

CITY BOND POLL TO BE HELD SEPT. 28

Now Here's the Proposition

Anyway they are goin' ahead with their bond election in Buchanan an' ef they can't build a sewage plant with the $25,000 they might blow the whistle with it.

Fall Thoughts The Democrats are throwing threes About impending revolution; The G. O. P. sheds tears of woe Above our ruined institutions; But, though we're pretty well in Dutch And life is just a mess of scrapple, You cannot cuss a world too much That gives us Spies and Baldwin apples, Sometimes I think we're in a hex— We're either phoney or we're funny, For some are crazy over sex And some are crazy ever money, But though we tremble on the brink Of tumbling in the cosmic reaches You must admit, if you but think, It's a good world that gives us peaches. —By Hawes

The Arbitrary Arbitrator Well, friends and neighbors, we have big news for you this week, none other than that Buchanan has at last a chance to be on the social map in a big way and we are the party who is to put her there. To come down to cases, we received notification this morning from a tony address in Detroit that a Michigan Social Register is being compiled and that we have been appointed to act in advisory capacity in picking the real blue bloods of the city whose impeccable social standing will warrant inclusion in this forthcoming list. You must remember about Ward McAllister, the famous social arbiter of New York, whose word was final law as to who belonged in the Four Hundred of Gotham? Well, that's us—Ward McAllister himself and we will start 'em as soon as we get the paper out. Who's going to belong besides Ward McAllister himself we have not decided yet. Accordingly we wish to announce that if any lady of the city has aspirations to shin a few rungs higher on the social ladder we will get right behind and push. We will be ready to make appointments (evening preferred) after this date, for we're seated very firmly on the haughty social throne, and we're listening to reasons but they've got to be our own. We will give you social standing that's above, beyond all doubt—two bucks will get your name in or five bucks will keep it out. And for an added bonus, as the case perchance may be, we will amputate the horsehieves from the good of family tree, and we'll finally admit you to the highest social rank, effective on occasion when your check gets through the bank. We're an arbitrary arbiter, for we've arrived, and how! We used to be quite common, but, boy! how're we doin' now!

The Gum Gals The Misses Gum, Beechnut and Dentyne, were both in town Friday, the former in the morning and the latter in the afternoon. Business was all gummed up, according to reports, while the boys walked around the block to meet 'em on the next corner. It was a grand advertisement for gum or gals. What a waste of time it is to go to Yurup when you can see such colorful eye-fuls right here at home.

Mrs. Laura Specht Fatally Injured by Fall From Car Door

Mrs. Laura Perdella Specht, 57, died early yesterday morning at the home of her son, Harry Thompson, 122 West Alexander st., as the result of head injuries sustained when she fell from a car on the Redbud Trail north of Buchanan Sunday evening. Mrs. Specht had been out with friends after apples. It is believed that she was thrown against the car door when it turned in a driveway, releasing the door latch. She struck on her head, but it was not at first believed that her injuries were necessarily fatal. Head cuts treated but later she became unconscious as the result of fracture of the skull. She was born in Pennsylvania, July 15, 1880, coming to Berrien county in 1912. She first married James Thompson. Surviving are four children; Harry Thompson and William Thompson, Mrs. Minnie Smith of Buchanan, Mrs. Mary McTague of Watervliet; two sisters, Mrs. Cora Grosser of Kalamazoo and Mrs. Minnie Lauder-slager of Buchanan. She was a member of the German Lutheran church. Funeral services will be held from the Swem Funeral home at 2:30 p. m. Friday, with Rev. Thomas Rice in charge and interment will be made in the Oak Ridge cemetery.

Business Notes

New Sales Tax Schedule Perhaps most shoppers of Buchanan know that a new state sales tax bracket went into effect Sept. 7, to permit retailers to charge sales tax on 15c purchases. The new schedule is: On purchase of: 15c to 44c ----- 1c 45c to 74c ----- 2c 75c to $1.14 ----- 3c The new schedule has been adopted to cope with a situation which has troubled retailers ever since the tax was adopted, July 1, 1933. About 90 per cent of retailers have had difficulty in collecting the full amount of the 3 per cent tax on their gross sales which they must pay to the state. And in addition, each store has had a proportionate amount of extra clerical work to do as a "tax collector" for the state. The new tax bracket schedule should relieve many small retailers, the bulk of whose sales are on small non-taxable items. It sets no precedent, for it is said that no other state in the Union has a bracket system starting above 15c. Arizona, Arkansas, California, Illinois, Iowa, Maryland, North Dakota and West Virginia have bracket systems beginning at 15c or less.

AROUND ABOUT BUCHANAN

A Story of the Old Carryall Days and of The Nutt-House. Transport War

The days of premotor vehicular (are you still with us?) transportation are not so far away in the past, according to Albert Nutt, who has stored away at his place on Fourth street a relic of those days in the form of a Studebaker carry-all or hack which he assures us he carried passengers from the electric interurban at Walton's crossing to the Riverside Park assembly twenty years ago. The first point is still good on the hack and Mr. Nutt states that it is a good bargain for anyone who wants to put the body on truck wheels for a fruit wagon. He made $4 a day for ten days transporting the passengers from Walton's crossing to Riverside and return at 25 cents a passenger for ten days.

Anyone who rode in a hack those days was well up in the world, for the wheels were high and although there were two iron steps in the rear, it is hard to imagine how the ladies ever got their feet as high as the first one, hobbled as they were with the fashions of the day. There must have been high steppers then. Mr. Nutt says that he used to crowd 24 in that bus at once, on a pinch and it seems like it would have pinched them.

He was driving his hack along Walton road the day the big wind blew Andrew Lyddick's barn across the road and scattered a rail fence all over the roadway. Although the hack sat pretty high on its chassis, Mr. Nutt drove in the lee of an apple orchard and got sort of down in the ditch at the side of the road and the hack was unharmed although most of the orchard was blown down.

Previous to buying the hack from a Niles livery stable Mr. Nutt used to run another bus to South Bend on special occasions as for shows, circuses and the like. Will House used to run an opposition bus to South Bend on big show dates and sometimes there was some pretty keen competition in fast transportation. They even got the time for the fourteen miles down to two hours. Once Mr. Nutt was driving along at a brisk rate with a full hack load when House drove past him hell bent for South Bend. However about half an hour later he caught up with House as one of the latter's horses had played out and laid down. So Nutt had to relieve him of all the passengers he could, which was five ladies.

It's been pretty well forgotten now, but before the war they used to talk for years about the big Nutt-House race to South Bend.

Still Older Schoolbooks

Articles in the Record recently regarding old schoolbooks owned by local people brings the news that Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wilson have at their home near Dayton an old reader, "The American Preceptor," compiled in 1813 by Caleb Bingham and printed by the Bradford Book shop in Philadelphia. The book was used by Mr. Wilson's grandmother, Mrs. Mary D. Cooper, pioneer resident of the Dayton district who died at her home there over 20 years ago at the age of 93. They also have a Christian Advent song book used in early days in Buchanan, and an illustrated history of the United States from 1810 to 1848, printed in the latter year.

The Ralph Rumbaugh post of the American Legion has voted to allocate $150 of the receipts from the carnival to the committee in charge of the Legion lot in Oak Ridge cemetery. Arrangements have been completed for the monthly family night at the hall Friday evening. Commander John Elbers announces a cooperative supper at 6:30 p. m., followed by a special program and bingo play with special prizes.

Tight-Wadding It Through Europe

By HAWES

CHAPTER IV

There were two kinds of Americans in Europe I could not appreciate.

One was the sort that said: "Don't you find the social customs and manners here charming? So superior to America. Really are the Americans crude? Come on, tell the truth. You have to admit it. They know how to live here in Europe. . . They are cultured."

Then there was the opposite kind that said: "This may be all right for these ferriners, but give me the good old U. S. A. any time. If these fellers are so smart why don't they learn a civilized language? I'd trade the hull continent for a hot dog an' a cup of coffee. If I ever git back I'll stay there."

Certain privileges of residence in America are evidenced by the fact that most of the Swedes who returned to their country look back with a sort of homesickness on their residence here. But aside from that I preferred to look and listen, picking up what I could of interest, without entering into odious comparisons. If a "ferriner" wanted to get braggish it was all right with me. As long as he had to live in his country, he might as well like it, and I could learn more by listening than by arguing.

Anyone visiting the Scandinavian countries will see plenty to admire and commend. They have worked wonders in a country of barren rock, lying on both sides of the Arctic Circle. Only 4 per cent of Norway is capable of cultivation. Another 15% is capable of raising forests. The remainder is barren rock or frozen waste. Although southern Sweden contains some highly productive farm lands, the national average is not much better.

I think that much of the pleasure an American gets from visiting those countries is the especially warm welcome he gets from the ex-American, the Swede or the Norwegian who has gone back to the home-land. Everywhere, especially in Sweden, I met them, or rather they hunted me up and talked endlessly about America.

Although the gap in appearances between America and the Old Country struck with more force than I expected when I first sighted Gothenberg, people who traveled much further than I said that Sweden more than any other country of Europe resembled the United States. Everywhere I saw reminders of America. The long rocky entrance to the harbor of Gothenberg was lined with tanks of American oil companies. Three-fourths of the cars on the streets of Swedish cities are of familiar American makes. Three-fourths of the films, at a rough guess, that are advertised at theatre entrances, are American.

Greto Garbo is of course a favorite. They are very proud of the Swedish film star and I might as well jump ahead of the story here to say that in Stockholm they show you the apartment house where she was born and the counter where she sold hats. She was employed in one of the largest department stores in Stockholm, at the intersection of the two main business streets, Kungsgatan and Drottningsgatan. Formerly owned by Paul U. Bergstrom, it has been recently purchased by the National Cooperative Union as their first venture in the cooperative sale of clothing. But cooperatives have retained the trade name P. U. B. by which it is generally known (the initials of its former owner).

I had a room in a hotel a block and a half from P. U. B. and often went there to inquire at the information bureau they maintained. One time I hunted up Greto's former counter and stood reverently in front of it, my hat in my hand. As a matter of fact my hat was in my hand before I got to her counter. It is quite a common custom for men to remove their hats in Swedish stores.

Even more widely advertised was Miss Shirley Temple. As a professional tight-waddler pursuing his profession in Europe I did not attend any shows, which was one way of stretching out the battered bankroll. Anyway you can see Shirley Temple in America and on a pinch you can go to North Chicago and see the native Swedish films. I understood that the dialogue of the American stars is rendered into Swedish for the most part.

Swedish newspapers ran several American comics, Skippy being a general favorite. They were also teeming with American news stories, and with interviews with American notabilities visiting in Sweden. American dance music is heard over the radio and on the phonographs. Old American songs are favorite there. It was pleasant to turn on a radio and hear one of those charming old Swedish folk songs like "On a Bicycle Built For Two," or "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles." They still sing "After the Ball" a great deal, not because they are so much behind but because they cling longer to anything they like.

On the first morning in the home of my wife's mother there, my nephew, aged 11, came in with his accordion or "dragspiela" and played and sang in Swedish "The Isle of Capri." He followed it with "Home On The Range." On the morning after my first night in

Library Assoc. to Meet Friday

$962 Now Available; Consider Opening Project in Early Winter

A meeting of the Buchanan Library Association will be held at the City Hall Friday evening, beginning at 8:15 p. m., for the purpose of considering ways and means of cooperating with the city in pushing the Buchanan library project and also to consider the advisability of reorganization on a more permanent basis.

The city appropriated the sum of $700 to the library project. In addition the Library Association has a balance of $181 from the receipts of the tag day held last spring. It is planned to secure the help of the high school manual training department in constructing any necessary furniture as soon as definite agreement is made regarding what new installation may be placed in the city commission room.

It is reported that the city commission has decided to permit the use of the city commission room, but is still averse to the transfer of the books there. It is expected that a civic library board is to be appointed at an early date to represent the town government in control.

Possibilities of starting the project early in the winter have been considered, with the idea that the money now available would suffice to finance it from that time to the end of the budget year.

On Fishing Trip To Lake of The Woods

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McClure arrived home Saturday from a most enjoyable two weeks' vacation trip to the Lake of the Woods in Canada, just across the Minnesota line. They went via Duluth, and traveled by motor boat and portage through the numerous lakes that make up the Lake of the Woods. They report excellent catches of muskies, pike, bass and wall-eyes from that section. On the return trip they stopped at Lake Charlevoix in northern Michigan, for steelhead and Mackinaw trout fishing. Some very beautiful lake and river scenery was reported in the north country.

Report From A Rolling Stone

Harve Sends Interesting Acct. Of Trip Through The Wild and Wooley

Whittier, California September 15, 1937.

Editor Berrien County Record Buchanan, Michigan. Dear Sir:

The best way for me to reach my friends is through printer's ink! And I want to put you to the trouble of setting the type.

I outlined my trip to you when I was at Fort Smith, Arkansas. From there I went back through Oklahoma to Choctaw, and from there on I followed Highway 69 and camped thirty-five miles north of McAllister, Oklahoma, where I camped with a widow and her daughter, who were running a filling station and who owned forty acres of land. When I left, I took them as far as McAllister, and from there on I drove to Sherman, Texas, and visited the old town where I used to live, before going on to Dallas, Texas. There I met my cousin and could not get away until the following Tuesday morning, on account of the heavy traffic over the Labor Day week-end.

From Dallas I struck on Highway 80 to El Paso. The first night I stopped at Roscoe and the next night at Boracho. At El Paso I remembered some of my friends with cards. Shortly after leaving El Paso I picked up a couple of ladies who were bound for Yuma, and took them to Lordsburg, bought their supper, and then started out for Tucson. Just as it was getting dark I pulled into Douglas, where the ladies left me, and that is the last I saw of them.

The next morning I went over into the Big Smelter and had quite a talk with them. Saw the Smelter working. From there on I went down into Bisbee, and talk about mountains and hills, and crooks and turns in the road—in Bisbee. If there had been an elevator I would have given them $5.00 to ride around instead of driving the car. I went on to Phoenix, and then on to Florence and struck north to Apache Pass; then I took the Apache trail in to the Roosevelt Dam. That was the worst mountain driving I have ever done. I stopped within sixteen miles of the Dam, at Fish Creek, and camped over night. Made the trip in the next morning to the Dam and looked it over, but my work was all under water. I then went out by the way of Globe, through Kingman, and took the road there to the Boulder Dam. What a hot trip! From there I pulled on to Boulder City, sent more cards home, and drove on to Las Vegas. About twenty miles out of Las Vegas I made camp on the prairie. The next day I drove on to Barstow, and on down to within twenty-miles of San Bernardino, camped the night, and got into Whittier the next afternoon.

Perhaps I can give you some more after a while. I am going to extend my trip up north and around, and maybe you will hear from me again. I hope you will enjoy what little I have been able to send you this time.

Yours very truly, H. S. BRISTOL.

No Word on Final Federal Action

Reported Cessation of WPA Grants Casts Doubt on Local Application

The special bond election is still scheduled for Sept. 28, as originally advertised, pending further word on the fate of Buchanan's application for a federal WPA grant of $29,000 for the construction of a sewage disposal plant of the secondary type.

The issue before the taxpayers of the city was defined in the city commission resolution as follows:

Shall the city of Buchanan raise the sum of Thirty-Five Thousand Dollars ($35,000), by loan and issue bonds of the city thereof for the purpose of constructing a sewage disposal plant.

Qualified electors will be all taxpayers who have property assessed in the city, or their wives or husbands. Such qualified electors will be admitted to the polls without certification, but their vote may be challenged in case of doubt.

The following letter was received by the city yesterday from the state Stream Control Commission:

"Being nearest to and immediately above certain choice river recreational areas and frontage, your prompt and favorable action is essential in connection with that of others to meet Commission objectives. The state's resort and recreational reputation in this area is at stake.

"Relying on your cooperation and that of the City of Niles whose project is now assured, the Commission has today authorized injunctions and decrees requiring the construction of sewage collection and treatment at Sputh Bend and Mishawaka.

"Any remaining sources of detrimental pollution along the St. Joseph River in Michigan not covered by satisfactory progress when the above decrees are obtained may be expected to face similar court action.

"It is our belief that no better time will exist than the present for the meeting of your own obligation. We trust nothing will be left undone on your part to insure a favorable result at the coming election.

"Yours very truly, Milton P. Adams, Executive Secretary and Eng., Stream Control Commission."

P. T. A. To See Travel Pictures

A set of technicolor motion pictures of Hawaii will be shown on Monday, September 27, at 7:30 o'clock in the local high school auditorium, as the entertainment part of the first meeting of the Buchanan Parent-Teachers Association. It will be accompanied by a lecture from Dr. H. O. Westervelt. Mr. Moore has seen this production. Concerning it he says: "It is the most beautiful piece of photography I have ever seen. The colors are magnificent. Some of the high points of interest are: a sunrise in Hawaii, a pit of red hot lava in a volcanic crater, and a volcano showing a river of flowing lava that destroyed Hilo."

A short business session will be held before the lecture. The new president, Mrs. George Chain, will be in charge.

All interested will be welcome, whether members or not. An opportunity will be given to meet the new teachers.

THOSE OLD BUCHANAN PICTURES

One of the most interesting things we have seen for a while was Jesse East's collection of old Buchanan pictures, which he recently had on display in Mead's barber shop, where R. R. Rouse is representing him locally in collecting pictures.

In a small but nevertheless very real way Mr. East is doing for the Buchanan community what Henry Ford is doing for America in preserving the authentic flavor of old days. We were astonished at the collection of pictures he had assembled, going back several generations. The pictures are perhaps most interesting to one knowing something of the originals, but in the reproduction of old styles they would interest anyone. We will bet that Henry Ford himself would relish looking through the collection. We will also bet that Randolph Adams, head of the William V. Clements historical library at the University of Michigan, would relish the idea of getting that book in his collection.

For eventually Mr. East plans to turn it over to some library or historical museum that will appreciate it and make suitable provision for its proper care and display. The Buchanan library will get first call, he said.

Mr. East will be back in Buchanan shortly and has promised to leave his collection at the Mead barber shop, where anyone interested can look it over and get an idea. It seems an admirable way of bringing together scenes of the community's past which will grow in interest with the passing of years. In the past great numbers of such pictures have been destroyed annually. If you have any pictures of the sort, it might mean a real community service to turn them over to Mr. East.

... THE MICROPHONE ...

News of Buchanan Schools
Collected and Edited By Members of the Journalism Class

Editorial THE STAFF

The Microphone may look like a small corner to the reader, but to us it is a full-sized account of our school, its pupils, interests, activities, and accomplishments.

In order to run such a paper an editorial staff is being formed. The permanent staff will not be definitely decided upon until the end of the first month. In the meantime weekly appointments give the candidates a chance to try out in the various branches, thus providing the opportunity to show where each pupil would work to the best advantage.

The editor-in-chief writes the editorials and gives suggestions. He will have two assistants.

The managing editor will keep the paper timely, exciting, and interesting by supplying ideas to each branch. He decides the news policy. There will be one assistant. On his shoulders rests the responsibility of having the work in good running order.

We have the news editor who keeps the datebook and prepares assignment sheets. He is responsible for all news to be turned in.

The copy editor copyreads all written work. A good knowledge of grammar, punctuation, sentence and paragraph structure, and spelling is required of this editor. Perseverance is a most necessary quality. Proof-reading of the typed copy, too, comes under his supervision.

The sports, social, humor, feature, grade and club editors keep their eyes and ears open and pens busy on news concerning their departments.

There are reporters who are always in the field ready to find all the news they can, and to write it up.

With such a staff, reporters and interested contributors, don't you think the Microphone is a corner of importance?

New Teachers

When we started to interview the new teachers we naturally began with Miss Cernahan, our new journalism teacher. Miss Cernahan, as we gathered, is a native of Eau Claire, Wisconsin. All her teaching experience has been in her home state. She graduated from the Eau Claire High School and the Eau Claire State Teachers College from which she earned her Bachelor of Education degree. She has also studied at the University of Wisconsin. On seeking her impression of Buchanan she gave this very complimentary reply, "I feel very fortunate in coming to such a beautiful town where the people are so cordial. I admire the trees and well kept homes. You people must certainly take a great deal of pride in your city."

Miss Graves is the new grade supervisor of the Buchanan grade schools. She came from Savanna, Illinois. She graduated from the Savanna High School and later attended the De Kalb State Teachers' College. From there she went to the University of Chicago where she received the Bachelor of Philosophy degree. She spent one summer at Berkeley, California, where she attend the University. When we asked her what she thought of the city and school of Buchanan, this is what she said: "I have a favorable impression of the school of Buchanan and the city in general. I think I shall enjoy my work here very much."

Mr. Langer
When we asked Mr. Langer, our agriculture teacher, for an interview, he told us to have a seat and continued: "My home town is in Benton Harbor, Michigan, where I graduated from high school. My parents have a fruit farm four and a quarter miles south east of that city." Remarkable about Buchanan he said, "You have a very nice residential town. The factories represent wonderful opportunities to the high school graduates. In regard to the school equipment your school is managed as well as any school I know of, and your equipment is above the average, although not the best I have used."

Miss Pelhank
Our new second grade teacher comes to us from Ann Arbor, Michigan, the same city from which we got Mr. Carter last year. Her home town is Ann Arbor. She graduated from the Ann Arbor High School and has attended the University of Michigan. Later she received her Bachelor of Science degree from the Ypsilanti Teachers College. Last year she taught in St. Charles, Michigan. Miss Pelhank resides at the Howe home on

West Front street. Concerning Buchanan and the school she says, "I believe the Buchanan school system is a very progressive one. The faculty as a whole impresses me as being very congenial. I sincerely hope my work here will be in keeping with the aims of the school system."

Miss Quickel
Miss Quickel has lived in every state in the United States besides having lived in Hawaii, Panama, and the Philippines. Her father is an army doctor, which accounts for the many changes of residence.

Miss Quickel's home town is Chicago. She attended high school in Boyertown, Pennsylvania, and the Millersville Pennsylvania Teachers' College, where she received her Bachelor of Science degree. She also has been a student at the University of Chicago.

Miss Quickel says, "I was really quite impressed at what a wealthy community Buchanan is. Never in my career have I encountered such polite and well behaved children and I say this in all sincerity."

Miss Rutelege
Miss Rutelege has taken the place of Miss Ahola, the fourth grade teacher at the Dewey Avenue School. She came from Auburn, Nebraska, and graduated from the University of Nebraska, although she spent her first year of college in a girls' private school. While attending the University she was quite active in social organizations, particularly the Alpha Phi and the Social Sorority.

Grade News

Miss Carnagan's first grade groups are beginning early experience reading. They make up stories about their summer activities. This experience work will prepare them for the Elson Pre-Reader.

The first grade in Miss Connell's room is thoroughly enjoying modeling with clay in connection to a unit of work on household furniture.

Mrs. Heim's second grade is interested in finding out the names of the leaves of the trees in the neighborhood of the school. At present the children are trying to find as many of the different oaks as possible.

Miss Pelhank has her second grade divided into two groups, the Rainbows and the Brownies. This grade is discussing how plants grow, how they store food, and other ways they get ready for winter.

Miss Quickel's third grade is studying the various means of transportation into Buchanan. This will later lead into a study of transportation in other communities.

Mrs. Fuller's fourth grade is reviewing the multiplication tables.

The sixth grade in Miss Abel's room have chosen some lively specimens to study; crickets and grasshoppers.

The fifth and sixth grades have been listening to the lessons broadcast for the fifth and sixth children in Chicago.

Beginning next week Dr. Leachman and Mrs. Lamb will begin dental examinations.

Mrs. Walton, former grade supervisor, was present the first week of school to help Miss Graves, the new supervisor, and grade teachers get started in their work.

Two twins, Jacqueline and Joan Cayo, formerly of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, are enrolled in Miss Reams' sixth grade.

Miss Spear's fifth grade is reading a group of stories about our door life.

The fifth grade in Miss Ekstrom's room is studying about the change of seasons, the position of the sun at different times of the year, and how the seasons affect life upon the earth.

Assembly Hears

Artist Musician

The first assembly of the year was held on Friday, September 10, in the auditorium. It was sponsored by Mr. Hyink and consisted of a musical program of piano selections from the lightning fingers of Mr. Hyink's school chum, Mr. DeHaan. The audience was entertained by Mr. De Haan's presentation of several classical works. When encored he played several popular pieces including a most acceptable presentation of that ever popular favorite, "Nola." Mr. De Haan consented, after being encored a second time more heartily than the first, to play a selection from Bach. Mr. De Haan is a student at Western State Teachers' College. We hope that we shall hear from Mr. DeHaan again in the future.

Student Vacations

It appears that just about all the students had an enjoyable vacation. It was heard that Evelyn Wallquist had an enjoyable two weeks at Chicago during the summer. She found it a noisy place, much to do and much to see. She also found it very beautiful when viewed from an airplane at night.

"I went South to Virginia this summer," said Ben Harvel, "and enjoyed a very good summer with all my folks. We went through Cudjays Cave and saw beautiful rock formations. We also motored to Morris Dam in Tennessee which is fifth largest dam in the world. It is all modernistic and has three rivers which fill in constantly to help make power. The water will go over the top in January."

It was Betty Ryan's privilege to spend ten days this summer at Riverside Camp which is located north east of Buchanan. At this camp you may indulge in most any kind of sport you wish to. You might also take part in the classes held at Riverside. There were over two hundred young people on the grounds the entire time. Most of the young people attending were from Michigan, but there were also some from Chicago and Indiana. The young people had a grand time preparing amateur programs, stunt night, and also camp fires. Betty also spent two weeks in West Unity, Ohio, with her brother and his family, and a few days at Indian Lake enjoying swimming and other sports.

It was revealed today that Ruth Wilsey spent the month of July at St. Knox, Kentucky, visiting the army post. She enjoyed a change of shows every night in a new theater which has just been completed for the army people. She also states that the Kentucky sun is very hot. Returning home by bus she enjoyed a pleasant view of changing scenery.

Raymond DeWitt spent almost the entire summer just working at home for you know he is going to be a farmer. He also spent two days at Riverside Park Assembly which is located just east of his home. There he had a grand time, and met lots of new and interesting people.

Future Bachelors

The boys' home economics class held its first meeting September 7, during class. It was decided by the class to change the name of the club from Future Husbands of America to Future Bachelors of America. The officers which were elected at the first meeting are:

President, George Burgoyne; vice-president, Harold Hittle; Secretary, Fred Manning; treasurer, Ben Harvel. They plan to initiate the boys joining the club in the near future. A second meeting was held on September 15. The club voted to put on the pep meetings for the football games, and it expects to have support from the entire student body.

A FIELD TRIP
The senior class met at Wisner's Drug Store Tuesday morning, September 14th, and proceeded from there on a field trip to the L. B. Spafford estate, located on River Street near the city limits. The purpose of the trip was to develop the students' powers of observation and description. If you have ever been at the Spafford home or even passed by there, you will agree that there are worlds to see. Mr. Spafford is a very interesting character and has done much about his estate to improve and beautify it. The English class took notice of the scenes, impres-sweep you off of your feet. Here's hoping they will do the same to the opposing team.

Instead of a heap of steel and rubber a fine row of shiny bicycles are seen in the back yard of the school. This change is due to the new stands erected for the purpose of providing a satisfactory place for parking the bicycles.
The schoolboard searched the countryside and found several new teachers to help fill the vacancies on the teaching staff.
New equipment was added to the shop so new rooms were built there. Last and unnoticed by the students' parents, we have many new books this year.
So, with these new books, new teachers, new equipment, and a new year, let's make this the most enjoyable and interesting year that Buchanan High School has ever had.

HUMILIATED
Dolls and small tables were welcoming a sophomore class on September seventh. Many of the girls stood speechless. What was this? The sewing room had vanished.
Very shortly Miss Krebs explained that the Home Economics Department was to occupy the cooking room. Arrangements would be made for both cooking and sewing there, and further details told them that a division of the second grade was to be given the former sewing room.

Disappointment soon changed into plans for possible changes in the foods room.

President, George Burgoyne; vice-president, Harold Hittle; Secretary, Fred Manning; treasurer, Ben Harvel. They plan to initiate the boys joining the club in the near future. A second meeting was held on September 15. The club voted to put on the pep meetings for the football games, and it expects to have support from the entire student body.

A FIELD TRIP
The senior class met at Wisner's Drug Store Tuesday morning, September 14th, and proceeded from there on a field trip to the L. B. Spafford estate, located on River Street near the city limits. The purpose of the trip was to develop the students' powers of observation and description. If you have ever been at the Spafford home or even passed by there, you will agree that there are worlds to see. Mr. Spafford is a very interesting character and has done much about his estate to improve and beautify it. The English class took notice of the scenes, impres-

TIGHTWADDING IT THROUGH EUROPE

London, I was awakened in my hotel on a quiet side street by a man out in front playing the accordion and singing "Isle of Capri".

Mostly the dress of the people in town and country is not distinguishable from that of America, but there are exceptions. On the streets of Gothenberg the first day I saw dandies who might have posed for fashion plates of the eighties or nineties wearing lilac or bowler hats, old style coats, those high "wing" collars that have been described as giving the wearer the appearance of being always about to "take off". Middle-aged and elderly ladies appeared on the streets in styles of the same period. Many elderly women were full mourning including long flowing black dresses and veils. A mourning custom followed by young and old alike was the black arm band.

It is this mixture of the new and old, of modernity and antiquity that gives Sweden much of its interest. Side by side, it seems, you see modern times and middle ages. The Swedes are prone both to adopt the new and keep the old. In old Swedish farmsteads back in the hills, with the house and farm buildings arranged in a square, all built of black, weather-stained logs perhaps centuries old, you would find electric lights in all buildings, an electric stove in the kitchen. So in government Sweden and Norway have developed notably successful democracies, yet each retains its royalty. In Sweden at least, you soon find that the king is not a ruler; he is more of a relic. But I will cover all that ground later.

Last week I concluded with a quotation from Mr. James C. Lee, late fireman on the yacht of the Swedish inventor and manufacturer of the Electrolux refrigerator. Mr. Lee was quoted as a most competent witness on Swedish social conditions.

My wife had taken the train for Bollnas in north Sweden and I was waiting for the train to Oslo. Mr. Lee was also waiting for his boat for New York City. Whiling the time, he conversed of wondrous things he had seen in the course of two journeys around the world. He was just telling about a trip to the Canary Islands in which they took off quite a cargo of canaries, when he suddenly checked his story, perhaps noting a growing unbelief in the face of his audience.

"What was the most interesting place you saw?" we queried. He reflected, "Athens," he said "It's so educational there. They have a lot of ruins there."

So he bade me goodbye and gave me his address on a postcard with a view of the Acropolis. He said he'd be glad to hear from me at that address. He went home about once every two years. He was a fine strapping young fellow, although a bit devil-may-care, but there were a couple of times later when I would have appreciated the sight of his broad shoulders.

I had a little time left and cast about for ways to spend the time. It seemed as though I ought to visit an art gallery. They have great national and civic art galleries in all those cities, and travelers are supposed to see them. I took a bus for the art gallery, but promptly got lost and the first thing I knew I was whizzing out through the country bound for a neighboring city on an interurban bus. The solution is always simple and I thought of it at once. I got off at the next stop and waited for a bus back. Meanwhile I watched them make hay in an adjoining field.

Hay is never allowed to cure on the ground in Sweden or Norway, for it probably never would. They build hay frames or fences. They consist of upright posts set in a row, perhaps 15 feet apart and as many posts as are needed. On the same side of each post protrude sidearms at upward angles like those holding single wires on telephone lines here. Long poles are laid horizontally on these posts, perhaps 18 inches apart, up and down. The hay is hung over these arms. You see them every where. The Swedes use much modern farming machinery, but in small fields you will see men mowing with scythes and women raking by hand. That is the way it was in that field—but they were hauling in cured hay on a new auto truck!

When I got back to town it was too late to do the art gallery, so I went to the market instead. The markets are as interesting and as educational as any gallery or museum. At first sight you would take them for a flower market. The Swedes make the most of the short summer and they are hungry for vegetation, especially for color. Great blooms resembling begonias but with large thick red petals different from any I have seen here, were predominant, also large white daisies. There were bouquets of both tame and wild flowers. There is always an abundance of fish at every public market place there. Also of various kinds of cheese. There is a dark brown goat's cheese highly prized. I bought a little and tried it. It was mild and sweetish. I like my cheese robust. The Swedish grown vegetables and fruits are not as large as in this country; potatoes were particularly smallish. But at Stockholm I spent hours in the markets and we will wait till we get there.

But you can learn quite a bit about the people in the markets and they don't charge you to get in, which appealed to a tightwadder. I went to the railway station for my train, due out shortly afternoon. The station was crowded with people of many nationalities, including numerous Americans. Gothenberg is the main point of arrival from America and they were scattering from there for all parts of Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland. Rather I think the Danes stay on the boats which go out to Copenhagen. Anyway I was watching the people so that I did not notice the station, except that small trucks, not unlike the Clark tractors, were wheeling the baggage about.

A crowd was waiting for the Oslo train. I did not know then I could get my seat in the third class coach reserved at no charge. The electric train drew up to the station. I ran along the train until I found a coach with the numeral 3 on it. Every seat was full, but finally I found a sort of jack-in-the-box seat that opened down from the side of the aisle which ran along the side of the compartments in which all foreign coaches are divided. Then I glued my face to the window and watched a regular fairy country stream past. The province along the west coast of Sweden between Gothenberg and Oslo was the most brilliant with color I saw in Europe. Covered with low hills with many granite rocks protruding, the hillsides seemed solid, with masses of yellow and reddish pink flowers. A Norwegian who could speak English said the reddish flowers were called the equivalent of "cherry-bloom" in his country. Farm buildings were painted the brightest imaginable tints. Even the farm implements were painted brilliant blues, and other colors. At all the railway stations there were iron electric light posts with circular flower beds around the post about seven feet up, from which trailed red fuchsia and other flowers, then in full bloom.

Toward evening we crossed the line into Norway and immediately there was a sharp change in the character of the houses and in fact of the scenery. We entered a country of somber colors but of long sweeps of lake and mountain, and clothed with a perfect pine, spruce and birch forests. But I will tell of Norway next week.

Mr. Carter: "I stayed in Buchanan all summer and worked at Batchelor's Radio Sales Company." Mr. Flenar: (Janitor) "I spent the entire vacation working and improving the conditions of the schools." Miss Krebs, the home economics instructor, went west on her vacation. She visited California, San Francisco, and the Yosemite National Park, also the Boulder and Coulee Dams which were a great center of interest. Last but not least she viewed Robert Taylor's home and saw him in person. Ray Miller, our manual arts teacher, attended Western State Teachers College. Mrs. Whitman, history, was at her home all of the vacation with the exception of five days. Her time was largely occupied with work on her garden. Mr. Rizer told me to report that he painted during the greater part of his vacation period. Miss Henry, the athletic instructor, replies that she got "oodles" of enjoyment by playing tennis and golf. Leah Weaver, French and Latin teacher, spent most of her time in her own back yard enjoying her vacation with ease. She made several trips to Berrien Springs and had one going fishing on the pier. Mrs. Dunbar, English, went to Ohio, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia for a two weeks tour. She also went on a fishing trip up north. Mrs. Fishnar had a very interesting vacation this summer. First she went to visit her niece who lives near Detroit. After spending three weeks there she went on to Baltimore, Maryland. From there she went to Washington where she went through the White House. She admired new buildings which she said are very fine. Mrs. Wilcox spent most of her vacation this summer at Burt Lake with her sister. The lake is located north of Grand Rapids. During the first two weeks at the lake there was good fishing. About one hundred and fifty fish were caught, and Mrs. Wilcox did have some very good luck. One morning while they were fishing, Mrs. Wilcox threw out her bait and something grasped it. After much struggling and fighting she landed a seven pound wall-eyed pike. She had it cooked at the hotel where she was staying and it was very delicious. This is really a true fish story.

Answers To Banking Questions

Who Decides Whether a Bank Loan Shall Be Granted?

In most banks there is a loan committee which passes on loan applications. This committee is made up of bank officers specializing a loaning work. In many instances this committee includes some of the bank directors. Loans up to a certain amount are usually passed on by a single officer of the bank in the loaning department.

In a broad sense most decisions on loans are guided by banking laws and regulations, and by recognized principles of sound bank management. Generally speaking, character, credit standing and collateral are the three most important factors to be considered in making decisions on loan applications.

This bank welcomes the opportunity to make useful loans, under sound banking requirements, which will help the borrower and the community, and safeguard the deposits entrusted to its care.
