Crack Kalamazoo Team to Meet Reamers Here Tues. For Flood Relief

Show 1936 Prize Film Feb. 24-25

Now Here's the Proposition

Uncle Hank of Hills Corners Sez:

Perhaps the most lastin' weddins is when a yes man marries a no woman. There's been sum sille earthquake tremors in California and Florida lately and they say the reason why is, out in California Albert Housewerth and Frank Kann hev been shiverin' in the big freeze, and down in Florida Clint Hathaway, Pete Fuller, John Portz, Emory Rough and Mr. Vite hev been laughin' about it.

My Choice in News

Perhaps the way that sum folks choose I've got a funny taste in news. I don't much like the news that breaks And leaves behind it in its wake The broken heart, the tortured mind The eyes with streaming tear-drops blind. I'd ruther hear Glenn Kinney say There's heaps of peaches down his way, Or hear what Wagner Grange has done Or that there is a record run 'Uv maple sap at Emory Rough's, Or that Red Schwartz's belted cows Hev broke all records giving milk, Or that big eggs with double yolks was laid by hens out Fred Hall's way That's smaller than the eggs they lay, Or that in May the dogwoods blow, Mt. Tabor way, in blossom snow. Ruther than hear uv wreck and flood And strife that leaves its trail uv blood And broken life, I'd ruther hear 'Uv weddings lasting fifty year, 'Uv spuds that Koenigshof has growed, That jist take three to make a load; I like to hear Ed Mitchell tell 'Uv fish that some how seem to swell The more he talks, So now you know My taste in news is rather slow, But if it don't mess up your mind At least it leaves a smile behind. One smile is worth a sea uv tears One hope is worth a thousand fears.

Share-The-Wealth Plan That Works Is Now in Effect in Buchanan

Winter Fresh Fruits, Vegetables Fraction of Prices a Few Years Ago

You've heard a lot about share-the-wealth plans—here's an example of a share-the-wealth plan that works. Less than ten years ago the U. S. Department of Agriculture was experimenting with freezing or chilling processes for preserving fruits. They found that freezing improved the taste of certain fruits, especially pineapple. But they found that it deteriorated the flavor of tomatoes. Remember this was freezing—not the chilling process, whereby fruits are placed in 45-degree temperatures to arrest ripening. At that time fresh tomatoes were selling at from 50 to 75 cents on the winter markets. What do they cost now in Buchanan? Shop around and see. Only a fraction of that price. The same way with vegetables. They have been available for years from hothouse sources, but until lately too high for popular consumption. But right now you can buy fresh vegetables in Buchanan from Florida or Texas or California at prices which would have been at one time considered very cheap in the summer. There's two ways to increase a man's wealth: 1. Give him another dollar; 2. Make the dollar he has buy more. In the line of fresh vegetables and fruits in winter, not very many years ago strictly luxuries, the buying power of the dollar has increased in a spectacular manner. Mistaken Ideas About Frozen Fish There is probably a lot of housewives in Buchanan who need to forget old prejudices against "cold storage" products and give a fair test to the wonderful bargains in frozen ocean fish that are offered on the Buchanan markets during Lent. We will venture to say that there is more opportunity in buying various kinds of seafood in Buchanan right now than there ever was in the history of the town. The public are only beginning to grasp what is being offered to them in these various ocean fish fillets. "It is now possible," says John Ruel Manning, who has studied the subject for the Bureau of Fisheries, "to freeze strictly fresh fish, store these fish for a year or more, and at the end of that time place them in the consumer's hands, so that when they appear on his table he cannot detect any difference in flavor or desirability between the frozen product and fresh fish right out of the water." Paper-Wrapped Fruits, Vegetables Buchanan stores have been selling recently Idaho baking potatoes wrapped in tissue paper, and Washington apples that come wrapped in a special waxed paper. Both products are handsome to look at. The potatoes are oval (Continued on Page 4)

Melvin Maxson Hurt In Auto Crash

Melvin Maxson, 17, incurred a fracture of the left arm when the St. Joseph Valley creamery milk truck in which he was riding with Doyle Burgoyne collided with a parked car belonging to John Barker opposite the residence of the latter a quarter of a mile south of Buchanan at 6:30 a. m. yesterday. Burgoyne was driving back from morning deliveries on the South Bend road when he came suddenly on the car parked there without lights. Swerving to avoid a crash, he ticked the rear end of Barker's car and lost control, going directly across the pavement and colliding with a tree on the west side of the road. The front axle of the truck was broken and the engine badly damaged and driven back. Harvey French picked up the two men and took them to a physician. The Maxson boy was taken to the Pawating hospital for treatment.

Increases Orders Local Plant; Local Tool Rooms Combined

Los Angeles, Calif., is the latest city to place an order for the modern street car, of which the Clark Equipment company makes the under carriages. This is the second city of the Pacific coast to place an order for the new cars, San Diego having some of the cars in operation. Pittsburg, Pa., now has a considerable number in operation and a leading paper of that city recently devoted nearly two pages to an illustrated article on the new cars. The tool rooms of the axle and housing departments have been consolidated in the new building and it is planned to gradually combine there the tool rooms of other departments. This will stabilize the employment of the tool departments and also will eliminate unnecessary duplication of machines.

"Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," Starring Gary Cooper, to Be Attraction

Wednesday and Thursday nights, Feb. 24 and 25, will be milk fund benefit nights at the Hollywood theatre and the P. T. A. is issuing a cordial invitation to the public at that time to join them and go to town with Mr. Deeds. Or, anyway, Mr. Deeds is going to town at the Hollywood on those nights for the benefit of the P. T. A. in the outstanding comedy of the past year, "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town". This film is based on a story by Clarence Budington Kelland and stars Gary Cooper in the lead role of Longfellow Deeds. This story gets under way with the arrival in New York City of Longfellow Deeds, a young man from Mandrake Falls to whom an eccentric uncle has willed $20,000,000. His arrival is the signal for every newspaper reporter in the town to get on his trail. But Mr. Deeds, though a tenderfoot in the city, manages to outwit the reporters until a sob sister, Babe Bennett, is assigned to corner the millionaire huck. Reporters are not the only ones who are trying to corner Mr. Deeds. His late uncle's attorney is trying to bilk him out of a huge sum; a woman who claims to have been the dead man's common-law wife wants to sue for her share of the fortune; a cousin who feels he has been discriminated against wants to sue; an opera company to which this uncle had been an "angel" wants to shake Mr. Deeds down. Although a small town boy Mr. Deeds has a lot of sense and he turns down the opera company and tells the alleged common law wife to prove her statement. He gets around everyone, until while he is out walking a handsome young woman, apparently overcome by hunger and fatigue, faints at his feet. She tells Mr. Deeds, after he has brought her to, that she is a stenographer, Mary Dawson, out of work. He takes her to dinner that night, falls for her, and makes frequent dates with her. Meanwhile the newspapers are full of screaming headlines, but it takes Mr. Deeds some time to understand that Babe is writing the stories. When he finds out finally that she is writing the stories he is heart-broken. Meanwhile he is besieged by a horde of starving men who accuse him of squandering millions while they need bread. He decides that he will give away the money which is causing him unhappiness. He promises each of them a small sustaining sum. His uncle's attorney sees his chance and brings action to have him adjudged insane. Mr. Deeds makes no attempt to prove his sanity until Babe Bennett comes to his rescue, when together they convince the court that if he is crazy everyone else is too. The picture has a romantic ending with a happy understanding between Mr. Deeds and Babe Bennett, who is Jean Arthur.

MORE ABOUT THE LIBRARY

To the Record comes a letter from a good country friend (and some of the smartest people around here live in the country) relative to our recent editorial in support of a free civic reading room and reference library.

The editorial struck a responsive chord, for this farm woman had been thinking about ways of increasing library facilities in the country. She enclosed a letter from Mrs. Clyde Beebe of Benton Harbor, relating a plan sponsored by Mrs. Eastman and a number of interested women of that city to promote free rural libraries. The idea is to have a library truck which will carry the books from school to school from a central distributing agency. This plan is already in effect in a number of counties. A small collection has been made, and to date Mrs. Eastman has distributed them in a small radius in her own car at her own expense. The plan is for the special benefit of farm communities.

When the Miller school was founded in the woods north of "McCoy's Creek" back in 1839, at the first organization meeting an appropriation was made for a library. A hand-made case was installed in the little log schoolhouse, and there was Buchanan's first library, to the best of our knowledge. However, there is extant a record book listing the books of a considerable library in Bertrand township back in the 1840ies, only a few years after the settlement of the township.

It seems that the rude forefathers of the townships valued culture and out of their little gave to support public libraries.

It is not the fault of the city government that Buchanan has no up-to-date library and it would not be practicable for them to try to catch up the deficiency at this date. Needs seem to multiply these days; there is a sewer disposal plant in the offering; there are streets that need paving if the town is to keep pace with other towns; the entire sewer needs of the city have not been covered and above all these items the city still has a considerable bonded debt. But this writer believes that by cooperation of public and private agencies a few elementary needs in the way of reference and first class current periodicals could be provided without difficulty. And we believe that if it were apparent to the city government that there was a real need and would be a real appreciation if the facilities were forthcoming they would not be hostile to any reasonable proposal.

A NEW FORM OF MAGAZINE RACKET

During the carnival which operated here last fall under the title, "Buchanan Fall Festival," a concession was granted to a wild life exhibit which claimed to be under the official auspices of the state department of conservation.

It was set up in a long tent in front of the bank, with a ragged opossum and several scrawny wild birds in cages at the entrance. Most prominent at the entrance, however, were aggressive salesmen who were selling subscriptions to a sportsman's magazine. It occurred to a number of people that it was rather odd that the state would thus connect itself with any magazine, to say nothing of hooking up with a carnival company. It also seemed rather strange that a magazine of high repute, such as the salesmen claimed to represent, should choose to be represented in that manner.

It now appears, according to a letter from the state conservation department, that the whole affair was a hoax. A large number of sportsmen who purchased subscriptions and paid their money wrote indignantly to the conservation department wanting to know why they did not get their magazines. Publishers of two magazines represented by salesmen have requested persons buying such subscriptions to write directly to them giving the name of the salesman.

The department of conservation stated that it has not given its endorsement to any magazine. Subscriptions to its own publications are not solicited by agents.

WHY SHOULD NOT THE STATE TAKE

OVER THE REDBUD TRAIL?

It seems to this observer that it would be fitting and proper at this time and in the future to expend a little energy on the subject of inducing the state to take over the Redbud Trail from its junction with US-31 to the Indiana State line.

The purpose, of course, would be the paving by the state of the 4.5 miles from Buchanan to the Ononoko line, and the widening of the pavement from M-60 to the Indiana State line. Former county engineer John Bateman suggested this possibility soon after the construction of the gravel road north of Buchanan. It was stated then that there would be no permanent surfacing of any kind for at least three years, in order to assure settling of the grade along Moccasin bluff.

The state highway department has been checking traffic for months past on all roads, including the Redbud Trail. It is reported that they found the travel to be double that on Cleveland Avenue south of St. Joseph through Galien. The purpose of this check is to determine where the public will be benefited most by improvements. Of course the Trail does not carry a fraction of the traffic of US-12 or US-31. But the traffic is undoubtedly but a fraction of what it might be if the entire extent of the road were properly surfaced.

Last summer many motorists who had been using the Redbud Trail north from Buchanan quit because the heavy dust in dry weather was a traffic hazard. Many Indiana Sunday motorists—and in this case many might mean scores or it might mean thousands—quit driving the trail for its scenic beauty because the dust was so heavy that the said beauties were obscured from sight.

Likewise many Buchanans drive to South Bend by way of Niles. Some do it because they wish to stop in Niles, but more do it because of the narrow road across Portage Prairie, which reduces their speed and makes it necessary to drive out on a ragged shoulder when passing traffic. If the pavement were widened and a few of the corners rounded, the traffic over this road would increase greatly. If the gravel link on the Redbud trail north of Buchanan were paved, making this a paved road of satisfactory width from South Bend to the junction with US-31 it is only fair to believe that much traffic between Indiana and the Twin City which now goes by US-31 would be routed by the Trail. It was first contended that the trail would be a cutoff, reducing the distance between South Bend and St. Joseph. A check by local business men knocked out that argument.

But it is still in order to contend that the Trail road would be far more beautiful; that the traffic hazards would be reduced; that the obstruction, represented by Roselands, Niles and Berrien Springs would be eliminated, and that Portage Street through Buchanan is not a traffic hazard of serious dimensions. The stretch of road on US-31 between Niles and South Bend is one of the most deadly on the face of its death record in the middle west. It is reported that during 1936 over a dozen people were killed in its nine miles. There has been much ill feeling and many arrests in the attempt to enforce speed regulations through Roselands. If the Portage Prairie road were widened and about three curves rounded, much of the traffic which goes from here to South Bend over US-31 would go that way in preference, as it is actually shorter.

Incidentally it might be wise to install a traffic light at the junction of Portage Road and M-60. There is electricity there now, and even now the traffic is heavier over Portage Road than over M-60 or, as it is now officially known, US-112.

Most informed Michiganders now believe that Mr. Murray Van Waggoner is an honest and efficient administrator of the public highways and that he intends to spend the highway money to the best interest of the greatest number. The writer approached two traffic checkers at the junction of Portage Road and M-60 a few months ago. "What use do you make of these figures when you get them?" he asked.

"This check is for the purpose of finding out the logical place to improve highways," was the answer. "It used to be that the state spent the money where they put up the biggest holler or had the most drag. Now the money is spent where the most people travel."

But this method of determining whether the traffic over this road justifies improvement is not entirely fair.

Leo Anderson New Agent For Willys Cars

Leo P. Anderson of the Standard Garage and Super Service at Front and Portage streets, announces that he has taken over the local agency for the sales and service of Willys cars, and Tuesday evening went to Kalamazoo and returned with one of the latest models, which is now on display at his place of business.

Retail deliveries of Willys cars may be expected in greater volume from now on, according to Mr. Anderson.

Early production at the two factories of Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., at Toledo, Ohio and Los Angeles, Calif., has been absorbed by the national domestic dealer and distributor organization and by 61 foreign countries served by the export division of the motor car manufacturer.

Retail deliveries, started in limited quantities during the latter part of December, have increased gradually during the early part of this month, and word has been received from the factory that production for February will be double that of January.

Advance orders for the new Willys at the time of the announcement of the current model in November, broke all records in the history of the Willys organization, one of the pioneers in the automobile industry.

With the factory maintaining a high percentage of its scheduled production figures, despite unsettled conditions in the motor car industry as a whole, future deliveries will be made more promptly.

Prominent factors contributing to the record demand for this car, are owner reports of 35 miles to the gallon of gasoline, the surprising roominess of the car and the distinctive elements of body design.

OCCUPATIONS OF B. H. S. ALUMNI

This series of articles was originated to tell students and townspeople what their "favorite sons and daughters" have done since leaving Buchanan High School. The accounts will be necessarily brief, but it is hoped that they will continue interesting and timely news for everyone.

Edward Rolan, who graduated from high school in 1933, has brought B. H. S. into prominence through his basketball playing. "Eddie" was a regular center in high school and has played regular on Michigan State's great basketball squad for the past two years. He will graduate from college next year. "Eddie" was probably one of the most popular boys to ever graduate from this school, and he was aptly selected

Amazing Success Greets Adrienne

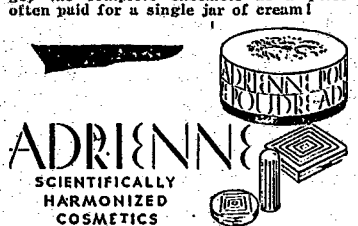

Smart Women Thrilled With New Harmonized Cosmetic Ensembles

"Harmony from head to toe!" That is the beauty ideal of Adrienne Livingston of New York in presenting her Adrienne Scientifically Harmonized Cosmetics.

But even Adrienne herself is astounded at the way they have caught popular favor. She underestimated the real need for this new, revolutionizing type of cosmetics—creams, powders, lotions and make-up aids scientifically harmonized with each other with the complexion, with the costume, in a complete beauty ensemble.

The response has been overwhelming. Hundreds every day turn from antiquated make-up to assure themselves of smart new beauty by using Adrienne Cosmetics.

Ask your Retail Druggist to help you choose your Adrienne Ensemble. You can get the complete ensemble at a price often paid for a single jar of cream!

by the senior class that year in their statistics as the "Best all-round." He excelled in all branches of sports and was a member of the basketball, track, and football teams. "Eddie" was a member of the band and orchestra, in which he played the saxophone, and also of the glee club. The cast of both the junior and senior plays of his class included him as one of its most skillful troupers.

A more recent graduate of the school in the pines is Marguerite Babcock, who is a member of 1935. "Marg" was very interested in music in high school and belonged to the band and orchestra, in which she played the saxophone, for four years. Marguerite, who is 19 years old, studied at the South Bend Beauty Academy for a year and is now employed at the Vogue Beauty Shoppe in Buchanan.

Not even an alumni for a full year is Harold Holmes, known to his friends as "Beans." He played center in basketball, one of the few seniors to remain on last year's squad. His football playing as an end and tackle was outstanding, and he continued this sport this fall with the Independent's football team. Harold now has a promising job at the Clark Equipment Company. Harold is very interested in this year's basketball team (or is it the cheerleader) and attends nearly every game.

Fine Time Now To Plan Garden

Most any time this winter is a good time to do a little extra gardening for the sake of the 1937 crop of flowers or vegetables.

It might seem there is nothing that could be done now that would help, but extension specialists in horticulture at Michigan State College merely ask, "Do you remember some of the trouble of previous years with insects, diseases and dry weather?"

If snow does not cover the garden plot, here are a few things that are in order. Good gardeners may have taken care of some of them last fall after the first frosts.

Tops of the dead annuals should be cleaned up and burned or bet-still if the ground permits, roots and tops as well should go into the garden bonfire. That might be a good time to burn up the discarded Christmas tree if it is still getting kicked around the yard.

Weeds, of course, are good bonfire material, as they may be harboring insects as well as carrying part of their 1936 seed crop ready to make hoeing more of a job this year.

Other jobs that will add to the productivity, whether flowers or eatables, include the addition of organic matter to the soil. Many garden plots in Michigan are yawning for a topdressing of manure. Plant food is added when it is plowed under, and the soil is better able to breathe if it is heavy, or to hold moisture if it is inclined to be a light soil.

And if it is snowing, or evening comes before the garden is well started for the year, then there are the seed catalogs. If they aren't lying around the house by now, seed houses have them for distribution.

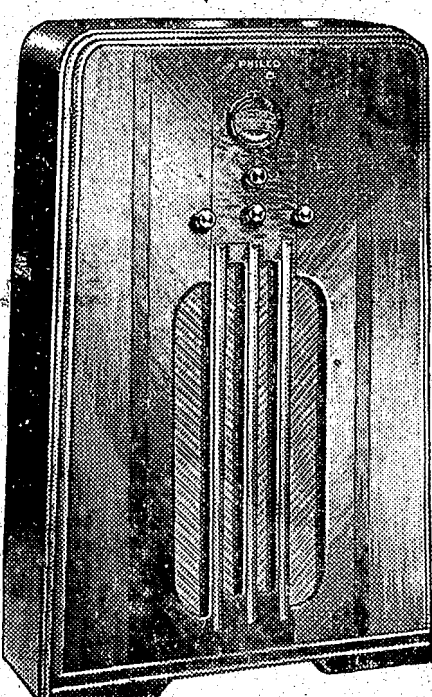

Power of the Emerald
The Emerald, so the ancient Hindus insisted, would frighten serpents and render their poison innocuous. It was said to cure fits and toothache if held on the face. It was supposed to bring lovers together after an estrangement.

In Bed During Eclipse
Expectant Hindu mothers in India must remain in bed during an eclipse because of a belief that their children may be marked with some disfigurement if they engage in any activity while the sun is obscured.

GEORGE WASHINGTON
THE BUSINESS MAN

The undying fame of George Washington as the Father of his Country and the immortal splendor of his name, have led us to forget him as the humble citizen of the Republic.

George Washington was not only a great general but he was also a practical farmer and a capable business man. His thoroughness and foresight and his economical methods enabled "Close-fisted George", as he was called, to prosper and make money when his neighbors preferred debt and easy living.

To George Washington, statesman, patriot, and man, we pay tribute:

Mayflower Women Used Pins
The women who came over in the Mayflower brought some pins with them. Probably the settlers at Jamestown also had pins.

Worm Eats Sand
The fisherman's lobworm of the seashore eats large quantities of sand for the sake of the minute organisms it contains.

First Pendulum Clock
In 1658 the Dutch astronomer Huygens produced the first pendulum clock, the pendulum being a means to regulate the escapement—(it doesn't make the clock go, as many people suppose.) This was a great step forward, and the type of clock developed, with its tall case and swinging pendulum, is a familiar piece of furniture in the hallways of our homes. Many of these pendulum clocks were made in the American colonies, or imported from England and Holland before the Revolution.

shaped, almost entirely uniform in shape and size. The apples acquire a polish from the waxed paper that makes them a spectacular product. "You can't get Michigan apples that look like that," said a local merchant, "although we all know the famed flavor of the Michigan product. It must be that the Michigan apple raiser has such an excellent market that he does not have to go to the extra trouble to condition his product that the West Coast grower takes."
"Years ago when I was in the grocery business in another town," said another merchant, "my father used to come to the store and get the orange wrappers that were thrown away. He wrapped his apples for his own use in these papers and they kept well into the spring."

Frozen Shrimp
Among the sea delicacies which are becoming staple in the small towns for the Lenten season at least is frozen shrimp, which, when defrosted, are to all intents and purposes, fresh.
"This is the first I ever handled," said a local merchant as he opened a box and weighed out a pound for himself as his first customer.
Ropp Hen Thinks Up
Apparently inspired by all this recent big egg publicity, a White Leghorn hen in the flock of Horatio Ropp, West Fourth street, thought up something entirely new. One morning recently Mr. Ropp found on the wire mesh just underneath the roosts an outsize softshelled egg. A wire had pierced the soft shell so that the egg could not be kept for exhibit so he opened it. It was four inches long and correspondingly large and inside it was another egg with a hard shell, quite perfect. Between the inner shell and the outer integument there was only white, no yolk.

New Method Precooling Fruits
The precooling of fresh fruit is rapidly increasing in popularity on the Pacific Coast. It has many advantages, chief of which is that it reduces the danger from molds and decay during the long haul to Eastern cities. Precooling also allows growers to pick their fruit riper and ship it cheaper, as pre-cooled fruit requires less ice in transit. Precooling is simply removing the field heat from fruit as soon as possible. Ripening changes which begin before harvesting are normally accelerated after picking, but if the fruit is placed in a cold room of 45 degrees F. or lower, the ripening process is slowed down.
One of the major problems faced in precooling fruit has been the time it took to bring the fruit to the proper low temperature. This problem was solved by a number of California fruit shippers this season by using precooling units, mounted on trucks. The packed fruit was loaded into refrigerator cars. A precooling truck was driven up alongside the car and a canvas tunnel was run from the truck to the car door. A canvas was then extended from the refrigerator unit over the top of the crates of fruit. The ice-cold air, generated in the truck's refrigerating unit, passed over this baffle and was drawn back through the crates of fruit and into the refrigerator plant, where it was washed, purified and then reblow through the car. This operation not only pre-cooled the fruit but also purified the air in the refrigerator car. In the case of strawberries this was a big advantage, because the berries give off detrimental gases.

George Cross Finds Unemployment Records Show Education Helps Men Keep Jobs

"Proper education is the best insurance against unemployment and failure."

This is the advice to young people given by George Cross, manager of the Berrien-Cass office of the National Re-employment service, with headquarters in Benton Harbor, and is based on three or more years of experience in the government agency which seeks to provide men with jobs.

Mr. Cross took 100 cards, at random, from a file of 2,300 applications in his office. He analyzed them carefully, as to length of schooling, length of jobs and money earnings, and found definite figures to prove the benefits of a high school and college education.

Seventy-two of the 100 cards showed that the applicants, who were out of work, had not gone to high school. Eighteen of them had quit at the end of the fourth grade. Twenty-three had quit at the fifth or sixth grades, and 31 had quit at the seventh or eighth grade.

Twenty-eight of the 100 had started high school, but only 13 of them had finished. One of the hundred was a college graduate.

He found that the college graduate had been employed for nine years before the depression made him one of its victims. The high school graduates had held their jobs for an average of four years each.

Or those who did not enter high school, however, the length of time on the jobs was not long. Those who left in the seventh or eighth grade had averaged 26 months on the job. The fifth and sixth graders averaged 17 months, and those who left at the fourth grade averaged but 11 months on each job.

Even more compelling were the figures showing the length of time the men had been out of work. The college graduate had been unemployed but two months. Those of lesser education had not worked for an average of three years.

"These figures indicate that the poorly educated are hit more quickly by business fluctuations," Mr. Cross declared. "They are the first to be laid off, and the last to be re-hired."

"My analysis showed that on the average, every step farther in education meant more income, a better job, longer period of employment and shorter periods of unemployment."

Mr. Cross does not regard a diploma as a guarantee of success. But he does feel, after years of dealing with the problems of men who want work, and with employers who want to hire workers, that it is not a waste of time to go to school.

"Education develops the ability to think," Mr. Cross said. "The worker who has it can learn his own job more rapidly, and learn the needs of his employers, so that he can make himself more useful and less likely to be laid off."

"It is necessary in life to make a sacrifice at one end or the other," he continues. "If the young person is willing to make the sacrifices when he first starts to work, and learn his job well, he will not have to make it when he is old. If he does not make the sacrifice when he is young, he must make it towards the end of his life, when he becomes too old to work."

Where possible, Mr. Cross suggests that young men be willing to learn positions as apprentices, to learn the trade thoroughly without serious regard to salary. This will give them the background and experience necessary to command better positions as they grow older.

Mr. Cross has given his findings to students of schools in the vicinity of Benton Harbor recently. After discussing the probable conditions under which they will have to seek work when they graduate, he always counsels them:

"Stay in school as long as you possibly can. For when you get out and go to work, you will need all the mental equipment you've got in order to meet the competition from other workers."

New Western Thriller

With Mae Clark featured as the girl who taunts him into reformation, Ralph Bellamy is starred in "Wild Brian Kent." Sol Lesser's picture for Twentieth Century-Fox of Harold Bell Wright's best-selling novel. This story of a play-boy turned cowboy who blasts the bandit band from the bad lands is coming Friday and Saturday to the Hollywood Theatre.

Breath Taking Picture

The destruction of an entire Malayan village by a herd of stampeding elephants is one of the high spots of "The Jungle Princess," the new exotic romance which begins Friday. Dorothy Lamour of radio fame makes her screen debut in this film as the jungle-bred maiden who falls in love with Ray Milland, an explorer, the first man she had even seen.

Famous Love Story

The tender love which existed between two of the hardest characters of the old West, "Wild Bill" Hickok, two-fisted hard-shooting exponent of law-and-order as the newly opened territory knew it, and "Calamity Jane," a beauty who packed a pair of six-guns and drove a six-horse stagecoach over what then passed for roads, is the basis of Cecil B. DeMille's latest screen masterpiece, "The Plainsman," which begins on Sunday at the Hollywood Theatre for 3 days.

History relates how Hickok, played by Gary Cooper, was retained by the government to investigate gun-running in the West because he was among the most-fearful of a region known for its hard and brave men, when that region was first opened for immigration, around 1870.

It also relates that Hickok never wounded an adversary. It was always a sure hit, and with this reputation as his letter of introduction, the handsome soldier-of-fortune went into the Far West to find out who was selling rifles to the Indians in express violation of a government order.

Meets "Calamity Jane"
On the way he meets the beautiful "Calamity Jane," so named by a troop of soldiers who found her as a child in the wilderness beside the bodies of her dead parents—killed by Indians. They never knew her real name and she was, indeed, a child of calamity. The handsome Hickok loves the beautiful "Calamity Jane," but never lets her know it, mostly because he resents her familiarity with other men. But she loves him and never has any compunction about showing it.

Hickok discovers who is responsible for the gun-running after General George A. Custer and his whole Cavalry Regiment are wiped out by the Indians at Little Big Horn. But the discovery costs him dear. One of his prisoners, the notorious Jack McCall, portrayed in the motion picture by Porter Hall, whom he herds into the Deadwood Saloon, operated by "Calamity Jane," brings tragedy in a breathless climax.

EDITORIAL

February is perhaps the most outstanding month of the whole year. It is true that the mercury in thermometers shoots upward now, but along with blizzards and snow storms come two days that were the beginnings for great men; men whose lives and work fill many pages in the histories of the United States.

The first, "Abe" Lincoln, was born Feb. 12, 1809, in a sturdy log cabin. His life was begun under great difficulties, but "Abe" had a spirit of determination, probably never equaled by anyone.

The other was George Washington, who was born Feb. 22, and, unlike Lincoln, was surrounded by wealth. Early in life he proved that he was a leader of men, and he never failed to live up to his title, the Father of His Country.

To dream of a world dominated by Lincoln's and Washington's is inconceivable, but these forefathers are our examples of real men. They lived as live sparks in a mass of wood, and they made a fire burn.

AT YOUR SERVICE

FIFTY YEARS AGO the telephone in Michigan was a laboratory curiosity. Today it is the instrument of a tremendously valuable, widespread public service.

This development represents the practical working out of the vision of the telephone pioneers. Their avowed goal was — the best possible service at the lowest cost consistent with financial safety. For half a century that policy has guided the telephone's destiny. It motivated every improvement and expansion; it was behind all the many reductions in rates.

And that far-sighted policy applies just as strictly today as it did two generations ago.

WE HAVE THE CREAM OF USED CAR VALUES

But we're selling them at SKIMMED-MILK PRICES

THE 1937 "swing to Ford" has brought the cream of the used car values to our used car displays — but even cream will "freeze" in cold weather. We don't want "frozen" used car assets on our hands until spring. We don't want to pay the cost of carrying them through the winter.

No, Sir!

We'd rather sell them now at lower prices and get liquid "cream" into our bank accounts.

SO —

We've brought used car prices down to the year's lowest levels! We're willing to pay you to buy now. We're offering our finest used cars, all makes and models, all better buys, renewed and guaranteed — at prices which represent a real winter bonus to smart used car buyers.

Prices reduced as much as $50.

Why put up with trouble, inconvenience and expense on your present car all winter? Why drive an increasingly inefficient car until it's lost its trade-in value?

WHY THROW AWAY THE USED CAR OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME?

Come in today. See the cars we're offering — see the price tags. Then drive away in a real bargain! Don't forget — Ford Dealers, and Ford Dealers only, offer R & G cars protected by the iron-bound R & G guarantee which says: Your money back if you're not absolutely satisfied.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

ONLY FORD DEALERS OFFER R & G VALUES

The only place you can buy a genuine R & G used car is at a Ford Dealer's. R & G means "renewed and guaranteed." Every R & G car is in splendid condition, and with the written Money-Back Guarantee over the dealer's signature, you can get back every penny you paid for it if you decide, within a reasonable period, that it isn't absolutely satisfactory. This is an extra value which costs you nothing. When you buy your used car, why not play safe? Go to a Ford Dealer's and invest your money in guaranteed value.

SHOP IN COMFORT AT YOUR FORD DEALER'S

Most Ford Dealers offer their truly outstanding used car bargains in undercover display space. Battery, water, gasoline and everything else needed are in the car to enable you to try it out the minute you see it.

IMPROVING MICHIGAN ROADSIDES

From actual studies detailed previously it readily becomes apparent Michigan has much to do in the matter of roadside improvement besides carry on the program of landscaping now started.

Michigan has a great opportunity. Nature has endowed the state with lakes and rivers and a variety of farming, fruit growing, all interesting. The state has established 67 state parks in all parts of the state to save locations of particular beauty. These parks are genuine playgrounds for the people and are connected by an excellent system of highways.

But perhaps Governor James R. Rolph Jr., of California can state the need for roadside improvement more clearly. Governor Rolph said: "The values which accrue in California from enjoyment of scenery and the accompanying benefit of outdoor recreation are beyond calculation in terms of money. Millions are spent each year to improve the highways of the state. More millions are used both commercially and privately to develop recreational areas. Such sums however are small indeed when compared to the ready opportunity open to each citizen and each visitor within our borders to revel in the delight of eye and mind offered by an endless variety of scenery or to relax in peace and quiet at a favored beauty spot."

Governor Rolph Apprises
"California is the motorists' paradise and failure, then, to develop the all possibilities of her roadides would be a serious mistake. A far-sighted policy of beautification will encourage travel and help our people in the enjoyment of life." Under such crystalline thinking he set out to "Work together to make our California highways the most beautiful and safest in the United States." What is true in California is true in Michigan. The American Automobile Association has placed itself on record.

Mrs. Otto Schurr, who is a member of the speakers bureau of the County Federation, gave a talk on "The Mark of An Educated Person." Prenatal Work Discontinued in Berrien Co.

Reports Show Activities of State Health Dept., in This Field During Past Year.

The prenatal program which has been sponsored by the Michigan Department of Health in Berrien County since March 1936 was discontinued Feb. 5, 1937.

An intensive program was first carried on in the northern section of the county, and later in the southern area.

Of the 280 prenatal patients contacted, 214 mothers were referred by the physicians.

The number of visits made to a mother before the birth of the baby averaged two. Two hundred mothers received one to two calls following the birth of the babies.

There were 72 mothers with babies under the age of two months who received an average of two calls.

Five hundred and twenty mothers with infants over two months and less than a year old had an average of one visit.

Seven hundred and eighty birth certificates were delivered among the above group of infants.

At the request of Mr. F. W. Crawford, superintendent of schools, and Miss H. Ackerman, R. N., school nurse, Child Care classes were begun at the Niles high school September 22, for 200 junior and senior girls. The course was completed January 22, with 139 students receiving an average mark of "C" or better. These girls were awarded with Child Care Class diplomas.

Miss Bertha M. Groth, R. N., was the nurse in charge of the program. Miss L. J. Kerr, R. N., assisted during the months of July and August, while Miss Mary Alton, R. N., assisted from August to December 15.

The success of the program is given to the fine cooperation of the physicians who as a whole, have given the work very favorable comments.

In general, the mothers eagerly welcomed the opportunity, and were keenly interested in discussing any problems relative to the care of themselves, the baby, or other children.

Scouts Reach Goal in Flood Relief Work

May Make Clothes Collection in Near Future if National Organization Sees Need.

Berrien and Cass county Boy Scouts passed their objective in their first week of working on Ohio valley flood relief, Scout Executive Oscar Noll announced Tuesday.

More than 1,000 can openers were collected, to be sent to the flood areas where they were needed in order to prepare the huge quantities of canned foods that are being received. Scouts also donated $85 or more to the Red Cross.

The largest cash donation was made by Troop No. 71, Niles, which raised $25. Scouts of Troop No. 71, directed by Scoutmaster Orin Cain, collected waste paper and sold it in order to make their donation.

Farm patrols, existing in rural areas, also did fine work, said

Executive Noll, who cited the efforts of Troop No. 66 at Daly, in Cass county, as outstanding. Earl Probst is the Scoutmaster. Scouts have not yet attempted to collect clothing, Mr. Noll said. A survey of clothing needs will be made in the flood districts, and if more is needed national Boy Scout headquarters will ask the local organizations to assist.
