Says:

Mrs. Mayme Peters' down here at Glenderry sez she don't expect the editors to all be Walter Winchells but she duz think they ought to get her babies in the paper before they are two weeks old.

The Nut Crop
With politicians gasping yet and swabbing off their chins;
With grid fanatics shrieking in a loud unholy din;
With suckers playing stocks again forgetting '29;
With socks absorbing cocktails while they chant "Sweet Adelaide";
With jingos howling for more wars from Portugal to Siam
With auto maniacs flattening out a hundred more per diem;
With women smoking cigarettes and blowing off the foam;
With folks with itching pedals calling auto trailers home;
With movie starlets broadcasting their schedule for more babies;
With these maternal marathons and other forms of rabies;
With tabloids shrieking of romance 'twixt commoners and Kings;
With gay boys tossing of the stuff that should go down the sinks;
With all these things and other things still more ne ultra plus—
You say the nut crop is immense—migoosh, you're telling us!

Mammoth Sunflower
Now that the campaign is over and it is safe to refer to sunflowers without being suspected of talking politics it is safe to report that one of the largest sunflowers ever grown in Buchanan was seen in the yard of Morrow Chubb on Oak street during the late fall, one bloom measuring almost 48 inches in diameter.

A Footnote to The Spud Story
You did hand it to Fred and his boys on how they could raise spuds.
But now here's another proposition—You didn't give any due credit to those gals of Fred's who cooked all that grub to give them their vitality to pull out the spuds.
So here's to them and the known facts that they sure can put forth the good old grub maybe even better than Fred and his boys can produce spuds.

Fruit, potatoes and poultry were judged.

Landmark Over 80 Years Old

Will Use Old Depot For Combined Freight and Ticket Office

Work was begun the first of the week on the addition of a receiving and loading platform on the north side of the west end of the Michigan Central depot, preparatory to using that structure for a combined freight and passenger office, after which the old freight building and elevator is to be wrecked.

The old men's waiting room in the depot will be used as a freight room and the former women's waiting room will serve as a combined passenger room. The ticket office will be left where it is. A. H. Anson will remain as passenger and freight agent.

Complete Sewer By Christmas

Entire Local Force to Be Transferred to Berrien Springs for Long Job There

"The boys will be out of the trenches by Christmas" is the statement of Paul Kane, WPA superintendent on the local sewer installation, who states that, barring bad weather, all installation should be complete by that time and the entire local force ready for transfer to a similar project at Berrien Springs.

Work with the digger on the remaining block on Chicago street and the block and a half on Oak should be through early next week, when the workmen there will be transferred to house connections. The hand crew will be through with the remaining four blocks on Days avenue by the middle of December.

Relaying of brick on Front street between Cayouga and Chipewa streets is now awaiting the arrival of the asphalt filler which the city is to provide.

The Berrien Springs project has been allowed but the beginning of work has been delayed until the setup now at work completes the job here and can be transferred there intact. The local WPA force has been rated as one of the most effective in Michigan.

Raises Record Buckwheat Crop

Combine threshing and harvesting of a 200-acre field of buckwheat was completed recently at the Clyde Beebe farm north of Glendora, the yield being about 3,000 bushels.

Part of the crop was lost on account of difficult harvesting conditions, the result of the fall rains. Mr. Beebe stated that if he had been able to save the entire crop it would easily have made enough buckwheat flour to make a pancake which would have covered all of Berrien and Cass counties. It would have taken a day's run of hogs at the Chicago stockyards to provide the sausage, and the gravy would have dripped over on Indiana on one side and into Lake Michigan and Van Buren county on the other.

According to the old folk of the northern woods, it is about this time of year that Paul Bunyan, straps a couple of hams on his feet to skate around his mile-wide griddle to grease it preparatory to baking pancakes. Well, he can start; Beebe will provide the buckwheat.

Frank Lawson Was Special Guard at Hanging Haymarket Riot Leaders

Buchanan Man One of Cordon of Police Around Old North Side Jail

Stories recently carried in Chicago papers relative to the observance of the semi-centennial of the celebrated Haymarket riot and the execution of radical leaders that followed bring to light the fact that a Buchanan resident, Frank Lawson, was intimately connected with the event as a Chicago policeman at the time and a special guard at the old North Side jail on the occasion of the hanging.

Lawson, who was also a resident of the Galien district for several years before coming to Buchanan, served twelve years on the Chicago police, and at the time was a signal officer on a patrol wagon. At the time of the execution, Nov. 11, 1887, he was one of 125 heavily armed policemen who formed a cordon around the jail to keep crowds away and to forestall the possible violence, rumors of which were everywhere in the city.

Both the Haymarket bombing on May 4, 1886, and the execution of the radical leaders aroused tremendous feeling in the city. It was contended by friends of the condemned men that no connection with the bombing outrage on their part was proved and that they were merely executed as examples. The men who were hung at the jail were: Albert R. Parsons, printer, labor publicist, and reformer; August Spies, editor of a German-American newspaper, the Arbeiter Zeitung; Adolph Fischer, a typesetter, and George Engel, a toy maker.

Another leader, Louis King, who was condemned to die with them, and who is actually believed to have had some connection with the bombing, killed himself in the jail the night before the execution, by holding a detonating cap in his teeth and setting it off with a lighted cigar or a candle. The cap had been smuggled into his cell under a false bottom of a fruit basket.

The riot occurred at a mass meeting held on Desplaines street between Lake and Randolph, a widening of the street at that place being popularly known as the Haymarket. A crowd of labor men were met to protest an alleged attack by police on strikers who were fighting strike breakers at the Harvester works on Blue Island avenue the night before, in which several strikers were shot by police. The meeting was apparently over without incident, when a rumor was sent to a police station that radical doctrines were being disseminated, and a headlined police inspector ordered a force of 176 police to march on the meeting and disperse it. As they approached the speakers stand a bomb was thrown, killing one policeman outright and fatally wounding six, with lesser injuries to 87 others.

Dr. R. H. Snowden is quite ill in Epworth hospital, South Bend, entering there as a patient Saturday.

John Koenig of Glendora Observes His 109th Birthday on November 25

Born 1827—Is Ten Years Older Than State of Michigan

John Koenig, one of Michigan's oldest residents, and ten years older than the state itself, observed his 109th birthday on the 100-acre fruit and peppermint farm of his daughter, Mrs. Albert Schmaltz, a mile north of the Hills Corners Christian church yesterday.

Koenig was born in Poland Nov. 25, 1827. It might be added that he is two years older than the steam railway as a commercial institution, Stephenson's "Rocket" having been first run over the Manchester and Liverpool railway in England two years later.

He grew up in Poland, was married in 1852 at the age of 25, two years before the Crimean war. In a few years his wife died, and he married again. He followed the trade of hand sawyer. In Poland there were few or no sawmills then and boards were sawed by hand, two sawyers working together. The log would be elevated on a sort of trestle and one sawyer would work above and the other below. The one working below had an enjoyable time keeping the sawdust out of his eyes. It was a hard task. But Koenig followed it

Brother of Lena Ekstrom Honored

Daily papers of Sunday carried a story of the success of Warren Ekstrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Ekstrom, New Carlisle, in winning the fifth prize for a design for a costume for the Beaux Arts ball in New York City.

Ekstrom is known by many here as the brother of Miss Lena Ekstrom, local teacher. He gave evidence of artistic ability and had a passion for drawing from earliest boyhood, according to Miss Ekstrom. His family kept him out of school for three years after he was graduated from the New Carlisle high school, hoping that he would decide to take up a line of work that might be more profitable, but the boy stuck to his preference, so they sent him to the Traphagen school of Fashion, New York City. Students at this school were selected this year to design all of the pageant costumes for the Beaux Arts ball to be given at the Astor hotel Dec. 4 as a "Fete de Rayon-Fantastique."

Ekstrom won fifth prize among 500 contestants. He combined white satin, stems of gold cord and feathers in his design.

Radio Screen, Stage Stars in "Big Broadcast"

A dozen big time radio entertainers in addition to a strong line-up of screen and stage talent has been assembled by Paramount to make "The Big Broadcast of 1937," which begins Sunday for three days, the most lavish production of its kind.

With Jack Benny, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Bob Burns, Martha Raye, Benny Goodman and his Swing Orchestra, and Leopold Stokowski and his Symphony Orchestra heading the list of radio headliners, and Shirley Ross, Ray Milland, Frank Forest, Eleanor Whitney representing Hollywood, "The Big Broadcast of 1937" is an all-star attraction whose individual performers have followings running into the millions.

The story is a comic treatment of the broadcasting business.

The Thanksgiving program "The General Died at Dawn" with Gary Cooper.

The funniest husband and wife in pictures, Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland, are together again for the eleventh time in a delightful comedy of a great love which almost goes wrong, "Wives Never Know," which opens on Friday and Saturday.

How a gang girl double-crosses her sweetheart by tipping off police where he can be found, an incident that closely parallels a well known case in recent crime annals, is one of the dramatic highlights in RKO Radio's "Don't Turn 'Em Loose," showing Friday and Saturday with a cast including Lewis Stone, James Gleason, Bruce Cabot, Betty Grable, Louise Latimer and Grace Bradley.

FILM WAS POST STORY

"My American Wife," romantic Paramount film starring Francis Lederer and Ann Sothern at the Hollywood Theatre, Wednesday, Thursday, Dec. 2-3, is taken from a Saturday Evening Post story by Elmer Davis, which appeared under the title "The Old Timer." The original title was drawn from the role held by Fred Stone in the picture, that of an Arizona pioneer.

The picture deals with a foreign Count who comes to America with his wealthy American bride, and decides to swap his title and uniforms for the nickname "Spike" and the occupation of a cowboy rancher.

A romance made thrilling by the savagery of the modern racketeer unites Owen Davis, Jr., and Louise Latimer on the screen for the third time in "Grand Jury," with Fred Stone in the leading role.

Directed by Albert S. Rogell, the story presents Stone as a public-minded man who becomes so enraged at the case with which racketeers twist justice to their own ends in his city that he sets out alone to pin evidence on them which cannot help but secure courtroom convictions. This picture is feature 2 on the Wednesday and Thursday bill.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Marion Cox, Chicago road, a son, at Pawating hospital Monday. A caesarian operation was performed.

THE MORE IMPORTANT VICTORIES

Monday evening the writer had the pleasure of attending the annual football banquet held in the high school gymnasium, attended by several dozen young huskies comprising the first, second and lesser strings of the 1936 gridiron squad, and also by the male members of the faculty, and by Coach Bradford and Assistant Coach Smith of Niles.

The banquet was thus graced by two men, Miller and Bradford, who have had to do with guiding the football destinies of the high school. Those who have followed sports in the past fall know that these two men have had their ups and downs in common with about all other football coaches this year; they have satisfactory seasons from a neutral point of view but perhaps not so good as they themselves would have desired, speaking strictly in terms of scores.

They are capable and responsible leaders of youth, who strive to put the right kind of ideas in the heads of the young aspirants, tempering their natural desire to win with the spirit of fair play and respect for the rights of others. Despite much of the criticism of football it undoubtedly does one thing; it drills the young player in the art of getting along with his fellows more than any "class instruction." It teaches him to yield to principles of fair play when yielding costs him something. It teaches him to keep his head when his blood is hot. When young players are in the hands of coaches who teach them opposite ideas, then the results of the coaching are disastrous, even if all games are won.

The Scriptures say: "He that ruleth his spirit is greater than he that taketh a city." The Buchanan team under Bradford and Miller have been known as models of good sportsmanship. That is another way of saying that they have won victories over themselves, whether the minor matter of licking the other team was attained or not.

The most regrettable thing about sports is that these more important victories go relatively unnoticed by the cheer leaders and by the rabid host of the alumni and the downtown coaches, thirsting for victories in terms of scores.

Buchanan is unfortunately situated in that practically all of its gridiron opponents are either too small or too large. They have the dubious satisfaction of trampling over the small schools and being in turn trampled over by the schools that are decidedly too large. The days when a good coach was a rarity and had things his own way are gone. Now they are all good coaches and the coach that wins his games has to get the breaks both in the games and in the material he has to work with. It seems that in a year or two Miller is going to get his break in material at least for this year a husky freshmen team outweighed the first team. When that time arrives he will win the kind of victories the fans love. But in the meantime it is as well to remember that the boys have been winning the more important kind of victories every time they took the field.

Glowing Tomb Mystery Has Simple Solution

Noblesville.—A faint yellow light glimmers from a tombstone at night, casting its eerie rays among the dead.

Motorists drive cautiously past the cemetery. The light is discussed furiously in the streets—in the daytime. And, as in all graveyard mysteries, there is a story, a legend crammed with the shivers of ghost-like melodrama.

The person whose body lies beneath the tombstone died of cancer, the story goes. So much radium was used in treating the victim that its phosphorescent light illuminates the tomb.

But there's always some brave soul who comes to question and investigate. One of them parked his car at the iron gate, some 500 yards from the tombstone. Sure enough a faint yellow light was seen around the stone. Other cars arrived, and the occupants stared in amazement.

The self-appointed investigator found an entrance through the sexton's yard, and walked bravely to the tomb. The name of White was on it. The surface was polished black marble, which reflected a street light from Noblesville, a half-mile away!

Consideration for Others
Two main features of gentility are propriety and consideration for others.

The Name Martello

The name Martello comes from Martello bay, Corsica, where, in 1794, a single defense tower held off an English fleet for several hours. The earliest known towers were built by the Mesopotamian peoples for religious purposes. The Egyptians and Greeks had a few such structures, but the defense tower did not come into its own until the time of the Romans. They built towers on the city walls, on gates, and even on houses. During the Middle Ages each noble family maintained a tower as a place of refuge in time of war. These were very high and often isolated, with a small entrance.

"Let's have a friendly chat, Mr. Grower! You are situated right in the heart of one of the best sugar beet sections of America."

"Just as certain sections of Louisiana are best for raising sugar cane, your section of Michigan is peculiarly adaptable for raising Sugar Beets. Thousands of farmers—many of them your neighbors—find this true."

"Naturally, every year cannot be good for a bumper crop. No one is blessed with perpetual prosperity."

"So get this fact firmly fixed in your mind: Farm incomes, like all other incomes, must vary from year to year. That is controlled by weather, by supply and demand, by management and economic conditions."

"But, as all authorities agree, and experience shows, your soil is excellent for Sugar Beets, isn't it good business to stick with that which is best for your pocketbook?"

"Sugar Beets are not a surplus crop. From the standpoint of consumption, you cannot raise too many Sugar Beets. The processors will take all you produce."

Jockey Kills Crow That Laid the Golden Egg

Minfield Green, Kan.—H. D. Fryear killed the goose that laid the golden egg. In this instance it happened to be a crow.

Fryear is a jockey, and with the summer horse-racing season near in Kansas he was back in the running. But there was an interval after his figurative slaying of the goose that he was merely of the army of unemployed.

Chase and Butler counties paid bounties on crows before Fryear took up crow hunting. In four months he killed more than 16,000 crows. Chase and Butler counties quit rewarding his diligence, the bounty fund exhausted.

Fryear knows his crows like he knows his horses. They roost in large flocks and he slinked to find these spots. He estimated there were 40,000 in one roost near here.

Up at the darkest hour of the night, he would open up on the flocks with a special extension shotgun that fired ten times. The ten shots got as many as 207 crows once.

Ambitious to do his job in a bigger way, he rigged up a cannon—gas pipe and fuse, loaded with a gallon of powder and a gallon of old piston rings pounded into pea size slugs. He got 175 crows at one shot. It cost 50 cents to fire the cannon, but the one-shot return was $17.50.

Hypnotism

Hypnotism was probably used by priests of ancient cults to perform seeming miracles, but the state was not recognized by medical men until the middle of the Eighteenth century, when Franz Mesmer tried to cure patients by putting them into a hypnotic trance. The state is a form of dissociation whereby the brain is no longer able to control the body except at the suggestion of the hypnotist. It is induced by stroking or by gazing fixedly at an object at close range. Once experienced, it is entered into at the command of the hypnotizer. By a similar sharp command the subject is aroused and resumes the normal state.

THE MORE IMPORTANT VICTORIES

Monday evening the writer had the pleasure of attending the annual football banquet held in the high school gymnasium, attended by several dozen young huskies comprising the first, second and lesser strings of the 1936 gridiron squad, and also by the male members of the faculty, and by Coach Bradfield and Assistant Coach Smith of Niles.

The banquet was thus graced by two men, Miller and Bradfield, who have had to do with guiding the football destinies of the high school. Those who have followed sports in the past fall know that these two men have had their ups and downs in common with about all other football coaches this year; they have satisfactory seasons from a neutral point of view but perhaps not so good as they themselves would have desired, speaking strictly in terms of scores.

They are capable and responsible leaders of youth, who strive to put the right kind of ideas in the heads of the young aspirants, tempering their natural desire to win with the spirit of fair play and respect for the rights of others. Despite much of the criticism of football it undoubtedly does one thing; it drills the young player in the art of getting along with his fellows more than any class instruction. It teaches him to yield to principles of fair play when yielding costs him something. It teaches him to keep his head when his blood is hot. When young players are in the hands of coaches who teach them opposite ideas, then the results of the coaching are disastrous, even if all games are won.

The Scriptures say: "He that ruleth his spirit is greater than he that taketh a city." The Buchanan teams under Bradfield and Miller have been known as models of good sportsmanship. That is another way of saying that they have won victories over themselves, whether the minor matter of kicking the other team was attained or not.

The most regrettable thing about sports is that these more important victories go relatively unnoticed by the cheer leaders and by the rabid host of the alumni and the downtown coaches, thirsting for victories in terms of scores.

Buchanan is unfortunately situated in that practically all of its gridiron opponents are either too small or too large. They have the dubious satisfaction of trampling over the small schools and being in turn trampled over by the schools that are decidedly too large. The days when a good coach was a rarity and had nothing of his own was gone. Now they are all good coaches and the coach that wins this game has to get the breaks both in the games and in the material he has to work with. It seems that in a year or two Miller is going to get his break in material at least for this year a husky freshmen team outweighed the first team. When that time arrives he will win the kind of victories the fans love. But in the meantime it is as well to remember that the boys have been winning the more important kind of victories every time they took the field.

Clare Hoffman Makes Objection

Corrects Statements That He Opposes Aid For Aged

Allegan, Michigan
Nov. 21, 1936.

Editor Record.

Dear Sir:

Now that the campaign is over and I cannot logically be accused of making misrepresentations for political profit, may I call attention to the political ads inserted by various individuals just prior to election day, which, in substance, addressed to Townsendites, stated: Vote for your "friend," Guy Tyler (the Democratic candidate) and against your "enemy," Hoffman, and to the other one requesting the voters to support Felix A. Racette, the Townsendite, and to vote against "your enemy," Hoffman.

These ads were sometimes signed by officers of Townsend clubs, sometimes by others, but the principal purpose was to defeat me at the election by creating the impression that I was the enemy of old age assistance. No statement could be more untrue and it is regrettable that those who inserted these ads did not know that fact or avail themselves of that knowledge.

There was no public intimation during the campaign that the Democratic nominee favored the Townsend plan and we all know that the President was bitterly opposed to it.

May I have the privilege of saying again to those who still persist in circulating false reports as to my attitude that I have always been, and I now am, in favor of adequate assistance, not only to the aged, but to the unfortunate of all ages—to all those in need. I do object to swallowing without reservation all these so-called "recovery plans," "share-the-wealth schemes," or "something-for-nothing ideas," which are so falsely labeled old age assistance and which are used by designing politicians to further their own political advancement.

Respectfully yours,
CLARE E. HOFFMAN.

Glowing Tomb Mystery Has Simple Solution

Noblesville.—A faint yellow light glimmers from a tombstone at night, casting its very rays among the dead.

Motorists drive cautiously past the cemetery. The light is discussed furtively in the streets—in the daytime. And, as in all grave-yard mysteries, there is a story, a legend crammed with the shivers of ghost-like melodrama.

The person whose body lies beneath the tombstone died of cancer, the story goes. So much radium was used in treating the victim that its phosphorescent light illuminates the tomb.

But there's always some brave soul who comes to question and investigate. One of them parked his car at the iron gate, some 500 yards from the tombstone. Sure enough a faint yellow light was seen around the stone. Other cars arrived, and the occupants stared in amazement.

The self-appointed investigator found an entrance (through the sexton's yard, and walked bravely to the tomb. The name of White was on it. The surface was polished black marble, which reflected a street light from Noblesville, a half-mile away!

Consideration for Others
Two main features of gentility are propriety and consideration for others.

The Name Martello

The name Martello comes from Martello bay, Corsica, where, in 1794, a single defense tower held off an English fleet for several hours. The earliest known towers were built by the Mesopotamian peoples for religious purposes. The Egyptians and Greeks had a few such structures, but the defense tower did not come into its own until the time of the Romans. They built towers on the city walls, on gates, and even on houses. During the Middle Ages each noble family maintained a tower as a place of refuge in time of war. These were very high and often isolated, with a small entrance.

GROW ME, - I WILL GIVE YOU A STEADY INCOME!

The Sugar Beet's Own Story

"Let's have a friendly chat, Mr. Grower! You are situated right in the heart of one of the best sugar beet sections of America."

"Just as certain sections of Louisiana are best for raising sugar cane, your section of Michigan is peculiarly adaptable for raising Sugar Beets. Thousands of farmers—many of them your neighbors—find this true."

"Naturally, every year cannot be good for a bumper crop. No one is blessed with perpetual prosperity."

"So get this fact firmly fixed in your mind: Farm incomes, like all other incomes, must vary from year to year. That is controlled by weather, by supply and demand, by management and economic conditions."

"But, as all authorities agree, and experience shows, your soil is excellent for Sugar Beets, isn't it good business to stick with that which is best for your pocketbook?"

"Sugar Beets are not a surplus crop. From the standpoint of consumption, you cannot raise too many Sugar Beets. The processors will take all you produce."

"Sugar Beets do not impoverish your soil as do other crops. On the contrary, the growing and proper cultivation of beets gives to your soil those properties it needs to keep it healthy and highly productive of other crops in proper rotation."

"Beets are hardy. They are not so sensitive. They can 'take it'. For beets, more than any other crop, take wet weather, dry weather, hot weather and cold weather."

"This means that when you grow beets and get up against adverse weather conditions, you are more certain of a good yield than you are with any other cultivated crop."

"So, in conclusion, let me stress this, Mr. Grower: Year after year stick to a regular planting of Sugar Beets. Sugar Beets are the ideal crop from which to make more money."

"When planting time comes around next spring see to it that Sugar Beets are included in your crop program."

Jockey Kills Crow That Laid the Golden Egg

Matfield Green, Kan.—H. D. Fryear killed the goose that laid the golden egg. In this instance it happened to be a crow.

Fryear is a jockey, and with the summer horse-racing season near in Kansas he was back in the running. But there was an interval after his figurative slaying of the goose that he was merely or of the army of unemployed.

Chase and Butler counties paid bounties on crows before Fryear took up crow hunting. In four months he killed more than 10,000 crows. Chase and Butler counties quit rewarding his diligence, the bounty fund exhausted.

Fryear knows his crows like he knows his horses. They roost in large flocks and he sleuthed to find those spots. He estimated there were 40,000 in one roost near here.

Up at the darkest hour of the night, he would open up on the flocks with a special extension shotgun that fired ten times. The ten shots got as many as 207 crows once.

Ambitious to do his job in a bigger way, he rigged up a cannon—gas pipe and fuse, loaded with a gallon of powder and a gallon of old piston rings pounded into pen-size slugs. He got 175 crows at one shot. It cost 50 cents to fire the cannon, but the one-shot return was $17.50.

Hypnotism

Hypnotism was probably used by priests of ancient cults to perform seeming miracles, but the state was not recognized by medical men until the middle of the Eighteenth century, when Franz Mesmer tried to cure patients by putting them into a hypnotic trance. The state is a form of dissociation whereby the brain is no longer able to control the body except at the suggestion of the hypnotist. It is induced by stroking or by gazing fixedly at an object at close range. Once experienced, it is entered into at the command of the hypnotizer. By a similar sharp command the subject is aroused and resumes the normal state.

Woman Refuses Charity

Denied Her Pet Snakes

San Francisco.—Everywhere that Mary went, her lamb was sure to go.

Mrs. Donald Moore, twenty-three years old, attractive circus trouper, cited the nursery rhyme, but it failed to get her shelter at the Volunteers of America home.

The circus with which Mrs. Moore had appeared became stranded. Hungry and without funds, she appealed to the charitable institution. She was told that she might remain at the shelter.

"I'll be back in a minute," Mrs. Moore said, starting for the door.

"Where are you going?" asked the shelter's matron.

"To get my snakes," Mrs. Moore explained.

The matron jumped, and shrieked, "Your what?"

"My snakes. Two pythons. The ones I charm in my circus act."

The snake charmer was hastily told she could remain, but not the snakes. Mrs. Moore sighed, gathered her belongings and started to leave.

"I'll be going, then," she explained. "Where I stay, my snakes stay. We've been together for a long time. Besides they're hungry and must eat, too."

Gradually it worked the snake's head inside its shell and held on until the snake's writhings grew feeble and feeble. The battle occurred at the home of H. H. Schneekloth.

Editorial

Indian summer is here once more. The days are bright and warm; but the nights are cold and frosty. A haze envelopes distant hills and meadows; a hither's moon hangs low and luminous in the western sky. In the fields huge yellow pumpkins lie between shocks of rustling corn. All of these things make us aware that Thanksgiving, our national feast day given us by New England forefathers, is at hand.

To many it means a welcome respite from work, and to others a lazy day with a turkey dinner as the grand climax; to all of us Thanksgiving spells home. But has not our thanksgiving day lost its real significance for most of us? Those impoverished, work-weary pilgrims found time to thank God, while we, who have so much more than they to be thankful for, cannot find time to thank Him.

Let us this year remember that Thanksgiving is an American tradition and give silent thanks for the sense of peace and security which prevades this land of ours.

SENIOR
Melvin Campbell—He answers readily to the name "of either 'Shrimp' or 'Fagen.'" Probably you saw him running around the halls last week trying to locate students or groups having their pictures taken. The reason for all this unwanted energy on his part can be traced to his appointment as business manager of the Annual staff. In addition to this office he is president of his class for the third consecutive time. Melvin is not very tall, has light blond hair, and very blue eyes. He is especially good in math or science, and is the chemistry assistant this year. He refused to divulge the date of his birthday.

JUNIOR
Mildred Miller—She will be seventeen years old the sixteenth of December. Mildred is very tall, and she has naturally curly hair with big blue eyes and dimples. She's quite an accomplished dancer and has given lessons for the past two years in Buchanan and Gallen. She is a color bearer in the band this year and is also a member of the Library Club. She is an active Girl Scout and last year spent two weeks at one of their camps.

SOPHOMORE
Bill Strayer—Bill has lived in Buchanan all his life and always attended B. H. S. He is a member of the Latin Club, and plays a piccolo in the band. Bill has been a Boy Scout for several years and attends camp every summer. He spends the summer at Clear Lake and is an excellent swimmer. Shooting is one of his favorite sports. His birthday is?

FRESHMAN
Catherine Wynn—"Winnie" is the name. Her first year in high school seems to be occupied in getting good marks and dates. Catherine is rather short, and she has dark hair and brown eyes. She played cymbals in the band last year, but she now plays the bass drum. She is learning to drive a car, and prefers riding a bicycle to walking. She likes to collect pins of any kind—especially from Latin Club members. Her birthday is December 5.

SCHOOL SLANTS

Dale Boyce and "Toad" Smith now have their nicknames straightened out satisfactorily. When do the basketball players have time to study?
Isn't Phyllis DeNardo's new hairdress becoming?
You should have seen the Future Husbands all "aproned up" when they had their club picture taken!
Clyde Shaffer is one of the best forgers in high school.
The floors and desks in most of the rooms are beginning to look more natural now that the newness has worn off.
Betty Hamilton had better think twice before she laughs in second hour study hall.
Who was the football player snoring in fifth hour history class?

Did you know that Bob Neal is quite adept at tying ties?
Bob Russell has finally learned what the senior girls were yelling at the Kalamazoo football game.
With nearly all experience men back on the basketball team this year, there should be little difficulty in making the season successful.
Bob Stevens and Melvin Campbell are now eligible for any "calling" contest.
Ruth Babcock and her old boy friend seem to get along famously.
Dale Boyce, "Toad" Smith, Earl Stevens, "Pep" Trapp, "Kissy" Jerue, and "Doggie" Luke are no good at crashing parties.

CONTRIBUTORS COLUMN BRIGHT SAYINGS OF A STUDENT

When the chemistry class was discussing the process of chemical change, Mr. Carter asked, "Do you know from what face powder is made?"

A bright student spoke up, "Chalk."

Mr. Carter answered, "No, not chalk."

Charles Bainton then popped up, "Well it tastes like it."

What kind of girls does he go with????

In government class a certain "A" student thinks 8-inch guns are only 8 inches long. Why, cannons must be mere toys to Phyllis!

TWILIGHT

There's a certain hour in the busy day
That I like best of all;
This is the hour 'twixt light and dark
When shadows begin to fall.
The sun drops low in the western sky—
There's a rosy afterglow,
Men and women, their day's toil o'er,
Peace and contentment know.
Marion Miller.

Drives to Niles after school every night?

The cutest boy in the senior class is?

The "chubby little cherub" is?

"Flashy's" freshman girl is?

CAPTURED SENTENCES

Mr. Hyink—"Have you sold those tickets yet?"

"Imo" Russell—"I am a little cut up."

"Big" Stevens—"Some day, Bachman, you'll learn that the seniors don't have a group picture."

Beverly Koons—"Richard Walkden does not talk to me during French class. It's Phyllis Lamb."

"Chuck" Wesner—"I know where I can buy a two seated bicycle."

Edward Smith—"Have you got your French?"

Basketball Team—"Shoot 'em high, shoot 'em low."

Ruth Babcock—"Hi, kid."

"Doggie" Luke—"Yeah, now listen!"

THEY'RE GETTING PREPARED

It's called, "The Future Husbands Club."

But they can't fool us. We know that husbands never learn to cook, and only bachelors sew.

They're afraid they'll have to cook their meals.

Or darn socks all their life. I'll bet they're worried more each day.

That they'll never find a wife. Just then I heard a member say, "As he opened his baking book, 'We're not so worried about finding one, But will she be able to cook?'"

Shirley Trapp.

"THANKS A MILLION" FOR MORE THAN A MILLION

America has bought 1,130,000 Chevrolets during the past twelve months, thereby giving Chevrolet the greatest year in its history and the greatest measure of buyer preference it has ever enjoyed.

The builders of Chevrolet are thankful for many things, but most of all for the warm friendship of the American people.

And so again at this Thanksgiving season we say, "Thank you, America," for you have given Chevrolet a measure of good-will without parallel in the annals of modern industry.

Consider, for a moment, all that you have done to inspire Chevrolet

Captured Sea Lion Won't Leave Town in Oregon

Nelscott, Ore.—The 1,200-pound sea lion captured on the beach here recently has declined to leave. The great creature was held as an attraction for Sunday visitors over one week e.d., but he has not yet returned to his colony on the rocks, although he was transported back to the beach by a team of horses. It is believed that the sea lion is one who lost his harem in battle with a younger male, and that he prefers not to return to the colony.

Dog Buried in a Coffin

Save Food with an ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR

LIVING costs are soaring. Food prices are going up to winter levels and the savings you can make with an Electric Refrigerator will be bigger this winter. Don't wait until spring and lose the savings you would make between now and then.

No kitchen can be efficiently and thriftily managed without a dependable, economical refrigerator. In winter as all the year round you can buy in larger quantities at the lowest prices and avoid the costly waste of food spoilage.
