Mothers' Day, May 3, 1937

These lines require no special dress
Of fancy or of cleverness,
No sleight of word or trick of speech

Or sequent cadence, each to each.
The eyes for which these lines were writ
Will search to censure not a whit.

They will not criticize and pry
Or measure with a critic's eye—
However slight the thoughts and frail,
Enough remembrance does not fail.

Yet they, regardless of their worth
Have audience wide as all the earth,
And in whatever climes they fall
Are for one mother—hence, for all.

Food to Be Higher,
Say Federal Experts
Washington, April 30
Federal food experts predict the average family will need a little more money in the next few weeks to pay the grocer, the butcher, and the baker.
Agriculture Department surveys showed the general level of retail food costs recently has been at the highest level in six years. The economists said the general trend "will continue slightly upward during May and remain above last year's level."

Says Local and Private Co-Operation Aids in Solution Many Crimes

If you have any reason to apprehend that you will ever be lost, the best preventive would be to file your finger prints with the Federal Investigation Bureau, at Washington, D. C., according to Jay C. Newman, head of Michigan "G-Men" who spoke before the Lions Club on modern methods of crime detection at the Clear Lake Woods Hotel last night.

Newman has been in the service of the Federal Investigation Bureau for 11 years, having previously been head of the St. Louis, San Francisco and Denver divisions.

Finger-printing is by no means merely a matter of crime detection Newman stated. In the finger print files at the Washington headquarters there are some 300,000 prints of the fingers of civilians who have voluntarily turned them in for purposes of identification. This is by far the most accurate and expeditious method of identification. If a man who has filed his finger prints should ever be drowned and there should be difficulty in identification, if a finger print were taken the identification could be made at the Washington bureau in from 2 to 5 minutes. Formerly it took 45 minutes for the average identification, but modern methods, including an electric sorter, have immensely speeded the process.

The bureau has 639 investigators in 40 divisions, covering over 3,500,000 miles of territory in the United States. Over 84% of the agents are lawyers or expert accountants. Applicants must be between the ages of 25 and 35 years, either lawyers, expert accountants or persons with wide experience and special equipment in law enforcement. Good educational background is requisite. Retirement age is 62 years. The recruit agent gets 14 weeks of careful training at Washington, D. C., covering the rules and regulations, evidence, crime scene work, conducting of raids, search of kidnapping hideouts and other matters. Over 85% of the agents are expert at firearms, although a great majority of major criminals taken with the aid of the bureau were captured without a shot.

Since the passing of the Federal Kidnaping Act of June 22, 1932, 94 cases of kidnaping and plots to kidnap have been investigated and 92 of these have been solved, resulting in 192 convictions, with the imposition of the following sentences: 38 life, 5 death, 1 indeterminate; 2,386 years, 11 months and 6 days imprisonment. Four subjects committed suicide, six were murdered, six were killed resisting arrest, 2 were lynched.

The successful solution of a great majority of these crimes was aided by the co-operation of local, county and state law enforcement agencies, and of private persons.

Son of Bakers of Bakertown Dies

Edd C. Baker, Brother of Mrs. Sparks, Dies in Chicago

Last rites were held from the Hamilton Funeral Home at 2 p. m. Monday for Edd C. Baker, one of the Bakers of Bakertown, who passed away at his home in Chicago Saturday, age 74. Rev. Thomas Rice preached the funeral sermon and interment was made in the Bakertown cemetery.

He was born in Bakertown Sept. 1, 1862, the son of Stephen and Eleanor Baker. His father was one of the six Baker brothers that founded the settlement and maintained the wagon shop and other industries there during pioneer days. He went to Chicago in 1894 and lived there the remainder of his life. He married Della Fahy of Chicago Feb. 20, 1898, Miss Della Fahy of Chicago, who survives him. Also surviving are their three sons, Rently J. Baker, Thomas P. Baker and George E. Baker, all of Chicago; his sister, Mrs. Nora Sparks of Buchanan and thirteen grandchildren. Mrs. Sparks is the only surviving child of the Bakertown Bakers.

Attending the funeral from other cities were: Ray Baker of Detroit; Harry Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Tefft of Ypsilanti; Mr. and Mrs. Bently Baker and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Baker and son, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Baker. Mrs. Della Baker, Mrs. Margaret Danek, Mrs. Lillian Riesterhaug, all of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Redden, Mr. and Mrs. John Redden, Mrs. Aris Myers, all of Goshen, Ind.

Merchant Irked by Sales Resistance

It irked Mr. Joe Harris, itinerant shoe string merchant making his headquarters at the old hose house, that he had walked four miles and had not sold any shoe strings. So irked was he that when Mrs. Kelley Wray declined to buy he swore at her. This in turn irked Mrs. Wray who telephoned to Buchanan for the police. This was where Mr. Harris at last got a break for he was relieved of the necessity of walking back to town. Ed. Mitchell, in his capacity of deputy county officer, came clear out after Mr. Harris in a car, and escorted him to town. In a mutual conference with Judge Mathie, a sort of gentlemen's agreement was arrived at that Mr. Harris should be escorted to St. Joseph where he should rest ten days at county expense. It was further agreed that if Mr. Harris came back to Buchanan when the ten days was up, he would be entitled to sixty more days rest in St. Joseph at county expense. Mr. Harris stated that Judge Mathie was very kind but that he would have to make still further inducements before he would consent to return to Buchanan. He said that he hoped other merchants doing business on a shoestring would not feel that he was receiving preferred treatment.

Display Will Be Over By Middle of May and Beds Replanted to Cannas

Tulip time is on again this week at the local Clark Equipment company grounds, with the fine red and gold Kaiserkrone in front of the theatre building leading the parade.

In all about 5,000 blooms in seven beds will bloom and drop their petals on the ground in early May, the largest group being the huge bed of about 1200 Darwins which will be about third in sequence in blooming among the beds. The Darwin bed centers the circle west of the track. At the west end of this circle is a small bed of choice Cottage and Parrot tulips. The cottage tulips have been out for as many as 18 years, without resetting and have in many cases grown to great clusters. The Parrot tulips are a newer family, including a number of the Fantasy species, colored a flowing salmon rose with green stripes.

The small bed at the east end of this circle has the same mixture of Cottage and Parrot tulips. The cottage tulips are a specially hardy group, which were so called because they were found growing for many years about the country houses of England and France.

The bed next to and west of the railway track is filled with Triumph tulips, a new family produced from a cross between the Darwin and the Early Single tulip. Another large bed of Darwins is in front of the Foundry. The two beds further east, at the east corner of the foundry and in front of the theatre, are the single mixed early, blooming first.

In the latter part of May most of these tulips, with the exception of the more hardy, which are left out from year to year, will be taken up and the beds replanted to cannas which will be left out until frost. The cannas will be planted by Decoration Day, will start budding in June and be in bloom by July 4th, the blooms continuing until hard frost.

Many of the tulips at the plant grounds in Buchanan, Berrien Springs and Battle Creek came from the country home of E. B. Clark, where there were once 16,000 tulip bulbs before the grounds there were rearranged as a formal garden.

Infant Drowns in Stock Tank

2-Year-Old Daughter of Paul Crawford Drowned Saturday

Alfreda Crawford, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crawford, was accidentally drowned shortly before 6 p. m. Saturday at the farm home two and one half miles west of Buchanan, when she fell in the horse trough.

The little girl had gone out doors and had been gone some little time, when the mother and others went in search. A sister had started across the road to the Burris farm, when a brother, Kenneth, who had just driven the cows up to the barnyard, espied the body floating on top of the water in the horse trough. The father attempted to empty water from the child's lungs, and being unable to; he rushed to Buchanan, where the services of Archie Morley, I. & M. first aid instructor, were secured. Morley worked over the child until the arrival of the pulmotor squad from Niles, but the child is believed to have been dead when taken from the tank.

The tank is of concrete, about 18 inches above the ground, and about 30 inches deep. The farm yard gate is directly against the tank and it is believed that the baby may have climbed the gate and fallen thence into the water. Coronor B. J. Reiser was called from Benton Harbor, and viewed the body, reporting that the child died of accidental drowning and that there was no need of an inquest.

The baby was born Feb. 23, 1935.

Is Re-Elected By Berrien W. C. T. U.

The 46th Annual Convention of the Berrien County Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held on Thursday April 29, in the Y. W. C. A. building at Benton Harbor. Those attending from Buchanan were Miss Mae Mills and mother, Mrs. W. F. Runner, Mrs. Harry Hartline, and Miss Eva Chamberlain. Miss Mills local president, was re-elected County Treasurer and Mrs. Hartline was re-elected Supt. of the Flower Dept. Mrs. Runner gave a reading entitled "The Joy of Living". The principal address of the afternoon was given by the Rev. M. K. Richardson, pastor of the United Brethren church at Benton Harbor. He spoke on the trend of the times as regards the feeble minded, the social evil and alcohol. A medal contest was given by children of the Sunday schools directed by Mrs. John Wallace.

In cutting the seven foot white-wood or tulip tree logs, it was necessary to chop into the tree a foot on each side before the seven foot saw would have room to drag and clean itself of sawdust. As the great tree lay on the ground, its width as high as a big truck, the woodsmen would climb on top and heave their way around in "steps," making a niche in which a seven foot or the more common six foot saw could operate.

The father or Amos Conrad, Andrew Conrad, brought his wife and family from Germany about 1845, and they settled on a hummock on a marsh about a half mile from Judy Lake, there for years they competed with the marsh rattlesnakes for possession, not only of the hummock but of the house made of log slabs where the large family lived in small space. An older sister, Melvina Conrad Ely, who died last week at Homer, Mich., was born on shipboard.

Amos Conrad's employment was in the timber until he was 45 years old, and he worked at it occasionally after that. In fact when the writer went to see him at his home a mile north of Buchanan last week he found him bucking up wood in his back yard. In the rear of the house was a thrifty garden which he had spaded by hand and planted. He had walked a mile to town and spaded the garden for his sister, Mrs. Mary Jane Mitchell. Not bad for a young man of 86.

Mrs. Harold Collins has as her guests her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Parsons, Danville, Ill.

Mrs. John Florey arrived Saturday from Hammond for a visit at the home of her son, Eura Florey.

Amos Conrad Tells of When 7-ft. Tulip Trees Grew in Wagner Dist.

He Cut 3,000,000 Feet of Timber on Old J. Weaver and Beckwith Farms

If you drive out the beautiful winding Wagner road through a land of pleasant farms you will not see it as Amos Conrad saw it 80 years ago, thick with dense timber, great whitewood trees 7 feet through the trunk.

You will not see the little saw-mill operated by Ira Sheperson and Eli Penwell which stood on the little stream on the place now owned by Will Whittaker, where an upright saw carved up and down through the great logs, on power furnished by an undershot waterwheel ten feet across, fed from underneath by a flume as wide.

For this mill and others Amos Conrad in his day out an estimated 3,000,000 feet of board measure timber, enough to house a city as large as Buchanan. He remembers a great white wood tree the butt log of which was 7 feet through and contained 2500 feet of lumber, enough in itself to build a small house. There were in all nine 10-foot logs in the trunk of this tree, five before the first branch. In addition there were a number of logs in the limbs, many of which were two feet through. This tree he cut from the old Jake Weaver place where Will Whittaker now lives. Amos Conrad cut about 2,000,000 feet of timber from that place, practically clearing the farm. Most of the remainder he cut from the old Beckwith place. A great part of the timber in that section was burned to clear the land. They would snake the great logs with three teams of oxen, gather them in heaps and pile brush about them, setting them afire. At night the countryside would be lighted as though from a city on fire, and indeed enough wood would be burning to house a city.

Speaking of making logs. The term comes from the practice of dragging the logs in zigzag track. If a team took a straight pull on a log they very likely could not budge it, but if they would first swing sideways and yank the front of the log aside, then lunge ahead and at the same time swing the other way, they could "snake" along a log they could never pull straight. Conrad tells of a time he cut an immense sycamore log, six feet through the butt. One farmer hitched two teams of horses on it and tried to pull it. He did not know how to drag logs and he took a straight pull. The teams could not budge it. He took them off and another farmer hitched on a small team of "rat" mules that dragged it up a long hill.

In cutting the seven foot white-wood or tulip tree logs, it was necessary to chop into the tree a foot on each side before the seven foot saw would have room to drag and clean itself of sawdust. As the great tree lay on the ground, its width as high as a big truck, the woodsmen would climb on top and heave their way around in "steps," making a niche in which a seven foot or the more common six foot saw could operate.

Brilliant Life Ended by Mishap

Rudolph Kudlacek Killed When Car Hits Motorcycle

The career of a brilliant young machinist came to an untimely end Saturday afternoon when a jay driver dodged out of a side road on to US-12 near New Buffalo, striking and fatally injuring Rudolph Kudlacek, Chicago, who was en route on a motorcycle to his summer home on his farm south of the Sampson Dairy farm.

Kudlacek was struck just south of New Buffalo. He was taken to Michigan City, where he lived an hour. He had been riding out regularly to his Buchanan farm to spend week-ends. The week before his sister, Olga, had ridden out with him on the motorcycle. He had finished his work at the plant on the north side in Chicago at noon and was already across the Michigan line before 1:30 p. m. which indicates that he was traveling at a high rate of speed.

He was chief set-up man in the automatic screw machine department of the Union Special Machine Company of 400 North Franklin street, Chicago where he was very highly regarded by his employers and by his fellow employees. He was an artist with engraving tools also and engraved all the athletic cups and trophies at the plant. K. R. Wood, personnel director at the plant, attended his funeral, as did a number of his friends from Chicago. He had become very much attached to his farm home near Buchanan and to the vicinity and it had been previously decided by the family that in the event of the death of one of the members, burial would be made here.

He was born Sept. 8, 1906, in Yugo Slavia, coming to this country with his parents while very young. He is survived by his mother and by a sister, Olga, for whom he was the only support. He was a member of St. Margaret's Catholic church, Chicago. Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Tuesday at St. Anthony's church here and interment was made in Oak Ridge. Father John R. Day officiated at the last rites.

Attending Doc Says Lamb Quints To Live

A biological curiosity of more than usual interest is a set of quintuplet lambs at the A. C. Sarver farm southwest of Buchanan.

The quints are now three weeks old and are healthy and well developed. Since the ewe can feed only two, Mr. Sarver supplements the supply with a bottle. It is his custom to go to the pasture and whistle, whereon all five of the lambs come galloping or gamboling, or however lambs come, all fighting for a chance at the bottle. Since four are identical in marking, Mr. Sarver never is quite sure whether all have been fed or one has had four swigs at the bottle. The four have the black Shropshire markings of the mother, but the fifth is pure white. Dr. Thiele, the attending physician, states that he expects all of the lambs to live.

Mrs. John Florey arrived Saturday from Hammond for a visit at the home of her son, Eura Florey.

Davis Launches Unique Pursuit

Bend of River Farmer Plans Plant For Raising Squabs for Chicago Market

For examples of happy married life, there is no better place to turn than to the pigeon family, according to Charles Davis, who is embarking extensively in the pigeon business at his farm home two miles north of Buchanan in the Bend of the River.

Strictly speaking Mr. Davis is embarking in the business of raising and selling squabs, and that is where the happy married life of the pigeon comes in. Pigeons mate at about the age of six months, and they mate for life, which may be twenty years. The parental instinct is very strong in both birds, and one pair will raise 9 or 10 pairs a year. It takes 17 days to hatch pigeon eggs, but it is not unusual, Mr. Davis states, for a pair to be feeding one pair of young in one nest while they take turns in setting on another set of eggs in an adjoining nest. The male and female take turns in incubating the eggs, the female ordinarily setting from about 4 p. m. all through the night until 10 a. m. when the male bird takes his turn. The male helps to feed the young. There are no divorcees or triangles among pigeons, but one bird will choose another mate if it loses its partner by death.

The young grow to marketable size of about 1 pound in 25 days, when they command a price of 50 cents a pound on the Chicago market. Davis secured his foundation stock from a Massachusetts company, several pairs of White Silver Kings. He now has 41 pairs and expects to bring his flock up to 300 pairs before he starts marketing.

He is building a pigeon house 10x72 feet in dimension. The house is divided into four compartments, each fitted to accommodate 75 pairs. Each compartment has a fly-way screened on sides and top in front. The birds are very hardy, according to Davis, being much less susceptible to disease than chickens.

Davis has a five acre farm adjoining that of his father on the road north from the I. & M. power plant. He built a home there two years ago. He is now also building an 8x10 store room and office in front of his pigeon plant. The plant and his home are lighted by electricity.

Mrs. J. B. Currier had as her guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. John Adams and son of LaCrosse, Ind., and Charles Foster and son of Dayton.

RECIPE FOR YOUTH

In newspaper parlance a "feature" is a story which has an angle of the unusual, and it seems to us that there should be a feature in the case of A. A. Worthington.

Perhaps it would be the fact that for nearly half of his eighty years he has been teaching one Sunday school class. He told us last week that he had taught the class 33 years but we learn from authentic sources that it has been really 35 years. At the party honoring his birthday at the Methodist church Friday evening he announced that instead of retiring, he intended to start all over. If he had taught every Sunday for 38 years, it would be a matter of 1976 Sunday school lessons. Ten years back, however, Mr. Worthington took some time out on advice of his physician. In fact he was told that he would have to quit permanently, but after a rest he resumed and has been going strong most of the time since. So it might be safe to say that he has taught 1800 lessons.

He started teaching away back in the tail end of the 1800's, when Victoria was still regina, and when William McKinley was serving his first term. It was just after the Spanish-American war and during the Boer War. It was clear before the days of automobiles. His predecessor, Mrs. M. Redden, was a guest at the party, age 88.

A significant point that might enter into the feature is the fact that Atty. Worthington says that his life has been lengthened by years because of his connection with the Bethany Sunday School class. There is very likely something to it. Mr. Worthington's life companion died a few years ago; he has no immediate family, and his interests have centered more and more in the members of his class, to whom he is Uncle Bert, advisor general on all occasions. Preparation for the next Sunday's lesson has given him something to point to; his class connection has blunted the edge of loneliness. It has kept his mind alert and expectant, pointing toward the future.

It's a new recipe, but Uncle Bert is a standing example of its efficacy: if you want to live long and stay young, teach a Sunday School class.

Word "Money" Has Been Used Since About 1250

That wealth consists of money or of gold and silver is a popular error which derived from the fact that money is a common medium of exchange and measure of value in trade. The ownership of much money constitutes only one form of wealth, says a writer in Literary Digest.

However, the original meaning of wealth was "well being; a happy state or condition of life; prosperity as opposed to distress," but by degrees this meaning was expanded to embrace material property and all utilities that result from the labor of man and are consumable by him. Later it was applied to a large aggregate of real and personal property, and ultimately came to mean riches.

On the other hand, the word money has been used since 1250 for coin considered in its relation to its purchasing power, and since 1800 in its character as a medium of exchange and measure of value—but in his "Wealth of Nations," Adam Smith held, as long ago as 1776, that "wealth and money are in common language, considered as in every respect synonymous."

Money used for wealth can be found in Froude's "Cesar" (xviii, 301)—"He already owned half a million of money." We mean wealth, too, when we say of some person, "He'll come into a lot of money some fine day."

Affluence, opulence, riches should be used only of material possessions. With the greater part of rich people, the chief enjoyment of riches consists in the parade of wealth which is never complete unless it bears the decisive marks of that opulence which nobody can possess but themselves.

Independence of the Americans

On November 2, 1777, John Paul Jones sailed from Portsmouth, N. H., with a dispatch for Franklin and his fellow commissioners in Paris, advising them of Burgoyne's surrender. Although he made all possible speed, he was delayed by storms and the necessity of evading British ships, and was almost a month in making the voyage. He was not, therefore, the first to carry the welcome news to Paris, that of honor having fallen to John Loring Austin, who had sailed with a duplicate dispatch, from Boston on October 31. It was the news of Burgoyne's surrender that caused France to recognize the independence of the Americans and to give them the aid which helped to assure their ultimate victory.

Common-Law Marriage

A common-law marriage is one entered into between a man and woman, without formal solemnization but by their agreement to take each other in the present as husband and wife, followed by their living together as husband and wife. No particular number of years is required, according to a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer, but their living together and the use of the man's name by the woman are evidence tending to show a marriage was entered into. Common-law marriages are, in the nature of things, much more difficult to prove than ceremonial marriages.

The gym show went off with a bang again this year; indeed, with nearly six hundred performers, what production wouldn't! Outstanding acts were presented by the girls, marching unit, high school tumblers, and boys' calisthenics drill. Much credit for the success of the show should be accorded Miss Allegra Henry and Mr. John Miller, physical education instructors, who directed it.

The senior play will be presented next Friday, May 14, to a capacity audience (at least, ticket sales indicate as much). As yet, there hasn't been a complete cast published, so:

In the corridors: Luke and Briney passing notes; Art Trapp and Bessie Crothers exchanging smiles again; "Imo" watching everywhere for her red-head; "Toad" Smith looking for Agnes; Virginia Wright still sorry about the cup she broke at senior play practice; George Riley explaining about wading in Lake Michigan one Friday night.

MARIE CLESTA RUDONI

The entire school was shocked to hear of the sudden passing Friday, April 23, 1937, of Marie Rudoni after a short but severe illness.

Marie was born October 27, 1921, and had always attended school in Buchanan where she was a member of the sophomore class this year. She was one of the most active and popular members and undoubtedly the most vivacious. Her dark, sparkling eyes and ready smile as she passed to and from classes will always be remembered by her schoolmates.

Marie was very adept at ballroom dancing and was usually one of the first to come and the last to leave at the weekly social hour. She had always been interested in sports and loved to swim. She was very active in gym work, had always been in the annual gym show, and was to have participated in it again this year.

It is with deep feeling that we write these lines about Marie: her life was to have been so full. She intended to study secretarial work and wanted to attend business college. She was going to visit in Italy as a graduation gift from her parents.

Her funeral was held Monday, April 26, in the Catholic Church, and the sophomore class and Girl Scouts, of which she was also a member, attended in a body. Her casket was carried by Bill Strayer and Louis Pascoe, class mates, and Edmund Rudoni, Vincent DeNardo, Donald Roti Roti, and Michael Di Giacommo.

The sympathy of the entire student body goes out to the bereaved parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Rudoni.
"We know death, just a breath—
Out into eternity!
But blessed friends are there,
And sometimes we shall share
Their love again, in infinity."

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF—

Rex Hungerford weren't such a good student?

Delos Watson didn't like to dance?

Shirley Trapp never participated in sports?

Phyllis Lamb brought her Niles boy friend to the prom?

"Buddy" Matthews didn't pester senior girls?

"Buddy" Ruth had only one girl?

Robert Taylor followed in the footsteps of the actor with the same name?

John Moyer stopped growing?

"Bobby" Swalm was tall enough to push through the hall while classes pass?

Carol Sebasty had to walk to school?

"GET A JOB, GIRLS"

Every woman should have a profession whether she intends to marry or not, in the opinion of Mrs. Mary Roebing, herself a successful bank president in Trenton, N. J. She believes that women are becoming increasingly important in business, in fact, she predicts that "within the next ten or twenty years women will be doing the deciding."

IN RECALLING OLD STORIES

Every week, as an added attraction for readers other than high school people, we are going to try to find some old story about a graduate of B. H. S., and put it in the paper under the title, "In Recalling Old Stories." Here's the first one:

Remember Richard Schwartz, a graduate of B. H. S., and what a time the teachers had with him in school! Well here's a short story about "Red." It seems that one particular day he was down in the principal's office. "Red" used to call this place home: it was so familiar to him. The principal was giving him a little lecture on something or other, and he noticed that "Red" wasn't paying very close attention. Finally the principal said, "Now, Richard let's be frank and earnest about this situation."

Red spoke up, "Sure, you be Frank, and I'll be Earnest."

POSTPONE TRACK MEET AND BASEBALL GAME

The dual track meet between Niles and Buchanan, scheduled for April 27, was postponed to an indefinite date because of the ill effects of recent small pox vaccinations.

The scheduled baseball game with Dowagiac was called off for the same reason and will be played later.

Mrs. Lamb attended the meeting of the State Nurses' Convention held in Benton Harbor, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week.

Cards, showing whether the small pox vaccination was good or not, and the date it was given, were distributed among the students last week. The students are instructed to keep these cards, together with earlier cards proving they had received the diphtheria prevention. These are necessary for entrance to many camps, schools, and colleges, as well as places of business.

LISTENING AND LEARNING IN HOME ECONOMICS

Knowledge is certainly gained if you hear and enjoy talks and speeches. I recently heard three talks in our home economics class which interested me, namely:

china dishes, floor, and furniture.

First, I think I will talk on the subject of china, as we use it almost every day in the home. Of course, porcelain dishes are used to a great extent also, but if we use the china, we often wonder about its history. It was interesting to note that the Chinese themselves designed dishes with pictures representing their favorite stories. Today this is done in America on little children's bowls and cups. Some have story book characters drawn on them like Mickey Mouse and The Three Bears.

Building is popular, especially with the new styles in architecture. Floors naturally play an important part in homes, and wood floors seem to be the most practicable, and by far the most durable. Soft wood floors warp more easily than do hard wood floors, and they do not give as an attractive appearance to the home.

Everyone has a desire to have the latest in furniture, but after furniture is used a number of years, it becomes out of date. We often recall Queen Anne and colonial furniture, and praising of such rare antiques is not yet over. A great quantity of our furniture now is veneered. This explains why such lovely furniture can be bought for so little money.

Jack Banks often goes to Niles? Jack Morris goes with a blonde? Betty Metzger and Geraldine Padder are good pals?

Karol Dunlap isn't bashful? Bernard Hemminger is very small for his age?

Robert Wesner is interested in girls?

Lee Miller likes to ride horses?

George Snyder enjoys resting in English classes?

Somewhere there is a voice she's longing to hear

SUNDAY will be Mother's Day... and to many a mother throughout the land, the tinkle of the telephone bell will herald the voice of a loved one far away.

The few moments she will spend at the telephone in conversation with that absent son or daughter will stand out as the brightest interval of the day... an interval that will linger pleasantly in memory as fresh proof of the thoughtfulness and devotion of someone who did not forget.

A visit with mother by telephone is next best to being with her in person.

Reduced rates for long distance calls are in effect every night after 7 and all day every Sunday.

Answers to Banking

Why are 'Banking Hours' So Short?

The hours during which a bank is open to the public for the transaction of business are usually called "Banking Hours." They are only a part of the working day for bank employees.

A bank is very much like an efficient housewife who has work to do before a dinner party and work to do after the guests leave. There is much work for employees

Indians Honor Champ Jim Braddock

Heavyweight Champion Jim Braddock was recently inducted into the tribe of the Lac Courte Oreille Indians near Stone Lake, Wis., where he did his preliminary training for the coming fight with Joe Louis. The champion was named "Che-Me-Ga-Ze-We-Ne-Ne," meaning chief fighting man. Next to him is Alex Martin, head man of the tribe.

to do before the bank opens to the public.

At the close of "banking hours" many important tasks begin. Window tellers count and balance their cash; bookkeepers prove accounts and tally ledgers; checks are arranged for clearance to other banks and to other cities; staff meetings and conferences are held; officers dictate and sign correspondence, go over reports and tend to many other duties. An important part of every bank's work is done before and after "banking hours."

Still Time to Contract Beets

Telegraphic reports received at the offices of the Farmers and Manufacturers Beet Sugar Association, during the last week, from the various sugar beet growing areas indicate that contracting continues to progress and many farmers are already engaged in planting.

Commenting on these reports, Mr. A. A. Schupp, executive secretary of the Association said, "It appears that many farmers who did not contract for sugar beets earlier in the season now realize that, with possibilities good for $1.80 to $2.00 per ton benefit payment from the Government; and higher sugar prices which, under the terms of the 1937 beet purchase contract, means that the sugar companies will pay a good price for beets, 1937 will be a good year in which to grow this consistently profitable crop.

"The various beet sugar companies, together with a number of the beet growers' associations, are continuing their drive for a large beet acreage this year. The agricultural supervisors of the several companies report that there is ample time for the grower, who has not as yet contracted, to get his land in shape and at the same time get the seed planted in sufficient time to provide for a maximum growing season.

"In view of the excellent prospects for profitable beet growing this year be believe that we should endeavor to have a maximum acreage in sugar beets and put forth a special effort to produce a bumper crop.

Here's the DRUM-MAJOR of the motor car parade

If you know a leader when you meet one, you'll see the moment you try this sparkling Buick why it's called the out-in-front car of the year.

You'll go for the way it goes for you—serene, steady, gallant as the figurehead on a buoyant ship—you're in for a thrill every time you put it into action.

You handle a wheel that turns as easy as the pages of a book. You press the treadle—and sink inches deep back in the soft cushions with the swoop of its take-off.

You click off miles by the score, the hundred—and no matter how far you range or what gait you travel, you can't get a whine out of that softly whispering engine!

The answer is you've got a car that was born to go places the way you want to go—smoother, safer, steadier than any car you've known.

Power in this flashing Buick is the power of eight straight valves-in-head cylinders. Its gait is the level gait of a car built close to earth with enough bulk to hold it there.

Its maneuverability is the quick mobility of a charger.

Yet the crowning touch of its creators was none of these but the figures they succeeded in writing on its price tag. The hard-to-realize fact is that this great straight eight can be bought for less than some of today's sixes!

There's just one way to get the true picture of Buick's standout value, and that's to drive it yourself. See us soon and get your order in, and you'll enjoy a summer like you've dreamed of!

LOWEST BUICK PRICES EVER! At today's prices, a big Buick values-in-head straight eight costs little more than the average six outside the lowest price field! Compare delivered prices and learn how little more Buick's 8-cylinder Buick GENERAL MOTORS TERMS TO SUIT YOUR LIKING

1922 Oshkosh Law Bars

Radios Without Permit
Oshkosh, Wis. — Residents of Oshkosh who own radios are subject to a fine of from $10 to $50 or imprisonment in the county jail of not longer than ninety days.

A city ordinance passed in 1922 still stands on the city's books which provides that "for the protection of life and property," no firm, person, or corporation within the city shall erect a radio set without having obtained a permit from the city electrical inspector.

The ordinance, long since forgotten by everyone except the electrical inspector who never tried to enforce it, was brought to light by John Moore, an attorney modifying city ordinances under a W. P. A. project.

Examination of ordinances since 1922 failed to show that the measure has been repealed, Moore said.

NEW TUNES FOR "SWING HIGH" MOVIE

Although it is not a musical, "Swing High, Swing Low," which co-stars Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray, and which will play here for three days, starting Sunday, has a number of original songs written by top-notch Hollywood tunesmiths.

Miss Lombard sings in this film for the first time. As a nightclub entertainer in torrid Panama, who falls in love with the adventuring MacMurray, she sings "I Hear a Call to Arms" by Sam Coslow and Al Siegel, and "Then It Isn't Love," by Leo Robin and Ralph Rainger.

MAKES ABOUT FACE IN NEW ROLE

Joseph Calleja, the screen's Public Menace No. 1, makes an about face in his new characterization for "Man of the People" in which he appears as a crusading district attorney who puts up a valiant fight against the power of a political machine. Florence Rice is the lady in the case, and the cast also features Thomas Mitchell, Ted Healy and Catherine Doucet. This feature is a part of the Wednesday-Thursday program along with "Wings of the Morning" which was produced entirely in the new, natural Technicolor. The Twentieth Century-Fox release stars Annabella, Henry Fonda and Leslie Banks, and presents the world-famous tenor, John McCormack.

Glider Contest To Be Held May 29-30-31

Twenty Glider Clubs to Compete on Lake Michigan Near Higman Park, Benton Harbor.

Twenty or more clubs and individuals in the middle west are expected to enter the first annual Chicagoland soaring and gliding contest, which will be held on the shore of Lake Michigan near Benton Harbor on May 29, 30 and 31, according to an announcement here.

Pilots and ground crews will total more than 100 persons, according to Dr. Walter M. Bartlett, medical examiner for the United States bureau of air commerce and president of the Benton-Harbor-St. Joseph chapter of the National Aeronautic association.

Gilders will be flown at Higman Park, two miles from Benton Harbor, where high clay cliffs near the water's edge forms air currents that make it one of the best glider locations in the middle west. Test trials run at Higman Park have indicated that at least six world records for gliding may be broken in the three-day meet.

Events include distance with return, airline distance, altitude and endurance flights. Pilots winning the greatest number of points in the events will receive cash prizes and trophies.

In charge of the glider tournament is a committee consisting of Guy C. Weber, South Bend, veteran glider pilot with Bendix Products corporation; Joe Steinhauser, president of the Soaring Flight association; Joseph Smith, president of the Chicago Glider club; Wayne Thomas, aviation editor of the Chicago Tribune; and Clemens W. Luebker, president of the La Porte, Ind., Soaring society and secretary of the Chicagoland Gliding council. Dr. Bartlett is cooperating with the committee, and Mayor Soren T. Emery of Benton Harbor is to appoint a local committee to assist.

Local gliding and aviation enthusiasts are working towards a program which would make the Chicagoland soaring and gliding contest an annual event, to be held permanently at Higman Park.

Among the expected entrants for the contest are Purdue university; Tri-State college, Angola, Ind.; University of Michigan Glider club; Art Rahn, Wayne, Mich.; Universal Gliders, Inc.,

Wyandotte, Mich.; Randolph Meeker, Birmingham, Mich.; Arthur B. Schultz, Detroit; William F. Sherman, Detroit; Lawrence Institute of Technology, Detroit; Akron Glider club, Akron, O.; Emerson Mehlhouse, Wyandotte, Mich.; and Edward F. Knight, Toledo, O.; Rolland Koonz, Bremen, Ind.; Glen Elynn Glider club, Glen Elynn, Ill.; Gage Park Glider club, Chicago; Soaring and Gliding club of Chicago; Grey Gull glider club, Chicago; Soaring Flight association, Chicago; Prarieand Glider club, Oak Park, Ill.; South Bend glider club and the La Porte, Ind., Soaring society.

Ask Farm Labor to Register Now

W. T. Arend, Local Manager of Re-Employment Service Announces Contact Points

Before leaving for Ohio to study the farm labor problem, Major Howard Starret, State Reemployment Director, today appealed to Michigan farm workers to register immediately with the National Reemployment Service.

"We are expecting a shortage of farm help, but we want to do the best we can to get all available farm workers and farmers together," he said. "It's a serious situation when farmer's can't get help."

Major Starret will visit various Ohio cities and farm centers in an endeavor to perfect a farm placement program involving the establishment of approximately 500 volunteer farm offices throughout Michigan.

Farm workers and others seeking employment have the services of this Governmental agency at their disposal. It is operated under the U. S. Department of Labor and is no charge. Anyone over 18 years of age may apply for a job.

Michigan is divided into 13 large districts served with 44 regular offices where unemployed persons may apply. Under the jurisdiction of these offices, scores of outpost offices already have been set up in farm centers where both farmers seeking workers and workers seeking jobs may report their needs. Local people are acting as special representatives for the NRS.

"The farmer has been severely handicapped in the past for lack of farm help," Major Starret said. "While we cannot supply more farm workers than there are, our service is trying its best to furnish what help is available by making it convenient for farmers and workers to get together."

W. T. Arend, Manager of the Benton Harbor office of The National Reemployment Service, announces the following Contact points in Berrien County where farmers can apply for farm help and those looking for farm work can obtain the desired information.

Indians of Arizona Learned to Live in Land of Contrasts

Hopi Most Advanced Tribe in Farming

Washington.—Indians in Arizona, and the white farmers who took over part of the land after them, have had to adapt themselves to many contrasts in living conditions. Dr. H. L. Shantz of the United States Department of Agriculture told an audience of his fellow-botanists in an address here.

Arizona is a land of many contrasts, he pointed out. Its "low spot" is only 137 feet above sea level; the peaks of its highest mountains rise above 13,000 feet. Its normally dry climate is broken into twice a year by well-marked rainy seasons, and sometimes punctuated with cloudbursts. Temperatures have ranged from 25 below zero to 127 above.

It's a World in Itself.

Of its total area, 42 per cent is desert, 23 per cent natural grassland, and 35 per cent is distributed among three types of forest. At the top of the San Francisco peaks there are tiny patches of real Alpine meadow. Of 18 great world types of vegetation, Arizona has 9; of 22 types distinguished in this country, the state has 12. It is a world in itself.

In this world dwell Indian tribes of most diverse agricultural abilities. Heading the list are the Hopi, who raise ample crops of corn, beans, melons, squashes, and other produce, irrigating them with more cupfuls of water. They have developed a variety of corn able to sprout successfully if planted 14 inches deep, whereas the white man's corn dies if planted more than three inches deep.

Other Tribes Below the Hopi.

Less careful farmers, but living by agriculture still, are the Pima and the Papago tribes. They are not nearly as systematic irrigators as the Hopi, and they raise their crops to some extent by dry-farming methods. They also make use of native food sources such as cactus fruits and mesquite beans. The Papago are especially successful in bean cultivation; they domesticated one or two native bean species and have cultivated them for centuries. Least agricultural are the Apache and Navajo. Originally roving, often predatory, in their habits, they have given up hunting and warfare only under white men's restraint. The Apache are learning to grow corn; the Navajo have become herdsmen, famous for their great flocks of sheep and for the beautiful rugs they weave from the wool.

Biggest Oyster Shell Is Found in Texas

Alpine, Texas.—Biggest oyster shell in the world, is the distinction claimed for an enormous fossil, four feet long and three feet wide, dug up by geologists of the national park service in the proposed Big Bend National Park area in western Texas. Dr. Charles N. Gould, who has been working in the rich fossil deposits of the region, thinks there may even be bigger shells waiting to be excavated.

Another "biggest" fossil discovered in the Big Bend country is a ten-foot petrified tree. No other tree of that size, living or fossil, has ever been found in Texas. The region is also rich in fossils of dinosaurs and extinct elephants.

Apricots From Asia May Flourish in Dakotas

Brookings, S. D.—California's apricot-blossoming hill-sides may soon have rivals on the prairies of the Northwest, where nobody would ever have imagined this fruit to be possible.

Dr. N. E. Hansen, of the South Dakota State college here, has an Asiatic species which he has been nursing for about a dozen years, and which seems to be quite hardy under the severe climatic conditions of the Dakotas. He found the original trees in northern Manchuria, where winter temperatures drop as low as 48 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

Dr. Hansen has developed twelve seedling varieties which he considers to have more than ordinary promise.

Life Is Longer and Better, Thanks to Work of Scientists

Dr. C. C. Furnas Tells of Big Improvements

LONGER life, biologically better life, and an easier life. That is science's gift to mankind. Dr. C. C. Furnas, Yale professor of chemical engineering and author of a stimulating book, "The Next Hundred Years," summarized in a recent address what science and technology are doing to us. The record is encouraging.

The expectancy of life at birth has risen from less than forty years in 1880 to almost sixty years at present. The expectancy for all ages up to sixty has increased. Of each one thousand people born this year, almost 30 per cent more will survive to age fifty than will survive in a similar group born in 1900.

Science is giving us a biologically better life as well as a longer one. Dr. Furnas contends. Most epidemics have been eliminated. Tuberculosis is on the run. Even cancer is beginning to think about slipping. Colds, influenza, infantile paralysis and the various diseases of senility are still to be touched but they will be, and perhaps surprisingly soon.

People Learning About Diet.

Dietary deficiency diseases are on their way out and will soon be a rarity. Dr. Furnas feels that the average diet is still very poor but it is improving. The public is learning, he said, that the over-purified foods such as granulated sugar and white flour are poor substitutes for food and that there is a great virtue in the protective foods: vegetables, fruits and milk. They are responding to the exhortations of science and the health of the next generation will show it.

The material side of life is improving. Dr. Furnas observes that the cave man expended almost 100 per cent of his efforts in getting his meals. By the time of a certain tea party in Boston that figure had dropped (for Americans) to 56 per cent. That is, in 1775 56 per cent of the average American's income went for food. By 1931 that had dropped to 38 per cent. In other words the struggle to fill the stomach has steadily become less severe, which leaves a larger part of the average dollar to be spent for other things.

Big Increase for "Sundries."

The item of "sundries" which includes education, travel, books, all recreation, rose from eight per cent of the average American income in 1880 to 24 per cent of the income in 1931. This is a three-fold increase and is tremendously significant. We now spend three times as much on the extra-curricular activities, which are the most pleasant part of life, as did the revolutionists. We are now spending five billion dollars per year on education and 10 billion for recreation. One would almost think we were leading a profitable and pleasant life. Despite this higher standard of living we are working less.

Between 1900 and 1930 the average real wage, in terms of standard commodities such as food, rose 48 per cent while the average working week dropped almost 15 per cent. The long time trend since the depression is not yet quantitatively discernible but it will undoubtedly be upward for wages and downward for hours.

"This is all to the good," says Dr. Furnas. "Note that I am not saying that life for the average man is good as yet, I am only saying that it is better than was, much better."

"Camel" Locomotive Drinks Only Once Every 621 Miles

Moscow.—The new type of locomotive known as the "SO" but popularly called the camel, has completed a round trip run from Moscow to Vladivostok, pulling a freight train of 1,200 tons. The distance covered was over 13,000 miles, according to the Tass agency.

Equipped with a tender-condenser the SO used only one-tenth the amount of water normally needed by a freight locomotive for the long journey. With its ten-ton water load the SO can operate for about 621 miles without replenishing its water supply. Its long time between "drinks" makes the name camel appropriate.

The boiler and running parts of the new locomotive differ but little from the ordinary locomotive. The tender-condenser which so efficiently conserves the water supply is a most complicated mechanism, however. In the cooling system are 2,160 copper pipes having a length of over 3,400 feet. These copper pipes have fin plates which increase the cooling area. Each tender-condenser has some 1,700,000 such plates.

Coal! "THE FIRST AND BEST SOURCE OF POWER..."

BEFORE his death Thomas Edison said: "The first and best source of power is coal... water power is a political issue, not a business one. Rates (for electricity) are fixed at any point by the cost of generating power from steam."

Ever since the production and transmission of electricity became commercially feasible, science and invention have steadily progressed in improving the extraction of energy from coal. Less than fifty years ago it was necessary to use eight pounds of coal to make one kilowatt-hour. Today there is under construction in the system from which this company draws its power supply a power plant that will produce a kilowatt-hour for every pound of coal burned under the boilers.

In spite of this extraordinary improvement, the plant is only recovering one-fourth of the power the coal contains. Engineers are now able to assert that, on the average, water power can no longer compete with coal if all the costs of production are included in the cost of water power.

It seems almost unbelievable but there is locked up in one pound of coal about 10,000,000 foot pounds of energy. Stated in simple terms, a pound of coal contains power equal to that supplied by 10,000,000 pounds of water falling one foot. In competition with a modern steam plant, the huge power plants now being constructed by the Federal Government at enormous cost to the taxpayers are already obsolete. As science and invention continue to improve the extraction of electric power from coal, the relative economy of steam power production over water power will grow even more marked. Thomas Edison was right when he said: "The first and best source of power is coal."

Pineapples Out in Front
Pineapples seem to be a main display item in the grocery line, with the fruit now at its peak, and crowding the dwindling citrus fruits from the picture. The tropical beauties displayed in the store windows have the appearance of arrays of Hawaiian bells in grass skirts, and the Hawaiian show at the Hollywood theatre this week indicates a sort of advertising collusion between grocers and theatre.

Merchants advise that housewives who wish to can pineapples buy now, as the flavor is at its best.

Scouts have always served very efficiently at this affair and this year plans for parking and other service have been developed to insure even more help.

On Sunday three hundred Scouts from the Council will be on duty at the Air Port—service to start at 12:00 noon. Boys will be used around the entire field in keeping the crowds back of the line.

Mr. Leo Slate of Buchanan and four Scouts from that town will be in charge of the food which will be distributed to all workers during the noon hour on Saturday. A corps of Scout leaders will assist in the two offices during the week to list and credit the boys with the work they will do.

It is estimated that over 12,000 hours of service will be given to the communities during the week.

The Banker's Tribute to Mother

There can be no deeper, more ennobling sentiment in any man's heart, than his abiding love and reverence for his mother. No songs or poems ever composed, no statues ever carved, no medals or ribbons of honor ever bestowed, can overpraise Mother... But, as bankers, we know that on the practical side, as home manager and Director of the Household Budget, she handles one of the world's hardest jobs in a way that few men could equal... The books of this bank bear ample testimony to the thrift and business ability of the mothers of this community. We are proud to serve them in any way we can.
