PERENNIAL YOUTH

As people accumulate more or less years and more and more past, it becomes progressively more pleasant to witness the recurrence of popular musical and literary favorites of years ago, reminding them that at all events everything they were nurtured on in their youth is not outmoded.

And among the pleasant perennials, not to say immortals, are the Gilbert & Sullivan operas. Recently the writer was thumbing over a copy of the "Buchanan Reporter," issued in 1878 by a Dr. Berrick, who in addition to being a physician was something of a politician and a nation-saver on the side and had a newspaper of his own to spread his ideas. In the somewhat scanty news columns was a statement that a Niles amateur cast would present the very popular Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "H. M. S. Pinafore" at the Rough Opera house.

The writer talked of the ever-fresh fame of these operas with his Better Three-Fourths over the dinner table that evening and then casually stepped to the radio and twirled the dial in search of something good. And lo and behold! as the music gradually built up, a snappy chorus rang out:

"Oh, I washed the windows and I mopped the floor And I polished up the handle of the big front door."

And that week a paper came from the home town out west carrying as a main story the fact that the high school would present H. M. S. Pinafore.

Truly this is a never-fading popularity.

AND ANOTHER PERENNIAL

Some where back in the eighties of the last Century it was advertised in the Record that Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt would speak on women's rights at the Rough Opera House.

Mrs. Catt had already won world wide note—they called it notoriety then—as a champion of the right of women to vote and do other things. Sunday it seems like a voice from the Victorian to see her quoted at some length in the World's Greatest Newspaper to the effect that women did not want equality with men and that she was averse to any campaign in its behalf, since if she achieved equality it would mean the relinquishment of a mass of protective legislation, the fruit of a half century of hard fighting and based on the alleged inequality of women.

Mrs. Catt said that she was not at all sorry that she had campaigned for women's rights, and was not disappointed in their use of the suffrage.

"They have behaved," she said, "just as I expected they would."

Mrs. Catt is 78 years old and still enjoys life. She doesn't want to live longer than she finds it enjoyable, she states. She will speak at a Chicago convention soon if her health permits.

GROWER PROCESSOR BOTH IN THE SAME BOAT Why the Beet Grower and the Processor should PULL TOGETHER Of course the processor wants you to grow Beets—more Beets—in fact, just as many Beets as scientific rotation will permit. No, he is not entirely selfish about this. Strange as it may seem, what benefits the processor is of identical benefit to you—the grower. And here are the reasons: Sugar Beets are not a surplus crop. There is always a market for all you can grow. Next: Sugar Beets have been the most profitable of all major farm crops in Michigan during the last five years. Next: Sugar Beets have high weather insurance. Beets are tough. They stand hot or cold, wet or dry weather. Next: With good farm management—proper cultivation—proper plowing—proper preparation for seeding and fertilizing; in other words, by the adoption of the latest cultural practices, you will get more sugar per acre. And that is what we are both after. Next: Sugar Beet tops have a high feed value for stock. Next: Sugar Beets, in proper rotation, make farming a better paying proposition. If you will stick to a regular yearly Sugar Beet planting you will make more money and keep your farm in a more productive condition. The more the grower and the processors pull together—the more we co-operate—the more we interchange ideas—the better will be the result for all concerned. For we are "both in the same boat." Quins Dance, Play In New Film Roles

The Dionne Quintuplets, so grown-up now, play the piano, dance, and accomplish a hundred engaging antics in their second picture for Twentieth Century-Fox, "Quins," opening Sunday for 3 days at the Hollywood theatre.

An outstanding comedy-drama in its own right, "Quins" features the lovable Jean Harlow as the Country Doctor, while the exceptional cast included Rochelle Hudson, Helen Vinson, Slim Summerville, Robert Kent and Dorothy Peterson.

Wednesday-Thursday Lawrence Tibbett, gloriously singing three new songs headed for the nation's hit list, brilliantly cast against a background of riotous comedy provided by Gregory Ratoff and Arthur Treacher and a rough-house romance with Wendy Barrie, will arrive Wednesday for 2 days in his newest and greatest musical-comedy romance, "Under Your Spell," Twentieth Century-Fox triumph.

Friday-Saturday With a "what-ho" and a cheer-larious "gentleman's agent" who knows all about women, fiction's funniest character, comes to the screen for the first time in the new Twentieth Century-Fox picture, "Thank You, Jeeves!"

Droll Arthur Treacher plays the poker-faced valet, with Virginia Field the "lady in distress" and David Niven as the blundering, butter-fingered Bertie Wooster.

Low Ayres comes to the screen as a happy-go-lucky newspaper cameraman who solves a perfect crime with a photograph in "Murder with Pictures," a mystery drama. Beautiful Gail Patrick plays opposite him.

Berrien Co. Roads Improved by WPA

Work designed to improve drainage and safety factors on Berrien county roads will be undertaken next Monday by the Works Progress Administration, it was announced today.

The project, which is county-wide, calls for the construction of culverts, headwalls, gutters, catch basins, guard-rails and ditches; installation of tile drains; grading and sloping of banks, and the placing of warning signs.

This project is distinct from several others which have been undertaken or are under consideration and was requested by the county road commission to lift part of the burden imposed by the transfer of roads to the county system under the McNitt act.

Seventy-five men will start work on the project, for which the WPA has allotted $35,977. The road commission has pledged $19,099.

Law Changes To Benefit Berrien

County Secures Change in New Federal Farm Law For Small Fruit Men

Small fruit growers over the United States have Berrien county to thank for certain modifications of the new government farm conservation program in their favor, according to J. A. Richards, Berrien Center, who visited Buchanan Tuesday in company with Earl Ingles, Gallen, both serving as members of the county committee of the Berrien County Agricultural Conservation Association, in charge of organization in the south part of the county.

Richards stated that these changes included a government payment for mulching, and an increase in government payments for cover crops. These two features were the result of continued pressure brought by the Berrien county committee on the state organization, which in turn took the matter up with the federal department of agriculture. The two provisions will very materially help the small farmer and fruit man, and will bring a large amount of money into Berrien county.

Organization meetings for the purpose of electing township committees are in progress this week. During February a series of educational meetings will be held. The new program is to get under way March 1.

be had in Buchanan stores this week at a price that people of moderate means can afford. They could have been had before but the price appeared a little too steep.

Then there's head lettuce. Only a few years ago crisp, fresh lettuce was strictly a summer luxury. Now it is available almost the year round. You can get fresh head lettuce grown under glass at Grand Rapids in your Buchanan stores now at a price unbelievably cheap. In the succession of months of the year the crops of head lettuce from various states follow on one another's heels until they nearly span the year—California, Arizona, Colorado and so on.

Can you remember when you ate your first grape fruit? Probably not over 15 or 20 years ago. Probably you did not know how to handle it and when you dug your spoon in it fought back at you. In the early days people who professed a taste for grape fruit went around with smarting eyes and soiled collars as the result of their daily combats with the recalcitrant fruit. The modern grape fruit is very easy to get along with if handled with any tact, and is a daily appetizer on many tables. Buchanan grocers sell from 2,500 to 3,000 grape fruit a week in season. Where once they sold at 25 cents each you can now get quite an arm load for that price.

A Buchanan grocer was telling about the new pink fruit grape fruit, commercialized during the past three years, and still a stranger to many. It has a most individual flavor, he said, unlike any other. Some people think it has an orange taste.

If you like strong bitzy cheese, you can get Rochefort, an imported French cheese, much cheaper than a few years back, though it still ranks as a delicacy in price. It is made of sheep or goats milk, and ripened a long time. Bread crumbs are mixed in and mould in the ripening process and it is this mould that gives the cheese its flavor.

Five, ten years from now there will be new foods on Buchanan tables, secured from the ends of the earth and introduced and popularized by fast grocery service. What will they be. One Buchanan merchant thinks that Kumquats may be one of them. The Kumquat has just begun to appear in local stores, and are in season now. There is a growing demand as people learn to eat them. They are a yellow fruit, small or about the size of a wild plum. The outside rind has a bitter but pleasant flavor, while the inside is acidic. It is favored in salads, and makes one of the very best preserves you can get. It is also good in jelly and marmalade.

Today war clouds hover over all the world. At any minute word may be received that Germany and Spain are fighting—then Italy, England, Japan, Russia, France, all the world will have allied themselves for one cause or another. And the United States will be in the midst of it. Your husbands, brothers, and perhaps even your father will answer the call to arms. A great majority of the army will be composed of young men—young men who have been conscripted or who are thrilled by the glories of war as preached by soap box orators; of boys who are just beginning to earn a decent wage; of young men who are just married and have a baby to leave behind; of boys still in high school. They hear only the glory of war, listen to its stirring martial music, or perhaps imagine themselves in an officer's uniform. They forget that war is not all glory, marching bands, and that every man cannot be an officer. Let them rather remember the horror and sickness and death which accompanies it. They who have never experienced war are willing to fight in it. Let them visit some veteran and learn of the mud and gas and shells and injury which become daily routine to the soldier. That veteran has no desire to go back to the experience which constitutes war.

It is the young men of the nation who must lose their lives, become insane, gassed or maimed for life to save their country. The nation does not conscript older men—they know war and do not believe in it. They will not lay down their life or give the service that younger men, who have no realization of what it is, will give.

If only the younger generation could be shown the true horror and utter futility of it all! For it is your generation which can make or break the next war.

It is up to the youth of the nation to practice peace and thus thwart the munitions makers and manufacturers who would kill millions for the sake of enriching themselves.

IN THE LIBRARY

A new book in the library which should be of great value to seniors is "Manner in Business," by Elizabeth Gregg MacGibbon. Here is understanding and practical advice on business etiquette which should be invaluable to secretaries, stenographers, bookkeepers, filing clerks, and saleswomen.

Mrs. MacGibbon discusses in detail such important topics as what to wear for business; make up and grooming; how to get a job; how to get along with one's boss and office force; office taboos; etc.

SCHOOL SONG

Do you know your high school song? There are probably many new students in school who have never had the opportunity to learn the words to this song and yet it is rather necessary that you know it to get into the proper spirit at pep meetings and games where it is played and sung. The present song was written by Mr. Robinson to replace the old song which was sung to the music of the Notre Dame Victory March.

"HAIL TO BUCHANAN"
Hail to Buchanan,
School that every loyal heart
will never forget,
Hail to the friendships,
Bound by memories fair and true.

Hail to Buchanan,
Pledge we now our loyalty,
Sing we now the song of songs
to Alma Mater,
School we love,
Our own Buchanan High.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM

Philip Foxwell, a young magician, performed his slight-of-hand tricks before a packed assembly here last week, Jan. 6. It was impossible, even for a reporter, to catch this quick snap finger twist of the wrist guy, since he performed as only a well trained magician could. He sent one boy from the stage carrying his shirt and he also pulled "the wrap up rabbit in paper, quick, is-a-bibble, rabbit is cracker jack trick" on one little girl. However, his main play was a magic vase that kept filling up with water, probably making use of false bottoms.

JANUARY EVENTS

January 5—Special assembly program.

VEL LIT FLASHES

Edward Smith is doing his best to play the role of a husband in the plays to be given by the Vel Lit very soon. Guess who his wife is!

Did you know that Bob Stevens was finally persuaded to lend his presence to one of them? (He refused to be in a love scene, though.)

Bob Squires and Vic Vignasy at last have the opportunity to display their abilities on the stage in the role of two crazy professors.

The leads in last year's junior play again have the role of sweethearts in one of the productions.

James Housman and Max Beadle are actually on the stage together. Perhaps they've forgotten their feud or at least for the time.

Don't lose hope, boys. There are some girls in the plays in fact, there are four in one of them.

Be sure to come and see the role played by one of the girls in "Complicated Returns." Everyone who has seen it says it couldn't be more true to life.

"I'd like to buy a telephone call"

WHEN you call a telephone number on the other side of town you are making an important purchase. You say in effect:

"Give me the use of miles of wire, of cables under the street, a section of switchboard and all the other equipment needed in the central office. I shall need one kind of current to carry my voice and another to ring the bells that signal the other party. I may need the services of an operator or two. I want all your equipment to be in perfect working order so that my call is clear and goes through without interruption. I would like this all arranged to connect me with my party instantly—and at a cost of a few cents."

Telephone people are asked to do this millions of times a day and find nothing unusual in the request. But to do it at the price you pay for telephone service—in fact, to do it at all—has taken many years of the most skillful and unremitting research, engineering and organization.

Telephone service in the United States is the most efficient, dependable and economical in the entire world.

PRESENT PROGRAM DESCRIPTIVE MUSIC
A program of descriptive music, by the pupils of Mrs. Mollye Chappell given at the residence studio of Mrs. H. B. Thompson, Friday evening, attracted a large number of parents and relatives.
Mrs. Mabel Webster Osmer of the American Conservatory of Music concluded the program with an impromptu talk on child training in Europe and America. It was especially enlightening in regard to the "margin" of time employed in training for the arts in the United States and abroad. Here, Mrs. Osmer explained, the maximum amount of time in the formative years of youth is devoted to obtaining a general education in the public schools, whereas in most European countries when a child is selected for an artistic career, the major portion of time is devoted to that particular art, and the smaller "margin of time" is taken up with private tutors in the general education.
