Westin Seeks

A Second Term As Prosecutor

Prosecuting Attorney Edward A. Westin of Benton Harbor today announced that he is a candidate for re-election on the Republican ticket.

The popular young prosecutor, now serving his first term as Berrien county's chief legal representative, is seeking a second term on the basis of his efficient handling of the affairs of his office during the year and a half that he has served.

Mr. Westin's court record is impressive and enviable. He has obtained a conviction in every case he has tried before a circuit court jury with one exception, that being an appeal from justice court. His record in the lower courts is practically the same.

Although trial work is that part of a prosecutor's job which attracts the most attention, nevertheless it is in his office where the prosecutor really puts in the greatest amount of time and energy for the people of the county.

An average of 25 persons a day have gone to the prosecutor's office in the past year and a half, Mr. Westin reports, with complaints and problems, some real and some fancied. All, however, have received courteous attention and their complaints and problems handled according to the prosecutor's best judgment.

Prosecutor Westin's first term has been characterized by patient and courteous treatment of all who have taken their troubles to him, and by the exercise of sound judgment in the issuance of prosecution of criminal warrants, he and his friends believe he is entitled to a second term.

Petitions Out To "Draft" Tyler's Candidacy. Friends out with Petitions for Guy Tyler as Candidate for Congressman. Petitions were circulating today in the fourth Michigan congressional district for Guy Tyler as candidate for congress on the Democratic ticket at the September primaries. Mr. Tyler, who has been county clerk of Berrien county since his election in 1932, has made no announcement that he will be a candidate, and offered no comment concerning the petitions. It has been understood for some time that friends of Mr. Tyler have been considering a "draft" movement for Mr. Tyler. They favor his record of public service which has been long and experienced. He served as city manager of Benton Harbor from 1920 until 1929, the period in which Benton Harbor formulated its municipal program under terms of the commission-manager charter adopted in 1920. Mr. Tyler later served in the sheriff's department under Sheriff Fred G. Cutler. Prior to his municipal service, he was in the business office of the Graham & Morton Transportation company for many years. His experience gives him qualifications that few congressional candidates can offer, declare his supporters, as he is familiar with problems of city and county government, and with the business, agricultural and industrial needs of the fourth district.

Along McCoy's Crick

By Harrison Merrill

First of all, the writer wishes to thank the 3,456 Buchanan citizens who signed the petitions, recently submitted, in which they set forth in no uncertain way that they have carefully investigated the facts citizens cannot be wrong. After all, historical accuracy is its own reward!

Another Big Day in the history of the village was the Emancipation Day celebration of 1897. The event was in charge of a committee composed of the Davis Brothers, Hayes, Herm, Tige and Frock, the Hayes boys, Rance Calvin, Cyrus King and a few others.

Although the celebration was not to take place until August 1, the securing of funds from the merchants started along the first part of June. A crowd of 500 was promised by the committee.

In the latter part of June it was found that the funds had been exhausted and it again became necessary for the committee to visit the merchants in order to secure money for band hire and the street decorations. By that time a crowd of 1,000 was promised.

During July there were two more such collections and several tag days put on to secure the necessary money for the celebration which would bring 2,500 visitors to town. Nearly everybody in the village, in the mean time, had been appointed a member of some committee or other.

Then came the big day, Saturday, August 1, and the official committee, headed by the Buchanan Silver Cornet band, marched to the depot to meet the first of the visiting delegations due to arrive on the westbound Kalamazoo accommodation at 8:11 a. m. At last the train pulled into the station and without delay four colored people alighted from the coaches.

The band, committee and the visiting delegation marched back to town passing under the welcoming arches that had been placed over Days Avenue along the way.

Later the procession again formed and marched to the depot to welcome the visitors due to arrive from the west on the 9:22 train. There were six colored people aboard, one of whom got back into the coach after hearing the band play. And that was all the visitors for the day.

In all there were nine colored people came to the celebration and it was afterwards figured by the merchants that it cost around $432 to import each one. This amount did not include money spent to buy clothes and dress up the members of the committee so they would appear presentable. What became of the rest of the 2,500 promised is still a question.

This being National Music Week, the writer, always alert, has decided to digress slightly in order that the inside story of Buchanan as a musical center may be told briefly, but accurately, for perhaps the first time.

No one is better qualified to give such a history than the writer whose father for more than 30 years played the bass drum and cymbals with the Buchanan Cornet band, an organization with a most glorious record for achievement.

The writer was brought up in a home that was never without a bass drum in it. Also there never was a time when there were not at least three youngsters from the neighborhood present to beat said drum and crash said cymbals all day long, Sunday excepted, without thought of the effect said musical studies might have on adjoining real estate prices.

Therefore the writer will be pardoned in believing that his knowledge of musical matters along the Crick from 1880 to 1900 is unquestioned and may be accepted by the reader without the usual grain of salt, so often applied to narratives where an amateur historian is obliged to rely on others for information or inspiration.

The Buchanan Cornet band in 1881, the year of the big G. A. R. reunion which brought some 10,000 visitors to the village, consisted of the following players: Joe Thompson, E-flat cornet and leader; Herb Smith, cornet; Guy Bunker, tenor; Joe Wax, valve trombone; Bert Courtwright, trombone; John Bowen, baritone; John Hamilton, tuba; Charles "Pete" Fuller, snare drum; and George W. (the "w" for Wellington not Washington) Merrill, bass drum and cymbals.

Others who later joined the band were John Morris, for many years in the restaurant business in Buchanan and later at the head of the Bell telephone exchange; Corcy Hallack, F-Flat cornetist, and a fellow named Price, from across the river; Ed Steele, solo alto player; Charlie Wilson, trombone; young John Graham, clarinet player; Frank E. Brown, clarinetist, who later under the name of Frank Ellsworth for years was business manager of Primrose and West minstrels.

Of the original members of the band of 1881 John Hamilton with Will Haverer conducted a barber shop on the second floor of the opera house block; Guy Bunker later joined the South Bend police force and later was appointed Chief of the department which office he held with distinction until his retirement several years ago.

Later Charles "Pete" Fuller moved to Muskegon Heights, where he attended the Conservatory of Music taking special instruction on the valve trombone. When he returned to Buchanan upon graduation, he brought with him the first bicycle ever seen in the village. The front wheel measured 54 inches had a solid tire, the rear wheel being provided with a small rubber tire.

This bike was ridden for the first time in Buchanan by Jake Rough who caused quite a sensation when, after coasting down Front street hill he took a "header" flyin' over the handle bars and in so doing knocking over a woman from off the prairie on her way to the grocery with three dozen fresh eggs. The young rider and the eggs became somewhat intermingled and caused more or less of a mess, it being exceedingly difficult to separate the two.

It is recalled that one year the G. A. R. committee hired the Constantine band for Memorial Day. It was, at that time, one of the finest bands in Michigan. The loss of the contract, however, did not go so well with the Buchanan artists, who for several weeks had spent many hours rehearsing the dirge "Dolores" for use on such an occasion.

When the Constantine band put in an appearance the Buchanan artists by standing around and consuming raw lemons in sight of the visiting players were able to cause the lips of the latter to become so "puckered" that they were unable to hit anything resembling a note. The next year the Buchanan Cornet band marched at the head of the procession.

On Main street, at one time, was the furniture firm of Meech and Hunt, both of whom were fine musicians. Al Hunt for years was the baritone player and Mr. Meech played the tuba. Young Clifford Meech, a son, played cornet solos with the band when but 12 years old. He was a real artist and in later years, while a resident of New York he provided the musical scores for a number of successful light operas.

At one time on Main street there was a Doctor Wilson, a dentist, who wore a long flowing beard, a tall silk hat, and played a clarinet. He must have been imbued with a degree of courage for a patient in the chair, undergoing pain, had but to reach and take a firm grip on the whiskers, to put a sudden stop to it all. It is noted that present day dentists dare not take such a chance. They are all smooth shaven.

It must have been quite a trick to play a clarinet with the whiskers constantly getting mixed up in the keys of the instrument. Other prominent musicians of that time were John G. Holmes, violinist, Marvin Cathcart, who also played the fiddle, and David Sidmore, an artist on the yellow clarinet, who conducted the Sidmore Quadrille band, which was much in demand at the time. A Mr. Davis also at one time was at the head of the Buchanan Conservatory of Music located on the second floor of the Redden building at Front street and Days avenue.

Charles G. Conn, later to become head of the C. G. Conn band instrument company of Elkhart, for several years lived in Buchanan, where he manufactured mouthpieces for horns, his workshop having been in the basement of what was the First National bank.

Buchanan reached its greatest prominence in the musical world, when the congregation of the Presbyterian church, after putting on a number of ice cream societies, finally succeeded in raising sufficient money with which to purchase a pipe organ from one of the Niles churches. This was the first instrument of the kind brought into the village. The Presbyterian church, at that time, was located on Third street.

The pipe organ was brought from Niles by wagon and on the way across the pipes became badly mixed and likewise dented. When the organ was set up in the church many of the treble pipes were over on the bass side and the heavier tones appeared over in the treble division.

At the opening concert besides the mixup in pipes several of the keys stuck and the foot pedals when pressed down remaining stationary, of course, did not add to the harmony.

At no other time have such hideous and gawdawful tones and groans issued forth from any instrument anywhere. It seems there was a New Yorker in the audience, a traveling man, who also was quite a composer, who was impressed by the din, and later set it all to music. And that was the start of jazz in this country! Buchanan may well point with pride to this achievement in the world of music. It is deserving of a D. A. R. bronze marker.

Buchanan could rightfully, if it so desired, take on the title of "The Jazz City."

Note from Clarence VanEvery, Kalamazoo, says it was Henry "Red" Spahr who gave him his first pinch of fine cut. Henry must have been an exceedingly busy fellow those days. And there may be others!

200 See Bear Cave Hess and Overmeyer of Bear Cave park state that over 200 people went through the cave Sunday afternoon, the visitors coming from several cities in Indiana and Illinois and from Buchanan, Berrien Springs and St. Joseph. All the visitors were enthusiastic in praise of the beauties of the cave. Heavier traffic is expected from Memorial Day on.

"Tropical England" "Tropical England" is the name often given to that group of the British Isles where the Scillonians live, 80 miles beyond Land's End. The people resident being called "Islanders" and do not like any reference to their abode as "rocks," for, bleak as the rocks appear from the passing transatlantic liners, they are gardens of luxuriant beauty, surpassing anything on the English channel.

Project of Commercial Power Boat on St. Joe Recalls Old Rudder Grange

Plans now under way for placing a modern motor launch similar to those used in the lagoons of the Century of Progress on the St. Joseph river between Buchanan and Berrien Springs, docking at Bear Cave recall to mind that the river trip was a red letter feature in recreational life here back in the nineties, when Fred Gawthrop operated the "Rudder Grange."

The "Rudder Grange" took its name from the houseboat of Frank R. Stockton's famous story, "Rudder Grange." As fitted up by Fred Gawthrop, who was one of the last of the honest-to-John, half-alligator-and-half-horse river men, the "Rudder Grange" was a real excursion boat. It was a scow, 16x24 feet in dimension, with a canvas top and tarleton (mosquito bar) sides. Inside it was fitted with an ice box (?), and a gasoline stove, with a table that ingeniously hoisted to the roof when not in use, around which ten could be accommodated with camp chairs.

In it during the two years that Gawthrop operated it the young men of Buchanan used to go drifting down the St. Joe river in the good old summer time, in bathing suits (1890 model) and with fishing tackle and everything necessary for a pleasant outing. There were no dams in the river and the usual procedure was to let the boat drift, under the capable guiding of Gawthrop, who avoided the snags and maneuvered over the sand bars that would have hung up a less experienced pilot.

It took a good river man to get across the Moccasin sand bar, just below the Ind. & Mich. power dam, fifteen miles to Berrien Springs. The boys would load their traps in gigs and drive around by River street across the bridge to the place of embarkment, on the north side of the river just below where the power house is now. Gawthrop carried a chain, which he would throw over and let drag if the current carried the boat too fast. Sometimes the boys would take more than a day, stopping off and camping overnight at Bear Cave. Gawthrop would hitch the boat to the shore, and buy some milk and a few chickens at the nearest farm house.

Or they might drift down to St. Joe, taking a week, and camping along the river en route. When they arrived, whether at Berrien Springs or St. Joseph, John Wynn, father of the late Paul Wynn, would be waiting with a team, running gears and a pair of log bunks, which he would back into

Editorial

High school days to the seniors are soon to be a thing of the past. The senior year to some will be the final chapter of their learning time in life. To most of them these last days will leave unforgettable memories stamped upon their minds. Freshmen yesterday and seniors today, waiting to be ushered into a new life.

Here's the proposition: Now is the most opportune time to give the seniors a "boost." The senior play is to be presented within a few weeks. They want the play to be a huge success. Of course that success depends upon the students and parents.

The last party of the school term, the prom, is to be given in honor of all seniors by the junior class.

Again the plea is sent out to every one for co-operation in supporting these activities. When it comes your turn to be asked to do your bit, do it with all your might. In order to have successful proms, successful plays and festivals, each individual must help get the necessary things with which to work, lend a helping hand when necessary, and help solve the problems instead of "bubbling" over with criticism.

SPRING EXHIBIT

Miss Bohl's third grade has done a great deal towards making interesting projects for the annual school exhibit.

One will notice immediately when entering the room the library table which is in the center of the room. On the table will be the Indian village. There will be canoes, rugs, Indian beads, and other Indian relics. This will be one of the outstanding features in the room.

Other attractions are pictures of fish, Indian posters, spring flowers, and bird books.

Do not fail to see the work done by this room.

FRENCH CLUB

The French Club composed of French 12 students and the instructor, Mrs. Weaver, visited the Art Gallery, Library, Main Hall and Cathedral of the University of Notre Dame, Thursday.

Pictures of special interest were those of William of Orange, as the story of LaTulipe Noire by Dumas was based on political facts of his reign.

TALK ON SOCIAL HYGIENE

Miss Ellis Walker, nurse of Western State Teachers College, gave a very interesting talk on "Social Hygiene" Wednesday, May 6, at Buchanan high school.

Miss Walker explained the difference between physical, mental, and spiritual hygiene and their contrast to social hygiene.

Social hygiene is folks, just plain folks is Miss Walker's way of summing up the matter. To obtain a position in the world one must not be cross and thoughtless of others, and, above all, to regard one's health as a valuable factor and take care of it in such a manner.

The people today must learn to live with each other in a happy and peaceful way.

Library News

This last week many new books were received by the library for the lower grades. Among them are: The Little Red Hen and the Grain of Wheat, The Tale of Peter Rabbit, The Gingerbread Boy, The Three Little Pigs, Little Black Sambo, The Rooster, the Mouse and the Little Red Hen, Indian Tales for Little Folks, Little Folks of Other Lands, Birds of America, Stories of Bird Life, The Book of Indians, Children of Other Lands, and Pelle's New Suit.
