"World's All Right" Showing at B. H. S. Auditorium Tonight Only

RAISES TOTAL OF DIVIDENDS TO 85 PER CENT

Now Here's
the Proposition

Uncle
Hank
of
Hills
Corners
Sez:

Ez a rule the feller that hez brains enuff to criticize the neighbors, hez brains enuff not to.

The main thing I got again the young folks is that they don't stay young.

Mrs. Petruska Willoughby was declared third winner of the Moccasin and Third street weekly wash-day race, having distanced her closest competitor in getting out her wash by two shirts and a pair of pantaloons.

Success Story!

Well, friends and neighbors, good fortune has smiled and admitted us to her favored circle at last and we take this opportunity to enable our many thousands of friends in this vicinity to rejoice with us. During a long and checkered career we have fought the wolves of adversity from our doorstep only to have them return again and again, until it seems strange to find ourselves seated on the lap of prosperity but here we are. It was like this.

We got off to a poor start in life. The best our father could do for us as a send-off was to get us a job as vice-president of an oil company, and heaven knows that was a come down for a family with a haughty past. But instead of bettering our condition things got worse. Next we were president of a bank. Then we could bear that no longer and got ourselves elected as governor of Indiana. Heaven knows how we suffered from shame and mortification of spirit. But worse was to come.

After we got out of the governorship we were elected general manager of the Michigan Central. From there we sunk to the chairman of the board of General Motors. The end seemed near.

One day we decided that enough was enough and we were sitting in the window of the Hotel Rex looking for a clear spot in the traffic before we jumped, when, like a flash we had an idea!

Something different! Something never thought of before! One of those ideas that come like a bolt from the blue and illuminate the while past and future.

With us to think is to act. We swung our legs off the window sill on the inside and rushed to the telephone.

"Number Nine," we barked. (High pressure men always bark. Woof! Woof!)

"Hello, is this Number Nine? Yes, Number Nine—Ny-One! Ny-One!"

"Is this the Record printing company, headquarters for deluxe printing at ground-floor prices? Got anything on the press? Well, throw it out, we gotta real job."

Then we hired three private secretaries, each one more private than the other, and went to work. We drew up a lot of signs, rushed them to the printer and got them printed in job lots.

Then we hired a large force of working men and planted them on all main trunk highways leading out of large cities. Say on M-128 out of Buchanan they would read in sequence something like this:

THINK A MINUTE
TRY AND REMEMBER
DID YOU LOCK THE BACK DOOR?
DID YOU SHUT OFF THE FURNACE?
DID YOU LEAVE THE LIGHT ON IN THE BASEMENT?
DID YOU SHUT THE BED-ROOM WINDOWS?
WHAT IF IT SHOULD RAIN?
WHAT IF THE FURNACE SHOULD GET OVERHEATED?
WHAT IF THE GAS SHOULD ASPHYXIATE GRANDMA?

MERRY COMEDY IS SHOWN UNDER LEGION AUSPICES

Is Take-Off on Life Behind Scenes in Radio Broadcasting Station.

Due to the icy streets and slippery roads the play "The World's All Right" was called off for last night and all tickets for Wednesday evening's performance will be good tonight at the high school auditorium.

This radio comedy is a sure-fire hit, with fast moving lines and action, clever dances beautifully costumed, and special numbers that appeal to everyone.

One of the highlights of the show Jimmy Waddell's "Mince Pie". This is an exceptionally funny impersonation skit, well interpreted by Jack Boone, which brings down the house.

The Harlem High-Steppers, featuring Lovin' Sam and Gertie Green played by Burton Mills and Miss Beverly Koons, are just as Mr. Dinkell describes them when he pays $27,500 for their act, a sensation.

The medley of love songs sung by Miss Hilma Rastetter, accompanied by a Minuet and Old Fashioned Garden chorus is breath-taking in its beauty. Music, soft, changing lights and beautiful costumes—all these comprise this charming number.

For real comedy that makes you rock in your seat, you can't afford to miss the Hill Billy Harmonizers with their five musicians, mountaineer songs, chicken-reel and their pantomime of the old melodrama "Frankie and Johnnie."

At least 205,250 motorists in Michigan have failed to renew their drivers' licenses and as a result are placing themselves in jeopardy of the financial responsibility law. In most instances, according to Secretary of State Orville E. Atwood, the failure to secure new licenses is due to oversight and not to any desire to circumvent the law.

ONE GENERATION LINKS BUCHANAN TO PIONEER PAST

Albert Hunter's Job as a Boy
Was to Guard Growing
Wheat Crops from Ravages Wild Turkeys.

Although some of the younger fry think that Buchanan is an old town, every now and then we are reminded how close the town still is to its pioneer past.

Such a reminder was contained in the death of Albert Hunter last week. It was erroneously stated in the Record that he was born in the Bend of the River district, and that at his father's home was held the first Methodist meetings held in this section of Michigan. It was in an uncle's home that this occurred. Albert Hunter was born three miles south of Buchanan on what is now known as the Fuller farm. It is a picturesque old house, situated on a small hill with a small lake to the left, covered with lily pads and a wood behind. A year ago we passed it and observed two artists with easels and folding chairs seated beside the road transcribing its beauty on canvas.

In a house which preceded this present structure, Albert Hunter was born, and there he learned to break and drive oxen and aided in fighting the wild game away from the growing crops, then surrounded by deep primeval woods. It was one of his tasks as a boy to take a noise making device and seat himself in the edge of the woods to frighten away the flocks of wild turkeys that would otherwise devour the wheat. Many times, he once stated, he went out to the cattle yards early in the morning and as he approached the hay racks, a deer would skip nimbly away that had been feeding with the cattle.

Deer, wild turkeys, bear, and even panther were not at all scarce in the woods as late as the fifties. Wolves were a constant menace to sheep, hogs and young cattle. The bears were fond of pigs and would clean out a pig pen in no time unless killed or trapped.

Hunter farmed with oxen as a young man, and the old barn yet standing on the farm was built from timbers cut and hewed by him in the woods back of the house and hauled to the site of the barn with a yoke of two-year-old steers. When Mr. Hunter was on the farm it was one of the most beautiful and well kept places in the country. The entire hill around the house and in front of the barns was sodded, so that you could take off your shoes and go to the barn without getting your socks dirty.

Perhaps They Saw That Strained Look on George's Face

George Himmelberger, the hustling, hard-working manager of the local unit of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Stores, has been awarded a half day off weekly by the company management so that he can catch up on his fishing or any other unfinished business. The hours of the store are from 7 a. m. until 6:30 p. m. with the exception of Saturday, when it remains open until 10:30 p. m. during which hours Mr. Himmelberger has been much in evidence in the past, dashing around energetically waiting on customers. So now if you see him out skating or coasting down Chicago street hill some afternoon you'll understand—it's his half day off.

EVANS ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY JUDGE OF CIRCUIT COURT

St. Joseph, Attorney to Oppose
Chas. E. White, Who is Candidate for Fourth Term.

Fremont Evans, city attorney of St. Joseph, yielded to the demands of more than one hundred Democrats from all parts of Berrien county yesterday when, a few minutes after his return from a meeting of the directors of the Michigan Municipal League, of which he is president, at Ann Arbor, he was invited before the Democratic meeting, and informed that they had unanimously drafted him as their candidate for Circuit Judge to oppose Judge Charles E. White, who is a candidate for a fourth term, and whose opponent eighteen years ago was Mr. Evans.

For several months, Democratic leaders have been urging Mr. Evans to become a candidate but for business reasons he had previously declined all urging.

In consenting, Mr. Evans stated that, if the people wanted a change after eighteen years, that was their privilege. He told party leaders that his business demands would not permit him to personally make an intensive campaign, and that if he was to be elected, it must be largely because of their efforts and a real demand from the people.

He particularly urged his friends to conduct the campaign on a high plane befitting the dignity of the office. He pointed out that the co-operation of the various attorneys was indispensable to the maximum of success of any judge, and that the campaign should be so conducted as to command the respect of the attorneys as well as the public whom they represented from time to time.

Mr. Evans stated that, if elected, he would do his utmost to effect an economical, efficient administration, without favor or partiality to his supporters, or fear to any who opposed him; that, win or lose, his efforts would continue for the best interest of justice, with malice toward none, and with the same high regard for the judge and all members of the bar.

LAST SURVIVOR DESENBERG FIRM TAKEN BY DEATH

Last of Three Brothers in Business Here Over Forty Years in Firm of B. R.
Desenberg & Bro.

The last surviving member of the original firm of B. R. Desenberg & Bro., a leading business institution of this city for over 40 years, passed away with the death of Sigmund Desenberg, which occurred at his home at 112 South Portage street at 5:30 p. m. Sunday.

The original firm consisted of Ben R. Desenberg and Sigmund Desenberg, who opened a store here Sept. 15, 1894 in the building adjoining the present location on the east. Originally the firm had a ladies' wear store. In 1906 Ben Desenberg died, and two years later a third brother, L. M. Desenberg, joined the firm, with which he was connected until his death, Dec. 2, 1934.

The line of men's wear was then added in the quarters still occupied by the firm. When the ladies' wear line was discontinued a few years ago the arched cut between the two rooms was closed, but there may still be seen over the installed enclosure the first coin taken in by the firm the day it opened in 1894.

The firm of B. R. Desenberg & Bro. was the first to install the one-price system in Buchanan. Previous to that date it was the custom for the merchant to have only his cost price in code on the goods. Then he charged the customer what he could get.

Sigmund Desenberg sold out his interest in the store three years ago and retired. In former years he was a leader in the business and social community life of the town.

He was born in Germany, Nov. 15, 1862, the son of Hertz and Miriam Rosenstein Desenberg. He came to the United States with his parents at the age of two years. He was joined in marriage Oct. 24, 1900 with Rena Desenberg, Lawton, who survives him. Other survivors are: a son, Atty. Harold B. Desenberg, Detroit; two daughters, Johanna R. and Bertha R. Desenberg, at home; two sisters, Mrs. Rosa Desenberg and Miss Amelia Desenberg of Buchanan.

Funeral services were held at 10 a. m. yesterday from the home, with Rabbi Schulman, South Bend, in charge. Pallbearers were Harold Nussbaum, Arthur Livingston, Bernard Sterns, Albert Sterns, J. F. Vile, Dr. J. L. Godfrey. Burial was made in Mountain Home cemetery, Kalamazoo.

Funeral Services are Held Here for a Former Resident

Funeral services were held on Tuesday from the Hamilton Funeral Home for Mrs. Della Clough VanAntwerp, former resident of this section, who died at Three Oaks Sunday. Paul Carpenter, pastor of the Church of Christ, preached the funeral sermon. Burial was in Oak Ridge cemetery.

Della Clough VanAntwerp, widow of the late Hiram John VanAntwerp, was born in Arcadia, New York, Oct. 20, 1860, and was the daughter of John and Belva Bond Clough. Her marriage to Hiram VanAntwerp took place in Topeka, Kansas, in 1880. For 45 years she has resided in Weesaw, Niles, and Buchanan townships. Mr. VanAntwerp passed away June 15, 1929. At the age of 15 years she was united with the Baptist church at Attica, N. Y.

Following a year's illness she passed away at the home of her son, Otis VanAntwerp, four miles north of Three Oaks, Sunday morning, Jan. 12, at 3 a. m. at the age of 73 years, 2 months and 23 days.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. John Andrews, Buchanan; a son, Otis VanAntwerp, of Three Oaks; eight grandchildren, one great grandchild, and one brother, Otis Clough, Seattle, Wash.

Veterans Foreign Wars Sponsor "1st World War," at Hollywood

Exceeding the promise of its most enthusiastic advance reports and proving itself the most powerful of the war films yet released, the Fox production, "The First World War," plays one night only, next Tuesday, Jan. 22nd, at the Hollywood theatre.

"The First World War" was inspired by the sensational book of Laurence Stallings by the same title, one of the real publishing feats of its day. Stallings, long known as one of America's outstanding authorities and commentators on the World War, has edited the film—in the same spirit and with the same success that attended his sponsorship of the book.

Tickets are now on sale by the Veterans, who are conducting a vigorous ticket-selling campaign for this meritorious war film which should not be missed by virtue of its rare photography, entertainment high-lights and historical interest. Plenty of fast moving shorts complete the program.

Roots Cage 5 Runners Up in Ind. Tournament

The Root News Agency basketball team played its way to the finals in an independent cage tournament held during the week at New Carlisle, disposing of two Indiana teams before they lost in the finals to the Chicago Telephone company team of Elkhart Sunday afternoon 44 to 23.

The Elkhart team which won is one of the leading independent teams of Indiana, which has its own paid coach and plays in its own gymnasium. They were distinctly above the class of the other teams in the tournament.

The Roots News team won a close game Sunday afternoon from the Madison independent team, champions of St. Joseph county, Ind., by a score of 44 to 43. In the evening they won from the Hoosier Sparks of New Carlisle 56 to 34. In this game "Tucky" Brewer of the Roots team scored 13 field goals and two free throws for a total of 28 points, which ranked him as high point winner for the entire tournament.

The game was played in the gymnasium improvised for the New Carlisle independent team in the town hall.

Marjorie Campbell Has Poem Printed In Nat. Magazine

In a selection of poems by "Scholastic graduates" in the Jan. 19th issue of the Scholastic magazine there is published a poem by Miss Marjorie Campbell of this city, who contributed several to the national scholastic magazine while an under graduate at the Buchanan high school. The magazine is published in the interests of the high school pupils of the United States, and its columns contain the best offerings selected from those of many thousands of young people. It is considered quite an honor to "be printed" through this medium. The verse by Miss Campbell in the current issue is the following:

Black Cranes
Gold of a long day's mintage
Burns in the western sky,
And, on the far horizon
Slowly the black cranes fly.

Heart that has fed of beauty,
Suffered the scourge of pain,
Why do you thirst?—Has the sun's gold
Wakened desire again?

Silence!—oh, heart grown hungry,
Lest, when you wake and cry:
Wounds of an ancient sorrow
Bleed, while the black cranes fly.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson moved Tuesday from South Bend into the Murphy residence property at Oak and Roe streets. Mr. Johnson is employed in the River street plant.

At the time the total had reached 55 per cent the local receivership was credited with the largest and most rapid repayment record in the state at that date.

The bank was closed Oct. 16, 1931. The first dividend paid was one of 45 per cent in June, 1932. The second dividend, 10 per cent, was paid in December, 1932. The third, 20 per cent was paid in June, 1934.

From a man seeking to make millions to a man seeking to give millions away. That is the latest screen transition made by George Arliss.

In his new starring production,

"The Last Gentleman," coming to the Hollywood Sunday matinee for a two-day run, Mr. Arliss is a rich old man, who is trying to pick an heir. Previous to this, Mr. Arliss played the founder of the great banking family in "The House of Rothschild."

"The Last Gentleman" is further at variance from the preceding film in that it takes the star from the field of drama into that of comedy. Mr. Arliss has several times before proved his versatility by stepping from one medium to another and considers it one of the reasons for his continued success. Supporting him in this United Artists release are such artists as Edna May Oliver, Janet Beecher, Charlotte Henry, Ralph Morgan and Frank Albertson.

High adventure into that little known buffer strip between the earth's atmosphere and inter-planetary space forms the basis for "Lost in the Stratosphere," the comedy-drama with William Cagney, Edward Nugent and June Collyer which opens as feature one on tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday's double bill. The Fox production, "365 Nights in Hollywood," is the second feature, and one of the fastest and funniest screen fantasias based on a Hollywood acting school. It's the laughing low-down on a couple of Hollywood upstarts, and stars Jimmy Dunn with Alice Faye, Mitchell and Durand, Chapter eight of "The Red Rider" and a Betty Boop cartoon is the balance of the bill.

Humanity's greatest confession, is the phrase that has been used to describe the notable volume of war photographs, edited by Laurence Stallings, "The First World War," which for many months has been a best-seller not only in the United States but in Europe as well.

Now this volume has been the inspiration for a thrilling motion picture, likewise edited by Laurence Stallings and likewise titled, "The First World War." It is showing next Tuesday night only, by co-operation of and benefit of the Buchanan Veterans of Foreign Wars. Tickets for this show are now on sale.

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Deut. 32:7, 40): "Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations; ask thy father, and he will show thee; thy elders and they will tell thee. For I lift up my hand to heaven, and say, I live for ever."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary

Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 376): "The pallid invalid, whom you declare to be wasting away with consumption of the blood, should be told that blood never gave life and can never take it away—that Life is Spirit, and that there is more life and immortality in one good motive and act, than in all the blood which ever flowed through mortal veins, and simulated a corporeal sense of life."

MRS. MINNIE PENNELL

Mrs. Minnie Pennell, wife of Clyde Pennell, was born near Baroda, Mich., in 1888, being the only child of Levi and Lizzie Shafer. After much suffering, which was patiently and cheerfully borne she entered into life eternal on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 9th.

She was actively identified with Mt. Tabor Grange. She was a most faithful member of the Oronoko Methodist Episcopal church, worshipping her Heavenly Father each Sunday in this little house of God. She was president of the Ladies Aid Society. Nothing seemed to be planned in Grange, church or community without first consulting her and getting her approval and co-operation. We shall meet but we shall miss her. Her words of cheer and endearing ways will always be in a beautiful memory and example to those who knew her and loved her. In her home she was ever a loyal wife and companion to her husband, a devoted mother to her children. In her community she cheerfully took part in the social and neighborhood life. In her church she was always dependable and helpful.

Surviving are her husband, whom she married October 9, 1921; her mother, Mrs. Lizzie Shafer; three daughters, Mrs. Elmore Pratt of Chicago, Mrs. Milton Mitchell of Buchanan township and Mrs. Martin Halverson of Flint; a son, Ralph, at home; three grandchildren, Marjory Ann, Mitchell and Patricia and Janice Halverson.

The sinister charm of George East, the sensuous, bamboo-like beauty of Anna May Wong and the wistful loveliness of Jean Parker, in the leading roles of Paramount's "Limehouse Blues," coming as feature one of a Bargain Nights double bill next week Wednesday and Thursday, combine to make this film of the famous London underworld a picture of unusual excellence, force and drama.

The world's champion gold-diggers are back! Joan Blondell and Glenda Farrell officially open the man-hunting season in their newest, gayest and giddiest hit, "Kansas City Princess," which is feature two of next week's Bargain Nights bill. Hugh Herbert is the recognize many in the cast that have been appearing in "Gold Diggers," "Dames" and other hit Warner Brothers musicals.

This tonic gave me a better appetite and I gained strength." New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00. Write Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y.

When an application is made for work, either to an employer or at an employment agency, it is very important that the applicant be able to give a telephone number at which he can be reached. For, when jobs open, the quickest and easiest way to summon workers is by telephone. Other things being equal, the applicant who has a telephone is quite likely to get first call.

Telephone service can be had for only a few cents a day. For complete information, write or visit the Telephone Business Office.

WHEN YOU CASH A CHECK

When you cash or deposit a check for $100, drawn on a bank in some other city, you may not realize what it will cost your bank to collect that check.

For you the transaction is complete. It has not occurred to you that your bank has actually advanced you $100 of its own money for several days until it can get the $100 back from the bank in the other city, meanwhile losing the interest on this amount.

Also, during this process of collection your check must be recorded, letters written, verified, mailed and otherwise handled by many people.

This is only one of many valuable and costly services that bank patrons sometimes "take for granted."

Jan. 29 Last Date to File Candidacy for Spring Election

Candidates for circuit judges and for the various county officers elected in the spring must file nominating petitions by 4 o'clock Eastern Standard time on Jan. 29, if they are to secure places on the primary ballots March 4.

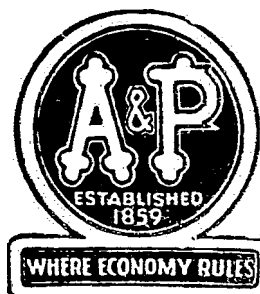

All candidates for circuit judge must, under the law, file their petitions with the Secretary of State while candidates for county office file with the county clerk. In order to secure a place on the ballot candidates for circuit judge must file petitions containing signatures of at least one per cent of the vote cast for their party's candidate for secretary of state in the judicial circuit. The same percentage of signatures is required for county candidates filing with the clerk.

This year the spring primary will be held March 4 and the general spring election April 1. Nominations for the state officers to be elected are made by conventions of the various political parties.

The final date for filing petitions for the special elections to fill the vacancies in the house of representatives caused by the Hotel Kerns fire was last Saturday. The primary is set for Feb. 4 and the election for March 4. The special elections will be held in the Second Legislative District of Genesee county, the Midland-Gladwin District and in Sanilac and Tuscola counties.

Under the law adopted by the 1933 legislature, the Republican party will again have the first place on the April ballot.

THE NARRATIVE

CHAPTER I.—David Ransdell, approaching New York on the liner Europa, receives a succession of diagrams offering him $1,000, finally $20,000, for an exclusive newspaper interview divulging the mission that brings him from South Africa. Ransdell, noted aviator, has been secretly commissioned by Cape Town by Lord Rhondini and Professor Bronson, the astronomer, to fly across the Atlantic in the space liner, with a large traveling case containing photographic plates. His instructions are to deliver the mission to Dr. Cole Henderson, in New York. Tony Drake calls at the Henderson apartment, and Ransdell, who is deeply in love, introduces Tony to Ransdell.

CHAPTER II.—New York newspaper publishes a statement made by Henderson and concurred in by sixty of the world's greatest scientists. The prepared statement states that Professor Bronson has discovered two planets, which must have broken away from the sun and are now traveling through interstellar space for an incalculable time. They came to a region of the heavens which brought them at last under the attraction of the sun. The statement ends: "Their previous course, consequently, has been modified by the sun and a force they are now approaching us. The result of the inevitable collision must be the end of the earth. As Bronson Alpha and Bronson Beta, the latter being the smaller—about the size of the earth and revolving about Bronson Alpha as the moon does about the earth."

CHAPTER III.—"It's going to be doomsday, isn't it?" Tony Drake asks Eve. "More than that," she tells him. She explains that the first time the Bronson Bodies approach the earth they will not hit it, but the second time, one, Bronson Beta, will pass and the other will hit the earth and demolish it. To devise means of transferring to Bronson Beta, which is like the earth, is what is occupying the minds of the members of the League of the Lost Days.

CHAPTER IV.—Henderson tells Tony he is to be a member of the selected crew of the projected Space Ship which Henderson plans to build, with the idea of landing on Bronson Beta. Henderson established him to gain a knowledge of agriculture and proficiency in manual arts and elementary sciences. Tony rounds up suitable men and women to build the ship at a campment Henderson established in northern Michigan. Just before the planets first approach, Tony returns to Henderson's conditions throughout the country.

CHAPTER V.—Henderson has not been able to find a metal alloy which will withstand the heat and pressure of atomic energy to be used in propelling the Space Ship. The night before Henderson and his immediate party are to fly to Michigan, Henderson calls through the streets of New York.

CHAPTER VI.—The tides sweep back to the Pacific Ocean, east and to the mountains on the Pacific side, and quakes change the earth's surface. The United States Washington government moves as many millions as possible to the great Mississippi valley. The great settlement survives unprecedented earthquakes, the seismic disturbances having been caused by Henderson and his party leave New York for the continent.

CHAPTER VII.—Bronson Alpha collides with the earth and melts out. Ransdell and Eliot James, an English poet whom Henderson has invited to join the party, return on aerial reconnaissance, as the Henderson colony is in ignorance of conditions elsewhere. Ransdell reports almost universal destruction and reign of lawlessness throughout the country.

CHAPTER VIII.—Three weeks later, Ransdell, with Peter Vanderbilt, prominent New Yorker, selected by Henderson as a member of the party on the Space Ship, and a party of six, including a doctor, fly over a large section of the devastated country. They are attacked by a crowd and each member of the party wounded, but they return alive, and Ransdell has found and brought back a sample of metal which chemists have been unable to discover and which is indispensable to the construction of the Space Ship.

CHAPTER IX.—The Space Ship will accommodate only 100 persons. With the lower story of the Henderson is conveying to the New Earth. There are only picked men and women. Henderson calls each member of the party wounded, but they return alive, and Ransdell has found and brought back a sample of metal which chemists have been unable to discover and which is indispensable to the construction of the Space Ship.

Although in Eliot James' diaries the days appeared to be crammed with events, to the dwellers in Henderson's colony the weeks passed in what seemed like a steady routine, and James had been so busy that he was unable to write voluminously.

"Dec. 4: Today what we call the keel of the second Space Ship was laid. The first has been popularly named 'Noah's Ark,' and we have offered a prize of five thousand dollars in absolutely worthless bank notes for anybody who will contrive a name for the second."

"Dec. 7: Kyoto, the Japanese servant whom Tony Drake had had for some years in New York, and of whom he was inordinately fond, walked peacefully into camp. The inscrutable little Jap walked up to Tony, whose back was turned. Kyoto's face was like a smiling Buddha's, and fully appreciating the drama of the situation, he said in his odd voice: 'With exceeding humbleness request possibilities of return to former employment.' When Tony spun around I thought he was going to faint. Immediately afterward he began thumping Kyoto's back so hard that I personally feared for the Jap's life. But he seemed to be very, in fact, he must have the constitution of a steel spring for he has traveled overland more than eight hundred miles in the past two months, and his story, which I am getting out of him piecemeal, is one of fabulous adventures."

"Jan. 19: I discovered only today that Henderson has used for insulation between the double walls of the new completed Ark, two thick layers of asbestos, and between them, bricks. The bricks make reasonably good insulating material, and when we arrive at our future home, if we do not arrive with too hard a blow, we will be provided with an enormous and complete library. Amazing fellow, Henderson."

"Jan. 18: A flight was made to the 'mines' from which Ransdell's metals have been taken, and in the course of it the plane passed over St. Paul and Minneapolis. Apparently the mobs in those two cities have for the most part either perished or migrated. However, we have not drawn in the outpost stationed around the cantonment after the last attack, and if we should be again attacked in force, we shall not temporize but use the final weapon at once."

"Jan. 20: There was dancing in the hall of the women's dormitory and Ransdell so far overcame his almost animal shyness that he danced once with Eve. The rivalry between Ransdell and Tony is the most popular subject of discussion among the girls and women, but such a bond has grown between the two men that I know whoever is defeated in the contest, if there is one, will not take his medicine honorably and generously. I am wondering, however, about the business of victory or defeat. The women here slightly outnumber the men. It will be necessary for them to bear children on the new planet. Variation of our new race will be desirable. Perhaps we will resort in the main to polyandry, and abolish, because of biological necessity, all marriage. There are a good many very real love affairs existent already."

"He Must Have the Constitution of a Steel Spring, for He Has Traveled Overland More Than Eight Hundred Miles in the Past Two Months. . . His Story Is One of Fabulous Adventure."

"Feb. 17: In a little more than a month it will be time for our departure. As that solemn hour approaches all of us tend to think back into our lives, rather than forward toward our new lives. Henderson has not hesitated to make it clear that our relatively short jump through space will be dangerous indeed. The ships may not have been contrived properly to withstand what are at best merely theoretical conditions. The cold of outer space may overwhelm us. The rays which travel through the empty reaches when we thrust ourselves among them clad in the thin cylinders of our Ark may exert a different potency from that expected under the layer of earth's atmosphere. Either or both of our projectiles may collide with a wandering asteroid, in which case the consequences will be similar to those anticipated from the collision of earth with Bronson Alpha. Henderson assures us only that the ships will fly, and if they reach the atmosphere on Bronson Beta, it will be possible to land them."

"Feb. 22: The Bronson Bodies have reappeared in the sky with visible discs. Observations through our modest telescope show clearly that Bronson Beta, warmed by the sun, has a surface now completely thawed. At the first approach, an excellent spectroscopic analysis was made of the planet's composition. The analysis denoted its fitness to support human life, but we stand in such awe of it that we say to ourselves only: 'Perhaps we shall be able to live if we ever disembark there'; but we cannot know. There may be things upon its mysterious surface, elemental conditions undreamed of by man. However, there is some mysterious comfort, a sort of superstitious courage, afforded to many of our numbers by the fact that as our doom approaches a future home is also waxing brightly in the dark sky."

"Feb. 25: Tremendous effort is being expended upon the second Ark. The task of accumulating metal for its construction was tremendous. Hendersonville looks like a little Pittsburgh—its furnaces going all night, its roads ruttled by heavy trucks, and its foundries shaking with a continual roar of machinery. The construction of the second Ark in such a record time would have been impossible had it not been for the adaptability of Henderson's solution of atomic disintegration. Power and heat we have in unlimited quantities."

"March 6: The day and hour of departure has been announced. In order to intercept the Bronson Body at its most advantageous point, we shall leave the earth on the 27th of this month at 1:45 a. m. precisely. It is estimated that the journey will require 90 hours, although it could be made much more quickly."

"March 18: From time to time, when our own receiving apparatus has been functioning, we have overheard radio broadcasts from the world outside. The static is still tremendous, and these broadcasts have been most unsatisfactory. Once in November and again in January we heard the President of the United States. He recited in a very strained and weary voice a few fragmentary details of life in his small kingdom. Not in any hope of aid, but as if he wished to inform any one else who might be listening, what the situation was. On three or four occasions we have caught snatches of broadcasts from foreign stations. But, except for a lull immediately after the storms, we have never been able to overhear enough so that we know anything definite about the situation in Europe or elsewhere."

"March 20: A week from tonight we shall leave the earth. The approach of this zero hour has cast a spell on the colonists. They move as if in a dream. Nervous tension is enormous."

"Everything is in readiness; a few perishables will be moved into the ships in the last hours; the stock and poultry have already been domiciled in their quarters, although they have not been lashed fast. I have been given by Henderson, to include with my papers, a complete list of the contents of both ships. In spite of their enormous size—the second ship looks like three gas-storage tanks piled on top of each other, and also has the same shining exterior as the first—it is impossible to believe that they could contain all the items in these lists."

"It is the most incredible assortment of the gear that belongs to mankind ever assembled in any one place. We are ready."

"When I think," Tony said to Eve as they sat side by side on a small hilltop watching the descent of twilight into the busy valley, "of the foresight and ingenuity of your father, I am appalled. He was ahead of most of the people in the world in his idea for leaving the earth, and he was ahead of all of us when he saw the possibility and the practicability of taking everybody who was left after the struggle to the new planet. It's odd. I used to imagine scenes that would exist when the Ark was ready to leave, and of the thousands of us here only a hundred could be chosen. It would have been a terrible period for every one."

Eve hugged herself with her arms and looked at him sidewise. "I knew all about Dad's plans for the departure, and I knew something else. You were not to go, were you?"

"Me? Of course not. What good would I have been?"

Eve smiled. On this evening, an evening so close to the great adventure, she seemed radiant and unusually tender. "You're modest, Tony. That's one of your greatest charms. Let me tell you: Once I saw the list Dad had made up. He had given Bronson first place. I came second, Dodson was third, Ransdell was fourth. And you were fifth, Tony. When he could pick almost as he wished from the whole world, he made you fifth. That's pretty high up."

"You, father must be sentimental to consider me at all. But I am glad he gave Ransdell that fourth position. I can't imagine any situation in the world which Dave couldn't handle."

Eve ignored the compliment. "Father took the list away from me, and he was very angry that I had seen it. Peter Vanderbilt was on it. When you consider it, Vanderbilt has as much to offer as almost anyone. The delicacy that comes from overbreeding, a very nervous constitution, an artist's temperament, taste, a learned mind, a gorgeous sense of humor and courage. Probably he's wasteful, spendthrift, decadent, and jaded—or at least he used to be; but how greatly his positive virtues outweigh his vices!"

"Another thing: Dad's name wasn't on that list. I think when Dad thought he could save only a hundred people, he figured he was too old, and that his work had been done; and I'll bet if the first ship had been ready to leave and there had been none other, Dad would have been missing at the crucial time."

"Yes," Tony said thoughtfully. "That's exactly what your father would have done, although, of course, such a decision would have been mistaken."

"Eve nodded in agreement. "He intended to do it. I think, as a lesson—a sort of instruction—to the others."

Austrians Write Frequently
The Austrian post is always busy. According to statistics the Austrians are the most diligent writers of letters in the world, every Austrian writing 22.5 letters a year. The average in Belgium is 20.4, Holland 19.6, Switzerland 17.2, England 12.2, Germany 11, and Italy 8.0.

Now Here's the Proposition

CAN'T YOU DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT?
CAN'T YOU CALL ANY OF THE NEIGHBORS?
WHY NOT?
PAY TELEPHONE 200 YARDS AHEAD.

At the end of each row of signs we installed an automatic telephone. We made a mistake at first by not charging enough. We charged only two bits, leaving 20¢ profit. As a matter of fact, by the time the average motorist had reached the end of the row of signs he was ready to spend a dollar to get at a telephone. There was never any question about going back. He had to relieve his mind at once.

But we finally compromised on 50¢ a call. We do not believe in being greedy. After that all we needed was our three very private secretaries, a treasurer, an armored truck and two guards to drive around and collect the money. Eventually the traffic authorities objected because of the congestion around our telephone booths and we had to build a large parking grounds to take care of that.

After that it was duck soup. How the money rolled in! What's this coming—another truck full. Boy get a bushel basket and carry it back to that new vault in the rear. Yes, help yourself to a couple of handfuls.

A-h-h-h-h! Wealth at last! Fortune beyond the dreams of service! El Dorado our El Doradoed! Wine! Women! Cars! Cigarettes! Lighters!

Let's Have Action—And Then More Action.

Mister Chairman, we rise on a point of information. Will the secretary please determine just who it was that made the original motion to the effect that we had talked long enough about the weather and that it was now time to do something about it? We've heard it ascribed to both Josh Billings and Mark Twain. We don't care whether Josh or Mark gets the credit, but let's find out who really moved it and then get a second for the motion and get some action.

The weather has been getting entirely out of hand. It's getting so that most of the time you can't stand up and that really doesn't matter because it's so foggy that you can't see where to go when you are up.

Conference Held To Plan Course At Notre Dame

By Dick Schram
As the result of a conference in aeronautics Tuesday, attended by many of the leaders in the aviation industry, the University of Notre Dame has announced the opening of an aeronautical engineering course in September, 1935.

Speakers at the open conference, held in Washington Hall on the campus, included Col. Sherburne, of Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Rev. John O'Hara, president of the University, Prof. H. J. Burden, Dean of the University of Toronto, Col. E. Grow, of the United States Navy; Mr. Merrill Meigs, publisher of the Chicago Evening American, and Will Rogers, world famous comedian and columnist. The open conference, at which Mr. Rogers was guest of honor, was open to all students of Notre Dame and their friends.

Later in the afternoon, the plans for the aviation course were formed in a closed meeting in the Engineering building of the University, at which a round table discussion of the fundamentals required in an aero engineering course was held by the members of the University board and the guests present.

As a result of this meeting it was decided by the board that the course to be taught at Notre Dame would include more of the basic principles and fundamentals of aerodynamics, rather than laboratory and shopwork, and that the graduate Aeronautical Engineer would be fitted not only for aero engineering, but for automotive, civil, or mechanical engineering as well.

In discussing this point, Father O'Hara said, "It has been the custom for colleges, technical schools, and universities offering courses in Aeronautical Engineering to stress mainly the problems met in aerodynamics, rather than the problems of engineering as basic principles to be applied to aeronautical engineering. It is our belief that if the student is given more intensive training in engineering fundamentals, rather than a specialization of some particular course he will be better fitted to meet the problems of Aeronautical Engineering."

Following the meeting, it was announced that plans for the various phases of study would be completed in a short time, making it possible to include full details of the course, classes, hours, etc., in the spring edition of the University bulletin.

B. H. S. LOSES TO THREE OAKS CAGE QUINTET

The Buchanan Seconds Take Measure Acorn Reserves by Score of 35 to 16.

Coach George Wynn's Maroons failed to break their losing streak when the Three Oaks five turned back the Bucks on the former's hardwood Friday night by a count of 28 to 21.

The Acorns applied a fine defensive brand of ball in the last three quarters holding the Bucks to 11 points. Led by Duncan and the Drier brothers, they totalled 20 points on the offensive.

Hattenbach was the high scorer for the Bucks, collecting four field goals and four charity tosses. The Bucks failed to connect with many open shots, possibly due to the small gym.

The Bucks' second team trounced the 3 Oaks B squad by a score of 35 to 16. Virgil, gathering 15 points, won high point laurels. Weigandt took high point honors for Three Oaks collecting 10 points.

Buchanan Women Are Honored For Culinary Skill

The Record has received notice direct from the well known national magazine, "Better Homes and Gardens," that Miss Grace Eak and Mrs. William VanMeter of Buchanan have each been awarded Certificates of Recipe Endorsement in recognition of the merit of culinary receipts submitted to the magazine.

The award of this receipt brings national recognition of the cooking skill of the authors of the recipes. To secure the awards the recipes must pass tests of dependability, excellence of taste and family usefulness in the laboratories of Better Homes and Gardens. The award is for the purpose of providing proper recognition for the creative work done by women in their kitchens, and also to raise the standard of accuracy and dependability of recipes as a whole.

Mrs. VanMeter's Endorsed Recipe

Apple Fluff
Select one good sized tart eating apple and grate fine without paring. Place the grated apple in a deep bowl with 1 egg white and 7-8 cups of sugar. Beat vigorously with a rotary beater until very fluffy, and much like the consistency of whipped cream. The apple fluff is delicious on warm puddings, sponge cake or plain cake, gingerbread, or as a topping for pumpkin or fruit pies.

Miss Eak's Endorsed Recipe

Orange Cookies
1 cupful of butter
1 cupful of granulated sugar
½ cupful of brown sugar
2 eggs
2 tablespoonsful of sour or sweet milk
3 cupfuls of flour
2 teaspoonfuls of baking powder
¼ teaspoonful of soda
½ teaspoonful of cinnamon
¼ teaspoonful of salt
Grated rind of 1 orange
1 cupful raisins or nutmeats or both
Cream the butter and sugar until smooth and fluffy. Add the eggs and beat thoroughly. Alternate the milk with the flour, which has been sifted with the baking powder, soda, cinnamon and salt. Stir in the grated orange rind, raisins or nutmeats and mix thoroughly. Drop by rounding teaspoons onto a greased cookie sheet and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for about 15 minutes. Makes 3 to 4 dozen cookies.

Why Men Shave

Up to the time of the old Greeks and Romans, only slaves were clean-shaven and close-cropped. Then it was found that face-fungus gave an enemy excellent hold in the prevailing hand-to-hand combats, and after that all soldiers were scraped clean.

Library Play Is Presented in H. S. Assembly

The general assembly for the week ending Jan. 11, was held in the high school auditorium under the direction of Miss Orrel Negus. Miss Negus, who is in charge of the library besides her regular duties, put on a skit called "Alice in Bookland," a series of adventures in which Alice meets some of the prominent characters in books. The different parts were taken by the members of the library cast.

The scene was set so that the upper left hand corner of the stage found a mother reading to her children by a lighted fire place. In the background was a woodland scene in the center of which stood a huge book with the instructions "Open Me." As the mother reads the adventures of which she spoke came to life in the background, either coming from the book or the woods. In this way such well-known characters as Cinderella and her Prince, Ivanhoe, Hamlet, Robinson Crusoe, Red Riding Hood, Huckleberry Finn, and others were presented.

Music was furnished by the high school Jazz Orchestra under the direction of R. R. Robinson. A few announcements concerning exams were made by Mr. Knoblauch before the performance.

The following is the complete cast:

Alice, Wilma Metzger; Red Riding Hood, Phyllis DeNardo; Witch, Geraldine McGowan; Cinderella, Barbara Hamilton; Prince, Lewis Campbell; Huckleberry Finn, Junior Campbell; Polly "Old-Fashioned Girl," Frances Hamilton; Robinson Crusoe, Charles Bainton; Uncas, "Last of the Mohicans," Wilson Crittenden; Ivanhoe, Albert Webb; Romola, Joyce Kohlman; D'Artagnan, Robert Banke; Beatrice Esmond, Vivian Mogford; Hamlet, Dale Lyon; Reader, Cherry Blossom Heim; children from the second grade.

Editorial

Loyalty should be considered an essential quality in every student. To a student this loyalty is often pulled every which way; but most of us will agree that there are four major loyalties a student should develop—to his school and country, to his parents and family, to his friends and loyalty to himself.

The matter of school loyalty and loyalty to one's country are closely associated. This loyalty deals with what is known as "school spirit" and "patriotic fervor." It is a very intangible thing—this affection that wells up in one for his country and even institutions like a school, but intangible or not it is one of the strongest influences in the civilized world today.

One will find a student who does not possess loyalty toward his family, the exception not the rule. It is born in a person and only needs but little encouragement to flower into the beautiful expression it can be. The saying "blood's thicker than water" is not only a clever phrase; it is also a great truth of life.

Loyalty to one's friends is very essential. The world only feels contempt for a person, who, when his friends are in trouble and need him the worst, turns his back and never lifts a helping hand. To a true friend one should also believe and have faith in the character of his friend.

Last, but not least, one should be loyal to himself. Loyal to his inner self. He should ever strive to believe and express that which is greatest in himself. He should be loyal to his aspirations, his beliefs, to that infinite intangible thing which is highest and best in him, and by being loyal to it he will unconsciously emanate it.

Icy walks, the worst plague in the weather of a district which otherwise is favored with very satisfactory meteorological conditions, took its toll of accidents and fractures in the past week.

Mrs. Flora Jennings fell near her home on Detroit street Monday evening while en route to the home of Mrs. H. E. Thompson to accompany a vocal student, fracturing the radius bone of the left arm. She suffered also from shock.

Mrs. Arthur Young fell Monday while walking along the pavement on the Niles-Buchanan road en route from her home opposite the Orchard Hills golf course to attend a church meeting at the home of Mrs. D. L. Vanderslice, breaking two bones in her ankle. She was taken to Pawtucket hospital for x-ray and treatment. The ankle will probably be in a cast for two months.

Loyalty

Love is but another token
Of man's duty to his brother,
It is but a Godly emblem
Excelled in virtue by no other:
It is but a heart o'er flowing
With good will toward all about him,
It is but a note of honor
That will last 'till eyes are dim.

Love is but another token
Of the power that moves men's minds,
It is but a joy o'erwhelming,
That comes to men, all creeds and kinds;
It is that which makes men wonder
What it is they have to give,
Knowing that the gift they offer
Will their own rough clay outlive.

—Franklin Lee Stevenson

Elijah Mansfield, Former Resident, Taken By Death

Word has been received here of the death of Elijah Mansfield, 86, a resident of Buchanan many years ago. Mr. Mansfield died on Sunday at the home in Blue Island, where he has lived nine years.

He was the son of Rev. D. R. Mansfield and Rev. M. S. Mansfield, who jointly occupied the pastorate of the Advent Christian church in Buchanan 17 years, from the latter fifties to the early seventies of the last century. He inherited the splendid vocal talents which made his father and mother one of the finest evangelistic teams of their time in this section. He married Miss Addie Smith of Buchanan, who was also a fine singer and the four formed a quartet which used to sing at religious meetings in the old Advent Christian church on Oak street now occupied by the Bristol Pattern Works. After his marriage he moved to Minneapolis, where he was a traveling salesman for many years. His first wife died and he was married again nine years ago. He visited here often, especially before the death of Mrs. Nora Wood who was a friend of the family.

The body was taken to Minneapolis, where the funeral was held and he was laid beside the body of his first wife.

In addition to his widow he is survived by a son, Fred Mansfield who lives in Minneapolis.
