Prosperity of Nation Depends on Farm Welfare, Says Pres. Jakway

Scout Party Crashes on 31

Now Here's the Proposition

Co-ops Inc., Hold Annual Meeting

Re-Elect Directors; N. Beilharz is Entertainer.

The time has come when the farmers of the United States must have social and economic equality with all other groups or the country will be the worse for it, stated President James Jakway of the Michigan Farm Bureau in a talk before the annual meeting of Buchanan Co-ops Inc., at the Evangelical church Monday afternoon.

Jakway stated in proof that when the income of the farmers shrunk from $12,000,000,000 in 1929 to $5,000,000,000 in 1932 the income of labor diminished during the same period from $11,900,000,000 to $5,000,000,000, the decline being identical to a fraction of one per cent.

The greater part of the financial and industrial wealth of the United States is a super-structure built on the actual wealth mined from the soil by the farmers, he said.

Asserting that the Farm Bureau is strictly without political affiliation and is committed against any partisan alliance, Jakway said: "I can see no difference between a subsidy behind a tariff wall and a subsidy behind a processing tax. If they are to abolish all favors to farmers, let them abolish all tariff favors to other interests and place us all on the same basis. We would probably all hit bottom again, but in that case the farmers would be willing to take their chances with other groups."

Jakway said that the state Farm Bureau had rendered great services to farm interests. He enumerated its strong influence on school measures which lightened the burden of country districts; the McNitt act, which lightened the road taxes for rural townships; the participation of the Bureau in the successful suit against the imposition of the state sales tax on materials used by farmers in production. In all of these measures, he stated, the able State Farm Bureau Agent, Wayne Newton, played a leading part.

Local Manager George reported on the work of the local co-operative and of the Buchanan Credit Union. He stated that Buchanan Co-ops Inc., had been instrumental in securing for the local farm district the successful 300-acre tomato contract with the Campbell Soup Company, which is to be renewed and possibly enlarged this coming season.

The organization was initiated at a meeting held June 14, 1913, at the Bend of the River grange hall, with County Agent J. J. Lurkins as chairman. The meeting had been initiated by a joint call of four granges, the Bend of the River, Wagner, Mr. Tabor and Portage Prairie, in the interests of the formation of a live stock marketing association. Officers of the new organization were elected as follows: president, E. E. Dawes; vice president, Dean Clark; secretary, Glenn Haslett; treasurer, Jay A. Rhoades; manager, Edwin S. Arney. The following were elected in addition to the above officers to serve as directors: F. A. Harrington, Arthur Procus, O. J. Kenton and James E. Reed.

Edward O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will be the principal speaker Thursday afternoon, Feb. 6, during Farmer's Week at Michigan State College.

Historic Log School in Miller District Torn Down to Build Into Hog Pen

Was One of Earliest Rural Schools of Berrien Co.

It may not be new but it's still new for it's never been printed. Recently one of the old landmarks of the Buchanan community—the old log schoolhouse which stood in the Mt. Tabor district on the lane east of the Fred Hunter farm, was torn down and the logs used to construct a hog pen.

This school was the second log cabin built in what was then a large district including both the present Miller and Colvin districts. The first log school was built there in 1839. This building was erected shortly afterward when they voted to change the location of the school.

A few years ago, when Minnie Haas was teacher at the Miller school, she called the attention of the writer to an old district record book which was then reposing in a bookcase filled with discarded school books in the anteroom of the school and was threatened with destruction by mice and neglect. The writer secured the permission of the Miller district board to place the old record book in the Three Oaks historical museum, where it now is, labelled as a loan from the district.

The rude forefathers of the district met at the home of one Alva Chapman and voted a tax of $35 for the building of a school house. The structure was to be erected at the wage of $1.00 per day. The extent of settlement may be inferred from the fact that in 1855, 16 years later, according to a statement of one of the pioneer settlers, there were only 11 homes in the district, all of logs, and not a single farm was entirely cleared.

A second meeting was held at the Chapman home Oct. 19, 1839, at which time it was voted to raise $5 for a library. Before the school house was completed, part of its original extent was cut off for another district, and only $15.76 of the $35.00 appropriation was ever raised. This may seem like getting off fairly easy, but it must be remembered that eggs sold for 3 cents a dozen then and some of the things that had to be bought were higher than now. Matches, for instance, cost 25c a box and sugar was usually higher than now.

This $15.76 was spent as follows: labor, $13.45; glass, $1.50; nails, 50 cents; putty 31 cents. In this structure, never fully completed, school was carried on for several summers. It was not fit for winter school, as the cracks between the logs were never plastered and the chimney was apparently never fully finished, as an appropriation for $9.75 was afterwards rescinded when the school was moved to another building.

On June 22, 1844, the patrons again met and voted to build a school house at the intersection of the "Berrien road" and the north line of Section 14. The structure was to be built of logs 20 feet long of commodious height, with a cabin roof, a stick and clay chimney, "with floors, doors and windows suitable thereto," and $50 was appropriated for the cost. So it seems the community was already entering the era of huge construction costs. The price of a day's labor had apparently dropped, as only five shillings (62½c) was allowed on tax payment for a day's work.

Parental responsibility was apparently heavier then than now as the parents of the pupils were obligated to shoulder the entire cost of paying teachers' wages, and each parent was "rated" in proportion to the pupils he sent to school. It was voted that the director be empowered to receive cash bids for the job of teaching and employ at his discretion. John Kelley received the contract but apparently thought better of it and quit after 14 days and the school was then taught two and a half months by Thomas Morley.

In 1847 the growing population of the district had shifted center and it became advisable to abandon the school house and move to a new location. It was voted accordingly that a new building be constructed of round logs, 18 feet

Fire Damages Closet, Clothes

The Buchanan fire department was called Monday morning to the home of Fred Covert, in the Bertha Roe residence north of the Boyer grocery on Cayuga street to extinguish a small fire starting in a defective furnace which damaged the interior and woodwork of the furnace and destroyed considerable of the family clothing.

Mr. and Mrs. Covert and baby were away at the time, the fire being discovered about 8:45 a. m. The firemen broke into the house and opened the closet door, where they were met by a puff of flames. The fire was extinguished by chemicals.

B. H. S. to Invade Niles Friday Night

Virgil, Center, to be Lacking in Maroon Line-Up.

Buchanan's cage unit will face a much larger and stronger net foe in Niles Friday night. From reports Niles will be minus the services of two veterans, Habel and Milligan. Buchanan will undoubtedly be minus Virgil, star center. His absence was visible against Dowagiac last week. Niles by comparison of wins and losses is not as good as the Bucks, but comparative scores mean little or nothing when it comes to a game between those two old arch rivals, Buchanan and Niles. Niles' team is way ahead of the Bucks in experience, height and other essential qualities of the game. Niles has the jump on the Bucks by virtue of their early season victory over the Bucks, and the Bucks must win in order to break even.

The coaches of both squads are sending their men through stiff drills in preparation for the ensuing contest and Friday night will tell a tale. Niles uses a zone defense, which is most confusing, but the Bucks have been up against a zone defense several times and even used it themselves.

Theatre Has New Sound System

Modern Sound Equipment Installed at Local Theatre.

Sound engineers from Chicago worked all Monday night and Tuesday morning installing new Wide Range, High Fidelity Sound Equipment in the Hollywood theatre. This new sound reproduces the complete frequency range of all wide range, new process recordings with unvarying High Fidelity duplicating to the most minute detail the stirring sound effects used in today's films.

This is the same sound equipment that is being installed in some of the largest theatres in the country. The management of the theatre has gone through considerable expense so that the people of Buchanan can enjoy the finest in screen entertainment obtainable, presented over up to the minute equipment.

This theatre has a number of high class musical productions that are being booked now to be shown in the near future, and this new sound will bring out every note sung with unvarying fullness whether it is a popular song hit or selection from grand opera.

Lions to Stage Winter Carnival

To be Held at High School February 21 and 22.

The Buchanan Lions club is beginning preparations this week for a mid-winter Carnival and card party, to be given at the high school on the evenings of Feb. 21 and 22 as a means of financing their community welfare fund.

The welfare fund of the organization has been drawn for a number of worthy local causes, including provision of glasses for children with defective vision, aid in emergency hospital cases, aid of Girl and Boy Scouts, milk fund, safety activities and a Christmas party for underprivileged children.

The latter event held on the evening of Dec. 21 depleted the club treasury, the local organization contributing nearly $100 to its support.

The winter carnival will include quadrille, hornpipe and fancy dancing, amusements and concessions of all kinds, motion pictures of Buchanan people, archery exhibits and other sports and entertainment.

The card party will include auction and contract bridge and pin-ochle, substantial prizes being in store for honor players. The events will be in progress from 6 p. m. until 12 p. m. Friday, Feb. 21, and from 6 p. m. until 12 p. m. Saturday, Feb. 22.

Scout Party Crashes on 31

Sam Rakowski and Marion Hartsell Reported in Good Condition.

Disaster interfered with the local representation at the Area Scout banquet at Benton Harbor on Tuesday evening when one of the three cars carrying the local party, driven by Principal P. J. Moore, collided with a truck driven by Ernest Slater of Berrien Springs at the intersection of the Redbud Trail and US-31 about 6:30 p. m.

The car driven by Moore contained Frank King, Scoutmaster of Troop 80, Bill Ednie, Jr., and Jimmy King. King incurred a fracture of the tibia bone just below the knee of the right leg, a head cut which required three stitches, and severe shock. Jimmy King incurred a wrenched wrist and other slight injuries. Bill Ednie incurred bruises and shock which will confine him to his bed two or three days. P. J. Moore incurred a forehead cut and other slight injuries. Ernest Slater, driver of the truck, was uninjured.

Two other cars of Scouts were following behind, with Con Kelley and Kermit Washburn in charge.

The injured were taken to the farm home of J. H. Crandall near the intersection of US-31 and the trail. A daughter of Crandall, a registered nurse, gave excellent first aid treatment. Meanwhile a call was sent to Supt. Stark and he came with L. O. Swem and an ambulance, which transported the injured to the Pawating hospital. There they were examined and all released but King, who remained until the following day.

Rakowski and Miss Hartsell Recovering Reports yesterday afternoon from St. Joseph hospital, South Bend, indicated that Sam Rakowski and Miss Marion Hartsell, who suffered severely from cold and shock when the car in which they were riding plunged into the St. Joseph river early Tuesday morning, are now in a satisfactory condition and making a good recovery, with no indications of pneumonia or other results of their terrible exposure.

The accident occurred about 1:10 a. m. Monday when Rakowski was driving west on Washington avenue east of the millrace. Rakowski stated that he reached the dead end of the street and his car was bouncing over the Michigan Central tracks before he realized it. He attempted to stop but the car skidded across and nosed over into the millrace, which is covered with four inches of ice. The radiator hooked into the bank and the car ended over, striking the ice bottom up. It broke through but the ice at the front and rear supported it and kept it from completely submerging. The couple were trapped beneath but had a few inches of space under the floor boards to keep their faces out of water. A night watchman at the Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. plant saw the mishap and summoned the police who were able to extricate the couple after 40 minutes of extreme suffering, both in a semi-conscious condition. Miss Hartsell was taken from the rear of the car, her clothing frozen to her body. Rakowski was found doubled up in the front. Both were uninjured except from the shock of remaining in the icy water.

Miss Hartsell, 21, is a niece of Mrs. Emma Brown, in whose home she was reared.

Reopen Poorman Grocery Friday

Frank Poorman, whose grocery and market on River street was destroyed by fire Tuesday morning, Jan. 21, will open again Friday with a larger and strictly modern stock in a 30x16 building which he has moved temporarily into the driveway beside the site of the building destroyed.

He has purchased the entire fixtures of a bankrupt grocery and market in Elkhart, and purchased some of the latest equipment and a complete grocery stock in addition. He states that plans are now under way for the erection of a 30x50 building on the site of the one burned, where he will have a much more complete and modern stock than before. He will not resume his meat market until the new building is ready.

He is storing his stock and fixtures temporarily in the Treat building.

Luke's Scoring Spree in Last Half Decisive Factor.

Coach Johnny Miller's fighting Bucks eked out a 27-29 victory over their higher classed rivals, the Dowagiac chieftains, last Friday evening on the chiefs own maplewood.

The Bucks minus the services of Virgil, dependable center and forward, turned the tables on Coach Lewis' black-clad chiefs in the last half. The Bucks went into the final half on the short end of an 8-7 count, but the nearly super-human ability and accuracy of a red-headed human, "Streaky" Luke kept the Bucks in the running and in the end brought them out on top.

Summary of the scoring: First quarter: Dowagiac opened up an attack at the opening whistle that netted them six points before the Bucks were able to connect. Frender, Heimstra and Squier accounted for the three fielders. Luke made the Buck's lone tally from the free throw stripe near the end of the first canto. Score 6 to 1 in Dowagiac's favor.

2nd quarter: Meyers scored a free throw for the chiefs as the second period opened, Luke followed suit. Frender and Smith also counted from the black line. Shortly after Jesse and Luke connected with a field goal apiece. The quarter ended Dowagiac still holding a one point lead. Score 8-7.

Third quarter: Luke opened the third canto with a long fielder and Frender also zipped one thru the mesh. Holmes then saw the necessity and dropped in a long one. Luke swished a free throw and a fielder. Heimstra and Meyers then slipped a field goal apiece thru the hoop. Luke got "on" and swished three 2-pointers before the chiefs came to. As soon as they did Meyers sank a fielder from deep in the out court and Frender collected one more charity toss. Luke again banged away this time sinking two fielders. The quarter ended with the Bucks holding a 5 point lead. Score 27-22.

4th quarter: Frender and Heimstra broke the ice for the chiefs with a fielder apiece. This brought the chiefs within one point of the Bucks, but field goals by Luke and Holmes, 2 free throws by Stevens and one by Smith gave the Bucks an eight point lead. Dowagiac started a rally which brought them within two points of the Bucks before the final horn. Frender accounted for two and Squier for one of the three field goals acquired in the rally. Final score Buchanan 29, Dowagiac 27.

Luke was high scorer with 19 points. Frender was next best with 12 points. The Bucks whole team played a fine ball game from start to finish. Frender and Heimstra were seemingly outstanding players for the chiefs.

Buck Reserves Score Victory The Buck reserves won by a slim 17-16 count. Thus far they have a record of 5 victories and 3 defeats.

The Bucks were trailing 16-9 as the last canto got under way, with only a few minutes to play the Bucks put on a rally that netted them eight rivals scoreless. With seconds to play Bachman got loose and dropped a neat lay-up shot through the mesh. Trapp of Buchanan and Irwin, chief forward, tied for scoring honors with 7 points each.

Archery Questions and Answers

Question: Are sights used on bows similar to the sights used on a rifle?

Answer: It has been considered unethical to use sights, but more archers every year are using sights in preference to point of aim. Some of the archery champions in recent years have used sights.

Q: Is the bow and arrow an ancient or modern weapon?

A: The bow and arrow is much older than civilization. Its origin is lost in antiquity. Archeologists believe they have evidence to show that the bow and arrow was used at least 25,000 years ago. The archery tackle now on the market however, is much different from and much superior to that made and used by the ancients.

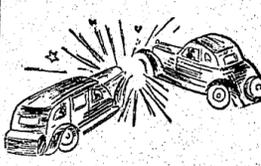

Q: Are there any hunters of large, wild animals who use the bow and arrow?

A: Every fall a greater number of archers go to hunt deer. Some archers claim to have better success with a bow and arrow than with a rifle. Some lion and elephant hunters use the bow and arrow in preference to the rifle.

Q: What is the wand shoot in archery?

A: In the wand shoot, the target is a lath one-half inch thick and two inches wide painted white and set in the ground at 100 yards so that six feet extend above the surface.

Q: What was the last battle fought with bows and arrows?

AT THE THEATRE

"Mutiny on the Bounty" Year's Top Adventure
"Mutiny on the Bounty," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's great sea picture that opens Sunday at the Hollywood for three days, carries one away with the sheer intensity of its drama. Although a historical romance, wrung from the actual records of the British Admiralty, it is far more absorbing than pure fiction.
It is a superb achievement in motion pictures, a historical picture as it should be and one that will live for years to come as one of the most exciting sea tales ever screened.
Eddy Duchin, popular dance band leader, found more off-stage humor and comedy on the Hollywood movie sets than "in a dozen radio programs." Duchin's orchestra is featured in Paramount's "Coronado," which comes Friday and Saturday, with a cast including Johnny Downs, Betty Burgess, Jack Haley, Alice White, Andy Devine and Leon Errol.
Lew Gensler, Harlan Thompson and Ray Noble are responsible for the music and lyrics in Paramount's "Ship Cafe," featuring Carl Brisson and Arline Judge will be shown Wed.-Thurs. The hit tunes are "Fatal Fascination," "Won't Take No for an Answer," and "Change Your Mind." Robert Florey directed the comedy drama of a singing ship stoker's career.
"Brewster's Millions," the gay new musical farce starring Jack Buchanan and Lilli Damita, comes here Wednesday for two days.
If you haven't heard the new sound equipment at the Hollywood you have a treat in store.

Clark Gable
The picture is the true story of the voyage of H.M.S. Bounty 150 years ago, on a scientific expedition to the South Seas. It tells of the tyranny of a brutal captain who drove his crew to mutiny, of the life and loves of the sailors in a tropical paradise and the dogged pursuit of Captain Bligh for the men who had fed him to the wrath of the sea by casting him adrift in an open boat.

of four members, and the superintendent's office is filled by popular vote.
The amendment would provide for non-partisan election of the members. The legislature will be given the task of deciding how the nominees for such an election shall be chosen.
Phillips said a campaign for signatures on the petitions necessary to place the proposal on the November ballots will get under way in March. The 126,000 necessary signatures must be obtained before the end of June.
Before petitions can circulate, the four member committee appointed by the Michigan Council of Education must complete its draft of the proposed amendment. It then must receive the approval of the legislative division and the board of directors of the Michigan Education association, before it is submitted to the secretary of state for his inspection. Not until the secretary of state has approved the wording of the amendment and the form of the petitions can the gathering of signatures be started legally, Phillips said.
The proposal in high Democratic quarters that Senator James Couzens be allowed to run for reelection without opposition met a determined blockade and may cause former Governor William A. Comstock to seek office.
The former governor, who is the recognized leader of the currently dominant faction of the Democratic party in Michigan, declared emphatically he is not in sympathy with the move, even though it is said to have been endorsed by Postmaster General James A. Farley and other highups in national party councils.
The strong probability exists that if national Democratic leaders seek to smooth the path for Couzens, Comstock will enter the Democratic primary to win the senatorial nomination and oppose Couzens in the election.

Michigan Stages Building Revival

Construction in Detroit in '35 Triples that of '34.

Among the anticipations of recovery which have been bandied about for the past two or three years has been one to the general effect that the sun would shine when the building industry opened up again. There is no doubt that following the flattening out of the investment marked in 1929 and especially following the bank holiday of 1933 the building and building materials trades were as flat as the traditional pancake.
Meantime, some people are waiting for both to recover.
As a matter of fact there is enough building going on now in Michigan to make a very striking history of return. This building summing material and keeping construction and fitting shops going at fine rate.
Contracts of size quite equivalent to those of past prosperity days are being let weekly. The cement mills of the state are running to capacity and making money. There is really a dearth of skilled labor, although modern building projects use more common labor now than they used to do.
Many laymen, of the type who invest money in building enterprises, hold to the theory that building has not yet resumed and that it is not time yet to invest for revenue. These people are fooling themselves because lumber is going up, wages are going up, the housing facilities of the state are actually short in so far as decent living habitations are concerned and rents are going up.
This latter fact is bringing back values in single and multiple home investments. Modernization has used up much material and money and is lined up to use much more during 1936.
These conditions, as readers of this issue will learn by reading the details, apply not only to the Detroit section of the state, where work has come back to the point of shortage of good mechanics, but to all the other cities as well. Moreover, they are not limited in their scope to necessary industrial and domestic structures, but to the luxury type as well. The new construction is turning to new theaters, new churches, some office buildings. There is a marked resumption of school building. The road building and bridge building programs of the state are in their actual construction period.
Much of this work is attributable to government bonuses and participations in loans. Not all of it is so chargeable, however. Private capital is coming into the open again.
The general building conditions of the state in 1935 have established a pace which has already run into 1936. Many of the building permits which will be cited were in for 1935 represent operations which are actually going on in 1936 and the completion of which will not be effected until mid-year the figures for 1935 indicate the pace.
The development of housing and industrial building in up-state Michigan cities in 1935 has been very extensive, while the building permits for Detroit, which in 1934, totaled slightly more than $8,800,000, in 1935 totaled at more than $21,000,000, two and one-half times the value of the permits issued the year before.

Explosibility of Dusts
One of the principal factors in the explosibility of dusts seems to be the degree of fineness of the dusts, says a writer in the Washington Star. The explosion appears to be the propagation of flame through a very finely and uniformly divided dust cloud. This flame travels at a very rapid speed, building up considerable pressure, thereby producing what we ordinarily call the explosion. It has, therefore, been extremely difficult in certain instances to determine definitely when the fire ended and the explosion started. It would appear that any fire might result in an explosion if combustible dust clouds were present.

State News

Commissioner Frank E. Gorman disclosed recently that a fingerprint check of all 1936 license applicants will be made by the state liquor commission.
The sheriffs and chiefs of police associations had agreed previously to require the fingerprints of applicants. A commission regulation requires each applicant to have his petition for a license approved by his chief local law enforcement officer.
Figures released from the office of the Old Age Assistance bureau in the Berrien county court house today show that 359 persons in Berrien county are receiving old age assistance at the present time. The present number of pensioners represents the largest number to receive this aid from the state since either the head tax enactment or the present old age assistance law went into effect.
In order to be eligible to apply for old age assistance in this state a person must be 70 years of age or older. It is, however, possible to make application if a person is between 65 and 70, but such applications cannot be investigated until the applicant becomes 70 years of age. In 1940 this age limit in Michigan will be reduced to 65.
The three Berrien county investigators are now working on those applications filed during 1935. There are still a few cases of persons who applied during 1933 or 1934 and whose applications have not yet been investigated. In such cases the applicants have been requested to file a new application.
Application blanks for old age assistance may be obtained by writing or calling at the office of County Welfare Agent Don R. Pears, in the court house at St. Joseph.
Michigan educators' fight to "take the profession out of politics" headed for a showdown today.
A committee labored on a proposed constitutional amendment providing for an enlarged, non-partisan state board of education which would choose the state's superintendent of public instruction. Plans called for it to be submitted to the voters in the November general election.
Dr. A. J. Phillips, acting executive secretary of the Michigan Education association, said the board would be composed of six or eight members, serving staggered terms to create two vacancies every year. The board now is composed

Ford Publishes Farm Almanac

Publication of a "Farm Almanac and Facts Book" which will be distributed to the rural population in all parts of the country has been announced by the Ford Motor Co.
The book is of a convenient pocket size, containing 48 pages. It is unusual in make-up and content, presenting an extensive array of handy tables, statistics and charts for the assistance of the farmer and business man. Other sections are designed to aid the farm wife.
This first Ford Almanac is published for 1936 and is now being distributed. It carries a readily available calendar on the back cover and contains tables showing the time of rise and set of sun and moon in all parts of the country every day of the year. Other helpful and interesting astrolgical and astronomical information is included.
Among the other prominent sections of the book are: A list of memorable historic events for each day of the year, facts about the universe, explanations of physical phenomena, a list of important festivals and anniversaries for the year, rules for forecasting weather conditions, population statistics, facts and records on farming as an industry, discussion of the farm of the future, information on citizenship and naturalization, a brief review of the history and development of the United States, "do's and don'ts" for use in emergencies, instructions for flower and vegetable gardening, crop seed sowing in-

How New Egg Grading Is Specified

County Agent Harry Lurkins Has Copies of New Egg Grading Requirements Now Available.

A copy of the new egg grading regulations, as promulgated by the state department of agriculture, has been received by County Agricultural Agent Harry Lurkins. The county agent advised that anyone desiring a copy may write to the state department of agriculture. The department's bureau of foods and standards administers the act. Classification of the eggs must be made through visual examination of the shell, and by candling. Eggs are divided into four classes, of which the first three are permitted a 10 per cent tolerance and the 10 per cent in the tolerance, however, must meet the qualifications of the next lower grade.

Specifications for the grades are: Fancy grades—Shell clean and sound, air-cell, one eighth inch in depth or less, localized and regular. Yolk not more than dimly visible, white, firm and clear. Candling shall show no visible development of the germ.

Grade A—Shell clean and sound, air-cell one fourth inch in depth or less, localized and regular. Yolk may be visible, white, firm and clear. Candling shall show no visible development of the germ.

Grade B—Shell clean and sound, air-cell three eighths inch in depth or less, localized, may be slightly tremulous. Yolk may be visible, white reasonably firm. Germ development may be slightly visible by candling.

Grade C—Eggs which have been candled and found edible but not meeting the requirements for the other three grades.

Eggs whose interior quality is below the minimum requirements for Grade C are deemed inedible and unfit for human food. Eggs that have been preserved or protected by treating with oil or any other substance may be sold under any of the four grades, but must be designated as "shell treated."

Eggs offered for retail sale must be labeled with the grade, on a placard at least six by eight inches in size. Eggs are to be sold by the pound and not by the dozen, except where both parties agree otherwise.

Any person selling eggs to a retailer must furnish an invoice specifying grades. If they have not been candled the invoice must so state. Producers are exempt from this regulation.

All dealers in eggs, except producers, are required to file a permit with the state commissioner of agriculture. There is no charge for the permit. The regulations establish an advisory council of seven members to assist the commissioner of agriculture in handling the egg laws. The council is composed of two representatives of egg producers, two representatives of egg dealers, two representatives of egg retailers and one representative of consumers.

Scout Week Feb. 7 to 13 In This Area

Plans for participation by Berrien and Cass counties in the national Boy Scout anniversary week are being prepared by Scout Executive Oscar Noll at the Boy Scout headquarters here. The celebration will be observed from Feb. 7 to 13.

For the Scouts, the big feature of the week is Citizenship day, when throughout the two counties the boys will take over their city governments and operate them for the day. It has been customary to hold elections among the Scouts to choose boys to serve as city managers, mayors, chiefs of police and fire departments and other posts. Other boys will direct traffic and participate in other public services.

Council Celebration day, Feb. 11, will include a council court of awards at Niles. This is a colorful ceremony, attended by the Scouts, their parents, and Scout leaders from all over the council.

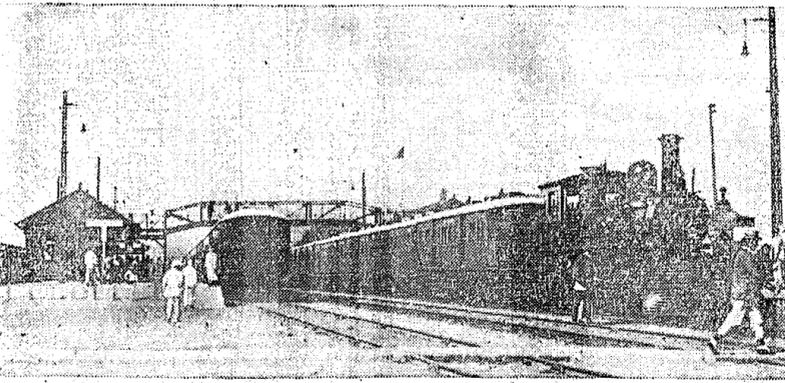

Education day, Feb. 10, will consist of demonstrations in first aid, camping, traffic safety and other Scout work before public schools and luncheon clubs.

Troops will go in groups to religious services on Church Sunday, Feb. 9. Ministers will be requested to co-operate in special programs. Other programs for the week are to be announced later by Executive Noll.

Shanhaikwan Is the Gateway to North China

This is the railway station at Shanhaikwan, "the Gateway to North China," where Japan massed troops preparatory for an invasion of north China. Japan took Shanhaikwan after bitter fighting in the winter campaign of 1932-33. It is a gateway through the seaward end of the great wall and a commanding link on the railway chain which connects the East with Europe.

The Folks in History

W. J. Richerson Writes of Old Buchanan and Buchananites

Waterloo, Iowa, Dear Sir: Well, here is a little history about old Buchanan. I saw an article in the Buchanan Record about the Beardsleys and the Wagon Shop. I was at that fire, it was awful hot. They put wet blankets on the house across the road, (the Foster house) Mrs. Broceus owned it the last I knew. It was an awfully hot place for the Dr. Dodd house on the corner, where they built the first brick shop at Main and Second streets. That house was moved away to a lot of Portage street next to Mrs. Butcher's, one part went down River street next to the railroad.

I well remember when the annex was built, and the blacksmith shop and the windmill shop (upstairs) and later on they built the store-room two stories. They did a good business for a long time. My father had one of the Beardsley wagons which was bought in the early seventies and was made in the small shop built just after the fire. He bought the first two-seated buggy they made, a good one, too. Johnny Herman had the buggy the last I knew.

I often think over the different places that were built in my time. The M. C. depot, the old one stood upon the bank on the south side of the tracks at the end of Days Ave. It was later moved across the tracks on Portage St. It now stands one block north where the Dumboltons lived.

The Pad factory was in the first block from the depot. Morley's Foundry was there, too. They had a fire and burned out. B. T. Morley built on the corner of Front street and Portage. "Cap" Richards built a shop on Oak street and Chicago. Talbot's shop was built by the race on Chicago St. The Union school was built in '71. Charles Clark built a house on the corner of Front street and Clark street and William Pears built a brick house next to it west. L. P. Fox built on the corner of Lake and Front street. L. P. Alexander built on the corner of Front street and West street, also down the street towards town. Then Jake Luther built the one Sol Rough had. Geo. Black and Dave Himman each had one across the road. J. D. Ross lived down towards town. Then came the J. D. Ross house, Levi Redding house, John McFarlin Saloon, Dodd's Drug store, Fin Binns'

Along McCoy's Crick

By Harrison Merrill The first post office this writer remembers having visited in Buchanan was located in the wooden building on the north side of Front street at the bottom of the hill.

The place was then presided over by L. P. Alexander and family, wife and son, and a young fellow by the name of Walter C. Hall. That must have been back in the very late 70's as Mr. Hall left Buchanan in August, 1883, to go to Kalamazoo to enter college. Instead he entered Uncle Sam's service in that city and within a few months he will have completed a stretch of 50 years for the U. S. A. and doubtless will retire at that time.

The building was a low one-story structure equipped with sky lights, kerosene lamps and a front porch. It was a favorite gathering place for the populace. All meetings were arranged for there and the hohobled parties, very popular in those days, left the post office at night either on the odd or even hour.

John Alexander, the son, occupied the space behind the general delivery window, when not occupied with his studies at school. He knew all the customers by name and likewise by postal card. When the caller happened to be particularly good looking her mail was #### two store rooms, Wm. Trenbeth store, Treat and Redding block, J. Imhoff block where the post office used to be. John Fancher built a little store back of the National bank. Wm. Waterman had a barber shop there. Across the street one was put up for Sam Barmore's Drug store and one for a millinery shop.

Dodd's had their medicine shop under Ki Howe's store, later known as Roe's hardware. They used to peddle with a cabinet wagon drawn by two large horses. Robert Rogers had charge of it. Mr. DeWing run one for some other company. I saw an article in our paper here of an awful accident where they were coasting down hill and two were killed. It makes me think of a skirmish some young folks had there in Buchanan in the early seventies. They got a pair of hobs and put a man on a sled ahead to steer. This was when they had a plank bridge across Days Avenue and Front street cornerways. They started on Front street hill and went down through town and when the hands hit the bridge they changed their course and made for the creek, and the bunch went into the water. They went into Slater's to get dry and warm.

Yours truly, W. J. Richerson. Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Editor Record, A bit more about Cottage Hill as a post office. Up to 1848 the chief travel route through that country was a coach route running from Chicago to Detroit and known as the Chicago Road, with stations along the route for convenience of passengers, drivers and teams which called for barn and tavern room. One of those stations was at Cottage Hill. Next east was one at Bertrand, and West at LaPorte.

In 1846 there was started to build the Michigan State, afterwards The Michigan Central railroad, which was completed through to New Buffalo in 1848. The railroad took all the business from the coach road, and the road was turned off at a point about a mile east from the Cottage Hill premises, taking a diagonal route to Niles. The Cottage Hill station was owned by Joseph Jones. The first I knew of it the property had come to the ownership of his son-in-law, Joseph Wells and I was teaching the district school in 1875.

delivered at the home or other stopping place without charge but after office hours. In the same room with the post office was the news stand where the latest periodicals and newspapers could be obtained. This was presided over by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ballengee, who resided on West street, at the top of the Front street hill, turn to the right and the next house just beyond the tall acorn tree.

Mr. Ballengee, it is recalled, was built on very generous lines, being great of girth, and with the demure strong within him to take a nap whenever the opportunity presented itself. He would lean back in his spacious office chair and quick as a wink he would settle into an innocent, baby-like sleep, apparently at peace with all the world. His numerous naps resulted in Buchanan people of that day getting somewhat behind in their reading as a result of the waits in service.

Mrs. Ballengee, the wife, was a tall likeable person, whose great ambition was to keep her husband from going to sleep or from being removed by the pesky flies while in that condition. Her contour was unbroken except by a jutting Adam's apple which luckily broke the otherwise severity of the lines. That, of course, was before the day when any thought was given to streamlining. Later the sale of papers and magazines was taken over by the Binns family, assisted by Edgar Ham. The post office room in time became a temple of justice and after that it was a Chinese laundry being presided over by one Quong Lee, a very able Chinik and chef. The writer remembers having attended a trial in the old building where two young fellows residing near Dayton had been brought to town charged with robbery. The justice of the peace, after hearing numerous objections by the attorneys and who, apparently had grown weary of it all, finally leaned over his desk and addressing counsel said: "There appears to be no doubt whatever but what these two young men committed the crime of which they are charged and therefore I see no reason why youse fellows should keep delayin' matters with your objections. Let the trial proceed!" It was a frank expression of facts as the jurist saw them but was quite startling. It would be refreshing at the present time, when courts apparently have their minds made up far in advance as to the outcome of their deliberations if jurists were not bound down and made to wait in order to remain dignified and likewise ethical. Quong Lee was the second Chinaman to locate in Buchanan. The first visitor from the Orient occupied the basement of the Redden block, corner of Front street and Days Avenue. He was Charlie Lee, who became an acknowledged expert in beating threes with two of a kind. That, of course, being before the days of the New Deal. Next to the post office to the east was the candy store owned by Billy Dicks. Only pan candies made by the proprietor were offered for sale. For 10 cents the husband in bad at home as a result of staying out the night before could square himself by taking home a bag of taffy. Compare that with the present price of bombons! East of the candy store was the photograph gallery of H. E. Bradley. In those days it was the custom for the young couple to hurry from the church to the photographers and have their picture taken before they left on the honeymoon trip to the Falls. The new wife, in a white dress and veil would occupy the only studio chair and the husband in a new black suit, his hair all slicked down and in place would remain standing with his hand gently resting upon the blushing bride's shoulder. The idea in hurrying from the church to the gallery was not to secure the photo while the young people were still on speaking terms as might be the case in this day and age, but was to provide a picture which, when enlarged and surrounded by a gold frame could be hung over the piano in the home which, after all would not be considered complete without such a view of sublime domesticity. It is recalled that in those days beside the enlarged picture of Pa and Ma hanging over the piano in the parlor, there was also a picture of Pharoah's Horses, at top speed, to be found reposing on an easel just inside the door of the so-called living room. It was quite a trick to have one's photo taken in those days! One was obliged to sit in a tall straight back chair with elbow rests and with the head securely clamped in a head rest or vice and gaze intently at a small bird in the rear of the place, while the likeness was slowly eating its way into the plate in the camera. It was a slow, tiresome process. This being done in part, no doubt, to the absence of the present day electrodes.

Later Mr. Bradley sold his studio which had become the art center of the village to C. E. Kerr, who turned it over for a considerable time thereafter. Next to the studio on the way downtown and at the extreme east of the ancient post office building was located the watch repair shop of William Stetler, Civil war drummer boy, and also a very fine workman.

Mr. Stetler was able on request to play both the short and the long roll on his snare drum. The former required 20 minutes by the watch and the later could be made in 40 minutes in case the performer did not topple over exhausted. It used to be the custom to drop into the store and listen to the short roll when the mail happened to be 20 minutes late, and the long roll when the train was 40 minutes behind, and the two together when there was a delay of an hour or so.

Mr. Stetler was an expert on the drum and he always insisted on wearing his army cap when starting his rolls. He was a kindly fellow and always the gentleman. Like most men of that day he wore chin whiskers and, if the writer remembers correctly, used a superior brand of Light Burley chewing tobacco.

Mr. Stetler was a member of the fire and drum corps. Others were William Power, the cobbler, who presided at the fire, and Geo. W. Merrill, blacksmith, and father of the writer, who was the official bass drummer. All were Civil war veterans. Quite often Charles Billy Osborn helped out in the snare drum section and Herb Roe assisted with the fife. This organization led many a torchlight procession through the streets back in the days when political campaigns were campaigns and not just something coming in on the air.

For the sake of the present generation it might be well to explain herewith that a roll on a snare drum consisted of hitting the drum head first with one stick and then the other, then continuing on with this effort, faster and faster, and louder and louder, all of which produced an ungodly effect on the ears of cardrums from which relief could only be obtained, as a rule, by murder, arson or some other high class crime such as mayhem.

Mr. Stetler besides being Buchanan's ace drummer also was a fine watch repairer. In the old days it was considered necessary to keep time-pieces right to the second. Otherwise there might be those who would miss the west bound train on the Michigan Central which arrived at 5:13 Sunday afternoon and was met by all comers.

Mr. Stetler also was the father of Myrtle or "Mert" Stetler, who was the finest ice skater of her day. She held the record of having jumped over eight empty barrels placed on the ice at the Bainton millpond. The daughter, it is understood, now resides at South

Atty. T. D. Childs, Jr., Weds Ruth Ramlow of Benton Harbor in Peace Temple, Jan. 25th

In the candle lit foyer of the Benton Harbor Methodist Peace Temple, Miss Ruth Saloma Ramlow was united in marriage on Saturday afternoon to one of Berrien county's prominent young lawyers, Attorney Theron Dyer Childs, Jr., of Three Oaks.

Only relatives and a small company of intimate friends witnessed the beautifully appointed ceremony, performed at 4 o'clock by the Rev. P. H. Murdick, Peace Temple pastor.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman A. Ramlow of Orchard Lane, Benton Harbor. She was given in marriage by her father.

An ivory lace wedding gown, worn by the fair haired and lovely bride was fashioned on Princess lines with a flowing train and softly draped cowl neck. She was married in the bridal veil of her cousin, Mrs. Hilton Nowlen, and carried the wedding handkerchief of her mother. Her flowers were a sheaf of calla lilies.

Mrs. Benjamin Bittner, wife of former County Clerk Bittner, attended her sister of matron of honor. Her gown was an ankle length crepe in turquoise blue with a lace yoke. A toque and slippers of silver completed her costume, and she carried Johanna Hill roses. Little Katherine Berry was flower girl.

Attorney Myron H. Wolcott of St. Joseph attended the groom as best man. Those who ushered were Harold Hanlin of Buchanan, Dr. Donald Helkie and George Poulson of South Bend.

A setting of white and silver beautified the church foyer where white roses and ferns were used in profusion. Many tall white tapers glowed in candelabra of silver and crystal.

Warren Colby, Peace Temple organist, played the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" and vocal music was provided by Mrs. Hilton Nowlen.

After the service at the church there was a reception for the wedding guests and other intimate friends of the couple at the Ramlow home. Here, too, the color scheme of white and silver was carried out with roses and slender white tapers in candelabra of silver. The bridal table was marked with a centerpiece of white roses, bordered with lighted candles. Mrs. Jesse L. Haugh of Omaha, Neb., an aunt of the bride, aided her sister, Mrs. Ramlow, in serving, with Miss Dorothy Haugh and Mrs. L. J. Berry.

Mrs. Ramlow, the bride's mother, wore a black velvet chiffon with a lace yoke and a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. T. D. Childs, Sr., mother of the groom, wore aquamarine blue crepe with lace insets and a shoulder corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

Attorney Childs and his bride left immediately after the reception for a motor trip to the south, and upon their return will reside in their newly furnished home at Three Oaks.

Attorney Childs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theron Dyer Childs, of Buchanan, has been practicing in Three Oaks for some time. He graduated from the Buchanan high school and the College of Law, University of Michigan. In Ann Arbor he was a member of Delta Sigma Phi fraternity, of which he was president in his last year, also a member of the Law club and a member of the council of that organization in his last year.

Since her graduation from the Benton Harbor high school the bride has been prominent in dramatic and social life of the twin cities. She is vice-chairman of the Young Women's Republican club of the Fourth District of Michigan and for three years, until January 1, 1936, was deputy registrar of deeds in the Berrien County court house offices. Gifted in dramatics, the bride has had a prominent part in productions of the Twin City Players and the Congregational College club, being a member of both organizations.

Those from Buchanan who attended the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hanlin and Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Childs, Sr.

Plan WPA Michigan Traffic Survey

Who is responsible for the safety problem in Michigan? The answer is being sought in a rural traffic survey sponsored by the Michigan WPA, in collaboration with the American Automobile Association, the Michigan Safety Council and the state police.

Under the direction of WPA officials and State Police, 1,374 young men and women, taken from relief families, will make a study of traffic conditions in the rural areas of Michigan. District supervisors are now being trained for the project at Lansing. Work will begin Monday, January 27.

The survey is being financed through a WPA allotment of $54,482, all of which will be expended for wages. The Automobile Association has agreed to finance the purchase of necessary materials and equipment up to $15,000. All communities of 18,000 population or less will be included in the rural survey. Larger communities and trunk line highways are covered by the million dollar traffic study sponsored by the State Highway Department.

"Fourteen per cent of the drivers are responsible for Michigan's safety problem," said O. G. Olander, Commissioner of State Police. "Through this survey and the trunk line study, we propose to find out who they are."

To that end, workers engaged on the traffic survey will make a study of law enforcement records in 300 communities. They will start by securing certificates of conviction from local justices of the peace. These certificates are required by law to be submitted to the Secretary of State as issued but many justices have been lax in this regard, with the result that the Lansing records are far from complete.
