How's Your Social Security?
Well, folks, one of the big topics of conversation in the past week or two has been: how secure is your social security?

Not that it ain't been a big question for a long time with a lot of people. Now we never worry about that. We figure our social standing is just as steady as the Rock of Gibraltar, for when you are standing right down on bed-rock, there ain't much of anywhere you can fall to.

With some people it's different, sc naturally they have been all hepped up over this social security act. It seems that if you can get in under it, your social standing is sort of stabilized. If you have bullied, battled and bamboozled your way up the social ladder into the ranks of the Wednesday afternoon Gobble and Git club, you don't have to be nervous about sliding back again into the Cecil avenue... Thursday... Afternoon Doughnut Dunkers club, Cr anyway that is what you pay your money for, and if it don't turn out that way it is going to be hell for the administration in the next election.

So all of the boys have been signing blanks, prodded to the act by their Bitter Halves. Some of the women have been kicking about not getting blanks themselves but it seems like the government takes the stand most of them drew blanks when they got married.

Niles to Vote on Plant Monday

Berrien Springs Is First
Michigan City to Lane Rp

The advisability of carrying the city sewage to an entire completion at this time by taking advantage of an opportunity for a federal PWA grant in installing a disposal plant was a principal topic of discussion by the city commission at the regular December meeting Monday evening, the chance of receiving an order from the state health department at an early date being a main incentive to consideration, rather than any apparent desire of the city fathers to spend more money at this time.

"It was my idea that the city had better get the sewer system paid for before contracting more obligations," said Mayor Merson. "I don't see why Buchanan should be shoved when towns like South Bend are refusing to do anything."

It was pointed out during the meeting, however, that the Michigan Stream Control commission is now apparently fully "decided in the matter of bringing action in a federal court to force the three Indiana cities, South Bend, Mishawaka and Elkhart, to take care of their sewage, and that the successful prosecution of that case will require a similar enforcement of sewage disposal by Michigan towns along the St. Joseph river.

Interest in the entire subject of pollution of the waters of the St. Joseph river has also been sharpened by the impending referendum by the city of Niles next Monday. To date only two cities have taken the required steps. In Indiana Goshen has in operation a plant built as a PWA project. In Michigan Berrien Springs has applied for a grant from the federal government for a PWA built disposal plant for primary treatment, which will be ready for use by Nov. 1, 1937.

A further consideration in Buchanan is the necessity of some measure to reduce the ground water in the old Portage street sewer which will greatly increase the cost of sewage treatment unless controlled. It will probably be necessary to relay the pipe there, at an estimated cost of from $8,000 to $9,000.

Engineers representing the firm of Cole, Moore and Geupel, South Bend, stated that it would be possible, in their opinion, to get a federal grant of $27,000 on a $60,000 PWA project to install a local plant. They stated further that it was not likely that the plant would be installed at a lower figure by private contractors. In the case of the town of Lawton several private companies were invited to submit bids for the installation of a sewer system and in every case their figures were considerably above estimates which the advisory engineers considered ample for a PWA project. When it was stated that the estimates of the engineers might have been too low, the engineers stated that they had been able to keep well within their estimates in Buchanan. More or less remote contingencies that unforeseen factors will increase the costs tend to induce private companies to bid high rather than risk losses, they stated.

The engineers stated that all other towns on the St. Joseph have come to a conclusion that their hands are likely to be forced in the matter of stream pollution within the next two years. Mounting sentiment in the matter over the nation has led to a movement for interstate action to prevent pollution of the Ohio river by towns of bordering states. Towns in Michigan which contribute to pollution of the St. Joseph by sewage are Buchanan, Berrien Springs, Benton Harbor, Constantine, St. Joseph, Niles and Three Rivers.

As stated above, only Goshen has complied in Indiana. Elkhart

Will Whittaker, Jess Boyle Go In Large Way for "Christmas Trees"

Large Plantings of Pine and Spruce Flourish on Their Farms

Evidences of what may be done in the Buchanan district in the way of growing Christmas trees—or at least trees suitable for that purpose—may be seen on the farms of Jesse G. Boyle and Will Whittaker northwest of Buchanan.

The chief source of the annual Christmas tree crop which is already being harvested is, for Michigan, the wild forest lands of the northern part of the state. It is stated, however, by one authority that the entire number used in Michigan, about 1,000,000 annually, could be grown on one good sized farm in southern Michigan, planted with 4,800 to the acre.

In these modern days, when the general public is growing increasingly illiterate about many of the worthwhile things, such as the identity of trees, every evergreen tree is a "Christmas tree" to most people, and in that sense of the word Messrs Boyle and Whittaker are in the Christmas tree business, although that was not the primary purpose of the plantings.

If you drive out Glendora way via the Main street road you can see Boyle's planting a quarter mile from the highway, and east of his orchard, a beautiful thick evergreen growth clothing a hillside. It was planted in 1929 in accordance with an idea Boyle got while visiting a college farm demonstrating the use of evergreen plantings to prevent soil erosion.

He walked under the growth of 15-foot pine and spruce, and noted the heavy turf of needles which already matted and held the soil effectively. Consequently he planted two acres of hillside in 1929 to 1,000 Norway pines and 1,000 white pines, with approximately 2,000 spruce between. The pines are 8x8 feet and the spruce alternately between, making all 4x4 feet. It will be seen that this is not 4,800 trees to the acre, but the plantings were not intended for Christmas tree harvests, in which case the trees are cut small and may be spaced closer.

Boyle got his trees from Michigan State College at a very cheap price, just as anyone may do now. They were "two-twigs" seedlings when planted, about 3 inches tall. The Norway pines are now from 10 to 15 feet tall, and the white pines are from 8 to 12 feet tall. The Norway spruce are about 5 to 9 feet tall. The stand secured was nearly perfect, and they make a beautiful sight.

Will Whittaker planted his trees in September, 17-18, 1936, under the federal soil conservation program by which the government pays the farmer $5 per acre where hilly lands subject to erosion are "reforested." Whittaker planted three acres with 1,000 red pine and 3,000 Norway Spruce. The ground is sandy and has been largely devoted to hay or pasture crops previously. The weather was rainy at the time and afterward, affording ideal planting conditions which resulted in a saving of over 90% of the trees.

Whittaker got his trees from Michigan State College, paying $3 per thousand for the spruce and $4 per thousand for the red pine, the trees being seedlings a few inches tall. Whittaker said that the government payment about took care of the cost of the trees. He plowed furrows to plant the seedlings, he work requiring about a day's plowing and about three days of hand work by one man.

According to government regulation he may thin the trees later for Christmas sale, provided he cuts them above the surface, and does not remove the root system, which provides the erosion defense.

Pres. Church Installs Organ

Use Part of Wilcox Fund; M.
L. Hanlin Gives Organ
Screen in Memory of His Wife

Work began yesterday at the First Presbyterian church on the installation of the beautiful new pipe organ which was purchased with part of the fund willed to the church by the late Georgia Wilcox.

The new organ was bought after careful consideration on the part of the purchasing committee, comprising Mrs. E. C. Pascoe (chairman), J. A. White, Mrs. H. B. Thompson and Mrs. W. A. Rice. Their selection is a Kimball 5-stop unified pipe organ, considered the best instrument in its size. The purchasing committee benefitted greatly by the knowledge and advice of Rev. Brunelle who spent much time during his vacation last summer thoroughly investigating all makes of pipe organs.

With the organ will be installed a set of chimes, the gift of M. L. Hanlin in memory of Mrs. Hanlin. Another pleasing addition will be an organ screen bought from and installed by the American Seating company of Grand Rapids, reputed to occupy a position in the field of architectural woodwork similar to that of the Kimball company in the making of fine organs.

Both the organ and the screen are finished in walnut and otherwise in keeping with the architecture of the church. A number of changes in the choir loft and chancel will be necessary. It is believed that the new installations and alterations will greatly add to the effectiveness of the church as a place of worship. The organist will be Mrs. M. H. McKinnon, who has been studying to fit herself for her new duties.

The new organ will be first used at public worship on the morning of Dec. 20.

Bucaneers Seek Win Over Dowagiac

When Coach Johnny Miller's veteran cage unit exchanges shots with Dowagiac's Big Chiefs next Friday evening the Bucks will be seeking their second win of this season.

Dowagiac has some veterans back from last season, Kasniak, Squiers, Heimstra and others. The Chiefs broke even with the Maroons last year losing on their own floor then turning the tables near the end of the season by defeating the Bucaneers at Buchanan by a two-point margin. Dowagiac should be in fine shape for the tussle having played a much weaker Cassopolis team last Tuesday evening.

Coach Miller has been working the Maroons extremely hard since their licking last Friday by Niles. The Bucks were simply rotten on free throws the last half, missing twelve out of fourteen attempts. There is a possibility of a change in the line-up for Friday's set-to.

The city commission authorized the purchase of a snow plow for use on the streets, the action being taken at the Monday evening meeting. The plow will be placed on the front of the city truck.

D's Cafe Loses To Studebakers

Ponies Take Measure of Local Team 20-14 on S. B.
Court

(By Chuck Wesner)
In a heroic battle last Sunday afternoon the Studebaker Ponies of South Bend defeated the D's Cafe cage unit on the Studebaker clubroom court by a score of 20 to 14.

The game was played in spurts, with some crazy, sloppy ball handling and playing being shown by both squads. The Buchanan team showed up fairly good considering the fact that they had not practiced together this year. Several of their star players were absent, one being Johnny Miller, high school basketball coach. John Hattenbach played a good offense and defensive game although his left hand had been severely cut last week at the shop.

The Ponies, for some reason or other seemed to be way off form and had D's squad had practice the score might have read differently. They piled up an early lead of eight points but Buchanan rallied and held them evenly, finally cutting the lead to six points at the final gun.

Augie Topash and Batchelor led the D's attack with 4 points each, while Hessler, Pony forward, paced the victors with 8 tallies.

P. O. Patrons May Speed Own Mail On Way, Following Certain Rules

Skilled Civil Service Employees Correct Many Errors in Routing Mail

It's going to be strictly rush business from now until Dec. 25 at the local post office, and the public who send mail can help a lot, not only in aiding the force in lightening the rush, but also in facilitating the progress of their own missals and packages.

Here's a few tips about greasing the way for your own mail, especially in the Christmas rush:

1. If you are sending out business letters in that period, send them in long envelopes. The long envelopes get a little the edge in transit. This is not intentional but because the postal clerks have to sort them first. They go on the bottom of the mail packages, as they stack best that way. If, in a mail rush, the public happens to swamp the force at a late hour, you can draw your own conclusion as to what may happen. Furthermore, if there are a large number of business letters mailed together, it helps to have them in uniform size and all faced one way as an aid in running through the cancelling machine.

2. Mail as early in the day as possible. The two heavy east and (Continued on Page 4)

Former Buchanan Man takes Own Life

A friend of the Record relays the information that Hiram Boyer, who committed suicide at Watervliet last week at the age of 73, once lived in Buchanan and was employed by the E. I. Bird transfer company. He left here about 1911, but had many friends here, also several relatives on the wife's side of the house. He hung himself in the Watervliet creamery where he had worked, about 6 a. m. Monday, Nov. 30, and his body, still warm, was found there an hour later by another employee.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Habicht were host and hostess to the members of the Dinner Bridge club Monday evening, prizes being won by Mrs. H. C. Stark and E. C. Pascoe.

Hathaway Quits City Commission

Was Ranking Member in Time on City Body; First
Mayor of City in 1929

The resignation of F. C. Hathaway as city commissioner was accepted by the commission at the December meeting Monday night, and Arthur Voorhees was appointed to fill out his term which expires next spring.

Hathaway had left the previous Saturday with his wife to spend the remainder of the winter at Daytona Beach, Fla. He stated that he believed it would be best to resign at this time to permit the commission to fill his place. Hathaway served as the first mayor of the city when the change from the village to the city form was made in 1929, and has served continuously on the commission since, being the ranking member in term of service at the time of his resignation. He was reelected to the position several times, having won the confidence of the electorate by a conscientious and painstaking attention to the duties of his office.

His successor, Arthur Voorhees, served several years on the village board of trustees in the early 1920's, and is no novice in public administration.

Son Francis Baker Killed

Child Falls From Rear Door
Car on Niles-Buchanan
Road Sunday

Theodore Gerald Baker, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Baker, died at 11:10 p. m. Sunday evening in the Pawating hospital, Niles, as the result of skull injury received when he fell from the car in which he was enroute to Niles with his parents.

The accident occurred about 4 p. m. that afternoon on the Niles-Buchanan road a short distance east of the Thompson school. The boy was riding in the back seat in company with a sister, when Mr. Baker swung out to pass another car. A cry from the girl in the back seat told him that the boy had fallen out. It is not known whether he had unlatched the car himself, or whether the swerve of the car threw him against it and it came unlatched.

He is survived by his parents, Francis and Hazel Baker; by three sisters, Ruth aged 12, Delores aged 11, Betty 9; by two brothers, Francis aged 6 and Eugene Lee aged 3; by a grandmother, Mrs. William Baker of Buchanan; by maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. P. SAYS MUSIC IS AMERICAN NEED America is coming to the time when it will have to educate to fill time rather than to kill time, in the opinion of B. Rampoldt, Clark Equipment company toolmaker, who was a solo cellist and feature number on the Civic Orchestra program in the Niles high school Sunday afternoon.

And furthermore the increase of music culture is one of the finest way to fill time with profit, in Rampoldt's opinion. There is a growing interest in music in America but to date the country has not reached nearly the state that Germany has in musical proficiency and appreciation.

"Take my case," smiled Mr. Rampoldt. "The people here are kind enough to flatter my cello work very much. However, I know that it is not good. It is impossible for it to be good at present. If you keep in playing condition on the cello you must spend four, five or more hours a day on practice. Some days I don't spend ten minutes. I like toolmaking; it is an interesting line of work; but it does not go very well with maintaining musical proficiency. I think that I might play well if I could put in the necessary time.

"You can't expect this country to be as far advanced in music as Germany, which has led the world in that for a long time. This country is too near the pioneer stage, when the entire time and energies of the people were taken up by problems of development. But that time is ended and we are just entering on a similar development in music here.

"Take the case of Germany. That country has been fully developed for centuries, and, except for wars, the people have lived a settled life, with spare time, especially in the cities for the progressive and orderly development of arts like music. The German government takes a keen interest in maintaining a high efficiency of music instruction. Teachers must pass very difficult license requirements. And in Germany no student will be given advanced instruction in music unless he has demonstrated that he has the talent to justify it. In other words you can't buy everything in the way of music instruction there just because you can pay for it. A German music teacher would feel that he was demeaning himself and his art if he taught a dunce just because he could pay for the lessons.

"Of course I much prefer living in America under present conditions. I prefer the freer conditions of the democracy here but I am not so sure that an overcrowded country like Germany could afford a democracy. I like my work and I like Buchanan. One reason why I like Buchanan is its great trees and its shady streets."

Appears in Olivet

Concert Recital

Mary Louise Beardsley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Beardsley of Buchanan, was one of ten students to take part in the Annual Concert Recital given by The Olivet College Music Conservatory on Wednesday evening, December 2nd. Miss Beardsley's rendition of the piano solo, Gnomemagn by Liszt, proved outstanding among the evening's contributions and the audience responded with unmistakable pleasure.

Christmas Tree

May Be Simple

More simplicity and resultant beauty in festooning the Christmas tree is suggested by Winifred Gettemy in the home economics department at Michigan State College. The old fashioned "conglomeration" of many kinds of ornaments defeats itself in too many households in her opinion.

"Simple decorations with real greens instead of artificial ornaments are most desirable," says Miss Gettemy. "If there is a fireplace available, then make that the center of the holiday display instead of scattering the decorations over doors and windows."

"If a fireplace is not available, then use a Christmas tree or a group of windows for the center of attraction. Greens can be those of pine, spruce or ground pine barked on top of the mantle or made into festoons or wreaths. A wreath makes a good center of interest."

Miss Gettemy does not relegate this work to just one person in the family who might have the eye for beauty in decoration. She thinks it still is proper and the best stimulant to Christmas spirit to have the whole family including the children participate in the decorating.

Bucks Lose to Niles 21 to 16

Inability to Score on Free Throws Defeats Locals

(By Chuck Wesner)

Playing a real battle on their home court Buchanan's Maroons lost a ding-dong affair to Niles's Big Reds by a score of 21 to 16.

Hable gave Niles an early lead with a basket and a charity toss. Leiter, Maroon forward, made a free shot charged to Hable and then after the tip-off he connected from far in the outcourt. Luke followed suit with another long one. Hable dropped in a gift shot as the quarter ended. Score: Buchanan 5, Niles 4.

Kraft gave Niles a one point lead with an under the basket shot, Jesse tied it up with a gift shot and Luke put the Bucks out in front with a long shot. Lynd and Holmes came through with short shots. Luke fouled Lynd and he converted Huff, too, cashed in on a free toss. Leiter made good from Lynd chalked up another dropped a long one through the mesh. Lynd chalked up another charity toss and Virgil retaliated for the Bucks. Score: Buchanan 12, Niles 13.

The third canto was a bit slower than the preceding two. Leiter, Buck forward, and Hable, Niles guard, sank a field goal apiece and Simpson and Huff made good on charity shots. Score: Buchanan 15, Niles 16.

The final canto spelled doom for the Bucks. Virgil made their lone tally from the white line. The Redlegs sewed things up with Flynn's short shot and free throw, Robertson's charity shot and Holmes's shot from the foul line. During the last half Buchanan missed 12 out of 14 free shots enough to have won the game by a sizeable score. The game was rough and plenty of fouls were called, there being 20 imposed on both squads, sixteen on Niles and 13 on Buchanan.

The Bucks' second string reserve the big write-up due to their 27-18 shelling of the Niles reserves. The Bees lost their first game to Berrien but they came on the floor Friday evening and when they left Niles pulled up the short end of the score. The Bees grabbed a lead early in the opening quarter and gradually increased it never being headed in their bid for victory.

Rauch and Heiney paced the winners with 8 and 6 points respectively and McAuliff snared the losers high point honors with 3 baskets and a pair of charity tosses. Each Bee player deserves a good hand for the type and brand of playing, in another year or so Buchanan will undoubtedly have some strong cage units.

Compelling Drama Relates Story of Noble Sacrifice

A dilemma faced by a woman—jail on the one hand, or dishonor in the eyes of two children whom she adopted and brought up as her own on the other—is the basis of the tensely dramatic and gripping motion picture "Valiant is the Word for Carrie," which begins Sunday at the Hollywood Theatre.

Taken from Barry Benefield's best-selling novel, and introducing Gladys George, famous stage actress, to the screen, "Valiant is the Word for Carrie" is a powerful story of a woman's resurrection through mother-love and the great sacrifice she is willing to undergo in payment for the borrowed happiness which was hers in bringing up the children.

FRI.-SAT. PROGRAM

Claire Dodd, Warren William and Winifred Shaw, portraying a newly married couple and the mysterious woman who summons the groom, at the point of a gun, to help solve a murder mystery—in the first National thriller, "The Case of the Velvet Claws." Happy days are here again for the movie fun lovers, for Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey are said to have made their greatest comedy in "Mummy's Boys." Barbara Pepper is their new leading lady in a riot of thrills, mystery and fun along the Nile. Fred Guiol directed.

WED.-THURS. PROGRAM

Fast-moving comedy built around the wedding of a young couple—and the stumbling blocks put in their way by much-married in-laws, is furnished in Paramount's film farce, "Three Married Men." The picture has Lynne Overman, William Frawley, Roscoe Karns and Mary Brian in top roles, with chief support carried by George Barbier and Marjorie Gatenon.

ATTEND REVIVAL SERVICES

The Church of Christ members attend Tuesday as a delegation the revival services in session at the Church of Christ on Harris Prairie near South Bend. Rev. Raymond Phillips is pastor and J. Marion Small is conducting the services.

The Word "Doily"

The word "doily" was originally the name of a material and came from one "Doily," who kept a shop in London.

Starling Tail Is White

The plumage of the blue-bird, New Zealand starling, is black with the exception of white tips on its tail feathers.

To Hold Meetings at L. D. S. Church

Evangelist J. J. Ledsworth of Port Huron will conduct a series of Revival meetings in the re-organized Saints church at Buchanan, commencing Dec. 13th each night except Saturday and Monday nights. The public is cordially invited to attend these services. I am sure you will enjoy hearing Mr. Ledsworth as he has a wide experience in evangelistic work, he is a forceful speaker and has a definite message. Bring your questions and we shall try and answer them for you. Song service, 7:45, preaching 8:00. Subject for Sunday night, "The Spectacular and Vernacular Religion." Subject for Tuesday night, "The Adventure Towards God."

City Considers Disposal Plant

held a referendum in which the installation of a disposal plant was voted down. It was stated that the question was placed before the electorate in a prejudicial form tending to favor a vote of "no." Mishawaka applied for a federal grant which was approved, but the city failed to qualify for the grant because of lack of the necessary preliminaries. South Bend has refused to consider installation to date.

Engineer Charles Cole advised that the new form of revenue bonus is being favorably considered by many of the towns. Payment of these bonds for disposal plant installation is usually based on water consumption, as on the average the water which goes through the sewers of householders is in the same proportion to the total amount used. Levying of revenue bonds does not require the submission of the issue to election.

However, Mayor Merson stated that he would not consider further action until he had permitted the taxpayers to present their views in open meeting, before which the entire subject would be fully discussed by a competent authority.

Planning Highway Division Strips

Murray D. Van Wagoner, of Michigan told American highway officials here this week that the states are not yet ready to launch an extensive program for the construction of pavements or other types of divided highways.

In an address Tuesday (Dec. 8) before the annual convention of the American Association of State Highway Officials, Commissioner Van Wagoner said limited revenues in most of the states, including Michigan, work against this type of construction on a nation-wide scale. He pointed to the diversion of funds in most states and the great need for hard-surfacing existing mileage all over the country.

"It is rather ironical that this association seriously deliberates the expensive problem of divided highways when the greatest danger to road-building that has ever faced us continues at a merry pace," the Michigan commissioner said. "In 1935 the diversion of highway revenues for non-highway purposes increased by $24,000,000 and reached the unprecedented level of $200,000,000—enough to build a 20-foot, hard-surfaced highway all the way from this city to New York City."

"In view of the way in which highway revenues have been treated as a grab for every scheme of relief and tax reduction, it is a wonder that the state highway authorities of our country have come as far as they have in building the greatest highway system in the world."

Commissioner Van Wagoner said divided highway construction costs from $100,000 to $600,000 a mile compared with $75,000 to $80,000 a mile for undivided, four lane construction.

Van Wagoner pointed to an experiment in dividing four-lane highways with metal orbitumous raised strips that is now in progress on US-10 north of Pontiac, Mich. He expressed the belief that this experiment would show the way to dividing traffic at nominal cost.

An accident study on US-112 between Wayne and Ypsilanti, Mich., the commissioner said, revealed a reduction of only 82/100 per million vehicle miles in the accident rate on divided as against undivided highways.

Answers to questionnaires sent out by Commissioner Van Wagoner revealed that only eight of twenty-six reporting states have any divided highway mileage on their trunkline systems. In four of the eight, the mileage is small. Michigan, Van Wagoner said, has approximately 80 miles of divided highways on its trunkline system.

White House First

The White House is believed to have been the first public building erected in Washington, its cornerstone having been laid in 1792.

Grade Crossing Signal

All railroads in this country use the same signal for grade crossings—two long and two short whistle blasts.

P. O. Patrons May Speed Mail

west mails at the local office go out the last thing at night. Much business mail is sent out then as a matter of necessity. In normal business a thousand letters may be dropped in late in the afternoon. The mail is held open to accommodate it until 5:30, but according to civil service rules, as will be explained later, the clerks must quit at 6:00 p. m. Only 30 minutes are left to distribute.

3. In a mail rush, first class mail gets first call. Letters carrying a cent and half are not first class and consequently they wait on the three-cent mail. The cent-and-half not being first class, is not forwardable. Consequently if some of your Christmas mail carrying a cent and a half happens to carry a wrong address, to be wrongly routed, or to arrive at a place after the addressee has gone on to another address, it will not be forwarded, or, if it is, only by the courtesy of the postal force. Much mail through the Buchanan office carries the wrong rural route number. The Niles and South Bend rural routes invade what would seem to be Buchanan territory in places, which is responsible for some wrong routing. The clerks rectify many local address errors, but many errors cannot be righted and the pieces are never delivered.

4. If you insist on sending mail with a cent and a half stamp then be sure to put your return address on the outside. Then if it is addressed wrongly, the post office will send you a form notification of the mistake. But if you want to be sure about delivery, it helps to put on a three cent stamp.

5. Always read the address of your letter or package over carefully just before you mail it. Many inexcusably careless things are done by mailers. Not long ago a Buchanan person mailed a letter which he obviously was especially concerned about, so he put a special delivery stamp on it—but forgot to address it. Often they put "Buchanan" after a foreign street address.

Postal Working Hours

During the holidays rush, postal employees are given an extra time allowance of working hours to handle the heavier traffic, but in ordinary traffic the regulation is that no civil service worker may put in over 8 hours and this must be within a 10-hour stretch.

The local postoffice gives the public a 12 hour service, from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. This must be done with the regular force of two clerks, the assistant postmaster and the postmaster. Two clerks go on at 6 a. m. and cannot work beyond 6 p. m. Two others go on duty at 8 a. m. and work until 6 p. m. The clerks who go on at 6 a. m. can not work after 4 p. m.

The force in the office comprises Postmaster Glenn Haslett, Assistant Postmaster T. E. Van Every, clerks Sarah Gilman and Clarence Jones, and auxiliary clerk Claude Small.

A. E. Matthews carries the mail on the west side of the city, his route being 9 1/2 miles long. Ken Blake carries the mail on the east side, his route being 10 1/2 miles long. Their routes are fairly long and heavy for the time allotted. According to postal regulations a carrier cannot carry over 50 pounds at the start of a trip. Consequently the excess is relayed to boxes throughout their distribution territories. Harold Mann is the auxiliary carrier.

There are three rural carriers, as follows: Route 1—Redbud Trail, west to Mt. Tabor section and back to town, carried by Richard Schwartz.

Route 2—West of town and in Glendora section, carried by William Ednie.

Route 3—Bend of River and East and southeast of Buchanan, carried by Esther Hamilton.

The entire mileage of the three routes is 113 miles, 589 families and approximately 2500 persons.

The civil service force consists entirely of people who have a long acquaintance locally and who have catalogued in their minds a great amount of community knowledge regarding identities and living places, which enables them to correct errors made by mailers in a great many cases and to locate people where no definite address is given or who have changed to other sections. This faculty of pigeonholing information regarding identities becomes a main stock in trade with an experienced postal clerk, to an extent not realized by the public.

A main task for the two clerks who go on duty at 6 a. m. is the distribution of the heaviest mail of the day which arrives at night and the heavy parcel post traffic which comes in then. The parcel post business is large, both ingoing and outgoing, and covers a vast variety of items. Nearly anything within reason may be sent by parcel post, if the package or object does not weigh over 70 pounds and is not more than 100 inches in circumference and length combined.

Users of the air mail service may be interested to know that the letters carrying air stamps which go out on the 5:30 p. m. mails will arrive at any destination in the United States on the following day, with the exception of a few remote points in the far west. Here again, however, it is essential to remember that the sender should get the letter in as early as possible and not count on waiting until 5:30 p. m.

Outgoing mail left at the office Sunday will receive service up to 4:30 p. m. when the mail closes.

State Library

Ships Books to Rural Schools

Around the first of October every year there is a vigorous buzz of activity around the Michigan State Library.

This is the time of year that the traveling library staff finds itself literally swamped with orders for consignments of books to hundreds of rural schools throughout the state. The requests start coming in as soon as the teachers set the machinery of the school year in motion and have time to think about the extra curricular activities, one of which is the traveling library service provided by the State Library.

Each of these requests for a traveling library requires a painstaking effort. The mere shipment of a group of books is only a minor portion of the task. Past records must be searched, judgment used in the selection of books best suited to the needs of the individual school, care must be exercised in making an equitable distribution of the choices, volumes and accurate accounts kept of the destination of each book.

Many of the requests specify the inclusion of certain books or ask for special attention to a particular subject. Others submit a list of titles most desirable for their schools. Each of these particular requests must be filled, if possible, without causing a shortage of choice material, to the detriment of other schools.

Thus, with hundreds of orders received each year, the chief problem arises in making up a representative collection for each school and at the same time conserving the stock of books to fill later requests.

When a letter is received requesting a traveling library for the average rural grade school, the first step is to check the records to ascertain the titles of the books sent to that school the past two years. This is done to prevent duplication, thus providing pupils of each school with a new library each year.

In making up the collection, reading material must be selected for various age groups. Each traveling library contains fairy tales and folklore, and easy books for the primary grades together with books on science, nature study, geography and travel, history, health and hygiene and a generous supply of fiction. Wherever possible an attempt is made to include volumes dealing with such subjects as art and music, radio, aviation, handicrafts, government and citizenship, biography and a book of poetry.

The average grade school library contains 25 books, although 40 or more are sent to some of the larger schools. Collections sent to high schools usually consist of 40 books on subjects dealing with high school courses and fiction recommended for children of that age.

After the books are taken from the shelves and placed into the collection a maze of clerical details must be cleared up before the traveling library is taken to the shipping room and sent on the way to its destination.

In most cases the traveling libraries are kept for the duration of the school year. Some schools, however, obtain as many as three different libraries during the year, returning one collection after three months and securing another.

Case Names State

Department Aides

Circulation of traveling libraries is restricted to communities of less than 2,000 population, although exceptions are made in cases of emergency. Schools in larger centers, however, may obtain books from the general loan department of the State Library under the regular loan terms.

Two Detroit Men Have Been Appointed to Important Posts in the Department of State, Effective Jan. 1, 1937, by Leon D. Case, Secretary of State-elect. Both are well known.

Bernard J. Youngblood, Deputy Register of Deeds of Wayne County, takes the post of Deputy Secretary of State, succeeding Dr. Louis Webber, who was appointed to that office two years ago by Orville E. Atwood, Secretary of State.

Mr. Youngblood was born Jan. 21, 1898 in Detroit. He was educated in St. Anthony's parochial school and high school. For 12 years he was employed by the Detroit Edison company in the steel department and in charge of truck dispatching.

During a year's leave of absence, he entered private business in 1920. He was in the ice and coal business when he entered the office of Wayne County Register of Deeds as a clerk, rising to his present post through promotion.

Mr. Youngblood's grandfather, E. J. Youngblood, was Wayne County Treasurer from 1892 to 1896; his father, Edward B. Youngblood, was superintendent of Belle Isle from 1913 to 1916, and at the time of his death in 1926, was superintendent of the Detroit city garbage department. The Youngbloods have one child, a 10 year old boy.

Hoyt Morris, who will succeed Lee C. Richardson as head of the Detroit branch office of the Department of State, has been in the real estate business in Detroit for the past 12 years, coming to Michigan from Illinois. His real estate operations were carried on in Florida for several years. Mr. Morris is married and has one child, a young girl.

Sayre estimated that more than 30,000 buck deer were legally shot in northern Michigan.

The number of 1937 deer-hunting licenses sold will not be known until early next year when sufficient reports from license dealers are received to indicate a total, but conservation authorities here believe that approximately 110,000 bought licenses, another new high figure.

States Electors Will Meet Dec. 14

Attention is called by Orville E. Atwood, Secretary of State, to the fact that, in conformity with the so called Norris "lame-duck" amendment to the federal constitution, presidential electors of this state will meet at the state capitol on Dec. 14 this year to formally cast their ballots for President and Vice-President of the United States.

The amendment which provides that the President shall take his oath of office Jan. 20, instead of March 4, also sets up changes in formal election machinery to conform with this change. The federal enactment resulting from the constitutional amendment provides that presidential electors shall meet on the first Monday after the second Wednesday in December. The 1937 legislature will be asked to amend the state's election laws so as to conform with the federal constitution and resulting Congressional enactments.

Daughter Russell McCoy Dies Nov. 21

Word was received here last week of the death of Mrs. Jefferson Colvin, at her home in Shelby-Mich., Nov. 21, at the age of 90. Mrs. Colvin was the daughter of Russell McCoy, one of the first settlers of Buchanan. Russell McCoy and Charles Cowles settled on McCoy's creek in the summer of 1883, opinion differing as to which was first. McCoy's creek is said on the most responsible information available to have been named, not after Russell McCoy, but after Rev. Isaac McCoy, the founder of the Carey Mission in 1822. The story is that Rev. McCoy made the creek bearing his name his special fishing ground, jestingly referring to it as his private property. Hence the name.

Use of Sugar Cane
Sugar cane, a coarse grass, is believed to be a native of Asia or the East Indies. It was unknown in Europe until the Middle Ages, when the Arabs introduced it into Sicily and Spain. Sugar cane was taken to Brazil about 1500, to Mexico a few years later, and is now cultivated in most warm countries. Two kinds of syrup are made from sugar cane. The first is the golden syrup left over from the manufacture of sugar. The second, such as a Mississippi plant will make, is merely the juice of the sugar cane boiled down, and is known as molasses.

100-Year-Old Barn on Irving Swartz Farm Has Rare Flavor of Antiquity

Has Huge Sunless Wine Cellar in Basement—But

Hist! It's Empty

If it interests you to stand in places where you can catch the authentic flavor of another century, you would be interested indeed to stand in the huge loft of the 100-year-old barn on the Irving Swartz farm three miles southeast of Buchanan and peer through the huge structure of rough-hewn whitewood timbers that brace and uphold its structure.

You can examine the mark of the axes on the huge 10x12 inch timbers, and feel the notches where the singletrees of the circling horses ran the old horse-power threshers back in the first half of the eighteenth century, and feel for a minute that time has rolled back in its flight.

This structure was built by James Kennedy, who bought the farm from the government in 1835, and presumably built the house and barn shortly afterward. In the memory of persons who can look back over 70- and 80-year spaces of time both these structures were thought old in their youth. Evidence of pioneer methods is afforded by the heavy logs, the wooden pins that bind the entire frame together. And you would have to go well back to the earliest days to find huge whitewood trees that would yield timbers 8x10 inches square and nearly 70 feet long almost unmarred by knots, such as form the plates in the interior of the barn.

The farm was long owned by William R. Rough, one of Buchanan's pioneer industrialists and a member of the Rough Bros. who were engaged in wagon-making here. Rough made a number of alterations in the house, and his successors have made others, but the barn still stands almost as it was built. It is what is known as a "bank barn" with quarters for the stock in the basement and a dirt driveway up to the first floor. This driveway is forty feet wide, affording entrance to three sets of double doors and some indication of the size of the structure is afforded by the fact that twelve loads of hay may be parked at once in the huge driveway.

And you may stand at one end and gaze off through what seems interminable dusty spaces to the lofty windows of the opposite end, through a maze of whitewood timbers all bearing the scars of the pioneer's axe. And, unscarred by axe or saw you may note the long rows of tamarack poles that serve for rafters.

But you never would know, unless Mr. Swartz told you, that under your feet was a great dark musty old wine vault dating back to the times when wine making was a sizeable industry on Portage Prairie. This old vault, a part of the basement, has thick stone walls, and is 25x40 feet in dimensions. Within it is as dark as the inside of a cow, with no entrance save the heavy door that is rarely opened because it is too damp inside for any use other than what it is intended for. And Mr. Swartz says he does not find occasion to make that much wine.

More than that, Swartz has found at least three submerged wine cisterns about the premises, capable of holding many barrels each. And he has dug other places where the spade bit into buried brick indicating there may be other subterranean reservoirs built for the vintage of past generations. But lest some reader begins to get optimistic, Swartz adds that he has never found any wine left and the only recent use of the cisterns is for a disposal place for old junk.

But to return to the old barn. The foundation uprights are huge oak beams, all axe-hewn and based on huge field stone. The floor of the loft is laid on rows of long logs, scarce marked by the axe and some with the original bark, from 12 to 15 inches thru with about 20 inch spaces between. The cost of shingling one side of the roof approximated $500.

The house is a structure built about the same time, the wooden pins still visible in the frame of the attic of the old part. Although altered and changed many times, the spacious and pleasant rooms of the first floor yet have a low-ceilinged and antique flavor. One large room now used as a store room once served as a church for the pioneer Germans of the Portage Prairie Evangelical church.

Fifteen Famous Women
The fifteen most famous women in history, it is believed, says Collier's Weekly, were: Queens Elizabeth and Anne of England, Mary Stuart of Scotland, Catherine of Russia, Maria Theresa of Hungary, Christina of Sweden, Cleopatra of Egypt, and Joan of Arc, Marie Antoinette, Josephine, George Sand, Catherine de' Medici, Madame de Staël, Madame de Sevigne and Madame de Maintenon of France.

Jealousy Deftones Reason
Jealousy begins by weaving a woot of imagination. Then suspicion, then doubt, then distrust enter the mind, and reason leaves the throne.

Birthdays in Japan
No matter in which month a child may have been born in Japan, he is reckoned to be one year old on the following January first. So that day is everybody's birthday.

What a peculiar kind of sportsmanship students sometimes show! In some musty corner they seem to have dug up the rather unique idea that sportsmanship involves only feelings closely connected with active sports. Of course, everyone realizes how essential good sportsmanship is in any athletic contest, but why leave it on the football field, basketball floor, or tennis court?

Good sportsmanship is necessary in no field of work or life any more than in school. It is a quality, somewhat elusive at times, which every student should strive to attain. Good sportsmanship and good school spirit means doing one's utmost to stand by his school and its every activity.

Don't go to a basketball game and yell your head off one evening and the next refuse to attend some social function which is sponsored by a high school group and is probably just as deserving of your substance as the athletic association. Patronize all high school affairs and help raise the standards of good school spirit and sportsmanship which are so easy to attain with a minimum of effort and are so invaluable in building up the name of your school.

H. S. BOASTS

SHARP SHOOTER
We, the students of the Buchanan High school, should be very proud to have a hunter in our midst. Of course, we no doubt have many more, but this one I mention is a sharp shooter, or maybe I should say, should be. This handsome, blushing redhead went on a hunting spree not long ago and came back empty-handed except for his gun. We were told he saw many rabbits, but when he fired at them they just hopped on.

Maybe his sharp eye for shooting has something to do with his new nickname. How about it, "Flash"?

THE CHICAGO TRIP

The Chicago trip was a great success and everybody seemed to have a snoring good time. The students making the trip gathered at the depot before daylight and boarded the train just as the first sign of dawn appeared. We were Chicago bound, and headed for a good time.

The time slipped on, and before we knew it we were at the La Salle Street station, raring to go places. We hurriedly left the train to enter the depot, and in the rush someone's smeared lipstick on Ben Harvel's face—just how, we don't know.

"This way to the stock show," came a voice inside the depot. The mob rushed on, boarded a train and were finally there. However, the stock show was just one of Chicago's high spots that our boys visited, and with all the Buchanan delegates touring the city, we feel sure that some member represented us in practically all of the city's business places.

CLUBS SPONSOR BIG PARTY

The Journalism and Library clubs are sponsoring a big Christmas party and dance. The orchestra committee, in charge of Mildred Miller, is busily at work picking out a good orchestra. They're having a little trouble about deciding between Guy Lombardo and Joe Sanders, but you can be sure there will be good music.

The entertainment committee will provide a good floor show and plenty of entertainment for those not wishing to dance. This party should also afford a good chance to celebrate the victory we hope to get over Stevensville on December 18. So slip your hand right down in your pocket and fish out the admission price to bring your girl to the big party. The price is fifteen cents per person.

CHIEF OF SURGEONS

Dr. Frederic A. Besley, of Waukegan, Ill., is the new president of the American College of Surgeons. He was elected at the clinical conference of the college in Philadelphia. Dr. Besley is a graduate of Northwestern university. He has spent 27 years at the Cook County hospital in Chicago.

SENIOR

Bob Neal. His birthday is March 18, and he will be eighteen years old. He has brown hair and eyes. Bob is getting to be quite a dancer and may be seen dancing nearly every Friday and Saturday evening. His favorite sport is football, but he was not able to participate in it this year because of an ankle injury. Simone Simon is Bob's favorite movie actress. His hobbies are swimming, tennis, and ice skating. Bob is vice-president of the senior class.

JUNIOR

Evelyn Wallquist. She has brown hair and her eyes are very blue. Her birthday is July 11, and she's fifteen years old. Patsy Kelly is her favorite movie star. Evelyn enjoys reading magazines and books, and the most interesting book she ever read is "White Bird Flying." She sees a lot of movies and she says that the best movie of the year was "His Brother's Wife."

SOPHOMORE

Ruth Montgomery. She is undoubtedly the most energetic and the peppiest student in school. Her hair is brown, naturally curly and she has hazel eyes. Ruth is fourteen and her birthday is March 12. She is president of the Home Makers Club, and also a member of the glee club this year. She is noted for her pranks and quick temper.

FRESHMAN

Bill Gregory. He's always telling jokes, and might be classified as the freshman "cut up". Nevertheless, he has his serious moments, and algebra, his favorite subject, is one of them. Billy likes chili con carne better than any food he can think of, and he thinks that "The Great Ziegfeld" is by far the best movie he's seen this year. He likes to read, and "The Land that Time Forgot" is his favorite book. Bill's birthday is Oct. 12, and he's fifteen years old. His hair is a candy color, and he has blue eyes. Bill is vice-president of the freshman class.

TYPING

Did you take typing when you were in school? Boy, are you lucky! You've gotta get right down strictly to business or else—well, your report card says a thing or two (or should I say your parents?). You know, it's funny! I mean, when you're assigned a certain thing you know you have to get a good paper, so you're mighty careful just how you poke the letters. Then you get to thinkin', "Gee, not a mistake so far"—and then you poke the wrong one. Well, then maybe you have a little spare time before the bell rings and you type something on which you don't care if you make one mistake or a hundred. And just as sure as I'm shootin', you go through without a mistake. Your conscience is a funny thing—and so is typing.

STEAM PRESSURE

When Mr. Hyink comes around the physics laboratory things sure happen. Mr. Hyink was standing in front of a table which had a steam pressure boiler on it. The pressure got so high the water gauge came loose and Mr. Hyink was covered by a shower of steam and water. Kind of convenient, having a steam bat right in the physics laboratory.

THOUGHTS IN AN

ENGLISH ROOM

Joe's hair won't lie down. Funny? He ought to tie lead weights on it. Darn pen ran out of ink. I "bummed" some.

Slow music. Swell day not to be inside. This football sweater is just hotter than—

Hope we win the game Friday night. I'll probably get slivers.

We should have put the silver nitrate in a solution before we mixed it with HCL.

Funny how the floor has the varnish all scraped off in fairly straight rows.

Wonder if I'll get an E in algebra. I should but I hope I don't. Mrs. Dunbar never posts a failure list. I wonder if that's because there isn't one.

Chicago! Chicago! Make mine Manila.

Much hotter in here and I'll go to sleep. Maybe I could turn off the radiator by breathing on the thermometer.

A page is a lot of writing and I haven't a real thought yet.

MIRACLES WOULD HAPPEN IF:

The school had a 100 per cent attendance record every day. The shorthand class learned their rules.

Everyone knew their "men" in history.

School let out at 3:30.

"Rodeo" Virgil didn't go with freshman girls.

Clyde Shaffer didn't have to be told each day to take his own seat in home room.

No one was ever tardy.

Bessie Crothers stayed away from Niles.

Keith Dalrymple got some "pep."

The same "gang" ever went to Chicago together again.

Junior boys didn't go with senior girls, and senior boys stayed away from innocent freshmen.

Dale Boyce didn't take senior girls home after school from downtown.

"Kissy" Jerue got two girls to speak to him.

TEACHERS WHO'S WHO

Miss Henry, a member of the faculty for the past two years, was born at South Haven, Michigan, May 25. She went through grade and high school there. In 1935 she was graduated from Western State Teachers College with a Bachelor of Science degree. While she was in college, she was a member of the Senate society. Miss Henry has hazel eyes, is about five foot two inches tall, and weighs one hundred and nineteen pounds. At present her main sports are bowling, tennis, golf and badminton. She is, also, very fond of reading, of which she does a great deal.

Mr. John Miller, known for his athletic career, has also been a member of the faculty for the past two years. He was born at Fremont, Ohio, May 31, 1911. He attended Ross High School in Fremont, where he won fifteen sweaters. He studied Business Administration at Ohio State for one year, then took up coaching and physical ed. at Western State for the last three years of college. DOPE ON B. H. S. ATHLETES

Dale "Zeke" Leiter, a sophomore, is 5 feet 8 1/2 inches tall, weighs about 140 lbs., and has pale, gleaming blue eyes.

Dale is a three sport athlete, namely football, basketball and baseball. He has completed two full seasons in football, receiving one reserve letter and he will probably get his major when the football letters are awarded.

In basketball he made the first string in midseason of his freshman year. By the end of the last season he was a regular starter as he now is this year. He has a dead shot eye for the ole hoop and can handle the pigskin very well. On the tip-off "Zeke" gets way up in the ether and passes the ball to one of his mates. He earned his letter in baseball playing the shortstop position. Making the first team in your freshman year is really working and "Zeke" has three more years to go.

During the summer he played softball with D's Cafe. On this team he played one of the hardest positions, third base.

School Slants

Probably everyone knows the line-up for the game with Niles last week, but did you know that Virgil, Simpson, Luke, Leiter, and Jesse played together for the entire Berrien game, with the exception of three minutes when Stevens was substituted for Luke? Those gracing the bench were Beck, Jerue, Trapp and Donley.

George Lauver, assistant water boy, was heard to remark at a recent party, "I haven't three 'M's'—money, manners, or Miller."

Do you know where all the boys around Buchanan can be found on Saturday nights? It's not very many miles away, and they certainly seem to enjoy themselves.

Some of the more famous couples at B. H. S. seem to be making up. Outstanding are two juniors who haven't gone together much since school started this year, but now seem to be doing "right well!"

It's really amazing that on certain days the library seems to be just packed, and you can't get in at all, while on other days there are never more than two or three people in it.

The school seemed a little quiet last Wednesday while many of its peepiest members visited the stock show and other points of interest in Chicago.

The amount of self-assurance which some of these seventh graders and freshman girls possess is quite overwhelming.

Tickets are selling well for the Christmas dance. Perhaps the students can't guess who will enact the role of Santa Claus and the only sure way of finding out is to be present when he comes down the chimney (if the decoration committee can find one to use for that purpose).

SMILE AWHILE

During journalism class, Miss Bulla told everyone to read his newspaper for ten minutes and if he didn't have one to study his assignment. After glancing around the room, she spotted Keith Dalrymple doing nothing.

Miss Bulla, "Haven't you anything to do, Keith?"

Keith, nodding his head, "Yes."

Miss Bulla, "Why don't you do it?"

Keith, earnestly, "I am."

Miss Bulla, "What are you doing?"

Keith, still earnest, "Thinking."

Miss Bulla, "Next time you'd better put out a flag."

Decorations, Christmas trees, and Santa Claus,

This is the time when children stop to pause,

To receive gifts and other things That some one dear remembered to bring.

Some go to church and remember the day,

By honoring Jesus in this way. They see pageants and hear Christmas songs,

And things of this day they'll remember long.

Yet when they sit down at the table to feast

On the puddings and pies and things good to eat,

They fill themselves full from foot to ear,

And get up thinking never to eat for a year.

A DAY OF CHRISTMAS

Christmas day will soon be here, And it brings ideas from far and near.

Some think of presents while others of food,

Yet some are thankful for only the good.

Decorations, Christmas trees, and Santa Claus,

This is the time when children stop to pause,

To receive gifts and other things That some one dear remembered to bring.

Some go to church and remember the day,

By honoring Jesus in this way. They see pageants and hear Christmas songs,

And things of this day they'll remember long.

Yet when they sit down at the table to feast

On the puddings and pies and things good to eat,

They fill themselves full from foot to ear,

And get up thinking never to eat for a year.

This ends Christmas, a joyous day,

Celebrated by everyone in a different way.

Still full of traditions from far and near,

And welcome again another year. —Daisy Reamer.

Winter Brings Added Hazards To Driving

85% of All Accidents are Due to Carelessness of Drivers.

A Warning—The following facts on motor vehicle accidents clearly indicate that additional effort to prevent automotive accidents is necessary during the winter months. For instance, more motor vehicle deaths occur in the month of December than in any other month and nearly two-thirds of these deaths occur between the hours of 6 p. m. to 6 a. m. when there is the least traffic on the highways. This indicates that darkness, fog, rain and snow greatly increase the possibility of serious accidents.

Mechanical defects of brakes, chains, windshield wipers, signal arms, horns, tires, and headlights contribute to only 15% of all the highway accidents.

If we eliminate all of the accidents due to possible mechanical defects, we still have 85% of the total which can only be eliminated by the driver who must:

1. Exert extra effort to keep vehicle under control on wet, snowy highways.
2. Approach signals and dangerous intersections slowly.
3. Keep safe distance from vehicle ahead.
4. Skidding, perhaps the chief danger, deserves special mention. Causes of skidding include: too much speed for the condition of the highway, tires worn smooth (there is no legitimate excuse for using smooth tires under conditions noted above), and not using chains where they should be. Check your tire chains NOW. The following winter hazards are called to your attention at this time:

Test Masks on "Jersey" Front

Wearing gas masks, a group of officers check their position during a demonstration of modern methods of defense against tear gas and the employment of troops under cover of smoke screens, in which members of the Three Hundred and Third Chemical regiment of the organized reserves and the First battalion of the One Hundred and Fourteenth infantry, New Jersey national guard, participated. The maneuvers were held at the regular army post of Camp Dix, near Wrightstown, N. J.

1. Fog, mist, and early twilight call for headlights to be in good condition.
2. Ice on the running board is a common hazard. Perhaps because it is neglected, ice-coated running boards cause severe falls. The remedy is obvious.
3. Glycerine on the windshield under the blade of the wiper when sleet first begins to fall will tend to prevent the formation of ice. The glycerine, however, must be removed from time to time.
4. Carbon monoxide. An open window in the cab tends to prevent fogging the windshield, helps to keep the driver from becoming groggy from foul air and minimizes the danger from carbon monoxide which may leak in to the cab.

it as one of the outstanding books of the year.

"Wings," the Guild's monthly magazine, devotes half of its December issue to the book, to pictures of the author and to a sketch of his career. One of those who wrote is Lowell Thomas, news commentator.

Miller's book is described as a vital contribution to contemporary history. He is 44 years old and more than half of his life has been spent in "big time" newspaper reporting. When he was 20 years old he went to Chicago, where he worked for four years before being assigned to the Pershing expedition against Pancho Villa on the Mexican border, just before the World war. When the United States entered the war he went to France, and since the war he has followed important news "breaks" throughout the world, covering them for a large American press association.

Betty Grable's Hash

Betty Grable, young blonde RKO Radio actress, doesn't have to watch her weight; for it stays consistently the same. Which means that she can make her feminine friends green with envy by eating anything she chooses. And one thing that Betty does choose very often is Spanish hash. She gives you the recipe below:

Chop together four cold potatoes, two small onions and one green pepper; then add one cup of cold roast meat and one cup of canned tomatoes. Season with pepper and salt and three drops of tabasco sauce; add one egg well beaten. Drop this mixture by the spoonful into muffin pans. Bake in a hot oven and serve with tomato sauce.

There was a Hill-Billy Weddin' in June
Jean Synold
Miss Gloria Hudson read the letter from her aunt again and then looked at her sister Lucy. Lucy had read the letter and was thinking about the wide open spaces. "Oh boy, think of seein' honest to goodness cowboys and livin' with them. Oh my gosh—" she rambled.
"Lucy," Gloria almost shouted, "do you really think you're going to accept Aunt Florence's invitation for us to live with her and Uncle Lewis in Montana?"
"Why sure," replied Lucy. "You don't think I'd stay here in the East where I'm a regular flop, when I can go stay where people don't care about false curls, pretty eye lashes, and aren't always waiting to hear bright remarks. You can stay here, but I don't know how you would like to work and what would your social friends say to that?"
This was true. The girls' mother had died when they were small and their father had joined his wife two months ago. They had been badly in debt in spite of their standing and the girls were about to their last dollar now.
This morning a letter had come from a kind-hearted aunt in Montana asking their two orphan nieces to share her home with them. She and her husband owned a ranch in a middle-sized town, Hedgeville.
Gloria was a very sophisticated, socially popular girl. She didn't fancy the idea of leaving her friends and going to a small town. Lucy was the very opposite of her lovely, graceful sister. She was not popular with her sister's set. She had a few friends from the middle class.

Celebrate Telegraph Anniversary

The seventy-fifth anniversary of the completion of the first trans-continental telegraph line was celebrated recently in ceremonies at New York University. In 1861 the first trans-continental message was transmitted from San Francisco to the White House in Washington. Dr. Edward R. Driggs watches operator S. Brestler receive the re-transmission of the first message.

Lucy was delighted about the invitation and was already planning ahead.
"I really think Aunt Flossie is a champ. Nobody else thought to offer us our room and board." "It might be perfect for you. You would make a perfect hill-billy. I might stay for awhile but I shall always be looking for an opportunity to leave," replied Gloria.
"And I wonder," murmured Lucy, "why with your beautiful looks and those loose males hanging around, since you, you are twenty-two and quite a lady, you don't grab a guy and haul him before a lovely altar."
"Remember too, Lucy Hudson," Gloria said rather haughtily, "you are nineteen and haven't any ring on your finger either."
Lucy smiled and said "I'll beat you through packing."
Gloria took the dare and together they rushed upstairs to pack their belongings.
Three days later found the two sisters on a westbound train. They had said their good-byes to their friends and were waiting with some impatience the end of their journey in about four hours.
Lucy was very interested in a cowboy! But I shall be my own company, at our new boarding place," remarked Gloria.

"Oh, pooh, you and your company," came from Lucy.
The rest of the trip was devoted to the girls' own interests. When they heard the conductor shout "Hedgeville," Lucy, very anxious to get out, jumped up, grabbed her baggage, and was on the platform before Gloria had time to catch up. When the two girls had straightened their bags out, Lucy gave her usual "Oh boy!" and punched Gloria.
"Look there," she said, "there is our wagon; see, with 'Bar-T-Ranch' printed on it. Let's go over. Maybe my Romeo is somewhere near," and, although she was excited, Lucy walked quietly by Gloria's side.

G. A. A.
A meeting of G. A. A. members was held December 2, in Miss Henry's office. It was decided to have a Christmas party December 18. The girls were assigned the basketball games at which they will sell candy. Athletic practice will be Monday and Thursday nights after school.

I love hikes. Any kind of hikes, but especially in snow or rain—in fall and winter. I never feel more peaceful and happy. I feel as if I like everyone when I get out in the woods, when my feet sink way down in snow with every step, and great snowflakes fall thick and fast on my face and get on the ends of my eye-lashes and look funny and shiny. I like big snowflakes because they really are so soft and warm even if they seem cold and wet.

Use of Sugar Cane
Sugar cane, a coarse grass, is believed to be a native of Asia or the East Indies. It was unknown in Europe until the Middle Ages, when the Arabs introduced it into Sicily and Spain. Sugar cane was taken to Brazil about 1500, to Mexico a few years later, and is now cultivated in most warm countries. Two kinds of syrup are made from sugar cane. The first is the golden syrup left over from the manufacture of sugar. The second, such as a Mississippi plant will make, is merely the juice of the sugar cane boiled down, and is known as molasses.

WHY YOU SHOULD GROW BEETS

Your situation on the farm is identical with that of the business man in the city.

If he is a manufacturer, he must study his production methods to make sure he is getting maximum results. He cannot afford to overlook a single bet.

Isn't that your position?

Now, no money making activity in life is all roses. But if you take full advantage of every opportunity you will make the most money over a period of years.

First and foremost you should grow Sugar Beets because they give you a larger money return, per acre, than any other major cultivated crop.

Sugar Beets have a definite rotative value. The beneficial effect on your soil, from the fertilizing which proper beet culture requires, is always plainly evidenced by increased yields in the following crops.

Sugar Beets are not a surplus crop. There is always a market for all you can grow.

Sugar Beets give you two crops in one for the beet tops have a large feed value.

Then too, beets are hardy. They stand hot or cold, wet or dry weather. Also survive severe hail storms.

Thus, with beets, if bad weather comes along, you are always more certain of a better return than you are from any other cultivated crop. Beets are tough—don't forget that.

Finally—the way to make money on Sugar Beets is to grow always a certain definite acreage every year. You'll make more money on Sugar Beets than from any other major cultivated crop.
