Atty. Hammerschmidt, Lecturer, to Give Illustrated Talk on Russia

Now Here's the Proposition

We ought to hev purty good weather the rest of the winter...

The Tenor of the Times You can hear them dishing judgment out wherever you may pass...

The judges are a flock of crooks just take them as they come; The president's an imbecile; a senator's a bum;

It always pays to listen for you learn some nifty names And some diabolic titles which they're careless with the same...

So they cuss and bless each other till the very air is blue; They call them all the old ones and they study up some new;

Since I'm a peaceful gentleman who does not like to fight I just agree with all of them that all of them are right...

For I'm right in with the tenor of the times.

Chances for Heaven

(Based on the hell they catch here) Some weeks back the Record reprinted a statement going the rounds of the press which commented very favorably on the chances of newspaper editors going to heaven...

The article, originally appearing in a service club magazine, assumed that editorial prospects of a free pass through the celestial portals rated about 100%.

While there seems to be a very good basis for the contention, it is only fair to assume that a slight exaggeration entered into the claim.

Telephone operators 98.8% Postal clerks, 98.7% School teachers, 98.3% Ministers, 98.1% Meter readers, 97.3% Advertising solicitors, 97.6% Highway snowplow operators, 97.3%

Store clerks, 96.3% Editors and newspaper reporters, 95.2%

While it is evident from the results of our careful check that the author of the much-quoted article was not entirely right, he was 95.2% right in the case of newspaper editors alone, and 95.2% is not a bad accuracy score.

Of course there may be other factors that enter into the celestial...

Colored Movies Illustrate Talk, Which Will Be Free to The Public

An unusual entertainment feature will be offered the people of Buchanan next Thursday evening, Jan. 6, when Atty. Louie Hammerschmidt, well known South Bend world traveler, will show his fine colored movies of Soviet Russia, with an accompanying lecture, based on his trip there last summer, at the Methodist church.

Atty. Hammerschmidt's popularity across the state line is evidenced by the fact that he had fifteen engagements booked for this month. Owing to the demands on his time this is the only showing of his pictures that will be made in Buchanan.

The lecture will follow the Men's club supper which will be held in the church basement. The club will adjourn to the auditorium at 7:30 to hear the illustrated lecture. The public will be welcome without charge.

Hammerschmidt showed an illustrated lecture on the interior of Alaska before a meeting of the Thirty club at the Alfred Hall home last spring, and a deep impression was registered on all who heard him.

Maroons Defeat Three Oaks 21-19

Locals Stave Off Last Quarter Drive; Whip Acorns on Own Court

By JOHN SCHULTZ The Bucks defeated a determined Three Oaks five 21 to 19 last Wednesday on the Acorn's court. Both teams fought neck-and-neck with the lead changing hands very often.

The Bucks gave Three Oaks a Christmas gift with the word defeat written all over it.

Two points proved to be important to the Maroons. It meant victory. The Bucks had to stave off a desperate last quarter rally. The game was a nip-and-tuck affair in the first half, but the Maroons pulled away to an 18 to 14 lead in the third canto never to be headed off.

Two baskets by Heckathorne, one by J. Weigandt, and a charity loss by Brower for Three Oaks; and one basket each by the Buck scoring trio: Leiter, Beck, and Simpson gave the Acorns a 7 to 6 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Outscoring their opponents 4 points to 2 in the second canto the Bucks emerged ahead 10 to 9 at the intermission. A basket by Leiter and free throws by Leiter and Weaver gave the Maroons their 4 points. G. Weigandt scored the only points for the Acorns with a side shot.

The Bucks came out strong after the intermission and outscored their opponents 8-5. Baskets by Smith, Leiter, and Simpson and free throws by Beck and Trapp accounted for the Bucks eight point total in the third eight minute period.

J. Weigandt was awarded a charity toss which he made good. He came right back with a long shot from the center. With a minute and a half to go the Acorns made a desperate attempt to knot the count but the Maroons held.

J. Weigandt led the Three Oaks five with 3 field goals and a pair of charity tosses. Leiter followed closely with a 7 point total. A newly inspired Buchanan Reserve team completed the evening with a victory over the Acorn Reserves. The score was 24 to 20. The game was very slow the first half but speeded up in the last 16 minutes of play.

Wesner, junior forward, led the Maroon Reserves with three field goals and two charity tosses. For 8 points. Sawyer, Acorn center, led the losers with an 8 point total.

The Bucks rest until January 11 when they tangle with the undefeated New Buffalo Bisons on the home court. They resume practice January 3.

Clarks Stage Mammoth Party

1450 Gift Sacks; Fine Vaudeville Acts From Chicago Theatres

Cockatoos that waltzed and jigged to music, that counted to order, that did trapeze work, that shot guns and staged sensational rescues from burning buildings, a Micky McCarthy that may yet outshine his brother, Charlie, a magician; and last and most important a Santa Claus that handed out about 1350 sacks of candy, nuts, fruits and toys—all these combined to make the Clark Christmas party one that will be long remembered among the youngsters of Buchanan.

Perhaps Micky McCarthy and the cockatoos got the biggest hand, next to Santa Claus, but the magician was no set-up, and there was an old-fashioned lunch and Judy done in style.

Two contingents of children of 12 years and under and their parents were entertained at 10 a. m. and at 1:30 p. m. Friday. The attendance was reduced somewhat from the fact that the children of employees of the Berrien Springs plant were not able to come on account of bad roads, and their gifts were sent there instead.

In all 1450 sacks were piled up backstage, each sack containing a real Christmas, with several toys in addition to the candy, nuts and fruit. This year the sacks were made up so that they were suitable for either girls or boys.

The vaudeville acts were strictly high-class numbers from the Chicago show houses, and were billed that same night for Chicago engagements.

1937 Was Good Year in Buchanan

Outstanding in History of Town for Industrial Construction

The year of 1937 must be listed as one of the most outstanding in point of industrial advancement and general civic improvement in the hundred odd years of Buchanan's history.

To its span of time must be credited the completion and opening of the plant of the Dry-Zero Corporation, a unit of which marked the coming here of a unit of one of the chief insulation-making firms in the United States, and which also marked the resumption of use of a factory building which has been closed nearly ten years.

A resume of events of unusual interest follows: Jan. 5. Installation of the last section of 5.75 miles of main sewer line was completed by the WPA.

Jan. 14. Clark Equipment starts to move equipment into new River street tool room, following the completion of the steel glass and concrete addition by the Austin Construction company.

Jan. 13. Buchanan Credit Union boosts dividends from 5 to 6% annual. Jan. 12. Gallen-Buchanan State bank announces that earnings of the bank in the past year, after all charges of every kind had been deducted, were 22 1/2%.

Jan. 21. Presbyterian church announces opening of recreation rooms in the basement. Jan. 25. Buchanan is organized to raise funds for Red Cross for relief of sufferers in Ohio river flood district. Thirty club takes charge with Mrs. J. C. Strayer as chairman.

Serves as Clearing House to Spread Christmas Cheer to Needy Families

Many Buchanan homes were made glad and Christmas was kept Christmas for many Buchanan children this year as a result of the activities of the Child Study Club which acted as a clearing house for a number of organizations in dispensing food not only for Christmas dinners but for many days after Christmas.

The Child Study Club dispensed sixteen large baskets of food, valued on the average between $6 and $7 each to needy homes, and in addition coordinated with a number of agencies that gave out many additional baskets to other homes.

When there were about 100 sacks of candy, nuts, fruits and toys left over from the liberal Christmas furnished by the Clark Equipment company to the children of employees, this surplus was turned over to the Child Study Club and they delivered them over the city where they would do the most good late Friday afternoon.

The committee in charge for the club was: Mrs. O. L. Donley (chairman), Mrs. Hugh Pierce, Mrs. Earl Yoder, Mrs. Burton Mills, Mrs. Dean Swank, Mrs. Ralph McWilliams and Mrs. Wanzler Brunelle.

The club used its own resources and received donations from several others. The Monday Club, Thirty club and Lions club, the Presbyterian Home Service, food, The Rebekahs, College Club, Terre Coupe Home Economics club and the Elks gave money. Poorman's grocery donated all the coffee and bread used and some vegetables. Other food materials were furnished at cost. Several individuals gave money.

The Child Study club coordinated with the Odd Fellows, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars and their auxiliaries, the Methodist, Catholic and Christian churches and the Boy and Girl Scouts, all of which sent out baskets.

Each basket contained the following: butter, lard, flour, sugar, bread, potatoes, coffee, chicken, cranberries. In the case of elderly men living alone, the dinners were sent cooked. The quantity of each kind of food depended on the size of the families.

Employee Feast on Feast and Bonuses

Employee and stockholders of Buchanan Co-ops enjoyed a banquet at D's Cafe Tuesday evening of last week, with A. J. George as the Major Domo of ceremonies.

Following the banquet the orators were turned loose. Rex Milhon, Bob Koenigsbaf, Frank Hamilton, Dean Clark and Jesse G. Boyle making talks. The chairman then launched on a talk which bade fair to last the remainder of the night, until one of the guests arranged a fake telephone call which broke the thread of his discourse.

Very satisfactory bonuses were distributed among the employees. The wives of the employees and directors were also guests. Favors were provided for the ladies. A decorated Christmas tree with gifts completed the holiday atmosphere.

Joe Learns About Tax in Australia

Joe Savoldi, Buchanan's and Three Oaks' gift to the football and wrestling worlds, learned about taxes when he was in Australia, according to a letter received here by his brother, Clem Savoldi.

Savoldi had been wrestling a year in Australia and New Zealand and was ready to leave that section with a nice wad of dough until the tax authorities of the Antipodes called him into a huddle to talk over his income tax. When he came out of the huddle the government of Australia had most of his money.

He and his wife and son landed in Genoa, Italy, about three weeks ago, having completed a trip around the world. He is now following the mat game in Paris and will later return to Italy.

Require Payment For Legals Before Affidavit Issued

Effective Jan. 1, 1938, the Berrien County Record will require payment for legal publications before affidavit of such publication is issued, this course having been decided on by an unanimous vote of all the papers of the county. This requirement has already been in effect some time in many counties of the state. The previous practice of carrying such accounts on an open basis has worked a considerable hardship on the newspapers, as the accounts have often extended over long periods before payment was made.

Hollywood Features "God's Country And The Woman" New Year's Eve With virgin forests of the North-west as its background and a feud between rival lumber companies as its theme, "God's Country and the Woman," Warner Bros.' Picturization in natural colors of the James Oliver Curwood novel of the same name, comes to the Hollywood Theatre on New Year's Eve with George Brent and Beverly Roberts in the stellar roles. Brent is at his vigorous and ingratiating best as Steve Russett—a rich idler who achieves power in the big woods through conflict with his ruthless brother—and the influence of a courageous girl of the forest, Jo Barton, a role portrayed by Beverly Roberts. Brent and Miss Roberts are supported by Barton MacLane, Robert Barrat, Alan Hale, El Brendel, Billy Bevan, Joseph King and many other screen favorites. Several real lumberjacks take part in the picturesque sequences. The thrilling drama and romance of the film is said to be tempered by robust comedy in the mood of the story. "God's Country and the Woman," which was screened almost wholly in the big woods district, is said to be the last word in natural color photography.

GAY ROMANTIC HIT HAS THREE STARS Loretta Young, Warner Baxter and Virginia Bruce are starred in the wise and witty Twentieth Century-Fox picture, "Wife, Doctor and Nurse," now playing at the Hollywood Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. For every wife whose husband works with other women, for every girl whose boss is handsome—and married, "Wife, Doctor and Nurse," is a gay, penetrating drama with a catch in its heart and a twinkle in its eye. Walter Lang directed the production.

CHANCES INTO FILMS John Litel, leading man in the Cosmopolitan-Warner Bros. picture called "Alcatraz Island," went to Hollywood with no thought of entering pictures, but merely to visit his mother. Studio scouts heard the well-known New York stage actor was in town, offered him a part in "Fugitive in the Sky," and he has been here ever since. He will be seen in "Alcatraz Island" at the Hollywood Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday.

This was the scene required for "Navy Blue and Gold." Obviously it was beyond reason to ship a whole cast from Hollywood to Annapolis. The cameras made it unnecessary.

35 at Family Christmas Dinner Mr. and Mrs. Charley Rhoads entertained the family at Christmas dinner. 35 members were present and enjoyed the day. Out of town guests, were Mr. and Mrs. Frank McLaren, Mrs. Mary M. E. Barber of Niles. The church will be open for New and Mrs. Ben Sheeley and family, Berrien Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ingles, Kalamazoo, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ingles, Monroe.

Plans are in progress for the organization of a Sea Scout troop in Buchanan, to be sponsored by the L. D. S. church. Membership will be open to all boys of 15 years or over. Five more members are needed for completion of the group which will be drilled by Skipper George Remington. All boys wishing to join this fine organization should see George Remington or Albert Webb before Saturday of this week.

Scout Executive Oscar Noll will meet with the group Monday night, January 3, at the L. D. S. church to complete the organization. The ship will be set up by the Scouts in the new basement of the church. The committee in charge will consist of V. L. Coonfar, Stephen Martin, Paul Gross and J. O. Best.

CORRECTION The item last week regarding the Portage Prairie grange supper at the home of Mrs. Mary Swartz should have added that the venison supper was a surprise furnished by Mrs. Swartz for the members, the meal coming from the deer shot by her son.

News of Buchanan Schools

Who's Who

Walking into the Home Economics room there is always a friendly smile to greet you. This smile belongs to a person who has taught Home Economics in Buchanan for three years. She was born in Romulus, Michigan, and went to the country school for seven years, then entered Ypsilanti High School, graduated, and went to the Michigan State Normal College. She graduated from there with a Home Economics B. S. Degree. From there she took up graduate work at Columbia University, New York City. She has brown hair, blue eyes, and is about 23 years old. Her birthday is July 28. She is fond of banana cream pie, but doesn't like fried onions. She can often be recognized by the familiar "All right, Girls." Her favorite movie is "Dead End." Her favorite sports are horse racing and basketball. She is class adviser of the Junior class this year. This teacher is Miss Krebs.

HAIR RAISER

It seems that Clark Gable, movie star, has a horse named Sunny and the horse knows some tricks. One of them is to pick Gable up by the hair. Anyway the picture speaks for itself.

PUPILS SHARE TOYS

The Christmas spirit has risen to a noticeable high in the Dewey Avenue school.

An assortment of discarded toys were gathered by the pupils, and repaired by one of the mothers. These toys will be sent to a certain region of the Ozark mountains where Christmas isn't much of a holiday.

Living in the mountains away from civilization these people know very little about the modern methods of living. Being a poor class of people they can't afford much luxury.

Editorial

This new year of 1938 will find many changes in Buchanan High School. One change is the revision of the Microphone staff. This year, unlike previous years, journalism is a one-semester subject. A study of business English will take its place.

The new staff will be made up of some new and unexperienced writers, others will be volunteers from the journalism class. We do not want to think only that we have hundreds of readers but also that we have a large partnership with hundreds of people who will cooperate and make our column worthy of this school. We invite you to become a worker for the school paper and all your help will be appreciated.

IDLE CHATTER

By "Mike"
It is rumored that "Tall-Dark-and Winsome" Austin has gone overboard for a blond. Also it is reported that although the blond wasn't overboard in the first place, she did fall when she saw Austin.

The ugly triangle reared its head Saturday night when Eleanor Nougie went with Betty Lou's boy friend from the Windy City. If you don't believe the "Mike" just keep your eyes open and when they meet, watch the daggers fly.

Kelsey "Jr." "Hairless Joe" Bainton is in a quandary again. Kobe, Blaney, and Beardsley have him surrounded. What to do? What to do?

The tables were turned Saturday night: instead of Romeo asking Juliet, three Julietts from Dowagiac asked Romeo Keller for a date.

Don Cupid went into reverse last week when he carried a small package (probably a class ring) accompanied by a message of woe from "Nat." Proud to a blissful Berrien Springs youth.

Pardon me folks but is "Mike" cross-eyed or are the home economics boys wrong. In what tempo does "Tick's" heart beat, Reamer or Ashby. The boys don't seem able to make up their minds in their assembly shows.

THE MAROON AND WHITES

Two nearby high schools have the same colors as those of Buchanan High School. The unmistakable maroon and white. They are Eau Claire and Mishawaka. Their yellows are thereby similar and the color of their sweaters and letters the same. Are we imitators? No, it just happened, and we can distinguish and defend our own maroon and white by the letter and a loyalty that possesses us when we see those colors in action.

LOOKIE LOOKIE LOOKIE Here Comes Cookie

Oh, Lookie! would be the probable exclamation on looking in at the new equipment of the kitchen at Buchanan High School. Invariably you would recognize the kitchen after a second glance because it is the same room.

Freshly painted walls and ceiling would be noticed, new cupboards, work tables, and three new stoves.

The students respect all of them and keep them immaculately clean.

Recently the aroma of cookies and candy have been scented from the foods department. Every chance of being is presumable with the use of this new equipment.

PANDEMONIUM VISITS STUDY HALL

John "Playboy" Moyer transformed the 6th hour study hall into a hall of hilarity last Wednesday afternoon. It seems that there had been several Christmas parties during the preceding home room period. Before the buzzer sounded the students played with the toys they had received at the parties. There were toy frogs that hopped up and down, Popeyes and tin soldiers that walked across the desks; all sorts of trinkets were being used. The buzzer sounded just then and the study hall was beginning to quiet down when in walked John Moyer, tardy, with an admit in one hand and a big pink rattle in the other. Things quieted down after John arrived at his seat and sat down with a broad sheepish grin and a glaring blush on his face.

JOKES

Charles Bainton, while reading some literature, came upon a word of which he did not know the meaning. He asked, "What does innovation mean?" John Fulks, without permission or any formality, answered, "The innovation of Deming took place sixteen years ago."

Lyons: Next to a beautiful girl, what do you consider the most interesting thing in the world? White: When I'm next to a beautiful girl, I don't bother about statistics.

TIGHTWADDING THROUGH EUROPE

gant in the United States. But the Swede's pride is in his home and he exhibits it with the same naive desire for approbation with which the American exhibits his 1938 DeLuxe cabriolet.

Another reason for the use of electricity is that for a large part of the year the days are as proportionately dark, almost as the nights are light in summer. The people evidence their near-worship of light, a handdown from the pre-Christian days, in their great mid-summer festival. The electric light is the nearest possible substitute for sunlight available during the long winters.

During the two weeks I spent in Norrland its people seemed to be relaxing and lolling in the sun, enjoying to the full their respite from the long cold winter darkness, and soaking up reserve warmth and life for the next winter. The hard labor of the log drives was just past; later in the summer there would be much routine work preparatory to the lumber work next year. Meanwhile they enjoyed themselves with the facility of natural artists in enjoyment. Since their pleasure centers a great deal in the home I like to think that I was fortunate in being able to observe it rather intimately at that time. I won't enter into any elaborate description of their life but will tell what I did in a day, sort of weaving the life in.

I used to love to get up at 2 a. m. and go down to the River Lon (Lynx) a hundred yards away, loose the flatbottomed boat from the pier and row up stream a quarter of a mile, around the bend and out of sight, and then drop the oars, and drift back slowly,

As 31 Young Men Entered the Priesthood

An impressive view of the ceremonies at Latrobe, Pa., as Bishop Hugh C. Doyle of the Pittsburgh diocese ordained 31 young deacons to the priesthood. Also shown are some of the 21 men who were ordained as sub-deacons.

sometimes skirting the shore through the myriads of white and gold water lilies, sometimes in midstream watching the swaying carpets of golden-green moss that completely hid the bottom, or watching the lovely pine forests and the grey old birches and white aspens with trunks splashed with patches of golden lichens. Did you ever take a boat ride down the St. Joe river when the redbuds and the dogwoods hung in pink and white clouds along the hillsides? Well, it was that beautiful and if you don't know how much that is, I can't tell you anything. One advantage the Swedish landscapes have is that the forests have been maintained everywhere in the Norrland districts in virgin perfection, while we have looted and despoiled ours.

I would row for an hour until the sun had "set the pine tops ablaze, as a popular Swedish ballad had it. Then I would moor the boat and go back to the old house, possibly meeting en route my two young nephews plunging headlong to the stream for an hour's fishing and then back to bed.

I would get up again about 7 or 8 a. m. and get my own breakfast for all the rest, except the young women in the other house, were sleeping late. Not the young mistress of my brother-in-law's house and a maid: They were out before six o'clock vacuuming, scouring, raking the gravel in the walks and drives into symmetrical designs, performing the daylong endless duties that occupy the Swedish housewives time. But I would get my own kaffe frukost, of coffee and pastries or a sort of zwieback.

About 9:30 a. m. other occupants of our house would be stirring and about 10:30 there would be the main breakfast, served informally with the cold appetizers or Smorgasbord and the warmrat or warm course both on the table at the same time.

The frukost was cooked on the electric range, set snugly in the kitchen fireplace. Every old Swedish home has such a fire place, always in the corner. It consists of a firebed raised about two feet above the floor, made of tile, with a cabinet underneath for kitchen utensils. To one side is a crane to swing pots over the flame. Over the fireplace is a sort of penthouse covering, made of sheet metal and extending out into the room without support.

The use of electricity has supplanted the use of the fireplace in more than sixty per cent of Swedish farm homes. My wife's mother was planning on electric heat for her home this winter. As a matter of fact economy enters in away, since the electric current generated from the abundant water power is as cheap as the coal which must be imported from England, and the use of wood to heat with in winter is cumbersome.

Even though the thermometer rose as high as 85 above (Fahrenheit) while I was there it was cool at night, down in the fifties, and we built wood fires in the cylindrical fire places for our own comfort, although the hardy Swedes laughed at the need of artificial warmth. I took it on myself to keep the woodbox full. Also it was my job to bring water from a quaint old windless well. Although there was water piped to the home they thought it tasted of the iron pipes and preferred well water. For a time at least, and since I was not absolutely compelled to do it, I got quite a kick out of winding up the old windless which brought the old moss, covered bucket up from the cool depths. I remembered my boyhood days on a Colorado farm when I used to wind such a windless longer than I cared to, watering stock.

While I was pulling the bucket up hand over hand I would see my wife's mother going to the old Swedish substitute for a refrigerator—a cave in the river bench with the ice house in front and the cellar space in the rear. Most of these cellars were under the homes with an entrance beside the main porch. Over the entrance there would be a low gable end with typical Swedish ornamentation. At first I thought these cellar entrances were dog houses. There would be a heavily plank outside door, an entrance way, then another tight-fitting heavy door, then the ice house, then another door and then the food cellar. It was as cold there as any refrigerator. Doubtless they served to cool the house a great deal in the summer, although I would have preferred them away from the house as they were at Lobonas.

A few more words about the house. The typical old Swedish house is of logs, perhaps weather-boarded on the outside as the old Lobonas house was, and painted red with white trim. The windows are hinged casements swinging out. Roof ridges and gables are ornamented. The main entrance is the side porch, with an ornamented gable roof and seats on each side of the door. In front is a gravel drive which is kept constantly raked by hand in metrical designs.

You enter the house and if it is orthodox old style there will be a steep circular stairway to your left mounting to the upstairs. In front will be a door leading to the guest chamber. To the right will be a door to the "everyday" or living room. Off the living room will be the bedroom of the master and mistress. To the left of the entrance hall will be a door leading to the great combination dining, kitchen and work-room, where the household industries of spinning, weaving and the rest are carried on.

Since we're inside, now for the big main breakfast. If the boys had any luck there may be a mess of perch or trout from the river. Anyway seas of coffee, pastry, fish appetizers cooked vegetables and some kind of warm meat.

While we are eating breakfast we might turn on the radio and get a Swedish program, perhaps a Stockholm orchestra, a ballad sung vivaciously and dramatically as they are always sung there. Or perhaps a lecture or a sermon in precise high Swedish. Later in the day the chances would be good for an opera from Stockholm. Or you can go farther afield for programs from Rome, Moscow, Paris, Prague, Vienna, London—with worlds of fine music but never an advertisement. In Sweden you must pay a radio license of 10 crowns ($2.70) annually, which goes to pay for the program and eliminate any need for advertising.

The radio is managed there by a three-cornered control by government, press and private interests.

I was not greatly impressed by the Swedish radios which seemed to me to lack the fine tone and the mechanical perfection of American radios. There is a high tariff on the American radio which keeps it pretty well out, although I saw a Swedish-American rather cleverly smuggle two American-made sets through the customs by a judicious spread of cigars and good whisky. The receptivity of the Swedish sets did not seem very good, and the operation was rather clumsy. An interesting feature on some was a map of Europe with tiny electric light bulbs for each station, a light flashing in the station which you picked up. To get the station you twirled a knob which slid a bar up or down across a printed list of the stations of Europe, the radio picking over its name.

Over at the other house they are through with their breakfast a little earlier and the young men are lolling on the porch seats, one of them playing the inevitable accordion or "droggspela" which you hear everywhere in Sweden. The Swede's taste in ballads alternate between the vivaciously dramatic and the plaintive, with an inclination toward the latter which is why they took up "After the Ball, soon after its publication in America and it has remained a favorite since. A ballad favorite was "Kalle Schewen's Vals," pronounced "Kalle Shaven's Vals." This song, written a number of years back, swung into great popularity in the past year. Although it is of fairly recent authorship, it may be accurately described as a folk song or rather a folk ballad, since its theme is a dramatic description of the life of the people.

I heard it played and sung on the boat en route to Sweden, in the forest homes of Norrland, in the outdoor community sings at Scanson, a great amusement park and museum of Swedish life in Stockholm. I think it was because of its simple interpretation of the pagan, pleasure-loving side of Scandinavian life. It is supposed to describe the life of Kalle Schewen on Roslagen, an island in the Stockholm archipelago. Translated into English, four of its five verses are:

I sit in my arbor mid Roslagen's bloom
And list to the wave's monotone
As it's wafled to me with the rushes low croon,
And the scent of the meadows is blown.

But calmly I mingle my coffee and schnaps

To blend to a taste that's my own
And list to the wheeling accordion's stops
That coaxingly call from my home.
For I'm my own grandson, I'm young once again
And youth in my bosom unfurls,
And more than I did in the days way back when
I dance and I laugh with the girls.

My flowery isle rests on my bosom
now—so,
As the blue night mist rests on the sea,
And the joy-bringing twilight
comes stealing tip-toe
On the stumbering bush and the tree;
But why are you dancing so quiet,
my lass?
Are you thinking that men are but men?
Why trembles the hand that so warmly I clasp
As the dance dies to silence again?

But—hark, all ye friends who would visit me here—
Think not that I reason have none;
I'll be gathering my fish when the daylight is clear
And raking my hay in the sun.
But I'll dance till the sun sets the pine-tops ablaze—
Till the twilight has gone from the sky
Here dances Kalle Shaven with Roslagen's rose
And will dance till the sun rises high.

Marjorie Weaver and Richard Schram United in Marriage

The Church of Christ, Buchanan, was the scene of an attractive wedding ceremony Sunday afternoon, Dec. 26, when Miss Marjorie L. Weaver, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Weaver of the Glendora district, was united in marriage to Richard A. Schram, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Schram of 212 Cecil Avenue, Buchanan.

Dr. Elmer Ward Cole of the First Christian Church of South Bend read the marriage ritual for the double ring ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Miss Audrey Paul was the bride's only attendant. The groomsmen were Paul Carpenter.

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march. During the ceremony organ music was played, including "Oh Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," "Because," "Estrelita."

The bride was attired in rose-berly crepe afternoon dress and with brown accessories. She carried a colonial bridal bouquet of rosebuds and sweet peas. Miss Paul wore an aqua-colored afternoon frock with dumonet accessories and a corsage of roses.

Mrs. Schram was graduated from Buchanan high school and attended Western State Teachers College in Kalamazoo, where she was a member of the honorary society, "The Senate." The groom was educated in Buchanan and in the University of Notre Dame.

A reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, following the wedding.
