Buchanan Schools Petition For Skating Rink at Athletic Park

Now Here's the Proposition

Uncle
Hank

Hills

Sex:

Sum t'me we're gonna run fer Congress on a platform of no more depressors jist before Christmas. Hist! Wuz them Christmas bells, or weddin' bells?

An optimist is a feller that thinks that the guverment relief rolls git the poor off the communi-ty's chest.

Whut this country needs is a fifteen minute parking law on sum uv these here Glendorry party telephone lines.

Rich and Varied Past

Beg pardon but if a little of the copy is a little dampish this week it will be on account of our crying over our typewriter over the sale of the old Remington Blacksmith shop kiddy-corner across the street from the Record office.

Not that we have any objection for it's all in the line of progress but there's a lot of sentimental associations connected with it. Carl is going to build a new modern shop building across the street where the old Bee Hive used to be that will doll up Days avenue no end, but the fish stories will never sound the same again, coming from any place else than the old shop.

Then the old shop was the place where Harrison (Babe) Merrill, now connected with the gas engineering department of the Kalamazoo Gazette, received his B. S. (black smith, in case you are in doubt) degree many and many a summer ago. Mr. Merrill's attention was then attracted to the newspaper business about the time of the great influx from the blacksmith to the newspaper profession, front and back end.

It's our idea that the Buchanan Hysterical Association could (and probably will) do worse than place a brass plate on the front of the old shop calling attention to its rich and varied past.

Sleigh Riders Beware

Then we cried a little over these two sleigh riding parties which were pulled off last week and didn't get in the paper. We had some tangible reason for crying over the last for did we get burned up by a party who tipped us off on one and then hunted high and low in the paper last week for any mention. The trouble was, we got wind of the second party and it sounded so good that we detailed a couple of private detectives to get some of the streamlined details but they never got back until the paper was out. However, the information is on file and will be used when and if necessary.

Xmas Suggestions

Oh Santa, who inspires my aunts To send me ties when I need pants That is the sort of gift that hurts For what's a tie without a shirt? This year unless we're wholly missed Please bring us something on this list:

Lay off a little on the dog And send a ham or half a hog. 'Twould cheer us in a bitter hour If you would bring a sack of flour Or, lacking anything to eat, A cancelled bill, a tax receipt, Bring us a ton or so of coal A wad of greenbacks in a roll, These, Santa Claus, so help me Mike, Would make our Christmas something like.

Mrs. Guy Eisenhart visited Wednesday with her daughter, Mrs. Basil Squires and family of Kalamazoo.

1008 Students Sign Petition

Gallen, Niles, St. Joseph and Benton Harbor Already Have Rinks

Petitions were circulated by students of the Buchanan high and grade school Tuesday asking the city of Buchanan to provide a skating rink at Athletic park when weather permits this winter and during the Christmas and New Year holidays if possible, 1008 signing, including 325 high school students and 673 grade students.

The circulation of the petitions brings to a focus the call for a skating rink here, which has been brought up by a number of organizations but not yet pushed to conclusion. The petitions state that the installation of a rink at the park would provide, wholesome and economical entertainment for the young people of the city at home and would in the long run be a community saving well worth consideration.

The installation of skating rinks is becoming increasingly prevalent in Michigan, a large percentage of the cities and even the small towns having rinks. Among the Berrien county towns having such rinks are Gallen, Niles, Benton Harbor and St. Joseph. The petitions were laid before Fred Smith, member of the city commission and chairman of the park board.

Berrien Farmers Organizing For Soil Conservation

An adequate and stable farm income for farmers from a stable production of crops, which will in turn provide an aid for all business is one of the purposes of the national crop goals which will be set up under the 1938 Agricultural Conservation Progress, says Mr. Martin N. Kretschman, President of the Berrien County Agricultural Conservation Association. Each farm is to have its own goals as part of the national goals. The "score cards" or appraisal sheets that are now being prepared by farmer committeemen will aid in establishing these individual farm goals. Appraisal work has just started in Berrien County and will be completed by January 8th, 105 farmers are employed.

Agriculture's immediate aim must be to produce, year after year insofar as possible, a volume of farm goods that is normally required by a growing population and that can be used by the available home and foreign markets at fair prices, Mr. Kretschman explains.

At the same time farmers want to avoid the waste of soil and labor that goes into producing unmarketable surpluses. These surpluses mean losses to the farmer, and this almost always has an adverse influence on business conditions in general.

In determining the proper level at which production should be stabilized, Mr. Kretschman gives several points that must be considered:

1. The need of soil conservation through efficient and economical land use, in order to preserve the productive power of the Nation's farm land for the future needs of the Nation.
2. The need of adequate and stable supplies, for domestic consumption and to supply available export outlets. To assure this there must be sufficient carry-over and reserve supplies to meet shortage caused by drought or other uncontrollable natural causes.
3. The need for avoiding surpluses that will result in serious declines in farm prices and bring industrial unemployment.

On December 20th the organization of the County Committee who will have charge of this work in Berrien County was completed.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Swartz were host and hostess Tuesday evening to the members of the Couples Club.

Tight-Wadding It Through Europe

CHAPTER XVIII
By HAWES

I've been deferring a description of the Swedish Lutheran church as I saw it until I could tell about the day I spent in the county seat, Voxna, one of the most interesting of my two weeks in Norrland.

My brother-in-law was to spend the day there on lumber business, and my wife and I were to go along and visit the old palace of the nobility which once dominated the country side and owned the Ljusne-Voxna lumber company.

The change in this old palace or manor house is illustrative of the change that has come over Sweden since the World War. The great white stone manor house stands in a beautiful location overlooking the town, as the nobles used to overlook the common people of Sweden. But during the early part of the present century, the entire control had centered in a female member of the family, who married a German noble, Count Von Halwyl. During the World War Count Halwyl drained the resources of the company to finance the German government. When the war was over the company was nearly wrecked. It's tens of thousands of acres of timber lands, its hundreds of farms and its immense factories and lumber Continued on page 4.)

Maroons Trim Class D Champs

Last Second Score by Leiter Saves Day for Bucks

(By JOHN SCHULTZ)
In one of the best-played basketball games of the season Coach Johnny Miller's Buchanan High School quintet took a thrilling 25 to 23 victory over Stevensville's Cardinals on the latter's home court.

The Buchanan victory came on a long goal by Forward Dale Leiter in the last three seconds of play. That goal broke a 23 to 23 tie, which developed when, with a minute and a half to play, Schoenfelder and Beck were caught in a tussel and each awarded a free throw. Each made good.

Stevensville took a 10 to 6 lead in the first quarter but was behind at the half 11 to 12. The third quarter saw Buchanan boost its margin to 17 to 15 and in the final period the scoring was even until Leiter's swisher from far out gave the Maroons victory.

Simpson, Buck center, played a fine game for Buchanan, but Forward Leiter and Beck did the heavy scoring, getting 17 points between them. For Stevensville Forwards Mischke and Schoenfelder combined to register 13 of the Cardinals' 23 point total.

Hampered by the small floor the Bucks found plenty of opposition in the defending Class D state champs. From start to finish it was a dog-eat-dog affair with the lead changing hands very frequently.

In a well-played preliminary game Stevensville B defeated Buchanan B, 18 to 16. Cupp starred for the winners and Topash, another Indian boy, for the losers.

Dale "Zeke" Leiter, Junior forward, led the Maroons with four field goals and a free throw for a total of 9 points. Schoenfelder, Cardinal forward, led the losers with two field goals and three free throws for a total of 7 points.

Civil War Vet Is 90 Years Old

Theodore Metzgar, Last South Berrien Veteran, Enlisted at 16 in 1863

Theodore Metzgar, last remaining Civil War veteran in southern Berrien county, was 90 years old Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Genevieve Viets, on the Niles-Buchanan road three miles east of Buchanan.

As is most evident, Metzgar entered the army very young. In fact he entered the army early in 1864 at the age of sixteen, having been turned back in an earlier attempt to join. He enlisted in the Co. H of the 30th Michigan Infantry. This regiment never served in a unit but was split in many units which were placed on guard duty. Co. H went to Trenton, Mich., on the Detroit river and remained on guard along the river stretch between Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair during the remainder of the conflict.

Late in February of 1864 the company was quartered in an old store building at Trenton, fitted with bunks as a barracks. There they stayed several months and were then stationed at Fort Wayne, Detroit, from which place they were mustered out several months after the war closed.

The ostensible reason for this guard duty along the Detroit river was the rumored presence of British troops on the Canadian side of the stream. Another company of the 30th Michigan was stationed at Wyandotte, and one at Fort Wayne, where a number of draft evaders, "border jumpers" and deserters were held as prisoners.

Metzgar enlisted in the 12th Michigan at Niles in 1863 at the age of fifteen, but was sent home by the captain when he learned of his extreme youth. An older brother, Ferdinand, served in the 17th Michigan. He died in 1837.

Mrs. Essie Gross Incurs Broken Leg

The friends of Mrs. Essie Gross, former Buchanan resident will be sorry to hear that she is at present confined at home recovering from a broken leg received in a fall at her home in Chicago Dec. 6. She was taken to the Michael Reese hospital for treatment but has been released with her limb in a heavy cast. She is able to be about her home with the assistance of a "walker."

Ada Schwartz has returned after spending several months in South Bend and is making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Chubb.

Raymond Hickok Called by Death

Local Lodge Leader and Business Man Was Resident Here 39 Years

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday from the Methodist church for Raymond Hickok, 59, Buchanan business man and fraternal leader for the past thirty years, who died at his home at 302 West Front street Tuesday after an illness of eight months.

He was born in Jefferson, O., Jan. 30, 1878, the son of James V. Hickok and Electa Capron Hickok. He was married October 14, 1890, to Louise Holmes, who survives him. He came to Buchanan thirty years ago from Kalamazoo and had lived here since.

Rev. Thomas Rice and Rev. Karl Kiefer of Gladwin, Mich., will conduct the funeral services. Burial will be at the Oak Ridge cemetery with the local Odd Fellow lodge in charge.

He is survived by his widow; by his son, Frank Hickok of Buchanan; by a brother, Judson Hickok of Shelby, Mich.

Harris Simpson, Noble Grand of the Odd Fellows, has requested that the members meet in a body at the lodge at 1:30 p. m. preparatory to taking charge of the funeral ceremony at the burial.

Clark Christmas Party Tomorrow

Tickets for Eligible Children To Be Issued From Kiehn's Office

Tickets to the Clark Equipment company Christmas party to be held at the theatre building Friday will be provided for the children of twelve years or under of all present employees and of those as well who were laid off since July 1, 1937, according to announcement.

Such present or former employees who have children eligible may receive their tickets by application at the office of A. H. Kiehn. Tickets will be designated in order to divide the children in two groups, one of which will be entertained at 10 a. m. Friday December 24, and the remainder will be entertained at 1:30 p. m. that day.

It is emphasized that adults cannot be admitted unless it is strictly necessary for them to conduct children too young or otherwise unable to come alone.

The entertainment will be unusually complete this year, including free show acts and movies, in addition to the main feature, the appearance of the reverend St. Nicholas himself and the distribution of gifts.

Desenberg's Renovate Landmark of Store

A restoring and renovating process is being applied this week to an old landmark of the city in the form of the nickel over the arch in the B. R. Desenberg & Bro. store.

This nickel represents the first receipts of the men's clothing department on the opening day, April 20, 1895, and was paid by Ed Swahn, a son of Principal Swalm, of the Buchanan high school, for a collar button. The nickel was embedded over the arch which then united the original or dry goods department, opened the previous year, and the newly added men's clothing. In the woodwork behind it was inscribed the amount of the sale, the name of the first purchaser and his purchase. It had been painted over several times until it was almost invisible.

Robert Ellis arrived Saturday from Butler University, Indiana, to visit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellis, until Jan. 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Rough will leave the first of next week for St. Petersburg, Fla., for the remainder of the winter.

Receive $46.25 P. T. A. Milk Fund

The Buchanan Parent-Teachers Association reports a total of $46.25 in receipts from the milk bottle drive for the first week. They wish to thank the people of Buchanan for their generous support of the canvass for funds for milk for underweight children. The canvass will continue for several weeks or until sufficient has been realized for the fund.

Marvin Gross Scores Honors

Wins Hood Scholarship As 1st Place Scholar In A Philadelphia Contest

The many local friends and admirers of Marvin Gross, former Buchanan boy, will be interested in the following clipping from a Hyde Park (Ill.) newspaper:

Marvin Gross, the son of Mrs. M. Gross, 1655 E. 55th street, is the recipient of the Hood Scholarship at the Philadelphia Conservatory of Music as first award in the contest held September 26, 1937. This scholarship entitles him to piano instruction under Madame Olga Samaroff and any classes he may elect.

Mr. Gross is a post graduate student of the Philadelphia Conservatory, having received his Bachelor's degree last June. He is a former student of the American Conservatory of Music of Chicago, where he studied piano with Mabel Webster Osmer, receiving first honors in piano department for four consecutive years.

In 1931 Mr. Gross won the summer scholarship with Joseph Levine while the latter was guest teacher at the American Conservatory.

Marietta Powers Dies in South Bend

Mrs. Judson Markham received word last week that her aunt, Marietta Powers, a former resident of Buchanan, had died Wednesday afternoon at her home at 115 East Tipt street, South Bend. The funeral was held Sunday morning and interment was made in Argos, Ind. Mrs. Powers made her home here about five years, residing with her husband, now deceased, on Oak street. They left about 15 years ago. She is survived by one son, Frank Powers, who made his home with her.

Spafford Unkindly Brags of Splendid Weather in Texas

L. B. Spafford writes from Pharr, Texas, that during the recent "weather convulsion" in Buchanan, the mercury dropped to 35 above zero there and some of the schools closed on account of inclement weather.

The weather is, on the whole, something like June in Michigan, he states. Recently, he writes, while he was at his orange grove there one evening he heard someone calling for help and went out to find a nearby cottager who had stolen a bag of oranges and then bogged down in the mire. With his usual accommodating spirit he helped him out of the mud and relieved him of the oranges. Needless to say, this could not have occurred at Buchanan.

He saw Richard Pears at Brownsville and was invited to go with him for a mess of tarpon (or is that what they fish with?)

T. F. Spafford

T. F. Spafford, who visited here at the home of his brother, L. B. Spafford, last summer and was a frequent guest with him at the Lions club and the Methodist church, died at his home in Cananda Dec. 9, according to word just received here.

105-Year Farm Ownership Ends

Chicago Man Buys Snyder, Herman and Reed Farms

A family farm tenure of 105 years came to an end last week with the completion of the sale of the Snyder farm seven miles north of Buchanan on the east side of the river to Morton Brooks, Chicago business man.

Brooks also bought two other farms, the beautiful 40 acre river frontage of John Herman adjoining the Snyder farm on the north and the 17 acre Arthur Reed farm. With the 65 acre Snyder farm, Brooks secures a fine river frontage of 132 acres. The Snyder farm had a river front of 120 rods and the Herman farm of 101 rods, giving a total of 221 rods or nearly a mile and a half of the finest frontage on Chapin Lake. This tract will acquire great value for summer homes when the river is purified.

Mr. and Mrs. George Snyder, representing the third generation of Snyders in 105 years, moved last Wednesday to Berrien Springs. Mr. and Mrs. John Herman have made their home in Buchanan for three years, but had lived on their beautiful River Cliff farm for 41 years previously. Their son, Lloyd Herman, now in possession, will move his stock and farm equipment March 1.

Brooks will make River Cliff farm his home, and will fit the beautiful Spring Hill farm up for tenants. The Spring Hill farm was taken up first by Snyder's grandfather in 1832, one of the first farms of the Bend of the River to be occupied. A family heirloom during the 105 ensuing years has been the old buckskin deed from the government signed by Andrew Jackson.

Advancing age and inability to care for the farms was the reason given by both the Hermans and the Snyders for selling their scenic tracts which are unsurpassed in the Buchanan district for residential water frontage. Mr. Herman was injured seven years ago, resulting in invalidism.

Charles R. Ritter Called By Death

Charles R. Ritter, 67, was found dead in bed at his home three miles south of Bakertown at 3 p. m. Tuesday by Ross Leazenby, who lives in the other half of the house which he occupied.

It is believed that death occurred early Tuesday morning. He was born June 26, 1870, near Lyddick, LaPorte county, Ind. He is survived by one brother, Paddon Ritter, and by a niece, Mrs. Carl Kuntz, both of Elkhart, Ind.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today at the Swem funeral home with Paul Carpenter in charge. Burial will be made in Oak Ridge cemetery.

Discuss Naming Bertrand Roads

The Portage Prairie Grange met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Mary Swartz five miles south of Buchanan for a business and social session and a cooperative Christmas dinner. The topic of discussion was the possibility of having all roads of Bertrand township named. The grange will meet Tuesday evening, January 4, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wilson.

L. D. S. Christmas Program Tonight

The L. D. S. church will hold a Christmas program at the church this (Thursday) evening. There will be a varied program of recitations and music directed by Mrs. Glenn Cease and Miss Genevieve Metzgar, also a short playlet and two dialogues. There will be a Christmas tree and Santa Claus to distribute gifts to the children.

Father Sidney Reamer Once Preached at St. Anthony's

A famous thriller between book covers, "The Prisoner of Zenda" by Anthony Hope, will be shown at the Hollywood theatre next Wednesday and Thursday as a benefit for St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church.

Additional interest is added to the local production from the fact that the film part of the priest assisting the bishop at the stage wedding is taken by Father Sidney Reamer, who was in charge of services at St. Anthony's for two years, while he was a member of the faculty at Notre Dame university and previous to the coming of Father John R. Day. He widened his acquaintance locally by delivering a lecture before the Men's Fellowship club, forerunner of the Buchanan Men's club, in the basement of the Presbyterian church. His talk is remembered by many who attended the banquet for its humor and philosophy.

Father Reamer also acted as the religious advisor for the production of the play, being now in California in work connected with religious aspects of screen production.

A matinee for school children will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday, for which tickets may be purchased by school children for 10 cents at the Princess Ice Cream Parlor. An Oliver and Hardy comedy never shown here before will be furnished as an additional feature.

Remington Sells Blacksmith Shop

To Build Modern Shop; Coops To Use Present Shop For Warehouse

After some date in the coming spring the old village smithy will be no longer a smithy, according to information released in the past week to the effect that the building now housing the Remington blacksmith and machine shop has been purchased by the Buchanan Co-ops, Inc., from Carl Remington, who will begin the erection of a modern shop building soon on the site of the old "Beehive" on Days avenue.

Remington plans a 36x60 cinder block building with a brick front on Days avenue. The old shop building will be used for a warehouse.

The blacksmith sign has hung over the front of the building from time immemorial and under at least three owners—Carl Remington, his father, Elmer Remington, and "Spike Merrill," father of Harrison Merrill of Kalamazoo, and a pioneer smith of the town. When Merrill operated the shop there was a paint shop upstairs with a runway up the south side for wheeling wagons and carriages up and down. At that time two horse shoers were employed and were kept busy shoeing horses.

When the elder Remington bought the shop he built an addition at the rear and added a wood working department with Chris Lentz in charge. Later Lentz, Clyde Marble and William Bupp were all employed in that department, in addition to three blacksmiths working under Remington in front. All this although there were four other shops doing a rushing business in the village under Burgess Miles, Frank Chapell, Frank Fisher and Joe Burch. One of the veteran blacksmiths who worked many years in the Remington shop was Joe Boyer. Twenty years ago the elder Remington sold the shop building and frontage including the site of the present I. & M. building to Harry Boyce, Carl Remington Later bought back the shop.

Midnight Mass On Christmas Eve

A midnight mass will be held Christmas eve at the St. Anthony's Roman Catholic church with Father John R. Day in charge. Two early masses will be held 8 a. m. and 9 a. m. Christmas day.

BUCHANAN NEEDS BUSINESS ORGANIZATION

Buchanan is faced with a grave problem . . . that of trade expansion. But, there is no reason why its merchants should not receive their just quota of Buchanan's trade territory business.

The business man of today must be a merchandiser in every sense of the word. He must anticipate customer needs. He must and does work for rapid stock turn-over and in turning his stock from twice to four times each year he can afford to under sell the "business" man who allows his stock to accumulate year after year and then wonders why he fails to progress.

The day of dog-eat-dog rivalry between individual merchants of a community is gone. Business men must organize in wide-awake trade organizations, merchants groups which work together, exchange ideas . . . weed out the bad and profit mutually by the good.

They must set up retail activities to expand trade internally and externally. Surveys are made to determine why customers leave home to buy and what customers think of local service.

Trade areas are extended through cooperative effort. Sales events are held varying according to the community and seasons. Most common of these being Dollar Days, Spring and Fall Openings, Clearance Sales, Play Days (Get acquainted), Christmas events etc.

Community sales events entice people to trade or, at least to visit the stores and become acquainted. They turn merchandise quickly . . . create good will in the existing trade area and advertise the retail market to a broader area. They acquaint the shopper with available retail service.

But . . . sales events, to become successful must offer true values. If a merchant is to advertise a bargain—he must give a bargain, otherwise the effect is injurious.

Timeliness is also essential. The event must be properly timed according to season.

There must be a variety of bargains and merchants should check one store against another in order to avoid duplications.

Community sales events should be followed by a check-up. What did the merchant do? What results did he obtain? Were results in keeping with the efforts of participating merchants? Were the customers satisfied? Were suggestions for improvements offered?

Surveys, made in many American communities, have proven that the chief factors governing retail trade are: price, selectivity, convenience and service.

Prices should be compared with those of competing communities and an effort made to equalize them, if necessary . . . the same applies to selectivity.

Do the stores attract or repel trade? Are the windows and interiors attractively decorated.

Community service is a contributing factor to increased business. People go to town for amusement and shop while there.

Stores must render speedy, efficient and courteous service.

If Buchanan is to grow and prosper its merchants must grow and prosper and to do this they must unite. It can be done!

A few years ago the people of Denver, Colorado under the leadership of a business men's organization, perceived that Denver could not continue to grow until the mountain barrier to the west of the city had been pierced. They voted a bond issue to build a tunnel. The issue was invalidated by the courts. The business group countered with a proposal for a state bond issue. It was defeated at the polls. Undaunted, Denver secured enactment of an act creating a tunnel district, and won approval of the residents of that district for a bond issue. The tunnel was built. A rich new trade territory was opened up. Denver is growing. Why? Because it has a well organized merchants group with tenacity of purpose.

Buchanan's problem is not the same as that which confronted Denver . . . ours is more simplified, but it calls for the same dogged determination on the part of our merchants . . . and the same unity of spirit.

KIPKE GIVEN A RAW DEAL

The yelling that followed the announcement of the trade of Detroit Tiger "Gee Walker to the Chicago White Sox is a healthy condition. In this connection read the paragraph from the St. Ignace Republican-Press in the Rice & Romey column this week. In matters of this character some one's judgment has to prevail and even if the Walker trade turns out to be a blunder we shall still believe that Mickey Cochrane did what he thought was best. No one believes he is out to cripple his ball club. As to the dismissal of Harry Kipke as head coach at Ann Arbor we are still prepared to go along with the same logic we ask for Cochrane but feel that the Lansing boy was given a raw deal. The writer saw that memorable game when Kipke starred in the stadium dedication game against Ohio. Just to refresh your memory Kipke in that game punted 11 times for an average of 47 yards. Two punts went out-of-bounds inside the 10-yard line. Eight were punted out above the 10-yard line. Kipke punted twice from behind his goal line for 72 yards and 60 yards. Kipke scored two touchdowns and kicked a field goal from placement scoring one of the touchdowns on an intercepted pass. As Doug Roby, president of the University of Michigan club of Detroit, who played side by side with Kipke in 1921-22-23 told the Detroit Times:

"This was one of the greatest individual performances any Michigan man has ever turned in—before or since."

Again these decisions have to be someone's judgment but we want to go on record as saying it was a cruel and cheap way to turn an old star out in the cold. At least, he should have been given a "face saving" exit.

Children In Court

In seeking the causes for the United States having three and a half million criminals at large, those who are interested in crime prevention are now scanning the types of reading material which our present day criminals read when they are passing through their adolescent years.

It has been found that a score or so ago youngsters were permitted to attend motion picture theatres and read books and magazines which not only dealt with murders, wars, cattle rustling, and Indian massacres, but in many instances the plots were based on morbid and depressing subjects.

Even the public schools of twenty or thirty years ago assigned outside reading material which, while although literature, also portrayed violence and morbid conditions. Among the assigned readings were The Black Cat and Gold Bug by Poe, Les Miserables by Hugo, Oliver Twist and Nicholas Nickolby by Dickens, The Deerslayer, Spy, and Last of the Mohicans by Cooper, Ivanhoe by Scott, Treasure Island by Stevenson, and The White God by Wallace.

Educators and others interested in present day crime prevention are wondering whether the reading material of several decades ago might have indirectly stimulated certain present day criminals, when they were adolescent youths, with a desire to imitate the deeds of daring which their favorite characters performed.

equipment were heavily mortgaged and about to go under the hammer.

For weeks and months a gloom hung over all Halsingland, for the company gave employment to thousands and no one knew what the outcome would be. Finally minor stockholders scraped the money by great sacrifice of other holdings to buy out Count Halvyl, and it became a stock company with democratic management.

The old stone palace built in the eighteenth century went into the hands of the company, and was leased as a hotel. Although it still stands majestically on the hilltop, the glory has departed from it. No more do the nobles hold state functions in the grand ball room, when sumptuous sleighs pulled by sleek horses dash up to the great entrance with a clash of bells and grand ladies dressed in silks and sables alight and go in.

In fact when we were there the company had closed the hotel to the public and had thrown the entire building into a sort of summer asylum for the poor and the sick children of the larger towns, giving each child a vacation of two weeks at company expense.

My wife and I climbed the steps past the great stone wall around it, and into the grounds still beautifully landscaped. There, instead of the economic nobility that once dominated that part of Halsingland, there sported 30 children, with a teacher in charge. The company kept three teachers and a nurse to handle the children in addition to a staff of servants. The kids were having a grand time. Though there were pinched faces and ill-nourished forms among them, they scampered almost unclothed in the warm sun and were bronzed and happy.

My wife talked with the teachers in charge in Swedish. The youngsters were selected from city families where the parents were unable to send them on a vacation, she said. Preference was given to children who were below par physically. They came all summer in fortnightly relays. Some were scampering in games but a few boys were raking the yards and driveways.

"Do you have to work?" my wife asked in Swedish.

"We don't have to," said one of the boys. "We're just doing it to help."

Down the hill on the rear of the building was a little sweet shop. My wife and I decided to treat the youngsters, so after looking over the stock we bought 35 all-day suckers and took them back to the grounds. My wife called the children and they filed up in line, each taking his or her sucker. I stood to one side. The children had the ceremonious manners in which Swedish children are trained. As each took his or her sucker he, or she would shake hands with my wife and give a curtsy, like that of colonial days in America, a sort of quick drop of the right knee. Then one and all they came across and repeated the salutation to me.

There were supposed to be about 35 youngsters present but when the rounds were complete we still had eight or ten suckers.

My wife gave them to a girl and told her to hunt up the rest. Off she galloped with an escort of a half dozen urchins. In a few minutes she came back with five or six suckers, saying that she had not found anyone to give them to. My wife told them to divide them to suit themselves. They went off happy and there was no evidence of quarreling.

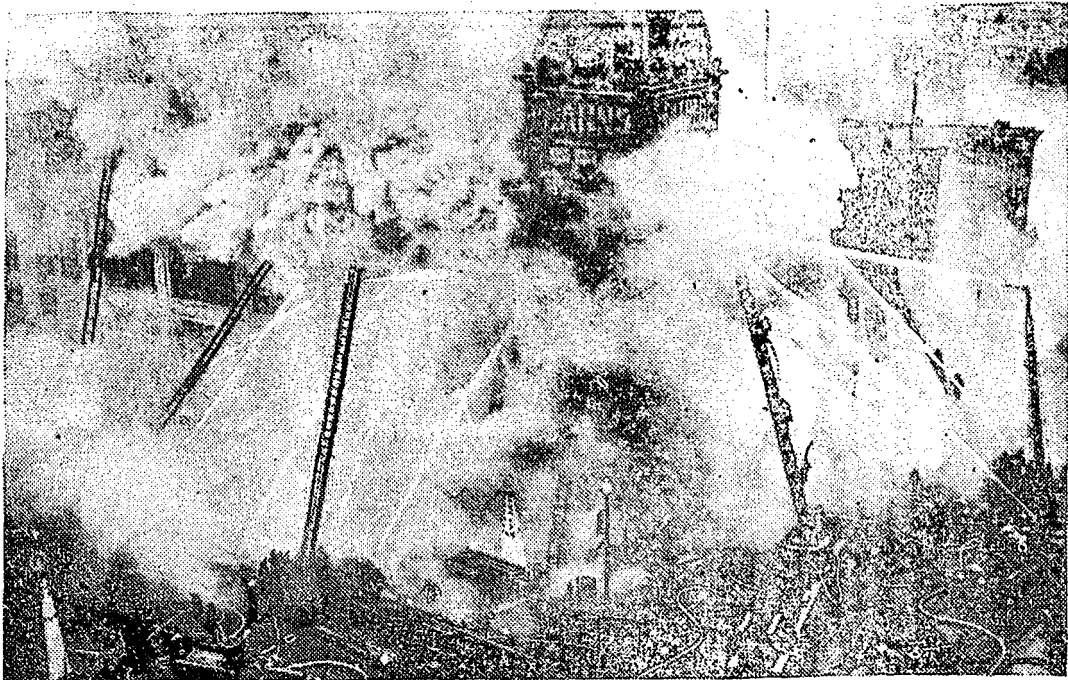

I am inclined to believe that the honest and friendly relationships of these youngsters is rather typical of Sweden today, and that the personal relationships of Sweden tend to be generally friendly. There is a lack of bitterness; I heard none of the violent political argument, the denunciation of leaders, that we hear occasionally at home.

The answer is that Sweden has passed the transition period through which America is now going; that her labor wars are a thing of the past, and that a continued prosperity, so much greater than that of the past has quieted the industrial feuds. Is this all due to the superior wisdom of the Swedes?

They don't say so themselves. The Swedish economic leaders attribute much of the present prosperity, relatively the highest in the world, to excellent luck in being a prime source of raw materials for great peace and war programs in the rest of Europe. England has been drawing tremendously on the Swedish forests in the great housing campaign in progress there for several years; Germany is drawing on the iron copper and other mineral resources in her rearmament. Consequently mines and forest industries worked at capacity even during the depression.

Whatever the cause, there is now prevalent in Sweden an era of good will between political parties and between capital and labor.

Battle Spectacular Washington Blaze

View of the battle waged against the fire which destroyed a large building and threatened an entire block in the shopping district of Washington, D. C. Damage was estimated at $300,000. The fire, one of the most spectacular the capital has seen in recent years, brought out every available piece of apparatus.

There are points of disagreement of course, but they are not disputed in implacable hatred. My wife noticed the difference that had ensued even during the ten years since her last visit. There used to be bad feeling against the nobility when they dominated politically and skimmed the cream industrially. Now that they are shoved aside and no longer figure either in government or finance, the hostility has died down. Day and hour wages are still much lower than in America, but they are much higher than they once were, and employment tends to be much steadier than in America. One reason seems to be that expenditure is steadier; and the general public are not stampeded occasionally by depressions or rumors of depression. The Swede as a rule owns his own home, and while he tends to live well up to his income, he is crafty about obligating himself beyond his income.

In the great stables where once were kept the blooded saddle horses and the grand sleighs and surreys of the nobles is now maintained the hotel dairy. Blue aproned milk maids scour the floors in place of the liveried flunkies who once kept the horses.

We were disappointed in being able to see the interior of the manor house because it was closed to the public that day while the servants were scouring it from top to bottom in preparation for inspection by the superintendent of the company. There were yet on the walls of dining rooms, ballrooms and halls the great mural paintings of the days of the nobles.

From the manor house we went to the home of the pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church where my wife had been confirmed. Although the Swedish clergy are extremely formal in their public appearances, this minister was a democratic chap in his own home. He talked for an hour, while his wife served us coffee and pastries and then we went to the old building where my wife had lived and studied for a whole winter, learning the doctrines of the church preparatory to confirmation. They do not attend as scrupulously as they did once, the minister said. In the old days when my wife went she and several other children walked the 17 miles to the county seat in a day, and then walked back at the close of the winter. A 17 mile walk is even yet not considered suicidal in Sweden, especially in summer when there are twenty hours sunlight and it is light all night.

From the old classrooms we went to the church. The church is nearly two hundred years old, built in 1751 and highly ornamented and adorned with paintings, the gifts of rich and pious citizens down through the generations. On the side wall was an old Madonna painted in Italy, the gift of a wealthy member. In the front was the conspicuous item of furnishing of every Swedish church, the bulletin board with moveable numbers for the hymnals. In the Voxna church this bulletin board is gold plated the gift of a Voxna native who left his town and became a great singer and is now a member of the Metropolitan Opera company of New York City. Most of the towns of any size in Sweden have their tales of natives who went to America and became great men or millionaires. It is a factor that tends to maintain the tradition of America as a land of opportunity. In the tidy and beautiful little city of Sveg not far from Voxna is the native home of the Swedish consul to Chicago.

There were many rich gifts by Count Von Halvyl, the German noble who nearly ruined the company supporting the German cause. Among his gifts was a marble lamb which stands back of the altar. The count was bitterly opposed to the Catholic church, so he refused to countenance the usual crucifix which ordinarily stands back of the altar in Swedish Lutheran as in Catholic churches.

The Swedish churches all have the elevated pulpits to the side into which the minister mounts by a stair. The choir loft, is in a balcony in the rear of the church, where the pipe organ is also located. In front of the pews is the chancel railing and there to one side of the central aisle is the baptismal font, always richly ornamented. There are pews enclosed on each side within the chancel in the front of the church where the ushers or sextons sit. While the sextons regularly take up collections with pouches on the ends of long poles, the running expense of the church are maintained by state taxation. The clergy are well paid and kept. But that may be one reason why in late years there has been a decline in attendance even heavier than in America.

The minister took us into the sacristy behind the altar where he opened a heavy chest with a ponderous key, taking out the church records, including the births and deaths of the membership since the beginning of the church. From another well-guarded chest he took the gold crown which the chaste brides wear at church weddings. The privilege of wearing the gold crown as a symbol of chastity is still highly regarded, it is said, in Sweden, although the custom is not followed so much in the more modern sections of the country.

It tends to prevent promiscuity, the minister maintained. It is always considered much nicer to wear the crown, and a matter of regret rather than disgrace if the girl does not wear it. But the worse thing by far is to secure the privilege by lying about her past. That is generally believed to be fatal to a happy marriage. Do many lie?

The minister thought not. We bade the minister goodbye at the church and went down to the old building that had once been the main office of the Ljusna-Voxna Lumber company, now moved to the seaport town of Ljusna. There were still the minor offices of the company.

While we waited for my brother-in-law to finish, we went into a nearby store, a typical small-town department store of Sweden. When you see the abundant and varied food on the Swedish homes and the plentiful furnishings you wonder at the meagerness of the stocks of goods in the grocery and other stores. The explanation is that the frugal Swedish housewives are responsible for most of this varied abundance. Swedish housewives are home makers who work full time at the job. There are few clubs for women in small towns, none in the country. The Scriptural description of the good housewife still holds good for Sweden or at least for Norrland. They don't know a spade from a club but the broom and the mixing are trumps in the Norrland home.

Some one called and we went to the offices there we were introduced to an elderly company official, who greeted us with all the ceremonial courtliness of the old time Swede. We lingered and he talked with that timeless hospitality of the country and as the time finally did near an end, he brought in the glasses and in potent achnops he proposed a skoal to Gamla Sveriga, which was drunk in solemn state, but as usual I took bara litet.

Hollywood Has Full Program For Christmas

The Hollywood Theatre will run continuous shows on Christmas day, Saturday, December 25th. Manager Hoffman states that he has secured for his patrons one of the strongest bills that will be shown at any theatre. In fact both of the features are regular Sunday productions, "Vogues of 1938" in technicolor and the new cosmopolitan production "Submarine D. I." In addition the first chapter of the new Serial that will run at this theatre for the next twelve weeks will be shown, "Secret Agent X-9." An added cartoon will be thrown in for good measure, making a three hour and thirty minute show.

Next year's fashions in fun, gowns, girls, love music, dances and technicolor are introduced by "Walter Wangers' Vogues of 1938," the gay musical extravaganza starring Warner Baxter and Joan Bennett, which begins a 2-day engagement at the Hollywood on Christmas eve.

All the resources of the United States Navy were loaned, it is said, to Warner Bros. for the production of a thrilling melodrama called "Submarine D. I." which opens Friday at Hollywood theatre and is announced as the most stirring and authentic film ever made with a "tin fish"—as the gobs irreverently term an undersea boat—as its subject.

"Secret Agent X-9," hero of one of the nation's more popular newspaper feature strips, will be on the movie screens of the entire country soon. The amazing adventures of this detective have been taken from Charles Flandler's pictorial narrative and produced as a chapterplay by Universal. The first episode of "Secret Agent X-9" will be shown at the Hollywood on Friday. It concerns the theft of Belgravian crown jewels by notorious international thieves.

Stirring Drama
"The Life of Emilie Zola," new

Paul Muni starring production, and perhaps his most elaborate one so far, is remarkable in that it has only one "location" setting—that it, a background made away from the Warner Bros. studio. It is the Devil's Island set, for which Goff Island, at Laguna Beach, was transformed into the notorious French Penal colony. The picture will be shown here Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Clark Gable, William Powell and Myrna Loy in one picture is the unusual attraction offered in "Manhattan Melodrama," and will be the Monday night guest feature.

Famous Romance
Ronald Colman and Madeleine Carroll, as Rassendyll and Princess Flavia, the charming lovers of "The Prisoner of Zenda," David O. Senzick's lavish production of the famous Anthony Hope romance which comes here Wednesday and Thursday. Colman plays a dual role in the film in which Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. is also importantly cast as the dashing Rupert of Hentzau.

The Library

The Buchanan Public library will be closed all day Friday and Saturday of this week.

Patrons of the library, who are becoming more numerous weekly, are again advised that the entrance proper is at the rear of the postoffice.

Champion Reader

We have this week a nomination for the champion reader of Buchanan in the person of Miss Vivian Carlisle, who has been regularly borrowing two books daily from the new additions returning the two regularly the following day. Miss Carlisle's teachers and schoolmates at the Buchanan high school state that she can actually read an ordinary book in about an hour and a half, and can then prove that the reading was complete by furnishing details of the contents of any part of the book.

Miss Carlisle evidently has the faculty of reading by grasping several lines or groups of words at a glance instead of reading word by word as does the ordinary reader. Psychologists who have studied the reading process say that readers who go through a book this way get as much and remember it fully as well—in many cases better—than the average reader.

Misses Proseus and Boyce of the library staff report that Michigan's famous author, James Oliver Curwood, is still greatly in demand, men visitors asking for his works. They deal especially with Michigan settings in the north woods and lakes.

GAY MITTENS AND GLOVES ARE SMART

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Here's your chance to go daintily fashionable this season. Be first in your set to come out gloved in a pair of crocheted or knitted mittens that for color will startle the eye. These new wool gloves and mittens are the smartest thing ever, so don't miss a chance like this to stir your neighbors into a state of frenzied envy.

A pair of these cuddly wool hand-coverings and your entire costume is dramatized. The handknit ones from Vienna are perfectly charming—have gay embroidery up the center and about the wrist. You can get scarves to match. Do not carry the mistaken idea they are simply for winter sportswear. No, indeed. The big news lies in the fact that they are worn with your "bestest" town suit or "highbrow" fur coat.

First Black Swans

The first black swans were found in Australia by Dutch explorers in 1697, although they had been considered since early Roman days as an absurdity. The Swan river was named after them, they have since been introduced into many other countries, and still remain probably the best known of all the eccentric birds and animals of Australia.

The Guitarfish

One glance at a guitarfish and anybody can tell to what family it belongs. Its broad, flat body indicates it is one of the rays—a class of fish containing some of the ugliest, largest, and most deadly inhabitants of the ocean. For instance, there is the devilfish, by all odds the biggest of the rays, sometimes weighing several tons. It is all body, with a whiplike tail. Though not so perilous to catch, it is a horrible sight. Then, there is the eagle ray, smaller than the devilfish, but extremely dangerous. On the end of its tail are cruel, poisonous barbs.

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p.358): "Christian Science, understood, coincides with the Scriptures, and sustains logically and demonstratively every point it presents."

Sight and Sound Perspective Is Added to the Movies

By WATSON DAVIS

New York.—Three dimensions in both sight and sound are added to the movies by demonstrations before the Society of Motion Picture Engineers meeting here.

The motion picture of the future thus promises to have the "depth" or perspective of real life with the sound localized as it is from a stage or actual scene.

The sound perspective or "stereophonic" movies were shown by J. P. Maxfield of Electrical Research Products, New York, while the three-dimensional movies produced by use of polarized light were projected by G. W. Wheelwright of the Land-Wheelwright laboratories, Boston.

By adding sight and sound perspective to the conventional color and faithful sound of today's theatrical movies, themselves hardly a decade old, the motion pictures of a few years in the future promise to reproduce all attributes of the senses of sight and sound. With such progress already made, it may not be too much to expect smell, taste and feeling to be portrayed by equipping future theaters with subtle perfumes, synthetic food pellets to be consumed at the proper time and auditoriums wired in some manner to appeal to the sense of touch!

The Stereophonic System.
The sound perspective movies are a development of the three-dimensional sound system demonstrated a few years ago by Bell Telephone Laboratories before the National Academy of Sciences. It consists of two independent sound systems that feed two loud speakers so arranged that the sound from the screen is given direction and depth. On this new stereophonic film, two sound tracks are squeezed into the space on the film where one is usually placed. Theaters to use the new system would need to have two sound systems instead of one.

Actors gave a fast-moving skit and an orchestra played in Mr. Maxfield's demonstration to show the assembled engineers what sound perspective can do for future movie productions. A year or so in the future the public may be presented the first stereophonic dramatic production.

The movies that are, three-dimensional in sight utilize polarized light to produce the effect. The audience wears glasses with lenses of polaroid, a synthetic substance that cuts out all light except that which vibrates in one direction. One lens is blind to all light that the other lens can see. In taking the polaroid movies, two cameras are used with similar lenses, and the projector has a similar optical system.

Water Flooding Revives Exhausted Oil Wells

State College, Pa.—Oil is being recovered from Pennsylvania wells that have ceased producing profitably under other methods of working by a new water-flooding process developed by Pennsylvania State college scientists here.

Water under pressure is forced into oil-bearing rock formations through selected wells to sweep the oil out through other wells, in the new method of "reviving" non-producing bores.

Increasing attention has been paid by petroleum engineers the world over to the job of extracting the last remnants of oil from a pool as increasing numbers of fields give out. Blasting, to break up rock formations clogging the bottoms of wells, has been successfully developed in this country, while Russian engineers have used compressed air to achieve the same result.

China's Prized Lohon Plant Brought to America

Washington.—China's famed Lohon plant, known only from its dried fruits until Dr. G. Waldman-Groff brought complete specimens out of the deep interior of the country, is without mystery in at least one respect, botanists of the United States National herbarium and the Department of Agriculture say.

From fruits and seeds it has long been known that the plant is a family that includes melons, gourds, pumpkins, squashes and cucumbers. Its more exact classification will be possible after specimens now on the way arrive in Washington.

The dried fruits have long been prized articles of Chinese commerce. Steeped as a tea or served in soup, they are claimed by the Chinese to be sure cure for colds, soothing to upset stomachs in hot weather, and in general good for what ails you. The fruits are used by cooks rather than physicians: a Lohon a day keeps the doctor away. In China, the cook is in disgrace if a member of the family gets sick enough to go to a doctor.

Pledge to the Flag

The Pledge to the Flag, it is asserted, was written in the office of the Youth's Companion, of Boston, in 1888, by James B. Upham, of Malden, Mass., in collaboration with a campaign to stimulate the patriotic sentiments of American children by flying the flag over every schoolhouse.

POLITENESS IN THE HALLS

Sometimes it is really dangerous to walk down the halls because one can never tell when he is going to be tripped, shoved, or pushed. Between classes there is a general rush for the drinking fountain or locker room. Some of the students that would like to pass on to another class room are held back because of the thoughtlessness of other people.

If you are in a hurry to get a drink, it saves time to quietly wait your turn instead of pushing or shoving.

If, by accident, you spill someone else's books, it would take only a minute of your time to help pick them up or at least to apologize or your awkwardness.

Your best friend will undoubtedly be glad to see you, but not if you smack him on the back with a powerful blow. Greet your friends with voice rather than blows.

Passing in the hall would be more harmonious if each would do his part to be quieter and more polite.

THE BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

The business department offers many opportunities to high school pupils for the development of skills and knowledge which they should have in the business world.

All students must sooner or later earn their own living, but how they will do this is uncertain. They should, therefore, be interested in bookkeeping knowledge for the following values: personal and social, economic, educational, and vocational. The personal and social value is the individual or family record keeping and budgeting and for record keeping of income tax reports. The economic value is in the study of record keeping for a professional business man, farmer, and others who might use it. The knowledge of the business vocabulary, which is necessary for any one entering the business world, gives the educational value. The vocational value is received in record bookkeeping needed by anyone entering the bookkeeping field who will receive a salary for his services.

The bookkeeping class is open to the tenth graders, and the students have work books. They each have separate accounts which they work on as bookkeepers. They have the different books such as the ledger, cash book, sales and purchase books.

Development in typing powers for personal and vocational use is the primary aim of the eleventh grade typewriting classes. The secondary aims are: first, a knowledge of the keyboard and parts of the machine; second, a habit of accuracy in typing; and proof reading material. Third, a familiarity with business forms. Fourth, a feeling for the correct spelling and syllabication of words. Fifth, to further desirable social attitudes, business habits, and tact.

There are three different typing classes a day, and there are three different makes of the typewriter machines. There are ten Royal, six Underwood, and four Remington typewriters which makes it possible for the students to learn the way each kind operates.

Wanda Wideman, Geneva Babcock, and Constance Kelley are the most outstanding in their typing classes.

Shorthand, given in the twelfth grade, has the primary aim to give the students a knowledge of writing shorthand by learning the shorthand alphabet, rules, phrases, and other fundamentals, also to give the pupil practice in dictation and transcription work.

The primary aim of the office practice class offered to twelfth graders is to give a comprehensive knowledge of office procedures. The secondary aims are first, to help the student develop skill in setting up letters in mailable form; second, to help the students write letters that have not been dictated; third, to develop in the important to success in life and in the office; fourth, to give the student experience in telephoning, sending messages, meeting callers, using common business forms, filing and office machines; fifth, to develop a greater skill in type-writing.

All the preceding classes are under the direction of Miss Quade, and the following under Mr. Rizor: Commercial law, another business subject, is to acquaint the student with the general knowledge of law that they may be able to live more safely in modern society, and to stress the fact that law is the agency to social control. It is a general discussion of the various phases of work with proper emphasis on questions. This work is followed by a discussion of case problems that have been tried in court. Mr. Rizor wants to put on a "mock trial" for the school. He also hopes his commercial law class can attend circuit court for one day at St. Joseph.

The second grade children in Miss Virginia's room are completing the toys for the Christmas toyland. They have also completed their library which is made of orange crates.

Original Christmas stories and poems have been added to the collections, "Our Stories," and "Our Poetry."

The aim of education is to develop the ability to cooperate effectively in a democratic society. Teachers are seeking to give experience in self-direction to their pupils. Children are encouraged to make decisions for themselves, to co-operate with other children in planning and carrying out activities and to gain skill in the solution of problems that arise in the routine of school life. He learns to respect the rights of others and to act in every situation for the best interests of all concerned.

As children grow older it becomes necessary for them to direct their own activities to an increasing degree. They are not now very skillful in self direction, so opportunities must be provided that will make it possible for them to become more skillful.

In correlating these activities with the skills acquired in reading, arithmetic, writing, art, etc., children learn how necessary and practical these skills are in life situations.

One of the most important ways by which opportunities for self-direction can be provided is through social studies. The main objective here is to create an adjustment of human personalities and to make desirable citizens.

Thinking and problem-solving are stimulated by social studies. Children find new fields of knowledge and interest. They are encouraged to look for the solutions to their problems of the social studies deal with the welfare of the human being and endeavor to bring about social cooperation among the children.

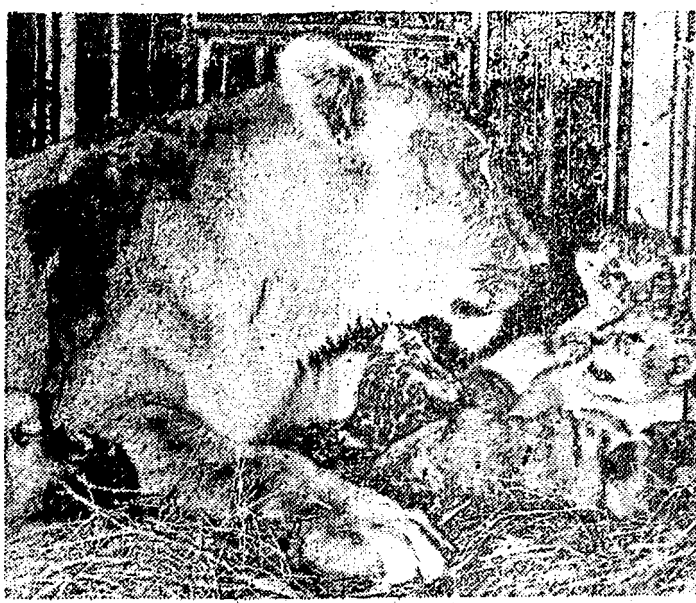

Deeper observation is developed. Field trips or excursions and experiments are conducted in order that the children may find the sources, causes, and effects of the object of their problem.

Desirable attitudes and appreciation are developed. While working together as a group, young children can be trained to exercise self-control, cooperation, and responsibility as a part of a social group.
