Dr. E. T. Waldo will speak before the Buchanan's Men Club at their regular dinner at the Methodist church this (Thursday) evening on the subject "The Influence of Literature on Revolution and Reform."

East Front St. Wants Lighting

Helped Buy Christmas Lights—Want to Know Why They Are Left in Dark

To Whom It May Concern: We wish to compliment the Buchanan street department on their enterprise in decorating the streets of Buchanan for the Christmas season earlier than ever before, and also we wish to compliment the initiative of the business men who were responsible for the lights.

All the above being true and very much in order, we would like to raise one exception. Did you ever think that today East Front street is practically the front entrance of Buchanan or at least that section around the intersection of Front and Porage streets?

But there are no decorations in this part. If any of the streets are to be decorated at all, why not at least East Front street, where the eyes of the greater part of the traveling public would be greeted on their entrance? First impressions are everything, so why make the public travel half way across town before they reach the civic lights?

And another thing. The business men of East Front street are among those who made the lights possible. They contributed as heavily in proportion as any part of the business district. Not only to the lights but toward every other community cause that has arisen.

Think it over. Don't they deserve part of the lights? Is that, after all, the best place in town for a Christmas light display?

East Front St. Business Men.

The School World

George Philip Semple, of 402 Front Street, has been awarded at Princeton University one of the John G. Armstrong Scholarships, open to under-graduates from the states of Michigan and Maryland.

A sophomore and graduate of Buchanan High School and Cranbrook, Semple last year was on the scholastic honor roll and a member of the freshman wrestling and lightweight crew squads.

He is the son of James R. Semple, a member of the class of 1913 at Princeton.

Gets Social Honor

Una Kelley, of Buchanan, is a member of the Hostess Committee for the Annual Sophomore Cabaret to be given at the University of Michigan on December 3 and 4.

$9,500 Paid Here In Christmas Funds

Business in Buchanan received a very appreciable stimulus here in the past week by the payment of approximately $9,500 to local people in Christmas club savings.

The Union State Bank paid out about $9,000 in such funds, to about 800 people. Individual accounts ran from $12.50, $25, $50, $100, $250, and $500.

The Buchanan Credit Union paid out $510 in similar savings funds to patrons.

The release came at a time when available money was needed in spending, and illustrates very forcibly the value of such savings.

To Be Divided In 2 Sections

Free Movies and Show Acts; Santa Claus to Distribute Gifts

Santa Claus is to visit the Clark theatre again this year according to announcement from the company, the great holiday event of Buchanan being scheduled for Friday, December 24, with the 1225 children and strictly necessary escorts divided into two sections in accordance with the capacity of the Clark theatre.

Company officials state that the employees will be furnished with tickets for the entrance of their children of twelve years or under, and that it is emphasized that adults can be admitted only when it is necessary for them to carry their children. Otherwise the presence of too many adults might exclude children from the theatre.

L. D. S. Church Head Speaks Tues. Night

Apostle D. T. Williams, the minister in charge of the Great Lakes Regional Territory, will speak for the local congregation Tuesday, Dec. 14, 8 p. m. at L. D. S. Church. "Babylon The Great Is Falling" will be the subject discussed by Mr. Williams.

The lecture will deal with such adjustments and the means of their realization.

B. H. S. Grid Star Honored at Lansing

H. C. Stark will motor to Lansing Saturday accompanying there Earl Stevens of Buchanan and Lynn of Niles, all attending the annual "bust" sponsored by the Lansing Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Central Michigan Alumni Association.

Stevens and Lynn have been invited because of their selection as fullback and end of the All-S. W. Michigan Class B team. Donald Beck was named as end on the second S. W. Michigan B. team. Smith, Buchanan quarterback, who played a stellar game all year, failed of selection, it is believed, mainly because of injuries in the last game.

City Market Is Robbed Tues. Night

About $60 in money was taken by unknown parties who broke into the City Market & Grocery early Tuesday evening. The thief broke a pane of glass in the rear, and left through the back door, which was open in the morning. It is known that entrance was made before 11 p. m. from the fact that snow which fell before that time was in the tracks under the window.

A similar attempt was made at the Kroger store Sunday night, by a glass being broken over the rear door, but apparently no entrance was made here.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

I will be in the City Hall from December 10 until further notice for the collection of 1937 county, school and special assessment sewer tax; also delinquent 1937 city tax. 1938 dog tax also payable at this time.

ADA DACY SANDERS, City Treasurer. 482c

S. O. S. SANTA CLAUS!

Friends, neighbors, lend us your hearts! If you have any old toys lying about the house or stored away, that have no longer any significance for your children, bring them to the Buchanan Public library before Wednesday, Dec. 15. The library entrance is in the rear of the postoffice. They will be taken that day to Benton Harbor where a WPA project is repairing and re-conditioning toys. If they are broken they will be repaired.

The community and especially the rural sections which are the greatest beneficiaries, are deeply indebted to Mrs. Strayer for her energetic canvass.

Maroons Lose To Niles H. S.

Redlegs Take Nip-and-Tuck Game on their Own Floor

(By JOHN SCHULTZ)

The Maroons, stubborn as they were lost a hard fought, dog-eat-dog affair to Niles Redlegs on the Niles' court 25-21.

Taking the lead late in the first period the Davidsontes managed to maintain a narrow margin throughout. However, at no time during the game did they lead by more than seven points, and at one time near the end of the game were just two points out in front.

Kraft and Leiter, rival forwards, put on a two-man battle for high point honor. Both forwards hit the net consistently with Kraft nosing out his opponent by a one point margin. The blond headed Niles forward snapped the net five times from out court and twice from the charity line for a 12 point total. Leiter, sharp-shooting Buck forward, put the ball in the mesh four times from out court and three times from the charity line for a 11 point total.

With the opening whistle both teams made it apparent that they were willing to mix it, and on several occasions the play bordered along the football lines.

Both teams saw one player go to the showers by four foul routes. In the last quarter Holmes, Niles' pivot man, and Smith, Buck guard, were lost to their teams.

Following a series of personal fouls at the outset of the struggle, Buchanan took a three-point lead on a field goal and a charity toss by Leiter. Near the end of the quarter Kraft got loose for a pair of field goals to give Niles a one point lead at the end of the quarter.

Smith tied the score with a free toss to start the second canto, but Niles countered by ringing up seven points on a pair of baskets by Kraft, one by Lynd and a gift toss by Huff.

Leiter scored from the coffin corner for Buchanan, but Kraft came right back with two more close-in baskets. A field goal by Beck closed the first half.

Baskets by Leiter and Beck on side shots left the Bucks only two points behind early in the third canto. Huff opened the Niles scoring in the third canto with his first goal, Leiter followed with a free throw, charged against Lynd.

Gene Cook then entered the scoring column poking a one-handed shot through the net from outside the foul circle. Jones followed with a similar shot. A free throw by Weaver and a close-in basket by Simpson put the Bucks within four points of their opponent.

Lynd's free throw made the lead five points, but Weaver re-

Tight-Wadding It Through Europe

By HAWES CHAPTER XVI Relating The Tales of The Strolls and Telling How to Skool

As we drove back from the mountain fabodal to Vemdalen we saw other fabodvals and their herds of small mountain sows, enclosed in stockades of rails. Hallgren said that it was necessary to own such a small acreage with a cabin and enclosed stockade in order to have the privilege of running cattle in the forests. Such ownership gave the right to run any number of cattle. There was no trouble over the number each owner ran in the open forest for the reason that the supply of pasture was much more than sufficient for the stock which the scattered farmers could care for in the winter. The great lumber companies owned no land in this part of Harjedalen, which was not far from the border of Lapland. The companies bought the timber from the farmers and then hired them for the lumbering.

This interrelation of farming and lumber work is the rule in northern Sweden, and affords the residents a cash income apart from the meager returns from farming there. The men are mostly engaged in lumbering and the women care for the small farms in town and the cattle at the fabodvals in the summers.

It was interesting to meet one of these mountain women conducting her herd through the forest. Instead of driving them she walked ahead and the cattle followed in a line behind her. She wore as a rule high mountain shoes or boots, a short gown of rough material, perhaps homespun, and a peasant-cloth on her head. She was usually knitting as she walked leisurely along.

We arrived at Vemdalen and that night I staid at the Hallgren Hotelet with a sheet pulled over my head to ward off the mosquitoes that swarmed in through the screenless windows. The inspector slept in a single bed in the same room, and paid no attention to the mosquitoes, my discomfort rather amusing him.

We rose early, had coffee frukost and departed. Just before we left

Auxiliary and of the Presbyterian church.

She was a charter member of the Thirty Club and had recently been made an honorary member. For fifteen years she was a member of the Buchanan Ladies Vocal Quartet. She was also for years a leader in instrumental music talent, playing the harp and the piano.

A fitting part of the funeral was the singing by Miss Eunice Miller of "Goin' Home" by Dvorak, a favorite of Mrs. Pears for years. While the people were coming in and while the flowers were being taken out Mrs. Ida Bishop played songs and instrumental numbers that were favorites of Mrs. Pears. The Eastern Star conducted a short memorial service. In the hand of the deceased were held little snap-shot pictures of the members of her family.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

First in Buchanan to buy 1937 tuberculosis Christmas seals is M. L. Hanlin, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association announces. The thirty-first annual appeal for the purchase of the tiny health seals began on Thanksgiving Day, and will continue through to Christmas. More than 65,000,000 of the Christmas seals were distributed this year by the Association and its affiliated agencies, to provide funds for the 1938 campaign against tuberculosis.

"The Michigan Tuberculosis Association is sincerely appreciative of Mr. Hanlin's early purchase," Dr. Bruce H. Douglas, president of the Association, declared this week. "Christmas seals used on local letters and packages help to fight tuberculosis in Berrien county," he said.

"Urgent, indeed, is the need in Michigan for continued intensive anti-tuberculosis work," Dr. Douglas emphasized. "With a slight increase last year in the state death rate from tuberculosis, we are made aware of the importance of Christmas seal-financed activities. Although it is an absolutely needless disease, the White Plague claimed 2,100 Michigan lives last year," he pointed out. "We are challenged by these unnecessary deaths to redouble our efforts," he declared.

Proceeds from the Christmas seal sale are the sole support of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association's organized campaign against tuberculosis. Funds realized in the 1937 sale will help to carry on this work.

THE EFFECT OF CHAIN STORE LEGISLATION

Anti-chain store-legislation seems to have subsided somewhat during the past year, nearly 100 chain tax bills having been introduced in state legislatures of which 95 failed of enactment.

An anti-chain tax law was submitted in a referendum to the people in California and was defeated. It would seem that the public do not consider these laws in their interest. Nor have such laws succeeded in driving the chains out in the 22 states where they have been enacted. Rather they have succeeded in penalizing them and in penalizing the buying public. The chain stores have been hindered in their policy of low prices and high volume and the public has lost correspondingly.

The chains have found new resources to defend their business. They have enlisted in cooperative movements to aid the farmer and food growers in moving surplus supplies. Selling campaigns, have been successfully carried on to remove excess supplies of beef, lamb, turkeys, potatoes, peaches, pears, apples and citrus fruits.

Smaller stores which showed little profit have been eliminated and the business centralized in super markets, which in many cases have substantially increased the volume of trade. Smaller chains have quit the retail business and are acting as wholesalers for stores which they have sold or leased to former employees.

The impartial observer must admit that in the past two decades the chain stores have brought system and a uniformity of low prices into the retail food business. They have been responsible for the organization of food services on a state transcending national boundaries, and have led the way to a more efficient system of food distribution over the world. This is a service whose importance cannot be overestimated. The food dollar of the public has been given more value, and it seems likely that if the whole matter were submitted to Mr. John Q. Public, this one factor would loom largest in his estimation.

RENEWING MICHIGAN FORESTS

Recently while we were paying a visit at one of those favored places of the earth, a Michigan farm, we talked to the master of the farm of his woodland.

"I have a ten-acre wood lot and I'm not cutting any of it," he said. "The trees are young and growing and I don't think it would be good economy to burn them. Anyway wood is pretty expensive compared to oil, and it's not as easy to fire with in winter. I wouldn't want a farm without a woodland anyway. To me it is worth its keep just for the shade it gives my cows in summer. I believe I get enough better returns from my cows in hot weather to pay for it. It joins my pasture and I notice what comfort the cows get from it, getting away from heat and flies. A lot of farmers are cutting their trees and I figure that some time a lot of them will regret it."

This talk struck a responsive note in the mind of the writer who came from the short grass country of Wyoming and to whom the trees of Michigan are one of the great charms of the state. It has been a matter of regret that the trees of Buchanan streets have been removed faster than they have been replaced. Unless something is done to replace them the town may sometime regret its lost crown of beauty.

But why merely replace them? Why not plant the streets that have never been adequately furnished with trees? Why not have a town plan of planting, governing the selection of varieties? In this day of public and private indifference to long-range values it is refreshing to read of the voluntary reforestation which is being carried on by the Consumers Power company on company lands along the Manistee, the AuSable, the Muskegon, Shiawassee and Kalamazoo rivers. At Manistee, present the plantings total 26 different plantations, varying in size from a few to 700 acres.

An article in the Christian Science Monitor describes this program as follows:

More than 3,200,000 trees have been set out by the Consumers Power Company, on cut-over northern acreage in Michigan. This year the company, which furnishes power and light to the major portion of the lower peninsula of Michigan outside of Detroit, planted 770,000.

Reforestation by this company is a new project. It has been going on since 1924, and some of the trees planted are already 40 feet high.

The work was begun in a modest way. In 1924 a small white pine plantation of approximately five acres was planted near the company's Five Channels dam on the AuSable River. This planting has thrived. Many of the trees are now 20 feet high. Forestry experts say it is the most successful white pine plantation in northeastern Michigan.

The program has been widely distributed on company lands along the Manistee, the AuSable, the Muskegon, the Shiawassee and the Kalamazoo rivers, and at present consists of 26 different plantations. They vary in size from a few to 700 acres.

Native Michigan Norway pine has been favored because of its adaptability to soil characteristics, but three other pines, white, jack and Scotch, have also been used to some extent. Norway white spruce, white cedar, European larch, willow and black locust have also been planted. The principal objectives of the plantings are stream flow and erosion control, protection for birds and wild life, scenic improvement, and enhancing property value.

The 1937 autumn planting program, which has just been completed, includes the addition of 265 acres and replanting of 40 acres at Alcona Dam on the AuSable River, 80 acres of replanting near the Mio hydroelectric plant, 200 acres added to Hardy Dam on the Muskegon River and 50 acres added at the C. W. Tippy hydroelectric plant on the Manistee River.

In these fall plantings, 340,000 trees were used. Earlier in the year, 430,000 trees were planted along the Manistee River.

Young trees are set out six feet apart in furrows eight feet apart. This formula provides for 916 trees to the acre. Some of the work is done by Consumers employees in the neighborhood, and many special crews of temporary labor are organized and controlled by local supervision. Consumers reforestation activities are among the most extensive of privately financed programs in the United States.

Lands, which were made barren during the old lumbering days when Michigan's streams were crowded with tossing logs, are again growing in beauty and wealth, under the guiding hand of the company.

Eventually they are brought into court and must pay the penalty for the failure of their parents to teach them obedience.

TIGHTWADING THROUGH EUROPE

The Bigek Swede rushed in to say goodbyes. No courtesies of that sort are overlooked. I will have to write him a Christmas letter. Him and the Bollnas porter.

We whirled back over good gravel roads through long vistas of lake and mountain and of rushing rivers whose sides were boomed with logs. We stopped for the real breakfast about 10 a. m. at a mountain pension with a lovely dining room with white pine floors and fine birch furniture. I remember examining the inlaid woods of various pieces. The landlord spoke very good English. He had lived for years in Minnesota. He wanted to retire as soon as he felt able, he said, and to return to America for a while. He had been in some sort of contracting business in America and had made money here. This hotel was very comfortably fitted up, doing its heaviest business during the winter with the winter sport fans who came up from Stockholm for the skiing and hunting. There were deer and moose in the woods, although I saw none.

It was a most elaborate breakfast with a varied smorgasbord. After the warmratt the landlord brought on a tray with some sort of brandy or schnapps and set up the drinks. It was to be a toast to America. There was no gainsaying him. Drinking is a ceremonial thing in Gamla Sverige and it is hard to get away from it.

Then we drove on and stopped again at a beautiful mountain farm, owned by a well-to-do farmer. The Inspector had business with this farmer, and while he talked I went back to the barns and poked about in the machine and equipment sheds, abundantly stocked with various sorts of sleds and snowplows for the winter. Before long a smooth courteous young man came out and invited me in. He was the son of the farmer, at home on his vacation. He represented a Swedish company in the export trade and had recently returned from Asia Minor. These young Swedes in the export trades are polished specimens, speaking several languages as smoothly as those of the French. We talked about Sweden and America and then about Swedish and American cigarettes. He was smoking some mild Turkish cigarettes. Then he brought out the inevitable drinks. You can't get away from eating or drinking at a Swedish home.

Just then the inspector came in and said something to the young man, who said to me: "Our Swedish grog is pretty strong if you are not used to it. Just a little?"

A very little suited me. I went on the theory that an impolite American would be more credit to his country than a drunk one.

Skooling

While I was in Norrland I learned about skooling. They say that in the cities the skooling ceremony is dying out but they kept it up with all its ritual in Norrland. It is the ceremony handed down from Viking days when the warriors toasted each other in fiery waters drained from the skulls of their slain enemies. "Skool" is literally "skull." But the custom of drinking is this. Your host fills the glasses and then both, or as many as are drinking, lift the glasses and say "skool!" then lowering them a little each drinker bows and smile each to the other until no one has been overlooked. Each then takes a sip and the glasses are set down. There is then much social talk, but not another sip is taken until the host again raises his glass. He does not skool this time, but all smile and nod to each other above the "beaded brims" of the glasses and sip once more and set the glasses down. So the liquor is taken, a sip at a time with much talk between, and the host always "says when."

It is evident that much liquor might be consumed in this way without intoxication, but the Swedes can consume many glasses of liquor in a prolonged session. I learned to determinedly protect myself, having no intention of experimenting as to my capacity. It was my rule, when they came to filling my glass, to insist—"bara litet—bara, bara litet"—(very, very little). Then I would draw a line across the glass close to the bottom and it was wonderful how they would then understand my Swedish.

That was my last stop on the return to Lohonas. Shortly afterward I met my brother-in-law at a hotel where we had dinner, and I bade the inspector goodbye. I met him again in Soderham a few days later, as I was leaving Norrland and he stood at the pier and waved until my boat was out of sight down the bay. A fine specimen of the soul of Swedish court-

Children In Court

Judge Malcolm Hatfield following a hearing in juvenile court this week, two groups of parents learned to their amazement that they themselves are partly responsible for their children being disobedient.

A careful investigation by a court officer previous to the hearing revealed the following:

The parents of the first child continually bickered with each other over the type of discipline to be administered. If the father gave a command, the mother invariably countermanded it and took the side of the child.

The parents of the second child frequently threatened the youngster with a whipping but never carried out their threats. On several occasions they sent their daughter to bed because she misbehaved when guests were present. After the visitors departed, they contradicted themselves and permitted her to get up.

So long as parents countermand

John Bull Cracks Down on Fascists

Police dispersing a crowd in London, where the recent attempt of Sir Oswald Mosley to lead a parade of 2,000 Fascist followers to a mass meeting provoked some of the worst street fighting involving Fascists and anti-Fascists since the general strike in 1926. Thirty persons were sent to hospitals suffering from head wounds and scores of others were treated for minor injuries in their homes.

Maroons Oppose Dowagiac Friday

The Maroons of Buchanan will endeavor to get back in their winning ways Friday night after being halted by Niles. Niles defeated the Bucks 25-21 last Friday. Dowagiac lost a close game last Friday to Decatur 26-24. A very good game is in store for the Maroon fans this Friday.

This game should be a hard fought affair due to the fact that the Dowagiac five still remembers the two defeats the Bucks dished out to them last year and they should remember the stinging defeat the Bucks gave the Indians in football. Simpson will remember the boys from the Stove City. He was injured in the football game and will be out to see what he can do about getting even. Don't take me wrong for he isn't to hurt anyone but will be out to help his team score points to win again.

The cheering over to Niles was spotty. Part of the time it was fair and the other part couldn't be heard. Now, students, this is your team, let's get behind it. The first game in competition this year, has been lost so now is when they need support.

HOLLYWOOD

LAND GOOD JOBS
Ugly ducklings are having their day in the movies to such an extent that even personable girls are hiding their attractiveness to accept roles which place them in the former category.

Attractive Mabel Todd, Los Angeles-born girl, is the newest actress to win fame in that way. Hiding her lovely blue eyes behind horn-rimmed glasses and dressing her hair in grotesque dishevelment, she is now portraying a comic college girl in Warner Bros.' new musical "Varsity Show," which opens at the Hollywood theatre next Sunday. It is her first screen role.

Well known to radio listeners through her work for four years on Al Pearce's program as the "Little Sunshine Girl," Miss Todd looked forward to the day when she could see her audience and be seen. Like any girl she wanted to look her best, making the most of her natural beauty.

Leaving radio she became a sensation on eastern stages, doing eccentric comic songs and monologues in vaudeville. Denied then the privilege of looking beautiful she looked forward to that opportunity in pictures when Warner Bros. talent scouts saw her at the Oriental theatre in Chicago and gave her a screen contract.

Two days after her arrival in Hollywood she was working in "Varsity Show," and resigned to her fate. Dick Powell and Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians are co-starred in the picture.

Helen Mack and Onslow Stevens are the featured co-leads in the romantic drama, "You Can't Buy Luck," closing Thursday night, which deals with a murder mystery as well as the race-track activities of a millionaire sportsman. Forming a romantic screen team, these two combine their efforts to a solution of the crime which threatens their mutual happiness. "You Can't Buy Luck" is playing as a companion picture to "Madam X" featuring Gladys George.

The double feature program at the Hollywood Wednesday and Thursday brings two outstanding hits to theatre goers, "This Way Please," starring Mary Livingstone and "That Certain Woman" starring Bette Davis and Henry Fonda.

George Sands Buys Farm
George Sands has purchased from William Brodrick an 8-acre farm four miles west of Buchanan on the old Gallen Road. The farm has been variously known in the past as the Burrus, Phillips and Bishop farm. Sands expects to build a slaughter house on it for use in the Sands market and will otherwise improve it, moving on in the spring. The sale was made through the agency of Boyce, Realy and Insurance.

Gosher's Discovery
The site of the oracle at Delphi, Greece, was discovered, legend says, by a gosher who found his herd crying and prancing wildly about a chasm from which issued a stream of intoxicating air. The priestess who made the prophecies of the oracle used to sit over this, but either the chasm itself was legendary or it has disappeared.

In addition to his watch and clock repair work, A. L. Hamblin operated a similar business there twenty-years. He states that his plans are not complete yet.

MAROONS LOSE TO NILES H. S.
tallied with a side shot. Kraft slipped in another field goal to close the scoring in the third quarter.
Just to make the game more nerve racking Leiter slapped in his fourth goal at the outset of the final canto leaving the Niles-ites only two points ahead.
Leter and Holmes scored from the black line to keep the margin at two points.
Huff definitely sewed up the game on an under-the-basket shot.
During the intermission Vic Heide, Niles' gift to the advancement of the theater, put on a show. He gave three numbers: "Niles Loyalty Song," "Put on Your Old Grey Bonnet," and "Everyone's Got Rhythm." The numbers were played by his one-man-band in which he plays a piano and trumpet with his hands and the base drum and a pair of tambourines with his feet all at the same time.

VANDALISM

The Vandals were tribes from northern Europe who, during the dark ages, swept southward into the weakened Roman Empire sacking and destroying the beautiful products of Rome's civilization. The term, vandalism, has since then been used for any willful ruin or destruction of property.

Today we find this barbaric trait exhibited by some pupils in their reckless and thoughtless attitude toward school property. We see it in the disfigurement of walls and desks and books. We see it in the destruction of school equipment.

Unthinking, careless pupils do such things. Relying on the irresponsible viewpoint of "well, it's not my property," which is prevalent among many adults, to say nothing of children, they go happily on their way, feeling that nothing can reach their lives and hurt them, or make them pay for the damage they do.

But public property is their property. Regardless of the fact that parents are owners of property or not, they pay in taxes for the broken windows or the new paint that is needed to cover the unsightly scribbings on walls. They do not allow their children to break windows and mark up their homes. Why should anyone excuse doing such things with public property?

After a certain age, a child in the home learns that he must respect the possessions of others and that he must care for his own possessions or do without them. He soon learns that if he destroys his toys, he will not have toys. Why should this principle be lost when the child goes to school?

Of course, these vandals are not the majority of pupils. Happily they are a small minority, but a minority that is a menace to the good name of the majority and most of all, a menace to the freedom of the more thoughtful ones.

When these pupils realize that their parents and later, they, themselves, will pay for the destruction of public property just as they would for a broken window, the joy of vandalism will lose much of the pleasure it now holds and show itself in its true light—a childish desire to exhibit power over something that cannot strike back.

Who's Who

Bonnie June Chain was born in March 1923. She is the president of the freshman class and a member of the Art Club and Biology Club. Her favorite movie is "Ceiling Zero" starring James Cagney. The most pleasing dish to her is a marshmallow sundae. Bonnie has lots of leisure time so she spends it on books of which her favorite one is "Tess of the Storm Country." Basketball seems to be the most interesting sport to her. Maybe it's because of a certain twelfth grade boy who is a member of the team.

Robert Fairman was born August 13, 1922. He is president of the sophomore class. Robert's favorite movie is "The Road Back" starring John King and Richard Cromwell. He considers chili or chop suey his favorite dish. Robert likes basket ball best of all sports; even if he isn't a player on the team. His favorite song is "Whispers in the Dark." He is a member of the Library and Latin Clubs.

She is a blond, has blue eyes, and is about 4 feet 4 inches in height. Her favorite sport is ping-pong. She is talented in music and is now studying the piano under Mrs. Miller. Among the things to eat—French fried potatoes and chicken are very highly rated. She will be 14 next March. Her name is Barbara Swartz.

THE AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT

By Ramona Dalenberg

The agriculture department of Buchanan High School has in its classes and activities some of the most ambitious boys in school. This department has four classes and two clubs under the instruction of Mr. Langer.

The work is carried on with a threefold purpose: to make better scientific farmers, to develop leadership among the pupils, and to teach people by doing.

The biology class, which is for the freshman, has general study of plants and animals. Girls as well as boys take this subject in their course.

The sophomore horticulture class studies all phases, large and small, of fruit and landscaping.

Farm crops and soil and animal husbandry are probably the most active classes which the juniors and seniors can take. Farm crops has a study of regular farm crops such as corn, potatoes, wheat, barley, and other grains, and about the fertilization, draining, cultivation and utilization of soils.

All the farm stock is studied by the animal husbandry class. Such things as the diseases, care, raising, and feeding of sheep, cows, horses, chickens, and other farm animals that the boys are interested in is a part of this course.

Besides the agriculture classes, clubs are formed by the members of the classes. The most active club is the Future Farmers of America which is formed to carry out the agriculture work outside of class. This club is also for social contact and to develop cooperation among boys that represent the future agriculturalists of America.

The boys have different projects which they are required to work out. One of these is a summer project when the boys keep a garden or some particular crop. They estimate and record the cost and proceeds of their gardens and crops. Blanks for these figures are supplied by the education department of the State.

The F. F. A. boys form judging teams in the state for the different judging contests. The boys judged at the county judging contests which took place this fall. They will also judge at the state apple contests which took place Thursday of last week, December

2, and at the International Livestock Show at Chicago, Illinois. All of the boys will judge in the Junior Farm Week in May.

The Future Farmers are planning a sight-seeing tour this summer that will take them somewhere around this section of the country. The boys have talked quite strongly upon the upper peninsula for the trip.

Yes, these farmer boys are doing plenty this year.

Win First Leg On Cage Trophy

A grand trophy presented by Senator Carroll B. Jones is now in possession of Coach John Miller and the B. H. S. because the Bucks defeated Berrien Springs last Wednesday night, November 24, they obtained possession of the cup until the next game between the two schools which will be February 24. The team first to defeat the other teams four times gains sole possession of the cup. Buchanan has its name on the cup once. Good luck, boys, we hope to get another trophy for the trophy case.

MR. LANGER, ASSISTANT COACH

Mr. Langer has proven to be a most able coach in football and in basketball. He is Coach Miller's assistant and aids him in every way he can. He coaches the second team. Last Wednesday, November 24, the second team beat Berrien Springs 12-5. This is a good start and we may expect many other good games this basketball season. The players are appreciative of Mr. Langer's coaching and enjoy working under him.

THERE'S NOTHING so exasperating as a balky furnace—but sometimes the furnace itself isn't to be blamed—the right fuel has a lot to do with satisfactory heating.

If you have been having trouble with your furnace, try Blue Beacon coal. It will burn evenly, hold fire over night and heat your home properly, without the bother of excessive ash or clinkers and constant watching and attention. A hint to the wise is sufficient.
