

STATE BANK TRUST ORDERED CLOSED

PWA Completes Installation 5.75 Miles Sanitary Sewer Tuesday

Final Dividend Will Be Paid

65 Per Cent Paid Out on $300,000 Deposits To Date

Harry Boyce, receiver for the defunct Buchanan State Bank, has been notified by Circuit Judge Fremont Evans to liquidate the assets of the bank and close the trust as soon as possible, a final dividend to be paid when liquidation is completed.

Judge Evans directed Boyce to take all reasonable steps necessary to collect the remaining debts due to the trust and to prepare for final liquidation. It is anticipated that at the close of the trust a final dividend will be issued, in addition to the 65% already paid. Deposits at the time the bank was closed Oct. 17, 1931, totaled approximately $431,000. Less offsets for amounts owed to the bank, claims were made for approximately $300,000.

Harry Boyce was appointed receiver in November following the suspension, and has made an excellent record in liquidation.

Workman Falls Into Basement

Chris Weybourn, employed by the Austin Construction company on the new Clark warehouse, fell 11 feet from the first floor to the basement Tuesday. He was taken to the Pawling hospital, where his injuries were found to be severe back bruises.

Change Parking On Main Street

At the January meeting of the city commission held Monday evening the street committee was authorized to change the parking on the west side of Main street between Dewey avenue and Front street from angle to parallel. The parking will remain angle on the east side.

Glenn Smith Shoe Exhibit Official

Mr. Glenn E. Smith of Buchanan, Mich., will be one of the committee in charge of the Fourth Annual West Michigan Shoe Show which will be held at the Pantlind Hotel in Grand Rapids, February 1st and 2nd, it was recently announced by Leonard Vander Jagt, General Chairman.

Hundreds of shoe buyers and manufacturers will attend the annual show which includes a preview of the coming year's styles, a banquet and a cabaret party.

Mary Gonder Dies Wagner Dist.

Mrs. Mary Gonder died at her home in the Wagner district Monday and the funeral was held at 2 p. m. yesterday from the Swen funeral home with Rev. C. A. Sanders in charge. Burial was made in the New Troy cemetery. Pallbearers were Joe Rogers, Charles Volkman, James Hanover, Will Orris, Dr. Hendrickson, Pete Ritchie. She was born near Buchanan August 15, 1851, being 85 at the time of her death.

Permits Required For Sewer Hook-Ups

Buchanan householders planning to install sewer connections from sidewalks to their houses must henceforth secure a permit at the city hall, according to action taken at the meeting of the city commission Monday evening, and must then secure the approval of the city sewer inspector before the trench is finally filled. The commission named Clyde Blake to fill the new office of sewer inspector.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Bruce announce the birth of a son, Lowell Guy, at the Boyce Maternity home Jan. 3.

More Power to the Country

Showing how rural power lines are set back from the highways out of the way in the event of future widening. Farmers subscribing for power service contribute the necessary right-of-way as a co-operative arrangement which reduces the cost of installation and makes rural extensions possible.

I. & M. Extends Service to 1200 New Customers in Michigan in Past Year

Margaret Blake Dies Suddenly

Popular Employee Of Clark Offices Stricken In Church

Miss Margaret Blake, passed away at her home at 129 South Oak street, Sunday evening at 8 p. m., January 3, following a stroke of apoplexy incurred at the Methodist church a short time before her death. She was the daughter of Orange L. and Alma R. Blake, who preceded her in death.

She was born April 19, 1885, in Niles township and came to Buchanan with her parents 34 years ago. For the past 12 years she has been employed as a stenographer at the Clark Equipment Co. offices. At one time she worked at the Record office and later at the Buchanan Leather Shop, operated by the Richman brothers.

She was a member of the Methodist church, the Young Women's Missionary Society and Sylvia chapter, Eastern Star.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Methodist church with Rev. Thomas Rice officiating, and burial was made in Oak Ridge cemetery. The Young Women's Missionary Society, the Eastern Star and employees of the Clark Equipment Co., the department of which she was a member, attended in a body.

She is survived by two brothers, Robert of Niles, and Clyde of Buchanan.

B. H. S. Plays Cassopolis Jan. 12

The Buchanan high school basketball team will play the Cassopolis team at the latter gymnasium Tuesday evening, Jan. 12. The reserves will play a curtain-raiser against the Cassopolis seconds, starting at 7 p. m.

Mrs. Charles Pears arrived home Sunday from a visit over the holidays with her son, Richard Pears, Dallas, Texas.

Apply Sewage Disposal Grant

Stream Control Commission to Decide Type of Plant

The last section of 5.75 miles of main included in the PWA project practically completing the sewerization of the city was laid shortly after 11 a. m. Tuesday, and the force at work will now be employed two or three weeks in digging laterals, according to Engineer Gartner in charge.

At the January meeting Monday evening the commission authorized the engineering firm of Cole, More & Geupel to make application for a federal grant for the construction of a sewage disposal plant here. Before an application is made representatives of the state Stream Control commission will be asked to inspect the local situation and decide whether a complete or partial treatment plant will be required. After the grant is received the city has the privilege of passing on the terms required, accepting or rejecting the government's offer.

Velmarian Lit To Stage Plays

Three Original Dramas Written by Members of Society To Be Presented On January 15

Three original plays, written and acted by members of the Velmarian Literary society, will be presented in the high school auditorium at 10:00 o'clock Friday, Dec. 15. Mrs. Dunbar is directing the plays, which are: "The Coroner Laughs Last," by Bob Squiers; "Complicated Returns," by Marion Miller; "Uncle Duddy," by Melvin Campbell.

The setting in each play is very different. "The Coroner Laughs Last," is laid in a morgue, "Complicated Returns," has as its setting in a prosaic living room, but "Uncle Duddy," is played in an attic room.

The program is as follows:

"The Coroner Laughs Last" Robert Squiers

The Attendants: Victor Vigan-sky and Robert Squiers.

The Coroner: James Housman. The District Attorney: Max Beadle.

Stretcher Bearers: Dean Crif-field and Eugene Kelley.

"Complicated Returns" Marion Miller

Mrs. Ronald: Marion Miller. Allison Ronald: Phyllis DeNardo.

Mr. Ronald: Edward Smith. The Butler: Charles Wesner.

Rev. Geist Dies At Urbana, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Phay Graffort received a wire informing them of the death of Rev. Augustus Geist who passed away at the home of his son, Gus Geist, at Urbana, Ind., Monday. Mr. Geist was a retired minister of the Evangelical church. A few years ago he lived on the G. R. Scott farm on Portage Prairie for several years, occasionally preaching at the Portage Prairie Evangelical church and conducting services regularly in the Haven Hubbard chapel Sunday afternoon.

Robert Ellis of the U. S. Army service at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, Ind., arrived Saturday to spend a furlough of a month at his home here.

Writes Verse For Christmas Necktie

The following verse was written by Mrs. L. V. Oglesby, 71, LaPorte, to accompany the gift of a necktie to a nephew in Warren, O., and was published in a Warren newspaper. Mrs. Oglesby belongs to a pioneer business family of LaPorte, and is known by many in Buchanan. A local friend passed the humorous verse on to the Record with the statement that although Mrs. Oglesby had written verses all her life she had always objected to publication and that this was the first by her to appear in print.

On BUYING A CHRISTMAS TIE Men often laugh at a Christmas tie.

That statement I can verify Be it check or stripe Or whatever type Their tastes I seldom gratify.

But, it's ties and ties! Ties there and here For banker and baker and buccaneer

The price may be cheap Or a bit too steep But from the stores they fast disappear.

So, to the town without delay I hurried to view the tie display: The line was complete The clerk discreet And here is my choice from the dazzling array.

I hope it suits your color and height And fits your neck and hair just right,

It may be trash, I may have been rash, But bear me no grudge and wear it tonight.

Caroline Wygant Expires at Otsego

Mrs. John Herman received a telegram last Wednesday from Edgar Wygant, telling of the death of his mother, Mrs. Caroline Wygant on Tuesday, December 29th. Mrs. Wygant is well known to a large number of Buchanan people, having lived on what is known as the Gasley homestead for several years before going to Otsego, where she has made her home for the past ten years.

Father of Allen Matthews Dies

Funeral services were held at Middleville, Mich., Tuesday for James Matthews, father of Allen Matthews of Buchanan. Mr. Matthews was called to Middleville before the holidays and had been unable to return. The family attended the funeral there.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS The time for collection of taxes without penalty has been extended to Feb. 10.

ADA DACY SANDERS, City Treasurer.

H. Gross Chosen For U. Chicago Band

Herschell Gross, former Buchanan boy, who is now a senior at the Hyde Park high school, Chicago, has been selected as a clarinetist in the University of Chicago band and will begin practicing with that organization in January.

Recently the University of Chicago announced that it could use a few more clarinet players in the band and invited players of that instrument in Chicago high schools to appear there for an audition. Young Gross was one of those who responded and was one of the favored chosen. He will be the youngest member of the band. The membership will give him opportunity to travel with the band to out-of-town football games next fall, as well as other chances for study and social life.

On Record List During Entire Life

Among the valued subscribers to the Record is Mrs. Fred Gawthrop, who gets the paper annually as her Christmas present from her husband. Mrs. Gawthrop says that she is just a year or two older than the paper and that it has been in her home and that of her people as far back as she can remember.

Jennie McKivnew Expired Saturday

Mrs. Jennie May McKivnew, 71, died Saturday at her home on Rynearson street and funeral services were held from the Swen funeral home at 2 p. m. Tuesday. Paul Carpenter officiating.

Burial was made at Oak Ridge cemetery, the following acting as pallbearers: Ed Ashbrook, William Bohl, Sr., Albert Brown, Oscar Swartz, George Batchelor, Herbert Roe.

She was born near Buchanan August 24, 1865, and lived here all her life, save for twenty years spent at Chesterton, Ind. Her parents were Robert and Sylvia Covell. She was a member of the Church of Christ, the local Rebekah lodge and the Chesterton O. E. S. Surviving her is one sister, Mrs. Harry Smith.

Clinton Cook and William Bromley have returned home after a week's visit with the former's father at Edmore, Mich. They also visited relatives of both parties at Flint, Owosso and Grand Rapids.

Electricity is now available for the majority of farms. This picture shows a power line lead-in, with transformer.

George Hanley Saw Surrender of Gen. Lee at Appomattox Courthouse

Marched 35 Miles on Foot at Night To Cut Off Escape Of Rebel Leader

The Civil War will always take rank as the "Trojan War" of American history and its story will remain more pregnant with meaning and pathos than that of other wars, because of the tragic opposition of brother against brother, and because of the utter devotion of each side to its cause.

The spirit in which both sides fought was illustrated by the attitude of the two armies and of their commanders after the surrender of Lee at Appomattox.

George Hanley, the last remaining Civil War veteran in the city, was stationed at the brow of a hill about 100 rods from the McLean house, where the meeting of Grant and Lee took place.

Hanley had been in the assault that first divided the Confederate line and caused Lee to evacuate the city. As Lee led his troops westward through the open gap remaining between the ends of Grant's encircling lines, General

Rudolph Reisch Funeral Saturday

Rudolph Reisch, 12, son of Mrs. Vance Smith, Main street, died at Pawling hospital at 5 a. m. yesterday of complications resulting from a ruptured appendix.

The boy underwent an operation Dec. 27, and again on Jan. 3. He was a member of the seventh grade of the local schools and of Mrs. Semples Sunday school class at the Methodist church. He is survived by his stepfather, Vance Smith; his mother, Mrs. Vance Smith; by two step-sisters, Charlotte and Doris Smith; by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Judson Markham, with whom he lived. He was born March 8, 1924. The funeral will be held from the Methodist church at 2 p. m. Saturday, Rev. Rice officiating and burial will be made at the Oak Ridge cemetery. Before that time the body may be viewed at the Hamilton Funeral home. Pallbearers will be the following classmates: Gene Kobe, Jack Frank, Glenn Sharpe, Dick Hess, Jean Dalrymple, Jack Markham.

"Yes, sir," instead of a decent howdydo or something like that is going to get a good punch in the nose. I am all fed up on being yessed."

"And when a guy is talking like that we know right when and where to head in."

"You're right," we agreed. "Yes, sir."

Now Here's the Proposition

In Praise of Noise, or Who Wants To Hear a Pin Drop Anyway?

(Written in the Fashion Made Famous by Ogden's Gnashion).

If you ask me, which you haven't, these anti-noise campaigns are a little phony.

And all this talk about quiet soothing the nerves is a bunch of bulloney.

For I insist that the best place for efficient cerebration

Is to have your desk right next to a 60-ton trip hammer in full de-tonation.

And please don't think me affected or play-actory

If I say that the only place you can be a real hermit is in the middle of a boiler factory.

If you want to know where I stand if you can put me in a bracket With those who like to be quiet and at peace in a helluva racket.

The Clark Equipment company—is messing around with a noiseless street car when the fakie Bear out my contention that the 'best one is a rattly old one with a flat wheel and a dry axle.

For the fact remains without any prospect of blinking

That they are the only kind you can sit in and do any thinking.

And my idea of perfect print-shop peace

Is sixteen Kelley presses running at high speed without grease.

I'll take a good healthy adult noise that rears up on its hind legs and slaps you in the tympanum

Rather than most of the stuff that passes for conversation any old annum.

And my idea of anynoisome noise is a talkative gent or lady over-working his or her diaphragm

Chattering about matters concerning which a do not caradigm.

Or an amateur politician analyzing the current imbroglio.

Or a lady soprano trying to gargle O Sogile Mio.

Or a salesman soft-soaping a prospect with a voice full of butter or at least oglio.

For when argumentative gents are lifting their voices to the welkin I cannot do any thinking worth the mentioning and who the helkin?

Quiet is too much to ask for and my soul rises up and rejoices

When I am in a position where I can at least take my choice of noises.

Long Long Ago

Oh, where is the city That Buchanan used to be.

With its good level streets And shady maple trees.

Now on west Front about four blocks

Once paved so smooth with brick. If you can get the first three, It is a driver's trick.

Go south on Lake And when you take East on Chicago.

Before you get to Days You'll go different ways.

You can't get through Like you used to do

Long time ago. And up South Oak I though I'd croak.

Knee deep in water and mud You start and stop and try again; And almost certain to fail.

I'll tell you now takes a darn good Car to get beyond that fail.

Now take it up one block on Main There's a gully four feet wide.

You bounce and leap Plumb off your seat.

For the holes on each side. Now let's hope and pray the W. P. A.

Will not be quite so slow. When they are through their task We can have at last

The streets of long long ago.

The Thirty Club threw a flock of papers on "Famous Lovers of History" at the meeting held Monday and never even mentioned the loves of Ed and Wally.

Swallows in Chinese Literature

There exists in Chinese literature no more fitting means of signifying family love and endearment than by mentioning the companionship tradition credits to the male and female swallow. Some of the folksongs of old Peking and Shantung, says Nature Magazine, picture a young wife lamenting the loss of her mate at each fresh sight of the swallows flying about the country in pairs.

putting electricity
to work

NEW YEAR'S resolutions are made to be broken, for usually we decide to give up something we like to do. "Never again" will we smoke—or eat sweets, or keep late hours. Instead of renouncing the pleasant things in life, try a new kind of resolution. Pledge yourself a jollier, happier life with freedom from care and more time for the wholesome enjoyment of living.

Resolve today that henceforth and forevermore you will do no labor that can be done electrically by a little motor. Resolve to operate all household services by the most convenient kind of power—electricity. In this way you become a "wholesale" user of current and you are eligible for the extremely low rates available above the average use.

With rates as low as these no one can afford to live without electric labor saving devices.

Mission Days Live Again In New Color Hit

In no detail did Director Henry King compromise with the historical records in filming "Ramona," 20th Century-Fox picture produced in the new perfected Technicolor, at the Hollywood Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. This beautiful picturization of Helen Hunt Jackson's famous novel of the California of Yesterday carries the full conviction of realism.

Many of the articles of jewelry worn by Loretta Young, featured as Ramona, are genuine antiques. Many of the "Ramona" Indians, engaged from neighboring reservations, wear ornaments handed down by their forefathers, natives of this part of the country.

"All American Chump," demonstrates what can happen to an average man with luck and also what the screen can do with an idea.

The picture opens Friday with Stuart Erwin playing the title role with hilarious results. Robert Armstrong, Betty Furness and Edmund Gwenn are other principals in a uniformly excellent cast.

ATTORNEY IS SUED FOR "DELUSION" OF LOVE BACK IN '24

Planned Divorce to Wed His Client, but Wife Talked Him Out of It.

New York.—Albert F. Jaekel, one of this town's leading corporation lawyers, is being sued for $250,000 by Mrs. Florence McCoy, who says his promise to marry her wasn't the McCoy.

And neither, retorts the attorney, is her lawsuit.

There was a time, Jaekel admits, when he did have an idea of this sort. He had a talk with his wife about it and although Mrs. Jaekel didn't object very strenuously, she convinced him it was a plain piece of foolishness.

"Why, That Was In '24."

Now that was years and years ago—back in 1924, before Mrs. McCoy went to Paris and divorced her husband, Dr. John McCoy, chief surgeon at New York's Ear and Eye hospital. Dr. McCoy died last March.

From then until 1931, Jaekel asserts, he saw very little of Florence. She was getting alimony of $15,000 a year from the doctor, and everything, says Jaekel, was quite jake, indeed.

Florence was his client. Doctor McCoy had remarried and for several months he had been overlooking his alimony. In the years they had been divorced he had checked in with more than $110,000, and she had kinda gotten used to it.

Here was a chance, from the way Florence tells it, for her to promote herself from the status of a client to that of her lawyer's wife. She never dreamed, she says, that Jaekel was fooling her. She believed that he was divorced, Florence insists.

But it turns out, she states, that he wasn't at all. He and Cora Jaekel, whom he had married in 1912, were still as close as a Scotchman's grandfather.

Knew He Was Married.

"I solemnly assert," says the lawyer, "that from the time I met her, some 12 years ago, she has known I was married. She has known my wife."

"There was a time when I saw a good deal of her and, frankly, I was quite infatuated with her. She and her husband were living at cross purposes and she and I amused our imaginations by assuming that each was in love with the other."

"Shortly before her divorce she labored under the delusion that it would be a wonderful thing if we could be married. I was led to believe this was a consummation devoutly to be wished and would result in boundless happiness for us both."

Lights of New York

By L. L. STEVENSON

For several weeks now, Manhattan traffic has been moving faster, especially that traveling east and west. The gain in time was brought about merely by speeding up the traffic lights. Under the old timing, it took two full minutes to complete the cycle. Traffic moved north and south 80 seconds. Then there was a five-second clearance interval after which traffic moved east and west 30 seconds. That was followed by another five-second clearance interval. With the new timing, traffic moves north and south 56 seconds and east and west, 26 seconds, while the clearance interval has been cut down to four seconds. Thus, instead of 60 changes an hour, there are now 80. Under the old timing, it was quicker to walk to and from certain points, for instance between Times Square and Grand Central, than it was to travel in any other manner except by subway.

While the pedestrian comes out a poor second now, even when moving across town, he gets a break that he didn't in the past. Speaking as one who has to make numerous hurried journeys to various points in mid-town, a minute and 20 seconds wait at an intersection seemed an eternity. In fact, at times I have felt that I have waited at a busy intersection long enough to have grown a long white beard. Now with 10 more changes an hour to cross, there is less temptation to brave fate by threading through traffic rather than that of inaction until the light changes. Police say drivers feel the same way. Thus, by cutting down the number of those who seek to beat the light, there is less traffic danger.

Trouble arose when Walter O'Keefe began his rehearsals for his new air program. It was necessary to simulate the sound of a nickel dropping into a telephone coin box. Sound men and National Broadcasting company engineers wrestled with the problem for quite a while without getting anywhere at all. Finally O'Keefe took a hand. All he did was have the telephone company send up a coin box and at the proper time, dropped his nickel. Thus, there was perfect simulation.

Frank Thomas, who at the ripe age of fifteen has appeared in seven plays and two movies and who became a professional actor at the age of ten, doesn't care for poetry. Previous to his appearance in "Wednesday's Child" several seasons ago, he had to learn a part with 67 "sides" in just four days—a feat he accomplished with ease. The day following the opening of that play he got into trouble at the Professional Children's school because he couldn't memorize two verses of "The Ancient Mariner." The reason, he explained, was that he understood his part in the play but he couldn't understand the Mariner. His earnings have been large and they are all in the bank. He intends to keep them there so that when he grows up he can choose the parts he wants to play rather than be forced to take any that are offered him. Wise kid.

The new contract of George Burns and Gracie Allen with Paramount calls for a four-months vacation. They will spend it in New York acting in musical comedy. It's really George's idea. Playing tank towns over the country in vaudeville for years, he cherished the ambition to play Broadway in musical comedy. Success on the radio and in pictures followed—their salary on their new air program is reported to be $12,500 a performance—but not musical comedy. That didn't stump them, however. No one else having come forward, they are to put on the show themselves. It may be a somewhat costly "vacation" but possibly it will be worth it.

More Children Are Found to Have Decayed Teeth

Dallas, Tex. — Bad teeth are breaking the health and future possibilities of an amazing large percentage of American children. Dr. Ernest A. Branch, Raleigh, N. C., told joint convention of the Texas and Oklahoma State Dental societies here.

Maladies most frequently produced in children from neglect of decayed teeth, he said, are tuberculosis and ailments of the kidneys and heart.

"Being dark, soft, and warm, the mouth is a perfect incubator for germs and bad teeth provide the perfect culture media within it," said Dr. Branch, who is oral hygiene director of the North Carolina state board of health.

Tuberculosis germs breed rapidly in a mouth full of bad teeth he said, and then are, carried into the lungs.

Diet, hygiene, and prenatal care all are involved in building good teeth, Dr. Branch said.

The fondness of Americans for sweets and soft foods was blamed by Dr. Branch for the current increase in tooth decay.

COMMISSION PROCEEDINGS

Regular meeting of the City Commission of the City of Buchanan, Mich., held in the commission chamber on Monday evening, January 4, 1937, at 7:30.

Meeting was called to order by Mayor Merson. Roll call showed the following members present: Merson, Brown, Graffort, Beistle, Voorhees and Clerk Post.

Minutes of previous meeting were read and approved as corrected.

The matter of connecting sewer laterals and house laterals on the various sanitary sewers was discussed. It was the sentiment of the Commission that the city should have a regularly appointed sewer inspector, and that these trenches must be left open until the work had been inspected.

Moved by Commr. Brown and supported by Commr. Voorhees that the mayor with the approval of the Commission appoint a sewer inspector. Motion carried.

The mayor then appointed Mr. Clyde Blake as sewer inspector.

Moved by Commr. Brown and supported by Commr. Graffort that the appointment of Mr. Clyde Blake as sewer inspector be approved. Motion carried.

The finance committee read the bills for the month of December which were as follows:

General fund	$1135.12
Highway fund	293.94
Water works fund	107.86
Third and Port. Imp.	12.00
Poor fund	75.33
Sewer Dist. No. 2	2204.42
TOTAL	$4828.67

Moved by Commr. Beistle and supported by Commr. Graffort that the bills be allowed as read and orders drawn on the proper funds for the several amounts.

Motion carried by the following vote on roll call: Yeas: Merson, Voorhees, Graffort, Brown and Beistle. Nays: None.

Moved by Commr. Beistle and supported by Commr. Brown that the interest on the Perpetual Repair fund note of Jan. 2, 1934, in the amount of $26.25 be paid.

Motion carried by the following vote on roll call: Yeas: Merson, Voorhees, Graffort, Brown and Beistle. Nays: None.

Moved by Commr. Beistle and supported by Commr. Brown that the bill of J. L. Garton for electrical work and supplies on the new well and pump house be allowed and ordered paid.

Motion carried by the following vote on roll call: Yeas: Merson, Voorhees, Graffort, Brown and Beistle.

Engineer Gartner reported to the Commission regarding the cost of the sewer construction and recommended that the city sell the equipment which the city has on hand.

Moved by Commr. Graffort and supported by Commr. Voorhees that the city sell to Berrien Springs, the sewer equipment listed by Mr. Gartner with the option to repurchase any or all of the sheeting at 18c per sq. foot.

Motion carried by the following vote on roll call: Yeas: Merson, Voorhees, Graffort, Brown and Beistle. Nays: None.

New Officials Assume Duties January 1st

Some Changes in Courthouse Personnel Announced by Incoming County Officers.

Without ceremony and with few changes in courthouse personnel, eight new county officials, successful in the November 3 election, will occupy their new jobs officially at midnight Thursday, with the beginning of the new year. Four others, re-elected to the positions they have held for the past two or four years, will remain in their present offices, three of them for two years longer, and one for the next four years.

In only three of the offices, however, will there be changes in personnel. Register of Deeds Al J. Hastings, who will become county clerk, has refused to comment on appointments he may make after he takes over the office from Clerk Guy Tyler. Drain Commissioner Oscar Damon, who will become register of deeds, and Ed Freeman, who will become drain commissioner, announced their appointments today.

Mr. Damon declared he will appoint his present assistant, Mrs. Mary Maul, Benton Harbor, as deputy register of deeds. As stenographers he intends to appoint Miss Ruth Benjamin, Benton Harbor, and to retain Miss Helen Scott, St. Joseph, who has been employed in the office for some time.

Miss Jewell Meyers, Benton Harbor, is to become assistant to Drain Commissioner Freeman, the position Mrs. Maul has held under Mr. Damon.

Ed LaViolette, Benton Harbor city commissioner, a Democrat, will become county treasurer. He will replace another Democrat, Donald J. Cutler, who did not run for election this year. Cutler is expected to go with the secretary of state's office at Lansing, to work under his fellow townsman, Leon D. Case, who becomes secretary of state on January 1.

Mr. Hastings declares he has not yet determined upon the appointment as deputy clerk, the position now held by Richard Tormey, Niles. Tormey is a Democrat and Hastings a Republican, and a change is expected, although it may not come for several weeks. Another deputy in the clerk's office, Mrs. Mabel Baker, will be retained by Hastings, under a resolution passed by the county board of supervisors in October which virtually requires that Mrs. Baker remain in the office to audit supervisors' accounts.

Personnel of the county treasurer's office will remain unchanged, LaViolette said, with Mrs. Veronica Mason, Niles, and Miss Lillian Krieger, Benton Harbor, as deputy treasurers; and Mrs. Rosalie Lloyd, St. Joseph, and Miss Dorothy McGee, St. Joseph township, as clerks.

Probate Judge Malcolm Hatfield will keep his present staff, which includes Mrs. Eleanor Dasse, St. Joseph, as probate register; Miss Elsie Krejci, Niles, deputy register; Miss Huldene Schlender, Sawyer, recording clerk; Miss Cordelia Pirehman, Benton Harbor, and Miss Marjorie Retler, Royalton township, stenographers.

The judge indicated, however, that reduction in his staff of one person may be expected in another two months. One girl was added to the probate court by the board of supervisors, because of the extra work loaded onto the court by the depression. Most of this extra work has been completed and it soon will be possible to release one stenographer, according to Judge Hatfield.

Sheriff Charles L. Miller also has indicated he will make no changes when he takes the oath of office for his third term. Raymond Grahzow, as undersheriff, Erwin H. Kubath as chief deputy, and the other deputies who have served with him for the past four years, will remain in their present position.

Prosecuting Attorney E. A. Westin will keep Attorney Robert Small as assistant prosecutor.

Other officials will take office January 1 do not have assistants. They include Alton W. Howard, Democrat, who will replace Jas. H. Dewey, Republican, as county surveyor; Bernard J. Reiser, Democrat, Benton Harbor, replacing Rolland J. Brown, Republican, as coroner; and Attorneys B. R. Desenberg, Buchanan, and Carl Schultz, St. Joseph, Democrats, who will replace Attorneys A. Edward Brown and Eldon W. Butzbaugh, Republicans, as circuit court commissioners. The other coroner, Louis Kerlikowski, Republican, was re-elected and will serve another term.

William McMaster Expires in Florida

William McMaster, 73, retired employee of the New York Central railway and a resident of Buchanan 11 years, died Friday afternoon at Miami, Fla., where he had been under treatment for diabetes.

McMaster was in the employ of the Indiana Harbor Belt Line railway, a subsidiary of the N. Y. Central, for 46 years, and was purchasing agent of the road for years. His wife died Dec. 22, 1935, while they were on a trip in California. He had gone to Florida three weeks ago. One sister, Mrs. Henry Klammer, Galien, survives him.

GEORGE HANLEY
SAW BLACK SURRENDER AT APPOMATTOX

Phil Sheridan, Union cavalry leader, set out in a night march to head him off. At the heels of Sheridan's horsemen marched Hanley's division, which made nearly thirty-five miles in the darkness.

In the early morning they heard fighting and knew that Sheridan had succeeded in blocking the march of the enemy and was engaging them. In cavalry fashion Sheridan struck and then fell back to permit the infantry to come up. Across a ravine from Hanley's unit three Confederate canons were stationed, with a small force in charge. They fired one shot, killing Orrin Taylor of Hanley's company. Taylor was, in Hanley's belief, the last Union soldier killed of the many thousands that fell in Grant's operations around Richmond.

As Taylor dropped, hit in the head by a piece of shell, the Union force yelled and charged the guns. The Confederates fled, and as the Northerners came up to the crest of the hill where the guns were stationed, they saw across an opening the army of Lee halted. Soon they saw a flag of truce go out. Then Lee rode up to the McLean house, clad in a fine new gray uniform and riding his gray horse Traveler, that had carried him through the war. Grant came too and they dismounted and went into the house. After an interval Hanley saw both generals and their staffs emerge and ride away, and the word was passed that the Confederate army had surrendered and the fight was over.

In their night dash to head off Lee Hanley's division had captured over a hundred carloads of provisions intended for the Confederate forces. These rations they divided with the Confederates, who were setting out for their homes. There was no bitterness of spirit between the ragged prisoners who had made one of the most gallant stands in military history and the soldiers of Grant.

Some of the Confederates had to walk as far as Texas to get home. Those that horses were allowed to take them "to help put in the crops."

The "Johnny Rebs" waved their hands as they left: "You never licked us, Yanks," they shouted, "you just outnumbered us."

"We don't care how we did, now the war's over," the Yanks replied. After the surrender Hanley and his company went back and picked up the body of their fellow townsman, Taylor, burying him at the foot of a white oak tree, where his dust no doubt still rests.

For several weeks Hanley was stationed at Richmond and daily General Lee used to ride Traveler down to a small stream near his camp and dismount to water him, talking to the Union men meanwhile. The bones of "Traveler" are in the same tomb with those of Lee.

After several months in western Virginia, Hanley was discharged in the late summer of 1865, and went home to Attica. After a visit at home he heard of chances to work and came to Buchanan, where he has lived since.

I. & M. Extends Service to Customers

jeets, prompted by prolonged droughts but also by increased fruit farm incomes and realization that irrigation guarantees higher quality produce. Irrigation has definitely established itself as a success in horticulture.

The modern utility is a highly efficient organization which functions smoothly in all circumstances and in the face of all emergencies. This is necessarily so because the production and distribution of electrical energy is a highly complex business indispensable to modern life.

Much is being written and spoken nowadays on the subject of rural electrification through the extension of power lines to farming districts.

Although it is true that electricity is a comparative newcomer to most rural areas, the increase in the agricultural uses of power has been going on for a quarter of a century and has slowly but surely been working revolutionary changes in the traditional picture of American farm life.

As the copper wires are extended, like giant spider-webs over the countryside, the country and the city have been and continue to be drawn into closer unity in scores of ways.

Goodbye to Drudgery
While not all farms enjoy the advantages of electricity, and every rural section will not for years find electrical energy available, the pioneering may be said to have been accomplished, and with the change there has come the elimination of a vast portion of the drudgery of farm life.

Gone, on the modern, electrical farm, are the inefficient old kerosene lamps and lanterns, the crude facilities and the hardships that may have provided a certain atmosphere of romance to the farm, but which aged the farmer and the farmer's wife before their time.

Today, in the engineering departments of the utilities, there are large scale maps upon which the country districts are plotted by counties and townships. They

Plans for Labor Peace Fail

Recent conferences between representatives of the so-called "rebel" unions and the American Federation of Labor failed to lift the deadlock or to bring peace between the craft and industrial factions of organized labor. are complete, even to the location of trees. With these maps as a guide, the power lines are spreading out finger-wise, weaving a vast pattern of progress.

To those who assume that rural electrification is new, or are under the impression that it has developed suddenly, it is interesting to know that for 25 years the Indiana & Michigan Electric company, which supplies this area with electrical energy, has been pushing its lines farther and farther into the rural areas until today, over most of this region, the farmer and the city dweller are on equal footing as far as availability of electricity is concerned. The rates are even the same, in spite of the fact that it is naturally more costly to build and service rural lines over far-flung areas where there is often small population.

Thus the farmer may now have a radio, electric refrigerator, stove, lights, power for his pumps and farm machinery, and even milking machines.

Large Investment Required
At the beginning of this period electric service was made available to small communities by development of lines and equipment for high voltage transmission, necessary in order to carry power to widely scattered points in such quantity and at a steady voltage practical for domestic and commercial uses.

In order to reduce this voltage to a low value so that it could be distributed around the communities to be served, it was necessary to build substations. This required a large investment and it was essential to the power company that it secure enough business at any location to warrant the expenditure.

As the use of electricity in the earlier stages of rural electrical development was confined mostly to lighting, the possible revenue for each individual customer was small. For that reason extensions were practical only to communities where residences were close together and where the number of users was comparatively large. However, as the uses to which electrical current could be used increased through the development of electric irons, radios, ranges, water heaters,

The utilities were at once confronted with the problem of a large investment. The cost of service to the farmer was much greater due to increased investment per customer.

Problem of Power Loss
On all electric lines a certain amount of current is consumed by the line itself in transmission and in transformers. Where the lines are short, as in cities, and customers close together, power losses are small, averaging about 18 per cent. As the lines are extended, the power loss becomes proportionately greater.

Farmers with electric service soon learned that the cost was offset by the greater convenience and saving in labor. Electrical equipment also serves to increase production. It was natural, therefore, that more and more farmers came into the market for electrical power. The power company adopted a planned program of development, and as service was extended the economies increased. It has become possible to so reduce tariffs that the kilowatt hour rates are now identical in farm and city.

During recent years the demand on the power company for line extensions to the farms has increased rapidly, and since the utility could make the cost of extension smaller as the scope increased, it was decided to enter into a construction program on this basis. The first step naturally, was to know where the new lines were going, and why. Maps were necessary, and these were prepared with all the care of an army ordinance department. Imaginary extensions were drawn to serve all the farmers and the power company men sent out to offer the service to those interested. This work is still being carried on.

An American Parade of Progress

In this parade of American progress, there can be no resting on yesterday's laurels. To stand still is to fall behind, to drop out of the parade.

The automobile or radio of a few years ago, for example, would find no market today. Refrigerators, clothing, cameras, office equipment—in all industries the old models are constantly being rendered obsolete by improvements in style, value or performance.

Michigan's telephone service has kept pace with this great march of progress. There is little resemblance between the original service and that of today—as little as there is between the first "horseless carriages" and the splendid, efficient automobiles that Michigan is now supplying to the modern world.

The tremendous advance in telephone service was achieved by years of research in the famous Bell Laboratories; by the engineering skill of the Western Electric Company in producing dependable, standardized equipment; by the efficiency and loyalty of operating and administrative personnel. Thus, America's world supremacy in telephonic communication was won by tireless effort coordinated under this unchanging policy: To supply the best service, and the most, at the least possible cost.

That policy has stood behind your telephone for more than half a century. Year by year it has made the service swifter, more convenient, freer from error. It has brought the telephone within the reach of all—has made it a valuable factor in the domestic and industrial life of modern Michigan.

Sincere and thorough, the search for improvement must continue in order that the telephone shall maintain its well-deserved place in America's parade of progress.

Jaid is seen on many a smart outfit nowadays, and a good example of how it enhances is shown here by Kathryn Marlowe, young RKO Radio player, who wears a tunic suit of thin black wool accented around the neck, bottom of tunic skirt and down the front with a broad band of black silk braid worked into an intricate design. The tunic is slit almost to the waist in front, and the Titian-haired actress fills in the neckline with a white satin scarf.

Twinkling sapphires blue metallic cloth creates blonde Betty Lawford's gown which she wears in RKO Radio's "Criminal Lawyer." The dress is made with a peplum effect which gathers added fullness in back. The wide shoulder straps make tiny cap sleeves, but the base of the strap, in front, is gathered in by rhinestone clips which match the clip at the waist. The skirt falls in a perfectly plain line and ends in sizeable train. It was designed for Miss Lawford by Renie.

field, and others wounded. The remnant of the company was sent back north to Waseon, O., to be recruited back to full strength in its home neighborhood.

Hanley states that it was first reported that Col. Shaw was buried in a trench with his negro troops, but that it was afterwards found that his body was shipped to Boston for burial. He had mounted the fort parapet when he was shot down. Col. Putman, brigade leader, was killed on the same parapet.

Shaw was apparently considered a young man of brilliant promise. Lowell wrote in "The Bigelow Papers":

"Taint right to have the young go first
All throbbing' full of gifts and graces,
Leavin' life's paupers dry as dust
To make believe to fill their places.
My eyes cloud up for rain, my mouth
Will take to twitchin' round the corners;
I pity mothers too down South
For all they set among the scorn-ers;
I'd sooner take my chance to stand
At Judgment where your meanest slave is
Than at God's bar hol' up a hand
Ez drippin' red ez yourn, Jeff Davis!"

In another vein he wrote in special memory of Col. Shaw:
"Right in the van
On the red rampart's slippery swell
With heart that beat a charge he fell
Forward as fits a man."

The fighting in Charlestown harbor continued through the summer, finally resulting in the defeat of the Union forces and a triumph for the Confederates under Gen. Beauregard. The land force was assisted by a fleet of Union iron clads, which battered at Fort Sumpter in the center of the harbor all summer reducing it to ruins but failing to take it.

On a visit at Charlestown in 1930, Hanley took a boat out to the Fort.

"You should have been with me this mornin'," said the boatman, "A man went out with me who had been one of the Confederate garrison during the bombardment."

The boatman was able to give his name and address and Hanley hunted him up later and had a long visit with him, learning much of the reason why they were not able to dislodge the Confederates.

Always Pays Paper Bills With Pennies

A regular visitor at the Record office during the first days of January is Mrs. Lester Fedore, R. R. 1 Buchanan. Mrs. Fedore always brings in a sack with 150 pennies to pay for a year's subscription. The first year we counted it, hoping that she had made a mistake and put in a penny extra, but it was exact so we have never bothered since. Mrs. Fedore has a jar in her cupboard for the pennies, which she saves to pay small bills.
