolutionary War and the making of the flag. These were illustrated by pageant and song.

Mr. Robinson was director. Mrs. Stark acted as assistant director. Ben Franklin was stage manager and Miss Negus had charge of the costumes.
There were approximately 350 people present. The proceeds went for the music department.

The leading parts were taken by Miss Nancy Jean Scheetz as the statue of liberty; Jack Ednie as Columbus, Warren Virgil as King; Christina Rauch as queen and Jack Jerue as the Indian chief.

School Activities

History-English
The eighth grade English classes are busy this week studying the story, "Snowbound," by Whittier. Review and notebook work are the projects of the eighth grade history classes, which will be preliminary to a final examination over all the history that they have studied.

The eighth grade also has had an election to decide which man would win the title of governor of Michigan. Fitzgerald was the winner.
Students of the seventh grade history classes are studying the causes of the Civil war.

Languages
Latin students of the ninth grade will have a vocabulary spell down. First conjugation verbs are being studied.

Donald Roti Roti does not intend for anyone to catch up with him. First, Don came to school walking on crutches; then in a few weeks began "wearing" crutches, too.
After several students adopted crutches for walking Don came to school sporting a flashy cane.
"Very nice, Donald."
English 9 and 10

The ninth grade English students finished the grammar review and had a test on the parts of speech. They studied direct objects, indirect objects, and predicate nominatives.
Tenth graders worked on the chapter, "Dramatizing Stories" in their text books. Short plays were handed in by each member.
Journalism classes are continuing the unit of description in description in scenes and stories.
The shorthand class is learning the method of expressing y, ng, and nk, also studying prefixes and suffixes.

AT THE THEATRE

"Girl of Limberlost" Grips with Vivid Characters, Drama

Lending vivid reality to the "down to earth" American characters of Gene Stratton-Porter's famous best-seller, "Girl of the Limberlost," has gained popular acclaim at all of its initial and 1st run showings, and will be shown at the Hollywood for three days starting next Sunday matinee at 2:30 p. m.
The photoplay is a faithful transcription of the Gene Stratton-Porter original, and preserves the full flavor of the Mid-Western rural locale.

One of the most popular of the author's works, the familiar story deals with the efforts of pretty Elinora Comstock to gain an education against the determined opposition of an unrelenting mother, who has hated her child since birth. Into the plot enters those two kindly souls, Little and Margaret Sinton, and Wess and Margie, the orphaned ragamuffins, whom Elinora befriends.
Its a simple story, but beautifully told, and remarkably played by such splendid troupers as Louise Dresser, as the mother, Ralph Morgan, as Wes Sinton, Marian Marsh in the title role, and Henry B. Walthall, Helen Jerome Eddy, Eddie Nugent and GIGI Parrish, the Wampus baby star.
Christy Cabanne is to be credited with one of his finest efforts in his direction of the picture, and the entire production is a credit to Hollywood studios. See it, and bring the entire family! It's a real family picture!

Paramount's big boy and little boy, those two comedians, W. C. Fields and Baby LeRoy, are teamed together again in one of those rare, rib-tickling, gorgeous comedy pictures. This time it's "The Old-Fashioned Way," which opens as feature number one on tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday's double bill program. The film presents Fields as "the Great McGonigle," a sort of barnyard Barrymore, who leads his impoverished troupe from village to village with irate sherriff.

The tenth grade history class is discussing the life of Charlemagne. The causes of the Mexican War and the post-war problems furnished the discussion in the 12th grade history class.

The English Language
The English language belongs to the great Germanic branch of the Teutonic family of languages. It was brought to the British Isles during the Fifth and Sixth centuries by the invasions of the Angles, Saxons and Jutes.

Growth of Brazil
Brazil has an estimated population of nearly 45,000,000, and is growing at the rate of a million a year. It has more than half of all the people in South America. It has nearly one-half of the whole Latin population in the Western Hemisphere, from the Straits of Magellan to the Rio Grande. In area it is a couple of hundred thousand square miles larger than the United States without Alaska and the Philippines.

iffs in hot pursuit, the picture uses old-fashioned melodrama, slapstick and ribald comedy situations to secure several of its most precious comedy moments. Joe Morrison, Judith Allen and Jack Mihal complete the prominent cast.
Never has that master of mystery dramas, S. S. Van Dine, woven a plot with more thrilling and hair raising incidents, set in a background of eerie detail that makes cold chills creep up and down the spine, than in "The Dragon Murder Case," which its feature number two of Friday-Saturday's double feature bill, Warren William, portraying the now internationally famous fiction detective, Philo Vance, has created a character with which he undoubtedly will be forever linked, for William is Vance, and Vance is William. Surrounding Williams is Eugene Pallette, who again plays Serg. Heath, Robert McWade, also once more District Attorney, Margaret Lindsay, Robert Barrat, Lyle Talbot and Helen Lowell.
Next week Wednesday and Thursday (Bargain Nights) the Hollywood presents Buchanan's favorite female star, Janet Gaynor, reunited with her "State Fair" sweetheart, Lew Ayres, in "Servant's Entrance," a well-produced yarn of a rich girl posing as a servant and falling in love with a chauffeur. Ned Sparks, as a sour-faced humorist, is one of the employers of the masquerading servant and he gets plenty out of his part. Sparks is worth the price of admission alone, and the novelty numbers with dishes and other utensils serenading LaGaynor while she is asleep will click with young and older patrons alike. "Servant's Entrance" is a film you should mark on your calendar of events. Human, down-to-earth, entertainment.

Boy Scouting Now Provided For Farm Boys

The boy on the farm may enjoy all the privileges of Boy Scouting under the revised plan of the national Scout organization, and he may be a Lone Scout if necessary or a member of a small group of 5 boys. In a survey of 1400 troops located in small towns it was found that 30 per cent of the Scouts lived on farms, but that too many of them had to drop out because the time for holding meetings conflicted with the farm program in which their help was needed.

Fifteen nationally known rural men discussed the problems and plans and helped perfect this program.

A farm boy may now enter and go clear through the program of advancement from Tenderfoot to Eagle rank. Every major subject of farm life is included in the Scouting merit badge program.

The Scout handbook has been revised to make it helpful to farm boys and at the same time enrich the program for town and city boys. This will in time help the whole nation, to a better understanding of the relationships and interdependence of agricultural and urban life.

Individual boys may become Lone Scouts or a group of five or more living in the same farm district may organize a Lone Scout Tribe, or a group of two to eight may organize a Home Patrol or there may be a local troop.

Rural Cubbing
The farm boy of 9 to 11 can now have the "Cubbing" program, despite the fact that he does not live in town.

The Boy Scouts of America under an enabling grant from the Rockefeller Foundation has developed a program for these ages, entirely different from Scouting, and graduating into it when the boy reaches 12 years of age.

When this program was built, the interests and needs of rural boys were included. It therefore is an ideal program for younger farm boys in America.

Since the cubbing program is home-centered it fits into the isolated farm home as well as into the farm community. Parents cooperate in their boy having the benefit of cub training in constructive activities and high ideals of behavior.

It is very practical to start cubbing and scouting in a neighborhood by starting with a lone boy as a cub; later he joins up with some neighbor boys and a Den or Pack is formed, leading on to Scouting in later years.

Refuge From Indians
An old stone house, in which pioneer citizens took refuge when attacked by Indians, still stands at Clarksville.

Early Roman Blonds
The Romans were mostly dark haired people, but the desire to be blond led some Roman ladies to experiment with dyes and other preparations.

Chinese Jews
The only known Chinese Jews have lived in Kaifung, China, since 1163 A.D. For several hundred years they kept their colony apart from the Chinese. Today, however, after numerous generations of intermarriage, the few who are left have almost entirely lost their original racial characteristics. — Collier's Weekly.

Fitzgerald Will Resign as State Official

Secretary of State Frank Fitzgerald set a precedent when he announced immediately after election that he would resign from his present post and devote the rest of the year to the study of state affairs.

In the state's history one other secretary of state has resigned for entirely different reasons. One secretary of state has been removed from office. Mr. Fitzgerald expects to spend the remaining weeks of the year to the formulation of policies and plans to present to the legislature in January.

At Mr. Fitzgerald's request, Gov. William A. Comstock has announced that Deputy Secretary of State Clarke W. Brown will be appointed secretary for the balance of the year.

Mr. Fitzgerald will assume the governorship under conditions different than those faced by an incoming chief executive. Four of the seven members of the state administrative board will be of a different political faith. The state senate, according to unofficial reports, will be composed of 21 republicans and 11 democrats while the house of representatives will contain at least 48 republicans and 51 democrats. The vote in Iron county was a tie in early returns.

In announcing his resignation, Mr. Fitzgerald declared that he expects the entire administrative board will work in a harmonious manner. "The people of Michigan," he said, "have elected their state officials because they believe they will receive good government from them. I know I speak for every member of the board in declaring that we will attempt to follow the mandate of the voters in this regard."

Meaning of "California"
If the name of the Golden State were reduced to its Spanish interpretation it is very probable that the aggressive advertising of its climate would be largely nullified, for literally "California" is a combination of two Spanish words meaning "hot furnace," writes C. R. Turner in the Kansas City Times. The Spaniards, who were the first white men to explore the state, gave it this name because their interest was not in the cool, verdant lands of the seacoast, but in the hot, arid sections of the interior, where it was believed gold was to be found.
