Geo. Steininger is remodeling and modernizing the old farm house, and installing good work insulation in the walls and roof. The frontage on the road is to be landscaped according to plans by a Chicago landscape gardener. Miss Wall visited at the place Sunday.

Apple Butter Note: Over the Klassified Kol you will see a rather interesting advt about cider making. Or anyway if you feel as we do, anything about cider-making is interesting. Ira Neiswender is offering Delicious seconds for making cider. They are cheap this year, and there is a difference in cider made from Delicious, Neiswender says. They make a difference in apple butter too, he says. Here is his recipe for that: for the cider, use Red Delicious; for the body, the "schmitz," use Golden Delicious. Then you'll have something. Ira Neiswender has a 30-gallon copper kettle and makes his apple butter in the good old fashioned way—over a wood fire out-of-doors.

To Comeline Soy Beans: Ed Jesswein was in Buchanan last week after screens for combining his soy beans. The beans will be harvested this year by combine for the most part instead of being cut and threshed from the stack in the old way. A good crop is about 20 bushels to the acre. Local farmers use the beans as a protein supplement in live stock feed.

Farm Bureau Election: The Buchanan Farm Bureau installed officers at the Wednesday evening meeting last week, as follows: president, Robert Koenigshof; vice president, Albert Houswerth; secretary-treasurer, James Reed; chairman program committee, LaRue Gillette; chairman entertainment committee, Rex Mihal; chairman finance committee, Ollie York; chairman of eats, Mrs. Paul DeWitt.

Maroons Trim Tornadoes 26-7

Niles Outclassed For Their Worst Rout in History of the Series

By Joan Schultz and Matthew Rauch

Coach Johnny Miller's "Fighting Bucks" trimmed Bradfield's "Golden Tornadoes" on the home field Saturday 26-7, Buchanan thus winning its third game in four starts. The Bucks played dominating ball all the way, showing a great defense, also an offense of real power. They scored touchdown in the first quarter, one in the second quarter, and in the third two.

In the first quarter the Bucks got a break when J. Cook fumbled on the Buchanan 23 yard line and Bainton, Buck center, recovered the ball. Niles had marched 40 yards at the time of the fumble. Buchanan showed its power by driving 77 yards to the goal. Stevens, after carrying the burden of the march, put the ball over from the 3 yard line. Smith's kick was good. Score: Buchanan 7, Niles, 0. The quarter ended with Buchanan having possession of the ball on Niles' 23 yard line. To gain possession of the ball on the 23 they recovered another fumble, this time by Saratove, and recovered by Bainton again.

With the second quarter only five plays old Buchanan had scored their second touchdown. Smith on three plays carried the ball 11 yards to the Niles' 12 yard line. On the next play the Bucks reached in the trick bag and pulled out a forward lateral that worked for the touchdown. The play went from Leiter to Simpson to Smith who went over from the six yard line. Smith's kick was good. The score was now Buchanan 14 Niles 0, and the half ended the same way, Buchanan 14, Niles 0.

At the start of the second half Stevens kicked off to Niles and after three plays Niles punted to Buchanan's 40 yard line. Two tries at the line netted the Bucks 5 yards. They again reached in the bag and pulled out the same play. A forward lateral from Leiter to Simpson to Trapp gave them their third touchdown. Trapp took the lateral from Simpson on the Niles' 45 yard line and raced down the side lines to the score. Smith's kick was blocked making the score 20 to 0 in favor of the Bucks.

After a series of plays had netted nothing Niles sent Captain Lynd back to punt. He punted to the Bucks' 5 yard line, where Donley returned it to the 12 yard line. On the next play they sent Stevens, ace fullback, through the center. He charged and with perfect blocking ran the remaining distance of 78 yards to the score. At one time there were 5 anxious tacklers on him but he squirmed away to the score. Smith missed the kick putting the score up to 26-0 in favor of the Bucks.

Miller then sent in the reserves to get some experience. Niles went to work. After an exchange of punts they gained possession of the ball on the Bucks' 45 yard line. Buchanan was penalized for clipping to their 30 yard line. Line plays and a short pass put the ball on the Bucks' 6 yard line. Saratove then put the ball over and kicked the extra point. The score was 26-7 in favor of the Bucks. Buchanan took the kickoff and started on their own 37 and ended on the 2 yard line because of the whistle and the end of the game. The victory evened the series between the two rivals at 6 wins apiece.

Pleasant district to the south.

Begin Work On Library Set-Up

Representative Of State Library Here to Advise Board on Start of Project

The Buchanan Library board met last night at the city commission room with Miss Bement, representative of the state library staff to confer on the set-up of the renovated library in the city commission rooms.

Original plans have been altered to admit of the possibility of moving the book stacks from the clerk's office to the commission room. Plans are to be drawn up today in conference with Miss Bement for the type and arrangement of tables and the lighting lists.

It is expected that active work in arranging the set-up will begin at once, with a view to opening the reading room as soon after Nov. 1 as possible.

Alumni of Burr Oak and Walnut Colleges Hold 33d Annual Reunion

Meeting was held. The charter members were: Millie Roe, Nina Linley, Kate M. Rough, Sally Kingery, Ollie Miller, Evelyn Wykoff, Lizzie Bromfield, Lucinda Staples, Mahala McDonald, Mary McDonald, Mary Frame, Mrs. Boone having been unable to attend. The initiates next year were Nancy Doughty, Addie Miller, Mattie Boone, Alyce Huff, Sarah Sellers, Emma Buckles, Millie Augustine, Ollie Ray.

A reason for the loyalty was that all the youthful associations of the former school attendants clustered around the country institutions, the schools, Portage Chapel and the old Dunkard church. In summer time there was the picnic ground in Burr Oak grove just across the road from the home of her father, Calvin Myer. There were held the rousing political rallies, and spellbinders, including Vice President Schuyler Colfax, often came out from South Bend to address them.

In the winter time there was the singing school at Portage Chapel, and the spelling and writing schools at the school houses, usually held on Friday night and attended by old and young. There some skilled penman, often the teacher, instructed them in the old fashioned copperplate Spencerian, and in making doves and other script masterpieces with one stroke of the pen. They had no cars, and the roads were miserable so there was no faring afield for amusement. Among the best vehicles of transportation was the fine double-seated carriage ornamented with fancy fixin's, which Calvin Myler gathered his family in to ride behind his glossy span of big matched bays, resplendent in a patent leather harness.

Only two of the charter members of the "Old School Girls Reunion" survive, but there are a few later joiners, and the memory remains green even with the daughters and granddaughters.

Tight-Wadding It Through Europe

CHAPTER VIII Well, friends, readers, countrymen, I am beginning to run into the usual snags which confront great travelers from Marco Polo down to yours truly—some people are beginning to tell me I am off. There is my wife for instance—she tells me that I never did get the Norwegian word for street right, that it is "gade," not gada or gatan as in Swedish. She says if I am not careful some of the local Norwegians will suspect that I am an American.

Then there was Martin Pearson, who tells me that down in Sconia,

Last Local Civil War Veteran 95

John Coveny's Birthday On Wednesday, Oct. 20

A birthday of unusual interest in the Buchanan district was that marking the 95th milestone in the life of the community's last surviving Civil War veteran, John Coveny, which fell on Wednesday, October 20.

Mr. Coveny makes his home with his daughter, Mrs. Bert Mitchell, in the Madron community, where he has lived nearly all his long life. Coveny is a veteran of Battery L, First Michigan Artillery, which was mustered into service at Coldwater, Mich., April 11, 1863. The unit left for the south on May 20, and in three weeks saw service in several engagements in the chase and capture of General Morgan, famous Confederate cavalry leader and terror of the border. The unit was among the Michigan boys in blue who followed Morgan through Kentucky and southern Ohio. Engagements were fought at Triplett's Ridge, Steubenville, Salinesville, and near Cincinnati all in Ohio. After that Battery L was on guard duty the remainder of the war, spending the winter of 1863-4 and until June 11, 1864, guarding Cumberland Gap. The last weeks of the war Battery L guarded the Union hospital at Knoxville, Tenn.

Coveny was discharged when the battery was mustered out Aug. 22, 1865. He returned to Buchanan and after a number of years of farming he enrolled in the law school at the University of Michigan and received his diploma in 1887 at the age of 45. He practiced a short time in the Twin Cities, and then returned to farming, being one of the pioneer peach growers of the section. His father was Joseph Coveny, pioneer of the Coveny district. He has two sisters still living, Mrs. Lelia Diltz, age 82, of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. Retta Noon, age 75, Claremont, Florida.

Continuing the sharp recession of the preceding two weeks, the Weekly Food Index, compiled by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., fell 4c further to $2.82 for the period October 12. This marked a total drop of 10c, or 3.4 per cent, in three weeks, and brought the current figure to within 1c of the 1937 low of $2.81 recorded on June 22. The latest index, however, continued above the 1936 comparative of $2.76, the gain amounting to 2.2 per cent.

This week's figures show only four advances against fifteen declines. Lower prices were recorded for flour, wheat, corn, oats, rye, barley, mess pork, bacon, lard, sugar, cottonseed oil, cocoa, raisins, beans and hogs. Higher quotations were shown only for butter, steers, lambs and sheep.

Buchanan Meets St. Hedwidge 11

By John Schultz and Matthew Rauch

The Buchanan football team fresh from a very decisive and impressive victory over Niles last Saturday will meet a Hoosier team this next Saturday, October 23, on the home field. It will start at 2:30.

St. Hedwidge has played us before and proved to be plenty tough. We all know how these Hoosier teams play this game of football. Ask Niles how they play it. St. Hedwidge has not its best team in years, but don't worry, there will be eleven men on the field fighting for St. Hedwidge's alma mater. They have had difficulty in finding a winning combination. Last week they played Washington High of South Bend. Although they were defeated they put on one grand display of passing. Their ace fullback, Dulciet, completed 23 out of 40 passes he tried. There is going to be an excellent display of passing Saturday by both teams.

The Bucks showed up very well against Niles by using power plays mixed up with a few trick plays.

The support at the Niles game was much better but still can be improved. Come, see a winning team win its fifth consecutive game.

Claimed Find Of Bank Gold

Stranger With "Doodle Bug" Digs on E. Horner Farm For Eau Claire Bank Money

Much speculation was caused in the Moccasin Bluff district last week as the result of the visit of a mysterious stranger with a "doodle bug" gold finding contrivance who asserted that he knew of the hiding place of $20,000 taken in the Eau Claire bank robbery about 15 years ago.

The stranger gave the name of Forbes and claimed to live on an island on the St. Joseph near Niles. He offered first to "split" with Elwood Horner, owner of the location where he wanted to dig. Horner refused his offer, saying that if he knew of any buried bank money he had better go get the sheriff. The stranger, left saying he would see the sheriff. He returned later in company with a woman and another man, asserting that he had the approval of Sheriff Miller. He took his "doodle bug" out in Horner's grape patch, and dug a hole about 3x5 feet in dimension and ten feet deep. On going back he took a gun from the car.

He left unseen by Horner, and did not fill the hole. Horner had secured the number and description of his car.

Local representatives of the sheriff's office discounted the significance of the story, saying that Forbes is evidently unbalanced. A man of that description coming from Niles had visited the sheriff's office last summer and had exhibited a gold finding contrivance similar to that which Forbes carried.

The redecorated Clark Theatre will be initiated on the evening of Monday, Nov. 1, by a showing of the famous commercial film, "Stan," brought here by the local Standard Oil distributor Glenn Swaim.

Children in Court

Thousands of small cities and villages continue to have high per capita juvenile crime rates simply because they refuse to supervise and direct the recreational activities of their young men and women into harmless and healthful channels.

Boys enjoy the spirit that motivates the gang and cannot be housed in the back yard. There is little need to attempt to break up a group of youngsters for they invariably congregate in out of the way places. To deal out harsh punishment to a boy who insists on meeting his friends does not solve the problem but causes him to become hardened and bitter toward life. Unless such districts provide supervised recreation for their youth, they will continue to provide Dillingers for the large cities to cope with.

TIGHTWADING IT THROUGH EUROPE

I had imagined that the penalty of riding in third class cars on European trains would be association with various shady and disreputable characters, but never once was that true, in Norway, Sweden, Germany, France, England or Scotland. True it was that the seats were for the most part of hard slats and I noticed something really peculiar to which I invite the attention of science—when I rode all night sitting bolt upright they became harder and harder toward morning.

The compartment on the train out of Oslo was much larger than the usual train compartment—I think it took up about a half of the smallest coach, and would perhaps accommodate 24 people or more. It was full when we left Oslo but was less crowded as we went north. There were a number of very quiet and respectable looking middle-aged people in hiking garb, evidently going out from Oslo for a vacation hike in the hills. Invariably they had knapsacks. Across the aisle was a middle-aged couple—the man about 50, the woman perhaps 45, both in khaki, with knapsacks. I had acquired the notion in Oslo that Norwegians were sort of offish aloof people and that it would not pay to take liberties.

So for a couple of hours or so I glued my face to the window and watched the rocky-half-mountain, half-farm country stream by. As it was north of Gothenberg, the hills were bright with great patches of yellow and of pink "cherry-bloom." I wanted to ask questions but the sight of my reserved fellow travelers with their noses buried in papers and magazines daunted me.

They are very literate in those countries and there seems to be a variety of publications, including many on sports and on home interests. The Scandinavians are great for "idiot" or sports.

The train rolled along the shores of a long, long lake, and the country became more mountainous. I thought for a while that perhaps it was a fjord, but I learned later it was a long narrow lake. There were some lumbering and steam tugs pulling great rafts of lumber as they did on Muskegon bay 50 years ago. Also to a less extent on the St. Joseph river.

But the day really began as we rolled into the Gulbrandsen valley, the heart of old Norway. The day that ensued from there on until 3 a. m. the next morning was one of the red-letter days of my life. The train swung up a great valley, with a fairly wide bed and soaring mountains perhaps 1,000 to 2,000 feet on each side. But we were not yet in the real mountain country and the hills great as they were and steeper than the steepest sides of the Chamberlain hills, were farmed half way to the tops. I marveled at the grain fields on steep slopes. How they ever maintained them I do not know. But this valley had been farmed for thousands of years.

The buildings began to assume a more antique character, the typical architecture of old Norway. There were old churches of a semi-Russian type of architecture; queer houses with upper stories set out a foot or so beyond the upper stores and wide pagoda-like eaves. I wanted to ask questions.

But here the conductor began to bother me. He saw from my ticket that I had to make some changes on small margins of time, and had to get my ticket signed at the stations where I changed trains. He knew I was a foreigner and seemed afraid I did not know what to do. The travel bureau agent had done a thorough job of explaining and I thought I did. Nevertheless he apparently could not speak a word of English, and though I spoke the Scandinavian languages very fluently there was the handicap that no one seemed to know what I was talking about.

Nevertheless the conductor came with smiling, polite patience and leaned over my seat-time and again, explaining elaborately in Norwegian which meant nothing to me. I noticed the other passengers watching us, smiling, and I got rather irked about it. After all it's nothing to laugh at, this being on your own in a strange land, and I guess we Americans are not so dumb.

After a while a girl about 16 years old sat down in the empty seat in front and wrote on the edge of a newspaper and handed it to me. Now right here I wish to say I told this at a Lions club meeting and they insisted on misunderstanding me. When I offered to answer questions afterward all they wanted to know about was about that girl. They seemed to want to infer that I was stuck on that girl.

Well, they were just right, I was—not only on that girl but on several girls and boys I met in the Scandinavian countries and in the continent and England. But coming back to this one—she handed me the paper and on the margin was scribbled: "At Dombas you will have to place yourself in another wagon."

It seems that the other passengers were really concerned and that there had been in a sort of huddle in the back of the coach as to how

I should be informed of what I had to do. This girl went to the "folk school" as they call the high schools, and was studying English so she was deputized to meet the situation. "Wagon" is the word used over much of Europe for a railway car or coach. The gist of the message was that at Dombas I would leave the main line and go on a branch "fish railway" out to the coast through a tremendous canyon. I really knew this but I had no objection to being informed over again by so handsome and gracious a young lady.

There was my chance to learn things and I got out my note book and started writing questions, when it was evident that she could not grasp spoken English as well. Then I found out that all the other passengers were watching and several came forward and clustered around. The quiet reserved, looking man in hiking garb across the aisle took his nose out of his magazine and joined in and it transpired that he could talk English quite well. From then on I had information in gobs. Another "folk school" girl came forward and sat down beside the first. They were both studying English and were eager to have a chance to try it out. I would have liked to believe that it was my romantic presence that was the attraction but years and hard experience have disillusioned me about that.

In those countries learning languages is a serious business with the young folks. They don't study them for credit only as is too often the case in America. To be able to speak a foreign language, especially English, German or French is an asset of real value that will mean additional income to them if they go into the world. So they study to speak and when they get a chance to try out their hard-bought knowledge they go after it. So did these girls. They wrote and scribbled on slips of paper; they cocked their ears and strained to understand what I said. When they managed to understand and get an answer back it was a matter of temporary triumph and general congratulation in that end of the third class compartment. Other passengers came forward and volunteered matters of information which were laboriously translated by the young interpreters, and where they broke down the English speaking Norwegian finished the job.

I began to inquire about the passing country and when they found out that I really admired their country the general understanding was complete. From then on I was loaded with more attention than I ever had on a train before or since. A woman who was traveling with a very old lady, her mother, was about to get off and she left her box of Norwegian sandwiches with me. We passed quaint old Norwegian towns with old stave churches. We went through the famous old town of Lillehammer, where they have an outdoor museum of old Norwegian culture. There also is the home of one of Norway's world-famous writers, Sigfred Undset, the appearances of whose novels are world events. Buchanan people who get the New York Times at Roots will note that she has the place of honor in the Book Review section of Sunday, Oct. 10. Near this town, I think, was the former home of another great writer, Bjornstjerne. Near another town was the mountain farm of the legendary hero Peer Gynt,

"Probation after Death" will be the subject of the Lesson Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, October 24.
The Golden Text, from Matthew 24:13, is "He that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved."
Among the Bible citations is this passage (Galatians 6:9): "And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not."
Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 262): "Consecration to good does not lessen man's dependence on God, but heightens it. Neither does consecration diminish man's obligations to God, but shows the paramount necessity of meeting them."

Junior High News

The seventh and eighth graders have become accustomed to the routine of high school. Especially have the seventh graders found out that school is more than just running around school. The literature class in the seventh grade is dramatizing the stories read in class. Some of the best liked short stories are: "We Willie Winkie," "Coaly Bay, the Outlaw Horse," "The Freshman," and "Khambou." They have just started "Rip Van Winkle" and find sleepy old Rip very amusing. Also in their literature work they are making note books which they fill with pictures illustrating their stories.

The seventh graders have organized a speech group and have elected officers. The following officers are: president, Bill Montgomery; vice-president, Wilma Morganthau; secretary, Catherine Babcock; and program secretary, Jessica Doak. The program committee is composed of James Fagnras, Wilma Morganthau, David Van Every, Bill Montgomery, and Catherine Babcock. These seventh graders have decided to become actors. They have plays every Friday morning in English class. They have already had two, the first being a style show and the second about the life of Columbus in honor of Columbus' Day.

The two eighth grade sections are completing a unit of literature which included the three very interesting and thought-provoking short stories: "The Lady or the Tiger" by Stelston, "The Great Carbuncle" by Hawthorne, and "Miti-Guy Mutineer" by Kixby. Short dramatizations from the stories have been enjoyed by both teacher and class. Speech drills, written work, news articles, and illustrated notebooks have each its time and prominence. A student chairman presides over the Friday news discussion and reports.

DEWEY SCHOOL NEWS

The kindergarten children have been collecting old papers and magazines to be sold so they can purchase some new equipment for their doll house.

The boys made small wooden boats which they painted yellow. Pets have made a very interesting subject for the first graders this week. They made booklets about pet cats and dogs.

The second grade children have been enjoying their new books. Some of them are: "Tommy Tatters," "The Little Engine That Could," "Boy Blue and His Friends," "Never Grow Old Stories," and "Child Life in Many Lands."

The third grade pupils are making a very thorough study of milk. They have made posters to illustrate the story of milk.

Groups two and three are enjoying the new readers, "The Friendly Village," also many new library books.

The fourth grade has been observing "Fire Prevention Week" by gathering statistics from insurance companies on loss of property and lives. The pupils made a very educational observation of the local fire station and have been studying about many great fires of the past such as the "Irequis," the "Chicago," and many other great disasters. They have profited from this study by learning scientific methods of extinguishing fires, and ways to prevent fires caused by carelessness.

SPECIAL ROOM

Plans are being made for a Halloween party in the special room. William Forgeue is the chairman of the decorating committee. He has as helpers Billy Ferris, Willis Hurly, and Evelyn Liska. Doris Wolkins is chairman of the refreshment committee. Helping her are Janet Doyle and Clifford Good.

Two new children enrolled this week are Ira and Henry Likken who came from the Calvin school. Many new books made up the reading table. Some are: "Cuppy Kitten," "Way and Puff," "All Through the Day," "Happy Hour Stories," "Yip and Yap," and "Snipp, Snapp, Smurr, and The Red Shoes."

Grade News

In a few days we shall be amazed at the odors coming from the domestic science room. The third grade children have been studying wheat and are planning to make some tea biscuits under the direction of their teacher, Miss Quicker. They will mix the ingredients together in their room and bake the biscuits in the kitchen. The girls have started to make recipe books as a hobby.

Mary Fagnras, whose father was born in Greece, brought in a hand apparatus for winding wool.

Dewight Helm, Ruth Young, Harold Helermann, and George Hattenback received 100 in a reading test this week. The children have New Elson Work Books in reading.

The citizen officers chosen in the fourth grade are: captain, Barbara Zaleman; boy lieutenant, Billy Hess; and girl lieutenant, Jo Ann Dalrymple. These young people are leaders in directing the room conduct, playground discipline, and general house hold duties of the schoolroom.

A miniature Belgian Congo village is being built in the fourth grade room under the supervision of Miss Fuller. This village is to illustrate the home life of Bombo, the little black boy around whom their geography work is now centered. The committee in charge is Barbara Raison, Wayne Watson, Dora Dean Letter and Dewayno Townsend.

Newspaper work is being done in Miss Carnagan's first grade. The name of their paper is "First Grade Tribune." Three sections are the main divisions and they are devoted to pets, sports, and ways of traveling.

A spelling contest is being run in Miss Ekstrom's fifth grade in the form of a spell-down. Captains are Ruth Van Every and Tom Van Duesen. The contest is over everyday work. At present the sides are tied after a two weeks' run.

These pupils of Miss Ekstrom's room are also collecting flowers, leaves, and insects for Nature Study.

Having completed their bird books, second grade pupils are going to study a unit on Holland. Miss Polhank has been using a microphone for broadcasting. This is used in language class. A toy telephone is being used by the pupils along with the telephone directories which they made.

Nature study is showing the pupils the effect of sunlight on plants. They find the study of photosynthesis interesting.

The first grade, under the direction of Miss Connell, are starting a food project. This project consists of pictures of foods made free hand. The pupils are making a practice of eating the different foods at home.

Two projects on chart work are found in Miss Spear's room. The fifth grade pupils have a chart entitled "Tree of Knowledge." The leaves are booklets which represent the record of library books read. Another chart is being made for vitamins. This is in connection with health study.

Letters are being received by the sixth grade students in Miss Roam's room. They are called "world letters" for the reason that they come from different parts of the world. World letters were received from the British Isles. Another letter was brought to school by Wayne Six. It was from India. He also brought some Indian money.

CHUMS FOR FIVE YEARS

Have you noticed those two tall girls that are always together? They are in the junior class. You guessed right. They're Martha Sands and Wanda Wideman. "We have been chums for about five years," said Wanda. "I guess it's because we quarrel so much."

Martha came to Buchanan in 1932 from Plymouth, Indiana. Wanda has lived in Buchanan all her life.

The girls agree on a lot of things such as things to eat, books, and movies. They both have various reasons for liking a certain model A Ford car. We wonder what the big attraction is.

BUCKS GET REAL SUPPORT

By Matthew Rauch

Friday, October 8, the Buchanan High School called a meeting in the assembly for a pep-meeting. This was the best pep-meeting Buchanan has had the last four years. It is no wonder the football team won over Paw Paw, for the students gave them enough power to win over any team.

Saturday morning, October 10, the Niles Cardinals will come here to try and win a victory. Let's get together Friday and have another real pep-meeting. Give the boys some real power so they will run away with Niles as they did with Paw Paw.

The student body and townspeople have given the football team more support on-the out of town games than they get at home. We're all going to support the boys at home Saturday. Are you going to be there?

SENIOR CLASS PARTY

The senior class came out on top last Saturday night, clearing fifteen dollars from their highly published Fall Dance. Music was provided by all the best orchestras in Chicago: Jan Garber, Wayne King, Ted Weems, and others via the American Legion public address system and a radio provided by Herb Bachelor. Refreshments consisting of cider and doughnuts were served midway during the course of the party.

A big surprise was scheduled for 10 o'clock. We wonder if the big surprise didn't come an hour or more later in the form of a pandemonium when the master switch was thrown and the lights went out all over the building. Consternation in the hearts of the girls expressed itself through the medium of screams. Loud resounding shouts mingled with popping balloons pierced the darkness. Then the lights came and "On with the dance."

USHER CLUB

Wednesday, October 13, the Usher Club met for the purpose of electing officers. Shirley Trapp was elected president, Agnes Kovich head usher, and Mattha Trapp secretary. This year eight seniors and six juniors were elected into the club. The girls were judged as to appearance, neatness, personality, and willingness to work. Miss Quade is in charge of the club. The girls duties are to act as ushers at all school plays and activities held in the auditorium. You can tell them by their maroon coats and ties on white dresses.

NEWS FROM MRS. LAMB'S CORNER

With the help of Dr. Leachman, the school dentist, all of the children's teeth in the school have had an examination. Those who had perfect teeth in the grades had their names placed on the honor roll which was hung in each room. Those not having perfect teeth had a note sent to their parents with the child's report cards. There has been a great improvement in the teeth this year. A limited number, who cannot themselves afford to have it done, will be cared for by Dr. Leachman. Dr. Leachman is here one-half day each week.

There are around 25 cases that come in each morning for care. These cases include impetigo, cuts and burns, skinned knees; mat burns, minor infections, and foreign bodies in the eye. Some cases have been excluded from school because of scabies. There has been more cases of scabies this year than for several years.

Over 50 mothers of kindergarten children have brought their children to the school for a complete physical examination and toxoid by their family doctor. A number of grade children were also given toxoid, these being for the most part, children coming in from other schools. This is sponsored by the P. T. A.

All grade children have been weighed and measured, and cards have been prepared which were sent home with report cards. The children are weighed every six weeks. The next weighing will be in January. On these cards is a place for the correct weight. This is taken from figures compiled from weighing thousands of children of the given height and age, so this is rather the average weight than the correct weight.

All grade children have been inspected by the nurse for any contagious diseases. There were no cases found.

Plans have been made with teachers of the first three grades where no text is used for the teaching of health to teach the children that injuries should be cared for at once. The subject for September was "First Aid and Safety First. Drills were given in crossing the street with red and green lights.

Mrs. Lamb also has a Home Nursing class of eighth grade girls. They use a baby-sized doll for a working model. So far they have learned to select clothes, dress the baby, and give it a bath. Plans are made to start serving milk at school by November the first, if possible.

Son to Father

By Jack Leggett

Son: Dad, do you know how much it cost to run the school last school year?

Dad: No, son, I have no idea.

Son: Well, including the amount paid on the building debt, it cost $86,238.81.

Dad: Is that so! How much went for the building debt?

Son: For the year 1936-37 we paid $14,093.92. I believe that debt is to last until 1950. If the amount paid on this debt is subtracted from the total amount, I find that it took $72,144.89 to cover the year's running expenses.

Dad: That's right. And what does that include?

Son: Everything from teachers' and janitors' salaries, to fuel, lighting, new equipment, and repair.

Dad: Do these facts mean anything to you?

Son: From these figures I've found out something about absences. The total attendance during last year was 1,044 pupils. During all holidays, school was in session 186 days. It cost $60.10 for each pupil who attended school for the whole year. Per day each pupil cost the community and state 37c. If each child would average three absences for the whole year it would mean that the taxpayers would lose practically $1,158.84 from pupils' absences.

Dad: That is straight thinking, Son, for the heating, lighting, salaries, and all continue whether the pupil is in school or absent. Parents should be more thoughtful over absences from school.

Son: I think the only time a pupil should be absent should be from illness or from a death in the family.

Dad: You're right again, Son, and that is the only time that you'll be absent from school.

FUTURE BACHELOR'S CLUB OF AMERICA

Last Wednesday night the club held its first meeting by having a pot luck in the Home Economics room. Under the supervision of Miss Krebs the club is planning a great future.

George Burgoyne, the president of the club, presided over the meeting. The business of the meeting concerned future activities. Games were played. If all "young guys" and "gals" get behind the P. B. C. A. there will be plenty of good times ahead.

"Robby" is the name given him by all the students; although the faculty encourage "Mr. Robinson." "Robby" or "Mr. Robinson," he is beloved by all. For the last years his hand have constantly been growing better and better. We all know that this year he entered upon his duties crippled temporarily by an accident. Everyone thought "Who's going to take 'Robby's' place?" "Robby" showed them.

"Robby" resumed his place although he had to do it on crutches. He resolved to whip the band into shape and produce a band better than Buchanan has ever before seen. And he is doing it. How is it being done? He directs the band each day from an especially constructed platform where he shouts his stinging commands. "Come on, Bill. What do you think this is, a funeral? Put some pep into your march!"

GENTLEMEN, WE GIVE YOU THE MOST MODERN CHASSIS IN THE WORLD

Under the new beauty of Buick, modern engineering makes history, co-starring the DYNAFLEX ENGINE and TORQUE-FREE SPRING

WHAT HAPPENS inside the 1938 Buick engine happens nowhere else in the world. That is not advertising language, it is cold-steel engineering fact. Speeding through the raceways of the intake manifold, the fuel mixture vapor hurricanes into the cylinders at speeds around 250 miles an hour. As it sweeps past streamline valve contours, a scientifically designed Turbulator, built into the piston face, flings it into airswirls of terrific turbulence.

The spark that leaps through that compact storm-center sets off a flashing cyclone of power, exploding with tornadoic force!

Sitting in the driver's seat you become aware of power that is livelier and more brilliant because gasoline is giving up more performance than it ever gave up to motorists before!

TO MATCH this incomparable stride, Buick engineers now give you a kind of springing you will likewise find on no other car in the world. Poised on jarless coils of easy-flexing steel, Buick floats free of bobble, jar, chatter, jounce. The car will not over-steer or under-steer—skidding, even on icy highways, is blessedly reduced.

Rear tires no longer scuff half their life away through power-wasting wheel-slip. Through winter and summer, without need of grease and without "seize," from rust, dirt, water or ice, springs keep their gentle, even cushioning for the life of the car.

YES, IT IS a great story, the story of these twin engineering triumphs in the 1938 Buick. So great a story that it obscures half a score of other advances, themselves enough to make any car a wonderful buy. We invite you to learn more about them this week at any Buick showroom.

Call your local electrician and find out how cheaply and quickly more outlets can be installed. If you are building or modernizing, see that the wiring inside the walls is adequate.
