

CONDUCT RED CROSS TAG DAY SATURDAY

Now Here's the Proposition

Uncle Hank of Hills Corners sez:

Sum peepul get their fun out o' enjoyin' what they got; o'at'ers out o' what they think they're gon' get.

The survivors of the pheasant sezun are now polshin' up their artillery fer the deer sezun. Charlie Smith out here at Gledorry said if they could jist put all these bums that hev been trampin' down the crops to work shuckin corn the help shortage would be all over.

I heard Jesse Boyle sayin' the depression wuz over. All over.

A Velo Is there a man with soul so low, So all-intent on worldly spoil Who, while bright days of autumn glow, Will spend his time in grubby loil? The gold that gleams from every hill Has more of splendor in its light Than that within the merchants' till To him who keeps his books straight.

So I will lay my cares away And put all serious thought aside And long as Autumns hills are gay I'll wander through the country side. My dear, what is it that you said? Some windows I must wash? Gee whiz! Is there a guy with soul so dead— Give me that rag—I guess there is.

Come on, Duke, We Want to Be Investigated.

That Baltimore labor union sure had its nerve, throwing a monkey wrench into the visit of the Duke of Windsor. Let us remind our readers that the first invitation sent to the Duke and the Dutchess of Windsor to visit these, our shores, was sent by the Buchanan Lions club.

That invitation is as good now as it was last spring. In fact, the Lions club invited him to make his home in Buchanan. And while the duke is investigating labor conditions, several laborers we wot of will be glad to be investigated by the dutchess.

E. Wisner Dies At Big Rapids

Conducted Corner Drug Here From 1920 to 1927

E. H. Wisner, father of G. M. Wisner and resident of Buchanan from 1920 to 1927, died Thursday at Big Rapids.

Mr. Wisner was a leader in business and civic movements while here and also in church activities. He had been a frequent visitor here since leaving to accept a position on the faculty of the Ferris Institute at Big Rapids in 1927, and has many friends here who regret his passing. Funeral services were held at Big Rapids Sunday afternoon and burial was made there Monday morning.

The following article was issued by the publicity department of Ferris Institute:

E. H. Wisner, dean of the Pharmacy college of Ferris Institute, died at the Community Hospital here Thursday. Death was due to a heart attack superinduced, doctors said, by streptococcus infection of the kidneys. He had been ill for three weeks.

Dean Wisner had been connected with Ferris Institute since 1927. He served as instructor of materia medica from 1928 to 1933 and became dean of the Pharmacy college when E. J. Parr resigned to become state superintendent of drugs and drug stores.

Through his contacts with students and drug store owners, Dean Wisner had made thousands of friends throughout the state of Michigan. It was said by one friend that there was scarcely a drug store in the state but contained at least one friend of E. H. Wisner.

He was born in Lenawee County, April 7, 1881. He received his education in the public schools of Lenawee County, was graduated from the normal and preparatory course at Ferris Institute in 1905. He was granted a life certificate in special science from Michigan State Normal college in 1906, and was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1909 with B. S. and Ph. C. degrees. In addition to these degrees he had studied toward an M. S. degree at the University of Michigan during the summers of 1909 and 1910.

Prior to coming to Ferris as a teacher Dean Wisner served for eight years as a teacher in the public schools of Michigan. He was principal of the Gladstone high school in 1906 and 1907. He was head of the science department of the Watertown (South Dakota) high school from 1910 to 1913 and he became dean of the pharmacy school at Valparaiso university, Valparaiso, Indiana, in 1913 and served in that capacity for seven years. He resigned this position in 1920 to become partner and manager of the Wisner Pharmacy of Buchanan, Michigan, and remained in private business until coming to Ferris Institute in 1927.

Dean Wisner was awarded membership in the American Pharmaceutical association in 1912 for having passed the state board examination with the highest marks in the past three years. He was a member of the State of Michigan Pharmaceutical association, a charter member of the Phi Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi fraternity.

Dean Wisner had many interests outside of his school activities. He was a member of the Big Rapids Chamber of Commerce, and was intensely interested in all civic matters.

His greatest hobby was nature study. Many students and friends will remember him for the hikes and color tours which he organized. He was an ardent archer, competing in many competitions as well as training archer students at Ferris Institute.

He leaves surviving him his wife Elizabeth; four sons, Garritt M. of Buchanan, Robert of Ionia, Philip of Lansing, and Harold, a student at Western State Teachers' college; and many friends and colleagues.

The body will lie in state at the Wagner Funeral Home Saturday afternoon and evening and at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon from 1:30 to 3:00. Public services will be held at the Methodist church at three o'clock Sunday and burial will take place Monday morning.

Build 1st Unit Modern Housing

W. J. Miller Starts 1st of 6 Garage-Apartments on West Third

An interesting but attractive departure—low cost housing may be seen in construction at 403 West Third street, where W. J. Miller is erecting a "garage-apartment" on the lot formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Dempsey.

The building is to be the first of six such garage-apartments which Mr. Miller plans to build, designed to meet the very pressing need for attractive low-cost housing in Buchanan. The first floor will include the garage on one side, and a laundry and furnace room on the other, divided by an inside stairway in the center.

The living apartments will be on the second floor, and will consist of a hall at the head of the stairs, with kitchen at the left and a bathroom at the right. To the back of the kitchen is the dining room and on the other side is the living room. There will be no bedroom but a rollaway bed may be wheeled back in a closet 2 feet 1 inch by 4 feet 10 inches.

The coal bin is on the ground floor under the stairway and will hold three tons. The garage will be equipped with a modern overhead door. The structure entire will be 20x24 feet in demension, frame, with a flat built-up roof entirely without pitch. The structure will be insulated against heat and cold.

Buchanan Women Hurt in Collision

Miss Elizabeth Longfellow is confined to her bed at home with a fractured bone in her foot and several other employes of the Drill department of the Clark Equipment company incurred lesser injuries as the result of a collision in South Bend Wednesday evening.

Miss Cleo Cook was driving to South Bend with several fellow-employes en route to a party honoring the birthdays of Miss Haver and Miss Zwergel. While they were on Portage avenue a car driven by Mr. VanWagner of Niles, ran the stop sign on Marquette street directly in front of them, and Miss Cook's car struck it broad side. Mrs. Herman Hess incurred a bad cut over her eye. The injured were taken to Epworth hospital, Mrs. Hess remaining over night and Miss Longfellow until Saturday. Miss Cook, Miss Ruth Haver, Miss Ruth Pierce and Mrs. S. Burke escaped with minor hurts.

Mrs. Basil Squires left yesterday for her home in Kalamazoo after visits with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Eisenhart and with her sister, Mrs. John Schram and family, St. Joseph.

Born, Wednesday, Nov. 10, to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Selkan, a daughter, at their home on Lake street.

Faculty Club Play Nov. 19

Twelve Members Faculty to Present Comedy

The Buchanan Faculty Club play, "The Late Christopher Bean," previously announced for November 18 and 19 will be given one night only, Friday, November 19th at the High School Auditorium at 8:00 o'clock. A student matinee will be given on Thursday afternoon.

This amusing comedy by Sidney Howard offers two delightful hours of restful entertainment of the most genuine character. It has to do with a family of New Englanders who have, years before given refuge to a great artist. The play opens some years after Bean's death, with an excited world in pursuit of his work and any details they can gather as to his life and character. Dr. Haggett and his family, who have some of Bean's canvases suddenly realize their value. It is however, Abby, the family servant, who ultimately holds them all in her power; she has one of his greatest paintings, which she cannot be persuaded into selling or giving away; it turns out that she is the only one who really understood and appreciated the artist—besides she had been married to him!

The leading part is taken by Eunice Miller as "Abby" and is assisted by a very able cast consisting of Sara Quicquel, Virginia Felhank, Ruth Rutledge, Joseph Hyink, Earl Rizer, John Elbers, Paul Moore and Clarence Langer. Miss Miller, Mr. Hyink, Mr. Elbers and Mr. Rizer have appeared in previous Faculty plays and will be remembered for very capable performances.

Tickets are in the hands of all Faculty members and beginning Monday, November 15th may be exchanged for reserved seat tickets at Glenn Smith's store.

Maroons Defeat Stove City 34-0

Varsity Scores 3 Touchdowns in First Quarter

By JOHN SCHULTZ and MATTHEWS RAUCH

The Bucks unleashed their power attack last Friday night at Dowagiac to keep their win streak intact by defeating the Stove city eleven 34-0. The Bucks outplayed the Chiefs in every department of the game, playing heads up all the way.

The Buchananites scored their first tally on the third play of the game. Spivey punted from his 5 yard line but the ball only traveled 20 yards in all. Smith, ace quarterback, came up from his backfield position and took the ball on the 25 yard line and raced to the score outrunning the secondary. Smith's kick was good from placement. The score was Buchanan 7, Dowagiac 0.

Dowagiac took the kickoff and several plays netted them nothing, a pass was tried. It sailed through the air and was intercepted by "Pep" Trapp, who twisted his way all the way from the Chief's 45 yard line to the Chief's 9 yard stripe. On the third play Stevens punting fullback, cracked the line to score from the one foot line. A fumbled pass from center was picked up and the carrier was downed short of the goal missing the extra point. The score was Buchanan 13, Dowagiac 0.

Dowagiac again received on their 18 yard line, another bad punt was taken by Leiter on the Chief's 26 and he returned to the 19. Three successive power plays by Leiter, Stevens, and Trapp netted them their third score of the quarter. Trapp scored from the one yard line. Smith's kick was good making the score Buchanan 20, Dowagiac 0. The quarter ended.

In the second canto Beck, Maroon left-end, blocked a Chief punt on the Chief's 25 and was recovered by one of the Bucks. Stevens and Trapp ramed the ball to the 1 yard line from where Stevens put the ball over through guard. Smith's kick was good. The score was then Buchanan 27, Dowagiac 0.

During the intermission both bands put on a grand exhibition parading up and down the field. The Buchanan band journeyed to the Stove city adding a lot of pep to the partisans. After both bands had paraded the lights were turned out while the Dowagiac band played a selection very softly and then the taps were blown and the second half got underway.

At the outset of the second half Coach Miller started inserting his shock troops to save the Chiefs from further embarrassment. With the third stringers in the lineup the Buccaneers staged a 35 yard drive with halfback Leiter scoring from the one foot line. Smith's place kick was good making the score 34-0 in favor of the Bucks. On one other occasion in the last quarter a drive was halted on the one foot line. The reserves played the remaining part of the game.

Dowagiac never advanced inside the Bucks' 35 yard line. A few pass plays netted them most of their yardage gained.

The Bucks lost one their best, and most valuable men when Dale "Skipper" Simpson got his left wrist dislocated. This will make Coach Miller work hard to find a man to fill in this position so well filled by Simpson. His arm was dislocated just above the wrist in the closing minutes of the first half.

Score by quarters: Buchanan 20 7 7 0-34, Dowagiac 0 0 0 0-0. Statistics show the following: Buchanan Dowagiac, 195 Total yards gained 80, 164 Yds. gained from scrim. 49, 37 Yards gained by passes 41, 30 Yards lost by penalties 0, 11 First downs 6, 4 Passes Attempted 11, 3 Passes completed 5, 2 Oppnts passes intercepted 1, 1 Fumbles 1

JOIN AT THE HELM - in time of need

Ancestor of Dewey, New York Dist. Atty. Settled in Buchanan in 1854

Taught School Here; Helped Organize G. O. P.; Published Paper at Niles

It will doubtless be a matter of some local interest that Buchanan can claim a piece of Thomas Dewey, New York's racket killer who was elected District Attorney of New York City by an overwhelming majority over the Tammany candidate last week.

Young Dewey was born March 24, 1902, at Owosso, Mich., where his grandfather, George Martin Dewey, had been a pioneer editor. The ancestor of the Michigan Deweys was a pioneer teacher of Buchanan, published one of the first Republican papers of Michigan, "The Niles Inquirer," and was a speaker of note here in early days.

George M. Dewey came to the vicinity of Buchanan in 1854, at the age of 22 years, teaching either in Buchanan or in the vicinity for a year, and immediately identifying himself with the insurgent movement fast gathering head which became the Republican party under the oaks at Jackson that summer.

He had taught three years near Lowell, Mass., and before that he had spent 18 months as a member of a Harvard astronomical expedition to South America, existing for that enterprise while a sophomore at Harvard.

He was evidently a young man of enterprise and of aggressive ability. Shortly after his arrival he was selected as a delegate to the organization meeting at Jackson. After the Republican party had gathered strength taking into its folds the anti-slavery Democrats of the North and the more radical of the Whigs, Dewey became the fore front of the movement in the Buchanan district. As such he received frequent mention in the Niles Democratic press which cited him as "Dewey of the Black Republicans."

The second year of his residence here, in 1855, he was made deputy county superintendent of schools. But his growing interest in politics soon carried him out of that profession, and he started the publication at Niles of the "Enquirer," one of the first Republican newspapers in southwestern Michigan. He was in demand at all political rallies as a stump speaker. His abilities as a campaigner (Continued on Page 5)

Ignoring all hints on the part of Hollywood that his family prayed privately, I stuck to my seat in the corner of the railway compartment, secure in the knowledge that I had the only reserved seat. It was half daylight all night as the train plowed through the mountain range that constituted the backbone of the Scandinavian Peninsula, rugged enough but seeming very tame after the stupendous hills between Andalsnes and Dombas. So I hung my raincoat behind me in the corner and swathed myself in its folds to ensure darkness enough to sleep. The Hollywood family occupied the remainder of the space to the best advantage, holding it against all comers.

But as the sun came up around 2 a. m. I raised up and looked out the window at the great pine forests that clothed Sweden's rugged hills. There was a stirring in the car and I saw everyone moving to the windows on the other side. "It's Ostersund," said Hollywood, "the greatest mountain in Sweden where they have the big winter sport meets." Away off to the north we could see its snowy top, half swathed in clouds. There was a large summer resort at the railroad; the mountain lying several miles to the north. The interest of the Noted Quartet Plays Here Mon.

Clark Equipment Employes To Organize Glee Club and Orchestra

Announcement is made this week by the Clark Equipment company of an unusual musical treat in the form of a concert by the famous Warmein Clarinet Quartet, to be given at the Clark Theatre Monday evening, the theatre opening at 7:30 p. m. and the program starting at 8.

The Warmein Quartet represents C. G. Conn Ltd. of Elkhart, manufacturers of fine musical instruments. The Conn company is collaborating with the Clark Equipment company in bringing the quartet here. The organization is composed of four of the finest clarinet players in the country, and has been coached by Clarence Warmein, for 12 years first clarinet for the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra. They have been employed by the Conn company to advertise their instruments. They have now been playing together about a year and have appeared with Rubinoff and Rudy Vallee.

The admittance charge will be only ten cents, and the entire receipts will go to buy music for the glee club and orchestra now being organized among the Clark employes by Philip Hanlin. The glee club has been rehearsing a month. The orchestra begins rehearsals this week under the lead of Howard Barbour.

The Buchanan high school band will play two numbers at the opening of the program. A. H. Klehn, in charge of arrangements, said that owing to the late date of booking it will not be possible to reserve seats. The Quartet will play in Benton Harbor next week, their presence in the district making the local date possible.

Mrs. Eimon Sterr was brought to her home here Saturday after several months of treatment in Pawating hospital, Niles.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Luke held open house and served lunch to their many friends at their home from 2 until 4 p. m. Tuesday, in observance of their 80th wedding anniversary.

TO THE STATE POLICE

Within 36 hours of the dastardly crime committed in Buchanan last week, the Michigan state police had the killer. Chance doubtless played a part in his apprehension, but Michiganers are nevertheless entitled to a justifiable pride in the personnel and the efficiency of their state police. They may have got the breaks in the capture, but the case is similar to that of a football game—it takes an alert team to capitalize on the breaks. Just as Pitt recovered Notre Dame's fumbles.

The Michigan state police rank as tops among the law enforcement agencies of the nation, second only in repute to the Department of Justice G-Men, and inferior to none in individual bravery and efficiency.

The Three R's AND TELEPHONE TAXES

Approximately $29,000,000 of the money which the people of Michigan have paid for telephone service over the past ten years has come back to them in the form of primary school education for the boys and girls of the state.

That is because taxes assessed by the state against certain utilities, including the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, are paid into the primary school fund. From there the money is distributed among the 83 counties of the state, and helps support the elementary, grammar and high schools.

Money alone could not account for Michigan's high standards of public education. Our state has been fortunate in the men and women entrusted with this work—the superintendents of public instruction, state, county, city; the local school boards, Parent-Teacher associations, and the individual teachers.

This Company makes the largest individual payment into the primary school fund. During the past ten years the Company has paid into the fund $28,978,000; this year's payment alone amounting to $2,624,092.47. This is an important contribution to a school system to which is entrusted the education and character-molding of 960,000 boys and girls—Michigan's school children today, her citizens of tomorrow. These taxes are in addition to the Company's Federal and miscellaneous taxes.

The Bugles of 1918

An ever-widening space of years separates us from Armistice Day, November 11, 1918. But we can go back very vividly in our memories to that time, and hear again the nerve-shattering reverberations of the World War. Then, for a moment, the devil's din is stilled, and there comes to our ears the blessed notes of a bugle, sounding "Cease Firing."

Today, we in turn hush for a moment the crashing machinery of peace, while we listen once more to the silver notes of that bugle—in order that we may not forget what we owe to those who risked their lives and gave their lives for us, in 1917 and 1918.

TIGHTWADDING THROUGH EUROPE

(Continued from page 1) pink of that beautiful 2 1/2 months of summer when the Swede emerges from the winter smother of heavy woolen and the stale air of the heavywalled houses to enjoy the open with all the devotion of a sun worshipper. And of course it was midsummer day, the very longest sunshine of the year. There was an air of high holiday in the crowd and little chance to make any acquaintances as I had made in Norway.

We passed through the neatly-painted Swedish towns, more like American towns than those of Norway but yet distinctly other-world in aspect. As we dropped south through Norrland, as that part of Sweden north of Stockholm is generally known, the landscape became gentler and there were more signs of farming. About 4 a. m. we drew into the town of Bollnas, where I was to transfer to a side railroad to the home of my wife's mother, 60 miles away.

I got off on the platform with four hours to wait for the train. A few others got off, and three hotel porters browsed among us, making a scant harvest. I planked my grip on the platform and sat on it. Four hours to wait, and it was cold, but I did not intend to run a hotel bill for that length of time. One of the porters glanced curiously at the Swedish-American sticker on my grip and came back, addressing me in very understandable English: "You had just as well come to the hotel," he said, "it's warmer than here."

I demurred but he pressed his hospitality. He had been several years a sailor and had been on English ships, in most of the American ports from Boston to Florida. So I went with him. He insisted on taking my suitcase. It was about four o'clock to his hotel, the "Stora Hotellet," or "great hotel."

Taking me to a side office he pointed to a cot. "That's mine," he said, "but I don't want it any more, and you had just as well sleep a little."

Just then a friend came in, who had had a little too much of the famed Swedish grog. He was a most friendly young fellow and his idea of kindness at that particular moment was to share his grog with all and sundry. "My friend here has had a little too much," said the porter, secure in the fact that only we two understood English. "You can take just a little and he will go."

I dropped to sleep almost instantaneously. About two hours later I woke with a start and a queer feeling. Now for many years one of my nightly dreams had been that I was in some country in Europe—more likely England, but in late years it was often Sweden. The dream would be broken and mixed with apprehension that it was really a dream. As it became clear and vivid, I would say to myself, "It must be this is real—it is too real for a dream." Then the dream would shatter and break like morning mists lifting from a Swedish river and I would lapse disappointedly in consciousness.

That was how I felt when I suddenly woke. I did not know where I was; only that I was lying on a cot in a foreign-looking place with a strange man sitting beside me watching me. But he smiled so reassuringly and I finally remembered the young man with the grog. And that I was really in Sweden and this at last was not a dream. All he could do, in the lack of a mutual language was to smile and nod his head reassuringly indicating that I had just as well keep on sleeping.

Then the porter came in "I had to leave," he said, "so I left my friend here with you." I could not sleep any more, and I spent the rest of the time talking with the porter about America. He would like to get to America if he could. He thought there would be a better change there.

About 6:30 a. m. he told me that he could show me to a cafe that was open. So he again took my grip and went with me to the cafe. It should be embarrassing perhaps to confess the fact that he took possession of the bill with a final authority that brooked no dispute. I was his guest. He carried my grip to the depot and made arrangements for the ticket and put me on the right train. I would like to have offered to pay him, but it was evident that in his mind he was acting as host. "You do too much for me," I said. "All I want is that you write me from America," he answered. I saw him twice later and each time he was eager to be of service. We rolled out through the beautiful forests of Helsingland, the finest pine of Sweden. Uniform and spaced regularly, free of brush, the forests were almost perfect. In an hour and a half we stopped at Voxna, where I was to take the bus. The little compartment had been full of passengers, bound hither and thither on midsummer. I kept asking the conductor how far we were from Voxna. Finally a woman in adjoining seat said: "I'll tell you when we get there. I'm from America too. I am revisiting my birthplace in Sweden, and today I am going down to Dalecarlia to see the Midsummer festival."

She was going to Mora, in Dalecarlia (the Swedes call it Dellarna, "The Dales"). Mora and Rathvik are centers of tourist interest from the fact that the most beautiful costumes of Sweden are worn there, and the inhabitants really make a business of preserving the clothes and the customs of the past, doubtless with an eye to the tourists. The towns are on a beautiful inland lake, with steamers plying.

About 9:30 I got off at Voxna. Here, for the first and only time, I failed to find anyone that knew English. But the word "bus" is international in use. "Auto bus," I said. "Yo, yo—autobus" said the station agent and rushed to oblige me. Here came a taxi. I looked with apprehension. "Bus?" I insisted. "bus." "Yo," smiled the agent, indicating the taxi, "bus." "Telephone," I said, making use of another word common to the two languages. But I could not remember my brother-in-law's name. It was nearly fifteen miles to his home and I thought with apprehension of the taxi fare.

The taxi driver took me to the school master, who might know a little English. He did not, not nearly enough. Finally I rallied all my Swedish. "Min hustru aro Svenska," I said. ("My wife is Swedish.") Finally a light dawned in the schoolmaster's eyes. "Alma Nelson, hospitaler," he asked. ("Alma Nelson, nurse?") "Yo," I said. There was excited conversation in Swedish between the school master and the taxi driver. "Autobus? Telepon?" I asked hopefully. "Yo yo," chorused the teacher and the driver. I jumped in the taxi. The driver leaped to the wheel and we started. But not for a bus or a telephone. For Lobonas, fifteen miles away. As the big car swung through the circling forest roads, I realized that and resigned myself to enjoyment of the clear beautiful forests and the bracing fresh air. The Swedish roads never follow straight lines; they wind and wind along roads which follow old forest paths made centuries ago. And when you are riding alone in the back seat of a speeding car the frequent swings roll you from one side to the other. The way to Lobonas seemed endless. There was no meter on the taxi and I quit thinking about the bill. We drew into a scattered forest hamlet, with neatly painted red houses.

"Lobonas," said the driver—and kept on driving. But about a third of a mile further, down a steep hillside and through great pines, we drove up to two cottages standing close together beside a river. I saw my wife standing in front of the cottage, with an elderly woman beside her and a younger couple and a 11-year-old boy. I paid my bill, 9 1/2 crowns. About $2.90 cents. Not so bad for the distance, considering the fact that gasoline costs 35 cents in that district. There, in the heart of old Helsingland, most typical of Norrland provinces, I was to stay two weeks and enjoy many advantages of seeing life in Sweden as it actually is.

My wife's mother's house is a typical old Swedish house, about 150 years old, made of logs, now covered with siding and painted the universal "Falu" red. This paint, used everywhere, comes from the great Falun iron mines, which are operated by the oldest corporation in the world, with a charter dating back to the 12th century. It has the typical narrow porch enclosed by a railing with seats on each side, and an ornamental gable at the top. The windows are casements which swing outward. It had been the family home for many years, but since the mother had lived there alone the interior arrangement has been changed and is not that of the typical Swedish home, which I will describe later.

The son lives in a modern cottage, built by the lumber company about 20 years ago. A few rods away in front ran the Loan, a small river that slid by over great swinging mats of golden-green moss that carpeted the bottom. Along its sides were myriads of great white water lilies, the most beautiful wild water lilies I have ever seen. In the meadows about the house the timothy and wild grass were mixed with thousands of wild pansies. There I saw the life of "Gamla Sverige" (old Sweden) and often rose at 2 a. m. to row through the water lilies watching the sun rise and the mists that float like ghosts above the water. On the further side were the golden-brown trunks and the tufted green tops of the pines, the white trunks of the birch, spotted with golden moss and with grey-green leaves. A primitive place, it seemed, and yet as you walked the winding forest roads and visited at the old Swedish farm houses and heard their story, it seemed that people had lived there time without end.

The Trained Food Tasters Trained food tasters can detect strength differences of less than 10 per cent in flavors, reports the American Chemical society. Many professional tasters have no keener sensibilities than other people but have developed the ability to observe, analyze and interpret the sensations received to a remarkable degree. Sensitivity to differences in flavor is not increased through practice.

Additional cards may be secured from any postoffice or by request from any carrier. The cards must be mailed before midnight, November 20. Answers To Banking Questions Are Banks Essential to Community Welfare? Yes, we believe that banks are decidedly essential to community welfare. Our modern business structure is so complex that it could not function without banks. As a simple illustration, more than 90% of all the business in this country is carried on by payments with bank checks. Banks are the active hub of practically all business and financial transactions. Day in and day out they render useful, needed financial services. They furnish depositors with a safe, convenient place to keep money. They make loans to local borrowers of business ability and integrity. They furnished employment to local people and aid in making it possible for other activities to do so. They participate directly and indirectly—in civic enterprises. Among the many elements essential to the success of a bank our officers and directors believe the most important is soundness built on the enduring foundation of community usefulness. —American Bankers Association

IT'S GOTTA LOTTA UMMPH!

Meaning—the Most Modern Automobile in the World is the new 1938 Buick—with DYNAPLASH ENGINE and TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING

If YOU'VE put a sparkling 1938 Buick through its thrilling paces— And tried to say in words what this standout car's got— And found to your surprise you couldn't begin to do it justice— Listen, don't think you're the only one! "It's gotta lotta ummph!" say trier-outers vainly trying to express all the marvelous things they've felt. "Ummph!" meaning zip—slash—power. "Ummph!" meaning all you ever expected to find in a car—and a great deal else in addition! Fact is—demonstration, not conversation, is the thing to describe this new Buick.

To say it's quick—nimble—agile is to do only fractional justice to its DYNAPLASH engine and what it does every time you touch off its thrifty power. To call its TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING ride velvety is only to participate its ride. Use the words jarless, level, floating, serene—and you come a little closer. But still you neglect the direct-ability this car gets from its new rear springing, the reduced risk of skidding, the simpler maintenance, and longer rear tire wear that go with it. No, you can't cram a new Buick into words—only its action can tell its story.

ROSE IN HER HAIR

A rose by any other name—even "chapeau"—is still a beautiful thing to look at. Particularly is this true when its wearer is as chic as Miss Lucy Saunders, society girl of Belmont Park, N. Y., who is pictured here, modeling something different in hats. It is made of robin's-egg-blue crepe, draped to resemble a rose perched on top of her head.

Among the Bible citations in this passage (Psalm 91:1): "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty."
 Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 246): "The measurement of life by solar years robs youth and gives ugliness to age. The radiant sum of virtue and truth co-existent with being. Manhood is its eternal north, undimmed by a declining sun."

Business Notes

Sell Home, Buy Farm
 Mr. and Mrs. Earl Derflinger have sold their home at 502 Krynerson to Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Clark, and have bought the Ed Long farm west of the Dr. Butts farm in the Bend of the River. They are planning to move as soon as they have their farm home wired for electricity. There are 80 acres in the place.

Rudloff Buys Farm
 Carl Enders has sold his 19-acre fruit farm, a half mile east of the Mead school, to August Rudloff of Buchanan. Mr. Enders plans to go with his family back to Chicago, ill health having obliged him to give up farming. Mr. Rudloff is the son of a large fruit grower of Berrien Springs, and is experienced. He has been employed recently at the Clark plant but will take over the farm now. Enders is holding a farm auction.

H. H. Hansen Sells 2 Farms
 Hans Hensen sold two farms recently, the 95-acre farm on which he lives on the Berrien Stone road a mile and a half north of Buchanan being bought by Roy Leach of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ruger will occupy the place after December 1. Mr. Hansen sold the 100 acre farm known as the Borden farm, located across from the Charles Muthler farm, to Ralph Bramlet, also of Chicago. The tenant in charge, Mr. Mecklenberg, will continue on the place, but Mr. Bramlet expects to develop the farm for eventual residence.

Warning on Alfalfa Seed
 A general warning has been issued to prospective buyers of alfalfa seed. As a result of investigations made by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, it was found that the E. K. Hardison Seed Company, Nashville, Tennessee, fraudulently altered Department of Agriculture verified-origin certificates for alfalfa seed, the Bureau reported today. The seed company altered the certificates to show incorrect origin of the seed and then sold and shipped the misbranded seed.

This is a violation of the Rules and Regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture Governing the Origin Verification of Seed, approved July 25, 1933, and of other Federal authority pertaining to the misbranding of seeds.
 The Bureau has ordered that a public notice of its determination be sent to trade publications, farm papers, county agents, verified-origin seed dealers, other wholesale seed dealers and retail seed dealers. Action also has been taken by the Tennessee State Department of Agriculture for the same offense and a fine has been imposed.

The notice of the Bureau's determination outlines the following facts:
 The E. K. Hardison Seed Company purchased verified-origin alfalfa seed from verified-origin seed dealers in Missouri and Oklahoma. The seed was received by E. K. Hardison Seed Company with verified-origin seed certificates properly sealed to each bag and showing the true origin. Some of these verified-origin seed certificates were altered by this company to show Kansas as the origin and some were further altered by erasing or changing the lot numbers. The true origins of the lots involved were Arizona, Texas, Oklahoma and Missouri.

It also was found that between the dates of July 30 and September 2 this year the E. K. Hardison Seed Company sold and delivered to retail seed dealers in Tennessee 38 or more bags of misbranded alfalfa seed bearing U. S. Department of Agriculture verified-origin seed certificates which showed alterations of the origin statement.

Editorial

Once again the curtain is removed and the back ground is a red building. The summer leaves have been taken away, the crisp mornings have changed the leaves to bright colors only to be hurled to the ground by brisk winds. Through dark, dead-like skeletons, the Buchanan High School is a glare of beauty; she stands firm and faithful mid her dull surroundings and makes a bright spot for winter days.

From the dull exterior comes her children to brighten her interior.

PER MEETING

Thursday, October 28, the pep meeting was held for the South Haven game. It was an ambitious student body and an active team as well. The team's doubles went into play on the stage. The referee was Shirley Trapp and water boy, Phyllis Lamb. Other players were represented too, but these named were the only ones who spoke. The girls imitated the fellows in their action, expressions, and walk. It offered a good laugh to the audience and gave the meeting an excellent start.

Yells were loud and long; so the team received a good send off from the students of Buchanan High School.

Bell To Reduce Distance Rates

Reduced rates for long distance telephone calls will be made effective for Thanksgiving day this year, according to an announcement by H. G. Shannon, manager in this area for the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

The reduction will be made effective by the application throughout the day, as well as Thanksgiving eve and night, of the long distance rates regularly in effect after seven o'clock every night and all day every Sunday. This will be the first time especially reduced rates have been offered for Thanksgiving day, the telephone company official states.

They will apply between points within the United States, and, in general, will reduce the cost of calls where the regular day station-to-station rate is 40 cents or more.

The announcement was made following the filing of the reduced rates by the Michigan Bell Company and their approval by the Michigan Public Utilities Commission at Lansing.

A schedule of similar reduced long distance rates also was filed and approved for the coming Christmas and New Years days.

Children in Court

By Judge Malcolm Hatfield
Before a runaway girl could be returned home it was necessary for the court to insist that the parents alter their treatment of her.

As a child, this girl had been disciplined by threats of being chained in a basement infested with rats. At fourteen years of age, the girl was told by her mother that she would run away if the child refused to mind her. This left the girl in a constant state of insecurity and she finally concluded that if her mother could desert her she really didn't love her as much as she pretended. Rather than be a continued burden on her family she decided to leave home and took the first opportunity that presented itself to carry out her resolve.
