Equip Church For Recreation

Presbyterian Church Equips Rooms For Use by Young People

The need of recreation rooms in Buchanan has at last been answered by the Presbyterian Church. Its members have long felt the need for such rooms in town, and by combined efforts they have completed them. It is their hope that they may take the place that the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. do in many communities as centers where children and young people of whatever religious affiliation may find wholesome amusement and healthy exercise.

A new maple floor has been laid by Mr. Bradley and paid for by the Home Service and the Stevenson Guild. Miss Kit Kingery's Circle has redecorated the rooms. The men of the church have raised the money to purchase the equipment. And the young men have built many of the games.

At present the equipment consists of shuffleboard, target darts, chess, checkers, horseshoes, boxing gloves and two ping pong tables. If there are enough young people interested classes of instruction will be arranged in boxing and fencing.

The committee which the session of the church has named in charge of the rooms is composed of Hugh Pierce, Fred Smith, Milton Converse, and Ralph McWilliams. They will arrange all activities and will manage the recreation during the hours when the rooms are open for use.

The following is a tentative schedule of the hours during which the various groups will have the rooms. Those wishing to use the equipment please note when their group meets.

Monday at 4:00—7th, 8th, and 9th grade girls.

Tuesday at 4:00—7th, 8th and 9th grade boys.

Thursday at 4:00—High School Girls.

Friday at 4:00—High School Boys.

Saturday at 2:00—4th, 5th, and 6th grade girls.

Saturday at 3:30—4th, 5th, and 6th grade boys.

Evening Schedule

Wednesday at 7:30—Men.

Thursday at 7:30—Young people out of High School.

Any other groups than these may make arrangements for regular hours at the recreation rooms by consulting the Recreation Committee.

1895 Edition of Railway Magazine, Headlight, Had Write-Up Buchanan

William Van Meter Led City Then in Display of Fancy Spinach

Through the courtesy of J. H. Romig the Record had the privilege last week of scanning an issue of the old-time railway magazine, "Headlight," dated 1895 and containing a long "write-up" of Buchanan and its leading business and industrial men of that time with numerous pictures of men and buildings.

Among the local concerns of the day which received notice was the Buchanan Power & Electric company, of which the "Headlight" has the following to say:

"This company was incorporated in April, 1893. The officers are Peter English, president; John G. Holmes, vice president; Frank English, secretary. At the time the company was formed a large tract of land was bought on both sides of the St. Joseph river, and a substantial dam was constructed about a mile from the business center. The dam was 394 feet long. The waterfall is about 12 feet high and forms as handsome a sheet of water as can be found anywhere. A race is constructed on either side with a capacity of 1,500 horsepower each. On the north is the electric light station which supplies the light for the town. The capacity of the plant is sixty arc lights of 2,000 candle power each and 1,800 incandescent lights.

Aged Man Found Dead in His Home

John Starrett, 83, was found dead at his home at the west end of Hobart street Saturday morning by a neighbor, Adna Sherwood, who had gone to his home to see how he was.

Mr. Sherwood said that he had visited him about 9 p. m. the night before, and that the old man had said that he was all right then. The next morning he went to his home and called and when he received no response he forced his way in, finding Mr. Starrett seated in a chair, fully dressed but dead.

John Starrett, son of David and Lavina Starrett, was born near Warsaw, Ind., 1853, and spent his early life in Indiana, coming to Michigan at the age of 19. He leaves to mourn his death one daughter, Mrs. Lavina Hittle of Buchanan; two brothers, Martin of Buchanan and Robert of Chicago; one sister, Mrs. James Price of Niles; six grandchildren and seven great grandchildren, besides other relatives and a host of friends. He was a member of the Brethren church of Buchanan. Funeral services were held from the Swem funeral home with Charles Light of the Brethren church officiating. Pallbearers were Joe Rogers, Frank Kellar, Frank Ott, Jim Hanover, Martin Altermoff, Henry Altermoff. Burial was made in Oak Ridge cemetery.

Bridgman Trounces Maroons Here 23-10

(Chuck Wesner) Bridgman's Flying Dutchmen handed Buchanan her first defeat in five games and incidentally the worst of the season by a 23 to 10 count on the Bucks own floor.

The two squads played on fairly even terms with the brigs having a slight edge until the outset of the last period. Leiter was sent to the showers in the early part of the third stanza. The Maroons held the Bridgmanites to a lone tally in that quarter, however.

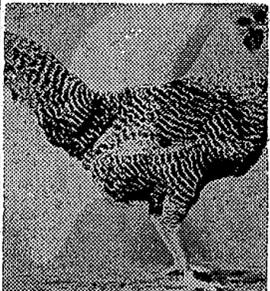

With the ejection of Virgil, Buchanan co-captain, in the opening minutes of the final period the Bucaneers seemed to fall into a rut from which they were unable to extract themselves. Pfliger led the Dutchies last period spurt with five markers.

The Maroon Bees made it a double loss for Buchanan when they were nosed out in a brisk overtime battle 35 to 31.

Old Man Supply and Demand Loads Markets with Cheap Eggs, Poultry

A Weekly Column of News on New Things in Food

It's funny how a hen will go into action the minute or anyway the day, the thermometer shoots up and will shell out eggs as long as the weather is warm but that is what happened in the past month, and consumers have benefited by quite a drop in the egg market—about 80% since the high time in December.

The farmers have not been so pleased, as poultry feed prices have been creeping gradually up and are now out of line with egg prices, but the old law of supply and demand which flourishes without benefit of legislature took charge. There was a glut of the market so they became cheap. A Benton Harbor produce firm which deals heavily in eggs bought up loads of 200 cases per truck, hauled them to Detroit, since the Chicago market was oversold.

As a consequence eggs have been quite cheap in Buchanan in comparison with meat, ranging for a time in the middle and upper twenties (cents) whereas a few weeks before they had been in the upper forties. Of course this would be normal a few weeks later, but this is usually the peak period. Yet there are people right here in Buchanan who were economizing on eggs last week because they had not heard about the drop in the market. The farmers were better informed, having eggs to sell. We would suggest that egg producers sort of regulated their thermometers and folded the hens a little.

Be that as it may, poultry prices are correspondingly down. "Chicken is the cheapest meat on the market now, everything considered," said one Buchanan market man, "you can do more with chicken than any other kind of meat and it's good anyway you fix it." As a result the family of moderate income who likes it can have an extra chicken once in a while with the idea of being economical instead of extravagant.

Recently a Buchanan woman bought a supply of canned peas and placed them on her shelves. One day her menu called for peas so she took a can down and opened it—but it wasn't peas. She looked at the label and it read "okra." Maybe so, but what to do with it. So she called her grocer who told her what to do with okra. It is a vegetable which is sometimes sold fresh on local markets and which is then sliced and served, usually with a cream sauce or other vegetable sauce. It is used more often in soups. A common name is "gumbo," well known in the south.

Seems funny—in the old days new potatoes were a reasonable luxury on the market in midsummer, about the time fresh peas were on. Now you can get them in the local stores in January. Probably they came by ocean voyage from Bermuda. There is nothing more marvellous than modern grocery service in magnitude of organization or in adaptability.

A Bakertown farmer, Bill Smith is selling a vegetable novelty in a Buchanan store—the Table Queen squash. It is a fifty little vegetable, about the size of a grape fruit, and served half as an individual helping.

"Meat prices aren't going up locally yet as you might expect," said a local market man, "just a little upturn in beef, but pork holding fairly steady yet. Meat prices were cheap all through last year. The drought and the shortage of feeds was forcing the live stock men to market their stock. In July and August the supply of cattle coming to market was the largest on record for those months; from July to October it was the largest since 1918. There was a similar forced liquidation of hogs. The proportion of sows sold on the market from June to October was the largest known to the meat industry. During October prices of good steer beef were about $2 cwt. lower than in October 1935; fresh pork was about $3.75 lower; cured pork $1.20 to $7.00 lower and dressed lamb about 90 cents lower.

Asks Whereabouts of Former Friend

The following letter was received by the Record from an ex-Buchananite asking regarding the whereabouts of a former friend, Louise Porter. Anyone knowing of the whereabouts of the person inquired about will please communicate with the Record:

Apartment 1015
January 15, 1937
Editor Weekly Paper,
Buchanan, Mich.
Dear Sir:

I am writing to you to see if you could help me locate an old school friend of mine in your city. My grandfather and grandmother, the late Mr. and Mrs. Abner Robinson, lived in Buchanan when I was a child and I used to visit them every summer. And how well I remember the picnics at Clear Lake near by.

I lived in Buchanan one year with my grandparents, 1908-09 and went to school there. I was in the sixth grade and there met the girl whose whereabouts I hope to learn. This girl was Louise Porter. She lived on the main street of town which, if my memory serves me right, was Front street. She had a brother named Kenneth, and I have the impression her father was in the insurance business.

Knowing Buchanan is not such a large place also that the editor of a paper usually knows every one in town, I am turning to you for the information, I ask.

My husband is also a newspaper man. He was born and brought up at Winamac, Indiana, where his father owned and edited the weekly paper. My husband is a New York newspaper man now, but at present is out in Chicago at the Herald & Examiner on a special assignment for the Hearst Organization.

I have often longed to visit Buchanan again. It was such a beautiful place with its trees that met over head on every street. My memory is very vivid about the band concerts every Wednesday night in summer and the bags of popcorn we kids consumed, purchased with nickles, earned by picking berries on Guyberson's farm right across from my grandmother's home.

I could go on and on but I won't bore you. I only know that the year I spent in Buchanan was the happiest and most care-free of my whole life.

If you can give me the information I ask I shall be very grateful. Sincerely yours,
MILDRED SEAVEY INGRAM
(Mrs. John C.)

Cameron to Be Scout Speaker

Noted Radio Star of Ford Hour To Feature Annual Council Dinner

The Berrien-Cass Council thru its Executive Oscar Noll announced this morning that plans have been completed for the Annual Council Dinner which is to be held March 2nd in the Sonner Hall of the Congregational Church of Benton Harbor, and the special feature for the big annual event will be speaker Mr. W. A. Cameron. Mr. Cameron who is one of the most popular speakers over radio, and who travels all over the country speaking to noted gatherings is very much interested in the program of Scouting and is making special arrangements to be here for this occasion.

On this occasion the National Council is going to honor three of the local Council men who have given outstanding service to boyhood in the Area. The men selected for this great honor will be announced at the banquet. It is also planned to honor men who have had five or more years of service in Scouting.

During the dinner there will be seven tableaux depicting Scouting from the day of the Indian up to the present time of International importance. These tableaux are to be handled by the different districts of the Council. Plans are also under way for the presentation of twelve displays by troops of the Area—some will be displays offered by entire town, others by individual troops. These displays will be judged and proper recognition given to the winners. It is also planned to have the National Display of the Supply Department of New York City on exhibition for two days. Music during the dinner will be furnished by Scouts. Sea Scouts and Eagle Scouts will act as guides, ushers and demonstrators.

The plan for handling tickets which has been so successful during the past two years will again be used this year, tables and seats to be numbered, each table accommodating ten persons. Groups may have their entire party at one table if they so desire and selection of tables on the official chart in the Area Executive office may be made until all have been taken. Only six hundred seats are available.

Frederick Howe Taken by Death

Descendant of Pioneer Family And Former Leader Dies After Long Illness

Frederick W. Howe, long a community leader in Bertrand township and Buchanan township, and a representative of a distinguished New England family which pioneered on Portage Prairie, died at his home on the South Bend road, Buchanan early Friday morning after a long illness.

He was the grandson of Frederick Howe, who came to Portage Prairie on horseback in 1831, and by covered wagon with his family in 1835, settling on the old Howe homestead now owned by Emory Rough. This ancestral Howe gave the ground for the Howe cemetery and for the site of the Howe schoolhouse, and his sons and grandsons including Frederick W. Howe, played leading parts in the development of the Prairie for almost a century.

Frederick W. Howe had been educated in business at Valparaiso University, but he returned to the ancestral farm and farmed there for many years, serving meanwhile as Bertrand township treasurer and in a number of other offices. He was married Nov. 21, 1888, to Jennie E. Harding, who survives him. Moving to Buchanan he worked at the Clark Equipment company as shipping clerk during the world war. He also served as secretary of the Farmer's Mutual Fire Insurance company several years. He served as Buchanan township supervisor for several terms.

After Mr. Howe had retired from all active life he spent his last years improving his beautiful home on the South Bend road. He was a lover of trees and of natural beauty generally. He was also much interested in the history of his family, which he traced back to the early days of New England and back to old England the first of the Howes to emigrate having been the founder of Marlborough, Mass. A great uncle was the Lyman Howe immortalized as "Landlord Howe," in Longfellow's "Tales of a Wayside Inn," which had as its setting the Red Horse Inn kept by several generations of the Howes at Sudbury, Mass. This is the same "Wayside Inn" which was bought and translated intact by Ford to Dearborn. Longfellow placed in the mouth of Landlord Howe one of the most famous poems in the language, "The Ride of Paul Revere."

His preliminary description of Landlord Howe, might well have been applied with some omissions, to Frederick W. Howe. It begun: "But first the landlord I will trace, Grave in his aspect and attire; A man of ancient pedigree, A justice of the peace was he Known in all Sudbury as 'The Squire.'"

Mr. Howe was survived by his widow; by two daughters, Mrs. A. D. Hardegreer and Mrs. C. O. Stuck of Fort Wayne, Ind.; by two sons, Charles F. Howe of Buchanan and Frederick H. Howe of Decatur, Ill.; by two sisters, Mrs. May Lister and Mrs. Lou Treat, both of Buchanan.

The funeral was held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday from the Child's Funeral Home, Rev. W. H. Brunelle officiating and interment was made in the Howe cemetery, Portage Prairie.

REVOLUTION IN THE SCHOOL ROOMS

Schoolrooms are often considered rather quiet and aloof places, well apart from the mainstream of affairs, but one day this week the writer noticed that the winds of the world sometimes rustle the papers there.

We dropped into a schoolroom while waiting to meet a school official. The teacher showed us some writing exercises posted on the blackboard. Most of them were in conformance with the Palmer method of penmanship, which will be remembered by at least one generation of adults.

"We're talking about getting rid of the system said the teacher," it doesn't seem to fit present day requirements. Why, two pupils entered the schools here from _____ and they could not write or hardly read Palmer penmanship. They had been taught to write in script, that is, with printed letters. It is slower but more legible than the old penmanship. I think it might be better for us. The old Palmer method emphasized muscular control and economy of effort necessary in a great amount of writing. But now the average person who has much writing uses a typewriter, and for what little "long hand" they do, legibility rather than speed or economy of effort is the main requisite. You can write by typewriter with a fraction of the effort required by any writing system you can devise. When you want speed, economy of effort and legibility all combined the typewriter is the answer. When you want to grab a few notes in long hand, the principal consideration is that you be able to read them when they are "cold." Script is the answer to that."

IF WE MUST HAVE SIGNS

Buchanan people who drive to Chicago by the highway which circles Michigan City and Gary on the south will remember the series of educational signs, which the passing motorist might read and inform his mind by while he is dodging traffic.

If he can snatch occasional glimpses with safety he may thus learn that lace making was an art known to the ancient Pleistocenes and that Colorado is the Centennial State, and put the education this acquired to, and he sees fit. Some times it may seem to him that quite a bit of work and material was jolly well thrown away in installing all of these signs, which impart the rudiments of history and the nicknames of the 48 states in large signs hung on steel poles. The reflective driver may wonder just how consistent this educational program is with traffic safety. If there must be signs, the Ohio idea of signs educating the driver on driving safety would be better. According to a program broadcast under the auspices of "News in Education" Washington, D. C., Ohio is installing educational sections on her highways, where the curves and other hazards are signed with notices of the proper speed with which to take them; the lanes for fast and slow driving are clearly indicated, and a succession of signs inform the driver what to do in the event of skidding on ice or a blowout or other emergency.

Introduce Bill

Creation of a Michigan highway Reciprocity Board as set-up in a bill introduced in the Legislature last week by Senator William Palmer of Flint, majority floor leader, will be an advanced step in improving one of Michigan's front-ranking industries, advocates of the measure maintain.

Similar laws in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois permit a free flow of traffic between these states and in order that Michigan's extensive trucking industry may successfully continue to function on an equal footing with those of nearby states, reciprocal agreements pertaining to interstate operation of commercial vehicles should be in the making, Senator Palmer and those supporting the measure advocate.

Palmer's bill would create a Reciprocity Board consisting of the Secretary of State, the State Highway Commissioner and the Chairman of the Michigan Public Utilities Commission. This board would be empowered to enter into reciprocal agreements with authorities of other states concerning the operation and regulation of trucks, automobiles, busses and all other automotive equipment traveling the public highways.

There are jobs to be filled and no qualified applicants registered in certain kinds of work at the office of the National Re-employment Service at 173 Michigan Street, Benton Harbor, Mich., according to Major Howard Starret, State Re-employment Director.

Applications are needed for the following kinds of workers; housekeepers, maids and waitresses who are able to live in the employer's home.

Anyone in this county with experience in these jobs and who is seeking employment should register at once at the local office, according to Geo. W. Cross, Manager. "The NRS does not do the actual hiring but refers persons, if they fulfill the employers' specifications, he said.

The National Re-employment Service is a part of the U. S. Department of Labor. It offers a free employment service to both the unemployed and to private employers. While the NRS also refers eligible persons to relief and public works projects, it is not a relief agency.

"No relief payments are made," Major Starret said. "Our object is to get jobs for people. We try to find jobs for the unemployed in their own communities but by registers with the NRS they may also get jobs throughout the State and in other States, if no qualified workers of their type are available in these other places."

Thousands of Michigan unemployed are registered in hundreds of work classifications in the NRS offices. Employees have a fine opportunity to select just the kind of workers they want, Major Starret said. The State office at 1702-5 Washington Boulevard Building, Detroit, supervises more than 50 district and branch offices and many itinerant service offices, he said.

Legend of the Augean Stables The legend of the Augean stables is that Augeus, Greek king of Elis, had a stable of 3,000 oxen which had not been cleaned for 30 years. Hercules was given the task of clearing the stables in one day with the promise of one-tenth of the cattle, if he succeeded. The god accepted the challenge and turned the River Alpheus through the stable, which immediately carried away the filth. On the refusal of Augeus to keep his word a war ensued. Hercules conquered and put Augeus to death.

Berrien Gets More Gas Tax Returns

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, vouchered $1,407,050 to the counties this week as their final payments from 1936 state highway revenues. The Berrien county total being $419,071.50, as compared with $389,501.79 in 1935. With the books closed on 1936 payments, the counties received a record total of $24,237,714 from weight and gasoline taxes last year. This was an increase of nearly $2,600,000 over the total of $21,639,274 returned to the counties in 1935. Final payments to the counties embraced $1,275,000 as the final half returns from gasoline tax receipts and $132,050 as the last quarter return from the weight tax. Twenty years ago the counties received less than a million dollars from state highway revenues, Commissioner Van Wagoner said. The returns have gradually increased until the counties now receive the entire amount of the weight tax and $6,550,000 from gasoline tax receipts. At the same time local property taxes for highway purposes have declined from a high of nearly $24,500,000 in 1929 to less than $1,320,000 in 1934. Wayne County's share of 1936 returns from state highway revenues amounted to more than $7,135,000. Other counties receiving half a million dollars or upward were: Kent, $960,180; Oakland, 907,276; Genesee, $849,193; Ingham, $562,315; and Saginaw, $526,680.

J. L. McOmber Re-elected Secretary-Treasurer of Active Sport Organization

Meeting Wednesday evening at the Benton Harbor Elk's temple, Berrien County Sportsmen club members elected John Monger, president for the coming year. J. L. McOmber was re-elected secretary-treasurer; Lester Farnum, St. Joseph, Robert Franklin, Jr., Buchanan, and E. A. Bower, Benton Harbor, were elected vice-presidents.

Membership in this progressive club is increasing rapidly and will soon pass the 1000 mark, according to Mr. Bowers. During its three years, the club has carried on a program of close co-operation with the state department of conservation.

Wednesday night's speaker was J. I. Rogers, of the parks division of the Department of Conservation. He discussed the necessary steps toward getting a state park in this section of the state. Sound pictures "The Wonderland of Chemistry" completed the program.

A four-point program for improvement of Berrien county's natural resources has been worked out between officials of the National Youth Administration and the Berrien County Sportsmen's club.

The first project calls for construction of a fish rearing pond in Berrien county, at a location yet to be determined.

Sections of the Galien river and the St. Joseph river are to be cleaned out to permit seining of carp, according to plans for the second project.

Snagging of the county's trout streams, to permit better trout fishing, and feeding of birds in bad weather, are the other two projects.

Labor for the projects is to be provided by the federal government, through the National Youth Administration, which is to give work to unemployed and unmarried boys between 18 and 25 years old.

Conservation Officer F. Warner Lester Farnum and F. G. Marshall were appointed on a committee to investigate costs for the proposed projects.

Ted Rouse and Robert Franklin will be in charge of an auxiliary meeting at Buchanan, Thursday, January 28.

World's First Street Car
The world's first street car, drawn by a team of horses, passed along the streets of New York city in 1823. About thirty years later the first street railway in Europe was built at Birkenhead, England, by American engineers. These first street cars were simply coaches pulled by horses over a flat rail. The improvement over wagons or coaches pulled over rough and sometimes almost impassable streets was immediately apparent. On these rails the coaches could travel much faster and with much heavier loads.

Tickets Out For Annual President's Ball

Popular Hotel Whitcomb Orchestra Secured to Play for Outstanding January Social Function.

The committee planning the fourth Birthday Ball for the President, to be held in the St. Joseph High School gymnasium Saturday evening, January 30, announced that the Whitcomb Hotel Orchestra will furnish the music for this annual social event. The orchestra will be augmented by several additional musicians.

As has been the case in the past three years, the President's Ball serves the purpose of creating funds throughout the entire United States to further the work for aid to victims of infantile paralysis and to support research efforts to wipe out the disease itself. The President, who suffered an attack of the disease some years ago, has been greatly interested in furthering this humanitarian work through the Warm Springs Foundation, which he heads. He has lent his 55th birthday as the day on which the balls will be held in 10,000 cities and towns throughout the country.

More than $1,000,000 has been raised for national and local districts, Rockefeller Institute.

70% of the net proceeds at the disposal of county agencies and 30% is sent to the Foundation.

From the 30% of the proceeds presented to the President, and turned over by him to the trustees of the Warm Springs Foundation, grants are made each year to those institutions throughout the country which are specializing in research efforts to bring infantile paralysis under control. These projects are being conducted in accordance with recommendations of an outstanding medical advisory committee, headed by Dr. George McCoy, director of the National Institute of the United States Public Health Service; Dr. Max Peet, University of Michigan; Dr. Donald R. Armstrong, vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and Dr. Thomas President Roosevelt says: "My own views are that the national fight against infantile paralysis cannot cease. It must go on. The recommendations of the trustees of the Warm Springs Foundation to that effect have my complete and hearty approval, and I am sure that the Birthday celebrations in 1937 can be of even increased value in the nation-wide fight against infantile paralysis which is being conducted."

Last week while listening to a radio program, I heard Bob Elson interview a young blind woman, a Miss Brewer by name. This young woman, blind for six years, was skillfully guided through the traffic at one of the world's busiest corners by a large German shepherd dog about two years old. This dog, one of two hundred educated dogs who are guiding blind people in various parts of the United States, was trained at the Seeing Eye, Morristown, New Jersey.

Miss Brewer said that it would be much easier for all blind persons who use these dogs on the street if the public knew more about them. One of her chief difficulties has been when well-meaning persons attempt to help her and her dog through traffic. When this happens the dog is confused because he thinks he has two persons to pilot across the street instead of one.

The Seeing Eye organization is located at Morristown, New Jersey, through which the in-coming and out-going traffic of New York City passes. This accounts for the fact that these dogs are adequately trained for the heaviest traffic.

A blind person, if left to himself, all too often becomes timid, fearful, and lonely. With one of these dogs, he loses his fears, escapes from loneliness and may even become self-supporting.

It takes three months to train a dog for guiding and about a month to fit the blind person to use the dog. It is estimated that there are about ten thousand blind persons who could be helped by having dog guides and there are at this time about a thousand who are waiting for a dog so the demand far exceeds the supply.

Many people have given generous support to this worthy organization, but more money is needed. You can take part in this splendid work by sending your contribution to The Seeing Eye, Morristown, New Jersey.

WHO'S IT AFTER SCHOOL

Tom Yurkovic—Tom is a senior at Buchanan High School this year, and a good one, too. Some of the students that don't know Tom might get the idea that he is bashful, but just because he is not a lime-light seeker around school doesn't slow Tom up after school hours. Yes, he can be seen most any Saturday night at the Dayton dance hall. Something or someone special must appeal to him down at Dayton, the firey little town.

Sidney Deming—Better known as "Sid," or "Eclipse" to his notorious gang of fellows. Remember that night in Niles, when "Eclipse" participated in the tomatoing up of that fair city. Wow! he almost did his job too complete. Just about everyone has heard some of his alleged jokes, and has listened to him give his formula on making nitro-glycerine in the lab. All in all "Sid" would make a good playboy for the movies, but we believe that after a while he would, himself, tire of his dippy jokes.

Phil Pierce—Phil is one of those rip snorting sophomores here at Buchanan High School. He seldom fails to miss the dance at the Avalon on Friday and, he says his favorite subject is dancing with his steady girl friend from Mishawaka. His after school hours are occupied by playing basketball, collecting pictures, and dating Miss Mishawaka.

THE IDEAL

The ideal boy of Buchanan High's senior class would be one with these characteristics: the personality of Arthur Trapp; the undulating hair of Joe Bachman; the athletic ability of Donald Virgil; the musical talent of Victor Vignansky; the captivating smile of Dale Boyce; Edward Smith's ability to make grades; and Clyde Shaffer's skill in avoiding work.

OFFICE NEWS

Mr. Stark attended the meeting of the Regional Chairman in the Michigan Education Building at Lansing, Michigan, Friday, Jan. 18.

A superintendents and principals' meeting was held at Benton Harbor in the Vincent Hotel, Jan. 18. Mr. Stark and Mr. Moore attended.

I HATE TO TELL IT BUT—

The other day as I was walking down the corridor with a song in my heart and "narry" a worry on my brain, I saw our math teacher, Mr. Hyink, cast a furtive glance along the hall.

Realizing that something was about to happen, I ducked behind a door and waited patiently for it. Mr. Hyink, seeing no one about, stealthily opened the door to his class room and just as securely closed it after him. Carefully I edged my way down the hall. All sorts of things filled my mind; perhaps someone was going to get a lecture or a well-deserved paddling. Might even be signing our report cards. Anything might happen with Mr. Hyink acting so strangely. Cautiously I crept to the door and peered in. Please believe me and don't laugh for there stood Mr. Hyink combing his hair. I can hear you asking now, "why would a man of his importance hide just to comb his hair? It seems someone has tried to imitate Mr. Hyink and he just doesn't like being imitated. Therefore he doesn't comb his hair in public any more.

A rumor is even circulating that he doesn't even carry a comb because of the temptation.

CLUBS

The Latin Club, Legio Decima, was in charge of Martha Trapp Monday, Jan. 11. She read a paper on hair styles of Roman men and women. She was assisted by Connie Kelley in the presentation of puzzles, which were answered by Latin words.

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF—

Eunice Shafter didn't have an escort at the Buchanan basketball games?

We had another high school party?

Joe Bachman and Rose Bachman were brother and sister?

The senior boys lost their voices?

Bill Kuntz forgot how to apologize?

Everybody would study in home room?

Keith Dalrymple got caught in a trap?

Beverly Koons lost her voice?

G. A. A. ATHLETES

A well known junior with dark brown hair and blue eyes is Betty Penwell. She is an active member of the G. A. A., having joined in her sophomore year after receiving her 500 points award. In the winter Betty enjoys ice skating, and in the summer, hiking, swimming, and bicycling occupy her spare time. "Movies are a good place for enjoyment," Betty says. She also reads a great deal and her favorite writer is Gene Stratton Porter.

Another junior, who also joined G. A. A. in her sophomore year is Margaret Haas. Although she doesn't have much time for outside activities, because she works in her father's store, she likes hiking and goes on all the G. A. A. hikes. Sliding is a favorite pastime in the winter and she loves to swim in the summer. A good movie is appreciated very much by Margaret at any time.

JUNIOR PLAY

Tryouts for the junior play were held Friday, Jan. 15 and characters selected. The play will be a three act comedy by Beulah King, entitled CHINTZ COTTAGE. The plot, which bristles with exciting events, is a story of what happens at Minty's place. Minty, a charmingly attractive girl of twenty, is bored with society. The play is interesting and Minty tops the group. This play has proved immensely popular in other communities and is sure to be a hit here.

VELMARIAN LITERARY PLAYS

The Velmarian Literary Society plays to be given Jan. 29, in the high school auditorium, were written by students of the senior English class and are progressing rapidly under the direction of Mrs. Dunbar, English teacher.

The combination of Victor Vignansky and Bob Squire, appearing in two different plays are very comical. In one play they act as the assistants in a morgue making the play a picnic for everyone. In the other play they act as two crazy professors.

In another play Marion Miller, Phyllis De Nardo, and Jeanette Levin do a good job. The plot being of the mother, Marion Miller, trying to get her oldest daughter Phyllis De Nardo, married off to a rich young man.

THE MIDNIGHT RIDE OF "TORCHY" BOYCE

Listen, my children, and you shall hear
 Of the midnight ride of "Torchy" Boyce,
 Boyce,
 On the tenth of January, in thirty-seven;
 Hardly the girls are now alive
 Who cannot remember that famous night.

He said to his friends, if "Kissy" comes round,
 By train or by car from Buchanan tonight,
 Hang a lantern aloft in the viaduct arch,
 Of the Niles bridge tower as a signal light;—
 One, if by train, and two if by car;
 And I on the opposite road will be,
 Ready to ride and spread the alarm
 Through all of Bucktown and Niles farms.

Then he said, "Good night!" and with muffled hoarse,
 Silently drive to the Bucktown shore,
 Just as the moon rose over the hill,
 Where swinging wide at her mooring lay,
 A phantom figure, with each mast and spar
 Across her face like a prison bar,
 And a huge black hulk, that was "Kissy" Jerue,
 Waiting for "Torchy" by the side of the road.

All is well!
 Adopted from "Paul Revere's Ride" by Longfellow.

GRADE NEWS

Miss Carnagan's first grade is keeping a weather calendar for the month of January as part of the winter nature study project. Each day the calendar is colored to correspond with the weather. If the day is sunny, the calendar is colored yellow; if cloudy, it is colored gray; and if stormy, it is colored black. Observance is also made of the effects of the sun as to the length of days and the temperature.

Other observations which have been made in connection with the project were signs of the approach of winter, such as: birds flying south, leaves falling, flowers sleeping, toads and bears hibernating, squirrels storing food, and domestic animals growing thicker fur as protection against the cold.

The second grade arithmetic class was given the Dearborn test by Mrs. Walton, Billy Lou Lamb, Philip Hawks, and Barre Heim scored 100.

The third grade children have made an attractive village on the sand table. The village covers a square with houses, churches, and stores, made from cardboard or boxes, facing the busy streets. The streets have been named: Chicago st., Front st., Main st., and Sylvan Ave. This has taught them how to cross the streets and how to drive small cars, trucks, and motorcycles correctly.

The fourth grade at the high school building is completing a very interesting unit of work in geography which covers three types of life: hot-wet lands, cold lands, and hot-dry lands. This study was correlated with the art work. Before beginning this project, the art lessons developed figure drawing, simple dwellings, the study of tropical animals and trees, choice of color, and arrangement.

As an illustration of hot-wet lands, an extensive study was made of the Congo. Some time ago the large mural showing village life in the jungle was completed. After sketching in the objects with pencil on heavy wrapping paper, the scene was completed with poster paints. Maxine Young, Robert Stevenson, Bobby Mitchell, Doris Shreve, Junior Conard, Charles Kelley, Hilmer Coultas, Barbara Ericson, and J. B. Anderson did out standing work on this poster.

The second mural illustrates activities on Buffen Island, an example of cold lands. Both murals hang on the back wall of Mrs. Fuller's grade room. Both are the same size. Here again the art work developed the various phrases needed to produce the scene. Outstanding word on the Eskimo project was done by Marilyn Mull, Laverne Toll, Donnavee Burrus, Jean McGowan, Robert Topak, Robert Stevenson, James Zupke, Elton Rossow, Carl Newson, Bobby Heiermann and Margaret Ann Smith.

To illustrate the third and last type of life studied this semester the reading table was converted into a small oasis on the Arabian Desert, thus depicting hot-dry lands. Common clay was used as a base for hills and plains. The tall paper palms were planted in this and later the clay sprinkled with red sand. Animals and people were made of clay. Cloth was used to dress the people and make the tents. Pupils doing splendid work on this project were: Wilda Mae Lee, Marie Schiffman, Hadley Borders, Charles Kelley, Bobby Mitchell, Alberta Herman, Mary Lou Orpurt, and Roland Ingleight. Every child did something on each project and no doubt this unit of work will win a definite place in the memory of each pupil.

The study of petroleum is a unit of work that has recently been in progress in Miss Ekstrom's grade room. Each child was asked to search for available materials on the subject. As a result the following were turned in: reference books and other articles on oil and gas, advertising, a product map of oil fields showing pipe lines, and samples of petroleum products. In addition to various schoolroom discussions and activities a trip was made to an oil station.

The fifth and sixth grades are receiving letters from a man who is traveling through the French possessions of Africa. These letters describe the climate and scenery as well as the animals, people, and their manners and customs.

George Roberts and James Fargas made a large map of Africa on heavy brown paper and painted Africa white. On this map are put the names of the countries and the cities from which the letters are mailed as each is received. Near each city is put what might be an appropriate post card, drawn by the children. Paper dolls are also dressed in crepe paper according to styles of the locality and are pasted on the map. Above the map is a collection of suitable souvenirs.

DEWEY AVENUE NEWS

After our project study of cereals the first grade had a chance to send to the Ralston Co. for "Find the Bottom" bowls. Duane Weaver, Donald Clemens, Clifford Good, Dorothy Liska, Billy Maggard and Edna Brant, have received these nice bowls.

The third grade had a very interesting specimen display with talks about them.

Jacqueline Hanson, Dione Ditmar and Jack Russell have been in the south this year. Lucy Kent came from the Panama Canal Zone. Each one told about some thing they had seen while away. Jacqueline brought three cacti plants and a cotton plant. Jack brought several sprays of cotton, a great lime and a branch of Kom-gots.

Gene Spatta brought some beautiful white coral, and a sea weed. Donald Holmes brought some sea kelp.

THERE WAS A HILL-BILLY WEDDING IN JUNE

(By Jean Synold)

Gloria gave her sister an exasperated look, picking up some of her bags, followed her aunt upstairs. Lucy followed, thinking mostly of red hair.

The girls changed into slacks and polo shirts. Gloria looked charming. Lucy wasn't as pretty as her sister but she looked bright in her outfit.

Gloria and Lucy helped prepare supper, but Gloria went into her room while Lucy helped her aunt serve the men. She looked at the shock of curly red hair and then at the blue eyes and found they were looking at her, too.

After supper the men went out doors and the girls and Mrs. Larson did the dishes. Gloria and Lucy decided to go for a walk. They wandered down by the river and were walking along the bank when they heard footsteps. Gloria ducked behind a tree, but Lucy stood looking at the river. Through a clearing came Tex and Cork. Gloria saw who it was and came out of her hiding place. The boys had a guitar with them so it looked like they were going to stay. Tex looked at Gloria while Cork and Lucy were seeing who could roll her eyes the best.

"We thought you might be lone-some tonight, so decided to cheer you up a little," said Tex.

"Oh yes, me an' Tex, we know some of them new songs they sing in the East. Tex here knows a swell one. It's 'I'm an old Cow-hand'."

"Oh boy!" shouted Lucy. She sat down on the river bank with Cork beside her.

Gloria decided she might enjoy herself and sat down beside Lucy. Tex was strumming on his guitar. Cork was whistling, then stopped as Tex sat on the other side of Gloria.

He sang, and Gloria decided that he did have a nice voice.

"You know I alluz kinda liked that tune. 'There'll be a Hill-Billy Weddin' in June," cause that was my ma's weddin' song," said Cork.

Tex knew Cork wanted to sing that, so he handed him the guitar and Cork sang.

"Say, that's swell," whispered Lucy. Then Cork put down the guitar and they sat and watched the river.

Later they walked back to the house quietly. When the girls went in Cork squeezed Lucy's arm cause he guessed that was right. Tex gave Gloria a look that made her heart turn over.

A month later found the two boys constant companions of the girls in their leisure time. By this time Gloria had forgotten her social plans and was looking ahead to the ranch where she would be mistress and Tex's name would be on the mail box.

One night Cork and Lucy were

To Hold Citizen's School Conference

A citizen's conference on education to study proposed changes in the public school system of the state will be held in Lansing, Feb. 2, Eugene B. Elliott, Superintendent of Public Instruction announced today.

Representatives from all walks of life have been invited to attend the conference which has been called at the suggestion of citizens throughout the state's education set-up. Invitations have been sent out to more than 1,000 persons, including civic leaders, educators, social-service workers, labor representatives and others. Every county in the state is expected to have representatives at the gathering which will be held at the Hotel Olds. Professional educators will participate, but will be in the background, Doctor Elliott declared.

Changes Elliott is advocating include better salaries for teachers through the use of state-aid funds; more substantial retirement annuities for aged teachers; direct state aid for construction of school buildings; improvement of county educational programs; more faithful observance of state laws that relate to the proper use of school funds in various districts.

The Bank of Three Oaks, Three Oaks.
The board approved a resolution of the roads and bridges committee, recommending that not more than $25 be authorized to County Surveyor Alton W. Howard for making sketches of a proposed re-routing of US-31 highway through the village of Berrien Springs.

Supervisor Walter Eldson, Oronoko township, had asked the survey, which would show a route through the village and over the present abandoned interurban bridge. Citizens of the village feel that when the highway is re-routed, as contemplated by the state highway department, that it should run through Berrien Springs, which is not served by a railroad, Mr. Eldson explained. The roads and bridges committee also introduced a resolution, which was carried, asking that the state legislature appropriate more money to the counties for the maintenance of McNitt roads.

Under the McNitt act Berrien county has taken over 700 miles of township roads, and on April 1, 1937, will take over 150 miles more, according to Supervisor Clarence Bartz, chairman of the committee. Last year the county received $42,000, or $65 per mile, for McNitt road maintenance, but the cost was $214 per mile, Mr. Bartz said. The resolution to the legislature, which conforms to that offered by supervisors of other counties, asks that the state's McNitt act appropriations be doubled.

Mr. Bartz also asked the cooperation of supervisors in handling the highway situation in coming months, when freezes and thaws weaken the pavements, which are easily injured by heavy duty trucks. He asked that supervisors report to the sheriff's office any violation of the overloading specifications for commercial haulers.

Supervisor F. W. Emerson of the committee on health, welfare and mothers pensions reported on a message from officials at Pine Crest sanitarium near Kalamazoo. The hospital authorities have proposed that when county patients reach a point in their recovery where they may be released from the sanitarium, that they be sent home. Such patients who need to return at intervals for pneumo-thorax treatment may do so, providing their own transportation. This will reduce the county's bill for tubercular care, Dr. Emerson said.

The county clerk was instructed to pay $15, the county's fee for membership in the Michigan State Association of Supervisors. Chairman John Warman was authorized to appoint a committee of five supervisors which will include himself, to attend the state convention of the organization at Lansing on January 20, 27 and

Summary of Bd. of Supervisors Current Session

County Official Bonds, Roads, Welfare, Etc., Considered by Solons This Week.

Bonds of new county officials were approved, depositories for county tax money were selected and a large number of shorter matters were handled by the Berrien county board of supervisors Monday, in one of the busiest days the board has had during recent sessions. It was the opening day of the January session, which probably will run through most of this week.

Ten bonds of elective officials and one bond for an appointive official were accepted. The bonds of two appointive workers, Dorothy McGee and Veronica Mason, who are deputies in the county treasurer's office, were deferred for future study.

The action on the bonds of the deputies came when Supervisor A. W. Bakke, Coloma, objected that the approval of the bonds would make the county responsible for paying the bonding fee.

Bonds approved were: Edward LaViolette, county treasurer, $250,000. Aetna, Casualty & Surety company; Hartford, Conn.

Alton W. Howard, county surveyor; $2,000. Fidelity & Deposit company of Maryland.

Ed Freeman, drain commissioner; $5,000. Fidelity & Deposit company.

Oscar Damon, register of deeds, $3,000. Fidelity & Deposit company.

Bernard J. Reiser, coroner, $2,000. Fidelity & Deposit company.

Louis W. Kerlikowski, coroner, $2,000. Fidelity & Casualty company of New York.

Attorney Carl Schultz, circuit court commissioner, $3,000. Fidelity & Deposit company.

Charles L. Miller, sheriff; $10,000. Seaboard Surety company.
