

V.F.W. BENEFIT AT HOLLYWOOD TONIGHT

Now Here's the Proposition

We could get a lot more done in this world if we just figger out ahead who'd get the most out of it.

Toward Evening

These are the things that a mother remembers: 'Twas toward evening when you were born; One of the neighbor's girls was with me; Your father was plowing the early corn.

Across the road in the Miller eighty He rented that year—he worked long and late. I called to the girl to run and tell him, She fled like a deer through the front yard gate.

He stripped the harness and rode—no saddle, It seemed a month, till the doctor came; Scared I was but it still comes to me.

The western sky was a wall of flame." These are the things that a mother remembers: 'Twas toward evening when you were born;

One of the neighbors' girls was with me; Your father was plowing the early corn. He was younger by far than you are.

That was a long, long time away, Proud he was when they let him see you— Dead these years and it seems a day." —W. C. Hawes

Some Got Deer—Others Just Got Back Now the hunters all are back and the boys are telling of their hunting stunts—as you listen to the stories of their many feasts and glories, you see how men can both sit and lie at once. Some who played in better luck brought home 20 pointed bucks—did they really shoot their deer or did they buy it? But their friends will never question while they tickle their digestion with a haunch or two of venison for diet. There is little Johnny Kobe, he's the proudest on the globe for he claims he shot a deer on the first day; that one bagged by Herman Hess weighed two tons which was much less than the one Ralph Allen saw that got away. What? you say that plumber guy, Orput, saw ten deer go by and never even got a single one? Reason was they say the scamp walked ten miles away from camp and then had to walk clear back to get his gun!

On The Line The quarterback yelled out "99" And the ball was in the air But the halfback wouldn't hit the line Until the dough was there.

SCRAPBOOK SCRAPS

Outwitted He drew a circle that shut me out— Heretic, rebel, a thing to flout. But love and I had the wit to win: We drew a circle that took him in. —Edwin Markham.

Carroll Wilson left yesterday for his home in Elizabeth, N. J., by plane, having been called west last week with his family on account of the serious illness of his wife's father, Henry Kroll, Michigan City. He was a guest at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wilson. Mrs. Wilson, Jr., and son are remaining here and will divide their time between the Groll home in Michigan City and the Wilson home here.

Marie Dempsey Leaves Record

M. E. Dake From Fond Du Lac To Take Over Advertising Department

M. E. Dake arrived in Buchanan Monday from Fond Du Lac, Wis., to take charge of the advertising department of the Berrien County Record, taking over the work of Mrs. Wilbur Dempsey, whose resignation takes effect the first of the year.

Mr. Dake has had excellent preparation and experience. He studied journalism at Northwestern University and was a student for two years in the commercial art department of the Chicago Art Institute. He was employed for four years in the advertising department of the Daily Telegram of Columbus, Nebr., and three years in the advertising department of Hearst publications in Chicago, Milwaukee and Omaha.

Previous to coming here he was in charge of publicity and promotion for the Association of Commerce at Fond Du Lac. His wife is at present in Chicago, but will join him here in the spring. Mrs. Dempsey has been a member of the Record force for 13 years, during which time her versatile competence in the various departments of the work have made her a most valuable employee. By her ability in public contact she has made many friends both for herself and for the paper. The Record and her fellow employees, who have found her an obliging and conscientious co-worker, extend her best wishes in her future plans.

Called To Pass on Bandit Suspect

Ernest Mangold, proprietor of D's Cafe, and Miss Lila Skinner an employee, were called to Chicago Saturday to survey four men suspected of complicity in the hold-up of the High Grade oil station and the murder of Herman Reinke. The bandit now at large, who was at the wheel of the getaway car at the time of the hold-up was the member of the duo who "fronted" at the restaurant. Miss Skinner and Mangold talked with him for some time and had an excellent opportunity to notice him. They state that none of the four men shown them bore the remotest resemblance.

John Coveny, 95, Reported Very Low

John Coveny, only remaining Buchanan Civil War veteran, is very low at his home, and it is conceded that his passing is only a matter of time. The veteran attained his 95th year in October. While not retaining his memory, he had been in fair physical health until weakened by several falls in the home in the past summer and fall.

Rev. C. A. Sanders Cheated of Deer

Only probability of shooting a fellow hunter prevented Rev. C. A. Sanders from returning with venison from his trip to Alcona county last week. Rev. Sanders reports that he had the best chance in years, a deer walking down a roadway immediately in front of him. However on the opposite side was a brush in which he knew there were members of his own party and other hunters. With him were Rev. H. I. Voelker of Flint and Rev. W. D. Hayes and son of Owendale, both former Buchanan pastors. The rest of the party were Rev. S. Young of Pigeon, Rev. H. W. Link of Flint, Rev. Beers and Art Schweitzer of Kilmarna. Mrs. Sanders accompanied her husband as far as Ludington, where she visited relatives.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

I will be in the City Hall from December 10 until further notice for the collection of 1937 county school and special assessment sewer tax; also delinquent 1937 city tax, 1935 dog tax also payable at this time. ADA DACY SANDERS, City Treasurer. 4812c.

Herman Hess Bags Twelve-Point Buck

Among the most successful hunters from Buchanan this year was Herman Hess, who arrived home the first of last week with one of the finest deer ever bagged by a local hunter. The deer, a 12-point buck, weighed 214 pounds dressed. The other members of the party, comprising Dick Bedel, Glenn Lear and Frank Pooman, also brought home fine bucks. They hunted in the Upper Peninsula, 20 miles north of the straits.

4 Accidents On 1 Trip—Escape Unhurt

It may be unlucky to have four automobile accidents on one trip, or on the other hand it may be very lucky, if you get through them without a scratch, according to Charles Lightfoot, who thought the matter over after his arrival home the first of the week and decided that he was fortunate.

When Mr. and Mrs. Lightfoot and their family were in Waterloo, Iowa, attending the wedding of their daughter, Lucille, they were struck by another car. While en route home they encountered icy roads in Iowa and western Illinois, and went off into the ditch three times, turning over the last time. None were hurt, although the car was badly damaged and they were towed into Lena, Ill., for repairs. There it was found that in the collision the wheels had been shoved out of alignment, which explained the difficulty of keeping in the road.

Lions Get White Canes For Blind

The Buchanan Lions Club recently procured white canes for persons in Buchanan who are blind or have defective vision. A state law recently passed requires that both motorists and pedestrians recognize the right of way of those carrying white canes. Motorists driving in Michigan should know about this law. The cane is white with the exception of a few inches at the lower end which are painted red. Only those who are blind or have defective vision are permitted to carry this cane.

What? No Grass Skirts in Hawaii

Friends of Wilson Crittenden in Buchanan received a sad shock this week when the first letter written by him from Hawaii came, saying that he had been there a full month and that he hadn't seen a grass skirt. It seems Wilson promised most of his numerous lady friends in town a grass skirt for winter wear. So that deal is off.

Wilson arrived there Oct. 15 for two years service in army aviation. He reports that they had a wonderful reception on arrival. A great military band met them at the dock and they marched to the strains of martial music to a large hall where they were given a rousing reception. Then they had a boat excursion around the island. He is at Wheeler Field, assigned to Ship A-12, 26th Attack Squadron, according to the letter received by his mother, Mrs. F. J. McFarlin. Hawaii is a beautiful place, despite the grass skirt shortage, he writes—"Just like" standing at the door of heaven."

Library Project Is Ready to Open

Over 400 New Books Expected During Coming Week

Those who are interested in the progress being made in the reorganization of the city library will be interested in knowing that it has been opened again to the extent of allowing the old fiction and other books now properly catalogued to be borrowed, but new books ordered have only just begun to arrive.

The time for the complete opening has been delayed not only because of the great amount of work in reclassifying and preparing the books, but because president W. H. Burnelle of the library board and his assistants have been doing a very careful job of selecting new literature and magazines.

The work of reclassifying and re-cataloging the books according to the system outlined by Miss Bennett of the State Library extension force has been far greater than was anticipated by local people unexperienced in such work. Although Miss Mayme Proseus has been working very steadily at this, it has not been completed yet. The following volunteer workers have given some time to this work: Mrs. Earl Yoder, Mrs. John Kobe, Mrs. Fred Moyer, Mrs. Burton Mills, Mrs. Charles Mills, Mrs. Jerry Mann, Mrs. Mack Widmoyer, Mrs. W. H. Brunelle, Mrs. Bud Froud, Mrs. Milton Ludwig, Mrs. Arthur Allen, and the Misses Phyllis Lamb, Caro. Kobe and Carolyn Webb. The volunteer help was enlisted through the efforts of Mrs. Milton Ludwig.

In addition the book committee, comprising Miss Mary E. Reynolds, Miss Helen Graves, Mrs. W. H. Brunelle, and John Elbers have had many long meetings with W. H. Brunelle, carefully selecting book lists that would be good library material and at the same time appeal to all tastes. They have worked under the advice of the Michigan state library and of librarians from nearby cities, and have secured all possible information in making their choices.

While this careful work has delayed the opening, it is believed that their excellent selections will justify the added time. There have been a number of very interesting donations to the library which will be announced a little later when the institution is ready for complete opening.

Meanwhile the public is welcome to visit the library and to borrow such books as are ready for loaning. Miss Proseus' hours at present are from 9 to 12 and from 1 until 4 on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. It is anticipated that over 400 new books which have been ordered will arrive soon and will be ready for public use in a short time. These books have been selected to meet the requirements of both juvenile and adult readers and include popular and high class books both fiction and non fiction. Lists of these books and details of the purchases will be reported in an early issue.

Tight-Wadding It Through Europe

By HAWES

CHAPTER XV

It was at Vendalen in Harjedalen that I met the Black Swede, Axel Hallgren, visited the old mountain farm and heard the folk tales of the trolls.

The inspector chose to stop for the night at Vendalen, a typical Swedish mountain village, far back in the Norrland hills.

All the settlers of that portion of the valley lived in the village, which was, like all those villages, a loose cluster of houses each with a small acreage. We stopped at the Hallgren Hotel. While we were seated in the living room there breezed in a talkative man, a brother of the hotel proprietor. His name was Axel Hallgren, he said, and he had been notified that there was an American in town and that he was wanted as an interpreter. None of these interpreters were paid. They were Swedes who had, like Hallgren, lived in America, and who were eager for a chance to talk to an American; or they were students who were glad for a chance to practice English. Axel Hallgren was the best of them.

Let no one think that Scandinavians in their native haunts are a silent taciturn race. I was with Hallgren perhaps five hours and rarely did he stop talking except to listen to a chance remark of mine. He had spent 12 years in the Pacific Northwest, marrying a Swedish woman in America. All his children had been born in America. He was a little on the breezy side but an intelligent, entertaining fellow well able to explain things.

For centuries, as far back as there was any record, his ancestors had been leading people in the town; he was the only one who had ever flown the coop and ventured out into the world. And he had come back. He showed me a treasured clipping from the Portland Oregonian, Sunday edition, in which there was a long feature story about himself with a picture of him standing erect 200 feet in the air on a section of a great Douglas spruce from which he had swayed the top. His calling in America had been that of a "topper," a daredevil trade. It was his duty to climb the great trees, perhaps 30 or more around and 200 to 300 high, using lineman's spikes and a belt that encircled both himself and the tree. He went up by throwing this belt in hitches ahead of him. That had been in America. In 1922 his boss had told him that they were shutting down the lumber camp and that he did not know when they were opening up.

So Hallgren went back to Sweden. "I should have stayed," he said, "I heard afterward that they had opened up again in a month with another fellow in my place. I made good money. They called me the "black Swede." Then Hallgren told about Vendalen. As the oldest son he would have had the hotel had he stayed at home but when he elected to leave it went to a younger brother. When he came back from America he got a saw-mill and a small farm in the village. It was listed as No. 14 on the tax rolls, and that number covered three properties—the town farm and residence, a forest acreage for firewood, and a mountain acreage for pasture. Every residential tax number in the community consisted of three such properties. That was, it seemed, the proper family holding.

Hallgren thought we should see one of the mountain pictures and the cabin home, known as the "fabodal," the "home of the beasts." There the cattle were taken for the summer months and one of the women or grown girls went out and cared for them, milking them and making cheese for the winter. The inspector turned up the Chevrolet and we drove back several miles into the hills, stopping at a small cabin in a clearing, surrounded by a Swedish rail fence. These fences are made of the lumber too small for lumber—the tops of the pine and spruce. Two stakes are driven side by side in the ground a few inches apart, and more the same along the fence line at about six-foot intervals. Between these pairs which serve as a sort of cribs, are laid slender poles, perhaps 15 feet long, a slant of about 30 or 40 degrees with one end on the ground. They are secured to the uprights by withes of tough wood, or in some cases by wire. Placed a few inches apart, one above the other in an angling slant upward, they average eight or ten poles high, the top being a rather irregular leather edge of poles.

We went in and I learned one reason for the selection of this farm. I was introduced to a tall Swede, perhaps 32 years old, who had also just returned from the Pacific northwest. He had worked two years in the lumber camps there, returning home on account of illness. He was a handsome Nordic type, beautifully built, but his face told the story of his disease. Tuberculosis, and I thought that Swede was not a very good place for a refuge for him. But it was home.

There was a girl, about 20 years old, his niece. She was one of many village women who spent the summer in the mountain pastures, an institution common in Norrland. They received me very cordially. In a few minutes I learned that the young man had come over third class on the same ship I had come on, on the same voyage. Since I was in second class I had not seen him.

We must stay for a meal. That was ritual. No one ever visits a Swedish home without eating. But this was to be no mere coffee and cookies. The girl would bake cream waffles over the open fire place, located as usual in the corner of the cabin. They would show me what Swedish waffles of pure cream tasted like. The comely Svensk girl, a tall blonde who (by a small stretch of the imagination anyway) might have doubled for Greta Garbo, busied herself with the waffles. I have never described a Swedish fire place for you, but never mind now. I am more interested in Garboesque mountain girl. She built a hot fire of pine wood and let it burn to coals. Meanwhile she fixed the waffles and put the iron over the fire. It was rather ticklish business, this baking over the coals and it took some dexterity. It was pleasant to watch. Not hard at all.

The Black Swede rattled on interminably. He saw me watching the Svensk flicka toiling with the waffle irons and raved from the heat. "What do you think of our blond girls?" he rattled. "What are you going to tell them back in America about the Swede girls?" He said something to the flicka that made her face redder still and the waffle iron tipped and a waffle went into the coals. She grabbed at the iron with an exclamation, burning her fingers.

"They have had tempers, these Swede girls," banttered the Black Swede. "They swear a little when they get mad. You want to know what she said?" He gibed at the girl in Swedish and she turned her back and bent over the waffles. I shifted about in my chair and tried to keep from watching the fireplace too much. After all I did not want to start any scandals in Sweden, and the Black Swede was very talkative.

The waffles were done and they brought in the sweet-milk butter that is eaten in Sweden, and some honey as a special treat. It was a grand meal. They were the best waffles I ever ate, bar none. Or maybe it was the spell of Greta Garbo.

National Food Stores Celebrate 38th Anniversary

Thirty-eight years ago an enterprising young man, George J. Jussen, opened a small store at 1328 Belmont Avenue, Chicago. Little did he dream then that was founding an organization over twelve hundred stores eight Middle Western states, did he have the slightest idea would in the years to come, he thousands of farmers, cattle raisers and producers quickly economically distribute their produce to the consumer.

Yet, this is just exactly what has taken place according to company officials interviewed on the occasion of National Food Stores 38th Anniversary. "A most outstanding job of cooperation," stated one executive, "has been going on all this year. Strong support has been placed behind farm products, and as a consequence, thousands of producers with surpluses have been speedily relieved. Not only was the demand increased, but also the cash return to the raiser was assured. This is the sort of relief that is certain to be welcomed by every farmer in the country."

Among the more important Producer-Consumer campaigns which received the generous and wholehearted support of the National Food Stores were the following: Apple, avocado, beef, cheese, dried fruit, egg, turkey grapes, grape fruit, lamb, melon, peach, peas, pears (wisconsin canned), potato, prune, turkey and walnut. A cordial invitation is extended to the people of the Middle West to visit National Food Stores, especially during the 38th Anniversary Sale. Calvin Bachman was able to leave the Pawating hospital for his home Friday.

Thanksgiving Service The annual Thanksgiving service was held by the Christian Science Society of this city on Thursday morning. An interesting feature of the occasion was the testimonies of healings of sickness, sin, sorrow, and lack, through the ministrations of Christian Science, told briefly and in quick succession by members of the congregation.

The special Thanksgiving Lesson-Sermon read in Christian

Science churches throughout the United States, consisted of citations from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. The Golden Text, from Psalm 28, was: "The Lord is my strength and my shield; my heart trusted in him, and I am helped; therefore my heart greatly rejoiceth; and with my song will I praise him." The Lesson-Sermon contained this verse from Nehemiah 8:10: "Then he said unto them, Go your way, eat the fat, and drink the sweet, and send portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared; for this day is holy unto our Lord; neither be ye sorry; for the joy of the Lord is your strength." Among the correlative passages from Science and Health was the following (p. 3): "Are we really grateful for the good already received? Then we shall avail ourselves of the blessings we have, and thus be fitted to receive more. Gratitude is much more than a verbal expression of thanks. Action expresses more gratitude than speech."

Maroons Defeat Berrien Springs

B. H. S. Cage Team Comes From Behind in Second Half to Win 20-15

By JOHN SCHULTZ

Trailing by one point at half time Buchanan's Maroons turned on the heat in the last half to score 11 points while holding the visitors to 5 to defeat the Berrien Springs' grenadiers. The final score was 20 to 15 and the game was played Wednesday, November 24, in the Buchanan gym.

Getting off to a slow start the Bucks had to come from behind to overcome a 1 point margin held by the Springers at half time.

The Berrien Springs grenadiers led at the end of the quarter 4-2. The Bucks outscored the Springers 7-6 in the second quarter, but the Springers still led 10-9 at the half.

After the intermission the Bucks came out strong to score 9 points while holding their opponents scoreless. They led at the start of the fourth quarter 18-10.

The Springers scored 5 points in the last canto while they held the Maroons to 2.

The game was very fast and scrappy. The Bucks seemed to have the edge when it came to scrap.

Coach Miller was asked, "What did you think of the game?"

"The boys did very well for their first time out," he replied. "Their scrap was the thing that brought them through."

Dale "Zke" Leiter scored 9 points making fear from the field and one from the charity line. He gained most of his points in the third quarter when Dale "Skipper" Simpson, injured Buck center, entered the game with his elbow in a cast and acted as a fine feeder for the speedy forward.

Stever led the losers with two field goals and a free throw for a total of five points.

Both teams scored 2 points in the third quarter. The score was 8-5 with 1 minute to go and then A. Rauch cut loose with two successive baskets to make the final score 12-5.

The Dowagiac chemistry class went to Chicago by bus last week where they visited the WGN broadcasting station, Art Institute, Planetarium, Sheed Aquarium, and the Field Museum.

The Gallen seniors will present their class play, "Hobgoblin House," on December 3.

CANNON BALL SMITH

"Wow! what is that, a cannon ball?"

"No that's just Smitty playing soccer. When she kicks the ball everyone gets out of the way."

"Boy, who wouldn't?"

Donna Smith, better known as "Smitty," is a member of the sophomore class and is noted for her athletic ability.

In basketball she plays forward, in soccer she plays in the forward line, and in soft ball, first base and batting are her weaknesses.

DEBATING

The negative team lost to Benton Harbor Tuesday evening, November 23, with judge's grade 41-35. The team is made up of Richard Habicht, first speaker; Richard Austin, second speaker; and Charles Bainton, third speaker. The debate with St. Joe in the near future will be the last debate in this series for the negative team.

The speakers on the affirmative team are: Eleanor Naugle, first speaker; Jack Morris, second speaker; Res Proud, third speaker. All the debates for this team will be held in Buchanan.

The debating class meets three times a week during the home-room period. It is to be regretted that no other time is available since this period is so often broken into by extra-curricular activities for which purpose the home-room period was set aside. Half credit is earned.

B. H. S. Hoopsters Play Niles Friday

The Buchanan Maroons will travel to Niles Friday night to meet the Niles Redlegs in what looks to be a grand basketball game. The "Fighting Bucks" defeated the Berrien Springs aggregation last Wednesday 20-15 and will be more than glad to upset Coach Chet Davidson's Redlegs on their own court.

Niles played Riley last Wednesday afternoon and met defeat 41-38. Niles is made up of eight men of last year's aggregation returning. The Bucks lost twice to the Redlegs last year and revenge is in their minds. They defeated us 21-16 and 17-16.

Let's be to Niles Friday night and watch the Bucks just the likes of the Redlegs.

CHILDREN IN COURT

By Judge Malcolm Hatfield

Juvenile authorities are still hunting for the two young hitch hikers who held up and tied a business man who had given them a ride.

Hours later the merchant was found securely bound to a tree where his assailants had left him. He was fortunate that they had not taken his life to cover up the theft of his money and automobile.

So long as the public encourages boys to stand on corners and thumb rides, the younger generation will continue to expect something for nothing. Furthermore, with the problem of transportation solved by friendly motorists, thousands of boys are likely to throw off all family ties and develop into ordinary vagabonds.

Announcing TWO NEW FORD V-8 CARS FOR 1938

THE STANDARD 60 OR 85 HORSEPOWER

STANDARD FORD V-8... 112" wheelbase; 85 or 60 horsepower engine; Improved Easy-Action Safety Brakes; Center-Poise Ride; All-steel body; Broadcloth or Mohair upholstery; Mohair extra in "60"; Mahogany-finished trim; One tail light, sun visor; Twin horns; 3 body types; 3 colors.

Ford offers two new cars for 1938—the Standard Ford V-8 and the De Luxe Ford V-8. They are different in appearance—but built to the same high standard of mechanical excellence—on the same chassis.

Because people liked our 1937 car so well, they bought more than of any other make. They liked its looks, its smooth performance, and the way it handled. We have improved on that car in the newly styled Standard Ford V-8.

But some folks wanted still more size and style, with the same Ford advantages. For them, we designed a new De Luxe line.

The De Luxe Ford V-8 Sedans are longer with more room, larger luggage space, and finer appointments all around.

De Luxe cars are equipped with the 85-horsepower engine only.

The Standard is even lower priced than the De Luxe. It has graceful new lines and well-tailored interiors—with a choice of engine sizes—85 or 60 horsepower.

Before Ford made V-type 8-cylinder engines available to every one, they were used only in expensive cars. Since then, four million Ford owners have learned the genuine enjoyment of driving an eight-cylinder car with all-around economy.

The thrifty "60" engine, especially, makes possible in Standard models a very low first cost and equally low operating cost. With two distinct designs, two engine sizes and two price ranges, you'll find a 1938 Ford car to fit your needs exactly.
