Now Here's
the Proposition

News Flash—Sixty-seven year old Missourian weds girl 11. Did someone say something about educating the poor ignorant heathen in China?

Thumb-naïl comparisons: Germany, Italy—countries where they have "Wolf" battalions and young Nazi battalions to get the youngsters off to the right start. America—a country where they hold soap box derbies for the youngsters—thank God.

What Others Say

Punch (c): "What have Hitler and Mussolini up their sleeves?" asks a writer in a daily newspaper. Whichever way one looks at the question, the answer still seems to be arms.

Humorist: "Who could put into words the feeling that steals over one as the holiday train puffs out?" asks a writer. A correspondent says that his wife can and does: "Horace, I'm almost certain I forgot to turn off the gas!"

Under the heading: "Add this one to your vocabulary," the Berrien Springs Journal Era, prints the following: M. F. Hinkley received a card this morning from his son, James, who is vacationing at Lake Chaugoggagoggman, chaugoggchaubunagunnag, near Webster, Mass.

Breaking The News
"There's something, Doc," the patient said.
"I'd like you to explain."
To keep us longer in suspense
Will cause much needless pain."

The sweat stood on the patient's brow.
His throat was parched with thirst.
He said, "What e'er the verdict be,
I'd like to know the worst."

The doctor looked his patient over.
E'er he assayed to speak;
He dreaded what his words might mean,
To one so pale and weak.

And then we heard the doctor's,
"No."

Why bring you needless sorrow?
"Twill serve the purpose just as well."

To mull my bill tomorrow,
—Harry Brokaw.

From "Threescore and Ten"

Who reach their threescore years
and ten,
As I have mine, without a sigh,
Are either more or less than men—
Not such am I.

I am not of them; life to me
Has been a strange, bewildering dream,
Wherein I knew not things that be
From things that seem.

I thought, I hoped, I knew one thing,
And had one gift, when I was young—
The impulse and the power to sing,
And so I sung.

They left me here, they left me
there,
Went down dark pathways, one by one—
The wise, the great, the young,
the fair;
But I went on.

And I go on! And bad or good,
The old allotted years of men
I have endured as best I could,
Threescore and ten!

Highest Earnings
Since '28 Made
By Many Farms

Michigan Survey Indicates General Improvement for Past Four Years.

Earnings on many Michigan farms in 1936 improved for the fourth consecutive year and in several sections were the highest since 1928, show figures released today by E. B. Hill of the Michigan State College farm management department.

Hill's report was based partly upon the records of 178 central Michigan farmers who participated in the 1936 farm accounting project, which showed the average farm income (receipts less expenses) to be approximately $2,500 in 1936 as compared with $1,751 in 1929. Most of the farms were located in Clinton, Ingham, Barry, Livingston, Washtenaw, and Jackson counties.

General Improvement Since '33
In the general farming and live stock areas of Michigan farm earnings have improved since 1933. Hill explained, however, that earnings in all sections of the state have not improved consistently.

Improved prices for potatoes and beans during the latter part of 1936 was an important factor affecting the earnings of the farms in the regions producing those crops. Prices for dairy products improved during 1936, and grain prices rose during the latter part of the year because of the decreased feed shortage caused by the drought.

Farm Expenses Increase.
Hill explained that although many farmers have participated in improved farm earnings during the last two year period, it will be necessary for the improved incomes to continue for a number of years to offset the very unfavorable earnings for the years immediately preceding 1934.

Farm expenses, which decreased each year from 1929 to 1934 showed a slight increase in 1936. Feed purchases per farm were about $100 less in 1936 than in 1929. Hill explained that this decrease is probably an indication that farmers, in general, are growing more of their own feed requirements.

Hill's report is contained in the current number of Agricultural Economic News, which may be obtained from the bulletin room at Michigan State College.

Westward Ho! Bristol to Travel in One Room Apartment on Wheels30-Year-Old Buchananite to Begin Far-Flung Trek
This Week-End.

A pioneer will roll out of Buchanan sometime this week-end bound for the West in an ultra-abbreviated twentieth century covered wagon.

Harve Bristol, sprightly 30 year old Buchananite, will be the pioneer and a modern coupe will be the caravan. The car will be especially prepared for the journey, and being fitted with a bed and equipped with a two-legged table to be supported, when in use, on the rear bumper, a camp chair and a camp gasoline stove.

The itinerary of the "37 safari will take Bristol first to Chicago, where he will visit a sister, Mrs. Myrtle Ferguson. Mr. Bristol was employed in Chicago for 20 years by the Elmen Engineering Works.

Recalls Bryan Speech
Among recollections of Chicago, Bristol remembers the packed crowd at the time he went to the Armory to hear Bryan talk in the memorable year when McKinley defeated Bryan's "Free silver and open the mines" campaign with his "Open the factories and back to prosperity" platform.

After Chicago Bristol plans to visit an old friend, Jim Bishop, at Geneseo, Ill., then will go to Lincoln, Neb., to see two nieces, Mrs. Mary Turner, and Miss Bernice Ferguson.

and here a visit is to be made with Bristol's brother-in-law, C. E. Ferguson.
After that the tour will be directed to Ft. Smith, Ark., where Bristol lived from 1886 to 1891.

Cannons Boomed at Sherman
The next stop will be Texicana and Sherman, Tex., the latter being Bristol's home for three years before he moved to Ft. Smith. Bristol was in Sherman, he relates, when Cleveland was elected for his first term in '84, and as it was a strong Democratic town, he says, a big time was put on there when Cleveland's election was finally confirmed, cannons being blown off, and a general holiday atmosphere prevailing.

The tour will then be headed for Dallas, Texas, where Bristol will visit a cousin, Mrs. Ella Burger. He will go on from there to Whittier, Calif., to visit brother-in-laws, nephews and nieces.

To Visit Pioneer Mine
The last stop as yet scheduled is San Andreas, Calif., from which center he will make a visit to the Pioneer gold mine, in which he has investments, having been one of the original 31 investors who put in a thousand dollars each when the original mining company was formed.

From there on, Bristol says, his plans are indefinite, as he doesn't know where he will go then, nor, he says, has he set any time limit for the journey.

THE BUCHANAN BOOKLET

The local Lions club and the merchants and others who have cooperated in the compilation and financing of the recently published Buchanan booklet, deserve commendation for their work and contributions.

Few cities outside the larger metropolitan municipalities have anything to compare with the booklet and so its publishing stamps Buchanan as a progressive and alert community read to capitalize on its natural and created advantages.

Buchanan does have advantages which should prove attractive to the tourist, to the person seeking a pleasant residential location, and to the industrialist looking for a good plant site, and these good points should be advertised in order that the community may reap all the possible benefits which may accrue from them.

The booklet of the type published is one of the best vehicles by which to make a community known. It moreover sets a precedent and establishes a background of material and experience for future publications either in succeeding editions of the present issue or in a revised form.

LOWEST BUICK PRICES EVER!

At today's prices, a big Buick valve-in-head straight-eight costs little more than the average six outside the lowest price field! Compare delivered prices and learn how little more buys a better Buick.

General Motors Terms to Suit Your Liking.

It's no time now to dawdle around—here's August, summer's flying, that car of yours is going down steadily in trade-in value—and the Buicks are moving plenty fast!

Right now this big, silky, fast-stopping, valve-in-head straight-eight is still selling at the lowest prices in Buick history.

It's still your big chance to get a man-size bundle of thrill-packed travel-power at rock-bottom bargain rates. You can still have one for less than some sixes cost—and it's so far out in front of the others that no matter what they do next, they won't be able to match the '37 Buick for value!

So go slip your frame behind a Buick's ready wheel and head its nose out toward the long, wide highway. Try out its great power with your gas-treadle toe, give yourself over to it and let it show how it can send your spirits soaring.

And when you've sampled its mettle and learned the modest price figures, just ask yourself if it's likely that we'll soon see such value again! Yes, sir, it's a buy—the buy—just too good a buy to let slip.

So get busy—right now! Fast action is in order! Give us a ring and we'll talk things over!

"It's Buick again!"

Why should I be interested in my Bank's loan policies? As a depositor in a bank there are several very good reasons why you should be interested in its loan policies, even if you are not a prospective borrower. In the first place, it is your money, and that of other depositors, which is being loaned. Consequently, you should want your bank to be careful and diligent in lending your money.

Good bank loans, made in accordance with sound banking principles, protect your deposited money. They put your funds to work usefully for the benefit of the entire community. They produce revenue for your bank to cover, in part, its operating cost of rendering services to you and other customers. They enable your bank to set aside reserves for protection of deposits.

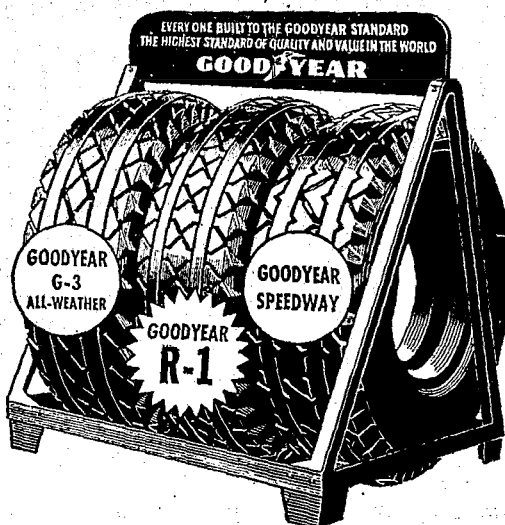

Upon request, the officers of this bank will be glad to explain to you our loan policies.

Discover and Invent We discover when we find out something that already exists; we invent when we make anything for the first time. Columbus discovered America, he certainly did not invent it. Men have invented special valves for wireless reception; they did not invent wireless waves; they discovered them.

Answers To Banking Questions

Why Don't Banks Pay Interest on Checking Accounts?

Most of the banks of the country (those which are members of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation) are prohibited by law or government regulation from paying interest on "demand deposits."

Checking accounts are, of course, demand deposits, for they may be withdrawn at any time by the depositor.

It is now generally recognized that the payment of interest on demand deposits is not sound banking practice. A bank must be prepared at all times to pay out these funds on demand. Consequently, the bank cannot make full use of this money because it does not know when the depositor may want to withdraw it.

A checking account is primarily for the convenience of customers for keeping their money and writing checks. For those who wish to receive interest their funds can be placed in interest-bearing time deposits.

State Publishes New Mich. Highway Map

The August edition of the official Michigan highway map came off the press this week and is ready for immediate distribution.

Except for corrections in trunkline mileage, the map is identical with the previous summer edition published May 15. Trunkline changes were made not only in view of new construction since the last edition of the map but also to incorporate new determinations and cancellations in mileage authorized several weeks ago by the highway advisory and state administrative boards.

The accordion fold, first used in 1934, is again a feature of the new edition along with mileage tables, a population table of principal cities and towns, routings of principal county roads, a state park table, an enlarged map of the metropolitan area, and scenic views of Michigan.

Murray D. VanWagoner, state highway commissioner, said that 150,000 copies of the official map have been distributed to date this year. They are available to the public at no charge. Copies may be received by writing the commissioner at Lansing.

Brown, Blue, Gray Eyes
According to a German insurance doctor, brown-eyed people are a bad risk, and he backs this up with observations made during his 30 years' experience, says Pearson's London Weekly. Blue or gray eyes are an indication of long life, he finds. All the brown-eyed people he has known died between fifty and fifty-five years of age. But medical specialists do not think much of this theory. They point out that age itself takes the color out of hair and eyes, so that a person who started life with deep brown eyes might quite easily reach a ripe old age with eyes of a paler shade.

University Mice Sacrifice Their Lives to Aid Cause of Science

By Robert Conn
In the river valley behind the University of Michigan Hospital is the University's Mouse Tower on the Huron. Therein is contained about 6,000 mice and a few scientists. The whimsical dramas of life are here enacted in two-by-four cages. Naked little things emerge prematurely into a scientifically warmed and humidified world. They grow vain and learn to make love. Then, one balmy spring day, they take leave of the world in a lethal chamber. The soul of the mouse is scarcely en route to wherever mouse should go, when his skull and pelvis bones are tagged and his soft coat stretched out ignominiously and rubbed with corn meal.

All things considered, the lot of a laboratory mouse isn't such a hard one. Grave old plodders and gay young friskers are served up with an expert cuisine. Their carefully planned diet contains liver, cod liver oil, canary seed, lettuce and six other ingredients. Are Many Species

High up in the University Museum are filled the remains of about 20,000 of these mice, the result of arduous labor. Men in the field have combed the United States for varieties of the species, Peromyscus. There are light colored ones from the beaches in Florida, dark ones from the Maine forest primeval, big fellows from California, thick coats in the north, longtails somewhere else. The mail still brings new varieties.

BRITISH GOLF CHAMP

A close-up of Robert Sweeney, handsome Anglo-American, with the cup emblematic of the British amateur golf championship which he recently won in a 36-hole final match with fifty-year-old Lionel Munn at Sandwich, England. The twenty-five-year-old American-born Londoner won by three and two.

The project is under the direction of Dr. Lee R. Dice, head of the Museum Zoological Department. His goal is a better understanding of varietal differences of the species with respect to geographical distribution. Ultimately, conclusions may be drawn which will be applicable to theories of change through mutation and selection in evolution.

One of the most ingeniously solved bug bearers which faced the laboratory was the problem of marking each mouse so that he could be easily distinguished as a separate personality, quite different than any of a few thousand of his neighbors who look just like him. The system was devised by Dr. Dice and works as follows:

The four toes of the left front foot are the "thousand" toes. Thus if our subject is named 2348, his second toe from the left is clipped off, signifying the first number in his name. Numbers above four thousand are achieved by clipping the desired combination of two toes. The left hind foot carries the "hundred" toes. The third toe from the left is clipped in our mouse. The right front foot carries the "ten" toes. The digits are marked by notches on the circumference of the left ear. Thus an ordinary mouse finds himself assuming the pretentious title of Mr. Peromyscus Californicus Calofirmicus, 2348, derived from long and brilliant heraldry.

One of the strangest occupations of people in the Mouse Tower belongs to Margaret Liebs. She works for hours each day trying to make mice with epilepsy in their family tree throw fits.

An honor to her timid sex, she handles mice like a cook handles pea pods. Starting into a box, she designed herself, she watches a robot hand shake keys at frightened little mice. The extremely high notes struck by jingling keys cause the afflicted mice to throw fits. The diseased patient tears around the box seeking shelter. Finding none, he starts a wild mazurka that ends in ecstatic kicking of legs and unconsciousness.

Now is the season of the summer harvest. Hundreds of sacrificing souls walk the plank, and all in the interest of science.

Meaning of Different, Various
Different means other than, not like, distinct; Various means diverse, manifold. There are two different ways of bowling, overarm and underarm. There are various ways of swimming, breaststroke, crawl, sidestroke, on the back. It would be incorrect to say there are two various ways of bowling.

First Baglimit Law
The first baglimit law for the protection of game was enacted by Iowa in 1878.
