Bulletin from Mort

Just to relieve the anxiety of a lot of people around Buchanan we want to pass on some information we have received about M. P. Snyder. Mr. Snyder is spending the hay fever season at Petoskey, and during the 77 weeks he has been there he has caught three blue gills—beg pardon, during the three blue weeks he has been there he has caught 77—oh well, finish it yourself, all we got to say is some guys have all the luck and can anybody direct us to the nearest patch of ragweed?

Rinkier to the Rescue

There was a hold-up in town one night last week, the hero of which was Speed Cop Bobbie Rinkier. That is, Bobbie did the holding up. Dale Nelson and Rex Milton, two industrious young men from the Buchanan Co-ops Inc., were unloading a car of coal for that institution late at night at the Hickok coal yards. Some one drove past on Portage and heard them heaving coal off the car, figgering that anyone who would be throwing coal off the car at that time must be stealing, they fogged down town and told Rinkier. Bobbie sped to the scene and stole up to the car, suddenly hauling out his howitzer and shouting, "Put up your hands."

The two young men put up their hands and advanced to the front of the car, where they were recognized by Rinkier. "What are you fellows doing here," he asked. "Unloading this car so they can switch it out in the morning," said one of the hold-up victims. "Oh, I beg your pardon,—I sincerely beg your pardon," said Mr. Rinkier.

Card of Thanks

Mr. A. S. Root has been raisin' this and that with us because we didn't put in a notice last week thanking all those who helped at the bathing beauty contest. As if anybody deserved any particular thanks for helping at a bathing beauty contest! The guys whom he says helped were Harold Widdis, who donated the use of the piano, Ed Mitchell and his force who were so helpful in making arrangements, Messrs. Childs and Hamilton for the use of the chairs, F. R. Montague for the use of his car and the Rex Hotel for the use of a room. Well, nobody heard the piano, we all had to stand up to see anything and why anybody needs to be thanked for furnishing a car or a hotel suite to a bevy of bathing beauties is more than we can see. And if Ed Mitchell was anywhere around we know why he was. How about apologizing to the fellows who never got a chance to help?

Sam Rouse, former resident, is moving his family here from Benton Harbor this week, occupying the Henry Blodgett house on Fifth street. He is working for the Clark Equipment company here.

HOT COMPETITION IN MEN'S CLASS

Zelda Franks, Caroline Webb, and H. Gross Win in Other Classes.

Clarence Rice emerged victorious in the men's finals of the city tennis tournament and Miss Zelda Franks won the women's title, the concluding matches being run off at the Athletic Park courts Friday afternoon, at which time the trophies given to the winners of the classes by the Berrien County Record were presented.

The men's and boys titles were hotly contested in all departments, sixteen players entering the senior singles and twelve the junior singles. In the upper age bracket, however, all the players were in their teens, none of the older stars of other years taking to the courts. The wearing effect of a concrete court on ageing feet may have had something to do with this.

Rice, winner of the men's title, had some difficulty in his earlier matches, having been away from the court during a six weeks trip to England, but his play improved as the tournament progressed, and he staged an excellent exhibition of court play in the finals.

In the boys classification, several of the players had never handled a racket before the present year, including R. Neal, co-winner of the junior doubles.

In the men's finals the semi-finalists were E. Hoffman, M. Gross, C. Rice and George Zachman. Gross defeated Hoffman 6-1, 6-0. Rice defeated Zachman 6-4, 9-7. In the finals Rice defeated Gross 6-4, 6-2, 7-5.

In the finals of the men's doubles C. Rice and M. Gross defeated Geo. Zachman and Harry Dumbolten 6-2, 6-2.

In the semi-finals of the boys' singles, Herschel Gross defeated Jack Frank 6-2, 6-0 and Max Beadle defeated Keith Dalrymple 8-6, 6-3. In the finals Gross defeated Beadle 6-2, 7-5.

In the finals of the boys' doubles R. Neal and K. Dalrymple defeated Max Beadle and Herschel Gross 8-10, 6-1, 6-4.

In the finals of the ladies' singles Zelda Franks defeated Bettie Marrs 6-1, 6-1.

In the finals of the girls' singles Carolyn Webb defeated Rosella Smith 6-2, 7-5.

In the finals of the girls' doubles Catherine Wynn and Caroline Webb defeated Virginia Wright and Rosella Smith 6-3, 2-6, 6-4.

Round About Buchanan

"Longevity"

When it comes to a healthy definition to the inroads of age, here's one for the books:

Recently Mrs. Coverdale, who makes her living at the age of 82 by acting as housekeeper for Louis Fedore, 3 1/2 miles northwest of Buchanan, walked that distance into town carrying on her arm a basket containing 22 pounds of beans for a customer and four quarts of huckleberries, with a combined weight of between 25 and 30 lbs.

During the past summer she aroused much interest by joining in the square dances on the streets, but that's really nothing at all, according to Mrs. Coverdale, but a little amusement as a diversion after the day's work. Mrs. Coverdale has regularly taken care of her housework at the Fedore home, picked huckleberries in the Fedore marsh and walked to town when she did not catch a ride, walking from house to house to sell them.

The walk of three and a half miles does not tire her greatly, she says. She merely rests fifteen or twenty minutes, and then goes to work.

"I just feel like keeping busy keeps me well," she says. "I don't know what I would do if I couldn't keep going. Now square dancing, why I've done that all my life. I was born near Buchanan and my father was an old time fiddler, who used to go to dances around Buchanan, Gallen and Bridgman and all over. I used to go with him and I have always kept up dancing."

During the summer she picked over 200 quarts of huckleberries, 10 to 12 daily during the season, walked to town and sold them and walked back. She walks with a quick, nervous step that would distance most women half her age.

At the last dance held on the streets of Buchanan there were two women of 80 or more who danced the square dance, Mrs. Coverdale of this city and Mrs. Jane Rogers 80, of New Carlisle.

Ancient Turtle Disappears
For the first time in several years the ancient turtle of Moccasin bluff whose shell was a walking directory of the old-time residents of those parts has not been seen and conjecture has swelled that the invasion of the Redbud trail into the privacy of his ancient haunts has caused either his death or his departure.

While reading an old issue of the Berrien County Record published in 1895 we found an article intelling about the turtle. 'It was stated that the initials "R. D. 1860," were those of Richard Demont, who had lived near the bluff as a boy and had carved his initials and the date, Demont later went to the Civil War, became an officer, returned to Buchanan and became village marshal, deputy sheriff and county sheriff, dying many years ago. But until last year, at least, the turtle on whose shell he carved his name meandered leisurely about the bluff. There he was found in 1895 by Clint Montague, now a salesman in the employ of the Clark Equipment Co., living in Chicago. Montague inscribed on the shell "C. M. 1895." Still another initial of unknown identity and date was inscribed.

About seven years ago the turtle reappeared after a long period, and was then seen regularly each summer until the present year.

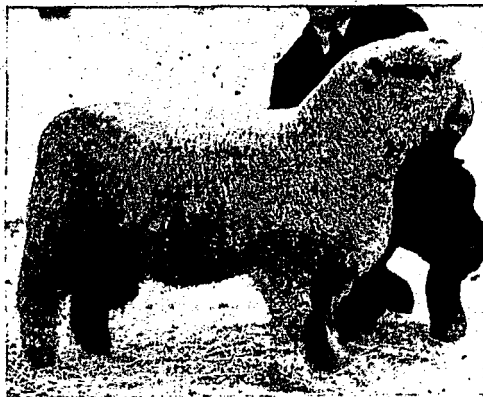

Boy Scouts

Local Scouts returned Thursday from their trip to Isle Royale, and report a most interesting trip. Twenty-one Scouts from the Berrien-Cass area made the trip under the leadership of Leo Slate. Serving on the trip they inspected an iron mine in the northern peninsula and visited Pictured Rocks on Lake Superior.

Troop 41 will begin the regular fall program Tuesday night with a meeting at the Legion hall. The program for the fall includes the annual trips to several college football games, watermelon feeds and other items of interest.

Mrs. M. Siraganian, Chicago, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Perry.

Meet "The Governor"

For the past several weeks the Buchanan district has been abiding in the shadow of eminence which has been making its home here unknown to the community.

This notability is none other than "The Governor," now making his home in the pasture at the E. B. Clark farm. "The Governor" is rated as the finest young Oxford ram in the world, and to show for that claim he has to his credit the standing of undefeated first prize ram lamb during his first year, and of champion 1934 ram at the following shows: Illinois, Ohio, and New York State fairs, Eastern States Exposition, Pacific International, American Royal Live stock show, Canadian Royal Exposition, Chicago International Live Stock show.

E. B. Clark purchased "The Governor" from William Bartholomay, owner of the Marellbar farms, at Libertyville, Ill., and leading breeder of Oxford sheep in the United States. Mr. Clark now has a flock of seven full blood Oxford ewes, all prize winners, in addition to "The Governor."

BUCHANAN IS COMING CENTER OF SMALL FRUIT FARMING, SAYS NORTH CO. MAN

Industry Sees As Neglected Source Livelihood and Employment.

Every opportunity, if there is anything permanent and dependable in it, has its obligations and its requirements for the beneficiary and is an opportunity only to the man who is fitted to take advantage of it.

Subject to those limitations, it would seem that the small fruit industry has never been developed to anything like capacity in the Buchanan district, and that many farms which have been "wheated to death" through a century would now profit by attention to that branch of farming.

Recently a fruit grower from the north part of the county said:

"It seems to me that the people about Buchanan are missing a good bet by not going into small fruit more. Here you have a virgin fruit territory, just as well adapted to the business as ours, if not more so, and without a soil infested with all sorts of bugs and pests from 50 years of continuous fruiting."

The experience of a number of local men within recent years bears out his statement. The Buchanan country has never gone into small fruit in a large way mainly because the settlers here started in general farming and their descendants have kept on in that track through momentum and inertia. Further north in the more barren sandy soil general farming was not profitable, but the soil would produce fruit.

Fruit does best on a sandy loam of which there are thousands of acres around Buchanan. A large part of the level fertile farm lands of Portage Prairie and the Bend of the River are well adapted to fruit, according to E. C. Wonderlich, who has dealt extensively in fruit lands around Bridgman and Baroda. The same may be said for a considerable percentage of the lands immediately north, east and west of town.

A pioneer in the development of small fruit farms in the immediate vicinity of Buchanan is Bert Conant. He moved to his present farm of 20 acres on Wagner road eight years ago and for three years he maintained the entire farm in timothy and clover. This he fed to dairy cows and occasionally plowed under. Then, about five years ago he started to work into fruit. Now he is assured that a fruit farm of that size will maintain a family.

A number have started to develop fruit acreages on the uplands north and west of Buchanan in the past five years, among them S. J. Nelson, Louis Kool and Noah Camfield.

Nelson started in fruit on his twelve acre tract at Fourth and Detroit streets about three years ago. He states that about three years are necessary to get into production, strawberries yielding returns the second season, raspberries the third, grapes the fourth and peaches and apples following in succession. On his tract this year a half acre of strawberries paid all cash expenses. Nelson states that the selection of stock is important to the success of the small fruit farm. That attended to properly and with industry and constant study, he states that ten acres of small fruit intensively farmed may yield a good living year in and year out for a family. With tract developed and paid for and a home built on it, the terrors of industrial layoffs lose their force.

Dr. Kiehn Sells

to Dr. Converse

Dr. Milton J. Converse has purchased the dental equipment and business of Dr. C. Kiehn and will take possession Monday, Sept. 9.

Dr. Kiehn came to Buchanan four years ago, taking over the business of Dr. W. E. Sargent, and has built up an excellent practice. He is planning on entering the University of Michigan for a six-year course in medicine, with the intention of qualifying for the practice of oral surgery. His successor, Dr. Converse, was graduated last spring from the University of Michigan. His home has previously been at Mt. Pleasant, Mich. He is married. The business community extends a cordial welcome.

Gertrude and William Van Houghton returned the first of the week to Chicago after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ferner.

Dr. Widmoyer to

Benton Harbor

Dr. L. F. Widmoyer moved his family Saturday to Benton Harbor where he has leased an 11-room house at 496 Territorial Road, where he will establish a combined home and office. He will maintain regular office hours in Buchanan as stated elsewhere in an advertisement in this issue. Dr. Widmoyer came to Buchanan fourteen years ago.

TAX DRIVE

CUTS DEBTS

Heavy Payments Lower Government Costs.

The man closest to the nerve center of Michigan's governmental finances believes counties, cities and towns will soon be able to pay their overdue bills, reduce debts, slice future budgets and get out of the red.

The belief is that of Theodore I. Fry, State Treasurer. It is based on the indication that the State's August drive to collect delinquent taxes proved successful.

Latest reports from the Auditor General show that more than $12,000,000 in back taxes have been returned to the paying column by property owners taking advantage of the plan whereby delinquencies for 1932 and prior years can be paid over a period of ten years.

Fry also expresses the belief that the need for "counter balancing accounts" and similar bookkeeping maneuvers will be eliminated by revenue realized from the campaign. He contends that officials and citizens will be able, for the first time in some years, to get a true picture of the actual financial situation of various governments.

"Collection of these overdue taxes," Fry points out, "means that debts for which delinquent taxes are pledged can be paid and wiped off the books. We estimate that about $125,000,000 in debts could be cleaned up in this way. Since this debt carries an interest rate of more than 4 per cent, the saving would amount to about $5,000,000 a year."

"Obviously, wiping out a debt of this magnitude, or slicing off a sizeable piece of it, will be the best thing that has happened to public finance since the depression. Top heavy items for debt service and debt retirement in budgets will be chopped down and the vital functions of government will receive the lion's share of the taxpayer's dollar."

"With the dead horses of the past taken care of, it will be easier to make receipts cover expenditures. Balanced budgets will again become the order of the day. "Most important of all, these collections will be distributed all along the line. Impoverished cities, anemic school districts, distressed counties—they will all get their share. The practice of 'robbing Peter to pay Paul' will go into the discard."

"Many of the ticklish problems pressing for solution must await a clearing up of the tax situation. "Reorganization of school districts, and the consolidation of governments and governmental functions can never be accomplished while hundreds of units are burdened with debt and mired in a morass of unsettled bills. The success of the state campaign to bring in these back taxes will go a long way to clear the way for an honest effort to simplify the processes of government."

Michigan's tax campaign is now in its final stage. County treasurers throughout the state worked nights to keep up with the rush but found it practically impossible to serve the thousands pressing to pay before the Sept. 1 deadline.

Pioneer's Son

is Visitor Here

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Kinney and family of Wyandotte, Mich., were visiting friends in Buchanan Monday. Mr. Kinney is a son of Pat Kinney, pioneer miller of Buchanan who ran the mill owned by H. F. Kingery's father, located on Portage St., about where the Clark mound is.

Dr. J. L. Godfrey and son, John, and Misses Kathryn Kingery and Elsie Seiders arrived home Monday afternoon from a motor trip to Phillipsburg, Kas., where they visited Mrs. Fred Kelley and other relatives, stopping on their way home at Starved Rock, also at Morris, Ill., to visit Dr. Godfrey's brother, Clare.

Orchard Hills

Rain alone is not enough to spoil Labor Day at Orchard Hills. Of course, a few of the golfers, who were not previously that way got all wet, but what true golfer would let that dampen his ardor?

Inside the club house, however, there was warmth and plenty of good fellowship. Around the fireplace with its blazing logs, the tables were filled with members and guests who were relishing as fine a dinner as even those people ever ate. They not only spent the dinner hour together, but most of the afternoon as well. The committee in charge was Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Hamilton, chairman, Dr. and Mrs. Robt. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thayer, Mrs. Guy W. Simon, Phil Simon, and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Schick of Niles and Rev. and Mrs. Wanzer H. Brunelle of Buchanan.

An eight man team from Orchard Hills defeated the Studebaker team of South Bend, Sunday afternoon in a golf match on the Orchard Hills course. The score was 15 to 4.

The results of the individual matches with the Studebaker player listed first, were as follows:

Richards 0, Eliason 3; Neweth 1, Grathwohl 2; Majewski 0, Waterston 2; Morosz 3, Zellers 0; Holmes 0, Funk 2; Dickens 0, Owens 3; Parkas 0, Hamilton 0; Schwanz 0, Atkinson 3.

The Labor Day tournament at Orchard Hills for members of the club was won by Casper Grathwohl with Harold Hanlin second. In class B, W. R. Tonkin finished first and was followed by Marshall Grathwohl. Class C honors went to Edward McGinn with J. A. White runner-up and in Class D, Dr. E. W. Tonkin and Harry Tucker finished first and second respectively.

The play over the week-end completed golfing activities at the club of the season with the exception of the play-off for the class B club championship between Cyrus Funk and Henry Zimmer, the class C play-off between David Lowe and Harry Schick and the handicap finals between Jack Carrigan and Frank French.

WEAVER NAMED ALL-AMERICAN

Former B. H. S. Athlete Guest of Honor at Lions Club.

Dee Weaver, member of the All-American distance medley relay team of Michigan State College, spoke at the evening session of the Lions club at D's Cafe last night on his experiences in athletics and also with the Summer School of Forestry at Sault Ste. Marie.

In common with the four members of the team Weaver was awarded an all-American gold horseshoe. He ran the 440 leg on the 2 1/2 mile event, in which his team set a new American college record of 10:24.5.

Michigan State distance relay teams set a record in inter-collegiate athletics by winning seven firsts in six major meets of the country.

While at Buchanan high school Weaver set the State Class C record which still stands.

Narrow Escape

From Aerial Death

Clarence McArthur, who was a recent guest of Richard Schram, narrowly escaped death in the national air races at Cleveland, O., when the supercharger on his ship exploded and burst into flames as he was taking off. Had it exploded while in the air he would have had no chance. The ship was rated at 400 miles per hour and was entered for the Thompson Trophy.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Alderman, of Washington, D. C., are guests of the latter's brother, H. C. Stark.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Boone returned Tuesday from a motor trip to Emmenton, Pa., where they visited Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Stewart.

Much Interest in Grade and H. S. Music and Speech.

The Buchanan schools opened on Tuesday with a record enrollment for the opening day of 993, indicating that the normal increase in the first two weeks will swell that figure to well over 1,000.

Student spirit and enthusiasm is unusual for the opening of the year, according to Supt. H. C. Stark, with much interest manifested in the extra-curricular activities as athletics, music and speech. Over seventy candidates reported the first night for football with Coach John Miller and Junior Coach Earl Rizer in charge.

Miss Eunice Miller is organizing grade classes in music and art, with much interest especially in grade music and in high school music activities under R. R. Robinson.

John Elbers is in charge of public speaking, including debating and oratory, and reports good interest. Miss Helen Hanlin has taken over the library work handled last year by Miss Negus.

Enrollment by grades on the opening day was:

Kindergarten, 69; first grade, 73; special, 20; second, 80; third, 73; fourth, 78; fifth, 84; sixth, 87; seventh, 69; eighth, 74; ninth, 83; tenth, 88; eleventh, 61; twelfth, 54.

Liquor Law Enforcement Up to Local Officers

Local law enforcement agencies in Berrien county are ready to take over the regulation of liquor laws in this section, according to statements by Sheriff Charles L. Miller and the chiefs of the various police departments. The statements were made after Governor Frank Fitzgerald declared Monday that local law enforcement officers would have a month's trial in the administration of the liquor laws.

Charles Ledyard, local inspector for the state liquor control commission, received a notice Monday that his duties would terminate August 31st, along with all other inspectors of the department. At present 38 new state troopers undergoing a training course, will be ready to assist in the inspection and enforcement activities after October 1.

Sheriff Charles L. Miller and Prosecuting Attorney E. A. Westfir went to Lansing Wednesday to attend a conference of law enforcement officials at the Olds hotel. Governor Fitzgerald called the conference to discuss the liquor control regulations.

Sheriff Miller announced that his department will continue to arrest all violators, as it has done in the past. More liquor law violators have been arrested in Berrien county during the past two years than in any other county in this section of the state.

Chief of Police Ben Phairas of St. Joseph, stated that his officers would continue their rigid supervision of places where liquor is sold in St. Joseph, and stamp out so-called "chiselers."

A new element in the enforcement has won instant recognition from Governor Fitzgerald. Dr. C. H. Benning, of Royal Oak, local director for the Oakland county health commission, said sanitary aspects of the present law should be investigated. He urged that the conference consider the problems of sanitizing all vessels used in selling beer.

Dr. C. C. Slemons, state health commissioner, deprecated the possibility of exposure to disease thru the use of dirty glasses in drinking places.

Report Progress

On Farm Festival

The committee in charge of Farm Festival concessions reports excellent progress in selling frontage on Front street. The Miller Circus, which has an excellent program of high class carnival features, has engaged to furnish the rides.

Berrien County Record

Published by
THE RECORD PRINTING COMPANY
Editor W. C. Hawes
Business Manager A. B. McClure
Entered as second class matter November 20, 1919
Buckhannon, Michigan, under the act of March 8, 1879

The greatest intellectual weakness of men is failure to recognize that good behavior is for their own benefit, and that this may be depended upon throughout their lives. The spiritual argument is based on faith, without material proof behind it, whereas the value of good conduct for its own sake has been proven in millions of lives, and any man may demonstrate it for himself. The truth demonstrated most completely in the long years of my activity is that when I behave best I get along best; this is the fact I am most certain of.—Ed. Howe.

Landscape M-174

The south entrance to Buchanan over M-174, now the front door of Buchanan, is one of the most picturesque city approaches to be found in many a long mile.

But if the landscaping possibilities were developed on the vacant land along the highway, owned by the state, it would be much more effective. This highway has been the front door of the city since M-60 moved south of town. Most outside cars from Indiana and Illinois enter by that route. As the motorist drives along the circular route with the Chamberlain hills on one side and the well-kept homes on the other, a bit of lawn and landscaping ahead would create an excellent impression.

It could be done with no great outlay and would be an excellent investment.

Building Values

During the past summer a man from a nearby city, retired on a pension from a good job with a utility company, selected Buchanan as a place to retire.

He bought an old home, well situated, and with several acres of ground. He spent a considerable amount remodeling and adding to the old residence, employing 16 men at this work. Carpenters and painters who had been depression casualties for several years, were put back to work.

Asked how he had come to select Buchanan, he mentioned another man who had come from Chicago to retire to ease and quiet here.

"We were acquainted with the man," he said, "and they kept telling us about Buchanan. Then it was not too far from the city where we had lived and our folks could visit us here. I am stuck on the town, it's a beautiful little place. Right now I have another friend on the string who wants to find a good place to retire too, and I'm trying to get here."

"I am going to quite a lot of expense to improve this place but I want to build up a place that will be a credit, so that when a stranger drives by he will turn and look and say, 'By golly, look there, that is a pretty place.'"

So it goes. The Record has for some time preached such development as a good bet. This man came to Buchanan, spent his money for materials, made business for the lumber companies, made work for the workmen, created permanent values for the town.

More will come. And everything that can reasonably be done to make the city a more attractive and better place to live will speed their coming.

GALIEN NEWS

Too much Rain
Too much rain I hear folks say
We cannot work, we cannot play
So much damage is being done
By too much rain and too little sun.

A year ago I heard folks say
I surely wish it would rain today
So much damage is being done
By too little rain and too much sun.

Now if a choice you had to make
Which kind of weather would you take
Which would bring you the greater gain,
Lots of sunshine or lots of rain?

One man's loss is another's gain.
Our needs are never quite the same
Desolation would surely come
Without the rain and without the sun.

So smile a bit as you trudge along
Lighten your load with a snatch of song
The comical laws you cannot change
Be content with sunshine or drops of rain.
—Waiwae Wassinee Annis.

Chickens—61,000 to the Acre!
A poultry farm near Cookeysville, Md., employs factory methods, condensing what ordinarily would require 610 acres into a single acre of ground. Here an average of 61,000 chickens live in tiers of wire cages, with as many as 2500 laying hens in one large, air-conditioned, disinfected, thermostatically heated and cooled, photo-electrically-lighted room. The daily production of laying hens is 58 percent, against the 50 percent of conventional methods.

There are no nests. The hens never reach the ground, never go outdoors. They live, singly, in batteries of little wire cages in tiers of six or seven high. The floor of each cage is of the same wire mesh as the sides and tilts toward the front. Eggs, when laid, roll down into a little rack outside, to be picked by attendants on hourly collection rounds.

A conveyor belt runs on each tier, affording a constant supply of food within easy reach at the back of each cage. From a metal nipple at the top there is a constant drip of water. Under the cages runs a second conveyor belt which catches the waste and carries it to a bin, from which is drawn a supply of high-grade fertilizing material. Outside each layer's cage is a card, resembling a hospital chart, which gives the entire record of the hen and her production. There are also elaborate electric incubators and hatcheries.

Once started, infection could spread rapidly through such a mass of poultry. Cleanliness therefore is most important. In addition to the automatic elimination of waste the floors, walls and ceilings are kept spotlessly clean, each room being disinfected once a day. All cages are subjected to live steam at short intervals.

As neat and clean as their surroundings are the 21 employees. The women wear spotlessly white uniforms and caps, much like those of hospital nurses, and the men wear clean striped linen trousers and coats.

Several thousand visitors pass through the plant each Sunday—many of them chicken farmers from distant lands, including South Africa and Egypt. But these week-end crowds are becoming something of a problem, because of the fear of disease from the outside. So they are being separated from the cages by walls of glass!

The Moving World

Steam Airplanes
A steam powered airplane is a novelty, but apparently it is more than that, for now come reports from Germany, published first in the Berliner Tageblatt and reprinted in a British monthly called Steam Car Developments and Steam Aviation. According to this report, a great transport is already under construction which will be powered with a 2,500-horsepower Huettnier steam turbine. It will have a range with 2,000 pound payload of between sixty and seventy hours. It will have a top speed at slightly above sea level of 230 miles an hour, but at its service ceiling—something over 30,000 feet—it will cruise along easily at 260 miles an hour! Its absolute ceiling is placed at 43,000 feet.

There would be certain very definite advantages in steam. In the first place, steam, all engineers agree, is a far more elastic power gas than anything generated in an internal combustion engine, whether that be the ordinary ignition type now in use or the Diesel compression ignition engine. Its supporters claim further that steam is far more likely to provide the answer to the stratosphere question than the gasoline electrically ignited engine. No supercharger would be required, say the steam enthusiasts. Moreover, a simple air scoop would provide enough oxygen for the steam generator. The higher one climbed with this steam engine puffing away the more power one would get—and the less resistance.

It is the firm belief of the proponents of steam that if the vast resources of the automotive world had been concentrated on steam instead of the internal combustion engine for the last twenty-five years the world would have had a far simpler, safer and more powerful engine for manifold uses than is now available. Certainly it would be quieter. The Huettnier turbine has a revolving boiler and two sets of propellers which turn in opposite directions. The fuel used is oil blown into a vapor almost a gas. Other details are wanting except that it has been reported that the Berlin correspondent of a Prague newspaper was arrested for publishing the details of this invention.

Horses in Early Days

Horses have never been more valuable than during the early days of the Spanish conquest in America. When the estate of a dead conquistador was administered, his steed often brought $5,000 to $8,000. Yet within half a century, the price had dropped to $2 a head.

State News

$188,000,000 PWA Funds in Mich.
Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administration chief, stated Tuesday that he has approved Michigan projects calling for the expenditure of $188,000,000. The projects are expected to remove 140,000 employables from welfare rolls, 34,000 of them in Wayne county. Final plans for some of the improvements are still incomplete.

He is quoted as saying that persons regularly employed in industry would be eligible for local welfare aid during periods of temporary unemployment, under the new relief program, provided they can meet the "need test".

He explained however, that the new program is designed to limit direct relief to unemployables. "The government is going to see to it that employables on relief are put to work on federal projects," he is quoted as saying. "Private industry will not be able to absorb more than 2,000,000 employables within the next year and the government will have to give jobs when industry cannot."

Hopkins predicts that "there will probably be a permanent works program" that will "continue for years," although the present program was designed for one year.

The money, the report of the interview says, will come through "changes in the division of income tax laws, old age insurance, inheritance tax laws, sickness insurance." In addition to laws already passed to that end, Hopkins is quoted as saying, "there will be more legislation along this line."

Challenge Coughlin

Detroit, Sept. 3.—Frank X. Martel, president of the Detroit Federation of Labor, assailed the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin in a Labor day address before a rally of 6,000 persons yesterday. "I challenge the gentleman from Royal Oak to divest himself of his priestly robes and get on the firing line with the representatives of labor standing back of the A. F. of L. as the only hope of success," said Martel from the same platform on Belle Isle from which Fr. Coughlin addressed automobile workers organizing an independent union Sunday.

"If he is sincere—and we doubt it—if he is honest in intentions he will cease his policy of trying to destroy the A. F. of L. and render assistance," the federation executive continued.

Foulkes on Trial

Grand Rapids, Sept. 3.—Federal Judge Fred M. Raymond granted a second continuance today in the criminal case involving former Representative Geo. Foulkes, but warned defense counsel to be ready for trial on November 18.

Foulkes, who was defeated for re-election last year in the fourth congressional district, is under indictment, along with Daniel Gerow, of Sturgis, on a charge of conspiring with Gerow and Elmer Smith, of Paw Paw, to solicit funds in federal buildings, Gerow and Smith are accused in a separate indictment of soliciting funds from postmasters in the fourth district. Their case also was continued.

Put 250 to Work On PWA In Berrien County

Men on relief to the number of 238 had been transferred to WPA projects in Berrien County this week, according to E. D. Morse, engineer in charge of work projects in Berrien and Cass counties. Mr. Morse states that approval of other work projects is expected to come through so that 450 men will be on regular employment next week.

The projects under way are as follows: Niles, sidewalks, 25 men; St. Joseph, sidewalks, 36 men; Benton Harbor, paving, 151 men; Coloma, school athletic field development, 28 men. On the Coloma project two army trucks are in use. Work was started today on the first project in Cass county when 12 men were set to work on a school athletic field development and general building improvements.

Men set to work at common labor with WPA are now on a regular salary for one year at $11 per week. There will be no lost time to the men on account of weather or other conditions that may interrupt progress of work on the job. If the workers lay off themselves for any reason they will lose the time.

Application for Watervliet's sewer extensions and street improvements will be formally submitted within the next few days, it is stated. —Watervliet Record.

The Folks in History

Grocery Prices Range Far Below Ten Years Ago

Residents of Buchanan who lived here ten years ago and were of sufficient age to buy groceries then may not realize that they are paying today much lower on the general run of staple groceries, but that is exactly the case, from evidence adduced from the advertisements of August 1925, as compared with the advertisements of last month.

The largest drop is recorded in the price of coffee. In 1925 a well known brand of coffee was advertised by a local store at 48c per lb. The current price on that same brand is 49c for three lbs. and recently it sold on sale at 45 cents for three pounds.

Butter was then 47c per lb., and the best grades have recently been selling at 27c. Oleomargarine then sold at 25c per lb. and is now selling at 15c.

A heavy drop is recorded in soap prices, Palmolive, for instance, then sold at 3 bars for 20c on sale. Now it is frequently sold 6 bars for 25c.

Despite the complaint of current pork prices, lard then sold at a price about the same or slightly higher than now. It was then advertised at 20c per lb., whereas it has been recently advertised at 41c for two pounds. An old and well established brand of bacon then sold for 89c per lb. in the slab and now sells for 35c.

Bread prices ranged about the same, but flour prices are now much cheaper. Gold Medal flour was advertised then at $1.65 per 24½ lbs. but at a recent local grocery sale it was advertised at $1.13 per 24½ lbs.

The same brand of cheese which then sold for 31c per lb. now sells for 17c. The same brand of ketchup in the same size sold then for 28c, now for 20c. Vinegar sold then at 35c per gallon, now for 25c. Navy beans sold 4 lbs. for 25c, now 4 lbs. for 19c. Sweet potatoes sold at 5 lb. for 25c, now 4 lbs for 15c.

Only a few items range higher. Sugar sold about the same or slightly higher. Grape nuts sold about 3c a package lower, but the analogy scarcely holds here as the product has been radically changed.

The above current quotations do not, of course, take in consideration the sales tax, but even with that added, prices on staples in general use range from 20 to 50% below, omitting meat items.

Credit for this admirable situation may doubtless be laid to two factors:

1. General improvement in purchasing and merchandising methods.
2. Closer margins of profit along the line, resulting from intense competition during depression conditions.

Other differences are:

Jar rings, then 8c per package, now 2 for 9½c.

Sandwich spread, same brand and same size, then 33c, now 20c.

Lux toilet soap, then 3 for 29c (special), now 3 for 21c.

Toilet tissue, then 12 rolls for $1, now 12 rolls for 72c, 12 for 60c on sale.

Ten Years Ago This Week

Village Marshall Ed. F. Mitchell was passing Painter Lake Monday morning when he saw two men struggling in the water beside an overturned boat. He pulled them out. When able to tell their story they said they were fishing when one of them, Fred Schaeffer, hooked a fish and in playing it tangled his foot in the anchor line and tripped, falling overboard, overturning the boat and plunging his companion, a man named Menninger, in the water.

Tuesday afternoon about 3 p. m. neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Morley, Dayton, discovered that their home was on fire. They at once moved the furniture to a place of safety. Mrs. Morley had left the house for a short time to buy eggs from a neighbor. She was away only a few minutes and returned to find their home in flames. The Buchanan fire department was called but the fire had gained such headway that nothing could save the building. Mr. Morley, who had just undergone a serious operation, was not at home, having returned to his work at the freight house.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dumbolton and son, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Merion, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Burks, Mr. and Mrs. George Chubb, and Mr. and Mrs. N. V. Kritzner spent the week-end at Christie Lake.

New cement curbs and driveways have been built at the homes of G. E. Smith and F. C. Hathaway on Third street.

Charles E. Clark was a guest on Tuesday and Wednesday at the E. N. Schram and J. E. Arney homes. He was on his way to Winona lake

The Moving World

Dionne Babies Financially Independent

Through their physician, Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo, the Dionne quintuplets recently gave a message to the world. They said:

"Thanks for all your help, and we want you to know we are now self-supporting. We say this because so many persons and organizations helped us when we were not able to take care of ourselves. Now we are making enough money to meet all our needs and allow us to save some. We thought you would like to know."

The girl babies of Oliva and Elzire Dionne are not nearly as wealthy as many persons believe. They have $45,000 in bonds and cash, and contracts now in force probably will bring them another $50,000. In their fourteen months of life the youngsters have spent a lot of their own money. How much, the doctor declined to say.

The Canadian Red Cross paid for the nurses for a year and, with the Ontario government, helped out in various ways. In the last four months the children have paid all their own expenses—and expenses of quintuplets are large.

No figures have ever been given out, but salaries of the doctor and nurses probably total $450 a month. Other salaries, for an orderly, two maids and two guards, take perhaps $250 more. That total of $700 does not include upkeep of the hospital, which must be large, as all the staff, but the doctor, have their meals there. Everything the babies eat and drink is of the best and their food bill is large.

In addition there are many extras which all go to make $1,000 a conservative estimate of the babies' monthly expenditure.

One of their chief assets is their home, valued at $20,000. The small Dafeo hospital that was opened a year ago has been enlarged to a thirteen room building with three baths.

The babies' $45,000 in bonds and cash has come from endorsements of products they use—milk, tomato juice and the like—and motion picture and newspaper photograph contracts.

Fifteen Days Schedule Around World

When the trans-Pacific line gets under way, a globe-circling journey of 15 days will be practicable, as an official of the United Air Lines pointed out last week. The Atlantic would remain the only leg covered by steamer. The schedule would be California to Manila by air, three days; Manila to Singapore, one day; Singapore to Amsterdam, five days; Amsterdam to Paris, two hours; Paris to Havre by train, three hours; Havre to New York by steamer, four and a half days; New York to California by air, overnight.

With work on the Pacific bases practically completed and the first of the giant Martin Clippers showing a gratifying turn of speed in the shade-down trials, realization of the dream of Pacific air service draws toward accomplishment in orderly fashion. Pan American Airways has still further strengthened its hand in this field by the conclusion of an agreement with the Matson interests in Hawaii which will give it the benefit of both interlocking schedules with surface vessels and valuable meteorological information. Steamers of the line operating to the islands will transport the heavy baggage of air travelers to the Territory and also act as mobile bases for the flying clippers, furnishing them with upper-air data and other weathering information. The Inter-Island Co. will act as general agent for the trans-Pacific line and arrange for speedy transfers to Matson steamers plying the South Seas and to Australia. An additional airline between the California coast and Hawaii, as a joint operation, is also provided for.

Bottle Cap Money

Millions of cardboard bottle caps poured out of two roaring machines recently. For milk bottles? No, for pocketbooks.

Missouri shoppers will start paying the new 1 per cent sales tax with them. They will add to the bulge of a man's pocket. They will share a place alongside Milady's powder puff and compact.

What's more important—they are expected to yield between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000 a year for old-age pensions, unemployment relief, and other purposes.

An order for 15,000,000 of the cardboard discs, in one and five-mill denominations, is being filed. The company has had two machines going. The State pays $520 a million.

Inconvenient? Yes, Gov. Guy B. Park conceded at Jefferson City, but the cost and inconvenience of the collection system are inconsequential compared with the good to be accomplished.

The tax receipts, stamped with the state seal, will be made available at banks and stores. State officials adopted the idea after federal authorities turned thumbs down on "midget money" proposals.

Measuring 1 21-23ds inches in diameter, the caps are treated with paraffin to make them waterproof and durable. The tax ranges upward from a mill for purchases from 1 to 14 cents. A purchase of 95c to $1.04 requires payment of 1c.

The white caps are distinguished by a blue circle for the one mill cap and a brown one for the five.

Curbstands in China

The curbstands on the sidewalks of China not only sell every kind of commodity but also nearly every kind of professional services. Barbers, dentists, doctors, letter writers and others carry on their businesses in full view of the passers-by. Most interesting of all, however, are the mending maidens who, for a penny, quickly sew a button on your coat or a patch on your pants—while you hold still—Collier's Weekly.

Married Women Live Longest

Of interest to the annual crop of June brides is the fact that by becoming a bride she betters her chance of living to a ripe old age. Statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company report in a recent bulletin that while the death rate for spinsters in the age periods between 15 and 34 years is lower than that for wives, after the age of 34 married women have a progressively lower death rate than spinsters.

From the age of 20 through the greater part of their lives, both spinsters and married women have a lower death rate than widows or divorced women. In the age period 15 to 19 years, while married women have a death rate of 6 per 100,000, divorced women have a rate of 4.4, but widows have a death rate of 10.4 in these years.

These facts are gleaned from the records of the death rates for women, classified by age and marital condition in the death registration states for the years 1924-28, the latest year for which such reports are available.

A significant fact, pointed out by the statisticians, is that at all ages under 35, wives have a higher death rate than spinsters. Quoting from a Government report, prepared by Professor Wilcox of Cornell University, they say: "If women who marry are healthier at the time of marriage than women of like age who do not marry, and it seems probable that marriage acts as a selective agency for both sexes, although not perhaps with equal force, then the higher death rate of wives may plausibly be ascribed to the results of child bearing, especially the birth of the first child."

Crown Point Marriage Mill Booms

Crown Point, Ind., made famous by Dillinger's escape from jail, is another "Gretna Green" and the marrying parsons are getting the "litters" since their "brethren" in Elkton, Md., were compelled to stop advertising their professional activities, according to the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.

Business in that otherwise peaceful village is going on as usual. Signs around Courthouse Square indicate a keen competition among the various "parsons." Indiana's marriage laws are notoriously lax and provision is made for the ceremonies by justices of the peace and "ministers or priests." The word "ordained" is not included.

The marriage mill there is looked upon as so much "velvet" by those who regard it in its commercial aspects. The chief deputy clerk at the license bureau reports that between 5,000 and 6,000 marriage licenses are issued in a year, which brings the county an income of about $12,000.

Restaurants, hotels, jewelers and others get a slice of the trade which bulks about $800,000 a year in cash. One of the salesgirls in a five and ten store said she sells fifty wedding rings a month. A license can be had at any hour of the day or night, but after midnight there is a "minimum charge" of $10 extra. Licenses are only sold to persons over the required age or in other cases with parental consent.

"Man" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, September 8th.

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Rev. 2:17): "To him that overcometh, will I give to eat of the hidden manna, and will give him a white stone, and in the stone a new name written, which no man knoweth saving he that receiveth it."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 309): "The result of Jacob's struggle thus appeared. He had conquered material error with the understanding of Spirit and of spiritual power. This changed the man. He was no longer called Jacob, but Israel, a prince of God, or a soldier of God, who had fought a good fight."

Fire Outstrips Reforestation
The American Tree Association, through Charles Lathrop Pack, president, tells us that all tree-planting records in the United States for any one year were broken in 1934. In that period 163,000,000 forest trees were planted, representing an acreage of 161,000.

"Record planting for states is carried off by New York," says Mr. Pack. "Second place goes to Wisconsin and third to Michigan, with 12,468,500 trees representing about 12,000 acres."

Michigan has had better years than this, writes Albert Stoll, Jr., in the Detroit News, especially in 1930 when almost 30,000 acres were reforested. But the nation as a whole experienced a record tree-planting year in 1934, due principally to the efforts of the numerous CCC camps established throughout the National Forest Areas.

While the forest-minded conservationists of the nation are grateful for any acreage planted in the effort to restore our once abundant and valuable forest growth, we still are far away from making an appreciable gain in restoration as compared with destruction by fire and ax. When our forest plantings begin to equal our annual forest losses we will begin to report a healthy progress. This isn't true today and it won't be until millions of acres are restored to trees each year, instead of thousands.

Last year Michigan, according to the Pack figures, planted 12,000 acres to trees. But in the same period forest fires destroyed 53,016 acres of wild land cover, mostly young forest growth. There is nothing to be proud of in that record.

Wood Is Porous
Wood, fiber board, textiles are more or less porous. The porosity varies from 25 per cent in ebony to 75 per cent in balsam wood or fiber boards.

Front of the Capitol
The front of the Capitol faces east or opposite to the White House. When the Capitol was built general opinion was that the city of Washington would develop eastward. However, the city has developed largely toward the northwest.

Mother Nature smiled on Kamm's when she gave them the water used for brewing. It comes from deep rock wells—is pure, of medium hardness and has just the right amount of minerals to make a "natural" for beer.

Joseph Moncre March and Elmer Harris wrote the story which presents Arlen, Stephens and Jones as three fearless Federal sleuths who pit science and brains against machine guns.

Geese Long-Lived

Geese are said to be extraordinarily long-lived, some of them living more than 40 years. The domestic goose is a descendant of the gray-leg wild goose. The commonest varieties of wild geese in America are the Canada, the brant or brent, and the snow goose. The latter is also called the laughing goose, a name which its call seems in no way to merit. Snow geese are gray during the first year of their lives and thereafter pure white all year around.

Bull Fighting "Seasons"

Bull fighting is considered by its patrons as much subject to the vagaries of the season as the theater. Thus in countries where the sport flourishes, the visitor will be told that it is an off-season or a good season, and whether he is encouraged to attend depends often times upon his informant's impression of the general average of performance.

Date Palm Good Producer

The date palm is noted for its fecundity. From about its sixth year until past its hundredth, it bears great clusters of dates, aggregating between 100 to 400 pounds annually.

The Erie Canal

The Erie canal was built by the State of New York from 1817 to 1825. Before that time a private corporation, the Western Inland Canal Co., had been chartered, and between 1792 and 1798 it built six miles of canal. The state, in 1818, appointed a commission. By 1830 the canal had turned into the state treasury more than it had cost.
