Important Announcement

In our more callow days we used to consider it very funny to make remarks about incipient mustachios, brushing off and working over the old ones about "nine on a side" and "letting the cat lick it," but with the arrival of discretion and of a more mature sense of the proprieties we have come to realize, not only the bad taste, but the injustice of such remarks. We wish to state that now and in the future, anyone in our midst who may contemplate possible improvements of his (or her) looks by adding a mustache, whether shoe-brush, handle-bar, corkscrew, or whatever make, model or design, may feel free to do so without threat of embarrassment from this corner of the Record. (P. S. We might want to raise one ourselves sometime).

On The Legend of McCoy's Creek

Well, folks, it's been a rather dry week—all we know is just what we learn as we stagger from one beer parlor to another. But we were reading something this past week that gave us an idea. It was about a creek up in north Michigan named Whiskey Run, named so because in early days there was a saloon built over it and the barkeeper had a pump behind the bar and they said the owner made a lot of money and nobody ever went away from that bar drunk. Ever after that they said that the creek had a whiskey taste—hence the name.

Well, Ashley Carlisle once told us about a distillery that used to be located right on the creek bank, just back of where the brick pile now is on the vacant lot between the Indiana and Michigan and the Hotel Rex. Ashley said that a dipper hung inside the distillery and whiskey was free by the drink. Wonder if that had any connection with the legend that anyone who drinks McCoy's creek water always comes back to Buchanan?

Later there was a saloon in the basement of the hotel building, kept by Andy Crothers, who used to have a sort of beer garden out in the vacant lot south, with a zoo full of wild animals in case the customers couldn't see their own. And now there is a state store there. It's an idea at that.

Mort Gets White Christmas

Let's see, there's something we can't remember. Oh yes, it's about Mort Snyder. Mort is going to be back here one of these days and he asked us some time ago to thank certain alleged friends of his who sent him a paper Christmas present. We don't know what it is all about but when Mort gets back and says "Why in Pontiac didn't you put that in the paper?" why we can just jeer back—"It was in the paper. Don't you ever read it?"

STAFF STUDIES
IN ANTICIPATION
FUTURE TRENDS

Developments at Buchanan and Battle Creek Plans Described in Romance of Business Series.

What happens when an alert group of engineers goes into the manufacturing business?

For enlightenment on this question drive out Lafayette avenue, Battle Creek and take a look at the trim brick Clark Tractor Co. plant, flood-lighted each night. And to get an even better idea, visit Buchanan, home of the Clark Equipment Co. down in Berrien county near South Bend, and see how a single industry can control a town without making it feel dependent.

From the day, 30 years ago, when Eugene B. Clark put on the market the first high speed twist drills to recent years, when the Autotram was developed to fill a vacancy in a changing transportation picture, it has been the policy of the Clark interests to anticipate the needs of commerce and industry.

Not by accident, but through foresight, one after another of the Clark products has been added and put on a market that was asking for it.

Remember Their Employees

Through all this growth the individual employee has not been lost sight of. One non-profit sideline after another has been undertaken for the employees, so that the company has had experience in real estate, dramatics, greenhouse operations, farming, athletics and hospital management.

It was in 1902 that the Celfor Tool Co., predecessor of the present Clark companies, was started in Buchanan. Fifteen years ago the company erected its building in Battle Creek.

Mr. Clark, electrical engineering graduate of Cornell, had finished a term of service with the Westinghouse Corp., and was working for the Illinois Steel Corp. as chief electrical engineer at its South Works in Chicago when he was given an opportunity to finance the manufacture of the high speed twist drills. The inventor was without money to promote his patent.

Buchanan was selected as a suitable location. Before that time high speed fluted drills had been machined from solid round bars; the new drills, twisted from flat bars, found immediate favor.

Celfor was chosen as the name, from two Latin words, "celeritas," speed; and "fortis," strength.

To insure a constant supply of high grade steel, not common then, it was considered necessary to install electric furnaces for manufacturing the proper material. The first furnace installed at the Clark plant was the second to be set up in the United States.

Enter New Field

Not requiring all the steel output for drills, the company entered the miscellaneous steel casting business, the first to offer these commercially.

The steel foundry and the drill business were all that R. J. Burrows found at Buchanan when Mr. Clark induced him to leave the Weston-Mott Co., in 1912. Mr. Burrows, another electrical engineer, educated at Clarkson Tech in New York, had learned with the Weston company in Utica, N. Y., the processes of manufacturing auto axles and steel wheels.

It was this knowledge that made him valuable to the Celfor company. Within five years the axle and wheel business had so overshadowed the remainder of the company's sales that "tool company" became a misnomer. In 1917 the name was changed to Clark Equipment Co.

Now the company began to undergo the experience of outgrowing its labor market.

Everything had been done to make Buchanan pleasant for the highly trained workmen the Clark company required. A model theater and gymnasium was constructed, and employees were enabled to engage in sports and dramatics for recreation.

Francis Hiller
Continues Study
University Madrid

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hiller have received a letter from their son, Francis Hiller, stating that he was scheduled to leave Paris yesterday for Madrid, where he will spend February and March studying at the University of Madrid. He has been studying since his arrival in Europe last fall at the University of Paris and its allied schools.

He writes that on account of the fall of the dollar and perhaps for other reasons as well, American money has greatly depreciated in value in Paris and prices are much higher than in his previous stay there.

MAROONS GAIN
SWEET REVENGE
FROM 3 OAKS

Coach Wynn's Basketeers are Showing Improved Form as Season Progresses.

Coach Wynn's basketeers took revenge on the Three Oaks aggregation for a defeat earlier in the season, by swamping the Oaks 32 to 21, on the local floor, Tuesday.

There were only two baskets made during the game that were shot from out-court, the rest were all push-up shots under the basket.

Hattenbach again led the Bucks in scoring, gathering nine field goals for a total of eighteen points. The losers were led by Duncan and E. Drier, each collecting two field goals, the former two free tosses.

Play by Play

The opening basket was credited to E. Drier. Luke followed suit immediately with a push-up. Wasso tallied with a field goal and added a charity toss counted on Hattenbach. Hattenbach followed suit with a field goal, and Topash did likewise.

As the quarter ended Buchanan sank two charity tosses to make the score 7-6 in favor of the Oaks.

As the second period opened Luke scored from out-court. Hattenbach tallied and repeated twice to hold the Oaks scoreless. The half ended with the Bucks leading 14-7.

Hattenbach opened the third quarter with a push-up. Duncan scored, and Drier followed suit. Duncan repeated, and Hattenbach scored. Topash tallied and again Hattenbach followed suit, as the third period ended.

W. Drier opened the final quarter with a free toss. Topash scored, and Deeds followed with a charity toss. Kramer added with a field goal, and Wyant did likewise. Juhl added a free throw. Hattenbach tallied, and Rossow followed with a push up. As the game ended Kramer added a charity toss to make the score 32-21, in favor of the Bucks.

The preliminary game was won by the Bucks reserves. Led by D. Virgil, the yearlings defeated their opponents, 29-16.

ANNUAL CLINIC
KINDERGARTEN
PUPILS NOW ON

Parent-Teachers Ass'n. Sponsor Health Round-Up; New Serum Treatment to Prevent Diphtheria

Kindergarten pupils of the Buchanan schools are undergoing a physical examination and immunization against diphtheria at a clinic which has been under way for the past week in the office of Reba Lamb, school nurse, with all physicians in the city co-operating.

The clinic is a part of the health program sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association under the name of the "health round-up." This was scheduled to be held in the summer but was delayed to take advantage of the new diphtheria immunization treatment which has been recently perfected and which was not available until after the first of the year. One administration of the new serum immunizes the patient for life. Three treatments were required by the serum previously used. The serum is donated by the state.

All but five pupils of the fifty-four in the local kindergarten were registered for the clinic by their parents. Parents are permitted to select their own doctor. A physical check-up is made for defects of teeth, tonsils, heart, lungs and other vital health points.

PLAYBOX PLAYERS
SHOW ADVANCE IN DRAMATIC SKILL

Distinct Promise Is Evidenced By Work of Young Actors; Next Play to be "Holiday."

Evidence that Buchanan may again have a group of amateur players rivaling in entertainment talent the old Clark Players was afforded by the work of the Playbox Players in their presentation of "Three Live Ghosts" at the Clark Theatre Thursday evening.

Those who attended were almost unanimous in their verdict that the work of the young actors represented a very distinct advance in stage proficiency over their previous appearances. Although the dialect of the play was a real problem, the players were quite successful in attaining a simulation of the cockney accent.

Considerable training ability was shown by the genuine and unaffected way in which emotional scenes were represented. Although certain parts, such as the representation of "Spooky," the shell-shocked ghost, by Robert Geyer, stood out, a number of parts were very competently carried and the work of the players was uniformly good.

This is the first play directed by Harry Banke, Jr., who specialized in dramatic art at Western State Teachers college and appeared in leading college plays before his graduation last spring. He will direct the next Playbox play, "Holiday."

Mr. and Mrs. M. Gross and sons, Marvin and Herschel, spent the week-end in Chicago, visiting Seymour Gross, Josephine Gross and Mrs. M. H. Turner.

MAROON CAGERS
DEFEAT 5 FROM
ST. AUGUSTINE

Locals Show Improvement in Turning Back Team Which Defeated Them in 1934 Tournament.

The Buchanan High School cagers nipped the St. Augustine quintet, Friday, by a score of 24-21, for their third victory of the season. The game played on the locals' floor Friday was a close battle until the closing minutes of the contest. The Bucks welcomed this victory especially as the Saints were responsible for the elimination of Buchanan in the tournament last season.

Hattenbach, collecting five point goals for a total of ten points, was high point scorer. He also held scoreless, Mandjiak, star center of the Saints. Mahoney was the high scorer for the losers. He collected one field goal and five charity tosses.

The first two periods St. Augustine held the lead. At the end of the first quarter the score was 6-2 in their favor.

The second quarter the Bucks picked up nine points to their opponents' six, making the score 12-11, the Bucks trailing.

At the beginning of the third quarter the Bucks stepped into the lead to hold it for the exception of a tie which was broken immediately. Buchanan was leading at the end of the third period 19-15.

The fourth quarter proved to be the exciting quarter. With one minute left to play Rizzo tied the score up. Then Luke connected from the coffin-corner to break the tie. Hattenbach counted with a push-up to put the game on ice, and Strayer tallied with a charity toss as the game ended in favor of the Bucks 24-21.

The preliminary game was won by the invaders 26-17. Smith and McGuire led their teams.

LISTED FOR AID
IN ROOSEVELT
WORK PROGRAM

Redbud Trail and Portage Prairie Roads Recommended By County Engineer.

Possibility of the inclusion of the Moccasin Bluff road better known as the Redbud Trail, in the $4,800,000 program of public improvement soon to be instituted by the federal government as a work relief measure was foreshadowed by the recommendation of that highway as a suitable improvement project by John H. Bateman, engineer manager of the county road commission, in the course of recommendations made by him Monday. Bateman's recommendations specified concrete paving or a bituminous retread on a gravel base.

Among the projects cited was also the widening of 4.5 miles of the Portage Prairie road to South Bend to 13 feet.

Other projects cited were: Three Oaks-Sawyer, 4.74 miles of which 1.74 miles would be widened from 16 to 20 feet and three miles replaced with 20-foot concrete. This project also includes construction of a 60-foot bridge across the Galien river.

Warren Woods road, 2 miles, macadam or bituminous retread on a gravel base.

The recommendation for a new bridge calls for a new permanent structure at the edge of the city limits of Benton Harbor. The old bridge is in bad condition, according to Bateman.

Grade separation projects are on Hill Top road on the Pere Marquette railway south of St. Joseph, and two on the Riverside road, one north of Benton Harbor and the other west of Coloma, over the Pere Marquette.

"The inventory of the road commission includes all possible projects in the county needing attention at this time," Bateman pointed out. "It is doubtful that the entire program would be allowed as the sum involved is unusually large for one county in the state. However, we are hoping that a majority of the most important ones will meet with approval in the public works program of President Roosevelt."

BATTLE CREEK NEWSPAPER WRITES OF CLARK EQUIPMENT COMPANY GROWTH IN SERIES, "ROMANCE OF BUSINESS"

Plant Is Beautified
The plant was beautified by landscape gardening and flower beds. It was found more economical to have their own greenhouse—and buildings were kept modern.

Housing space began to run short, and efforts to bring real estate men to Buchanan proved fruitless. The Clark company wasn't easily daunted, however. It built 56 homes (and they didn't look as though they had come from a factory production line) and sold them to its employees on their own terms. Meanwhile workmen were being imported from 25 miles around.

Finally Mr. Clark had to cry quits. The company had put all it could afford into houses. It became necessary to look around for a site for a new factory.

Land prices skyrocketed in a neighboring city as soon as word got around that Mr. Clark and Mr. Burrows were considering buying there.

Disgusted, they got in touch with the Battle Creek Chamber of Commerce and explained that they wanted to buy some land at a reasonable price, but that they didn't want to have to pay a diamond-studded rate.

Start Building in 1929
Soon satisfactory arrangements were completed for the Equipment company to purchase 23 acres between the two sets of Michigan Central tracks on Lafayette Ave.

The 4,000 feet of track frontage was a particular inducement. In 1920 the first building was constructed, but the post-war slump came along and it was not occupied at first.

Back in 1917, Mr. Burrows decided that the Buchanan plant needed a compact piece of low-speed trucking machine for transportation of heavy materials inside its own grounds.

The only such equipment then on the market was run by electric batteries, and was expensive to buy and maintain.

Mr. Burrows secured a gasoline engine and built a machine after his own ideas. It was successful, so successful that the Clark officials decided that there would be a demand for it.

They were right. The first machine, called the Clark Tractor, was sold in 1918. The Clark Tractor Co. was organized as a Michigan corporation in 1919, and Mr. Burrows was made its president. Its capital was $500,000 and its stock was owned entirely by the Clark Equipment Co.

After the 1921-22 depression had lifted, there wasn't room to breathe at Buchanan, so heavy were demands for labor and equipment.

Moved Here in 1923
The unused building in Battle Creek was remembered, and Tractor manufacture was moved here in 1923.

Other expansion came with the erection of a factory in Berrien Springs, 10 miles from Buchanan, for the making of transmissions for trucks, buses and farm implements.

In 1923 the Frost Gear and Forge Co. at Jackson was acquired. It was an established company, so the name and separate corporate existence were retained. On a production line basis it manufactures alloy steel gears for transmissions and rear axles, and has its own forge plant for manufacturing gear forgings.

In the same year another business was established at Buchanan, the making of pressed steel housings from steel tubes by expanding and forming them under extremely heavy hydraulic presses. This was a new and more economical method than the usual one of welding together pressed steel shapes. The housings are used on both passenger car and truck axles.

The makings of Tractors, described by Mr. Burrows as "gasoline-propelled industrial haulage equipment for use in manufacturing plants, warehouses, on docks, in freight stations and brick yards" is a highly specialized task. The machines are not for agricultural or highway use, being of slow speed and extremely powerful.

Almost everyone that is turned out is made to order to fit a particular use. Although 42 types are listed in the Tractor catalog, last week an order was received for which none of them is fitted.

Heads Engineers
Because of contingencies like that, it is necessary to maintain an engineering staff capable of solving the problems constantly being presented. This department is headed by A. O. Williams, chief engineer.

The Autotram idea, conceived in 1932, is an outgrowth of the German high speed lightweight rail cars which were just then being experimented with. Mr. Clark and

Mr. Burrows, looking at the American situation and noticing what the Germans were doing, decided that railroads here would be forced to change their passenger equipment to meet air and highway competition.

Mr. Williams and assistant Tractor engineers, together with the technicians in other Clark plants, went to work with Mr. Burrows, who hadn't forgotten his technical training in his executive activities. George Spatta, a Buchanan technician who speaks German and French fluently, was sent abroad in the summers of 1933 and 1934 to study most recent European rail developments.

On December 5, 1932, the first completely stream-lined rail car in the United States was placed on the Michigan Central tracks for its first trial run. Through early 1933 tests went on, until it was pronounced perfected for exhibition at the world's fair in Chicago.

Above Mr. Burrows' desk is a drawing of a five-car Autotram. He points to it as an example of the possibilities.

Can Be Expanded
"The car Battle Creek has seen was built in a single unit for engineering experimental purposes. It can be expanded indefinitely. That train up there is planned with a 1,600 horsepower engine and for full dining, parlor car and baggage space."

Several times trains roared past the office where he was relating the company's history.

"With Autotrams, we wouldn't have to stop talking until the cars were past," he remarked.

Previous descriptions of the Autotram have been voluminous, but recently there has been installed a new and original transmission. Lightweight trains built previously have been propelled by Diesel-electric power plants. The Clark engineers, after thorough investigation, concluded that a cheaper and more economically operated form of plants could be found through what is known as a hydraulic transmission.

Either gasoline or Diesel engines may be used with it. The electrical unit being eliminated. First cost is lower on gasoline engines, and there is still some dispute over which is more economical to operate.

Draws Railroad Men
One of the new transmissions has been installed in the Autotram and has excited great interest among railroad men, representatives from most of the lines in the country having visited Battle Creek recently to observe its operation.

The transmission lends itself to any size horsepower, Mr. Burrows says, and has performed perfectly under tests, accomplishing everything the company's engineers have expected of it.

The Tractor president says he is hopeful that Autotram developments may ultimately require the company to materially increase its activities and employment in Battle Creek.

Officers of the Clark Equipment Co. are Eugene B. Clark, president; E. B. Ross, M. L. Healin and Frank Hahlich, of Buchanan and R. J. Burrows, vice presidents; A. S. Bonner, secretary-treasurer.

Clark Tractor Co. officers are: Mr. Burrows, president; Ezra W. Clark, brother of the founder, vice president in charge of sales and advertising, and Mr. Bonner, secretary-treasurer. Tractor manufacturing activities are in charge of E. J. Contois.

INDIANA & MICHIGAN ELECTRIC CO.

TO OUR CUSTOMERS:

ELECTRICITY is the small figure in this group of characters in the Budget of the average family of moderate means. Feeding and keeping a roof over the family's head amount to more than half of the total budget. Then there are clothing, insurance, furniture, entertainment, upkeep of the home, fuel . . . all these make sizable inroads in the Family Budget. ELECTRICITY, on the other hand, is only ONE PER CENT, according to the statistics of the National Conference Board.

For a relatively small cost, ELECTRICITY will light, heat, clean and modernize your home if given a chance . . . ELECTRICITY will enhance the value of your food and make your home a better place in which to live.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE CO.

YOU "GO PLACES" . . . WITH A TELEPHONE

The convenient way to arrange parties and other good times today is by telephone. It's easier . . . quicker . . . and more satisfactory, because answers can be had and plans completed without delay. Those who can be called easily are included in such good times more often than those who have no telephones.

A telephone offers more than social advantages, however. It enables one to order supplies and "run" errands without leaving the house. Business associates can call "after hours." And, when emergencies occur, aid can be summoned instantly by telephone.

The cost of having a telephone in your home . . . only a few cents a day . . . probably is but little more than the amount the average family spends in using public pay telephones. For complete information about telephone service, call, write or visit the Telephone Business Office.

Whitman's Room

Sponsors Musical Assembly Program

Mrs. Whitman's home room sponsored a musical program which was given Friday in the Buchanan high school auditorium.

Marguerite Sabcock, Don Flenar and Victor Viganski gave a saxophone trio of two pieces, "When the Sun Goes Down" and "Hot Cha Cha!"

Readings were given by Vivian Cherne and Cherry Heim. The Glee Club sang a group of negro spirituals.

General Assembly closed with the high school song and a group of yells led by the cheer leaders.

DON'T GET TOUGH

Monday Bill Borders got tough! The 7th grade "he-man" went in the library and when he came out, he pulled the ring, chain and hook off the ring board.

He took it to Mr. Miller who was taking roll and showed it to him. Mr. Miller told him to fix it.

Hold that temper, Bill!

TURNED LADY LIKE

It seems that Lavern Myer has turned lady-like. Thursday noon while walking in the upper hall a beautiful compact dropped from his pocket. He picked it up, glancing to see if anybody had seen him. He then walked on up the hall. Finally, not only the compact dropped, but the essential lipstick came with it. Lavern had a razzing mob following him that time, and he didn't get away with it.

SEA SCOUT MEETING

Tuesday evening the Sea Scouts held their meeting at the Legion hall. Chester Wessendorf, first mate, called the meeting to order.

Those who passed their tests were Melvin Campbell, Dale Boyce and Robert Neal. Arthur Trapp joined crew number 2.

They had a little contest of asking questions back and forth. Crew No. 1 received 10 points and crew No. 2, 8 points.

GRADE NEWS

Mrs. Heim's second grade Nature Study class studied the pine tree last week. They enjoyed collecting cones from the Austrian and white pines on the play ground.

LaVerne Toll brought an attractive red and green clock. All of the class can now tell the time of day.

The third grade in Miss Bohl's room is going to keep a record of the weather for the month of February. Each child has made an individual calendar for the month. A picture will be drawn each afternoon to represent the weather for the day.

Phyllis Sherwood, Arlene Maxson, Hubert Paul, Jesse Brewer, Jack Mitchell, and Max McKahan had perfect papers in Mrs. Walton's spelling contest.

The fourth graders at the high school are studying the history of the American flag. They have a booklet illustrating flags of 1775, 1777, 1794, 1813 and 1812.

Frances Fuller has been ill for a week but has returned to school again.

Ellsworth Maxson, Lois Gridley, and Hubert Conant had perfect spelling papers in Mrs. Walton's spelling contest.

The polar bear and the Northern lights furnished material for both art and English in Mrs. French's 5th grade. Eleanor Ingelright wrote a poem about the polar bear. Each pupil also wrote stories about the bear.

A part of the bulletin board is being devoted to Byrd's Antarctic Expedition. A map of Little America, pictures of penguins drawn by Byrd's dogs are posted there. Duane Chain brought a book "With Admiral Byrd in Little America," which was read.

A health project is being carried on in Miss Ekstrom's fifth grade called "The Seven Little Sisters." Each sister is a two-foot doll drawn in silhouette and dressed to represent some health idea. For example, the costume of Sally Soap is made of Turkish toweling, and the basket on her arm is filled with articles a child needs with which to keep clean. Jolly Jane is dressed in yellow and green because these are the colors of many of the fruits and vegetables a child should eat.

Her basket is filled to overflowing with them. Mary Twinkle is dressed in blue, just like the sky at night, and is decorated with small gold stars. In her basket she carries a clock which points to eight, the time when children should go to bed. The Seven Little Sisters are so popular that some of the children are working out smaller dolls according to other health rules.

Editorial

There is need of a council to foster social affairs in the high school. Certain social functions have a definite place in student life and they should not be done the haphazard way now in practice.

At the present time all social affairs are up to the classes individually. It is entirely up to them. If they feel like sponsoring a high school party, a party is sponsored. If the class, as a unit is lazy, or if there is dissension among the members, chances are there will be no party. An example of this was evidenced just recently.

A high school the size of Buchanan should have as well-ordered a social program as it does a school program. This does not mean it has to be an expensive one. If there were a council with representatives from each class that regulated and planned for all school social functions, it would be found that these functions would take place with less expense both to the sponsor and the person who buys the ticket.

If any one class wished to sponsor a party, it could go to the council and arrange a date. Perhaps, with this arrangement, a plan might work out in time whereby the majority of high-school social functions would be absolutely free; and this last, everyone will agree, is a state of affairs that is much to be desired in high-school life.

Reporting Inquirer

Question: What do you think about the boys who wear hats in school, especially in the presence of girls?

Mildred Miller: "I think they are very impolite."

Betty Semple: "I think the boy has either never been taught manners or is just plain careless."

Shirley Rolan: "I think they are careless and don't care."

Shirley Howard: "I think they are childish."

Winifred Schaffer: "They are very much in need of good manners."

Una Kelley: "They are impolite, careless, lazy and show a lack of certain qualities girls admire in boys."

A TRUCK BOMBARDMENT

A new manner of attack was staged by Tucky Brewer, an alumnus of B. H. S., and a handful of high school students. Before the noon recess was over and the students were waiting for the entrance bell to sound, they suddenly found themselves ducking before a shower of snowballs thrown from a truck, which was laden with snow.

As the truck passed on to renew the supply of ammunition, the bewildered victims, armed and waited its return.

In a very short time it returned and before reaching the range of the defenders Tucky turned around and back-tracked. The party broke up after the bell sounded.

MY HOW TIME DOES FLY

It seemed as if the clocks had gone on a strike last week. All clocks stopped at the same time, and more than likely they all started at the same time. That's usually the way strikes do.

But when they did start, they went with a bang. Sixty minutes went in one minute, by the clocks. The hands just more than flew around. After their play was done they settled down to their natural run. Now they're ticking finer than ever. Thanks to Mr. Flenar.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Hubert McClellan and Vivian Mogford play "tit-tat-to" in English class?

H. J. and E. D. are on speaking terms at last? By the way, I'll give you a break, H. J. is Harold Jackson and E. D. is Evelyn Dolph.

That Elouise had a birthday on Jan. 31? Maybe you don't know but she certainly does, at least she has blue marks to show for it. That Ray Juhl and John Hattenback aren't on speaking terms?

Along the Corridors

One can plainly see that Lavern Myer hasn't grown up yet. He is still seen in the halls teasing 7th graders.

Gilbert Collings is becoming an expert at writing notes to a certain senior girl.

We now have a second Lula Belle in our school. Believe it or not, but it is Geneva Troutfetter.

Donald Virgil gets a thrill out of knocking books out of girls' hands.

We always knew that Fred Riley was a big he man, but now we are confident of the fact since we have seen him in the Velmarian Literary plays as a boxer.

Some of the statements were breath-taking for Miss Hanlin, but she promised the students that the autobiography would be strictly confidential so, consequently, the compositions were kept a deep secret.

The 10th grade also had a test over "Colonial Period of American Literature." They will start the chapter on Early American Romanticism.

AT THE THEATRE

Astaire and Rogers

Score a Big Hit in "Gay Divorcee"

Mischievous, gay, spectacular and glamorous, RKO-Radio's musical comedy, "The Gay Divorcee" will afford wholesale amusement for local theatre-goers with its run for three days at the Hollywood beginning next Sunday at the matinee. It is a high speed entertainment with no time for parking and co-stars Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, the delightful pair who made such a hit in "Flying Down to Rio."

In the story Fred meets Ginger under strange circumstances, too amusing to rob of its punch by telling, and he chases her hither and yon in a frantic effort to clinch their romance.

She runs because she loves him—but that can't be explained either, without revealing one of the smartest situations of the season. Finally, through mistaken identity, she issues him a strange invitation which results in a conglomerate mix-up of loves and romance and people in one hotel suite!

The climax is a happy one, and the story is so entertaining that it could stand even without the remarkable song and dance features.

The cast includes Edward Horton as a dumb English barrister; Alice Brady, who causes him to try every device to avoid marrying her; William Austin, as a "meaney husband," Erik Rhodes, as a debonaire professional Romeo. The film was adapted from Astaire's international stage hit of the same title.

Portage Prairie

The Portage Prairie Grange met Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Franklin for an oyster dinner at noon, followed by the regular business session. Will Clements furnished the entertainment by singing and playing on his mandolin. The next regular meeting will be held Feb. 19th at the Ira House home.

NOTICE TO THE CITIZENS OF BUCHANAN
DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

To Citizens of Buchanan: Jan. 30th, 1935
The District Manager for The National Anti-Crime Association has explained the service rendered by this organization. I believe this organization will be a benefit to any community in the prevention of crime and the apprehension of criminals. Rewards are especially effective in getting information and catching criminals, and the radio service has proven very successful where used.

It has been my desire to co-operate to the fullest extent with the citizens of this City in suppressing and eliminating thievery and swindling; and to capture and convict thieves and other criminals who rob them of their property and threaten the safety of their families.

Posted warnings such as supplied by the National Anti-Crime Association, and backed by standing rewards have a decided disturbing effect upon the average thief as they are generally cautious in their operations.

I am glad to support any movement of merit, which is intended to reduce the activity of criminals and help bring them to justice. It seems to me that your membership in the Household's National Anti-Crime Association will go a long way toward bringing this about.

Sincerely yours,
ED. F. MITCHELL,
Chief of Police, Buchanan, Michigan.

You will soon be visited by representatives of the National Anti-Crime Association, who will explain to you the service rendered by that organization.

Many From Buchanan Attend and Take Part in Niles Musical Tea

Twenty-one Buchanan women attended the annual Musical Tea given by the Niles Music Club at the Four Flags hotel Tuesday afternoon, with a program of entertainment under the direction of a general committee, Mrs. H. B. Thompson, chairman.

The program was given a Valentine setting, in accord with a design originated by Mrs. Thompson. A large white box was placed on the stage with a large red heart pierced by a golden arrow. The box was seven feet in height and the door in front was opened by two pages in costumes of black and white satin, permitting Mrs. Rolfe Taylor, president of the club, to step forth and greet the guests.

Mrs. Josephine Kelley was a member of the general committee assisting Mrs. Thompson. Mrs. E. B. Ross and Mrs. Jack Bishop were on the list of hostesses.
